KW
데뷔 못 하면
죽는 병 걸림
백덕수 현대 판타지 장편소설

Debut or Die

– 데못죽 –

- VOLUME 1 -

-AUTHOR-
백덕수

-ILLUSTRATOR-
텡

[Readhive]

– STORY –

A student who was preparing the Civil Service examination for 4th year, suddenly he found himself in an unfamiliar body 3 years ago.

As well as a status window displaying a threat in front of his eyes!
[Outbreak!] [Status Abnormality: 'Debut or Death' Occurs!] A diary about the transformation of the main character, who was suddenly challenged to be an idol even though he has never been in the industry before due to sudden threat of death.

※Speciality: He used to take and sell idol's data.

– GENRE –

Comedy Drama Fantasy

Chapter 1

Isn't it the constitution that it's a different world when you open your eyes and see an unfamiliar ceiling?

But it wasn't. I woke up in some moldy motel room.

"Ugh—"

It felt like my head was going to break. I grabbed my forehead and got up. The musty-smelling blanket fell under my feet.

So—let's see, after confirming that I failed the test again, I think I fell asleep while drinking alone.

Does this mean that I roll in from my studio room to the motel?

"I'm going crazy…"

I cursed at myself and went into the bathroom. I thought I should get some water and check out my appearance as well. I'm sure I look like a drunk student studying for the civil service exam, even though I'm not looking at it.

And I fell down when I looked in the mirror.

"Ugh!—Fuck."

I couldn't believe the situation and gritted my teeth while reflexively swearing.

I brushed my hair with trembling hands. Then I looked in the mirror again.

I could still see an unfamiliar face in the mirror.

There is a skinny, fine little boy.

…I held my breath to keep myself from panicking. I had already quit, yet I found myself longing for a cigarette.

"…Whoo."

It was then that I realized that even the voice was unfamiliar.

I feel like biting my tongue.

What the hell's going on here?

I barely came to my senses and led the unfamiliar body to search the motel room.

I found a note in the bed that looked like a suicide note and an empty medicine box. This guy must have tried to kill himself by taking sleeping pills.

When I read the contents of the suicide note roughly, the content was that he was an orphan who dropped out of school; he died because he felt depressed and hopeless.

My mouth felt bitter for no reason. Why am I still an orphan while having changed my body?

I also found a wallet that was lying on a cheap dressing table. I looked around and found some bills and this body's ID card.

[Park Moondae 0X1215 – 3XXXXXX]

"The last digit is 3…"

He was young. I looked at the photo on my ID card after I said it. It was better than the appearance I saw in the mirror earlier, but my face was dark.

Still, he looked young with a handsome face, considering he had a dark impression. Is he 23 years old now? I thought he'd be younger.

"…"

No, this is not the time to think about this.

I tried to think calmly.

Anyway, I calmed down by roughly grasping the situation. I think I should slowly find my original body's whereabouts and come up with countermeasures. I don't know if this guy who tried to commit suicide got into my body.

I took my wallet and opened the motel door.

And I hardened.

In front of my eyes, snow was falling from the window.

…It was July before I got drunk.

"Oh my."

I swallowed my saliva. Then I rushed back inside the motel room and lifted the calendar on the desk.

[202X December]

—This is a calendar from 3 years ago.

My vision became dizzy.

It didn't take that long to calm down again. That— because it was more shocking to me to change my body than to come to the past.

I sat on the bed and sighed. I don't even remember the lottery number. Why.

Then I raised my head at the flash of nonsense.

…In fact, it could be a different world, not the past.

It was a crazy idea, but it seemed convincing because I was overwhelmed by the crazy situation.

This seems to happen very often in the webtoons and web novels I searched for. Was it called hunter…?

I murmured a little blankly. I'm sure it seemed pretty insufficient.

"Status window…?"

Of course, nothing happened.

Damn it.

I hit the bed with my hand in shame.

There's no way, you idiot—.

[Name: Park Moondae (Ryu Gunwoo)]

Level : 0

Title: None

Vocal: C

Dance: –

Visual: C

Talent: –

Characteristics: Infinite potential

It's open?

I fell out of bed.

"Ugh!"

I thought as I groaned in pain in my back.

The content of the status window is— not what I expected?

* * *

"…"

By opening the status window, I could calm myself down as much as I wanted.

It's definitely a situation that ignores the laws of physics. But I can feel that this is not a joke.

Now, I'm out of the motel and in a nearby PC room. This is because I need to find out if there are other variables besides the fact that this world was 3 years ago.

For reference, I asked the counter to call my original number, but it said that the number was not available.

I couldn't log in to the university account, and the SNS account created for the assignment also disappeared.

In other words, there seems to be no 'me' in the world.

Well, there's no such thing as a lingering feeling.

My parents had already died in an accident when I was in middle school, and by the time I entered college, all of my relatives had lost contact with me.

There were no good personal connections, and any human relationships that existed disappeared as the preparation for the civil service exam grew longer.

Moreover, if I think of the time I had wasted as a student preparing for the civil service exam, it means that even if I quit, there'll be nothing weird with it.

"The Ham Ramyeon you ordered."

"Ah, thank you."

I calmly evaluated myself and received a tray. And I looked at the search engine while slurping ramyeon in my mouth.

Well, it was 3 years ago that I set up a "full-scale study" for quite some time.

These sites are not very familiar to me because it was the time when I canceled my smartphone and cut off the internet.

But I didn't feel out of place.

It feels exactly like 3 years ago. Things that were popular at that time stand out. Games, movies, songs—Idol.

Idols.

"Hmm."

When I finished eating, I put the chopsticks in the ramyeon bowl, and I crossed my arms.

The contents of the status window were specific to idols, no matter how I looked at it.

I don't know why I came into this body, but is it related to the contents of the status window?

Did the original owner of this body, 'Park Moondae,' want to be an ‘aspiring idol’?

—Or is it because of my college days?

I don’t know at all. But I should use what is available.

“Status window.”

As I mumbled softly, almost only with the sound of my breath, another translucent status window popped up in my sight.

My vocal is a grade C, and my visual is also a grade C. The rest are blank.

Is it because I haven’t tried it?

The idea suddenly came to my mind, but I decided to put it off for now. There was no way I wanted to show off my dancing and talent right now in this situation.

Then, should I check the status window for other content?

I remembered the karaoke sign I saw while entering the PC room.

* * *

“Oh.”

First of all, speaking of the confirmation results, grade C doesn’t seem to be a low grade.

I could sing very well. First of all, the tone was good, and the volume of the voice was good. Since the vocalizations were also clear, I would say that it feels like ‘the basics are good.’ I definitely thought I had talent.

And what’s even more surprising is that this window pops up.

[Achievement accomplished! <First attempt>]

Level 0 -〉 1

You have obtained 1 point!

“Achievements?”

I was just asking myself, but another window popped up.

[Achievements in Progress]

10 attempts (0/10)

100 attempts (0/100)

1st experience (0/1)

10 experiences (0/10)

……

The scroll bar continued to endlessly the bottom—it’s hard work. Even the units are becoming more irrationally so. Besides, half of them are blank, so it’s impossible to check.

I got a little idea about it, so I turned off the window.

Still, since I earned a point, should I use it like in a game?

I called out the status window.

‘Remaining points: 1’ was newly displayed at the bottom.

“Distribute 1 point to Vocal.”

Then the contents of the status window changed.

[Name: Park Moondae (Ryu Gunwoo)]

Level: 1

Title: None

Vocal: C+

Dance: –

Visual: C

Talent: –

Characteristics: Infinite potential

Vocal becomes a C+ right away.

Is this really reflected?

I immediately chose the song I sang earlier again. And I sang it the same way.

"…I'm doing good?"

There was definitely a difference. It was easier to hear, and the sounds were more refined. It's as if my throat has learned how to sing it that way.

And "Characteristics" in the status window.

"The infinite potential."

Ordinary people's performance depends on their natural talent compared to their efforts. There is also a limit to how many times you can try. The maximum possible growth, the limit of potential.

But now, this window shows that it is ridiculously high efficiency for effort and that there is no growth limit.

Besides, I confirmed that my skills were actually improving.

I thought, stroking my chin.

Idols—.

Does it mean I should pursue a new career path with this body?

At that moment, a pop-up appeared on the status window.

"…!!"

[Outbreak!]

Status Abnormality: 'Debut or Die'!

Text lines continued beneath the red text.

['Debut or Die']

If you don't debut as an idol within the time limit, you will die.

Remaining period: D-365

"What?"

The content was ridiculous, but I had an ominous feeling.

It's already crazy that I'm in someone else's body, but there's no guarantee that nothing more strange will happen.

As soon as I finished reading, the weird pop-up disappeared.

And, sure enough, a strange entry was added to the status window.

[Name: Park Moondae (Ryu Gunwoo)]

Level: 1

Title: None

Vocals: C+

Dance: –

Visuals: C

Talent: –

Characteristic: Infinite potential

!Status abnormality: Debut or die

Is this real?

“Fuck—”

I spit out cursing and covered my forehead. A cold sweat broke out.

I had already confirmed the existence of the status window. So it was impossible to ignore the possibility that even this shitty phrase would come true.

Why the hell did this pop out? Because I think of idols?

I burst out laughing. But at the same time, I also had this thought.

‘…It can’t be. Did I get punished for taking pictures and selling data of idols?’

Yeah, idols.

In fact, it was a familiar field due to personal reasons.

This is because when I was in college, I took pictures of idols on behalf of them and made decent living expenses. In the process—I’ve also had dirty tastes for money.

I've seen all sorts of things and heard all sorts of rumors.

Besides, the environment makes people; as I moved around and went to take pictures, I unnecessarily immersed myself in this field.

I was able to study this and that voluntarily at that time, so it is an area where I am well versed.

I wiped the cold sweat away from my face. Then I crossed my arms and looked at the status window.

I don't know what was what. It was ridiculous, and I'm angry.

But I have no intention of dying.

So let's stay calm.

Yeah, it's a waste of life anyway, but it would give me a fresh start. And on such favorable terms.

Besides, if I want to track the reason I entered this body, I'll have to use this unrealistic status window more and check it out.

"Hmm."

Self-rationalization has been completed. I grinned with a sour smile.

…Around this time, an idol survival program was a huge hit, wasn't it?

Chapter 2

‘Idol Joint-Stock Company.’

It is a survival entertainment series that was popular at this time of year.

Following the success of the audition, in which dozens or hundreds of aspiring idols were gathered and eliminated by vote, there were other programs that followed the format.

This ‘Idol Joint-Stock Company’ was also one of those mass-produced programs, but there was a reason why it became particularly famous.

Because it has gotten more vicious toward capitalism.

First, let’s look at the for season 1.

[Your idol stock that grows as much as you purchase!]

Yeah. It means that you can vote in the name of ‘stock’ as much as you spend money.

The program was in Season 3 this year.

For some reason, after Season 2 completely collapsed, they treated the season as if it had never existed and came out with the aspiration title “Re-listed.”

Thanks to this, there were many people who ridiculed, saying that Season 3 repeated far from enough and it’ll go doom.

…What about me? I didn’t have any thoughts about it because I was preparing for the exam.

Anyway, contrary to people's expectations, Season 3 has been a huge success.

Although there is a lot of controversy and criticism, it produces male idols who become hot topics, gain viewer ratings, draws 80,000 users to the music site's entry, and sell 600,000 album copies in the first week.

So I'm going to go on this program, too.

Today I'm taking the first step.

"Yes, we are done! I didn't trim the side too much, as you asked."

"Yes, thank you."

Now I've got a good look at myself. I thought while looking at my well-cut hair in the mirror at the salon.

I think eating well and sleeping well during the past few days affected me since the gloomy feeling of depression had already disappeared. Thanks to that, I was able to trim my messy bangs and expose my forehead.

Just in time, a middle-aged woman who was getting a perm next to me gave lip service.

"Oh my, student, you look so good~ You've gotten taller!"

I thanked her and proceeded to the counter to pay with cash.

'It's a relief that I had some money in my account when I went to the bank to check it out.'

Looking at the details, it seems that he didn't use it since it was his parent's insurance money; I feel sorry, but I need to use it.

'…Should I fill up the interest and donate it to a child welfare organization if I make money?'

It was a bit bitter. I took off the certified copy and did some research while opening the mobile phone, but it seems that the suicide of this 'Park Moondae' wasn't even an impulsive act.

His room was taken out (I barely received a deposit because the monthly rent was delayed), and the phone was canceled.

Even on his birthday.

He must have really wanted to die.

…Well, I understand because I was like that, too.

'I hope you're in a good place.'

I completed my thoughts and paid a brief silent tribute. Then I opened the hair salon door right away and walked out. It was close to noon, and the sun pierced my eyes.

There was still a lot of work to be done before I achieved my goal of going out.

'First, let's be sure of it.'

I already know everything about the program's mission, debut members, twists, and theme songs.

Of course, the details did slip a little when preparing for the announcement, but it was impossible to find a better entryway to a successful life than this.

Because if I just make it to the second round, I will be able to attract the attention of any small or medium-sized agency due to the program's success.

However, the only problem is that the public auditions for this season's participants are already over.

But I knew a few hints. And I plan to make use of it.

My goal is to be a participant in the survival program, for which the public audition session has ended.

Within a week.

Not at the broadcasting station, but at the karaoke room around here.

* * *

-IJC? Ah, Idol Joint-Stock Company. One of the writer there is a real crazy person.

This is the bullshit said by a certain guy in the back of the photography club.

He said he heard it from a relative who went to a broadcasting station, and he was a guy who spread rumors about this and that, so I didn't like him very much.

-I heard they're recruiting participants at karaoke rooms. The broadcasting station—you know, Sung X neighbors? I heard they cast an ordinary person in a karaoke room, and the PD broke it. Just saying that she didn't have enough time. Isn't she a complete idiot?

After that, that punk couldn't stop talking about the casting.

It's common to gossip during a drinking party, but it's rare to find someone who speaks about boring topics at a drinking party.

'Who was it that invited this moron?'

'Let's not invite him anymore.'

'Yeah.'

People chatted with their bitter eyes.

Of course, I didn't believe this bullshit either. I was just focusing on free drinks.

But surprisingly, there was someone who did cross-validation.

-The ordinary person who was being cast is Lee Goyoon.

-… Huh?

Lee Goyoon is a female idol who debuted in season 1. She gained popularity for her bright, cheerful, and bold image with an amusing accent and her pure appearance.

There was a moderate exclamation around.

-Whoa, she's the kid that made her debut, right?

-Yes.

-Oh… how did you know?

She spoke calmly as a senior in the journalism and broadcasting department who was about to graduate.

-That 'stupid bitch' is my older sister.

The punk who had been talking was at a loss for words at that moment.

Interestingly, contempt poured down on him from all sides.

-… Ah, haha. No, that expression is a bit.

-But, she has never been scolded by the PD. Instead, she gets paid more.

-…

After that, he shut his mouth and sat quietly.

Thanks to it, I was able to enjoy drinking comfortably. I think I just drank Somaek while listening to the senior talk about the casting. (t/n: Somaek is a beer cocktail made with soju and beer.)

Anyway, it was quite a fun situation, so it was memorable.

They said they would go around karaoke places near the broadcasting company for roughly a week after the audition if the number of people they liked in the audition for survival participants were below the quota.

-Isn't it better for kids who do things like street karaoke? It is also convenient to cast.

-I heard that there are already a lot of aspiring singers there, so they avoid it. I heard that the reason why they want to cast ordinary people is because they need a fresh character, unlike a survival participant.

It means that they are not trying to choose participants who can debut but rather to add fun to the show by casting ordinary people who are completely unaware of the situation.

These days, all aspiring idols will be educated at the agency so that they don't talk recklessly.

In the end, it also means that the ordinary people who become participants may be sacrificed for the fun of broadcasting.

'Of course, that's not what's important right now.'

What's important is that there's a high probability that the Writer is still using this method in season 3.

'It's difficult to let go once you've succeeded.'

Maybe because season 2 was ruined and the preliminary audition didn't get better, she's working harder now.

So let's think objectively.

This ‘Park Moondae’ body is skinny, but he has a handsome face and good height.

In addition, he’s good at singing, so once we meet, there’s definitely a chance that they’ll give it a try.

Besides—.

‘I have to raise my level.’

I had to invest in stats to achieve practice achievements. Wouldn’t they try to pick them out if there was something special?

I grabbed the microphone and chose a song. And then, I glanced back at the door to the karaoke room where I came in.

The door was made of glass.

It was intended to give the 10s and 20s a bright and open atmosphere, but at the same time, the interior is nice to look at from the outside.

That’s why I chose this karaoke room.

The person I was looking for was a Writer who worked at a broadcasting station.

If she has to go out and observe ordinary people while preparing for the program, she will likely choose a place close to the broadcasting station and easy to see.

So this karaoke room is the best choice now.

Without hesitation, I chose ten songs in advance and started singing.

* * *

[Achievement accomplished! <10 attempts>]

Level 1 -〉 2

You have obtained 1 point!

It was not long before I achieved one accomplishment. It's an achievement to sing 10 songs. Of course, I knew I would achieve it because it was the easiest thing to do.

I invested the point in Vocal once more. So C+ is changed to B-.

The basics seemed better this time when I sang the same song one more time to test it.

The tone color became deeper, and the volume increased. Perhaps this is how the alphabet affects growth.

At this speed, I think I could raise my ability incredibly fast in the beginning, but now I have something to focus on first.

"Oh, I'm this kind of person."

I didn't expect to get cast this soon.

It started a little early when I roughly calculated the timing, but it was an unexpected first point.

I accepted the business card from the woman with glasses.

The woman looked tired, but her voice was purposefully bright.

She seemed to be trying to impress me, and I seemed to have succeeded in piquing her interest as expected.

The name I was expecting was written on the business card.

[Ryu Seorin]

The senior's name, who was in the Department of Journalism and Broadcasting, was 'Ryu Seojin.'

'It seems to be a sister's name just by looking at it.'

“What’s your name, Student?”

“My name is Park Moondae.”

“You have a unique name, too. Think about it carefully. I think Student has star quality. Our program is really good at finding people with star quality.”

“…Thank you.”

I didn’t bother pretending to be happy. If I look too interested, I may seem to be aiming for this situation.

Usually, it’s all caught in the preliminary profile, but they’ll want to skip those who aim for it.

Perhaps it was a good approach, the woman continued.

“Student, you have a handsome face and are good at singing. I think you’ll do really well if you come out of our program—. Hmm, do you want to go and take a test video today?”

“What?”

The woman was pushing a little bit as if she wanted to complete the verification in one go.

“Yes. Please contact your parents. They would be happy if you told them that their son had been cast in a TV show and would be visiting a broadcasting station.”

“…I don’t have parents.”

When I said that, a small light sprang in the eyes of this woman, who I believed to be the Writer.

It seems to have been judged as provocative material.

After all, selling a story is an essential element in a survival show. It’s even better to be criticized for squeezing the juice.

I don't know if they will use it on purpose, but it's a waste to miss it.

However, the writer quickly hid her expression. And she said it more softly as if she was sorry.

"Oh my… I'm sorry. I shouldn't have said that."

"That's all right."

"What I mean is, consider it as you come to watch a broadcasting station comfortably. It's not something you can experience often~."

"…Hmm."

Should I say yes right now?

I paused for a moment as if hesitating, then nodded slowly. Then, the woman's face brightens.

"Oh, you made the right decision! We're right in front of the broadcasting station!"

So that's how I achieved my first goal.

It was a better start than expected.

Chapter 3

There was nothing special at the broadcasting station I visited after almost being dragged there by the writer. It was because I only had a casual interview in front of the camera.

They didn't ask me to dance, which should have been a formality. Of course, I didn't get any advice on going to a dance academy either.

It was also proof that the role I was supposed to play was clear.

Well, it doesn't matter. The important thing is that I got my name on the participant list.

However, there were some unexpected elements.

The first recording date was much closer than I expected.

"…In ten days?"

"That's right. Park Moondae-gun was the last one to join. We don't usually get a position like this, but you got really lucky~ Moondae-gun, you got this position because you're really good." (t/n: 군 (gun) means an honorific for an unmarried younger man)

She's certainly good at putting it nicely into words.

Even though I was perplexed, I thought indifferently.

It doesn't cost anything to trim the words a bit, so it was worth it to do whatever it takes.

Of course, if they discover nothing special in me after waiting and watching, they will change abruptly.

As much as this neighborhood, there will also be very few fields where people loss cut quickly.

Besides, it is an unrealistic request to prepare the filming and evaluation song in 10 days without giving any advice to the ordinary person.

They said it casually as if it were nothing, but if they had been a participant with an entertainment company, the company might have complained.

Whether it's a re-arrangement or Nabal, they're telling us to just use the instrumental and get cursed at. It will be edited out if it isn't enough to get criticized. (Nabal (나발) is a long, straight brass horn used in Korean traditional music.)

But I expected this much.

"…Yes. Thank you."

I nodded as if I hadn't noticed anything, but I was still nervous about the filming date that was right in front of me.

The writer's face lit up with satisfaction.

"We are the ones who are grateful~ Then I will contact you for more details."

It was like asking me to leave. I left the broadcasting station without regret and made plans for the next 10 days.

Since the preparation time was short, it seemed that I'd have to use a more extreme method than I had planned.

* * *

The first day of filming came after 10 busy days had passed.

Although it is a natural structure of the survival program, it begins with evaluating each participant.

The 1st round of evaluation.

Anyone who has seen an idol survival program at least once will roughly guess, but it is not rare for the bad impression to last until the end of the program.

So, if the participant doesn't have anything that stands out, the worst thing to do is to give an average performance.

Instead, if it's completely ruined and becomes a joke, they may add a story in the future, depending on the editing direction. However, it can't be helped if it's edited out without revealing any particular characteristics here.

Of course, I'm not saying that I aim to be criticized by the viewers.

"Do you remember your number? You're called by the number. Please enter this corridor after you receive instructions～"

The filming began by taking a picture of the participants walking through the hall of the set one by one.

It must have been created for the purpose of putting it in the teaser, but the filming time used for that 40-second video has already been over 2 hours.

Probably because there were only 77 participants.

'They're just innocent kids.'

After I glanced around at each and everyone who was sitting scattered in the empty space of the set, which is embarrassing even to call it a waiting room, I lost a bit of motivation.

Even though it's a status window and a regression, I realized that it's now embarrassing to try to become an idol among these children.

“Excuse me, hello.”

One of the kids who keeps coming over to talk here and there was also talking to me.

I don’t know if this guy is excited or just trying to break the ice in this situation.

What matters is that he seemed to be a middle school student.

So, at this age, I’m introducing myself to middle school students in order to create social connections—.

“Did you apply by yourself?”

“Yes.”

“Wow, me too. Oh, by any chance, how old are you…?”

“…Twenty.”

When I tried to cheat my age by 9 years, my mouth became itchy, but I felt good.

“Do you have an agency?”

“No. I don’t have one.”

“Ah, that’s right! Usually, in IJC, there are some cases when the agency comes out and appears. What company were you originally from—”

“I haven’t had one since the beginning.”

“Oh… I see.”

Immediately, the middle school brat suddenly lost his sincerity. Then, after roughly finishing his words, he left to speak to another person.

He's a person who already knows a lot about society and wants to succeed. Of course, he has to hide what's going through his head in front of the camera, but that's all up to him.

Anyway, I can't believe a middle school student could be that vicious.

This time, I wondered if I had made a foolish decision because I was caught up in an unrealistic situation. But the water had already been spilled.

"Let's move the set!"

This is because filming for the main broadcast has finally begun.

I followed the middle and high school students moving in groups like meerkats.

They called me around the early middle of the session.

* * *

"Participant Lee Sejin B… in 15th place! Please take a seat."

"Thank you!"

One of the participants who was being evaluated nodded in response to the MC's words.

He was one of four participants that were grouped and evaluated together since they were from the same agency, and he was someone who was worthy of being saved, but the production team wasn't comfortable.

'It's extreme.'

Writer Ryu Seorin, who was spinning her pen, frowned.

Season 3 has received fewer investors than the previous season. It was very natural. Because season 2 was ruined, and the season barely started again. With a funny title such as ‘Re-listed,’ the production team was determined to get rid of the shadow of season 2.

However, even if they tried to hide it through personal connections and plans, there were some parts that were visible.

One of them was the talent pool.

Many candidates with a moderate level of training were exposed to other audition programs.

They filled the apparently pretty decent ones to fit 77 participants, and the proportion of ‘good for nothing’ participants increased.

And there was a limit to how much fun they could have with editing if there were too many useless guys.

It was almost impossible to send a talentless person to a Korean audition program. Even after wrapping up a person who doesn’t have talent by any means, even if it got wrenched just a little bit, they would pour out all kinds of talks.

It’s not about someone being hated, but the keywords ‘boring’ and ‘fraud’ will be at its center.

Fortunately, they filled the number of first-team participants that they had chosen with debut tickets, but it was not difficult to run the program without a dark horse up to that point.

‘The same goes for the one coming out now.’

This time, the participant to be evaluated was a beginner who joined with only 10 days till the first filming.

One of the participants drove under the influence of alcohol at the last minute, and he was recruited in a hurry, so there were no expectations for him.

‘His name… What is it? Well, he will say his name when being evaluated.’

That participant's voice was moderately good, his appearance was not bad either, and he had a story to tell in case of emergency.

Thanks to this, she jumped over her limit, which had been lowered by urgency.

However, even if she combined all of the skills, he would still be better than the average person filling a vacancy.

'Well… He could be used for comparison.'

The judges were also chatting with an unimpressed look after flipping through documents that had nothing special other than family history.

So she felt the same way.

'Yeah, just be really bad. And attract people's attention.'

If someone who roughly fits the standard continues to appear, they will become sick of it, but if a few people are really bad, they'll add to the richness of the program. Like a famous quote, being mocked is also a sort of attention.

Anyway, because the ordinary person only had 10 days to prepare it, there was a high possibility that it wasn't funny enough.

She glanced at the stage with weak expectations.

"Next participant, please enter the stage!"

The ordinary participant then comes up to the stage.

Fortunately, he looked more handsome than before, as if he had properly visited a fine salon.

The problem was that the atmosphere was dull, gloomy, and mysterious.

She thought it was because of the family history the last time, but is he going to act like that again in front of all these cameras?

In fact, it was because he had seen the camera flash numerous times before, but the writer, who had no way of knowing, was perplexed.

'…Is he the type that doesn't show that he's nervous?'

Anyway, it didn't matter. Then he can get the image of being arrogant when he's not good at it. The writer uses her brain with enthusiasm.

Meanwhile, Park Moondae, who came up to the stage, listened to the MC.

"Yes. Participant. Please introduce yourself."

"…My name is Park Moondae. Please take good care of me."

Then he bowed his head. Then, there is a small laugh and snort from the judge's seat.

"No, is that all?"

A male judge holding the microphone asked in a voice mixed with laughter.

It was a tone with a serious negative tone. It must have meant that he wasn't speaking properly, but Park Moondae nodded seriously.

"Yes. I have no experience to introduce."

Then, laughter broke out in the judges' seats.

"Phew, what a unique friend!"

"He's fun~."

A few of them whispered. Of course, the microphone captured their voices well.

“Ah, there really is nothing in the application form here.”

“That’s right.”

It’s time to make remarks like, ‘Then why did you participate?’ to suddenly appear. However, the judges all moderately hid their laughter as they thought it would be more impressive to do it after the stage.

And the writers thought, There could be some useful cuts.

“Then let’s take a look at your performance.”

“Yes.”

Despite their vicious interest, the participant accepted the microphone handed to him by the staff.

The interlude soon began to flow.

And everyone was bewildered.

Why did this song come out here?

Chapter 4

“Huh?”

Several of the judges began to talk in whispers.

“T-Holic?”

T-Holic, a famous boyband that won the Daesang award for three consecutive years, went on hiatus a few years ago. It was because of the unavoidable situation in which the majority of the members were enlisting in the military. (t/n : The Daesang award is one of the highest achievements a group or artist can achieve)

So instead, the agency pushed for the solo career of the youngest main vocalist, who has yet to be drafted. It was a mini-album featuring a great title song with a strong chorus.

However, time has revealed that the true value of this album was not the title track, but the sidetrack.

Surprisingly, it climbed to #3 on the music charts.

The wave, which began with a recommendation post from a popular female solo singer, grew into a small wave after passing through various entertainment shows.

The side track is 〈PARTY IN ME〉.

The easy-listening song, which blends the rich band sound with sophisticated synths, was performed at a lot of college festivals that year and finally landed in the top 100.

And what’s flowing in the studio right now is certainly the prelude.

It was an iconic intro accompaniment with a unique accordion-style chorus melody.

Of course, it was a masterpiece. If this song is performed well, it will leave a strong impression.

So that was even weirder.

'This… How can you choose a song without knowing what it is?'

This is because the song's position is very vague.

It's not a representative song of a famous idol's prime time, nor is it a famous song by an established singer either.

Therefore, whether in idol survival or singer survival, it was not a song that could be remembered and chosen on the first evaluation.

This is because the song missed the point in both categories.

Besides, the song had been popular for some time at this point.

And when she didn't choose a song specifically for him since she thought an obvious song would come out, something like this happened.

Of course, the production team was able to check the sound source submitted by the participants in advance. However, there were 77 participants.

The problem was that it was not worth the time to replace the songs one by one.

'It's difficult to compare and edit these vague songs—.'

The Writer hit her pen dissatisfiedly.

Even the judges, who were surprised by the song's selection, were waiting for the prelude to end with a slightly casual attitude.

And Park Moondae opened his mouth.

I remember the 'me' I used to know

Beyond the shining and dazzling seasons

Until the days of tiredness and weakness

Even at the end of the endless days

The thing that captures the broken me, oh—.

Only me

Yeah, It's me

"…!"

It's good.

It was clean from the first verse, which started offbeat and continued as if reciting.

Many people don't know about it because it sounds good to the ear, but it was simple to sing this song because it missed all the delicate beats.

It means to sound amateurish.

However, this participant was meticulously putting the smallest melodies into each complex beat.

'Dan, Da-dan–, Ddan, Dan, Da-an–, Da-dan.'

"…!"

One of the judges was surprised after unintentionally hitting the table. It entered at the exact right time.

In this way, even ordinary viewers who don't know the details of the half-beats get the impression that he's singing well because it is sung perfectly to suit the accompaniment. (t/n : Accompaniment (伴奏) is to play another instrument next to a song or instrumental music.)

Besides—.

'The vocalization… is good?'

The vocalization was remarkably good. It's not just sonorous, but it also has a good and solid tone.

'Was he like this at karaoke?'

The Writer recalled the song she heard when she first met, but it didn't seem to be this much. He would have received more interviews if he had sung it like this when she invited him. And she'll take a look at the song choices.

'Then, did you get this much better in 10 days?'

Regardless of how perplexed the Writer was, the song went through the verse and entered the pre-chorus.

That's why, I

I have to memorialize myself

I must never forget again

Now, remember

Until now

Even though the sound was rising like an escalator, it never became flat. There was no part where breathing was unnatural.

At this point, the Writer also noticed something else—for example, the judges' surprised faces.

I've always lived today

With an amazing miracle

Don't forget. Don't erase

So congratulations

Memorialize this moment

That's the party in me

As if every day is a PARTY, Ooh-let's PARTY

The high notes stretch out. It doesn't even look too much. It is easy and clean, as if there's only one octave left for him to hit.

He sang it like he was talking instead of shouting, which was a perfect technique for the song that needed to be heard beautifully.

Now, the Writer just wants to laugh more.

'Yeah, that's great… He has a main vocal feeling… Still, we lacked a vocal position, but wow, isn't that a good thing? I have a really great eye. I can't believe this kind of thing rolled in even if I cast him on the street.'

The second verse came out again.

The melody was the same as in the first verse, but Park Moondae quickly learned how to deal with the different beats.

After passing the bridge, the voice rose naturally from the last chorus to the transition.

A high-pitched sound that thrills the back of the neck gives a pleasant sensation. It wasn't excessive, but it also wasn't rushed; it was a wonderful climax.

And as if talking again, the song ended with the first bar of the verse.

…I remember the ‘me’ I used to know

The participant sings beautifully till the very last note.

Park Moondae bowed his head as soon as the music ended. Then he adds his words, a little blankly.

“…Thank you for listening.”

There was a brief silence. The Writer gripped her pen tightly.

‘Yeah, let’s keep it instead of throw it away.’

The judges excitedly picked up the microphone as she changed Park Moondae’s position.

“Wow, Moondae-ssi!”

“Yes.”

“You know you did a good job, right!!?”

“…I practiced hard to sing well.”

The other judges then quickly added.

“No, you’re just born with it. You have a talent.”

He was a choreographer known for his straightforwardness. He smiles to the point that his eyes narrow as if he likes it.

Because it’s a broadcast, there may be some exaggerated words on purpose, but he wasn’t the type of person to say things he didn’t like.

Park Moondae bowed his head, screaming with happiness inwardly.

The judges continued to shower him with praise.

Mudie, a female solo singer who appeared as a vocal coach, praised him with shining eyes in particular.

“First of all, your voice is very refreshing. And I can hear it better because you have good vocalization.”

“I know, right? It’s like someone talking right next to your ear—”

“Right, that’s right.”

Their voices of agreement are overwhelming. Mudie then nodded and continued in a quick voice.

“Again, I don’t think your voice suits the genre well, but this is an extremely important part for an idol, you know? You don’t have any bad singing habits, and I’m looking forward to the future. Really.”

“Thank you.”

“Moondae-ssi, you’ve never joined an agency before, right? You said you don’t have any experience before, but looking at it here, you really don’t have a lot of experience.”

“Yes. Not yet…”

Then a young male judge comes in. He’s a famous boy group member that lost two members during the contract renewal time.

“Then did you never take any special lessons?”

“Yes.”

“Not at all? In the academy?”

Park Moondae silently shook his head.

The judge who asked the question was impressed with a somewhat doubtful expression. Mudie then smiled brightly and opened her mouth once again.

“Yeah, it might be better to wait for the best one than to just do it with a random entertainment company. I’m sure the offer will come from a good place! “

“Thank you for your kind words.”

The Writer suddenly remembered that Mudie’s agency was preparing to launch a male idol.

‘Now that I think about it, she had a share in her entertainment company.’

And she looked at the participant, who was still politely nodding his head, but it looked like she didn’t get any amazing impression.

Then, when she saw the judges’ seats, which were covered with praise, she was overwhelmed with a strange feeling.

It’s like… something had shattered.

Obviously, finding talented participants for the broadcast would have been advantageous, but she feels unpleasant.

After seeing Park Moondae’s hand microphone while resting her chin on her hand, the Writer immediately remembered.

‘He didn’t dance properly after all!’

Of course, Park Moondae also did the same choreography.

However, because this song wasn’t made for a promotion, the movement was limited to simple dance moves.

When the dancers surrounding them performed the proper choreography, their hands were set to stretch out in time with the beat and move their legs a few times.

However, the original stage, which included dancers, stayed in people’s minds as an afterimage.

The dancers surrounding him can be filled in at random with the thought, “Because that’s how it was on the original stage,” and moving on is easy even with those poor hand and foot movements.

Especially if the person sings really well!

Furthermore, because he did a conceptual song of a top tier idol, he can avoid questions like “Is it true that Moondae-ssi wants to be an idol?” relying almost entirely on his vocal skills.

In the end, it was the best option that could have been chosen in Park Moondae’s situation.

‘It’s more than just having a good sense; he’s got more experience—’

The Writer felt tricked in some way and looked through Park Moondae with dissatisfied eyes.

And, as if reading the Writer’s mind, a judge who had been silently watching the other judges’ positive comments lifted the microphone.

She was Youngrin of ‘SaintU,’ a female idol group that achieved success with a fancam showing her doing acrobatics while smiling during the rainy season when she was unknown.

“Right now, the choreography you did wasn’t really difficult; can we see more of your dance?”

The Writer wanted to clap.

* * *

‘It’s done.’

It was useful to focus on the level-up by only singing this song till I got tired of it these days.

Because I spent all of my points on improving my vocal abilities, the ‘Vocal’ in my current status window has now changed to an A-.

It was a natural choice. First of all, a singer who can't sing in Korea, as well as idols, will be out.

If you can't dance, you can cover it with practice, but if you can't sing, the trace will show when you play the pre-recording.

Furthermore, there were usually fewer aspiring main vocalists than aspiring main dancers in the pool of aspiring idols.

So, if the position of the main vocalist is imprinted from the start, the chances of getting a position in the debut group are also increased.

Next is how the evaluation songs are selected.

I think my approach was correct, as there was much less negative feedback.

In other words, it is a filtering method that predicts the criticism that the judges will throw at me based on my weaknesses, and then removes all songs that could provoke a response from the judges.

'What's wrong with your dance?'

– Remove any songs that include full choreography.

'You don't even dance?'

– Remove ballads.

'You sing well. But you don't exude an idol-like aura?'

– Remove everything from the list except for idol songs.

'Wasn't it too much for you to sing this song by yourself?'

– Remove all of the songs that had three or more people sing them since I can't rearrange them and take that risk.

'You'll be compared to the original singer at every opportunity!'

– Removed all songs that were released in the last three years.

And from the remaining songs, I choose the one with the best music chart record.

Hmm, it was a good strategy, now that I think about it.

But there was at least one person who didn't get swept away by the atmosphere when I thought I could get away with it as it is right now.

Then I made eye contact with the judge holding the microphone.

That was a face I knew.

She was the first idol who made me realize that filming an idol may be profitable. Thanks to her, I was able to pay for the first and second semesters of tuition.

'Since she gained the reputation of being a hard worker with that acrobatic fancam, it seemed to be a win-win situation.'

However, I don't think it's a good idea for us to meet at this moment.

"I understand you haven't received any formal training. But since this is the first evaluation, shouldn't we at least check the basic status? If you participated in an audition program, I think you would have prepared at least one song."

It's crazy to say, 'I didn't prepare anything' here. It could be said that it's better to remain silent than to say anything like that.

"Yes. Then is this song possible?"

One of the staff quickly came closer to the stage and beckoned to me. I approached him and said the song I had in mind.

After that, the camera follows and even shoots the staff who are flinching in response.

Looking at this, I think I can avoid full editing. It's worth the effort.

And immediately, a cheerful accompaniment filled the set.

"…!?"

Chapter 5

The intro, which everyone in the country would be familiar with, passed by, and the lively vocals struck the ear.

I go with the most iconic pose I can remember to get things started.

Then one of the judges spat out the water he was drinking.

Oh, me too! I like you~

The feeling of my heart beating~! Is like popcorn!

POP! POP!

The popping beat is just ringing~

My heart is overflowing with this feeling!

Tap, tap, tap. Youngrin, the person who requested the dance, is the only one who gives a sincere nod in response to the simple foot movements. It seemed that she was the only professional here.

Soon, part of the song that can be danced to by at least half of the kids my age has come out.

POP! POP!

You're my Popcorn~ (Oh yeah!)

My heart

CON CON CON CON

Control it!

The chorus of MallangDalcom's 〈POP☆CON〉, which was released 10 years ago, beat the eardrums powerfully.

Known as the "forbidden song" for the CSAT, it was the main culprit in ruining the students' listening test that year because of its lyrics and crazy addiction.

By the way, I also took the CSAT exam at that time. But I can't do it again, because I don't have the money.

POP POP!

The popping Popcorn~ (Ooh~)

It was also famous for many people who uploaded dance covers, and the difficulty level was easy.

To put it another way, it was at a level that even children in the lower elementary school grades could practice.

I would have been cursed if it had been out 10 years ago at the peak of the trend. But I chose this song because I thought I could turn it into a memory correction and then move on to a comedy. (t/n : Memory correction (추억보정) means 'old memories make everything good.' For instance, you will think so good if you recall the suck movie you saw when you were a kid._

Of course, I'm keeping a straight face while dancing hard.

Even if others were to look at the remaining gags, it would be unpleasant for me to openly smile as a participant.

I had to give the impression that I had put a lot of effort into preparing for the dance.

Of course, it was also true that I worked really hard. Because I raised my level while practicing this. With achievements of 〈First Movement〉 and 〈10th Movements〉.

With the judges clapping and laughing, it seemed that I had made a mistake—but I don't know. They'll judge on their own.

I stopped dancing after making the last move of the first verse.

As I bowed my head and took a breath, cheers exploded as if I had come to my senses.

"Thank you."

Youngrin was the first to take the microphone, but the choreographer spoke first.

How much he laughed till his eyes got red. Some tears came from laughing.

"Whoa… Oh, I never dreamed it would come out. Wasn't Moondae 10 years old when POP☆CON was released? Did you even prepare for a talent show at that time?"

"It's not like that, but I prepared it because I'm a fan of MallangDalcom Sunbaenim. (t/n : Sunbaenim (선배님) is a far more experienced person within the same school, company, or group.)

"Pfft, hahaha!"

For reference, MallangDalcom's most recent album was released 4 years ago. It was so late that it seemed unusual to say that a 20-year-old was a fan even after their golden days.

Because the reason can't be that he wants to be an idol.

Sure enough, the choreographer who asked me this question laughed again.

Next to him, Mudie muttered delightfully.

"Ah… So cute~."

"You worked hard. First of all, you work hard!"

The male idol judge helped. It was a face that had taken away any doubts he had expressed when I said I had no experience.

Only then did Youngrin open her mouth.

“But that doesn’t mean you did well.”

I knew this would happen. It was a situation where close-ups and sound effects could be included through editing.

In addition, the line ‘Du–dung!’ will appear when the red subtitles are three times bigger.

I roughly anticipated the editing angle and waited for the rest of the comments.

“First of all, I can see that you have no skill when you start moving your body. Although you may receive a positive evaluation for our current atmosphere, future missions will be difficult.”

“I’m prepared for anything that comes my way.”

Not me, but the status window.

Regardless of the words I swallowed, Youngrin nodded heavily.

“Yeah.”

And she added with a relaxed expression.

“…Anyway, I can see your effort. Well done.”

“Thank you.”

I think I said ‘Thank you’ ten times today. Is this something I’ll often do in the future?

By then, the judges were exchanging opinions without holding the microphone, so I couldn’t hear them.

At this point, another cruel element of the program is revealed.

To begin with, all rankings are listed from 1st to 77th in the first evaluation. They then assigned the seats based on the order of the rankings.

Temporary rankings will also be used as soon as they're announced.

Moreover, if the next participant performs much better than they do while the seat is filled, the ranking will be pushed back, and they will be forced to leave the seat.

It's also a specialty of this show to film a moment in which the lower ranks are pushed and then sit at the bottom and cry.

Fortunately, I won't be in such a situation.

My ranking is… maybe 24th?

"Park Moondae's ranking is…… 17th place!"

They raised my rank by roughly 5 places in order to shoot a scene where my rank was pushed, which means that my actual rank was closer to my expectations.

'I think I went up about four or five places because of the atmosphere.'

I'm not sure if the judges were distracted by the atmosphere, but as the time went on, they should have been busy leaving the seat to the middle and high school students.

It was a little funny when I lowered my head and thought about it sullenly.

"Thank you."

"I'll teach you hard, so you'll rank higher next time."

The choreographer said with a smile. If I don't get better, I'll be replaced immediately, but I have a status window to work with.

'I wish they would choose a scene when the choreographer is touched by my performance.'

I nodded once again and headed for the set where the seats were placed.

The chairs with the ranks engraved on them grew bigger, more colorful, and softer as I went up. I saw a slight but big difference.

The 17th place I would sit was a leather chair on which a corporate executive would sit.

As I sat down, the participant who was sitting in 15th place on the opposite side greeted me. He looked like Park Moondae's age, with a gentle impression.

"Hello~"

"Hello."

"You're so good at singing! "

"Thank you. I think you did a great job too."

"Yes? Hahaha!"

I can't say for sure because I didn't watch his performance thoroughly, but judging by his ranks, it looks like he did well.

The participant laughed aloud and pointed to the name tag on his chest.

"My name is Lee Sejin!"

"…!"

I almost let out a sigh. I replied with the most brazen face possible.

“My name is Park Moondae. Please take good care of me.”

“Please take good care of me~.”

I ended the conversation naturally and looked ahead, and the next participant came in with good timing. But my mind kept wandering back to a name I had just heard.

Lee Sejin.

It was the name of a person who made their official debut through this program. So, should I say that it is the man who has been promised victory through personal connection?

But there was a problem.

It will be revealed that the punk was involved in a drug scandal one year after this program ended. Moreover, he works as a distributor.

I was in a Gukbap restaurant near the studio when I heard his name mentioned on the 9 o’clock news.

[Lee Sejin, a former ‘Idol Joint-Stock Company,’ was arrested on suspicion of drug distribution.]

…Let’s not talk to him from now on.

It is important to know when to cut off. So, should I use the time to check the status window?

[Name: Park Moondae (Ryu Gunwoo)]

Level: 5

Title: None

Vocal: A-

Dance: D

Visual: C+

Talent: C

Characteristics: Infinite potential

!Status abnormality: Debut or die

Points Remaining: 1

First of all, I earned a point for leveling up from the stage I was on just now. I think it was thanks to breaking the achievement of 〈The First Stage〉.

As for the dance and talent elements, they seemed to have been created out of my performance alone.

Is it necessary for it to be officially recognized by the public because it was inactive during practice? I don't know the clear criteria.

In any case, while practicing, I could vaguely feel it—. Even if the talent was acceptable, it doesn't seem that 'Park Moondae' had much of a talent for dancing.

My dance level is D, which is the same as the average person's.

If I invest 2 or 3 points in dance in the future, I think I can do anything.

However, I discovered a new possibility in the status window's 'Visual' section.

Even though I didn't spend any points on the Visual section, my grade improved since I paid attention to the way I looked.

In other words, I was able to raise my stats independently of the level-up effect shown in the status window. And that's a pretty positive factor.

Finally, there was one more unusual pop-up. A small one next to the status window.

[Successful performance!]

You deeply impressed the majority of people!

: Draw General Characteristics ☜ Click!

'Something weird popped out again.'

Still, given the use of words such as "success" and "impression," the nuance of the rewards should be great.

I clicked on the pull while pretending to touch my hair. Then something quite interesting popped up.

It was a picture of a gray slot machine. The slot next to the lever that had previously been pulled was spinning quite fast.

But the speed gradually slowed down. Soon enough, I could even check the contents of the slot at a glance.

Only a few of the slots were copper, while the most were gray.

[Strong heart]

[The misfortune of being humiliated eraser]

[Alligator's tears]

[Sleeping only after you die]

[Look at me!]

[…]

"…"

No, it's good to know what the characteristics are as soon as I see it, but—. It's still a bad name, isn't it?

I looked at the slot machine with no expectations. Anyway, it looked like it was going to stop soon.

Dung dung… dung!

A flower petal popped out of the slot machine.

The slot that stops is copper.

[Characteristic: 'Sleeping only after you die (D)' Acquired!]

When activated, you don't get tired even if you don't sleep.

Experience an acceleration bonus of up to 30% from 00:01 to 04:00.

Lasts for a week, one-time use.

"…!"

Unexpectedly, it has a characteristic that seems very useful. The name is— a bit like that, though.

Anyway, it was called 'pulling,' and it literally meant the same thing. And it's fascinating that the elements of such a lucky game are also appearing.

I confirmed that 'Sleeping only after you die (inactive)' has been added to the characteristics section at the bottom of the status window. Let's think about when it's the best time to use it.

"Participant Kang Minjo… 56th place!"

The evaluation process was still ongoing.

Aside from the suspected drug distributor next to me, the debut member has yet to come out.

I stood there and watched as the next participant walked onto the stage.

A man with a slender body and long arms and legs entered the stage.

Seeing that he was all alone, he was likely a participant who didn't have any connections with the other trainees.

A murmur could be heard among the participants in the ranks of the seating area. Of course, this was not because the participant came up alone.

"Wow!"

"That's amazing!"

This is because the participants who came in were very handsome. I could even hear the judges openly admiring from below.

"You look like a deer~."

From my perspective, that was the level of appearance at which he didn't have to worry about making his debut.

Should I say that he's at a level where he doesn't even need to go on a survival program? I'm sure he'll do something when this program is over.

However, when I checked the name tag on his chest, it was a name I had never heard of before.

[Seon Ahyun]

If he can't make his debut with that handsome face, he must have no talent at all. Because he seemed to be more handsome than most of the idols whose fancam data I had sold.

Well, in terms of the status window—all other abilities, except visual, are probably between the F and D grade.

‘If only I could see other people’s status windows, I’d know for sure.’

Surprisingly, as soon as I thought of that, a window really popped up next to the participant.

“…!”

Does this mean I can see the status windows of other people as well?

[Name: Seon Ahyun]

Vocal: B- (A)

Dance: A (EX)

Visual: A+ (S+)

Talent: B (A+)

Characteristics: Grit (inactive.)

!Status abnormality: Lack of self-esteem.

It was a splendid status window. To the point where I think he’ll be in the top 10 easily. Is the value in brackets the maximum growth rate? If so, he has a promising future ahead of him.

However, the last part stands out the most.

[Status abnormality: Lack of self-esteem.]

With that face? It would have been understandable if he had shown arrogance.

Anyway, seeing other people’s abilities was a huge benefit. Anyway, I thought I wouldn’t starve to death just by relying on an entertainment company.

While I was looking over the menu with great interest, I heard the voice of the MC.

“Yes, participants, please introduce yourself!”

And Seon Ahyun picked up the microphone.

The hand holding the microphone was trembling.

“H, h, hello—”

“…!”

He didn’t stutter by mistake because he was nervous. He made it seem out of place because of his awkward way of speaking.

It was a distinct symptom of the stuttering disorder.

In addition, I felt that he was very conscious of his speech disorder. Was it right for me to mention that I could feel his anxiety and embarrassment so heavily?

That must be the reason. I quickly understand this participant– Seon Ahyun’s status window.

They can turn his stuttering into a story with this kind of visual and skills, so why didn’t he make his debut?

As expected, is the problem more than the status abnormality of a lack of self-esteem? If I can find out more detail—.

[Lack of self-esteem]

: I despise myself.

All stats are decreased by two levels.

“…!”

Suddenly, a pop-up came up again. I wasn't expecting to be able to check the details just by thinking about it.

'It's very useful.'

I'll need to recheck my status abnormality to see how much time I have left.

"Ahyun, by any chance… do you have trouble speaking?"

"I, I… Uh, when I was a kid, I had an accident…"

"Ah…"

On the stage, the storytelling was just getting started.

To be more precise, Seon Ahyun seems to be trying to explain his condition, while the production team seems to be trying to turn it into a story.

Fake responses are also erupting from the participants surrounding me.

In particular, the guy who shook his head and had a sad expression on his face seems to have been used as a reaction cut.

They will even include these lines in their final result.

"What to do…"

They shouldn't have reacted in this way to such a sensitive topic.

On the contrary, if there is such editing, it would sound more like 'that type of reaction is also assault.'

Rather than becoming agitated, I simply stared forward with an expression of 'I see.'

After saying a few obvious good words, the judges carefully asked for the stage.

“Then Ahyeon-gun, can we see your performance?”

“Y, yes…”

The following stage wasn’t as bad as one may expect. It’s just up to the point of becoming a good overall performance.

This means that if the status window is correct, that participant’s performance was worse than his actual ability.

“Seon Ahyun-gun ranks in 18th place!”

This is what happens when there is no mentality or strategy. He’s ranked lower than me even with that status window.

Anyway, the evaluation was good, maybe because they thought the skill was enough or because they didn’t want to say anything bad.

“Good job~”

“I’ll look forward to it.”

A variety of warm words were given to him by the judges. Some people even raise their thumbs.

But Seon Ahyun’s face was dark as he bowed deeply. Following the MC’s instructions, he left the stage and sat down next to me as if nothing had happened.

“…”

I think I should say hello—.

Seon Ahyun glances at my seat but doesn’t talk to me.

Hopefully, it won’t be a situation in which I ignore him by all means possible.

But it was annoying to open my mouth. So I just nodded sideways.

Seon Ahyun is surprised and keeps his head bowed.

“There are 5 participants who will be judged next! Choi Jinsoo-gun, Hongseong-gun—”

I counted the number of remaining participants in my mind and sighed softly.

There’s a long way to go.

Chapter 6

I'm tired.

My eyes feel stinging.

They kept the participants at the set while these ignorant bastards judged all 77 participants.

They divided the participants into groups even at break time and only sent them to the restroom.

Most likely, it's because it's difficult to get hold of so many energetic children, but because of that, my patience is running out.

If I saw the status window from a position where I could see it from all sides, every performance would be boring.

I went to the filming of the active idol performance and watched it until I was sick of it, but the trainee's performance couldn't have been good enough to impress me.

Of course, there were two or three times when I was impressed.

I looked up at the two men sitting on the overly glamorous sofa.

They're the current 1st and 2nd place now. They are both from the same famous agency, and they did very well. The status window was impressive, too.

They both made their debuts, with one of them taking first place.

If I stick with those punks, my chances of making my debut will increase—. But the thought of playing with a teenager group that would have been a good match 10 years ago at this age made me dizzy.

Let's think about it again when the team battle comes out.

Fortunately, the evaluation is coming to an end.

"Participant Ryu Cheongwoo… 9th place!"

I got pushed. The last participant squeezed through the top ranks, which were already packed. If things continue in this way— my current rank will be 22nd.

That was a fairly good defense I put up.

The number of participants whose skills are better than mine is, in fact —7 participants.

I should keep managing it so that the overestimation doesn't come up again.

"Thank you!"

The former representative of the national archery team, who left a soft impression, smiled as he walked off the stage.

I heard that he won a gold medal in the team event at the Olympics, but I'm not sure. I recall him only as a part of the group's debut lineup.

Anyway, he was a good talent that the agency would like because he wouldn't go to the army.

Wait.

Come to think of it… Do I have to enlist in the military?

In the past, I had received the 4th grade in my body and had to drop out for community service at the city hall.

Filming finally ended just as my mind wandered to a scary topic that I had never thought of before.

“Cut! Thank you for your hard work! Participants, let’s move right away.”

“Yes~”

Applause and responses rang out from throughout the place.

My head was spinning as I followed the staff’s guidance.

As soon as this filming is completed, I must check to see if ‘Park Moondae’ is included there.

“Get your rank ticket~ You can take it on board!”

The accommodation was a 10-minute walk from the set. After the huge success of the first season, it was a newly built dormitory on a mountain behind the broadcasting station.

But I needed to use transportation, and the reason was obvious.

They are trying to pick a cut for broadcast.

That means they had varied modes of transportation based on their rank.

“Participants! If you were in the Top 10, please come this way~.”

“Wow, Limousine!”

“Wow~ I really like it!”

“This is amazing.”

Behind the top-ranked participants in the black limousine, who gave the camera a thumbs-up, the lower-ranked participants could be seen.

People who were ranked 51st to 77th moved by walking.

They did their best to act happy and humorous, but I could see that they were holding back tears all over their faces.

There were always cameras following the participants.

There is a possibility that their misery was used as a way to pique their interest.

To be honest, it's a bit gross.

"Oh, it's good?"

From the 11th to the 25th, premium bus vehicles were waiting.

Lee Sejin smiled broadly as he got into the bus first.

I waited for a while to ensure we wouldn't end up sitting next to each other by accident, then entered the bus slowly.

Someone quickly followed and got on the bus from behind, making a thumping sound.

Then he hesitated and sat quietly next to me.

It was Seon Ahyun.

"…?"

Why are you…?

Well, never mind. It was nice to be quiet.

* * *

They quickly arrived at their dorm. We also used different floors for each rank, just like last season.

The caste system will stay the same until the team battle mission comes out.

A spacious five-person room was arranged from the 11th to the 25th ranked. I got pushed up in the rankings by five people, but this means I won't have to share a room with Lee Sejin, who is ranked 20th.

I was lucky.

"Wow~ Me! I'm going to use this bed!"

As soon as I entered the bedroom consisting of two bunk beds and one single bed, a man randomly jumped into the single bed.

I guess he wanted to look fun and cheerful for the camera.

I moderately grabbed the bottom of the bunk bed.

Then, once again, Seon Ahyeon placed his luggage on the bed above me.

"…"

He looked up and bowed his head. It's as if I have a subordinate who follows me—.

After that, we changed into the training clothes we were given and went to gather.

When I think about it now, I think it was because aspiring celebrities were harder to deal with, while a relatively quiet, normal person was more comfortable with me.

I left him alone because I didn't think he would be a problem.

However, I should avoid being close enough to the point where we would both pick the same team because I could be criticized for my personality by arguing.

"You're going to start training in earnest from now! It's called~ Customized movement class!”

The MC introduced a system that everyone already knew with an exaggerated tone.

“Everyone, your scores for vocal and dance have been decided based on the grades you got from the judges!”

“Yes!”

“There are upper, middle, and lower groups in each class; each level aims to improve their skills through specialized training. “

Until now, it was similar to other auditions. The next thing was the problem.

“And you can change classes in real-time at any time!”

“…!”

“It all depends on your hard work and dedication!”

For example, if you absorb the tutor’s lessons in “Intermediate Vocal” like a sponge and become good at it quickly, you will be moved up to “Advanced Vocal” the next time you train.

Of course, it also meant that if you didn’t do well, your class would drop right away.

After ten days of this, the final grade is determined based on an individual evaluation of the theme song.

It meant that they would burn children’s mental mercilessly in order to gather as much footage as possible.

“This badge… Participant Park Moondae!”

“Yes.”

As expected, I received ‘Advanced Vocal’ and ‘Beginner Dance’.

It was a little embarrassing to have a gold vocal badge and a dull bronze dance badge on my shoulder.

The badge was overly exaggerated, making it look cheap.

For reference, there were cases when they didn’t provide badges at all.

On the Internet, this case was called an ‘absolutely worthless person.’

“If you don’t have a badge… It means you’re not a part of any grade. You will take a beginner’s class together, but you also have to take extra special training at night.”

To be honest, receiving a camera was a great opportunity for a beginner.

However, if you are the person involved, you will think differently.

A former child actor with trembling hands over there was a good example.

It was said that he was in a thriller movie that 10 million people watched 10 years ago, but he kept saying that he couldn’t be active after that because of unfavorable things that happened to him.

That participant is judged as out-of-class for dance and their vocals are also a beginner. In the status window, each is an F grade and a D grade.

He most likely came out with the intention of making a comeback in broadcasting rather than being an idol.

What was a little surprising was that the name over there was also ‘Lee Sejin’.

Though I didn’t know that there were two people with the same name, it’s clear that the one who made his debut is the other.

Why don't I think he's Lee Sejin, who made his debut?

Just by looking at him, it seems that he will be thrown away after being used as a topic of discussion at the beginning.

Most importantly, he made it clear that he hates getting hurt.

'The PD will like it.'

Eventually, the huge screen lit up when all the badges were distributed.

"Now, the song that you will be practicing will be revealed. For the next ten days! You will do your best to master this song and present it to the shareholders of ＜Idol Joint-Stock Company＞!"

It was a song that would be played everywhere until the next year.

Even though I was studying for a civil service exam and had already stopped using social media, I still remembered the chorus's moves.

It wasn't on the same level as 〈POP☆CON〉 however, it was still a movement worth following.

"The song for this season is… 〈Shining Star〉!"

Along with the catchy beat, lyrics that were moderately overwhelming and childish enough to bear began to flow out.

I'm standing on the stage

You won't know me yet

STAR LIGHT swaying inside me

I will come to you like a flash of light

The choreography was performed by a dancer who appeared on the screen.

There were a few exclamations and a mysterious groan here and there during the performance.

And I realized it, too.

The difficulty of the chorus was fake.

For the sake of popularity, it was made difficult to follow, and the intro was made dirty and complicated.

I couldn't even think about memorizing it, so verse 1 went by in the blink of an eye. And then the chorus started.

What's shining on the stage today?

It's me!

Yes, the shining star you will create.

It's me!

I finally wake up and shine

Look at this moment~

I shine the most!

Even the choreography for the chorus looked like it would make me trip if I tried to do it.

I made up my mind right away.

"Status window."

Let's just… Let's not sleep.

"…Activate 'Sleeping only after you die'."

* * *

Calories. I had to calculate the calories well.

What I mean is that I should have known earlier that I would be burning a lot of calories since I don't sleep.

I was so hungry on the first night that I almost got angry.

'T, t, this… Would you like some?'

And Seon Ahyun gave me a chocolate bar. I spoke casually after saying a few words of gratitude.

He's the same age as 'Park Moondae' and I felt really refreshed after talking casually to such a young child.

From the next day on, I tried to eat and drink three times a day as much as I could. The meals, well… It tastes like Jjambap, but it was good that there was no limit on the amount. (t/n : 짬밥 (Jjambab) means military meals)

On the ninth day.

I memorized all the choreography. From beginning to end.

Being able to spend all night without fatigue certainly worked.

In addition, I was able to level up multiple times.

[Name: Park Moondae (Ryu Gunwoo)]

Level: 7

Title: None

Vocal: A-

Dance: D

Visual: C+

Talent: C

Characteristics: Infinite potential, Sleeping only after you die (D)

!Status abnormality: Debut or die

Points Remaining: 3

There were a lot of achievements that could be done up to 500 times, so it was a good thing.

'Until today… 5 people.'

Five people have already been moved from a beginner level to an intermediate level.

Very few people have dramatically improved their skills after only a few days of training, so most of them must have ruined the first evaluation and now have found their skills.

Even if they included me in this, it was more likely to be tied up and passed by.

Then it was pointless to be promoted. I had to show that I had improved my skills more dramatically, even if I had enough scenes to use.

It's because the choreographer scolded me from the first day.

– Again!

– Foot, bend your left foot!

– Why are you swinging your arms? Hold it up!

As soon as the class started on the first day, the choreographer stopped talking and tortured the participants in all directions.

Thanks to this, the atmosphere became heavier, as if at a mourner's house.

And at the end of the class, the choreographer pointed me out and talked to me.

And when the class was over, the choreographer pointed at me and said to me.

– Moondae-ya.

– Yes.

– If you keep doing this with your choreography, you won't have any answers for the next evaluation.

–…

I wasn't exceptionally bad at this class.

Because it was a 'beginner' class in the first place, if I had to ask, would it be about average? It's not like I'm a bad dancer; it's just that I was at the level of an ordinary person who works hard.

But I was a person with a high rank in the first place. So this was a matter of expectations.

It's not surprising that these are the same lines as last season.

– No, I think so. I gave you the wrong rank. I guess you never had the skills to get that rank to begin with.

That's correct. He knows that, and maybe he did it just for broadcasting fun.

– Let's do it right, okay? Get a hold of yourself.

– Yes.

Most of you won't suddenly learn basic skills that you didn't have before after just a few days of training unless you're really lucky and talented.

But I can, so I just nod my head as if I had made up my mind.

The criticisms and advice that didn't help were not encouraging.

But it needed to seem to hurt my feelings in other people's eyes.

So I had to live with this provocative material, even if it was a waste.

"Thank you for your hard work!"

"Yeah. Don't give up."

The choreographer nodded at the greetings of the participants, who were drenched in sweat.

And after confirming that the staff had organized the camera, he looked into his phone and left the class.

This is the end of the morning dance class.

After eating, it's time for vocal class.

For lunch, there was Bulgogi and Seaweed Soup.

I ate as much as I could eat. And after a simple shower, I went to the advanced vocal class alone.

Oh, come to think of it, I have a confession to make.

"Then Moondae should sing it~"

I ate raw for my Vocal. (t/n: 날로 먹는 means that someone gets something easily without working hard.)

Chapter 7

Judge Mudie was the trainer for the Advance Vocal.

She gave me a generous score on my first evaluation, and she also said nice things about all the other participants. So there were also good words said during the training.

Of course, this doesn't mean that she never gets angry in any situation.

"Wongil-ah, that's not it… Haa."

"…"

The participant who kept missing the same beat bowed his head for the fifth day in a row.

He seemed to be trying to hide his anger instead of his regret, but it didn't matter.

Because the important thing to remember is that even a good coach will struggle to hide their frustration when watching a participant make so many mistakes.

And here's the main culprit.

"Moondae-ya, do you want to sing this part?"

"Yes."

When the trainer pointed it out, I moved forward, and the electric piano started playing the accompaniment. Then, I started singing the part before the chorus along with the music.

“I draw the future like a shooting star~.”

When the trainer nodded in response to the clear voice and accurate beat, the participant who had failed earlier stomped his feet in frustration.

Yes. The flower bed was the reason I sang this theme song so well from the beginning.

It was unavoidable that those who already knew this song would have a different starting point than those who didn’t.

Even though I wasn’t listening to the demo, I listened to the complete song. It was okay to just sing based on what I remember.

Moreover, my voice was perfectly suited to this song, and the trainer was pleased with how I sang it because it didn’t sound dirty.

Even now, some people were whispering as they looked at Mudie’s happy face.

“…He’s really good.”

“I know.”

What’s worse is that the sample comes from “ordinary people,” which means that the standard set by Advance Class is higher, so the other guy would suffer more.

Even more so if the participant is only good at singing.

As confirmed in the first evaluation, two participants had A-grade vocals this season. And both of their dances are below grade C. Everyone, including me, was in a tough condition.

Also, that ‘Choi Wongil’ participant, who is currently being scolded, was one of those two A-grades.

It’s funny that he is the same middle school boy who tried to identify me before the filming. However, he was actually a first-year high school student, and not a middle schooler at all.

In any case, at an age when his self-consciousness was high, he deserved to be angry because this was something that he had been hearing from his trainer for several days.

He was compared to the person he ignored as soon as he met him.

“That’s right!”

As soon as I finished singing the pre-chorus part, the trainer tapped the keyboard as if she was feeling better. Even when he heard the sound of the light hitting, Choi Wongil didn’t raise his head.

“Wongil, you should sing it like this, okay?”

“…”

Given his abilities, I don’t think it’s possible to make that many mistakes. But unfortunately, after I cleared the whole song on the first day, he continued to argue, and in the end, it seemed like his mental was shattered.

Let’s see, this is roughly how the first day seems to have started.

– Wow, I’m glad you got praise for your singing again, Hyung-nim. You have to hurry up and come up from the Beginner Dance!

– I think you fit this pure song well because you’re kind of amateurish.

He used to say vague things that got on people’s nerves. It was a subtle nuance, but if the opponent got mad, he would be treated like an idiot.

Also, it was all said later when the microphone was turned on.

But in the end, I couldn’t stand it and got pissed off by him—.

– You're very lucky. I'm jealous. It's the most important factor in the entertainment industry. It would have been nice if you could dance with luck, that's too bad. But still, fighting!

– After all, I think it's right that there are lucky people above those who work hard. Most of the people here are desperate for their lives. But no matter how you participated, you got such good reviews.

It has gotten to this point.

Now, it's embarrassing to fight in front of everyone and be ignored. However, it is unavoidable because he can't do what he knows on purpose.

You might not know this, but this is also a matter of life and death for me—.

"Calm down, don't be too nervous, and let's try again."

"…Yes."

Choi Wongil tried to start singing again, but then he made another mistake.

That's too bad.

Even until the end of the vocal class that day, I received compliments from the trainer and sharp gazes from several participants, including Choi Wongil.

Because it had been so long since I had been evaluated for this rank, I was a little tired, but it wasn't too bad. But, of course, there would be no such check if it were a real X.

Then the last day of training ended with both classes remaining in the same condition and the practice achievements continually increasing.

On the morning of the last day, the participants in the Advanced Vocal class recorded a song.

Anyway, they will put them into a group, and their names will not be mentioned, so it won't mean much.

Instead, let's focus on the afternoon.

It was time for the long-awaited ranking evaluation.

* * *

The lights on the set are turned on.

"Everyone, how have you been?"

"Ah~ it was hard!"

"I'm just… I slept soundly because I was tired."

"Did you work hard on the teaching?"

"Of course! Oh, I hope today will be worth it."

The judges sat around the chairs and greeted each other properly.

Even though they were already done greeting each other in the waiting room in the morning, the conversation was like the show's opening scene.

The place where they came in and sat down was set up to look like a multi-to-one interview room. (t/n : 다대일 means the interviewer will be more than 1 person, and they will interview you. (Other interviewees will not be interviewed with you))

The set was recycled from the previous season, and special effects were prepared.

The judges, who were asked to show their reaction as much as possible in advance, pretended not to know and spoke naturally.

"It's totally— like that here. I think it feels like we will have a very important interview."

"It's true about the important interview~ It was a Grade Interview!"

"Is this an interview for joining Idol Joint-Stock Company?"

As soon as the judges are done talking, the light on the desk in front of where they are sitting turns on.

"Whoa!"

The words 'SHINE YOUR STAR' were written in colorful cursive on the desk.

As they did in other seasons, the judges started to applaud when this season's catchphrase turned out to be grand.

But this time, surprisingly, the wall began to move.

"Huh?!"

"What is this!"

With the skillful reaction of the judges, the walls of the interview room set went down to the floor. The wall then disappeared, revealing the full open set.

"The re-listing of the new Idol Joint-Stock Company! The first gateway is—the full public evaluation!"

"Whoa!"

What filled the backs of the judges was an open-air theater-like audience. And the front seats of the audience were filled with participants.

Participants, who thought it was just a temporary seat to wait, were shocked, which was in contrast to how the professional MCs looked.

“The 77 participants who practiced the same song will evaluate each other as an audience!”

In fact, the participants could see each other’s stages even during the first evaluation.

However, everyone’s expressions hardened because they didn’t know they would openly evaluate those who practiced the same song throughout the same period as audiences.

This was because during the last season, they entered the practice room alone and received a separate evaluation.

“The Grade Evaluation order is in reverse order of rank!”

“…!”

“77th place, Chu Seonggu-gun, please come forward!”

The participant who was called to the stage looked like he was half-dead. People looked at him with sympathy and whispered, but Park Moondae didn’t say a word.

As with Seon Ahyun’s first ranking evaluation, the editing can make sympathy seem like a gimmick.

It was a feeling that came from the experience of periodically searching the idol community to set a price for filming data.

“Yes, thank you for your hard work.”

“…Thank you…”

Naturally, the 77th participant missed most of the first verse and completely ruined the evaluation.

“…”

The next participant was also half-crushed on the stage in a cold and tense atmosphere.

After evaluating five or six people in this way, the judges couldn't hide the discomfort on their faces.

It was a cruel and dry arrangement.

However, the production team had nothing to lose.

'Anyway, if they can't do it, they'll have to take a provocative cut to make up for the appearance fee.'

They were used as disposable cards.

However, it was also meant to shed more light.

Like a participant who has the mental power to grip and digest the stage even when the minds of those in lower ranks are falling apart.

Or the participants who showed significant growth in this short period of time.

There was also a guess that it wouldn't matter if the participants with the worst skills were very good-looking or well-known since their terrible skills wouldn't attract attention to them.

Interestingly, some participants met both the former and the latter.

"Participant Lee Sejin, you must have worked hard."

"You're doing great!"

"H, h, huh—. T, thank you…"

It was Lee Sejin, who used to be a child actor. He followed the song to the end with a red face and barely breathing without missing a beat.

It wasn't enough, and it was awkward to say that it was "digested."

But when people of a similar rank who rolled up the stage were put before and after him, it looked much better.

Park Moondae had a moment of doubt.

'Is he the Lee Sejin who is debuting?'

Of course, he couldn't say for sure, so he ended his thoughts right away by putting the participant on the watch list.

'I should stay away from drug dealers.'

And the boring middle-class evaluation section followed.

The participants' skills gradually got better, and some of them stood out from time to time.

But it was hard not to get tired of hearing the same song more than 40 times.

After the tense mood at the start subsided, everyone showed their skills, and the judges regained their composure and began to feel bored.

"Well…"

"I think it's fine."

When the boredom reached its peak, it was Park Moondae's turn.

Seon Ahyun raised his fist to Park Moondae with a blank face. It was such a grim expression.

He had just finished the evaluation and had thoroughly digested the song.

"F, f, fighting…"

"…? Huh, yeah."

Why is he suddenly so friendly?

Park Moondae was surprised, but he greeted him back calmly. It was a victory of social consciousness.

He walked slowly onto the stage. It was so unfamiliar to him that his head felt somewhat heated with a sense of excitement.

“22nd place, Park Moondae!”

“Yes.”

The judges’ attitude became uninterested in him.

‘You’re good at singing, but you can’t dance.’

After a few days of trying, the choreographer’s expectations for Park Moondae disappeared. He even thought bluntly.

‘It’s getting annoying.’

“We’ll begin the grade evaluation.”

The boring prelude came out.

Park Moondae started the first move. Then, he turned around by pulling both arms in a big move.

“…?”

The first person to feel out of place was the choreographer.

‘Is the line different?’

Until the last face-to-face class just two days ago, Park Moondae had no such thing as a ‘dance line.’

The sense of matching the point of connection and disconnection, the point of giving and taking power.

If that is the difference between rhythm and dance, then Park Moondae's movements were rhythmic.

Obviously, it was—.

'Why… are you good at dancing?'

Chapter 8

Strictly speaking, Park Moondae's dance wasn't all that impressive. It's just enough that he can fit in a group dance and wouldn't be stood out.

To put it another way, it gives the people who watch him participate in group dances enough enjoyment.

'Even if I call it a debut song right now—'

It looks like he won't be pushed by the other members. What an incredible development!

The choreographer was slightly excited by the unexpected situation but soon calmed down.

'He can't suddenly have a talent he didn't have in two days.'

So, if he had used his brain a little, he would have tried to match the impact of the first introduction with only the early performance.

'In a little while, he'll lose the rhythm again… '

"…"

But it didn't go back. Park Moondae entered the chorus with the same level as the beginning.

No, on the contrary, the tempo control in the chorus improves as the song continues.

He's not like the majority of the lower-class participants, who move weakly. It's not a dance that roughed up the joint, but it did catch a certain angle.

– The one who is shining on stage today… It's me!

In addition, he also sings the whole song honestly, without skipping or missing any parts.

Even though the technique was lacking, it was clean and powerful, and there wasn't a single note that was flat or out of tune.

Judge Mudie lightly tapped the pen next to the choreographer.

It seemed like she was just doing it unconsciously, but this must mean that she likes it so much.

Even in his ears, who doesn't know much about vocals, he thought Park Moondae was the best among participants so far.

– Look, at this moment–I'll shine the brightest!

No, he's at a great level.

A clean tone enters his ear.

'How much effort does an amateur put into dancing while singing and still being so stable?'

The choreographer thought about it casually.

He treated those who were 'good, promising, full of potential' differently from those who were not.

And now, inside the choreographer's mind, Park Moondae's grade, which had fallen because he wasn't good at dancing, was changed.

'Since he can sing well, he must be worried about singing steadily while dancing. Is he busy learning the choreography?'

But the feeling of discomfort hasn't entirely disappeared.

'…It's hard to dance like that in two days without any reason.'

Meanwhile, Park Moondae finished the song without losing tempo and strength until the end of the second verse.

The judges' seats were silent.

Despite his doubts, he suddenly felt positive emotions rushing through his head.

It was admirable.

"Whoo, whoo, thank you."

Soon after the song ended, Park Moondae's face was turning red, and he was breathing hard as if he had used up all his strength.

Instead of the brazenness in the first evaluation, in which he boldly selected songs and didn't change facial expressions, this time, he had a face full of enthusiasm.

It had the kind of look that made people think, 'Ah… he worked hard.'

Such a gap had the effect of making the viewer burst into tears for no reason.

Especially Mudie, who was sitting next to the choreographer and looked like she was about to pour out a bunch of compliments at any moment.

The choreographer thought that the other judges would do the same thing, but not as much as she would.

But no one else could have saved this impact as much for the broadcast as he did because he's the one who has been going to dance class for half a month.

So, the choreographer pretended not to notice the production team's indirect look when they told Youngrin to give the first evaluation.

First, he spoke into the microphone by opening his mouth.

“Moondae-ya.”

“Whoo… Yes.”

“Good job.”

“…”

It was a more definite compliment because it was simple. Park Moondae smiled instead of answering.

It was a smile that was sure enough to make him look mischievous, unlike the participant who had been quiet for half a month.

* * *

As expected, a good twist wins.

There was no way this method wouldn’t work for the idol audition program.

Even though I was out of breath and felt like my heart would pop out of my throat, I felt relieved and at ease.

Especially because the judges showed a good reaction.

“Oh, my, it was admirable.”

“Well, Moondae-ssi, there is nothing I can say to criticize you today~.”

“You did a great job.”

It felt like I was one step further away from sudden death.

‘As expected. Investing all three points accumulated during filming in dance was the right answer.’

So, the current grade for Dance is C.

To be honest, the sensation of leveling up was much greater than when I was leveling up my Vocal ability.

It was a feeling I learned right away through experience, even though my body couldn't match what I knew in my head.

The sensation of suddenly being able to use muscles I couldn't use before was also clear all over my body.

To the point where I can feel pleasure in it.

Maybe this is similar to the participants in the Intermediate class who can't go to the Advanced class.

I even memorized the choreography without sleeping for the first week, and by the end of that time, I had it down to the point where I could perform it without thinking about it.

If I limited it to this song, it might be better than most participants in Intermediate Dance classes.

'I did it in a single leap without any intermediate process.'

As long as it's not edited, I'll pass the first elimination round with this.

It looks like I'm making good progress toward survival step by step.

Then the question that I expected came up.

"By the way, Moondae-ya, what the hell did you do in two days?"

I can tell that Judge Mudie asked, "Why?" with the shape of her mouth in response to the choreographer's question.

The choreographer adds explanations as if answering them.

"He can dance all of a sudden? We haven't seen each other in two days, but suddenly.”

“That’s—”

I took a deep breath and lightly brushed my hair on purpose. It must make me look embarrassed.

“I asked a good friend.”

“A good friend?”

“It was Seon Ahyun.”

In other words, it was a smoke screen. (Smoke screen = it is intended to hide the truth about your activities or intentions.)

I can’t say I’ve leveled up with the status window, so I’m trying to move on emotionally instead.

And at the same time, my roommate was Seon Ahyun, who was in the Advanced Dance class.

It’s not like there is no such thing as a sudden improvement after receiving helpful advice from your peers, so I decided to give it a shot at least once.

– By any chance, do you have time?

– D, do you talk to me—?

– Yeah. I’m sorry, but if this situation happens, can you do this—.

– Y, yes! I will do it!

–… Yeah. Okay.

In addition, I was lucky that Seon Ahyun taught me too hard. To the point where he would have been sorry if I couldn’t make improvements.

I was a little embarrassed because he taught me for almost two hours by splitting every move with passion.

I was merely trying to match it up roughly—.

In any case, it wouldn't hurt Seon Ahyun in any way to have an image that helped inexperienced participants who have no idea what they're doing. Well, it's not bad.

Should I make the situation somewhat more dramatic? Let's add some more useless words.

"…Ahyun is very kind."

"Hey, are you saying I'm not kind then?"

The choreographer poked right in.

But with a smile on his face, he looks like he's making a joke.

I feel like it went pretty well. There was a warm atmosphere among the judges.

"Do you remember what I said during the first evaluation?"

Youngrin of 'SaintU' asked softly. It didn't seem like a real question but rather a sentence that started a conversation.

"I can't dance at all, so future missions will be hard for me."

Youngrin smiled faintly.

"I think I said it wrong. Park Moondae-ssi seems to be able to overcome it even though it is difficult."

"Thank you."

"Today, I enjoyed it very much. I hope you can move more relaxedly the next time."

“I will do my best to do that.”

There’s no way I’ll be able to relax with just those words, but the audition program required me to answer clearly. It’s kind of fun.

Anyway, it was successful. The judges gave me a favorable evaluation, and their expectations for me were reasonable.

I guess then my grade will be gold.

* * *

The theme song, like other idol audition programs, was the first content revealed to the public in the Idol Joint-Stock Company>.

And, of course, those who do it well get a good amount of theme songs. This ‘good participant’ was judged by how well they did in this grade.

As you might have guessed from looking at the class division badges, the grades of gold, silver, and bronze were categorized into upper, middle, and lower levels.

“But the participants who don’t even meet the conditions for bronze—are ejected!”

That sound has been present in every season, but it has never been realized, so I don’t have to worry about it.

And above these three classes, there was one more class.

“<Idol Joint-Stock Company> has returned with a newer look; who will represent this re-listed season in the Platinum grade?”

It was the Platinum grade.

They used all kinds of metaphors on the internet, like games with multiple levels and games that asked their parents how they were doing, making this grade a Meme.

To be honest, I'm a little glad that the production team didn't name it Diamond.

Anyway, the other participants were tense as they waited for the MC to make an announcement.

They placed a box, and a badge symbolizing the grade was placed inside it.

I didn't have to think too much because I already knew what my grade would be.

Silver used to be from ranked 26th, but if I look at the numbers in the status window, it is now in the top 25. And I wasn't enough to be in the top 10 in the Platinum grade.

Well, then it's gold for me.

"All participants, please open the grade box!"

I opened the box with a small faint expression, trying not to let it show.

But then I hardened.

I saw a shiny, holographic badge made of Platinum inside the box.

It was a Platinum grade badge.

"……"

As I stiffened, Seon Ahyun, who was holding up his gold badge from the side, tilted his head and then looked surprised.

"W, w, whoa. Whoa!"

"What is this— Oh my gosh! That's amazing! Wow, that's amazing!!"

Lee Sejin, who had been in 20th place before, looked inside my box while holding a gold badge and shouted.

Then, he slapped me on the back and shouted.

“You’re really amazing! Platinum!!”

I have no idea when we’ve been close.

Didn’t we just say hi to each other on the way here and there? Since he was the first person to do that, I was hesitant.

I took a deep breath and picked up the badge from the box.

The other participants seem to think that I’m moved, but it’s more complicated than that in my mind.

‘Why Platinum?’

I knew that two or three participants from each season got a Platinum grade based on how much they improved, not how good they were in their skills.

But I don’t think I was at that point yet.

And then I realized.

‘…The order of grade evaluation!’

Because of this, there are fewer people who will jump out of the middle and lower ranks. So it seemed reasonable to me.

I think the fact that I had prepared for and practiced the dance overnight because of regression was a factor in why it was better than the equivalent status windows.

“…Hmm.”

I rolled the badge in my hand.

I'm sure it leaves a strong impression, but the aftertaste was a bit strange.

'I think a lot of trouble will happen if I make a mistake.'

I didn't know what kind of editing would be included in the next evaluation if I made even one mistake. In the first season, the same thing happened to one participant.

No, after thinking about it, there was nothing to go on to the next evaluation. Even if the editing point is a little off to get the Platinum grade right now, I will get a lot of negative comments.

Choi Wongil, who is looking at me right now, would be a great target if he said in an interview something like, 'Honestly, I didn't fully understand.'

But it's crazy to show that you don't like it here.

'I can't help it.'

I slowly picked up the badge and put it on. When I turned my head, I saw other participants wearing Platinum badges.

As expected, the first and second places in the first evaluation were both in the Platinum grade. Aside from that, most of the people who sat on the sofa were also given Platinum grades again.

The top 10 participants seemed to have closed the gap between themselves and those who got a Gold grade.

I was the only one from the top 20. Damn it.

'I will need to concentrate a lot on fire.' (It means a term referring to criticism directed at a negative object or idea.)

—No, let's think positively. It's actually a good thing.

'There will be lots of footage.'

Anyway, there was a battle for the footage that was shown on broadcast until the stage fancam came out.

I would avoid being eliminated unconditionally at the beginning, so I could steadily move toward my goal of making my debut within a year.

‘As long as I don’t become completely unlikable around here.’

I made a firm commitment. Let’s be quiet, so I don’t get picked on by others.

Let’s level up like crazy and beat everything to Dance and Vocal.

“Please come up to the stage, starting with the participants who received the Platinum grade!”

—And first of all, on the stage of the theme song, let’s avoid going near the participants who have an unconditional A Dance stat.

Because if they compared us, things would get messed up.

Chapter 9

On the theme song stage, the participants were set up in the shape of a fan, with the platinum grade group in the center. Of course, the higher the grade, the closer it gets to the center.

Aside from that, there were parts that only the platinum group could perform, so the grade preference was all that mattered.

However, everyone seemed to pay attention to the grade because getting one shot on the camera could change the initial ranking.

Besides, the production staff and trainers spoke and acted as if grades had great meaning, making it perfect for young participants to be swept away. And in other words, the number of people who talked to me went up five times when I got the Platinum badge.

As someone who had never experienced this kind of social hierarchy in high school, I was a little skeptical.

What steps will the production team, which has such a unique personality, take in the future to create an atmosphere like this—?

Fortunately, the vicious production team also had direct thoughts. Participants who got a Platinum grade and had a dance level of A or higher were moved to the front of the line at the start timing and during the dance break.

And the participant who wasn't very good at dancing was pulled back cleverly. Well, of course, this was also the case for me.

My dance break movements were slightly behind Gold because I saw Seon Ahyun and Lee Sejin (Gold) right next to me.

Come to think of it, child actor Lee Sejin got the silver grade. Judging only by the general public's reaction, it's unlikely that he's making his debut.

“Isn’t it a little sad?”

So, I skipped over this close friendship with Lee Sejin (Gold). A little bit past the point of suspicion, the obstacle went down without any trouble.

“Not really.”

I answered calmly. I think he means that the stage location isn’t all that great for a platinum grade.

“Wow, I must have been very sad.”

“You deserve it.”

“Huh? Why do you think so?”

“Because you’re a good dancer.”

Lee Sejin’s dance was an A-. The vocals were a C+, and if he hadn’t messed up on the high notes, he might have gotten a platinum grade instead of me.

“Uhm, thank you!”

Anyway, Lee Sejin smiled widely as if he was feeling better. Then another voice came in.

“Can’t you dance?”

It was the platinum grade participant who stood at the center of the front row. The blank expression didn’t give the impression that the person had any ill intent toward me.

But the problem is that he was the one who came in first place in the ranking evaluation. And as far as I know, he was the final number one.

His name is Cha Eugene. He was so famous that I had seen his face on TV countless times while eating at the Baekban restaurant in Gosichon. (Baekban can mean simply steamed white rice or a full menu of rice, soup and side dishes. Gosichon is a Korean term used to refer to residents of civil service examinees.)

However, he was stranger than expected. How can he ask such a thing when the microphone and camera are both turned on?

With such a personality, he won first place.

Of course, the details in the status window and in every evaluation were great.

Nonetheless, there was a good chance that the broadcast editing was also favorable to him. Let's not get involved in this kind of material for nothing.

So I purposely laughed.

"Did you not see my evaluation?"

Then his expression turned sour. He seems to be the type of person whose conscience is prickled at this place, which is surprising.

"We have to prepare for our own performance. So I didn't really watch it."

"Then watch it next time and judge for yourself."

"All right."

Cha Eugene nodded his head, turned around, and looked ahead. Lee Sejin laughs with a look of bewilderment.

"I guess he has a unique way of speaking because he came from abroad?"

"I know."

The conversation didn't go further as Lee Sejin was also conscious of the camera.

Instead, I looked at the staff offstage. It seems to be getting solved as well.

"The rehearsal will start!"

The staff shouted. The setting seems to be complete.

I held my breath.

It was hard to wait on the floor while they packed equipment, but I didn't know I would have to do this myself.

It's 6 a.m. right now.

And they will record the actual performance at 4 p.m.

It seemed as if I was going to have a rough march.

* * *

It's currently 8 p.m.

This filming has been completed.

"Good job~!"

As I expected earlier… There was a lot of hardship.

"Whoo…"

"Ah… I will die."

One participant after another fell to the floor, making a sound of pain from the side. Everybody was dripping with sweat.

I was in the same condition as the other participants, but there was nowhere to sit down because the participants who had fallen first had filled the floor.

It was funny.

‘I ran out of stamina.’

First, I rehearsed all morning and was exhausted. After that, I took a short break and then a lunch break.

The only thing on the menu was gimbap wrapped in silver foil. This was probably because they didn’t have the necessary PPL yet.

After eating a bit, many stylists came to the filming set to do their jobs.

– Ah, I really don’t have a place to put anything~

– Tilt your head this way!

– I’ll do it quickly.

Even though they were annoyed by the poor conditions in the empty lot that was being used as a waiting room, they put make-up on the participants and smoothed their hair.

To be honest, there was no dramatic change for anyone, but it was enough for broadcasting.

After that, I put on a broadcasting uniform.

By this time, a camera was coming toward me.

– Do you like your clothes?

–… Yes.

Is there anyone here who would say no?

– What do you like about it?

– Since the design includes both uniforms and school uniforms, I think I can use it to make a variety of concepts.

I wish I could say it's a bit gross because 77 people are wearing the same clothes, but I can't.

As soon as I finished speaking, the participants around me started talking.

– I like that I can mix and match various accessories~

– Ah! It's good because it also goes well with the badge.

There might have been one or two camera shots here, but everyone was excited.

And the actual shooting.

Honestly, here— I don't know how the editing will go in.

– Let's do it again~

– Ugh…

I didn't think about that while I was dancing in a group in a place that was so hot that I thought I would get heatstroke about 30 times.

I think I've heard compliments, criticisms, and comments meant to motivate the participants, but it's all getting fuzzy in my head.

To be honest, my memory was vague. I don't know what kind of cut the production crew will use in episode 30.

I listened to the PD, trying to come to my senses.

"Everyone, you worked really hard—"

The main PD, who came out of nowhere at the end of the main stage, seemed to be giving empty compliments at first, but he gave some useful information after a few words.

"…And this performance will be on Music Night next Friday. You will start shooting again the next day. Until then, rest well and never forget that this is a great opportunity for you. You have to take this opportunity."

Anyone who sees it knows that they could grab the opportunity if the participants worked hard.

The participants responded enthusiastically to the PD, who could make the opportunity fit their liking.

"Let's work hard until the end."

"Yes!!"

"Then see you next week. You did a good job~."

"You have worked hard!"

With their remaining strength, everyone cheers and claps. I applauded even though my hands were trembling.

"…"

Until next week's Music Night monitoring, I guess I should build up my stamina first.

* * *

The week went by in an instant.

My plan to build up my stamina was only half successful. The reason for this is because after the first filming, I suddenly got a fever, and for the next three days, I stayed under the blanket and took medicine for it.

It seems that Park Moondae's body couldn't stand several weeks of hard work.

Anyway, when I woke up in three days, I ate more food and started practicing dancing and training my stamina at the same time.

I can now say that I'm working hard because I'm holding dumbbells while watching Music Night.

So let's call it half a success.

[Siwon, did you enjoy SoulWe's comeback stage with an exciting EDM?]

[Of course, Siwon is so excited that my heart feels relieved~]

[Are you kidding me? Whoo~]

[Whoooo~]

On the screen, two idols are hosting with joy.

They seemed to be reading the prompters with a lot of effort, yet they still managed to deliver the cringy script.

Even though they are both busy, it seems like they are trying to split the time.

[Siwon-ssi! Now, instead of making jokes, let's talk about the next stage, shall we?]

[Yes. Did you hear the news, Yoonji-ssi?]

[What kind of news is it?]

[The news that shareholders have been eagerly waiting for! Right away~ <Idol Joint-Stock Company> has been relisted!]

[Whoaa!]

It's about to start. I put the dumbbell down and picked up my phone to go back to the page I had been on before.

As a huge portal site created the viewer's fireboard, it was the best page to watch the general Internet reaction.

Since it was not even a famous singer's comeback week, the page was dominated by the topic 'Idol Joint-Stock Company.'

['MusicBOMB' talk talk!]

– It said re-listed ㅋㅋㅋ. Is this for real?

– Stop talking about it.

– Wow, pretending to be season 3!

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ It's not a re-listed; it's a delisted.

– What? Why are you here all of a sudden?

ㄴ IJC is launching a new season ㅋ

ㄴAh…

– ㅎ Am I the only one who came to see the comments instead of the boring performance?

Well, I did expect a lot of this kind of reaction.

Every time I clicked refresh, a different kind of ridicule poured out. It seemed that more people came than the previous Music Night's viewers.

And to sum up the reactions, they all said that Season 3 was going too far and would fail. Because Season 2 was too grand and flashy, the series seemed to have a strong reputation for being a failure.

As expected, there is also a mockery directed towards Season 2.

– This time, it's between guys? Are you going to be bigger in Korea? ㅋ

 Korea doesn't allow same-sex marriages, so you can't beat the stronghold of season 2.^^ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

 Fuck ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

This is the main reason why Season 2 ends up destroying itself because it was a mixed audition for idols, with both men and women participating.

But when I think about it now, it was a strange idea.

I wonder what kind of silly thoughts the production team had.

It wouldn't have happened if they had made season 2 with a male version as the standard or if they had made the female version again.

If that's the way it is—.

– I don't know~ Who else might get pregnant before marriage and remain a legend in the idol audition world?

 Ah ㅋㅋㅋ Two seasons in a row!

 Now is the time to laugh but fuck. At that time, I was almost truly traumatized. Crazy bastards, why are you crawling out on an audition program to piss off the innocent viewers?

 Huh sudden acceleration

 They're too immersed in the entertainment industry~

 Yeah, it's not just entertainment; it's an audition that wastes money~

 Even with everything going on, it still makes me nervous to think about how IJC became the romance of the century. ㅎ

Yeah. It was a premarital pregnancy—.

Pregnancy before marriage at a time when even dating can be fatal.

It also broke out among the participants.

The bigger problem is that the two contestants whose premarital pregnancies broke out were popular contestants who were leading Season 2.

Since the production team already made it a mixed group, it seems like they thought it would be better to use it to get people's attention than to get rid of it right away.

That's probably why they worked hard to edit the rest of the show like a romance reality show.

But that wasn't the end of it.

– To say you were pregnant while walking on two legs, you must have been a lunatic who will never be seen again.

– It's really a legend in IJC… Oh, it's not IJC but RJC (Ruin Joint-Stock Company) ㅎ

The male participant in the scandal involving premarital pregnancy was actually dating another female participant.

The female participant said that she was going to put up with it for the sake of her career, but after watching the pink episode, she turned her back on it and told the media about the messenger.

After that— it was terrible.

Portal real-time search terms, entertainment news pages, and even social media were all a mess.

I just—remember that IJC Season 2 didn't make it to the finals and ended early.

In addition, as long as these huge scandals remain fresh in viewers' minds, no matter what they do at the beginning of the program, they will be subject to mockery.

I stopped thinking about the past and looked back at the screen.

In contrast to the crazy comments, the Music Night MCs were still smiling.

[Idol stocks waiting for shareholders to invest!]

[Shine your star!]

And here comes the famous catchphrase.

[Now, invest in idols who are about to fly high!]

The number of comments on the post suddenly tripled at that point.

– Fly high, stock… Fantastic skyrocket… ↖Fly… high↗

This was also once popular on the internet. It seems to have been used very often when a participant who was intended to be successful failed due to some unfortunate event.

These comments, which are getting close to becoming plastered, were filled with several lamentations.

– Wow, you're using this again.

– Whoever decided the phrase is really heaven sense.

– Really. It seems like the old man who was a piece of trash tried to act hip but failed.

– Don't make Siwon say those lines, you crazy broadcasting bastard ㅠㅠ

I laughed bitterly.

“But you still watch it.”

They watch it to curse at them.

It was hundreds of times better than indifference. Because there’s no doubt that these early viewers will help spread the word. Season 3 is a huge hit because it is based on facts that have already happened.

After all, it means that by the time the finals are over, most of them (to put it in an IJC way) will grab anyone’s stock and watch it until they cry.

But it won’t be like that from the first stage.

I was very excited about what reaction would come out again.

After the MC’s words, the TV screen showed the stage a few seconds later.

Youngrin was standing on the stage. The pinpointed lighting made dramatic shadows with a clear outline on the face.

Well, at first, <Idol Joint-Stock Company> was in a humorous position with a black comedy and a heartwarming B-style, but it seemed like they were trying to change their image by becoming crazy.

Maybe they’re trying to cover it seriously.

[All shareholders! Do you remember the last delisting?]

“…?”

They smashed my prediction as soon as Youngrin opened her mouth.

[Everyone, for making your stock into pieces of paper— I’m so sorry!!]

They put big subtitles in front of Youngrin, who shouted loudly.

[※This is an apology from the production team. Youngrin is not guilty.※]

[※We are still accepting claims for damages on our website.※]

“…”

Have they gone mad?

Chapter 10

They didn't even talk about last season during the first filming, so I never imagined that it would come out here.

The comments section is filled with "??!?" And then Youngrin naturally continued without changing her expression.

[To prevent the same disaster, the production team will give all the decision-making power to the shareholders!!]

The lights on the stage are turned on intensely one by one according to Youngrin's words.

[The members? Shareholders, please choose!]

[Number of people? Shareholders, please decide!]

[Do you want a team like this? Shareholders, please bind it!]

[Or…]

Like a stage effect, the lights began to flicker.

[Do you hate to see that team member look young? Then remove them!]

– Did the production team go crazy?

One appropriate comment caught my eye.

Under the flashing lights, Youngrin is delivering a serious closing remark.

[Our company's life and death depend on the shareholders!]

[＜Idols Joint-Stock Company＞ re-listed is starting now!]

The camera moves upwards.

The stage, which looked like a big star, was lit up with flashing lights that looked like a galaxy.

And in the middle of the stage, I could see the back of ten people standing in the spotlight. These are platinum grade participants.

The camera moved up and down once, zooming in on the participants. Because the stage was so big, ten people seemed to fill it up completely.

The intro started as soon as the camera stopped moving.

One by one, the participants turned around, and the camera caught their movement.

It was a single part that was a benefit of the platinum grade, but it wasn't a big deal because it only took less than a second for each of them.

'I'd rather pick the center like the original.'

I felt a strange feeling as I saw my cut pass by.

'Hmm, it looks like hands and feet aren't as shriveled as that.'

After the intro and the song started playing, the gold grade appeared around the platinum grade. It seemed natural with the power of editing.

Entering the pre-chorus, the lighting changed, and silver grade appeared on both sides, then bronze grade appeared from behind at the beginning of the chorus.

And the group chorus.

“Oh.”

It was plausible. Thanks to the ghostly cut of the moment when the choreography didn’t match, the movement seemed in perfect order.

In addition, there was a surprisingly positive response in the comments section.

Although most people were embarrassed by the fact that they liked it.

– Why do I like the song?

– It’s RJC, but the theme song is always a God song.

– What a waste of the song. You’ll give me another stone ㅠ

Of course, they didn’t forget to comment on the participants whenever there was a close-up on the screen.

– Such young skin… It’s a bit uncomfortable to see. ㅠㅠ

– I thought it was funny that he just hit himself in the neck, but did you see it? ㅋㅋ

– As expected, your skills aren’t good if you’re ugly either. ㅎ

Please stop generalizing, because it will make the squid sad. ㅠㅠ (t/n : it seems squid in this part means ugly people)

ㄴㅈㅅ Even if you’re good at it, being ugly will make you look bad. ㅎ

This bastard, really.

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

Of course, there were also moments of admiration.

– Wow, he was handsome just now.

– Wow, why are you here?

– How did you cast him?

– If he looked like that, he wouldn't come out here.

Roughly—it was a reaction that appeared when participants with an appearance stat of B or higher were close-up.

Oh, I just saw a close-up of Seon Ahyun. As expected, the camera catches the side with the best face.

…Wait.

I compared the responses in the comment box with the participants in the close-up.

"…Did I make a mistake?"

It becomes difficult if there is a significant gap between the beginning buzz volume.

'Putting singing and dancing to the side, should I have made my appearance to be an 'A' class?'

Even if they took only one close-up on the theme song stage, it would have been a hot topic if the appearance was great.

Also, if only a few homepage masters were holding on to them, they would have been photographed at a product presentation, and their photos would have been shared on social media. (t/n: 홈마 or homepage masters is a master of an (idol) fansite usually who takes photos. Basically means fansite masters.)

There is a good chance that the first elimination could have been avoided if the fan base was stronger.

Given that there is a status window, I should have been able to show my skills as a growth type, right?

Considering that this season was ridiculed at first and skyrocketed after it aired, I put this strategy aside— I had forgotten that mockery was also part of interest.

I felt a chill in my heart and looked at the stage screen again.

A few close-ups passed even at the ending.

The one that stands out the most is Lee Sejin, the child actor. I could tell the production team was willing to work hard because they gave him a few seconds to develop the topic before the show.

When I think about it now, most of the debut members I know were of grade B or above, and their faces matched the set.

If the editing focused on participants with high visual stats, I'm in big trouble.

Park Moondae also looked pretty good, but he wasn't a man who stood out for his handsomeness.

As soon as I lost some confidence and tried to review my strategy, the screen suddenly changed. It was a mid-.

Then I heard a familiar voice.

[<Idol Joint-Stock Company>, relisted!]

Is this where the first ad appears?

Since filming was over a week ago, I thought they had enough time to edit it that way.

I focused on the because I was curious whether there was any hint of the editing direction.

[I hope there are many talented friends.]

[I have high expectations.]

[No (beep—) also comes out? The participants must be very nervous.]

It was a scene where the judges laughed and talked. I think they're saying everything that always comes out in the trailer.

[Amazing, it's just an amazing performance—]

[You look like you were born to do it.]

[Wow!]

[Where the hell did you come from now?]

Oh, my ranking evaluation has passed. This has reduced the worries of editing the whole thing. Only then did my shoulders drop a little.

It was my first mass media exposure, so I think I overreacted.

No matter how early it is, the battle usually doesn't happen until episode 4, so let's not be nervous and calmly add to my strategy.

Unlike me, who had regained peace of mind, the judges, who had hardened their faces, said harsh things without warning.

[Now this is… I can't even call it a stage.]

[You know that's an excuse, right?]

[It seems you just lacked preparation.]

[Aren't you embarrassed?]

And the faces of the participants, who were all showing serious faces and biting their lips, overlapped and passed one another.

…Looking at the background, it seems that they even use the expression they made since they were having a hard time practicing.

In the end, the cut made it look like something unexpected had happened.

[(Beep—) -ssi, (Beep—) -ssi, wait, wait—!]

[(The participant suddenly leaves the seat.)]

The face of the child actor Lee Sejin, who was crying, was shown up close.

[(The whole story?)]

As the screen went dark, the logo of Idol Joint-Stock Company came up magnificently.

The logo went off at the end of the changed theme song, and the MC's voice could be heard.

[The re-listing of the new Idol Joint-Stock Company! The first gateway to—(Beep—) evaluation!]

[Huh!]

The trailer ended with the participants covering their mouths as if they were shocked.

"…"

Comments kept pouring in as soon as I lowered my head.

It was understandable.

That evening, the Internet entertainment news comment box was turned upside down.

* * *

After finishing my workout, I warmed up my meal and accessed the portal website.

First of all, these were the titles of the articles that were shown on the main page.

[〈Idol Joint-Stock Company〉 who beg for forgiveness from the 'shareholders,' the new stock? 'Male Idol'.]

[Unveiled 〈Re-listed! Idol Joint-Stock Company〉, 'Shining Star' first release!]

['Please invest, shareholders!', the stage of 77 participants in the new season of 〈Idol Joint-Stock Company〉]

The title alone was moderately neutral, but public opinion can be seen by clicking on the article and looking at the response.

It's been a while since the comments section on entertainment news was blocked, and if you look at the emoticons that are visible, at least —.

'Frustrated' has exceeded 12,000. Obviously, they pressed this option instead because there was no 'Mad' expression, which meant that public opinion was going crazy.

There were also many columns.

[Idol Joint-Stock Company, adopting slogan for freedom]

['Buy me!', children who have become stocks.]

Let's click on one.

[It's not even 'Please pick me' anymore. Participants are no longer treated humanely in the program shouting to buy your idol stocks. A sadistic way of handing over the right to escape from life to death—.]

Well, I don't need to see more.

Because most of the comments about the program on the Internet and SNS were negative.

– These bastards have no real reflection.

– Fuck, from the first season, they said it was stock with all kinds of things, and they sold our voting rights and came back without dying. Do you like the money you make from selling kids? ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

But the production crew will be delighted because it's not like the participants are criticized.

Season 2 was disappointing because the popular participant and the content were both messed up.

However, due to the program's sadism, they suppressed the image this season, and the production crew turned off the pointless behavior.

Anyway, the survival program was always hard, no matter how harsh or arrogant it was.

Even from the participant's point of view, catching people's attention might be better.

Because thanks to the popularity of the program, there are comments like this.

[This IJC 3 Platinum Grade Summary.]

: I captured the 'Music Night' stage. It's because I feel sorry for the kids who are good at this, so please refrain from cursing in the comments.

Most of the comments were about handsome participants or had good facial expressions, but I also noticed a few people talking about Park Moondae, which made me feel weird.

It was mainly about being cute or popular.

– Park Moondae is cute, so I watched the stage again, but the camera didn't do a good job of catching him. □□ But after seeing the trailer, I think he did well on the ranking stage, so I'm thinking about watching it.

"…"

It felt weird. It was the first time in my life that I had read an article that expressed open interest in me.

I felt it when I was selling data in college, but I was surprised that people would give their time and money just because they were likable, even though they didn't know them well.

I'm not sure if it's because I live a life without time or money.

But when I became the person involved, it felt even weirder.

However, it wasn't a bad feeling.

'…What else should I do next?'

I suddenly wanted to move.

I carefully looked over the people's responses to the participants and then made a list of the priorities for future stat distribution.

It was then.

[The beginning of fame!]

1,000 people remembered your existence!

: Draw General Characteristics ☜ Click!

I got a notification for this, too.

I read the pop-up contents. The 'draw' below felt like the one that popped up on the stage last time.

I immediately click, and a slot machine pops up.

Again, the gray box and the copper box were mixed together this time.

This time, I hope there will be characteristics that help me quickly improve my looks or skills.

I waited for the slot to stop with more anticipation than last time.

And the moment the slot was about to stop, suddenly another pop-up appeared.

[Slot machine is a great success!]

: You draw hero characteristics!

Chapter 11

Suddenly, light burst out of the slot, and the movement from the silver box, which wasn't there, stopped.

"Hmm."

As soon as I saw the word "great success," I had a good feeling.

Will the characteristics be more effective this time? As long as it helps with the stage—.

[Acquired Characteristic 'I heard it's true(C)'!]

It causes emotional agitation to the 'listener'.

Activation rate 35%, basic activation state

How am I supposed to accept this characteristic that seems to be suitable only for people who try to lure other people?

But does this mean that it should attract public opinion on the Internet?

No, it can't be the case because 'listener' is specifically mentioned.

Let's think about it for a while—.

"…"

When I calmed down, I thought it was a pretty good characteristic.

Due to the nature of the show, survival participants often talk directly to the audience during self-introductions and ranking announcement ceremonies.

It was a good characteristic because it would be advantageous for the viewer to feel anything rather than pass by casually.

In addition, the word ‘listener’ means that songs could also be used as a delivery method.

In this situation, it is definitely an advantage because it’s pretty simple to create a feeling of immersion while performing on stage.

Great. It’s better than nothing.

After organizing the situation quickly, I checked the status window.

[Name: Park Moondae (Ryu Gunwoo)]

Level: 8

Title: None

Vocal: A-

Dance: C

Visual: C+

Talent: C

Characteristics: Infinite potential, I heard it’s true(C)

!Status abnormality: Debut or die

Points Remaining: 1

One point was gained thanks to the achievement of <First Experience> when the first stage was broadcast.

And there were only three more episodes left until the achievement of practicing the song reached 500 times.

I'm going to level up today and get an extra point, and the points I already have will be distributed immediately.

The highest priority is—.

"Let's take it for a visual."

It's time to break through the B-grade barrier.

Without hesitation, I adjusted the status window.

'…I hope the number of comments will increase from the next content.'

I thought casually and got ready for bed early.

The filming will start again tomorrow. It starts early in the morning, so I should save my stamina from now on.

Based on the order, the first team match or self-introduction video will take place tomorrow.

* * *

"＜Idol Joint-Stock Company＞ has started again! Participants, did you all have a good rest?"

"Yes!!"

What I expected was true. I looked around the filming set among participants who answered the MC's question vigorously.

Signs were placed all over the auditorium, where they first showed the theme song.

When you watch last season's game, you will know exactly where the first team battle would take place.

Aside from me, I could tell that some of the other participants were already paying attention to it and exchanging glances with each other.

I'm not sure if we can do it together, but it didn't seem like a bad idea.

Should I cast someone too?

"…"

Come to think of it, I realize that none of the other participants was that close to me. So let's just focus on the MC's words.

"The stage everyone will be preparing for today is~ a team battle!"

"Whoa!!!"

As expected, everyone responded with a look like this.

"There must be some participants you'd like to team up with since this is the first team battle, right?"

When this kind of word comes, the following sentence will begin with "but."

"However! Idols need to be able to show teamwork no matter who they meet. In this evaluation, no one can team up with the people they like."

The program spoke well for having edited the first season to make it seem like the bullying was purposely done by them when it was all planned out from the start. Five of them experienced hell as a result.

"Then how do you form a team? First of all, please get the ball out of this box!"

"Why is it scary?"

Lee Sejin (Gold grade), standing behind me, whispered.

As far as I know, he was the only person that spoke to me at this place, and it felt like he was doing so to get a reaction cut.

Since the camera is moving, I can't just ignore it.

I nodded roughly, followed the person in front of me, and pulled the ball out of the box.

'Number 12.'

It seems like teams are formed by number or that teams are chosen in this number order.

"Participant number 1, who are you? Raise your hand! Ah, it's Participant Lee Hongsoo!"

A participant with a silver grade clumsily raised his hand. Then, the MC raised his hand and pointed to a sign placed in the auditorium.

"Participants can choose each sign when it's their turn!"

It was the latter. The MC smiled and drew his hand.

"Then, please reveal the content of the sign!"

Ping—!

The sign lit up, and text appeared. It was innovative in its own way, but the content is what really matters.

Each sign had the name of a famous agency written on it.

"Here are the names of agencies leading KPOP around the world! You just have to choose one of these agencies. However, the capacity is 14 people!"

The MC spread out his hands.

"However, if the quota is exceeded, the participant with the higher rank can push the participant with the lower rank and go in instead!"

"Wow, the rules are cruel."

Gold grade Lee Sejin talked to me again and made a big fuss.

“By any chance, can you not push me if I choose the same agency? I’m good, right?”

“…You’re gold.”

I couldn’t understand why a high-ranking guy like him would think I would try to push him.

“Gold can be pushed from the Platinum!”

“…I won’t push you.”

“Oh~ the answer is cool.”

“…”

Let’s not get involved.

For reference, there were 5 signboards for the agency.

Unconditionally, 7 people can’t stand at the sign and have no choice but to move to the corner.

Interviews are already expected to be included.

[It was really scary]

[Now it’s real survival.]

“Then let’s start with Participant Lee Hongsoo, who picked number 1!”

The first person stood in front of an agency known for its male idols.

My number is 12, so it’s pretty early. Perhaps there was no need to push anyone.

However, it was quite difficult not to be able to check the team members in advance.

Because the quality of the stage and the direction of editing will change depending on who the team members of this first team match are, and the game will change afterward.

Aside from that, I didn't recognize any of the 11 participants who were called. It means that they didn't make their debut.

I had to use my brain well.

"Next participant, please move!"

I decided where to go after a lot of thought.

So far, the high-ranking participants have headed for the most picked sign.

Anyway, each agency had its own hit songs, so I shouldn't have any trouble with song selection as long as I pick the right ones.

So, the team members were more important than the agency.

People who are good at it will make the stage better, so this isn't a big enough sample, but let's figure it out based on the 11 people in front of me.

'First of all, I'm going to a place with many high-ranking participants.'

Two gold grade participants greeted me clumsily as I stepped forward with the ball in my hand.

It sounds like they were both talking about putting up the same sign.

They just said hello to each other but seemed happy to see each other.

They must be suffering a lot.

“Oh~ the main vocalist!”

I decided to be grateful for the above response as well.

Fortunately, both were participants who showed strength in dancing.

The problem was after that.

“Next is~ Ah, Participant Lee Sejin!”

Child actor Lee Sejin also picked up this sign.

Lee Sejin, holding number 15, approached with a stiff expression and stood behind the sign.

The two gold participants appear to have tried to welcome him again this time, but it was somewhat misunderstood due to Lee Sejin turning around and standing behind them.

“Aah—”

I heard a voice of embarrassment in front of me.

Well, it’s right behind me, so I’ll have to make a gesture like this.

Uhm, it’s right behind me, so I should do this kind of gesture.

I turned my head and bowed to the child actor Lee Sejin. Lee Sejin also nodded. It was an unfriendly reaction.

As expected, it doesn’t feel good. Will someone push this punk?

But after that, a bronze grade that was lower than the silver grade came out, and the chance of that happening was very small.

‘Damn it.’

And after a while, it was the 30s. Seon Ahyun, who was holding the number 33, came up and looked nervous.

“…”

Well, it’s good to have more Gold grades. He is a cooperative person. I gently waved my hand, and Seon Ahyun’s expression brightened.

It was a bit embarrassing.

The next impressive person to join was Platinum grade Ryu Chungwoo.

As a former player of the national archery team, he was one of the debut members I knew.

“Please take care of me!”

Ryu Chungwoo smiled as he stood in line as the 13th member.

There is only one person left.

Unfortunately, the 1st and 2nd place of debut members I knew went to different signs. It was the sign that the first participant went to, which was a sign for an agency that was known for its male idol.

Because of the agency’s overwhelming popularity, the first number of participants had to be pushed back eventually.

There were many people, like the number 1 member Cha Eugene, who got a lot of attention after their debut and first performance.

Even the silver grade was pushed back there.

“I’m sorry.”

The participant in the silver grade who had been pushed and was half heartedly nodding his head walked up to the sign. He looked extremely miserable.

"…"

For reference, that punk is Choi Wongil.

He was fighting hard but didn't do well on the ranking evaluation, so he fell to a silver grade. However, it seemed like his mentality had really exploded.

Maybe it's just how I feel, but I don't think he wants to look at me.

"Huh, you have to push someone to get in now. All 14 people have been taken."

"Gosh."

The first two people in line, who were both Gold participants, nodded.

…Gradually, I began to worry about the members of this team.

What was worse, the one who was pushed back from the 60s and got back was this punk.

"I will give out the name… Bronze grade participant Jung Hyeongjung. I'm really sorry!"

Gold grade Lee Sejin chose this sign.

Lee Sejin, who kept his head down, was the first person to push the other participant away and join this sign.

Because he was sorry and behaved well, everyone seemed willing to do so.

"Oh, Moondae~ Are you going to be the main vocalist?"

"Of course, whoever fits it best will do it."

"Wow, that's cool~ 'whoever fits it best will do it'~."

"…"

I would have swung my fist at him if it weren't for the camera.

I looked at Lee Sejin but didn't say anything. Instead, he grinned and hit me on the back before moving to get in line.

I feel like I was wrongly accused—.

"Everyone, have you all picked the sign you want?"

The movement didn't end until the remaining people who had been pushed out of different places were given new signs.

After Lee Sejin (Gold) joined, the only change at the sign I was standing on was that one silver participant pushed a bronze participant.

So, this is a summary of the grade for each participant.

– Platinum 2 people, Gold 5 people, Silver 5 people, Bronze 2 people.

Overall, it was the best distribution except for the top team. However, it seems that the members were also subtly satisfied with it.

Of course, it will not end here.

"I guess you want to choose the best song now!"

"Yes!"

There were 14 people, but there was no way to put them all on one team. So they will be divided into 7 people.

First of all, the person I definitely want to avoid and the person I want to be with—.

I turned my head away. Then, coincidentally, I made eye contact with Ryu Chungwoo.

Ryu Chungwoo nodded slightly. It looked like he was also planning to make this team into a high-ranking team. Good. So, let's do our best to avoid any rudeness—.

"Well, before that… Whoever picked the first sign, please raise your hand!"

Participants who were standing right behind the signs raised their hands.

MC said with a smile.

"For participants who raised their hands, please press the button above the sign!"

"Yes?"

"A sign?"

"Button, ah, square over there, uh, that's it."

The participants murmured to each other, and each found a button at the top of the sign and pressed it.

Suddenly, the sign's content began to flicker and then change.

"Oh, what's that?"

"Is it a lottery number?"

On the sign screen, there were two rows of seven numbers each. It was the same as the sign of the agency I was in.

[4, 7, 12, 15, 33, 37, 62]

[17, 24, 27, 38, 41, 59, 72]

"Can you see the number on the sign?"

“Yes!”

“I can see it!”

“If you buy a lottery ticket with that number!… Haha, I was joking. By that number, you become a team!… Everyone, do you remember the number of balls drawn in the starting order?”

“…!”

“You’ll now be on the same team in the order written on the sign. And you’ll perform against the other team in a one-on-one match!”

In an instant, the studio was filled with noise.

“Oh, hey, what’s your—I was number 5, right? Oh my.”

“Wow, what is this…”

“Did we split up?”

This sign was no different. When he pressed the button for the first time, the gold grade participant cheered and hugged the same gold grade participant immediately behind him.

As expected, the two of them came here to do it together.

Then they looked back at me and shouted.

“Hyung-nim! Number 12~ We’re on the same team!”

“Wow, great! You got the main vocal!”

Then, someone grabbed me from behind and hugged me along with the gold grade participants.

“I think I like our team?!”

It was a gold grade Lee Sejin. I see. Number 62 was that punk.

I tried to match the order of the team members among the three people who made more fuss on purpose.

First of all, number 33 is Seon Ahyun.

Well done. I turned back and spoke with Seon Ahyun before slipping out of the three.

I was almost annoyed by how uncomfortable I felt.

“I look forward to your kind cooperation.”

Seon Ahyun nodded hard. Okay, who’s on the rest of the team?

It would be great to have Ryu Chungwoo, who is both a platinum grade and a debut member, but the number 37—.

“…”

It wasn’t him. Number 37 was Choi Wongil. Clearly, he was standing this way awkwardly with the order ball.

On the other hand, Ryu Chungwoo seemed to have gathered a number of people there and was about to start a briefing.

‘I’m doomed.’

And the 15s—.

Damn it, it was the child actor Lee Sejin.

Likewise, he was looking at the three gold grade participants there with eyes that refused to talk.

I screwed up. It’s going to be edited out.

No matter what I expected, the ranking seemed to be very good.

Because of this, Seon Ahyun added a voice with a rare happy tone.

“I, I, I think the team members are good.”

“…”

Yeah, you should think positively too.

Chapter 12

“Yeah~ We’re so good, right? There are a lot of talented people, and there are a lot of good-looking people!”

Gold grade Lee Sejin said with a big smile. Everyone felt embarrassed, but they all nodded as if they agreed.

Even if everyone pretended to be as harmonious as they were, it was a natural thing because it was the right time to grow up. It’s a relief to see that everyone has at least some sense.

“But, ah, Actor Sejin. We have the same name—. How do we differentiate ourselves?”

“Yes?”

“Oh, that’s nice!”

“Right? Since you’re an Actor, how about Bae Sejin?” (T/n: I think they take 배 from 배우 which means actor for this part.)

The gold grade participant who joined first grinned and added.

“Hey, then, because you’re big, you will be Big Sejin.”

“Big Sejin? Hey, that’s nice. Call! What do you think? Sejin Hyung-nim?”

“…”

Child Actor Lee Sejin bit his lip as if he was holding back something, and said it.

“I just like my name.”

"…"

"Ah—. I see."

The excitement disappeared in an instant. Then Gold grade Lee Sejin hurriedly opened his mouth.

"Oh, that's fine. Then, Hyung and Dongsaengs, please call me Big Sejin from now on~"

"It's nice~."

"What a nice nickname!"

Clap clap clap. The atmosphere was set with applause. Then, around the time each person introduced themselves, the MC picked up the microphone again.

"Participants, did you say hello to each other?"

"Please let us choose whatever song we want."

One of the team members muttered desperately. But there was no chance.

"Now then— let's start the song selection!"

"Whoa—"

"The song selection is random—"

Everyone murmurs with tired looks.

The MC waved his hand out and said humorously.

"Ey, everyone! This is one of the hit songs of the representative idols of the agency you picked! Don't be disappointed!"

They might have thought it was worth doing, so the atmosphere has gotten better.

“Now, the representative song will start playing at the sign in front of you. If you want to stop, just press the switch! Then, the first participant to join the sign, please come forward!”

The team members immediately changed their attitude.

“Hyung-nim, I will trust you!”

“The only way to live is a masterpiece song!”

“Phew, do I have to show my ability again?”

The first participant stepped forward in front of the sign with a cheer.

“Now, get ready… launch it!”

“Whoaa!”

A team member made a strange noise and immediately pressed the switch. Big Sejin (Since he brought this up himself, I’m going to call him this from now on) murmured next to me.

“No, we should’ve seen it and pressed it—”

The titles of a few songs were shown on a sign that rolled slowly.

[Tiger / VTIC]

[LIFE / VTIC]

[Eternal Song / VTIC]

VTIC. At the moment, they are the male idols whose albums sell the most copies.

“Everything is fine… please.”

Choi Wongil’s desperate murmuring was heard at the end. I waited patiently for the screen to stop.

The screen then slowly stopped.

[Into A New World / MallangDalkom]

“…?”

“……??”

“……!?”

A terrible silence fell.

Except for myself, all of the team members’ eyes became like ‘BONOBONO’ as they looked at the sign. (t/n: Bonobono (보노보노) is a character in a manga.)

“I, is it an error?”

The team member who touched the sign mumbled something in a puzzled voice. However, there was no response from the production staff.

It meant it was real.

“Is it include female idols?”

“Are there any female idol songs?”

Everyone, including us, was saying similar things.

Of course, the reaction was not as strong as ours.

The people on the team muttered as if they were crazy.

“Yeah… So, was it a flower fairy?”

“That… uh, debut song, uh-huh.”

Undoubtedly, ‘Into A New World’ was an innocent and dreamy song that stood for a flower fairy.

Besides, it’s a debut song. A song that has never been number #1 on public television since it came out before MallangDalkom’s concept changed into something cute and bitter.

“Ah! Thank you!”

“This is amazing!”

The surrounding area was filled with cheers as if there was a good song. It was natural because it would have been full of masterpiece songs. But the climax came from here.

“Aaaaah!!”

“Hyung!! Hyung!!”

The team next to our sign picked “Tiger” by VTIC.

For reference, that song was the title track of the album that received Daesang at the largest music site awards ceremony in Korea two months ago.

I could say that it’s one of the most popular songs right now.

Maybe that’s why everyone was hugging and making a fuss. The grade of the team members was low, so the atmosphere improved greatly as if they had already won.

“…”

And our side is getting very quiet. It looked like no one could get over the shock.

What am I going to do?

'I was avoiding this.'

I was sweeping my chest. This is because I realized that I chose the sign of the agency with ease.

VTIC's 'Tiger'?

I just can't do it.

I was lucky enough to avoid it.

In that way, the match's luck is great right now.

'It seems like everyone hasn't realized it yet.'

When I saw the team members gathering in a depressed mood, I thought it was rather good.

If there's a sense of crisis, they'll work cooperatively.

* * *

"I think the key doesn't match."

Did I think they would work cooperatively? I'd like to say that I was wrong to have such high expectations.

Already, a man who seems to have given up on everything has started to show up.

"Wongil-ah, if you try it again—"

"I've tried it again a few times, and I don't think it's going to work again—"

Choi Wongil lowered his head gloomily and said this.

“That, it was originally a female song, but we changed it to a male key, so I don’t think it fits well. I think I can do the high part—”

He looks at me while talking like that.

‘You want my part.’

I was wearing the main vocal badge early on, and the three gold grade participants were cheering me on.

Choi Wongil was quiet and only watched me put on my badge, maybe because he got a low grade.

Then he found a place where he could stretch his feet, so he stretched them.

I laughed bitterly.

“Shall we?”

“…!”

Big Sejin hit my thigh. This is really—.

“Hey, don’t play around with the kid. At times like this, you have to help him sing his part! What are you doing?”

People talk about it as if it’s a joke, which is only natural. It’s not something he did once or twice.

‘Indeed, he’s not just a good punk with no shame.’

I hid my doubts and spoke again firmly.

“No, I really don’t mind changing it. If you are going to do it, you should do it at the beginning before you learn the choreography.”

“R, really?”

“Yeah.”

I calmly ended the conversation. Choi Wongil looked very suspicious, but he quickly nodded because he was afraid I might change my mind.

“Well, then I want to do the first verse chorus—”

“Okay, then I’ll do the bridge part.”

“Yes?”

“Let’s change parts. That’s the part where you say you can’t do it.”

Choi Wongil nodded his head reluctantly. He didn’t seem to want me to take part that he couldn’t.

He wanted to take the chorus, but he didn’t want to let go of his part.

I don’t believe it was because he is unable to put things away in the right order, but was falling into silver grade the trigger? It tasted a little off.

Big Sejin looked at Choi Wongil and me alternately and sighed quietly.

‘I must have taken the 1st chorus in the picture he drew.’

Then he pretended not to, and continued energetically.

“Okay, then the part would be like this.”

There was one main position left. They felt nervous as if they weren’t gold grade participants.

“Now all we have to do is choose the main dancer.”

Before Big Sejin spoke more, I raised my hand.

“Oh, I have an opinion.”

“Yeah?”

“If everyone is okay, I want to decide the direction of the arrangement before choosing the main dancer.”

“…Huh?”

An arrangement.

Even though it was the most important topic, everyone was unconsciously avoiding it.

‘Into A New World’ is an innocent female idol song.

And ‘innocent’ is—it was a very difficult concept to digest.

People often think that it is easy to do as long as it looks pretty, but that is not true at all.

This is because it’s a concept that is difficult to make look strong.

In order for them to leave such an impression on the audience with such a song while they were competing on the survival stage, they had to be exceptionally talented or incredibly good.

Maybe everyone thought that far, but the opinion of the arrangement started out like this.

“A little… How about changing the lyrics and going strong?”

“With a strong beat?”

“yes. It’s perfect for a new world~ with so much ambition to do it!”

The first gold—. It’s annoying to call it this way. Should I call him Gold 1 appropriately?

So, this was Gold 1's opinion. This is something that any participant in a survival show who is thinking can come up with.

Strong change.

The problem is that it looks like it would be difficult for this song to give the impression of being "full of ambition," as the saying goes.

The lyrics of 'Into the New World' are like this.

– At some point, I realized

I wandered in an imperfect time

In this unstoppable maze of time

Please save me from being trapped in it

It's withering away gradually.

In this little space inside (little flower~)

I'm waiting for the day it will bloom again

Please come to find me

This is the first verse.

If you want to be ambitious, you need to change the lyrics so that they focus more on the speaker. If you don't, the song's story gets messed up from the pre-chorus on.

This is because the chorus of this song is about asking the other person to come to you quickly.

– One step, two steps

The sound of you coming

It's ringing in my ears

Don't hesitate and give me your hand

Now, I'm going into a new world~

Come to me

Come to me

It's dazzling, a paradise by your side

Come to me

Come to me

Melody of love for you (continues)

"Then do we have to change the lyrics of 'Come to me' after 'Into A New World'?"

"Uh… if we say 'come to you'…"

Gold 1 muttered and scratched his head. He seems to have realized that the problem is not only that.

"Then, shouldn't we have to change everything from 'Save Me'?"

"Mhmm."

Yes. Since the chorus is so focused on what the listener does, changing that to "I'm coming quickly" takes away from the meaning of the next lyrics.

"If we're going to do this, we'll have to change the whole thing."

"Yeah… But if we make too many changes, we might suffer from fairness."

It was also a question of whether the opposing team or the production staff would allow them to fix everything like that.

"…"

The team members got quiet as they slowly realized how serious the situation was.

Big Sejin quickly intervened and changed the subject.

"Why don't we discuss the arrangement with the teachers and decide? I think it would be better to learn the choreography as soon as possible to get feedback! Is it okay, Moondae-ya?"

"Yeah, it's fine. Let's do it."

I obediently agree. Anyway, the idea of bringing up the arrangement at this point was meant to shock them.

The more desperate the atmosphere is, the less noise will come out when I give my opinion about the arrangement.

"Okay, let's play the choreography video!"

When Big Sejin played the dance video, everyone turned their heads to look at the tablet PC screen.

No matter where they hear the chorus, no one on the team probably remembers the choreography in detail.

However, as expected, less than 15 seconds after the choreography video started, everyone gave out voices.

"Ah—"

Chapter 13

"…The dance?"

Ballet and modern dance movements appeared from the opening choreography of 'Into A New World.'

It's dim and dreamy, but it's also, as expected, not very intense.

"It's pretty, but—"

Gold 1, who had opened his mouth, was speechless.

In other words, the difficulty of arrangement has again gone up vertically because of this choreography.

Following the lyrics played over and over, they began to learn the choreography in an atmosphere very similar to a house in mourning.

"Let's get it as soon as possible!"

"Yes!"

However, it was surprisingly nice to practice because everyone closed their mouths and worked hard. This may have been because the hopelessness of the future made everyone feel like they were in a crisis instead of desperate.

They also seemed to know that if they complained for no reason, their negative comments about the song could be broadcast.

'It's nice because it's comfortable.'

I continued to practice silently without saying a word.

Anyway, I had zero experience with choreography, so I couldn't say that I was particularly impressed by what I saw, as it was all the same to me.

"Here, if you grab my arm and turn it like this—"

"Uhm."

"Oh, it was similar."

And waited for the right timing.

Now that the atmosphere has been set, the thing that really matters is the picture, which should be so powerful that the editors won't want to remove it when they're editing. It was also important how the arrangement process came out on the program.

The chance came two days later when the trainer came to check on them.

* * *

"You must have been very worried when you got this song, right?"

At the choreographer's words, the team members laughed awkwardly. They can't say that they just learned the choreography without putting their worries out of their minds.

The choreographer didn't seem to like this response very much, but for now, he didn't say anything about it.

"Let's start by seeing what you've done."

"Yes!"

And the team members, including myself, finished the first verse choreography without any mistakes.

"Whoo…"

People who were breathing hard around me let out a sigh of relief when they thought there were no mistakes.

"…Well."

The choreographer nodded. It was a fairly neutral move.

"How did everyone memorize the movements? Who got the choreography?"

"Uh, the team members who are a little more used to dancing and all together…"

"Yes. We did it all together!"

Big Sejin added words to Gold 2.

The 4 Gold indeed took the lead, but Seon Ahyun was the one who did the most. I found out that he was a dance major.

Well, he wasn't completely alone, and the main dancer became Big Sejin, so it looked like he would crush it to the extent.

The choreographer just nodded.

"Yeah, you've worked hard. But—"

The choreographer snapped his neck.

"I can't see anyone."

I could hear Gold 2 taking a breath right next to me. Whoever sees it would think a ghost came out.

"What are you going to do? It's just 'They're dancing. They're doing this move. They're doing that move.' This is a compliment you might hear at a school trip talent show, but didn't you come here to make money with this?"

The team members flinched whenever the words came out.

“It’s not worth watching.”

In fact, it was a natural result since they didn’t try to figure out what the song meant and only learned the choreography mechanically. Still, the choreographer kept saying the same thing, like using abusive language instead of advice.

“There are kids who are below the level at all.”

It was obvious to look at actor Lee Sejin while he was speaking. Lee Sejin was bowing his head.

To be honest, I was at a level where I could barely remember the choreography, but should I think it’s a good thing that they become human shields for me?

There was constant feedback to the point that it wouldn’t be strange for one person to be dragged on.

The choreographer openly moved his mouth.

“You, Seon Ahyun.”

“Y, yes…”

“I heard you majored in modern dance. But why does it seem like you’re weaker than Moondae?”

Seon Ahyun’s face turned pale.

I had a strong feeling that they would never edit those comments.

This punk who will get hair loss—was he trying to intentionally shock him by making a comparison between myself and the person who couldn’t do that right now?

“That kid sings well. You’re auditioning here, so the feedback has been positive so far. But if you make your debut, someone will write a story about you, but do you think someone will tell you you did a good job?"

There aren't many fields that are as skilled at storytelling as the entertainment industry, but those who work in it like to play it cool and insist that they are judged only based on their skills.

It was still the same. No matter what, it looked like it hurt Seon Ahyun a lot, and he looked like he was about to sink.

''This is a bit difficult—'

He was already in strange condition, but I'll get in trouble if he couldn't do his part because it got worse.

"Anyway, your current level is just an amateur who practiced a little. Think about what you want to convey through this song, and then perform it again while you're in a state where you're worth watching."

"Thank you…"

The team members walked quickly out of an evaluation room as if they were mop.

They already had no lives.

However, a similar situation occurred in the following vocal feedback.

"Guys. What do you guys want to do?"

Mudie tapped on the keyboard as if she were frustrated and sorry. But, instead of attacking a person, she poured out specific instructions. It seems like she really wants to give advice.

"The concept of this song is the fairy of flowers. It's a clear and beautiful song. But all you're doing is singing the notes. It had neither a beautiful nor a sad feeling. Isn't it embarrassing for you to sing it that way?"

"…"

Aside from the fact that this song wasn't suitable for an audition program, I honestly wondered if there were any team members who didn't think of that. But, of course, it was because they are around the age of high school students.

But I can't honestly say that I'm embarrassed, so this is the answer.

"Since it was an audition, we wanted to arrange with a stronger feeling—. Because the concept of the song is so pure, it's difficult to naturally change it to a stronger direction."

"If the arrangement seemed hard, you should have thought about trying to keep the original song as close as possible."

"…"

Mudie waved one hand with a sad expression.

"Guys. First, you have to know which direction you want to go."

And as soon as the production team stepped in to help, the team members began discussing the situation immediately.

The camera was close to the front, and the production team was sitting in front of it. Unfortunately, the atmosphere was so bad that we couldn't even say anything.

But someone had to say something, so the guy with the armband was the first to speak up.

It was Big Sejin.

"Uhm, we worked really hard these two days. Thanks to it, we learned the choreography quickly. I believe we can do well enough with the quality of the stage if we immerse ourselves in the song with that momentum from now on."

It was a natural comfort as if he had prepared for it. Look at this punk?

“Let’s not get distracted and work hard to keep the original song’s meaning! It may be a little embarrassing, but naturally, if we do our best— it’s like a hit song by MallangDalkom Sunbaenim, wouldn’t it be fun?”

“Ah, just like Moondae did?”

“That’s it! If you’re humorous and pure, you’ll also feel fresh. Why don’t we just make the beat a little faster to make it more exciting?”

In the end, he suggested that we should shamelessly overdo the song of the innocent female idol and that we should digest it in the same way as MallangDalkom’s cute concept did back in its heyday.

‘…I think he really prepared this.’

At that moment, I realized. This punk was waiting like me.

‘He left it alone on purpose until the trainer gave them feedback.’

Because if he tells them to stick with the original song, which has a more innocent concept, there will definitely be people who disagree with his decision.

It also eliminates the possibility that Seon Ahyun, a major who fits the original song, will be the main dancer.

He picked the episode cuts that were like this and took the impact of being the leader.

It wasn’t an ordinary skill.

But that’s too bad. It would be useless for this guy to draw a big picture.

Because my opinion was better.

First, let's throw the bait.

"The idea is good, but wouldn't it seem like a mockery of the original song if we make a mistake?"

Still, it's a senior idol's song. I didn't know what people would say if we went too far and looked ridiculous.

Of course, I did not expect this objection, Big Sejin replied with a smile.

"We just have to do our best to make sure it doesn't look like that!"

"Isn't Moondae Hyung doing too much?"

"…?"

Suddenly, Choi Wongil stepped forward and interrupted the conversation.

"Uhm, Wongil-ah?"

Big Sejin rarely looked embarrassed.

Rather than being supported, it's a fun development in which I gain more from being attacked.

I can hear the Big Sejin's big picture shattering.

Choi Wongil poured out angry remarks to Park Moondae.

It seems that he keeps forgetting that there are cameras.

"Does Hyung have any great ideas? You may feel at ease because the trainers like you, Hyung, but you also need to think about how the other team members feel. If you just oppose it so blindly—"

Oh, that's a surprisingly plausible statement.

“Oh, of course I do. My opinion.”

“Yes…?”

“I’ve been thinking about it, but it seems like there’s a way to go strong while keeping the feeling of the original song.”

“…?”

“Is there such a thing?”

The sudden idea of idealism surprised the other people on the team.

In contrast to Choi Wongil’s momentary dissatisfaction with the atmosphere, which was quickly resolved, Big Sejin put his hand on the back of his head in an embarrassment.

This punk is really not normal.

“Of course, it’s good if it’s real— but what is it?”

I said with a smile.

“Let’s mix it with horror.”

“…!”

Let’s go not just as a flower fairy, but as a flower fairy who went to America.

After a short period of silence that was followed by an exclamation mark, a reaction erupted.

“O, oh! I think it’s good?”

“Hey, I think this choreography would be really scary if we added a horror concept!”

“Oh—”

From Gold 1, who shouts Eureka while roughly swaying the choreography he memorized with his hands, to Lee Sejin, whose expression looks better, the majority of the responses were positive, though the level varied.

At this age, if you were an aspiring idol, you would want to do something cool rather than something terrible, so I figured it would be better to say horror.

Big Sejin also gave a brief exclamation and then nodded his head. He turned right after seeing the member’s opinion.

“It’s a little embarrassing to say this right away, but—I think I like Moondae’s opinion?”

“Wow, he gave up his opinion and switched!”

“As expected from a leader!”

The atmosphere brightened in an instant. Behind the buzzing team members, Mudie could be seen with a happy expression.

Since Mudie is also caught on camera, I think that cut will also be used—. I hope it’s well cut and edited.

But there was a guy who messed up the heartwarming cut scene.

Choi Wongil was— anxious, but it wasn’t him.

When he came to his senses, he seemed to be worried about how his actions would turn out to be edited.

He is trying to get into the mood somehow, but he tries not to look at me because he is too proud to apologize.

If it were me, I would say that I was too harsh, sink into the situation, and end it.

We're in a situation where the opponent has to accept me, but I don't know why he's acting this way.

Maybe because he was young, he didn't know how to get along with other people.

Then who is the culprit, Seon Ahyun?

"Ghost! Let's go with ghosts! There's a flower with a story about a dead person."

"What kind of horror movie is this? I think you're too serious? Ah! You know the movie, the black swan if you do it with that creepy feeling—"

"Wow, the choreography would be really scary if you do that."

In what looked like a happy episode of the group project, Seon Ahyun was stuck in the corner with a gloomy expression.

"…"

Perhaps because of what the choreographer trainer said, it seemed that he couldn't recover his mental condition.

I had a moment of hope that Big Sejin would come out and show what a true leader looks like, but there was no sign of that happening.

Seon Ahyun seems to be afraid that when he comes to his senses, he will be mistaken for the main dancer with a major's buff.

The rest are just guys with bright minds or lack social skills, so am I the only one who doesn't need to be checked because my positions don't overlap?

It can be so annoying— I was frustrated that I had to do something for a mental protector that wasn't in my fate.

In any case, the fact that the stage quality has decreased is a source of great regret. So let’s get some words out.

Chapter 14

After the most hectic and optimistic discussion of the past two days, I talked to Seon Ahyun during a short break.

“Are you tired?”

“N, no—”

Seon Ahyun shook his head with a nervous face. He seemed nervous because he was worried that he would be scolded if his condition wasn’t good enough.

Could I approach him this way? I opened the conversation as gently as possible.

“Then, is it because you were worried about the feedback during the choreography evaluation?”

His apology came right away.

“…I, I, I’m sorry… I, I will work hard…”

This guy really looks like a sunfish. My heart becomes magnificent. (t/n: Sunfish means extremely fragile, while my heart becomes magnificent is an expression when you feel touched by something.)

“You don’t have to be sorry for me. And please don’t misunderstand about this.”

Let’s try to explain the saying, ‘The choreographer has a personality problem, so he motivated people by attacking them.’

“The dance trainer didn’t say that because he really thought I was better than you. It must have been meant to provoke you.”

I sat next to Seon Ahyun and kept talking to make the atmosphere more relaxed.

“I think he was disappointed because he thought you could do better. Because he was originally a strong talker.”

“…”

Seon Ahyun couldn’t answer, as if he couldn’t say something stupid like, ‘No, you’re better than me.’ to me. Do you also think my words are plausible?

“D, do you really think… I, I can do well?”

“Hmm?”

Are you asking me?

He must have calculated it and asked because I couldn’t say, ‘The choreographer is the choreographer, but I don’t think so.’— no, it must not be it.

I crossed my arms and spoke calmly.

“Why would I lie?”

“…!”

Seon Ahyun swallowed his saliva and asked back in a slightly anticipated voice.

“T, t, then… H, how can I d, do it well…”

“…Are you asking for my opinion?”

“Y, yes!”

Seon Ahyun nodded eagerly.

‘Are you asking for advice from a beginner who started his career through auditions?’

I tried to hide how cold I was feeling by coming up with a theory based on Seon Ahyun’s status window.

“I think you are thinking too much.”

Seon Ahyun seemed shocked.

“U, u, useless…”

“It’s not that your thoughts are useless. I think you’re even thinking about things that you don’t need to think about. How about clearing your head?”

Let’s add a more specific example.

“Just think ‘I’m going to make this happen’.”

“…”

Seon Ahyun seemed to be lost in thought. What a contradictory response for someone who has just been advised to clear his mind.

Anyway, the words that came out immediately were positive.

“O, okay… I will do it.”

His face showed his determination, so it didn’t seem like he was saying empty words.

But he seems to be burning with passion more than I expected? There was also strength in the shoulders.

Besides, he even mumbles something—it was probably something like ‘I can do this’.

“…”

Hmm, did I have any talent for advice to this extent?

As soon as I started having doubts, the status window popped.

['When I heard it, you're right (C)' activated!]

-Target: Seon Ahyun

-Effect: Activation of characteristics by successful persuasion

I see. It looks like the probability of this 35% was shown.

I didn't know I could use it this way—but it seemed quite useful due to the nature of this program.

Of course, this is assuming that it opened through 35%.

First, I turned on Seon Ahyun's status window to see exactly what had changed.

[Name: Seon Ahyun]

Vocal: B- (A)

Dance: A (EX)

Visual: A+ (S+)

Talent: B (A+)

Characteristics: Grit (A)

!Status abnormality: Lack of self-esteem deactivated.

Status abnormality deactivated?

Earlier, the pop-up said that some characteristics were activated. Is that the effect?

Let's check the characteristics.

[Grit (A): To make one's mindset. Burn up the concentration and press the negative state.]

– When activated, one status abnormality (highest priority) is canceled.

Isn't this characteristic a fraud?

If I had this characteristic, I would have deactivated them and withdrawn from the audition if I couldn't make my debut.

I was so angry that I couldn't think straight.

After some time had passed and vocal practice continued, I was able to sort things out calmly.

Anyway, can Seon Ahyun use his skills as it is in that status window?

Just in time, Mudie praised Seon Ahyun's vocal.

"Ahyun, you just made the right sound!"

"T, thank you…!"

Even when I just listened, it sounded better than when he practiced. It's probably starting to sound more and more like his B stats.

'Hmm.'

It was good that Seon Ahyun came to his senses, and the stage quality improved. But I shouldn't let him come out by himself too hard.

'Even if our positions don't overlap, it's difficult for me if he eats all the buzz by himself.'

I guess I'll have to come up with a stage quantity that can appeal individually.

It was necessary to contribute to the quality of the stage and, at the same time, be able to eat the impact alone.

“So, horror? If you do well, I think that direction will be good. What are you going to do?”

After the team members were excited about Mudie’s question and discussed the arrangement direction, I raised my hand.

“I have an opinion on the arrangement of my part. Can I say it?”

“Oh, Moondae~ Where is it?”

“This part.”

I put my finger on the lyrics.

“The bridge.”

Choi Wongil, who was standing next to me, could be seen with his mouth wide open.

Thank you for the part Wongil-ah. I will use it well.

* * *

Season 3 of <Idol Inc.> was burning on the Internet with ridicule and criticism that it would fail.

At this point, only the profiles of the participants and the first stage were revealed. Although the production presentation has not yet been held, the Tnet broadcasting company’s website has already begun recruiting an audience for the first team match.

Although it was due to a problem in the order of filming, thanks to the overflowing buzz, there was quite a bit of competition in selecting applicants for the audience.

And here, a person broke through the competition rate (27:1) and came to the audience proudly!

'I won't get caught, right?'

Now that she sees it, she doesn't have confidence.

While swallowing saliva, a small bag that was easy to carry and a camera were hidden in her backpack under a cardigan covered with a smoke screen.

There was some reason why she had to come to the audience and hide the camera.

Because she had a hunch as soon as she saw <It's Me>, the first stage of this season's Idol Inc.

This might work!

'This atmosphere—I'm sure they're being criticized right now, but when the broadcast starts, all of this may turn into interest. As long as the kids who come out are fine!'

Then the value of the pictures she takes now will be soaring!

It was half a gamble. However, the original soaring stock gamble was dominant in her mind. Furthermore—.

'…If there's someone really good, it's good for me to be fansite master early on.'

At the same time, her (former) idol was destroying her pride by getting into social media in a dirty way, so she wanted to use this chance to clean up her own account.

So today, she had to take as many pictures as possible because she didn't know which participant would explode at the stage.

She calmly waited for the filming to begin.

Filming began after the MC, who changed from a public broadcast announcer to a talent, came out on stage and delivered a few words of advice.

“In this stage, the two teams that covered the songs of senior idols from the same agency will compete. The winning team will receive a huge benefit. The benefits are… please watch the show!”

Even though people vowed on oath not to reveal spoilers until the show aired, so many people were talking about it on the Internet that they didn’t want to say anything except on the stage.

“Idol Inc. Season 3, the long-awaited first team battle begins now! Shine Your Star!”

After they announced the voting method, the first stage began immediately after the stage setting check.

The first stage was two teams that covered idol songs of QuZ Entertainment, which is famous for producing popular idols.

‘I think it’s kind of boring?’

It wasn’t bad, but overall, it just wasn’t as good as the original song.

Although she secretly took a few shots, she had no expectations. The important thing was the team with some of the participants mentioned on the internet.

After the second team match, which was boring, a team that was worth seeing came out.

It was a match with Cha Eugene, who had the most cuts on the stage of <It’s Me>.

“Heol, Cha Eugene!”

“They’re all good~.”

Since it was a team with many familiar participants, the cheers were also different from the early stages. There were already people holding placards.

Above all, he performed well on the stage.

'Wow, I think they're really good at this?'

People would believe it if they had already debuted because they have good skills and had good arrangements.

It was a stylish and cute digest of an old song with an overly sexy concept that was consumed like a top goal meme on the Internet.

In addition, not only Cha Eugene but also participants in charge of rap from the same agency stood out.

'Both of them will make it.'

She diligently left data centered on the two. While cleverly avoiding the eyes of the security guard who wandered in the middle.

It was interesting in a different sense because there were many familiar participants in the next team against this team.

'Maybe this will be the last one to be aired on TV?'

She found it both exciting and disappointing.

Now, from the next team on, it didn't seem like it would be fun at all.

Since more than half of the participants worth watching in the previous team match were present, it seemed like the next team would be boring.

And sure enough, the next stage wasn't very interesting.

Maybe it was made up of the participants who weren't chosen, but the absolute evaluation method was only used to judge one team, and she can see why they weren't chosen.

It was the worst stage ever.

"What the hell?"

"My legs hurt."

Now there were even people sneaking out from behind.

They were tired and their legs hurt, so they didn't want to see backstage.

In that distracting atmosphere, the MC exclaimed.

"The first team match is getting hotter and hotter. The turn now—these are the participants who covered the song of LeTi, the agency of VTIC, a global trending group that recently won the Daesang!"

The MC didn't even mention 'MallangDalkom.'

That means they want the audience to take the bait.

But the effect was great.

"VTIC?"

The audience started to get excited.

VTIC was the hottest male idol at the moment.

People who were about to go out stopped for a while when they said that they covered a song by an idol who sold 1.2 million copies in the first week.

The MC shouted cheerfully in the atmosphere where some expectations were returned.

“Then the first team to go on stage, October 31!”

The name of the team that came to her mind was the name of the ice cream shop.

It wasn’t a name that caught her ear all at once.

Originally, it was common for the participants to have a poor sense of their own, so everyone leaked the team name without much inspiration.

‘That’s enough. What VTIC song did they cover?’

“The song that the participants covered—ah, they debuted as flower fairies, right? This is 〈Into the New World〉 by the girl group ‘MallangDalkom’ who was active as a national girl group!”

“…!?”

People were bewildered.

Chapter 15

Why did MallangDalkom suddenly come out here—?

It was only then that the bewildered audience realized that the stage wasn't covering VTIC's song but idols belonging to VTIC's agency, LeTi.

She was confused for a moment because the MC talked about VTIC openly before.

"What the hell—"

Because it wasn't a very popular song, there were some irritating reactions here and there.

Rather, it would be a different story if it's a hit song like 〈POP☆CON〉 because most people only remembered the chorus of the debut song.

It was the same for her who was changing the camera settings.

'Should I just get a picture of the public vote?'

When she thought this insincere thought and hid the camera from security, the stage went dark, and the intro began to flow out.

Woo~. Whoooo Ooh~. Woo~.

The melancholy melody of a modulated synthesizer filled the stage.

Originally, it was supposed to be a part where string instruments and piano would flow out to introduce a pure female idol-style orchestra in the 2010s.

“Huh?”

As she raised her head, she saw participants in white stage costumes and blackish decorations that looked like shoulder straps.

It was a suit-like style, so there was nothing new because it was a typical male idol’s outfit, but she had a strange sense because of the lyrical atmosphere opposed to the intro, which is full of electronic sounds.

At that moment, the participants began to move.

– At some point, I realized

I am trapped in an imperfect time

The participant who began the first verse clearly had a handsome face and was good at movement.

‘Was it Seon Ahyun?’

Even the choreography was mixed with lyrical and elegant dance moves, but somehow— It was a bit strange.

– This unstoppable maze of time

Save me from being trapped in it

The moment the next part came out, she realized.

‘…Why is everyone so expressionless?’

Except for the person who sang the song, all the participants had no expression on their faces.

Originally, it was common for them to have less expression on their faces when it wasn’t their part yet, but it was rare for them to have no expression at all.

Furthermore—.

‘W, why are their eyes so strange?’

They were looking up at the air, not at the camera.

It was probably intentional, as their expression and eyes suddenly returned to focus only when their own part returned.

It would be a different story if they couldn’t make eye contact with the camera because of their mistake, but idols knew that it was their job to look at the camera like a ghost even when it wasn’t their part.

—So it was an even more strange sight.

It was even creepier in comparison to the participant who smiled alone in his part and had glowing eyes.

– It’s withering away

Inside this small space

I’m waiting for the day it will bloom again

Come and find me

Bzzz. As he lowered the pitch, a dreary noise mixed in MR, and the desperate voice increased.

The lyrics are definitely soft and sad, but because of the intro and the directing, it sounded like a trap.

If you hear someone crying at a closed school, wouldn’t you be more scared than wanting to help?

The stage was unfolding with such an eerie nuance.

– One step two step

The sound of you coming

It's ringing in my ears

Don't hesitate, give me your hand

I'm into a new world now~

Her spine was tingling when she heard a high-pitched voice singing the same lyrics as the song's title, "Into the New World."

Even though it was a pure and clear sound, it sounded strange and evil since it was made into dissonance by raising half the key.

Even though they were the participants, she became more immersed in the stage than their singing skills.

– Come to me

Come to me

It's dazzling, a paradise by your side

In the chorus, the same string instrument from the original song came in, and it was creepy how it clashed with the synthesizer's modulation sound.

Jiiing~ Kiiing~~

The movement borrowed from ballet and added a few more violent movements made it feel inhuman.

At that moment, she realized.

October 31, October 31—it was Halloween. The night when evil beings come out into this world.

– Come to me

Come to me

Melody of love for you (continues)

This is what a non-human singing to lure people in!

'Gasp!'

She covered her mouth as the sounds of explosions filled her head.

Of course, some idols used inhumane concepts.

But in the amateur idol debut audition program, no one would have thought they would try something so daring with a female senior song with the opposite concept—!

She instantly became immersed in the stage without even having the time to give evaluations such as 'They have great guts.'

The song entered the bridge after passing through the second verse, which was modified and cut.

And once again, something unexpected happened.

– Can't You feel me?

The arrangement suddenly returned to the original song at Bridge!

Even the vocal range is back. The pure boy's voice echoed in the same high key as the original song, which was sung by a woman.

– Your warm touch

It wakes me up, it's beautiful

Spring garden

It felt sacred at first when the beautiful accompaniment music and lighting were changed to make it brighter.

– Ooh, Ooh…

But as the lights brightened, other things became clearer. It was the details of the outfits.

She thought the fabric of a shoulder strap-like was just dark, but it was actually stained with dark red dye on the same white cloth as the outfits.

There were even stains on the shoulder strap that seemed to flow from the neck.

'It was a vampire—!'

The bridge came to an end as soon as it had left an impression on the audience's minds, and immediately after that, the chorus of the modulated sound began.

– Come to me

Come to me

It's dazzling, a paradise by your side

However, this time, the dissonance with the orchestra has subsided and the noise has disappeared, revealing the sadness of the lyrics.

The artificial expressionless faces they put on when it wasn't their part disappeared, and the dreamy feeling became stronger than the feeling of eeriness.

The sound composition also has a sense of space like Dream Pop instead of sharpness.

– Come to me

Come to me

Melody of love for you (continues)

The modulation sound disappears, and the sound ends with the violin.

Unlike the original song, which ended with a ballet movement, the song ended with everyone collapsing as soon as the chorus ended.

In that way, the stage ended with more sorrow than fear at the end. As if the narrator of an inhuman song really fell in love with a person.

"…Whoa!!"

People who suddenly came to their senses cheered loudly at that moment.

It was a stage that stimulated the audience's hearts from start to finish, with a shocking beginning and a tragic end.

It wouldn't have been this or that if they had done it badly.

However, the team's participants did it right.

'This is so crazy!'

Many people in the shouting audience realized it was possible because these participants' skills were above average and their appearance and style were good.

The voices of the excited audience could be heard here and there as if they had already made up their minds.

The participants who got up patted each other on the back a few times and greeted the audience with a smile.

"Thank you!"

"T, thank you!"

It felt cuter because of the other teams' actions and the gap between them and the stage was too wide.

“Cute—”

She, who had been directing the camera, also muttered heartwarmingly. In particular, a member with a high-pitched bridge caught her eye.

Even after she went home, she couldn’t stop thinking about that unexpected bridge.

With this pronunciation, he hit the high notes ridiculously well, and his face was cool and cute, and he didn’t even flinch as he did the excessive concept.

‘When the voting came out, I will remember his names.’

She kept looking at Park Moondae, who was leaving the stage and made a promise to herself before realizing she was holding a camera.

And she was surprised.

‘I was so focused on the stage that I totally forgot about the camera—!’

It’s too bad that she can’t take a picture, but she’s so happy to be able to see it with her own eyes and not have to worry about the camera!

This was the first time since the former idol.

A shudder passed.

Well, it was a sign of being too immersed.

* * *

When the team members left the stage, they either grabbed the wall or slumped down as if their legs were losing strength.

I leaned against the wall and thought.

‘It was… more fun than I thought.’

It was strange.

To be honest, I never expected this to be fun.

I had no choice but to do it because I would die suddenly if I didn’t debut.

I’ve never danced or sang in front of anyone in my life. Even with makeup on.

—Obviously, up until the time I sang and danced 〈POP☆CON〉, I just felt like I had to do it.

‘I thought I’d come back to reality… Why is it fun?’

I’m even in a condition where my breath is about to pop out of my throat.

‘It’s harder than practice.’

I think I put more energy into it because it was a real match.

And probably, the guys who climbed on top together with me were all out of breath in the same way.

Because I’m also out of breath.

But their expressions were bright.

It was because the shouts were loud enough to tear their ears.

“Whoaa!!!”

“Encore! Encore!”

I could even hear some shouting for an encore from behind now.

‘There weren’t many people.’

And the results— were better than expected.

It was a cheer that even the first and second-place teams didn’t receive.

No way. Is this why it’s fun? Because of the reactions that are pouring out in front of me?

“Everyone— thank you for your hard work! We did a great job! Really!”

As the camera approached, Big Sejin quickly opened his mouth.

I can’t say he wasn’t conscious of the camera, but it seems like his words are sincere anyway.

Originally, everyone praised everything if the results were good, and the team members started thanking each other and hugging each other.

“Thank you for your hard work!”

“T, thank you…”

Should I say something too?

“Thanks to you— it was fun. Thank you.”

“Moondae-ya…”

“Oh my, even Moondae says things like this.”

What are they doing?

I’m impressed by how much these guys were moved by every word.

Even the sullen Lee Sejin was filled with a tearful look on his face.

"…Everyone has worked hard."

"Heol. Hyung-nim."

"I'm touched."

The team members who rarely look at Lee Sejin now look at him with warm eyes as if they are not aware that the camera is there.

The atmosphere was very similar to the ending of a boy's manhwa.

I remembered the last practice session.

– Hyung! As expected, we should also strengthen our fear! But, don't you think we need to go strong? So that we don't fall behind with innocence!

– Right? Hyung, thinking about it, what about the killer!

– Oh~ that's strong!

–… It could overlap with the existence of a real person, so why not think of it as a fantasy creature?

– G, ghost…?

–… Ghost?

– Ung, u, uh, like this, if you move… Because it looks amazing, so…

– Hahaha! There are a lot of good opinions~ Let's vote by a majority of the people!

—.

…I only remembered the process of struggling to euphemize the absurd excessive claims that these talkative people were making.

At this time, I was grateful for Big Sejin. He's good at leading public opinion.

In the end, most of the arrangement was carried out according to the wishes of Big Sejin and me. This was because this punk also pushed the vampire option I chose.

Nonetheless, it has been proven that vampire popularity was better than the ghost or the killer.

So what if it's a ghost or a killer? Are they going to get cursed for sharing 10,000 units on SNS?

Anyway, I was satisfied with the good results by properly arranging fear and innocence.

And honestly—.

It's fun.

I thought I could understand why so many people wanted to do this job.

My teammates gathered around me as I took a deep breath and stood up.

I shrugged. Without it, the atmosphere wouldn't be alive.

It's also important to show the camera how good our team works, so I didn't try to get out of it.

"Let's make sure to be a team in the next team match."

"Ah, let's do it together again next time!"

"I, I like it."

“Honestly, our teamwork was the best.”

The congratulations kept coming, and when there was no longer a repertoire, they moved to the area to check out the opponent’s stage with the guidance of the staff.

As soon as we arrived at the room where the monitor was installed, the opposing team’s ＜Tiger＞ stage began.

“Oh—”

These guys were politely admiring, but they probably realized it.

That there is a big difference in how audiences cheer.

Chapter 16

The other team wasn't bad either. First of all, Ryu Chungwoo was a good match for the song, and objectively speaking, their stage was better than average compared to the stages of the other teams.

However, in the audience's head, the target of comparison with that team will not be another team.

But it was VTIC.

This is the problem with covering the latest hit song by the most popular same gender idols. The fact that the original stage is imprinted on many brains as it is currently in progress.

Even if there is someone better than VTIC, it will not be easily recognized. It was because VTIC fans were all over the Internet.

It is somewhat buried in opinions such as 'It can't be compared to VTIC'.

Of course, aside from all of this— our side did better.

Whether or not the team members knew this, their faces were bright when they went back to the stage to greet them before the vote.

The MC introduced the teams in the order of their performance.

"Ah, our 'Oktober 31' team! It was a thrilling and fun performance like Halloween! That's what the team name means, right?"

"Yes! It means Halloween's cuties! And there is another meaning."

"What is it?"

“Like 31 flavors of ice cream, it means that each of our team members has a variety of charm!”

Big Sejin looked back at the team members with a flower cup pose. Other team members quickly made poses for the introduction.

I— moderately put my finger on the cheek.

In reality, there is no such thing as a person my age doing this except when they’re drunk and try to make fun of someone disgustingly, but is there a place for a face in a survival show?

“Whaaaa!”

“Cute!!!”

Fortunately, there was no solemn response. Nevertheless, I’m glad that I was able to raise Park Moondae’s appearance stats.

Because B- was barely a ‘warmth’ and a ‘beautiful’ level of appearance.

And the opposing team’s introduction continued.

“Hello! I’m—”

It wasn’t to the point of being embarrassing, but I could tell that the other team was nervous because the cheers were different.

“Nice to meet you. I’m Ryu Chungwoo!”

“Kyaaaa!”

The only thing to believe is that there was a loud shout for Ryu Chungwoo, but it will not be enough for the team to win.

The only thing to believe is that the cheers toward Ryu Chungwoo were loud, but unfortunately, that wouldn’t be enough for the team to win.

“Shareholders, please express what’s on your mind! First of all, please vote for the team you think did better! ‘October 31’ is number one! ‘Mountain Hero’ team is number two!”

He showed the team’s number with his fingers.

As soon as the audience pressed the button on the remote control, the voting ended, and they announced a new voting method.

“All right, now you just have to pick one participant from each team who you liked the most!”

The MC emphasized this once more.

“I’m telling you once again, but it’s not putting 2 groups together!! Pick one person per team and two people in total!”

This was a bone of contention in one’s face.

Perhaps the production team wanted to show a very provocative development, so the reward for voting as an individual was better than the reward for voting as a team.

They even blew it up without notice right before the stage rehearsal.

– Everyone! The reward for the ‘individual match’ in this team match is — you’re exempt from being eliminated!

–… Yes!?

So, there were many complaints from other teams.

Fortunately, the team didn’t have this kind of conflict. Seon Ahyun was a pushover, and Gold 1 and 2 were not the ones who had the courage to speak up even if they had complaints.

Lee Sejin would have been too busy to digest his part right away, and Choi Wongil had already broken their spirits once, so he didn’t say anything unnecessary.

Big Sejin wouldn't have anything to complain about because he eventually got the position as the main dancer.

From what I can see, it doesn't seem to be because of teamwork, but because each person has too many problems to solve on their own, so they don't have the energy to cause conflict.

That's right. But it doesn't matter because it looks like it happened because of teamwork on the camera.

Anyway, the individual voting ended in a more ambiguous atmosphere than the first vote.

"Thank you!"

After a short greeting, the participants went down from the stage. Of course, that includes me.

Strangely, I felt disappointed to come down.

* * *

It was in the middle of the night when filming ended.

"Everyone, you've worked hard~."

"I think we did a good job!"

When they heard that the results of the individual match would be announced at the ranking ceremony, everyone was disappointed, but they quickly got over it.

Because it happened the same way last season, they must have half expected it, and they must have felt relaxed about it because they thought they had won the team match anyway.

Yeah, we won the team match.

– For the team match— October 31 wins! The score is 82 to 401!

– Whoa!!!

That too, with a crazy score of ’82 to 401′.

When they heard the announcement, they were stunned for 5 seconds, then cheered.

There was nothing else to say because, except for Big Sejin, the rest of them were on the verge of crying.

But these guys soon had no choice but to calm down.

– Uh…

– Donggyun-ah.

– You’ve worked hard. Well done.

There was someone on the other team who really cried.

Originally, it was hard for someone who wasn’t as sad as the first person to cry. Even more, if it is tears of joy.

As a result, the team members who were aware of the camera and the opposing team remained in an ambiguous state of joy and became extremely happy after the filming was over.

“Shall we create a group chat room? I mean, we live and work hard together so far~ shouldn’t we have a group chat?”

“Heol, that’s great!”

“I’m totally agree, leader.”

A group chat room was created under the leadership of Big Sejin.

Surprisingly, the atmosphere was good, and Lee Sejin even gave his phone number without saying anything.

“Huh!”

“Hey! Hyung-nim!”

“Wow~ All of our team members can talk affectionately like this!”

“…”

In the end, I naturally exchanged numbers and entered the group messenger room.

—I’ll probably turn off the notification later.

“Moondae~ You did a great job.”

“Yeah, you worked hard as a leader too.”

Big Sejin talked to me as I was packing my luggage. I ended the situation reasonably and politely, so it was easy for him to take it.

“Haha, I was a good leader!”

“…”

This guy must be doesn’t know about humbleness—.

“It was a joke, a joke!”

Big Sejin smiled brightly.

It didn’t look like that, so stop doing that.

“Let’s see each other often. Keep in touch!”

“Hmm, yeah.”

Big Sejin seemed to be thinking of putting me in his line.

‘It looks like he’s planning to cut off the participants who are from the same agency because they aren’t good at all.’

But I didn’t forget that this guy is a drug addict. I had no intention of taking any risks until the accusations were all cleared up.

‘I’ll skip it and tell him later that the phone is broken.’

As I was thinking about it, another voice came from the other side.

“M, me too! K, keep in tou—”

“Keep in touch?”

Seon Ahyun nodded vigorously. He should be better than Big Sejin, right?

I nodded, and Seon Ahyun’s face brightened. Big Sejin smiled and said.

“Should the three of us create the group separately? It would be nice to have a group chat with people of the same age.”

Did he have to bring it up like this?

However, thanks to Seon Ahyun’s quick approval, they instantly opened another group messenger room.

An ominous feeling passes by.

I put this worry aside because I wanted to finish the stage as soon as possible, but it bothers me that a lot of votes came in after the first team fight was tied last season.

No way will I be stuck with these guys like this?

“…”

I don’t know. Anyway, I think I did well in the team match, so I’ll probably make it through the first round.

“Everyone, go home safely~.”

“See you again!”

The participants left the filming set after greeting. I also walked out and took the bus.

I’ll have to look for the team match reviews when I go back to my temporary studio.

* * *

The audience would usually sign a formal agreement not to reveal anything about the stage until the show aired.

However, the spoiler ban was rarely properly followed anywhere.

So, reviews began to appear one after the other on anonymous sites that didn’t reveal the writers’ identities.

It was roughly like this.

[Review of RII audience]

: MallangDalkom is awesome. I’m amazed.

– Who the hell are these guys to keep showing up?

□ Is it Aggro? (t/n : 어그로 is slang meaning a behavior in which they are being disrespectful in order to bring attention to themselves.)

ㄴㄴㄴ I think they’re really good?

□ No, I mean, how do they manage to make MallangDalkom so awesome? Did you even poppin in 〈POP☆CON〉?

It was unexpected.

Even so, I thought that the team with Cha Eugene, who was ranked number one, would have more mentions, but it seems that this team has more mentions.

Of course, about half of them didn't seem to be real audiences but rather people who wanted to jump on the bandwagon and make a mockery of 〈Idol Inc.〉.

But doesn't that still mean that we made an impression on a lot of people?

I picked out some good reviews and read them.

[First team match, I will write what I remember]

…And the boys who perform with MallangDalkom's debut song are really good, and they seem to be able to debut as they are. They have a good physical combination, and the only thing that bothers me is Lee SeJin1, but he almost put it away with the atmosphere… I wonder who came up with the idea.

Oh that's right, the high-pitched sound was so good I think we could get the main vocal here

+I will put a picture as proof because I don't make things up. (Blurred stage installation photo)

□ So who else was there besides Lee Sejin?

□You said they're really good but you can't remember their name ㅋㅋㅋ Yeah, it's fake, next.

□Yeah, it's not fake, just look at the proof shot ㅋㅋ

– I looked at the profile now, and when I matched the name, there was Seon Ahyun. He was so fucking good. If there's a center, he'd be a 100% center

□ But I'm really curious how they did well ㅠㅠ MallangDalkom's debut song is so cringy.

□ They did it with an occult story, and I got goosebumps.

□ ??

□ No, it's a robot concept

ㄴㅋ Ignore the Aggro, just push the fairy concept.

ㄴㄴㄴNo, it was a werewolf concept

□ No, it's a vampire.

□ Which one is right, you crazy bastards ㅠㅠ

□ The fairy is rightㅎ

"The post is ruined."

When I looked at other posts, I saw the same people's jokes in the middle, which turned into a game.

Until the broadcast aired, there were probably only rumors, but that was a good thing. Wouldn't it be more interesting if they didn't know the details?

And since the production team will definitely look at the public opinion on the Internet, there is a high probability that this overflowing amount of mention will be a good thing for the team.

'It was enough to just look at the reaction—'

Now let's look at the priorities to deal with next.

I called back the pop-up that came to mind as soon as the stage was over.

[Successful stage!]

You impressed the majority!

– Number of audiences: 582 (Updated!)

– Impressed rate: 81% (updated!)

: Draw Rare Characteristics 🫵 Click!

The explanation is longer than before. Perhaps the number of audiences and the impressed ratio gave better characteristics every time I set a record.

So far, both of the characteristics that have been used have worked, so getting to choose a characteristic at one stage was a good reward.

Well, If I don't make my debut within a year, I will die, so this is a good balance.

'…Hmm, thinking like this suddenly makes me mad.'

Aside from that, I had leveled up after accomplishing 500 dance practices while preparing for the first team match.

However, I delayed stat distribution. This is because I wanted to invest effectively based on what the next shoot would be about.

'So let's keep this one and just draw the characteristics.'

As expected, when I clicked "draw," a slot machine appeared. I think I'm getting used to this appearance.

The slot machine spins as usual, stopping when it gets to the letters in brass color.

"Ah…"

It was a shame that I got the brass box and didn't get the silver box, which was the high grade, and there were only a few of them in that space.

‘I can’t always be lucky.’

Moreover, the content was more important than the grade.

I quickly cleared my mind and looked at the effect of the chosen characteristics.

[Characteristics: ‘Look at me! (D)’ Acquired!]

People pay a little more attention to your actions.

“…”

I was at a loss for words.

Chapter 17

t/n : (Hello everyone, I will change Big Sejin to Keun Sejin for the nickname since it sounds better for a nickname, but I will still use Big Sejin depending on the situation. Thank you!)

Of course, it would be an important talent to be noticed in the entertainment industry because there were many cases where a brief moment on stage changed one's career.

However, from the title to the content, I couldn't get rid of the impression that this characteristic was only for the attention-seeker.

Even the exact growth rate is not mentioned; it just says 'a little more.'

"Can they use this vague expression in the status window?"

Is that why it's a D-class characteristic?

But there was no miracle such a status window responded to my complaints.

I finally accepted the reality.

Yeah. The characteristics that received attention—okay. If it helped me get debuted, that would be great.

Drrrt!

As soon as I closed the status window, the smartphone vibrated. I checked right away to see if it was someone from the production team.

But it wasn't.

“What the hell?”

It was Messenger Talk.

[Lee Sejin(Keun): Moondae Moondae, don’t you check the group chat? ㅋㅋㅋㅋ]

[Lee Sejin(Keun): You didn’t even read and ignore it, you’re so cold Moondae-ya.]

“…”

I should have also turned off my personal messenger, but I didn’t think of it. Unfortunately, I couldn’t ignore the messages I’d already read when we were still going to meet in the future, so I had no choice but to send a reply.

[Me: I don’t usually look at my phone. Sorry]

[Lee Sejin(Keun): Ey, why are you apologizing for? It’s embarrassing ㅎㅎ]

[Lee Sejin(Keun): Please check the group chat soon!]

Is there any special news?

I checked the group messenger room. In the group chat with the teammates from the last team match, there were over 500 new messages.

Of course, I had no intention of reading them all. So I scrolled down and checked only the last conversation.

The team members were captured and shared comments from the last stage.

It seemed like their social life was passing by since they were using the expression ‘They said everyone on this team is handsome～’ and saying that Older and Younger Brother are handsome.

[Lee Sejin(Keun): That's right, now that I think about it, every time I look at Moondae's face on TV, his face gets more handsome. ㅎ]

[Lee Sejin (Keun): For the sake of our friendship, please share the dermatologist with us.]

This is because of level up, you punk.

Of course, I couldn't say that, so I just told him I didn't go to any.

This guy who used a word like 'confirmation demand' just to ask about the dermatologist—.

Is it just my feeling? But I feel very tired.

At that moment, the vibration rang out again.

[Seon Ahyun: Moondae-ya, how are you? Thank you for always treating me well even in the first team match. I will definitely repay you next time— (See more)]

He posted a long message in the group chat.

Then at the same time, no one posts a message suddenly.

It was unbearably quiet.

"…"

After a short reply for human reasons, I put the data right away.

When we meet at the next shoot— I have to say that I can't see Messenger Talk because I don't have wifi at home.

There were still five days left until the next filming, the production presentation.

* * *

Production presentation. A promotional event was held before the first episode aired.

In fact, the 77 participants had little to do as individuals. All we have to do is sing 〈It's Me〉 and take a few pictures of ourselves.

Of course, it was important that 'the photo gets taken' here.

This is because it has already been proven photos taken at the production presentation may play a big role in predicting the early stage voter turnout.

'Thanks to it, I got paid for taking some pictures.'

First of all, it's not just taking a picture but also a request to edit it, so the pay is pretty good.

Anyway, if I had to express my feelings standing at such a production presentation—it was like that.

'They're all faces I've seen before.'

The faces holding out their cameras from behind the reporters were familiar.

Let's analyze it a bit— let's see, first of all, I saw guys selling data one by one on the opposite side.

Except for that, most of them were fans of existing idols. Their purpose of searching for a new idol is half; half of it is just to have fun.

For that reason, it seemed like there weren't many people who took pictures with just one person in them.

After taking three or four participants in one shot, I saw that the lens was moving slightly, as if they were cropping each one of them.

Anyway, there were more people than I thought.

Slowly, it seems that the atmosphere that this program will succeed by making the controversy a hot topic is being created subtly.

'Unfortunately, I can't get out of B even if I spend my remaining points on Park Moondae's appearance.'

Maybe the appearance stat will take the benefits of the production presentation, like an A- or higher, so I have to work hard for the 〈It's Me〉 performance.

'As expected, is the face the trend—?'

Another brief regret that I should have tried to increase my appearance stats comes again.

"We'll start after the reporters enter!"

The staff shouted for us to wait as we lined up on the outdoor lawn, just as we had rehearsed at dawn.

Someone spoke to me as I was relaxing my feet between the interludes.

"I saw your performance."

"What?"

It was Cha Eugene who was standing in front of the diagonal line. If I remember it correctly, he is the participant who will take first place this season.

'But why are you talking out of context?'

I remembered that moment. It was like this last time.

Perhaps it was during the filming of the 〈It's Me〉 broadcast stage, Cha Eugene asked whether I couldn't dance, and I replied that he should judge by looking at my performance.

Don’t tell me, is this staged story an extension of that conversation?

Due to the timing, it’s likely to be the first team match if we talk about the stage between the participants now.

If that’s the case, I’ll just have to admit it. I did a good job thinking about it. But it was still out of the blue.

It’s not even a boy’s manhwa—. Did he feel a sense of rivalry?

And even more unexpectedly, Cha Eugene raised his thumb.

“You did a great job!”

“Ah, thank you.”

“Let’s team up next time.”

“It would be nice if possible.”

No matter what this guy thinks, it’s really good to be together.

I said okay without asking or arguing because I don’t have to worry about it even if it’s only an empty word.

The conversation with Cha Eugene ended there.

“D, do you—want to eat this?”

“Yeah, thank you.”

“Huh! Ahyun-nim, don’t you have anything for me?”

“Wow, it seems that Keun Sejin can’t even feed himself now that he’s no longer the leader.”

“H, here.”

I took jelly from Seon Ahyun, who was close to me, chewed it, and then finished warming up my feet.

The staff gave a signal when I was listening to the former Gold team members chatting.

“Get ready~~”

The tiring prelude came out just like it did during the first week of filming.

Anyway, this stage will be uploaded on WeTube, so let’s not make any mistakes with the choreography.

* * *

I heard someone shouting at me as soon as I finished the stage of 〈It’s Me〉 and left.

“Moondae-ya!”

Were they calling Park Moondae?

I turned around to see who it was, and it was one of the people with cameras.

When I turned around, the woman in the hoodie constantly pressed the camera’s shutter button.

—Is she only taking a picture of me? The woman shouted again as I unconsciously pointed my hand to my face.

“Moondae-ya! Heart please!”

“…”

I never thought the day would come when I heard those words.

But the opportunity was an opportunity, so I made a heart with my fingers and lifted it.

It's a little… embarrassing.

"Poke your cheek! Poke your cheek too!"

From the side, Seon Ahyun is trying to sneak out to the other side.

He seems to have already been bothered by a camera calling him before the stage.

I glanced at him.

'You do it too.'

Even if just one person joined me, it would be less embarrassing.

Whether he got the signal properly or not, Seon Ahyun creaked and came back. Then Keun Sejin came between them.

"What are you two doing? Ah, a picture~"

He put up his spoon really well.

I don't like it when people put their arms on other people's shoulders, but since there was a camera, I decided to let it go.

And then, all of a sudden, the three of us put our arms around each other's shoulders and took a picture.

'In the end, the three of us are taking pictures even before the first episode.'

It's been a while since we opened up the group messenger room.

It was a bit uncomfortable, but the water had already spilled from the first team match, so I decided not to avoid it.

Anyway, I could see the face of a woman who hardly took her eyes off the camera, as if she had gotten a good shot.

Oh—.

She was the one that bought some data from me.

When the schedule made it hard to shoot an event directly, many homepage masters bought it, edited it, and uploaded it as if it was taken by themselves.

Yeah, that person was also in demand.

Let's see, I remember that she was being sarcastic when she said that as a data seller, I have no conscience when I raise the price.

…Still, I've never taken a picture of them in their private life, like when they're leaving an airport.

And if the data didn't sell, it was shared for free on the fan community or on WeTube.

'Well… Anyway I have nothing to say even if I get cursed at.'

Even if the company is leaving it alone for business reasons, they are indeed ignoring other people's right to do business there.

Anyway, I don't know if that crime is why I didn't make my debut and will be killed suddenly.

Maybe to understand how an idol feels when they are being photographed.

"Park Moondae is really cute!!"

"…"

Wow… I really can't get used to it.

Come to think of it, the male idol I was filming was involved in a drunk driving accident at the end of last year.

'That guy, his position is the main vocalist—'

Maybe because of Park Moondae… I guess that will change.

I felt a strange feeling and waved my hand.

Anyway, the data for the production presentation is precious, so I hope they take it well.

'It would be better if they upload the photos before Friday.'

Just this Friday, 'Relisting! Idol Inc.' started airing for the first broadcast.

* * *

Tnet Headquarters. The editing room located in the corner of the 9th floor was full of office workers who stayed up all night.

Ryu Seorin, who cast Park Moondae, was one of them.

"Seorin-ah, your eyes are red. Have some coffee."

"I don't have time. Just give me coffee, please."

It was her 7th cup today.

All of the faces that were looking at the video data and drinking coffee like it was water were tired.

Ryu Seorin's former senior sighed.

"Editing the first episode is important."

"…Yes. You can see the direction of the program."

What to show and what to cut.

“Yeah, everything needs a story to be fun.”

“It’s fun when people can immerse themselves in it even if they don’t think about it.”

It’s fun to have a narrative in an audition program. And the viewer is interested only when the narrative is easy to see.

This was almost considered a widely-accepted theory.

“Right, so—I’ll think up to the 4th episode and build up to it from the 1st episode.”

“That’s right. The result of the first team match is the end of the episode—we have to catch the flow of the story and capture the characters of the kids.”

Of course. Neither Writer Ryu Seorin nor her former senior had a strong authority to decide that.

‘In the end, it’s important what the main PD thinks.’

She took her hand off the video for a moment.

“Are you going to rest?”

“…I’d like to make a suggestion.”

“Oh, editing?”

“Yes.”

“Well~ That’s fine. Even in season 1… Was it Lee Goyoon? PD Jung accepted what you said about editing the story of that ordinary participant.”

Should I try? Ryu Seorin snorted inwardly at her former senior’ words.

‘I did it because I was aiming for good timing.’

This was just the time.

Because of their comradeship, people who were exhausted sometimes forgot their sense of authority.

“This time it’s… well, there’s no one to push for, and it’s a good suggestion.”

“Yes, we just need to think about the ratings.”

Since the last season ended early because of a scandal, there were not many requests from big agencies.

If so, what kind of participants should be shown so that viewers will feel catharsis when the team match is aired?

There were hidden meanings in the playful words. Ryu Seorin shrugged.

“Ey, where do the production crew make all those things? Originally people will be like that. They want to keep liking the kids they like, and they want to keep hating the kids they hate.”

“Hmm.”

Her former senior kept silent when she tied it up with the production crew.

“We’re just making it easier for viewers to immerse themselves in it, well.”

“That’s true.”

Her former senior gently lowered the words. This is because Ryu Seorin definitely had a sense.

So, she changed the subject and did it again as if she knew everything.

“So this time you chose the underdog? That’s because the editor has a lot to touch on.”

“…”

Underdog effect.

Just like David beat Goliath, when the weak beat the strong, it was a thrilling turn of events that made the weak go crazy.

And it was one of the most fun narratives an audition program could show.

Of course, the editor had to do a lot of work to make the right effect happen. Because it has to be well put together.

“Are you going to suggest that kid? You kept looking back.”

“Well… I see it.”

Ryu Seorin split roughly, but in reality, she was positive.

‘No matter what I think… I have to give it to that kid.’

Recalling from the video that she was turning around Ryu Seorin, she has already decided.

“Fighting~”

She responded appropriately to her former senior’ unintentional words and visited the main PD to talk to him.

“Excuse me, PD.”

And she was half sure that the main PD was thinking the same thing as her

Chapter 18

“Wow, I’m so nervous!”

“It would be nice if we came out a lot.”

The auditorium of the dorm was filled with the voices of the sweaty teenagers.

‘They’re in a good spirit.’

I came to the set at night, wore uncomfortable uniforms, and sat in an uncomfortable iron chair while they were filming.

There are cameras everywhere, so it’s hard for me to show how uncomfortable I am. Was it only me?

Gold 1, 2, and Keun Sejin must have grown tired of talking among themselves, so they came all the way here and put up with it.

“Moondae Hyung-nim, how do you feel about the first episode?”

“Ah~ Are you ready to become a legend in ranking evaluation?”

“It’s amazing! Moondae-ssi!”

“Stop it—”

My life is a legend when I can’t ignore this nonsense, really—.

I want to drink something cold.

‘…Oh, there’s a drink.’

Now that I see, there was an ionized drink under each seat. Seeing that the brand is clearly visible, it seems that the PPL was finally opened.

It wasn't made by a famous brand, but anyway it was still good. I took a drink and drank it.

And I almost spit it out.

"…"

I can understand why they put the PPL in.

Because it tastes terribly bad.

"Countdown will begin soon! Please shout along from 10!"

A number appeared on the screen of the beam projector in front of me as the logo disappeared at the same time as the sound of the staff shouting.

"10! 9! 8!—"

When the countdown ended and the melody of the theme song 〈It's Me〉 played, cheers and applause erupted from all over the place.

And that's how the long-awaited first episode aired.

* * *

The first episode was aired for two hours as a special program.

This means that the participants sat on iron chairs for 120 minutes and didn't move except for the broadcast reaction.

However, I don't think the participants were concerned about that.

The important thing is one.

‘How long have I been on the show?’

Of course, there must have been many more disappointed participants.

How was I?

Yeah, once the filming is done, let’s review the contents with the reactions I found on the Internet.

First, the screen showed all kinds of responses from the Internet, like articles criticizing 〈Idol Inc.〉 and the best comments.

And the caption came up.

[A lot of controversies!]

[How did the actual filming of 〈Relisting! Idol Inc.〉 go?]

The viewers reacted the same way as before.

They seem to be continuing to watch the show while cursing.

– I mean, to think you don’t skip that kind of thing and just show it? As expected, the cable class isn’t going anywhere. ㅋㅋ

– I feel like I’m eating Mala-flavored popcorn

– It’s not fun. Show me the kids.

Fortunately, the opening passed quickly, and the first participant appeared.

[Ah~ I’m so nervous!]

‘Oh, Choi Wongil.’

That’s right. The group evaluation to which Choi Wongil belongs appeared first. Choi Wongil received quite a lot of screen time as a typical youngest position.

'I'm sure the first contestant was someone else.'

After that, the first participant didn't get any more screen time.

'He won't be coming out anymore in the future.'

Overall, it was like that.

It was chosen on its own by the people on the production crew. Some participants didn't even get the reaction cut properly.

Interestingly, the participants from my previous group received quite a bit of screen time.

Starting with Choi Wongil, the evaluations of Keun Sejin and Gold 1 and 2 were aired before the first part ended.

The feeling was fine. When entering a team match, starting with a good team is good.

'Of course, the most important thing is that my screen time is long.'

If my evaluation had not been fully edited, it should have been in the first episode in time order.

And fortunately, it came out.

[Next participant, enter now!]

My first screen appearance was at the end of part 1.

It was a strange feeling to see Park Moondae walking up to the stage on the screen. It feels like watching someone imitate what I did.

Keun Sejin and Golds started hitting me in the back, grabbing my shoulders, and shaking them from behind.

They don't give me any room to think.

"Hey, hey, hey, you're coming out! Can you see it?"

"…Yeah, it's me."

If they shake it more, I won't be able to see even if I have eyes, so stop it.

Since I can't say that, I returned the response appropriately and focused on the screen again.

The conversation between the judges was revealed.

[Yes, participants. Please introduce yourself.]

[…My name is Park Moondae. Please take good care of me.]

After Park Moondae's greeting on stage was over, the interview was inserted immediately. It was a good sign because it showed that it went through editing.

[Q: Is there anything you want to say?]

[Park Moondae: No. (silence)]

[Park Moondae: There's nothing in particular.]

BGM without laughter and chilling sound effects were a bonus.

"…Uhm."

Let's see—it must have answered the question of whether I had any problems with other team members.

How do they bring that up?

The edit made the word 'positive sign' disappear in 7 seconds.

‘How cheap.’

The judges’ absurd reactions flowed more exaggeratedly from the screen.

[No, is that all?]

[Yes. I have no experience to introduce.]

As soon as the answer was finished, another interview cut appeared.

[Park Moondae: (Before this show) I have no experience in the entertainment industry.]

[Q: Have you received any training?]

[Park Moondae: I don’t have one.]

They thought I wanted to be X here.

I said it on purpose because I thought they might edit it, but I didn’t know it would be a short answer.

At this time, the Internet reaction was also brutal.

– His answer is so insincere.

– Is that the concept?

– He doesn’t seem to be motivated, so why is an ordinary person like him crawling out here?;;

It will make me so mad if he really can’t do anything.

And all the judges’ absurd whispers on the screen were shown with subtitles.

[Ah, looking at the application form here, there is really nothing.]

[Right.]

The stiff looks of the participants who had previously been judged and the cuts when they whispered to each other came out in an instant. I wonder where that cut came from.

The screen effect was added to make it seem like the judge was about to say something sarcastic.

[Then let's take a look at your performance]

[Yes.]

On the screen, Park Moondae grabbed the microphone, and the accompaniment flowed out.

[Ding ding! It's the sound of an ice purifier~]

The came out.

It was an ad in the middle of the show, which is something that only cable shows can do.

"Heol!"

"Hyung, don't worry too much."

Exaggerated reactions and worries poured out around me.

"Are you okay?"

'The guy who hasn't come out yet is worried about me…?'

I think it's because of the camera that they get into the atmosphere.

I answered bluntly.

"Well, as long as it's aired."

Of course, it was bullshit. No matter what I actually do, it will be done with the editing.

However—.

I laughed inwardly.

'I don't think it will kill me at all.'

Since the came in the middle of the evaluation, it was fine to break the flow once.

The short ended quickly, and the prelude flowed again.

By this time, public opinion on the Internet was hitting the ground. (t/n: 땅을 치다 means regretting and being upset. People often say "땅 치고 후회하다" He bitterly regretted having missed the opportunity.)

– I'm not really curious about it, but there's even an. ㅋ

– Ah, give the dose to the kids who can do it, not the ones who can't.

– I don't want to accept the concept of ordinary people.

– I don't want to see you anymore because you think you're really good at survival

The comments stopped for a moment when Park Moondae grabbed the microphone and started singing.

[I remember the 'me' I used to know…]

[…!!]

The images of the judges with their eyes wide open and the participants suddenly raising their heads kept coming in without a break.

– ?

– What?

– Huh?

– Why is he good?

– What the hell, he's good ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

To be honest, I was just as embarrassed as the internet reaction.

'…I'm good.'

With the editing added, it came out as if some kind of hermit genius appeared in the audition.

Even the vague hand movements that can't even be called choreography were cut off so well, it looked plausible.

It was a much more favorable edit than I thought.

'I guessed that they were trying to make it interesting by killing expectations in front and showing the stage well.'

[As if every day is a PARTY, ooh~]

There was even a cut in the second half of the high notes where the judge Mudie covered her mouth.

'I don't think that's from my evaluation?'

Are you going to cut it off in an interview and turn it around like this?

When I felt bitter, people's opinions on the Internet quickly changed.

– Wow, he's really good.

– The feeling of wanting to escape from this ordinary people.

– Oh, the high notes are amazing

– His voice is good ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ I'm embarassed.

– It's been a while since I saw someone sing 'PARTY in ME' well ㅠㅠㅠ is he Park Moondae? I will buy the stock.

The production crew even saved a brief silence after the song ended.

[Thank you for listening]

[…]

The close-ups of the other participant's reactions and the silence made for an unnecessary dramatic scene.

The judges' reactions were also shown quickly, and the choreographer's words were given large captions as if they were just famous sayings.

[You know you did a good job, right?]

[…I practiced hard to sing well.]

[No, you're just born with this. You're talented.]

If there is a problem, it is that my reaction to the words became relatively boring after editing it like that.

And it was probably on purpose.

[Then you've never had a special lesson?]

[Yes.]

[Not at all? So, academy too?]

[Yes.]

Because it was like this when looking at the internet reaction.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ Yeah, I don't think he practiced hard.

– Moondae-ya, your answer is soulless.

– There was a time when his soul was singing, where did it go?

The only good thing was that I didn't think 'Park Moondae's response was harsh or that the comments were full of jokes.

Hmm. The strands were barely caught.

'Tactless— did I get into the character of A My-Pace-Ordinary talented person?' (T/n : 마이페이스 means personality that goes out in his or her own way without being swayed by what others say or do.)

There's a bit of cursing, but it wasn't a bad start.

No, it was rather good.

I thought I would easily pass the second round with this early recognition, as long as the team match editing didn't get too crazy after that.

'If this is the flow, I might be able to wrap the dance appropriately and hand it over.'

With a feeling of hope, the content started to show up on the screen. Finally, it was the content when judge Youngrin asked me to dance.

The reaction on the Internet in this area was ambiguous.

– It looks like he can't dance.

– Wow they're making him dance.

– I think it's going to be solemn ㅠㅠ

– I'm already embarrassed

[Yes. So, is this song possible?]

[Huh…?]

But as soon as Park Moondae showed up and asked for a song right away, and the staff was shocked by what he said, the comments started to get excited again.

– What is it?

– What? What did you request?

– Why are the hands of the staff shaking? ㅋㅋㅋ

– I can't even imagine what it is.

And when the incredibly lively 〈POP☆CON〉 came out, all the editing and comments went crazy.

[!!!!]

When Park Moondae danced 〈POP☆CON〉 with a serious expression and was cross-edited with subtitles full of exclamation points and the judges spouting water, the atmosphere went to another world.

"…"

"Pfft."

The voices of the participants, who were laughing all over the place, could be heard.

Sincerely… I was embarrassed.

'No… I was just trying to make it look like I was working hard even for an easy song.'

It came out like a crazy person who was serious about popcorn.

I was worried that it could become an internet meme like this, but as expected, I had to look at the score to find out.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– What is this, Moondae so cute, though? ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Then he's so serious about the stage.

– You're really working hardㅋㅋㅋㅋ

'The reaction is… good?'

The reaction was better than when I sang. Oh My God.

Chapter 19

To be honest, I was quite nervous until I opened my smartphone to check the reaction of the 1st episode.

‘I thought I might become too much of a laughingstock—’

However, surprisingly, viewers reacted more favorably to me than mockingly.

Even when the chorus of ＜POP☆CON＞ came out, public opinion completely turned around.

In a favorable nuance.

– It’s so fun.

– You’re cute ㅠㅠ You’re very focused.

– Just be honest, you come to the audition to do this ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

-Yeah, if you come out, you have to work hard. It’s good to see you like this.

– No, I mean, he looks like a different person from the interview ㅋㅋㅋ

– So cute.

‘This is cute?’

It was true that I prepared the song selection strategically.

However, I thought it would be at the level of ‘I’ve worked hard, so I’ll pass,’ but it was an unexpected gain.

Isn't it the rule of an audition program viewer to despise someone bad?

I was a little confused, but soon I understood the situation.

'It's because I sang well just before.'

First of all, since it's a situation when the singer has to be good at singing to meet their traditional expectations, even if the dance is only not at an embarrassing level, they would be able to leave it generously.

However, the character seems more emphasized by taking care of the laughter.

That character was—a bit embarrassing, though.

'I chose a general answer on purpose, but it came out like this.'

Basically, it was to not leave room for a clue to be held. (꼬투리를 잡히다 or a clue is held meaning is for something to become a pretext for someone to provoke a quarrel.)

In addition to that, in order to emphasize the main vocal position, I have responded smoothly to everything.

In the interview, I didn't mention any personal opinions and only said objective words that wouldn't go against the social consensus.

'But— I had no idea people would prefer a nuance like soulless.'

Anyway, even if it is the wrong way, it doesn't matter as long as I reach Seoul. I tried to take KTX, but it means I don't mind taking the express bus. (T/n : 모로 가도 서울만 가면 된다 used when one wants to say that achieving a goal is more important than how it is done. So even if it is the wrong way, it doesn't matter as long as you reach Seoul.)

'I got through the first step well.'

It was clear that I had secured early recognition. This is not just a hunch but a real result.

This is because the status window popped up while I watched the broadcast.

[The beginning of fame (2)!]

10,000 people remembered your existence!

: Point +1

[Calling for fame!]

50,000 people remembered your existence!

: Draw Rare Characteristics ☜ Click!

With one broadcast, the number jumped to 50,000.

'The sense of reality disappears.'

I decided to look at the rewards that appeared in the pop-up later and instead opened the search box and entered keywords.

[Relisting! Idol Inc. ratings]

The results came right away.

[Average ratings: 3.7%, Highest ratings in one moment: 6.8%]

Oh my God.

'…Isn't this the first episode of the failed cable entertainment program?'

I guess I succeeded in pulling the aggro properly. (T/n : aggro is a meaningless behavior or talk to take others' attention.)

Of course, objectively speaking, it wasn't a crazy high rating.

Regardless of whether people liked me or not, the fact that 100,000 of them remembered Park Moondae means that I made quite an impression.

Now, let's take a closer look at the 'likes and dislikes' section.

After checking the overall flow of public opinion in the first episode, I immediately checked my evaluation video clip.

[Pure 100% twist of an ordinary participant! park Moondae]

I feel like my hands and feet have disappeared. (T/n: It's an idiom people use when they find themselves in a very embarrassing situation.)

'…Let's get it out of my head quickly.'

Then I checked the best comments first.

– Huh? POP☆CON is here? ㅋㅋ👍 7326/ 👎181)

– I fell asleep while watching, and then I woke up. Moondae-ya, Nuna will buy you every single one of them until you become famous. (👍4522 / 👎294)

– Yep, the main vocalist this time is Park Moondae (👍2061 / 👎372)

"Hmm."

First of all—It was a good sign that the embarrassingly liked comments were at the top. It was a bit strange— but thank you.

However, the critical factor was a fairly high rate of 'Dislike'.

Compared with other contestants who have been favorably edited—for example, Cha Eugene, I think it's roughly 1.5 times bigger.

It meant that there were quite a few people who didn't like 'Park Moondae' who appeared on the broadcast. So maybe it's the thing that's not social that's the problem.

So, what is the most effective appeal I can make at this point?

The negative image that has already been created is unavoidable, but there are many idols who use this as a gimmick to make them laugh.

Just thinking about it right now— hmm, there's probably more than one for every idol group.

So there's only one thing I have to do in the next shoot.

'I have to look friendly.'

I immediately came up with the next search word.

[Idol Inc. PR Video.]

The next shooting was the production of a PR video.

There are still three days left, so let's find the most meaningful examples before then.

* * *

The PR video shooting for 〈Idol Inc.〉 was done live.

However, they recorded the process of preparing the PR video like an entertainment show. It was a small content that was used to kill time at the ranking announcement.

"Everyone! Are you ready?"

"Yes!"

Participants answer with great enthusiasm when they hear the clear sound of the MC in charge.

'…I feel like I see this every time I shoot… Or is it a mistake?'

Anyway, the important thing was that the participants became more desperate.

"I'm glad that everyone doing well! Okay, do you know what we are preparing for today?"

"PR video!"

"Introduce yourself!"

Because I'm sure everyone has seen the reaction to the first episode.

Everyone must have realized. No matter what they do in front of the camera, it's like nothing happens if it doesn't air.

'So no matter what they do, they can't help but be desperate for a PR video that's being broadcast live.'

In fact, it was never a fair competition.

The live broadcast competition, which was held in a situation where the first episode already decided recognition of the participants, was as if the result had been decided halfway.

However, in the midst of that, there was always a person who turned it over to a PR video every season, so everyone seemed to be desperately preparing for the video without saying anything.

It was a live broadcast of 77 amateurs, so of course, all kinds of controversies followed, but—it seemed like no one cared about that.

The participants will think it's fine as long as it's not them, and the production team will like the rising buzz.

"You'll be doing a live broadcast exclusively for yourself on Tnet's Global WeTube Channel at 8pm tonight!"

“I’m really nervous.”

In terms of placement, Keun Sejin, who was standing nearby, was a bit quiet.

He didn’t look nervous at all—what a liar.

“Ah, wait a minute. I think I said something wrong!”

“?!?”

“The live broadcast is not just for you!’

As if the MC was enjoying the reaction, he encouraged the response with his arms. The panicked participants shouted.

“What do you think is your dream as a celebrity?”

“Dream—?”

“It’s an , everyone!”

“…!”

The MC spread his arms wide.

“You should each choose a collaboration item to advertise and promote your item with yourself!”

“Yes?!”

These bastards are determined to eat raw. (T/n: 날로 먹다 means that someone gets something easily without working hard.)

Even though that collaboration item sounds plausible, I’d bet my left hand that it was T1’s product that Tnet was just promoting.

It doesn’t matter if you only get one or two to see if something goes viral or not.

It was capitalistic enough to be counted among the crazy tactics of <Idol Inc.>.

'Didn't someone rush in at the top?'

The series, which I thought was ruined and ignored, suddenly got a response, so I put a spoon on it. (t/n: I think 숟가락을 얹다 (if someone only puts a spoon on the table) means something like he is responsible for the most part of an achievement, so someone who deserves the credit for that achievement.)

Anyway, the MC's words were plausible.

"This item may feel like a burden to promote, but please remember that it can also be used as a prop to show off your charm!"

"Ah~"

The participants seemed to be convinced. It was a wise attitude because there was nothing to be done just because they couldn't understand it.

"Then how do you get these props that you'll have?"

"Running?"

"Rock, paper, scissors?"

"Karaoke?"

Examples of programs similar to last season have been shown here and there. The MC shook his head with a sad expression and shouted the correct answer.

"Right away… It's a treasure hunt!"

"Heol?"

“The production crew hid treasure balls with ‘items’ throughout the dorm. You have the next 15 minutes! All you have to do is find the treasure ball!”

Keun Sejin nodded, and his face showed a little bit of admiration.

“I think this will be fun?”

“…Yeah.”

The arrangement that will be interesting to the viewer is right. And the Participants who do this are perfect for dogfights.

With 77 people going through a building, there must be something upsetting.

Of course, they used the contents of the ranking announcement ceremony to relieve tension. It didn’t seem like it would be overly serious.

However, there were plenty of ways to shed subtle nuances.

‘I can already see all kinds of speculation and rumors coming up on the Internet.’

“Ah! Like an audition program, the treasure ball also has a grade. Please keep that in mind and check the ball carefully!”

It must have been painted in gold, silver, and bronze color.

“All right, get ready—”

Everyone is ready to run.

“Start!”

“Whoa!!!”

With screams, 77 people rushed into the dormitory. I sneaked out and took a step back.

‘Let’s go through the back door.’

No matter how much I thought about it, it was likely that I wouldn’t be able to get any of the treasure if I went with them through the main door.

If I go back and go through the side door, I will have less competition with the other participants.

Then Keun Sejin and Gold 1 followed me.

It sounded like a swindler was groaning.

“Thank you, Moondae-ya. The bus is comfortable.”

“Hyung-nim is smart.”

“…”

It doesn’t matter if there are two of them— but I’m pissed off about how it’s going.

Gold 2 and Seon Ahyun, who were standing a little further apart, seemed to have been swept away by the crowd and entered the front door.

As expected, life is all about timing. What a pity.

* * *

“Oh, Moondae~ You found it right away.”

As soon as I entered through the back door, I immediately found a ball on the threshold.

It was silver.

‘As expected.’

Keun Sejin also nodded, looking at the opaque silver ball.

“The grade, I think it’s divided by bronze, silver and gold, right?”

“Hey, let’s use Korean words that are fair and beautiful! Gold, silver and bronze! How nice is it!”

“Kk~ you’re a patriot.”

If they talk more, let’s just throw them away.

“…Why don’t we speed up the search? The others will be here soon.”

“Yes~”

“Since Moondae is realistic, Hyung feel safe.”

I moved my feet quickly. Surprisingly, the two followed without making any noise.

First, the storage room.

“It’s easy if we think about it the other way. Where can the production crew hide it— hmm, here?”

Keun Sejin smiled and took out a bronze colored ball from the pencil case in front of the camera.

“…!”

“Ah~ bronze. Is this real?”

“Ah, damn it. This dirty hand is not going anywhere.” (T/n: 똥손 means bad at picking something or unlucky person.)

Surprisingly—it’s worth using.

These guys were quick. Thanks to them, I divided the areas without saying much and searched all the storage in an instant.

“Ah, I found another silver! Shall we move now?”

“I agree.”

“I agree.”

They’re also quick to judge the situation. I moved quickly to the next area without waiting.

“Where?”

“Let’s go to the restaurant first. There’s a camera.”

“Moondae has good eyes.”

“As expected, he’s the man who found the back door.”

“…”

It—would have been better if I hadn’t said that.

There was no time to waste at the restaurant.

All three of them started searching around the area where the cameras were located.

It was when I opened the spoon and chopsticks box.

“I found it.”

“Heol!”

“It’s gold.”

I got a gold ball.

“Why do all of us have a gold grade, but Moondae was the first one to find it?”

“It can’t be helped. Hyung-nim. I think it’s because Moondae has a golden hand.” (T/n : 금손 or golden hand means good at picking something or lucky person.)

“That’s right. As expected, you can’t beat someone who’s born with it~”

“The other kids are coming.”

“Ah.”

They finally know how to shut up. All I have to do is give them something to do.

Anyway, when I heard rushing footsteps, I left the restaurant quickly.

“Go upstairs?”

“Yes.”

The same search was repeated upstairs as it was. It was efficient this way.

“Hey~ It’s good that the three of us came!”

“That’s right! Honestly, Moondae agrees with this, right?”

“Yeah.”

“Oh~”

I’ll be honest.

I’ve benefited from these two guys. It was efficient when three people searched together.

Overall, they had good eyesight and movement, so it was easy to search and move quickly. Their judgement was also good.

Not the strangely stubborn ones, but the distribution ended nicely.

“Then we— did we find 4 gold, 2 silver, and 4 bronze?”

Keun Sejin presented a palm-sized plastic ball.

Gold 1 said carefully.

“Yeah. Well— each of us has one of each color, and Moondae took us away, so let’s give it gold instead of silver. What do you think?”

“I like it~”

It’s good that it ended neatly, but I shouldn’t leave any room for evil editing.

When I first realized the power of editing, I felt very uncomfortable.

“Oh, then I won’t take the bronze one. Take two each.”

“Oh~ Thank you!”

“Okay!”

As we each took our own balls, an announcement came out at the dormitory.

– There are 200 seconds left~

For reference, we were hiding in a storage room next to the back door of the road to avoid the crowds of participants.

It wouldn’t be ridiculous to be robbed here.

“Hyung, the kids are coming in!”

“Hey! Let’s run!”

We quickly exited the back door and headed for the meeting point.

“Ah~ farming nice~.”

“After all, it’s our teamwork. It’s relentless.”

These brats have all relaxed, and they’re all talking again.

Participants who had already found one or two balls opened them on their own at the meeting point.

So far, no one has tried to steal it by force.

‘They’ll notice that there are cameras all over the place.’

They seemed to be psychologically hesitant to steal the opponent’s ball openly.

“Wow, shall we open it too?”

“Okay~”

“Yeah.”

We started to open up the ball when we returned to our position.

Keun Sejin and Gold 1 had a lot of balls in their hands, so there were a lot of jealous eyes.

Still, two higher grades would be better. Even if they get a few vague things, it’s hard for them to choose just one.

I turned two gold balls open.

And I hardened.

“…”

Wait.

Chapter 20

Each of the two gold balls obtained through the treasure hunt contained a note.

[Guitar.]

[Flower Crown.]

"…Ah."

There's no answer.

Guitar? I can't play it.

Flower crown? Maybe the content can be mixed with the appearance stat A grade.

No, even if I put all my points on my appearance, the flower crown wasn't a good option.

Because it is an item with which I am unfamiliar with.

Both items are objectively high in grade, but to me, they are landmines.

'I'm going crazy.'

I should exchange it with a note that Keun Sejin or Gold 1 didn't pick it. If not, probably with other participants.

The moment I was about to turn around, the participants poured into the meeting place.

– There are 20 seconds left~~

“Whoaaa!”

“Hey, wait! Wait!”

When they heard the announcement, it looked like they ran quickly to the meeting place so they wouldn’t lose the ball.

Is it possible to break through that gap and make a trade request?

When I had an uneasy feeling, a familiar face caught my eye.

It was Seon Ahyun, whose face was pale.

He had a bronze ball in his hand.

I have to say that saving even a bronze ball is impressive with that personality.

But judging by the look on his face, he didn’t seem to have been able to get it.

At that moment, I saw the note inside the bronze ball that had already been opened.

[Frozen food]

It’s a jackpot.

I quickly got through the crowd and approached Seon Ahyun.

– 5 seconds left!

Seon Ahyun had a perplexed look.

– 5!

“H, hey—”

“Do you know how to play the guitar?”

– 4!

“That, yeah, I, I can play—”

“Do you like flowers?”

– 3!

“Y, yes.”

“Then, do you want to exchange it with me?”

– 2!

“H, huh?”

I’ll take it as a positive answer.

– 1!

I handed over two gold balls in my hand and took the bronze ball.

– Ding! The treasure hunt is over!

Seon Ahyun had a bewildered expression on his face.

As cheers and sighs echoed around me, I joyfully looked down at the bronze ball in my hand.

It was a great trade.

I traded one bronze ball for two gold balls. There’s no way I’ll get criticized for that, right?

* * *

＜Relisting! Idol Inc.＞’s PR live starts at 7:50 pm on Thursday.

Related communities and SNS on the Internet were full of opinions and excitement.

– 77 people are wasting their time by doing the same live broadcasts again this season? ㅋㅋㅋ Even if they failed, they couldn’t even make up their minds. ㅋㅋㅋ

– These crazy bastards suck at PPL, but they are openly advertising it? How vulgar.

– ★☆ Kim Raebin ☆★ is doing a live broadcast with this face. Even if you don’t say anything, it’s amazing content, right? (Photo)

– Even if our Eugene advertises a massage chair, I will buy it right away.

– I’m so annoyed that these pigs are playing with this kind of commercial trick.

 So if you purchase through the video link, all profits will be donated?

 Anyway, the crazy female fans will believe in everything~ ㅋㅋㅋ Yeah, the next pigs.

– I hope it ends well without hurting the participantsㅠㅠㅠㅠ

 That’s the funniest thing. ㅋㅋㅋㅋ What are you saying?

It was a chaotic place where different types of human beings expressed freely, but there was one thing that was certain.

It is said that the number of times participants were mentioned jumped several times.

Those who saw the first episode and felt favorable to the participants themselves were really waiting with anticipation for the content.

And at 8 pm as scheduled.

'Real-time broadcasting' has appeared on the WeTube channel.

– Hey, it's up.

– Yeah.

– It's coming.

– I can't watch it because I'm working overtime. Please relay the number of viewers. Who is the first place?

□ Cha Eugene! There's a thousand times difference from last place. ㅋㅋㅋㅋ I see seven people in last place. Poor thing ㅠ

– Wongil did apple hair ㅠㅠㅠ Everyone, come see us

– Crazy, Seon Ahyun wore a flower crown. His face is crazy.

Soon all kinds of sales posts about the participants began to be rampant. There were a lot of comments that only said what they had to say, and it was almost to the point of covering up malicious comments.

It was then.

– Huh, who's filming a Mukbang?

□ ? What are you talking about?

□ No, I mean, what is he eating so earnestly?

□ What are you talking about in the self-introduction video?

□ No, it's real;;; (link.)

Some people who are interested click the link and watch the video.

“Hello.”

Park Moondae’s face appeared on the screen.

While holding chicken feet in his hand.

Participants couldn’t see the real-time comments, but Park Moondae’s live comments were already exploding.

– No, I mean, Moondae-ya, why are you holding chicken feet?

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ Moondae again.

– After popcorn, boneless chicken feet appeared.

– Wasn’t it a self-introduction video? Is there chicken feet for real?

– Why the hell did you choose this? Is it a penalty? ㅋㅋㅋ

– I really want to communicate. I really want to ask a question ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

In contrast to the comment box, Park Moondae continued to say that the chicken feet in his hand aren’t a big deal.

“Well, the product I’m promoting today is— the boneless grilled chicken feet from T1 Foods.”

Park Moondae was sitting at a table that had an iron plate on it.

The boneless chicken feet in disposable gloves look delicious, but compared to the other participants’ video thumbnails, they created a strong impression of differentiation.

“First—I’ll eat and review it.”

Park Moondae boldly eats the chicken feet in one bite. Then he chewed hard, swallowed, and opened his mouth again.

“First of all, the grilled taste is good, and it’s not too spicy, so I think I can keep eating it. Since there is no smell, the aftertaste is clean. The texture is also really good.”

– Is he a former WeTuber who specialized in Mukbang?

– I told you to talk about yourself! Moondae, you can talk about food to the public ㅠㅠ

– Let’s give up. I should have known because you worked so hard with popcorn.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ Ah, this is so funny.

– Our Moondae lacks social skills, but he’s a good kid.

The comments roared at Park Moondae, who was sincere about the review. But soon, the atmosphere changed again.

Park Moondae’s Mukbang was more worth watching than they thought.

– But he eats really well.

– He ate it quickly without spilling it.

– When he chews with his mouth closed, he looks so cute. ㅠㅠ

– I think he’ll score points if all he does at the meeting is eat.

– Moondae-ya, I hope you can eat chicken feet wrapped in perilla leaves ㅠㅠ

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ Mission complete.

– You eat so well while putting it in your mouth.

– As expected, it’s nice to see you eat well.

And Park Moondae diligently continued the review.

The comment box turned over when he brought out tuna mayo triangle kimbap and said it was good with chicken feet.

By then, there had already been a post on SNS and in the community.

[Idol Inc. participant who's doing a real-time Mukbang.jpg]

: Wow, Park Moondae is eating chicken feet

I thought he was the main vocalist, but he's a Mukbang star on WeTube?

I think Park Moondae's PR video is crazy ㅋㅋ

The number of viewers increased quickly.

The number of viewers of Park Moondae, which was originally quite high, was now entering the top 5.

Participants couldn't see the comments, but they could see the number of viewers. Park Moondae blinked when he saw the number of viewers surpassing 10,000 viewers.

"There are… a lot of viewers. Thank you. I'll do my best."

– Moondae-ya, it's not like that, please talk about yourself now ㅠㅠ

– Why is it so nice to see him eating?

– Is he a new Mukbang BJ? Hw eat well.

– He is an idol audition participant!

– He is a participant who sings well. ㅋㅋㅋ

– But why is he eating?

– We don't know that either. ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– I never thought that he would keep eating and not sing even one verse.

Park Moondae was reviewing the taste of triangle kimbap in detail.

At that moment, an alarm went off on the clock in the corner of Park Moondae's desk.

"Oh, the time is up."

They were basically given 10 minutes to do the PR video live.

And, after converting the number of viewers and likes into numbers, only the top 33 received 5 minutes of extra time and a special gift.

'These bastards are acting without conscience while even forcing us to do promotions,' Park Moondae thought, but he only nodded his head without expressing it.

"It might be over, so I'll greet you in advance. Thank you."

Park Moondae gave a slight nod. After a short pause, as if he were thinking, he added.

"…Please watch Episode 2 of <Relisting! Idol Inc>."

– It's an example sentence given by the production team, I will bet 1,000 won

– This kid really can't say empty words ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– It's okay, Moondae, you're cute.

– That's right, he's cute.

– He's good at singing and good at eating. Grandma is happy because of this baby.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋ Everyone got into it, it's really funny ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

About 10 seconds after Park Moondae's greetings, the screen suddenly showed a bell ringing.

"Ah, I think the results are out."

Park Moondae took the old smartphone from under the desk. It looks like the production team sent him a text message with the results.

However, the comments that already knew that Park Moondae remained in the top 33 were paying attention to something else.

– It's an old-fashioned phone.

– It's frugal.

– He's so smart.

– If you don't use Apple Phone, you will be treated as a primitive person, and you use an old phone… are they drawn to it?

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ Everyone must be crazy.

– Moondae-ya, Noona will buy you an Apple Phone. So our Moondae, let's debut ㅠㅠ

Park Moondae chose a free phone to live a minimum life within the budget, but an unexpected synergy was coming out.

Anyway, since Park Moondae also guessed his high rank, there was no tension when the results were announced.

"Ah, I'm in the top 33 so I can continue broadcasting. Thank you for the next 5 minutes and please take care of me. I will work hard."

Park Moondae bowed his head and quickly picked up the chicken feet again. Then he took another bite.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋ Are you telling us to take care of you while you're doing a Mukbang?

– I find it funniest when he is being serious. ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– No, please introduce yourself at least in the extra time ㅋㅋㅋ

– Ah ㅠㅠ Moondae-ya, don't say anything like that, please release TMI. What is your favorite color, do you like cats or dogs, or at least please tell me about your MBTI ㅠㅠ

The speed at which the comments are coming up has increased tremendously. So even if Park Moondae was watching, it was impossible to read.

Then, Park Moondae's smartphone rang again. This time, it was the production team.

'What is it? Is it a special gift or something?'

"We have another announcement for the production team. Wait a moment—"

Park Moondae checked the text. It was quite long.

[Special gift for participants! It is communication with viewers! Viewer donations are now available! Participants can check the donation pop-up with a threshold amount of <10,000 won> or more.

Please tell the viewers.^^ (※All the donations amount must be announced!)]

The idea behind donating such an amount of the donation was to avoid any possible controversies.

However, considering that the donation is received by the participant and the donation is carried out in the name of the program, it was frankly disgusting.

‘I know they wouldn’t spend money and would do this.’

Park Moondae thought indifferently but read the text aloud as it was.

– Donation??

– I guess they set it at 10,000 won to block aggro.

– Hey, what kind of donation is that? It’s just to save the participant’s face anyway. ;;

– If we give it to a participant, they’ll swear that it’s vulgar again, but they’re just living with their mouths anyway. ;; (t/n: 입만 살았다 means someone who only talks but does nothing.)

– If I pay the chicken price for Moondae, will he do another chicken Mukbang?

– The level of the RII’s small store has come down.

– They’re crazy fast.

– Is it chicken?

– ㅋㅋㅋ Someone please ask quickly, why is it chicken feet? ㅋㅋㅋ

“Ah, 123-nim. thank you…”

Park Moondae was fighting the deep reality while reading the donation text that came up on the screen.

Chapter 21

The first donation comment was straightforward.

#Why did you choose chicken feet? ㅋㅋㅋ

People buzzed that it was a great question in the comments. Park Moondae pondered for a moment, then answered honestly.

“Uhm, actually, my collaboration item keyword was frozen food, not chicken feet.”

– Wow, how shady.

– When I look at the chicken feet again, it looks like a fairy.

– RII punk, why did you guys put frozen food in idol PR—?

– Why do you put dumplings as a candidate when there’s carbonated water in T1? ㅋㅋㅋ

Park Moondae, who couldn’t see the comments, continued speaking quietly.

“The chicken feet were the most delicious among the frozen foods I received as a sample. So I chose the chicken feet.”

– !!

– You… tried all the samples?

– This participant is a ‘real.’

– At this point, it’s not enough to laugh at how hard he’s working. ㅋㅋㅋ

“First of all, it’s an — however it’s hard to say that something that doesn’t taste good is delicious.”

As Park Moondae answered, he grabbed the chicken foot again and put it in his mouth. And right away, more donations came pouring in without a break.

#What’s your favorite food besides chicken feet?

#Who is the participant you’re closest to?

#Then, for what criteria did you choose for triangle kimbap? ㅋㅋㅋ

“I’m not picky about food and I eat everything well. I’ll skip the close participants— uhm, I think it’ll be a spoiler if I say it.”

– He’s very thorough. ㅋㅋㅋ

– It’s true that our Moondae have close friends, right? Grandma believes in the Moondae! ^^

– But Seon Ahyun said he was close to you in the next broadcast over there. ㅋㅋㅋ

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋ I got it, Moondae-ya, are you close with Ahyun?

From Park Moondae’s point of view, talking directly about someone could be dangerous, so he chose to speak vaguely.

But even that topic was played with in the comments.

And just as Park Moondae was carefully explaining why he chose the triangle kimbap, the donations that had been held up started coming in all at once.

“The tuna mayonnaise is strong and goes well with chicken feet like a sauce— ah.”

#Moondae_please_just_sing_one_verse_of_a_songㅠㅠ

#Don’t just eat too much, and please introduce yourself. ㅋㅋㅋ

#Is there a secret to singing well?

“Uhm. Singing.”

Park Moondae put down the last chicken feet he was going to eat.

– Finally.

– Is his idol ego awakened?

– Is it meaningful that he only came back to life with one chicken foot left—.

– No, Moondae, your singing is really good, and when I watch the team battle, it’s so amazing.ㅠㅠ

– It was good on the show, but how will the live show be?

While there were a lot of comments, Park Moondae started singing.

“I’m standing on the stage, you don’t know yet~.”

It was the broadcast theme song ＜It’s Me＞.

Park Moondae only selected songs that had already been well-received by the trainers without much thought, but from the viewers’ point of view, it was nothing but solidifying the character.

– Park Moondae, he’s a professional – Wouldn’t he be a more sincere participant than anyone else?

– It’s really unpredictable. It’s not the way the criminal thinks.

– I’m going crazy. This is so funny ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

The comments were overflowing with people joking around. But that wasn't all.

– But you're good at singing

– Why is chicken feet sweet when it's caught in one cut?

– It's good to hear even without music

– Good job, Moondae-ya, please sing another song now ㅠㅠ

Even though Park Moondae used low-quality equipment, his voice was clearly heard even though 77 people were broadcasting live at the same time.

Without blurring parts, Park Moondae brought the song along in a cool way.

It was a nice voice to listen to without a single uncomfortable note.

As if to concentrate, the speed at which the comments come up has slowed down slightly. Exclamations were mixed in with the reaction.

And past the last part of the pre-chorus, it was when the chorus began.

"On the stage—"

Riiing!

The alarm rang loudly from the clock on the desk.

It was a reminder that there were only 30 seconds left. It was showing that the five extra minutes were over.

"Ah, time's up."

Park Moondae immediately stopped singing.

It's because he didn't intend to create controversy by wasting time and adding more songs.

The problem was that he quit too abruptly.

– No, if you cut it off here.

– Of all things, right before the chorus ㅋㅋㅋ

– Argh, it's frustrating! I'll just sing it. I'm the one who shines on stage right now!! Arghh!

– Don't you see that this is the big picture that makes you watch episode two? Moondae-ssi is serious about the program.

– If he hadn't eaten one chicken foot, could he have sung all of verse 1?

– I wish you could sing even one verse right now ㅠㅠ Oh my gosh, Moondae-ya.

A delayed donation appeared on the screen.

#I love your voice!

Comments flooded more due to the mild donation, contrary to the current comment atmosphere.

"Thank you. I'll do my best. Uhm, come to think of it, the remaining donation questions—."

Park Moondae quickly looked through the questions again, capturing "self-introduction" and "the secret to singing." And he thought.

'It was rather fortunate that I didn't have enough time.'

In fact, Park Moondae was delaying the answer to the next donation by wasting time with songs on purpose because it was difficult to answer the question.

First, self-introduction—he had nothing to say because he came into someone else's body.

This is because he didn't fully understand the background of 'Park Moondae.' Moreover, the background he had already grasped was quite dark.

The secret to being good at singing was more difficult to say.

'Can I say the system window helps? That sounds crazy.'

Park Moondae finished his judgment in an instant and continued.

"First, let me introduce myself."

At that moment, the screen turned black.

[The live is over]

The broadcast time is over.

– ??

– What?

– I think it's over?

– The production team ended the broadcast altogether

The remaining viewers were confused but soon understood the situation and started laughing.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– In the end, I can't hear the self-introduction—.

– I feel like I just watched Mukbang in the.

– It's been a while since I had so much fun.

– No, I mean, Park Moondae is really funny ㅋㅋㅋㅋ A comedian in question.

People left comments in the real-time comment box that was still alive.

However, quite a number of people remained for quite a while and continued to leave comments. They were the people who became interested in Park Moondae.

They were very excited to talk about the differences between Park Moondae in the first episode and Park Moondae in the last PR Live.

-But Moondae is really cute— With a face that doesn't seem motivated like that, he eats well and sings well ㅠㅠ. He's the best even without tricks.

– He has a trendy face, so once he gets his finishing touches, he'll be very handsome.

– Good. I'm going to open my fan account today.

– Where can I vote?

– Idol Inc. website -> Stock purchase window. You can get one extra vote per day if you buy the Collaboration Bundle.

– That's a great business skill.

– I gave one vote because Moondae is cute.

In the comments, criticism of the voting method that had risen was continued, but soon the topic returned to Park Moondae's previous broadcast.

– In the meantime, he ate chicken feet so deliciously. ㅠㅠ I ended up going to the link and bought it.

– I ordered delivery now. Thank you, Moondae, I ruined my diet at night with chicken feet.

Then suddenly, a comment said something out of the blue.

– But why am I so familiar with Moondae's eating place? I think I've seen it somewhere

– Huh, really?

– Did you film an for formula when you were a baby? (Excited.)

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ Moondae said he had no experience in the entertainment industry.

– Oh, I found it. This is it. Exactly the same. (link)

The link led to a video of chicken feet Mukbang.

The appearance of putting chicken feet in one bite and chewing them in one bite was exactly the same as the live broadcast they saw before.

It was just a different species.

[A countryside dog chicken feet Mukbang!]

In the video, a big dog of unknown breed was eating raw chicken feet.

The channel name is 'Exploring the diet of mixed breed dogs in the countryside.'

The black fur dog with its pricked ears, wags its tail with a face that looks like it has been pushed back, and eagerly puts chicken feet into its mouth.

Above it, Park Moondae's indifferent Mukbang overlapped on its own.

– Oh my.

At that moment, Park Moondae's first nickname was decided.

* * *

– Look at this. They look the same □□□ From now on, Park Moondae is Moon Puppy. No objection received. (Screenshot of mixed breed dogs in the countryside.) (Screenshot of Park Moondae live)

In the SNS post shared more than 4,000 times, they posted a scene of me in the form of 'Park Moondae' putting a boneless chicken foot in my mouth and a picture of a large dog biting a chicken feet together.

I feel a little upset.

First, it seemed like it worked to change the negative image— by making it feel like something familiar but.

"Moon Puppy…"

I didn't expect to have such an embarrassing nickname at the age of 29.

There have been a few times in my life that I have been told that I eat well.

'I think it's because I'm not picky about food—'

It was simply because I couldn't afford to eat after my parents died.

So I didn't expect such a reaction from eating only a little chicken feet.

"Is it 4th place?"

Shortly after the live, the PR video was uploaded, and the current ranking of the views of my video was in my fingers.

It was even still on the rise. If I did well, I was expected to flip the video of Lee Sejin, the former child actor who came in third place.

I decided to adapt to the situation.

‘I’m embarrassed but it’s a good situation.’

I couldn’t be picky about situations because I could die suddenly at any time. In addition, I feel more curious than embarrassed. So I feel a bit—thankful about it.

‘Thanks to it, I am one step away from sudden death.’

I briefly thanked the people who posted SNS posts and those who shared them, and started thinking about the next thing.

Now there was one near problem.

How will my editing come out in the second episode that will air soon?

In particular, the platinum grade on the grade evaluation came to mind.

‘Even if the editing is a little sloppy, I think there will be a response like ‘He should have received it, but Park Moondae the one who received it’.’

I turned on the live-streaming window on my smartphone, feeling a little nervous.

Still, episode 2 was good because I didn’t shoot unnecessary reactions. Thanks to that, I was able to get a beer can as well.

[Relisting! Idol~ Inc.!]

When I heard Youngrin’s voice in the beginning, I sipped my beer slowly. And focus on the content.

“…”

By the end of episode 2, there were two cans of beer next to the smartphone.

I drank my last beer and thought.

‘I think it was fine?’

The production team also carefully edited my grade evaluation.

I made sure again through the judges’ comments that I was good at the choreography and that the pitch was accurate, and then they stamped that I was good.

Even the scene receiving the Platinum grade didn’t get much attention. They just treated it like ‘Of course, a participant who does this kind of thing should get it~’.

They didn’t even put the controversy over the judgment at all.

“What are you thinking?”

I can’t help but feel the alcohol is in it. I reflected on my editorial direction.

‘There is a part—that bothers me.’

They didn’t show anything about how I practiced for a week without sleeping.

They couldn’t show all the circumstances of the 77 participants, so even if that was the case, it was strange that they had to send out the scene where I asked Seon Ahyun for the choreography.

It also bothered me that they edited it as if they listened to it once and followed the whole choreography.

‘Now that I think about it, they put the interviews that didn’t make me seem very impressive when I got the grade.’

Hmm, after summarizing it so far, I got a feeling.

The production team seemed to keep pushing the character of ‘Park

Moondae' in the first episode.

To put it bluntly—the 'Tactless My-Face-Ordinary talented person' character.

Fortunately, thanks to PR Live, Internet public opinion has already given me the image of a chicken feet puppy.

'I guess I would let it slide.'

I checked it by turning on SNS right away. As expected, the people who used a clever puppy gimmick on Park Moondae in episode 2 were the first to win over public opinion.

Fortunately, I couldn't let my guard down. Because the editing could win everything.

'Should I save more puppies?'

Drrrt!

My smartphone rang while I was thinking.

It was Keun Sejin. I felt meticulous from the texting, not messaging apps.

[Moondae, what do you think about watching episode 3 together with our team?]

Do I have to? I immediately started writing replies.

'I'm sorry, but I have work to do then—'

As soon as I tried to refuse with a good reason, I got another text message after another.

[Don't tell me—When Moondae is the only one missing, don't sad things happen? Lee Sejin Hyung-nim said he would come too!]

“…”

Have they all already agreed?

This brat will be the one who told the production team that they watched it together and sent a photo as proof.

The editing direction is already suspicious, but I didn’t know what would happen if I was the only one left out.

I change the text slowly.

[Yeah, we should do it.]

Then I got a reply right away.

[ㅎㅎ I knew Moondae will like it too~ I’ll see you then!]

“…”

I feel—like I lost.

Chapter 22

I tried to build up my stamina by exercising and practicing at the same time until the 3rd episode aired.

Fortunately, the qualities of Park Moondae were not at the bottom, so I could follow it exactly as I wanted.

The unfortunate thing is that most of the practice achievements have been filled up to 500 times.

'And I don't think it will be easy for me to quickly level up my stats from now on.'

Nevertheless, it was fortunate that the stat reward would occasionally pop up whenever I achieved success on stage or fame.

Anyway, after spending a full week, it returned to Friday again.

I headed to the location of the appointment around 5 p.m.

It was an officetel located quite far from Seoul's outer station, and it was probably the home of someone from the former team.

And I experience something amazing in the process of coming out of the subway station.

"Excuse me!"

"Yes?"

"By any chance… aren't you from Idol Inc.?"

Someone asked me something like this.

To be honest, the question is just a formality, but that person's eyes were already shining with certainty.

I pondered for a moment, then nodded.

I didn't even wear a mask. Because even if someone takes a picture of me, I would still be in a situation where I would be unable to take it, replace it, and lie about it.

"Yes, that's right."

"Ah, as expected!"

The woman who spoke to me was clearly happy.

"I'm really enjoying it. And you're really good at singing… Excuse me, can I take a picture with you?"

What should I do with this?

At the thought that Keun Sejin could leave photo evidence, I make sure to dress modestly and come out. However, unlike when I was filming, I didn't have any makeup on.

(t/n: 인증샷 means take a photo to prove it happened. For this sentence, it's meant to prove it they really met a celebrity or something.)

I know this since I've taken photos of it before. So unless it's acceptable, most idols' bare-faced photos need to be edited.

'…So, when I take photos during rehearsal, I will sometimes add full editing before selling them because of my conscience.'

However, it was more important not to make noise in the current situation.

"Yes. Can I look here?"

“Oh! Yes, yes, wait a minute—!”

The woman quickly turned on the camera editing app and took a picture together in selfie mode.

It’s good that this person understands the importance of morals in society.

“Ah, thank you so much. I will definitely vote, no, I will buy stocks!”

“Ah, thank you.”

There’s a high probability that she won’t do it because she can’t even remember Park Moondae’s name, but let’s say thank you first.

Anyway, because of how this person reacted, everyone started to look at this place. It gradually became burdensome as people passing by began to look at us.

I quickly nodded and said my final words.

“I have something to do…”

“Oh, yes! Thank you for the photo…”

The question, ‘But what are you going to do?’ seemed to come up at any moment, so I quickly left.

And as soon as I left the station, I bought a mask at the convenience store.

There is nothing to say, even if it is called excessive self-consciousness, and since there has already been a case, I was going to be careful on the way back.

But I can’t believe someone recognized me on the street already. Of course, I already knew that season 3 would do well, but it was amazing.

‘It would be no joke around the second half of the show.’

The place I’m currently staying in is just a cheap room, so the security was poor. If Park Moondae continues to keep avoiding the full editing, steps may need to be taken in the future. (t/n: 통편집 means full editing or totally removed from the scene.)

As I walked and thought about this and that, I soon arrived at the meeting place. I wonder if it’s a newly built officetel because it looks clean and secure.

I don’t know whose house it is, but whoever lives there seems to be doing well. I’m so envious.

“Oh~ Moondae really come fast? Come in!”

“H, hello.”

When I rang the doorbell, Keun Sejin and Seon Ahyun came out.

“This is the living room~.”

Seon Ahyun followed as Keun Sejin guided me. Anyway, it seems like this is Keun Sejin’s house.

Well, it’s a natural picture for a meeting host to invite people to his house.

I honestly admire the really nice officetel’s interior as I look around.

“It’s a nice house.”

“Right? It would be nice if it was my house!”

“…?”

Does that mean it’s not the house he rents?

The brief question ended with Seon Ahyun’s words.

“T, thank you.”

“…”

So… this was Seon Ahyun’s house.

Meanwhile, Keun Sejin was almost lying on the living room sofa, and Seon Ahyun was sitting in a straight position in the corner of the sofa.

I looked at the strange situation where the roles of the host and the guest were switched for a moment, but then I stopped thinking.

So what? Let’s just watch episode 3 and then leave.

* * *

In the editorial room on the 9th floor of the Tnet building, the production team of <Idol Inc.> is working overtime today.

“The editing was delayed too much because of the preparation of the PR video live.”

“I’m going crazy.”

It was somehow a chilly situation because the finished version was just completed a few hours before the airing.

Writer Ryu Seorin thought it was annoying.

‘This is why it would have been better if the PR was just outsourced.’

Even if she pushed the ad, she couldn’t use outsourcing because it would only add a small amount to the cost of production.

Thanks to this, her schedule, which was barely free because of the youngest writer, became a series of all-night.

In addition, the edited version that she checked while working on the subtitles—was so unexpected.

‘Why did they kill the kids and pushed them away?’

Ryu Seorin’s own suggestion wasn’t properly reflected!

She wanted to grind her teeth, but she was too tired to do it. She even looks pale because she had been up all night for two days in a row.

‘It’s not like I have any power anyway.’

Still, it was a suggestion for making the program more fun, so it was a shame.

‘After seeing the editing direction for episodes 1 and 2, I was expecting a bit.’

She sighed and left the editing room.

She thought about taking a nap in the night-duty room and coming back in an hour before the broadcast.

* * *

“It’s start!”

“Whoa, whoa! Please our team in this episode! please!”

After episodes 1 and 2 were aired, they were all excited to see about the reactions of their acquaintances, but there wasn’t anything useful in those reactions.

– Moondae, would you like chicken feet?

…It was the most memorable thing I had ever asked, and I asked it with a grin.

Anyway, after pretending to listen to it, it was soon airtime.

‘It’s nice to see it on the big screen.’

I thought casually as I looked at the big TV on the wall that took up a quarter of the living room wall.

“Ah, it’s start.”

Seeing them sitting on the couch or on the floor with their stomachs full made it seem like they wouldn’t get in the way of monitoring, which was also pretty good.

[Since this is the first team match, there must be a participant that you all want to join, right?]

As soon as the words of the MC entered the broadcast, an interview was inserted.

[Cha Eugene: If I can do it with Raebin!]

[Lee Sejin (B): Me? Ah, Moondae will be nice!]

[Park Moondae: Lowered his head.]

“Whoaa, the hyungs are here!!”

“Keun Sejin Hyung’s interview cut is nice.”

“Whoa, I’m talking about you though! But it doesn’t appear.”

When one of the team members is caught on camera, everyone reacts proudly.

It’s so hard to focus on the screen that I’m going crazy.

In the meantime, Keun Sejin burst into laughter. It must be good to come out as Lee Sejin (B) because there is a person with the same name.

“Park Moondae, were you really like that? Hahahaha!”

“…No.”

Is that even possible?

Keun Sejin named more than seven people when he should have only mentioned one, but it was clear that only my name was on the air.

Anyway, let's try to stay focused on the screen.

Despite the chatter, the broadcast continued.

[Whoaa!!]

[I think our team is good?]

First of all, this team decided to come out warmly at the moment.

They mostly showed each other hugging and spinning, so it looked like fun to be with the pure participants.

Surprisingly, the editorial direction of the other team, which had Ryu Chungwoo, a former national archery representative.

[Lee Dojun: Ah, it's a bit…]

[Park Jeongseop: Of all things, why it turned out like this.]

[Choi Sangjin: It's really fun? (Edited) It didn't feel like that.]

[Ryu Chungwoo: Ah. (Laughs)]

Even though the atmosphere wasn't great, the team quickly got used to Ryu Chungwoo as their leader, but the broadcast made it seem like the atmosphere was bad.

"Uh…"

"Uhm."

They were somehow at a loss to make a comment, and the only thing that came out was an ambiguous admiration. It was a situation where it was hard to like and ambiguous to criticize.

After passing through the formation process of other teams, the next step was the selection song process.

Gold 1, which shouts and presses the panel button without looking properly, came out as a single cut.

“Aah…”

Gold 1 felt the pain as he looked at his dark history. Because he seems to have noticed that he looks like he murmured to himself blankly on the screen.

[I, is it a mistake?]

And the editing that followed—wasn’t serious.

An interview with the team members came out along with the funny drum and twang BGM.

For reference, Ha Iljoon is Gold 1 and Kwon Heeseung is Gold 2.

[Lee Sejin (B): Did you see our faces?? Just like this!]

[Kwon Heeseung: What… should we do? Pfft…]

[Seon Ahyun: (Laughing and shrugging)]

[Ha Iljun: I’m sorry… Pfft…]

[♡ Into A New World / MallangDalkom ♡]

The panels flashed in the background like a joke.

…And here, for some reason, an interview with Park Moondae appeared.

[Park Moondae: I liked it. (Thumbs up)]

A subtitle appeared.

[Fan's heart wins everything—!☆]

The living room erupted with laughter.

"Ahahaha!"

"Hahaha, my stomach hurts from laughing so hard—!"

Even Lee Sejin is holding back his laughter because his face turns red.

"Pft, is that real? Did you really do that?"

"…I just said I liked the team."

"Ehem, ah~ Really? Thank you."

Keun Sejin laughed and got stuck on the sofa.

While I… just put a chicken in my mouth.

'Let's not get involved.'

After that, even practicing choreography and getting feedback from the trainer through trial and error were set up in a way that wasn't too serious.

[Let's do it like this!]

[Hmm, okay.]

This is because the moderately gloomy early practice was edited as if they were working hard with nothing happened.

When the choreographer was angry, the first tense background sound came out.

[No one sees… What are you going to do?]

After that, a series of personal attacks were sent as it was, with huge subtitles and words emphasized.

“It’s really strong when you hear it again.”

“I’m just telling you now, but I was really scared.”

“Ung, it looks like it.”

“Yeah. You too.”

When the hardened faces of the team members were shown on the screen, sincerity went back and forth like a joke in the living room.

Fortunately, the scene with Seon Ahyun and the choreographer didn’t focus on me. Instead, it mostly showed Seon Ahyun’s shocked reaction.

And at an unexpected time, an unexpected scene came out.

[Do you feel tired?]

[N, no…]

In one scene, I talked to Seon Ahyun while he was being edited by the kind of ‘Seon Ahyun participant who couldn’t focus on practice.’

It was the conversation where I used the characteristic ‘When I heard it, you’re right.’

Even the timing wasn’t right. That was after deciding how the conversation would go.

“H, huh?”

“What is it?”

Seon Ahyun was embarrassed, so he dropped the chicken he had been eating. I was a little puzzled, too.

‘That’s what I said when the main camera was all gone and only the camera installed in the corner turn around.’

I didn’t expect it to be used on the broadcast. However, the camera was fixed, so it felt like it wasn’t recorded.

Thanks to that, the conversation sounded a little more sincere.

[D, do you really think I, I can do well…?]

[Why would I lie?]

[…!!]

When the emotional editing was added, it almost looked like a boy manhwa recruit.

I became confused.

‘No I mean, it’s good that they edited it well, but—.’

It was a random choice, considering how the production team has been building up my character since the first episode.

Did they just decide to replace it quickly?

Meanwhile, Park Moondae on the screen said “that line” while the beautiful BGM played.

[Just think ‘I’m going to make this happen’.]

And the living room rang with a reaction.

“Oh~”

“I’m going to… make this happen?”

“This is how Moondae usually thinks, kyaa~ Quote!”

Let’s just… ignore it.

In the midst of teasing, whether it was booing or admiration, the broadcast showed a short interview with Seon Ahyun.

[Seon Ahyun: T, t, thank you… very much.]

[Seon Ahyun : (I will)… work hard. I, I was thinking like that. I, I have to do it.]

Even though Seon Ahyun doesn’t have a lot of energy, he is very loyal. I greet him immediately.

“Thank you.”

“Uh, uh… N, no, thank you…”

“Ah, it’s heartwarming.”

“That’s right.”

While Seon Ahyun, who had been taken out of the conversation, was embarrassed, the cut that was being arranged with Mudie’s advice finally showed on the TV screen.

[Guys. Let’s set the direction first.]

Yeah, it was the most important here.

Chapter 23

Keun Sejin led the arrangement meeting. And I got a fair amount of it.

[Kwon Heeseung: It's a relief that Keun Sejin Hyung-nim is the leader, well!]

[Ha Iljun: He is definitely a friend with leadership.]

Given how the interviews for Gold 1 and 2 turned out, it seems that the production crew purposefully pushed Keun Sejin's leadership.

"Oh, thank you, everyone~."

"If you're thankful, talk about me in the next interview."

"Me too!"

"Ah, of course~."

And in contrast to Keun Sejin's relaxed expression, another participant was staring at the screen in the living room.

I glanced at Choi Wongil.

"…"

Choi Wongil, who was quiet when he came to today's meeting, now had a tense look.

Indeed, how would the production team edit Choi Wongil's argument about me?

From my point of view, it would be fine as long as I didn't come out like I was trying to start a fight. Because in fast, if it's not that, I don't even care at all.

However, the editing also went in an unexpected direction.

They completely edited Choi Wongil's argument.

[The idea is good, but if something goes wrong, wouldn't it be like trying to make fun of the original song?]

Furthermore, Keun Sejin's rebuttal to my words was cut off.

Instead, the figure of Keun Sejin, who raised his head seriously, appeared.

[I've been thinking about it, but I think— there's a way to go strong while keeping the original song's sensibility.]

And it immediately connected as I gave my opinion.

'It seems like they don't need Choi Wongil's story.'

In order to keep the dramatic flow of the arrangement, the ambiguous argument in the picture was edited into nothing.

'Come to think of it, they just skipped it when we changed the parts at the beginning.'

Choi Wongil seemed relieved, but well, I don't know if that's the case.

In the end, Choi Wongil didn't get any good cuts until the very end.

Even at the very least, the interview did not come out well.

Maybe there wasn't much to write about in the interview because he complained a lot about parts and arrangements.

Anyway, that was probably good, and the important thing was my editing.

Just then, Park Moondae, on the screen, finished what he was saying with a faint smile.

[Let's mix it with horror.]

[…!!]

Then, they did close-ups of each team member to show how surprised they were.

'…I think that's too much?'

If anyone saw it, the edit seemed to show that I had come up with a unique idea.

There was even another interview.

[Ha Iljun: Wow! (Moondae) is saying that!]

[Kwon Heeseung: I thought this was it.]

[Lee Sejin (A): That's… So it's a talent.]

Child actor Lee Sejin's words sounded somewhat bitter. But more than that, I couldn't believe this guy had this kind of interview.

Thanks to this, there were a lot of jokes and boos in the living room, and people shot each other with cheesy interviews. Lee Sejin kept his mouth shut and looked at the screen steadfastly.

When Keun Sejin's interview came out, everyone started to laugh.

[Lee Sejin (B): Moondae is really funny, isn't it? (Laughs) No, it's so funny to have an expression like a Tibetan fox and explode with ideas, really!!]

In the background of Keun Sejin's words, 'Park Moondae' was cut and edited to react to all kinds of situations.

[I, I… I… W, when I was young, I had an accident…]

[What should I do…]

As the general public felt sorry for it, Park Moondae's face began to close up.

"…"

As far as I can see, it's calmness itself.

And the subtitles that come up.

[Park Moondae: (Nod–ding).]

"Ah! That's right!"

"He was really like that! Hahahaha!"

And in the trainer's harsh criticism scene.

[This kind of review is a compliment you should get at a talent show on a school trip.]

[…]

Park Moondae's calm face was seen among the team members who bowed their heads and bit their mouths.

[Park Moondae: (Ca–lm.)]

That's right.

In any situation in which other participants are restless.

Park Moondae was alone and had the same cloudy eyes.

"Hahahahaha!"

“That face! So funny!”

“…”

Only then did I realize that I had lost.

I was alone among the over-action participants, so it didn’t look calm, but it—looked like something was wrong with my mind.

‘I didn’t mean to curse the production team.’

I reflected on myself alone, avoiding the hands of Keun Sejin, who laughed like crazy and hit me on the back saying sorry.

In later broadcasts, the arrangement process went smoothly, which wasn’t meant to be a short spoiler.

[Lee Sejin (B): We will do well!]

[Park Moondae:… Fighting.]

I don’t know why I shouted “Fighting” so uninspiredly—.

And it wasn’t long before the stage started.

The team members, who had been making a lot of noise, quietly focused on watching at this moment.

I looked unfamiliarly at the face of ‘Park Moondae’ with stage makeup. I can’t believe I’m that guy.

[Whooo—]

Soon, a gloomy prelude flowed along with the introductory choreography, and the performance unfolded in earnest.

And each time the part changed, the shocked faces of the other participants who were waiting were inserted. Oh my.

It was fortunate that the stage didn't feel like it was cut off due to the effort put into the editing.

'Hmm.'

Anyway, the stage surely came out well.

In particular, I could see Seon Ahyun flying like a fish in the water. It was to the extent that the main dancer looked like Seon Ahyun, not Sejin. (t/n: 물 만난 고기 means a fish that met water or is in your comfortable field. Or in other words, when you are good at something, you feel very comfortable doing it.)

'I think Seon Ahyun's ranking will go up.'

The next good thing to see is Big Sejin, and the rest of them did their parts well.

Surprisingly, Lee Sejin didn't look awkward because he used his facial expressions well.

When Choi Wongil appeared in the center of the chorus, the choreography made it seem like the cut went to Seon Ahyun, so it seemed like he had lost a bit.

And for me… fortunately, the bridge part came out well.

[Can't You feel me?]

This line was followed by two or three reactions that overlapped.

'…I think it's almost like a troll song?' (t/n: 돌림 노래 meaning troll/ round. But the meaning is a method of singing, in which two or several teams sing a song repeatedly in the same order, with a certain time gap.)

I feel thankful, but at the same time, the intentions were questionable.

'Isn't it going to be a gimmick of a tactless talented person again?'

So when the trainers' dialogue was inserted in the bridge part reaction, I was suspicious and looked at the screen.

[Mudie: Was that Wongil's original part?]

[Jeok Taesong: Really?]

[Mudie: Yeah. Wongil said he couldn't do it, so (Moondae) gave his own chorus part and rearranged (by himself).]

But I didn't expect to save this story here.

In addition, when I heard the trainer's conversation, it sounded like I did a good thing and swapped parts with Choi Wongil.

Well, the result is correct.

Mudie even came out with an interview cut.

[Mudie: Moondae is surprisingly soft-hearted.]

[Mudie: But he has a strong voice!]

Thank you.

Even if the character is the same, "Tactless but a good kid" is better than "Tactless and crazy kid who makes me mad."

If I could avoid the sudden death, I thought I should repay the kindness by sending red ginseng.

The stage ended with an enthusiastic response from the audience shouting for an encore.

[Encore! Encore!]

And the image of the team hugging and celebrating was also successfully aired.

“We were awesome.”

“Honestly, it’s my stage, but I liked it even when I saw it.”

“Agree.”

The conversation of happy former team members filled the living room with meaningless applause.

Since it was me, I only talked about my part, but in reality, the team members received the part relatively great.

Thanks to this, the living room atmosphere was still harmonious.

I don’t know, but I think there are a lot of participants there who feel like they are in a house of mourning.

For example, Ryu Chungwoo’s team came out after us—was at the level of wanting to pay a silent tribute.

Here are some parts of the subtitles.

[Choose the best song selection?]

[Ho.we.ver]

[Team members who can’t stay focused on practice.]

[Leader Ryu Chungwoo’s struggle to fight alone]

The finishing touch was an interview with Ryu Chungwoo, who seemed to be having a hard time.

[Ryu Chungwoo:… I have to do it.]

‘Wow, you sent it right.’

Even though I already knew it wasn’t to that extent, it made me feel bad watching it.

The guys on our side saw it, and they talked so much and said everything that they ended up sounding like they were sympathizing without realizing it.

“Hey, what about them?”

“Chungwoo Hyung had a hard time. Huh. still…”

To summarize roughly, it was a picture of Ryu Chungwoo completing the stage and enduring it with the rest of the team, who didn’t have any skills but were displeased.

“Chungwoo has a good personality, but… hey, he looks like a saint.”

Gold 1’s shaky self-talk accurately explained the editing composition accurately.

Anyway, the broadcast even showed that we easily beat Ryu Chungwoo’s team.

[The score is… 82 vs 401!]

[Whoaaaa!]

It was a cut that was especially good.

Regarding individual voting, it was edited in a weird way that made Ryu Chungwoo cheer for his individual vote.

[Ryu Chungwoo: I think I still lack a lot.]

[Park Jeongseob: Honestly, shouldn’t we win (individual votes)?]

[Lee Dojun: The person who led the team is responsible…]

Well, it was nice and clean that our team didn’t even mention individual votes.

It was a complete victory for the team, both on the scene and in the broadcast.

When episode 3 was over, the entire team fell to the floor and sofa here and there.

“Wow… This is fast.”

“I thought I was going to die of nervousness!”

“I, I was scared.”

Even Seon Ahyun talked about it.

Everyone seemed to have used up a lot of their mental energy.

Keun Sejin lay down on the sofa and said.

“Ah, that’s a strange thing to say— everyone worked really hard. Hey, watching the show, everyone was so good!”

“Keun Sejin, you did a great job too~.”

“I’m glad it came out well.”

Gold 2’s eyes flashed with anticipation and left these words.

“Our reaction is really good, right?”

And as if someone had granted a wish, the word came true.

* * *

It was WeTube that the first reaction appeared as an indicator.

The stage video of 〈 October 31 〉, the team that Park Moondae belonged to ranked 9th in the real-time popular videos.

The comments were crazy.

– From the arrangement to the stage's control, everything is amazing

– Such a precious stage in the shabby RII;;

– Everyone, this is the stock that will rise right away.

– What? Vampire? Just wait, I'll drive the blood donor car

– I've organized the names! 0:12 Seon Ahyun, 0:21 Lee Sejin (B)… (More)

– Octobers let's debut like this ㅠㅠ

– Looking at the preparation process, everyone was so pure and so cute ㅠㅠ. Is the stage and gap true story?

As soon as the broadcast was over, similar recommended or liked articles were posted one after the other or shared 10,000 times.

[Idol Inc.'s performance reinterpreted the debut song of a girl group.]

[Participant team who made art with MallangDalkom.]

[Idol Inc. episode 2, likely to change the ranking]

Even after coming into contact with <Idol Inc.> on this stage, the viewers slowly started to flow into it.

– I saw the vampire concept stage, is it Idol Inc.'s new season?

– I thought it would be ruined, but what happened to the stage quality?

– I've never liked idols, but how do I vote for this? ㅠㅠ

That's why I was able to see a strange article that said they liked this team by gathering it all together.

– It would be nice to debut like this!

– The kids are taking turns voting occasionally ㅠㅠ Ah, why aren't they in a group already!

Some KPOP reaction channels moved quickly as well.

It was a response that compared the stage of MallangDalkom's original song to the stage of October 31's arranged version.

[WOW! It's like, one of a kind, right?]

The video was re-uploaded on the reaction translation channel with subtitles, which keeps bringing in people from domestic and overseas.

In this process, the frequency of mentions of team members in related communities such as SNS has also increased overwhelmingly.

It was at the level of crustal movement.

The finishing touch was when MallangDalkom put a video of his reaction to this performance on WeTube.

[Idol Inc. topic stage! Did MallangDalkom watch it directly? October 31's 'To the New World' reaction video]

The members of MallangDalkom, whose heyday passed and their group activities ended, were continuing their lives in the position of SNS celebrities, except for one member who succeeded as an actor.

Two of them have a mutual understanding and have joined the trend by creating a WeTube channel.

And just in time, they didn't miss out on this hot content related to them.

So, except for one member who was busy with the actor's schedule, all of the members sat down and watched October 31's arrangement version.

"Whoa~"

"Ah, this is the difficult part."

"The person who sings Yueun's part, Seon Ahyun-ssi? Now it's my stock."

"Oh~ the main vocalist is our fan! Park… Moondae-nim!"

"Thank you~"

The reaction began with a formal exclamation, was followed by an appreciation for the details, and ended with praise for the participants.

"Ah! Dry flowers on the costume!"

"They put it in each flower that is our symbol. Wow…"

"They're very detailed."

Of course, everyone was shocked when the bridge came out.

"They raise the key like this?!"

"It's one key!?"

"Wow, that's so cool…"

"They must be our real fans."

And the meeting ended with people crying.

"N, no, why are you crying? Why am I crying?"

“Ah~ They did so well, I think we were very moved.”

The members who were crying and fanning their hands slowly opened their mouths.

“Our… fun B-grade concept received more love than it deserved. But originally, the debut song was like this.”

After making their debut as a flower fairy, MallangDalkom made a comeback with the so-called ‘sick taste’ concept. (t/n: 병맛 means something like terrible.)

So there was a meme that became famous on the Internet at that time.

– A flower fairy with X flower on their head ㅋㅋ

It was the day they wore hairpins that symbolized their flowers on the 〈POP☆CON〉 stage.

Someone made that comment while comparing the captured photo with the photo from the first album stage.

“Actually, we… it’s true that we were loved more because people liked our debut song and the gap, but it’s still a little… It was too bad.”

They also had good feelings rather than bad memories about the terrible cutie concept that brought them back to their heyday.

But that didn’t mean they weren’t sad at all.

“We were able to come up with various concepts…”

There was no one who couldn’t be hurt by the constant ridicule.

So, they were deeply moved by the participants who took a serious approach to their debut song, which had not received much public attention.

“Thank you so much. MallangDalkom… Uhm, thank you for portraying the innocent concept nicely!”

“Yes. The reinterpretation is really nice. Vampire… If we get a chance too! I really want to try it.”

It was also impressive that they liked the stage, which had been reinterpreted in a great way without harming the feelings of the original song.

They ended the conversation with a slightly tearful voice.

“Really… It was a wonderful stage. We will all buy stocks!”

“October 31 fighting!!”

“Fighting~”

As the captured version of the video was uploaded to the community and SNS, the number of views of October 31’s stage video rose sharply once again.

And before 4th episode came out.

Individual fancam videos of all team battles were released first.

Chapter 24

It's about time.

I turned off the comment window of October 31's stage video that I had been watching.

First of all, the results after understanding the whole situation…

'It's going so well that it's scary… '

Indeed, there was no other way to express it.

From the number of views to the comments in the article, the numbers easily exceeded five or six times that of other teams aired in the third episode.

Ryu Chungwoo's team had an increase in buzz in a different way, but it seemed they also gained some benefits from it.

Anyway, if there was no twist here, it seemed I could pass the second round smoothly

Therefore the next shoot was more important. Now that I realized the power of editing, I should be more careful.

Then let's take a look at the things that will help with the next shoot.

I put a new search word in the search window.

[Park Moondae's personal fan cam]

When I searched, the official video with the posting date '1 day ago' appeared first.

I waited a day to watch it so that I could objectively look at the feedback.

Then. The number was more than expected.

[View count: 320,000]

Considering that dancing was not my strength but instead just an addition, it was higher than I expected.

I saw other participants in the recommended videos below.

“30,000, 120,000, 7,000, 20,000, 60,000… Hmm.”

Only a few of them had higher numbers than me. No, in the first place, most didn’t even exceed 50,000.

In terms of the number of views, I was probably within the top 12.

Considering that the stage had already been unveiled, it was a great achievement.

‘But substance is more important.’

I sorted the video comments in order of recommendation and went through them.

– Look at Park Moondae’s expression in all his parts, he’s born to be a genius idol ㅠㅠ

– I’m surprised that this kind of concept fits well

– Popcorn, chicken feet, and even horror. Is Park Moondae a god?

– Thank you for the bridge, I’ve lived a good life

– Moondae-ya is a fan of MallangDalkom, so when their song got picked he got excited all alone, that’s so cute!

The last comment is a bit… There seems to be a misunderstanding, but since it's taken well, let's just think of it as a compliment.

Other than that, most of them were compliments.

When sorted by the latest order, I could see abusive comments, but even those comments disappeared as if they were being swept away by the late comments.

This time, I searched my name on SNS. 'Park Moondae' and 'Moondae'.

Posts with videos and images immediately filled the screen.

– Moondae is so cute (Personal fancam gif)

– How did you come up with horror there ㅠㅠ With his skill, talent, personality, and sense, our Moondae is a trinity idol ㅠㅠ

– Park Moondae is good at singing, but I don't know if he's that outstanding, though his face is my type. (Photo from the production presentation)

– Moondae Moon Puppy, eat well and please be nice ♡ (Photo of photoshopped Mukbang puppy)

I was a little embarrassed because it was overflowing with appreciation for all sorts of things.

Face, voice, facial expression, shoulders, eating behavior… There was even an article saying that they liked a cute habit of mine that I didn't even know about.

I rubbed the back of my neck.

I was a little embarrassed, but… it didn't feel bad. I was grateful and I felt strangely motivated.

Of course, this wouldn't be the whole of Internet public opinion.

I was lost in thought.

Let's see. If you transform 'Moondae (문대)' in a way it won't be caught up in the search…

"Hmm."

I put in a search word without much thought.

[Gommeo (곰머)]

It was a simple modification by turning 'Moon (문)' upside down and changing 'Dae (대)' into a similar notation.

Things like this were the standard while I was selling data, so my guess was probably right.

As expected, the results poured out.

– Gommeo is so damn ugly, can't even dance to Pop Con ㅅㅂ where is the editing ㅋㅋㅋ, I really hate it, diediedie

(TL note: ㅅㅂ is Korean slang for swearing.)

– Honestly, there's no good main vocalist in Idol Inc., so aren't you just pushing Gommeo with clenched teeth? The sound is too much;; typically fabricated innocence… Whew.

– It's obvious that Gommeo's concept is being a fan of MallangSweet~

– I want to see Gommeo's chest. He should expose it in the next stage.

-That ordinary Gommeo ㅋㅋㅋ? He must have washed dishes while in the trainee camp~ I can bet my account, he's so fake that I can't even look at him

There were a lot of malicious comments without filters.

Oh, even though I prepared my heart, it was still shocking.

There was something weird in the middle, but… It looked like sexual harassment, so I guessed they didn't want it to get caught up on the search.

Interestingly, quite a few of the accounts that posted the malicious comments chose Cha Eugene's photos as their profiles.

It was probably because he was the most popular participant, so it was set as a check, but some of them were probably real fans.

And it seemed to create a strange tension.

The atmosphere where the participants who performed together in the first team match were attacked by the participants of other teams.

It was not particularly surprising because it was a trend that was always observed in this type of audition program.

It was also something I experienced myself when I sold data.

They buy the data of the participant that they root for and want to discard the data of the participant they want to keep in check.

And speaking of it, it seemed that Cha Eugene and Park Moondae belonged to opposite camps.

"It's a side effect of the team's performance that went extremely well."

Anyway, I put up with it because it was bearable.

Rather, I had to see if there was anything to extract from the malicious comments.

'For now, there is no need to talk about the song.'

Since there was an objective stat for it, it could be verified as the broadcast progresses.

The next thing that comes up a lot is… My character.

The character concept was mainly meant to be contrived and unlucky, but those who criticized Park Moondae's appearance had reactions like 'that sort of concept with that face? ㅋㅋ'.

No, if my face doesn't work, I shouldn't have a concept character…

I'd never liked the editing direction, but now I felt a little bitter.

But I soon realized that it was an unnecessary feeling.

'If it's just the face. I can construct it.'

The next shooting would be the ranking announcement.

Compared to the upcoming fourth episode, the filming period was about a month away.

This meant that if my appearance changed even if just a little, it would be enough.

"Status window."

I put my points into my visual stats without hesitation.

And after thinking for a while, I took out my smartphone, opened the group chat, and posted a message.

[Does anyone know a good salon?]

Since we're doing it, let's do it properly.

* * *

A few days before the 5th episode, the ranking announcement ceremony aired, there were all kinds of rumors in the related Internet communities claiming to be ranking spoilers.

[Saying a spoiler about the ranking]

: This is from a staff (Unclear photo of the set)

1st place Cha ㅇgene

2nd place Ryu Chungㅇ

5th place Kim Raeㅇ

6th place, Seon ㅇhyun

Child actor Sㅇin is out of the top 10 because, during the shooting, he has been dragging his feet and struggling while filming.

– It seems fabricated, but I wish Lee Sejin fall down sooner ㅋ how dare a useless child actor crawl into an idol survival showㅎㅎ

I got the pdf,

Yes ㅋ just take it ㅋ

– As expected, Cha Eugene is in the first place.

– I'm jealous that Ryu Chungwoo gets to be in 2nd place thanks to editing.

You bastards, don't pretend it's fabricated, it's disgusting

There's a photo proof, isn't it real?

It's an old photo. It's stolen from another behind-the-scenes picture that was uploaded last year.

Omg…

In this way, the manipulation was discovered, and eventually, the text was deleted.

The production team tried to block the spoiler with all their might, and with half-luck, the effort was successful.

Thanks to this, right before the 5th episode of the ranking announcement ceremony began, viewers were sitting in front of the screen full of excitement.

Here, a woman sitting in front of her desktop felt the same way.

She prayed with her hands together.

'Please, Moondae's stocks… '

On the desktop's minimized tab, Park Moondae's fancam, which she took at the production presentation, was being uploaded.

Yes, she was the owner of the cannon camera which was hooked on Park Moondae while watching the first team match as a spectator.

She had completely become a fan of Park Moondae through PR broadcasts and the main program of the broadcasts.

She even settled down as a home master by posting the pictures she took.

(TL note: home master = refers to people carrying cameras and taking pictures and videos while following idols' schedules. Sometimes shortened as homma.)

And today is the day of the ranking announcement. She thought nervously.

'There's no way that Park Moondae would have fallen. However, once he gets a high rank here, his recognition as a top rank will definitely be solidified.'

It was the reality that the latecomers were beaten everywhere since it was difficult to climb through the concrete floor that had already hardened.

‘So the first ranking ceremony is important.’

She thought as she wrote to her account via her smartphone with one hand.

FullMoon Baby

: I uploaded a fan cam of Park Moondae’s production presentation. (WeTube Link)

#ParkMoondae #ParkMoondaeStockPurchase #IdolIncMoondae #MoonPuppy #Moondae

It was a post attached to the production presentation fancam that was uploaded just before.

As soon as it was uploaded, the number of shares increased steadily.

‘Good.’

She looked at the phenomenon with proud eyes and immediately added a promotional phrase.

– Please show a lot of support for Moondae! 😁 ♡ (Link to purchase stocks of Idol Inc.)

After posting, the last commercial slowly passed by.

The broadcast would start in five seconds.

She looked at the logo on the screen with her feet shaking.

[Re-listed! Idol Inc.]

Soon the screen changed, and a brief trailer was sent out to raise expectations.

[30th place contestant, 20th place contestant… Who is the 49th contestant who will make it to the last place?]

The images of several participants bowing their heads, biting their lips, and bursting into tears quickly passed by.

It was a stimulating edit that created a lot of tension, but she was not in the right mind to care.

Just now, Park Moondae's cut was captured…

His hair, a new hairstyle with a soft perm…

"B, Blonde."

She uttered the word blankly, and once again realized the meaning of the word, she covered her mouth with her hand.

'Moondae is blonde!'

In reality, the hair color was was less extreme and closer to a golden brown, but it looked really good.

It fits him incredibly well and looks cute!

It was an idol's virtue to have dyed hair that fit well and Park Moondae had that virtue.

It was clear that God was pushing him to be an idol no matter what.

As she updated her SNS timeline with trembling hands, similar words were pouring out.

– Crazy

– Omg blonde

– Have I gone crazy

– Moon Puppy, you decided to kill me today… That's for sure…

– The puppy is perfect ㅠㅠㅠㅠ

– In fact, it is an established theory in the academic world that he'd been dying his blonde hair black until now. Anyway

Park Moondae's fans continued to pour out painful comments.

In fact, Park Moondae's cheerful investment in his visual stats played a big role in these impressions.

However, as everyone firmly believed that the change in hairstyle also brought about a change in appearance, it passed naturally.

Because that one cut came out so well, the binge-watching went on for quite some time.

[Production of PR shows]

When all the small behind-the-scenes productions were over, the PR broadcast preparation filming started just before the ranking announcement.

On the screen, the participants were shocked by the MC's announcement.

[For the next 15 minutes! Find the treasure ball!]

[What?!]

'I was a little curious about this.'

She came to her senses and refocused on the broadcast.

She thought it would be nice if it could shed a little light on how Moondae chose chicken feet.

[Yay!]

[Yeah! Gold!]

However, on the screen, it only showed the participants flocking around for a long time to find the balls.

'What? There's not enough footage of Moondae.'

Park Moondae's fans complained that the production team had no sense.

Even the viewers made unexpectedly similar remarks.

– The story of chicken feet doesn't come out until the end?

– It's like he just screwed up and made chicken feet

-ㅋㅋㅋ

But these reactions changed quickly.

It was because Park Moondae suddenly appeared in a quiet restaurant where there were no people.

-??

– Why is no one there

– Why is Park Moondae alone?

Park Moondae, who entered the restaurant, gestured behind his back.

Then a few heads crept out from behind the door.

[Lee Sejin (B): There's no one here, right?]

[Park Moondae: Yes. Let's go.]

[Ha Iljun: Okay!]

The viewers were more confused.

– What?

– How come they’re the only ones there

– Do they have benefits?

Even the subtitles incited confusion.

[How can these people be here…?]

– No, that’s what we want to ask ㅋㅋ

– Tell me!

The screen captures a brief glimpse of the three participants scouring the restaurant quickly and accurately.

And with a swish, the scene was rewinded.

[◄◄◄]

And click.

[AM 09:30 Treasure hunt begins]

The screen resumed as the participants ran out to find the treasure balls.

However, this time, it showed Park Moondae’s movement.

[Going to the back door?]

Sejin Keun and Gold 1 unilaterally followed, but with the camera caught it from a distance, it looked very natural.

The three of them immediately started looking for the ball behind the back of the participants.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋThat's

– That's awesome

– Wow. He came up with that in such a short time

– I think the idea is really good

– Park Moondae's personality is annoying, but let's admit it. He is talented. That's why it's even more annoying

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋCorrect

The three worked well together and when they heard the sound of other participants coming, they immediately shook them off and moved to another place.

The viewers were amazed, and Park Moondae's fans liked it more.

– As expected, our Moon Puppy is smart

– They all moved their body so they made steady progress. As expected of October

– But Moondae found so many balls so why is it frozen food ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

'That's it.'

Park Moondae's home master clicked the heart on the most recent post and quickly concentrated on the broadcast again.

And she confirmed the scene.

The scene where Park Moondae, who smoothly collected the balls, received one bronze ball from Seon Ahyun and handed over all of his balls.

Chapter 25

Seon Ahyun accepted the balls from Park Moondae with a frozen face.

His interview was inserted shortly after.

[Seon Ahyun: A-Actually, I-I'm not good with instant food… I can't eat it.]

And like a flashback, a video taken with a fixed camera was briefly broadcasted.

The figure of Seon Ahyun, who had his head down on the bed because he was not feeling well, was faintly seen in the light of the thin bathroom.

[Park Moondae: Are you okay?]

[Seon Ahyun: I-I am okay…]

[Park Moondae: Wait a minute.]

Park Moondae went out of the dorm.

And after a while.

[Participant Park Moondae brought digestive medicine.]

He reappeared with subtitles.

In fact, this happened during the early evaluation.

At that time, Park Moondae was actively using the characteristic 'Sleeping is dying' so he wasn't sleepy at night and had relatively enough time.

Thanks to this, he could afford to respond to the voice of conscience in return for the chocolate that Seon Ahyun gave him.

For reference, Park Moondae had completely forgotten about this when preparing for the PR broadcast.

Seon Ahyun, who wasn't aware of that, said in an interview with an apologetic and grateful expression.

[Seon Ahyun: H-He might have been afraid that I wouldn't be able to eat them… so he changed it.]

[Seon Ahyun: T-Thank you, Moondae-ya.]

[Park Moondae: (Nodding his head)]

Of course, Park Moondae's cut was from an interview that had nothing to do with it.

But on the outside, it looked quite heartwarming.

– I never imagined this development

– What's this, chicken feet is actually good

– Is he actually shy?

– I'm starting to warm up to Moondae ㅋㅋ

The general audience was like this, so the fans added.

– Moondae is easy to misunderstand because he doesn't do any tricks, but in fact, he's the type to take care of those around him

– Our puppy… He's a real puppy

– Moondae, aigoo, you pushoverㅠㅠ you picked chicken feet well but why did you have to give him all of yoursㅠㅠ

– The flower crown was picked by Moondae

– Moon Puppy is so sweet

Park Moondae's home master was naturally happy with the favorable editing and response, but she was also a little anxious.

'What if they're selling out his personality?'

The personality appeal was perfect for a backlash.

This was especially the case towards the second half of the program.

They had to drag a participant down to make room for other participants.

Personality appeal could be destroyed just by a minor report of immoral behavior in school days.

And there were quite a few other participants who had already uploaded their graduation photos.

'Come to think of it, there's nothing known about Moondae.'

Is it because he's such a quiet student?

She imagined Park Moondae sitting on the pavilion on the top of a rice field, wearing a straw hat with an indifferent expression.

'It suits him…!'

It was originally common in the early days of becoming a fan to have symptoms where it felt like that person would make a good picture wherever you put them.

In the meantime, various participants were shown preparing for a PR live in the broadcast.

From Kim Raebin, who picked an electronic piano and made a theme song for Idol Inc., to Keun Sejin, who promoted a sneaker by performing an idol random play dance.

There were a lot of funny scenes.

Focusing on some of the top participants, it also briefly shed light on the situation of the participants who failed to bring a ball.

[If you don't have a collaboration item, then our program! Please promote <Idol Inc.>!]

Of course, most of them did not make it to the top 33 and barely managed to continue the broadcast for 10 minutes.

There was no way it would be fun to have a dozen people running the same boring content at the same time.

And it briefly shed light on the participants who promoted unusual collaboration items, and Park Moondae, of course, came out here.

The scene where Park Moondae set down the chicken feet and sat down was even perfectly subtitled.

[Park Moondae (Chicken feet lover) A.K.A Mukbang's New Star]

[Cha Yujin: It was really incredible.]

The reaction of Cha Eugene, who watched with his mouth wide open, passed briefly.

Her timeline was once again plastered with the word 'cute'. It also included her own writings.

– Mundae is so cute, breaking the chicken feet ㅠㅠ

The preparation process for the PR broadcast ended moderately warmly as if the live had ended well.

It passed as if the fact that some participants accidentally revealed other participants' secrets or talked about sensitive problems that occurred during filming never happened.

Even though two people voluntarily dropped out after being harassed on the Internet.

As long as the program was on the track for popularity, there was no need to unnecessarily reproduce the controversy of the participants on the main broadcast.

Because they had already guessed this would be the case, the majority of viewers were sarcastic and criticized it once or twice before focusing on what happened next.

It was the long-awaited announcement ceremony for each team's individual competition.

[Everyone! Do you remember the reward for the participant who won first place in the individual voting of the first team match?]

[Ah…]

[1st ranking announcement ceremony, these people passed!]

On the screen, several participants murmured, 'I wish it was me' could be seen.

And after the MC added unnecessary words with his flamboyant skill, he called the winner of each team.

Of course, the majority of participants tried to pretend to celebrate.

[Wow]

[Congratulations!]

In particular, Ryu Chungwoo's team members, who were controversial, tried not to look offended when Ryu Chungwoo was announced as number 1.

However, in the broadcast, it was aired in a strange atmosphere again.

[…]

[…Oh.]

[Congratulations!]

[Yes, thank you. You've been through a lot… Sorry.]

[…No. What.]

'It's such a shame that it's like that.'

Familiar with this pattern, she was rather antipathetic to the editing.

Perhaps regular viewers of survival show felt similar emotions.

Of course, the winner of first place in Park Moondae's team 'Oktober 31' was also announced.

[October 31's No.1 is… Congratulations! Participant Seon Ahyun!]

[…!]

The team members of October 31 who surrounded Seon Ahhyun were surprised.

[Oooh!!]

[I knew Ahyun could do it~]

[Congratulations!]

[Great job.]

[T-t-thank you…]

It was an appropriately harmonious show.

‘Thank God!’

She was relieved but also felt a little sad.

‘I thought Moondae could have won it.’

She knew that there was no real merit in receiving that, and she knew that it could get him attacked for no reason, but it was still disappointing.

A similar outlook came out of her SNS timeline.

– Congratulations, Ahyun~

– It’s a bit disappointing, but I like Moondae’s heartwarming response

– Blonde Moondae appeared for a long time! Ahhㅠㅠ I’m so happy

– Everyone did well, so it’s not weird no matter who won itㅠㅠ

– Moon Puppy, you did a great job~

Maybe if she did a more blatant search… She could find this reaction quickly, too.

– The arrangement and the mental care were done by Moondae, but Seon Ahyun just ate them raw ㅋㅋ Ah, my love for humanity is shattered~

(TL note: eat raw = produce results without effort.)

Of course, there were some malicious individual fans.

Fortunately, thanks to Moondae’s new visual as he gave congratulatory remarks on the screen, the topic quickly shifted.

She quickly captured and uploaded a close-up shot of Moondae.

– I don't know who did it but thank you so much for Moondae's blond hair… (Capture photo)

On the broadcast, the MC was saying something meaningful again.

[By the way, what would happen if a participant who was originally rejected passed?]

[Oh…!]

[Ah, no way]

[Everyone, the participant with the lowest score will be eliminated!]

For reference, she wasn't interested at all while watching.

'Please don't call Moondae quickly…!'

She was just nervous, hoping that Park Moondae would be called in the second half.

[Let me announce the 47th-place contestant.]

She was thinking of making a sales video for WeTube while the bottom ranks were passing by, but she couldn't get her mouse to work properly.

'Why am I so nervous…!'

When she finally couldn't stand it and brought her soda and sat down, the announcement finally entered the top 30.

After that, it cut up again in the middle and proceeded with the boring drink PPL content.

'Not even a single cut of Moondae came out…!'

This was because he hadn't touched the drink since he almost spit it out, but that was something that viewers couldn't have known.

It was only around the time of the announcement for the 31st place that an interesting scene finally came out.

[31st place is Kwon Heeseung!]

He was a participant on October 31 alongside Moondae who was referred to as Gold 2.

Among the people who came out to the podium to greet him, Park Moondae was one of them.

[Congratulations.]

It was very cute that he gave an awkward high-five with a serious expression.

Meanwhile, the MC made a joke that didn't even make sense.

[You're the first member of the October 31 team to advance to the next broadcast! Is that why the number is 31?]

[I think so!]

Starting with Kwon Heeseung, members of October 31 began to be called to the podium from time to time.

After Choi Wongil and Ha Iljun (Gold 1) were announced in the mid-20s, they weren't called for a while.

Then came 13th place.

[Congratulations. 13th place is… Participant Lee Sejin! Oh, there are two of them!]

Lee Sejin and Lee Sejin reflexively raised their heads, one smiled shyly and the other returned it with a firm expression.

[Among the two of them… It's Lee Sejin (B)! Also called Keun Sejin! He was the leader of October 31.]

[Ahaha!]

Keun Sejin smiled excitedly and gave a handshake to Lee Sejin who received it reluctantly.

After that, Keun Sejin went up on the podium with cheers from the participants who pretended to know him.

[Wow! 13! It's exactly like our team. It must be fate.]

Keun Sejin made a joke according to the situation.

He climbed up after neatly expressing words of encouragement and sincere gratitude.

Moondae is in the top 12!

She swallowed and waited for the next announcement.

Since Park Moondae didn't have a known presence before the first episode aired, this alone was a tremendous achievement.

[The participant ranked 11th… It's Seo Hyuncheol!]

And Moondae's name was not called until the 11th place.

It finally reached the number that could be counted with fingers.

10th, 9th……

[The participant in 8th place… Oh, it's the participant who performed MallangDalkom's song in the first team match.]

'Done…!'

She relaxed her shoulders and exhaled her breath.

He probably would call Moondae. She thought of it almost like it was a foregone conclusion.

First of all, child actor Lee Sejin had overwhelming recognition in the beginning, and Seon Ahyun had a very good index thanks to his last stage.

She thought those two would be called after Moondae.

[This participant showed unexpected charms…]

After taking turns illuminating the three remaining October 31 participants for quite some time, the MC continued.

[It's participant Lee Sejin!]

[…!]

Lee Sejin stood up with a stiff face.

Seon Ahyun and Park Moondae, who were still in their seats, gave congratulation as if out of habit.

[Congratulations.]

[C-Congratulations…]

[Thanks.]

Lee Sejin smiled faintly and gave an awkward greeting on the broadcast.

And she shouted with her voice.

"Ooooh!"

The responses on related communities were also exploding.

– What?

– Omg Lee Sejin

– I thought he would be in the top 5

– 8th place?

– Although there was a rumor about his personality, I thought he would maintain the rank by coming out as a hard worker

– It's pretty close, how interesting;;

– It seems the other participants are pushed out of the rankings?

Lee Se-jin bowed his head and left the podium with a short and bold remark, 'Thank you, I will do my best.'

She grabbed her mouse.

"Then what is Moondae's rank?"

Chapter 26

[This participant has been noted for his outstanding dancing skills.]

'Moondae isn't in 7th place either!'

She clenched her hands and screamed wildly inside.

In the meantime, voting… No, it was worthwhile to persistently post videos and posts on SNS asking to buy stocks.

Then came up the 6th place, and 5th place.

[This participant… He's drawing attention with his unique ideas and talents.]

Finally, the MC called out Park Moondae.

[5th place, participant Park Moondae!]

The camera caught Park Moondae, who had been sitting down, standing up from his seat.

'Crazy, really crazy… '

She couldn't hold back the overflowing screams and wrote on SNS.

[Crazy Moondae 5th place ah Moondae-ya ㅠㅠ I knew you'd do well, our Moondae

Because you're a genius ㅠㅠ Thank you for being an idol, really ㅠㅠ]

And she deleted it without posting it.

She couldn't post it because her SNS, which had already become a well-known account, couldn't be used for frivolous reasons.

Park Moondae went up to the podium, his golden brown hair swayed as he bowed his head once, and then began to talk.

[I don't think I deserve this rank. I will show you my development so that I don't go against the expectations of the shareholders who bought my stocks. Thank you.]

And he bowed his head.

It was a standard speech, but perhaps because of the choice of words, it reminded her of a corporate fair rather than an idol.

As words like 'are you a CEO, Moon Puppy? ㅋㅋ' ran rampant on SNS, the MC asked a question that had been prepared beforehand.

[You got a lot of attention from promoting chicken feet. If you debut, what kind of mukbang would you want to do again?]

[Hmm… Steamed daechang?]

(TL note: daechang is cow's large intestine.)

The MC burst out laughing at the unusually specific product name.

[Is there a reason?]

[It's the second most delicious food after chicken feet.]

There was laughter here and there at Park Moondae's calm answer.

The MC wrapped it up on a humorous note.

[Ah, PPL-related products again! The participant who cares about Idol Inc.~ The 5th place! Participant Park Moondae!]

[Thank you.]

Park Moondae just smiled faintly and bowed his head again.

And he moved up to the seat that matched his rank.

The editing was moderately sensible and didn't leave any room for controversy.

While watching, she breathed a sigh of relief.

She was worried because there had been subtle editing that gave strange tension to Park Moondae's attitude every time.

'You must be biting on another participant.'

Unsurprisingly, Kim Raebin, who was announced in 4th place, received an uncomfortable edit.

The conflict between the 7th ranked participant and the team battle was highlighted, so this seemed to be the aftermath of that.

Anyway, she watched the rest of the announcement with a more relaxed mind.

In fact, it didn't really matter who it was.

'Now that it's like this, I wish Seon Ahyun is safe. Oh, and I wish Cha Eugene would fall a little.'

Cha Eugene's malicious fans were calling Moondae names and posting bullshit on SNS. It made her so angry she wanted to sue them.

However, <Idol Inc.> usually picked participants who had left their agency, so it had traditionally been difficult to calm public opinion through accusations to the agency.

'Even Moondae is just an ordinary citizen… '

She was just worried that he might have been hurt while searching.

‘Once he debuts, I’ll send pdfs to his agency as soon as possible.’

She made a firm decision and continued watching the broadcast.

Seon Ahyun was in 3rd place.

“T-th… Thank you. Huu.”

Seon Ahyun burst into tears and said thanks.

The tearful reaction cuts of several team members of October 31 were captured together along with a touching BGM.

“T-that I c-can do it…, I-I didn’t think of that. It-it’s all… It’s all thanks to the team. That, and those who v-voted… Thank you for that.”

The MC mouthed, ‘It’s not a vote, it’s a stock!’

However, the cross-editing of Seon Ahyun, who couldn’t see it because he was too hectic, brought a small smile to the viewers.

Seon Ahyun sniffled and went to his seat, and in the process, the warm interaction of October 31 team members, including Park Moondae, was briefly highlighted.

It was proof that the production crew was also conscious of the hot reaction on the Internet.

After that, Cha Eugene and Ryu Chungwoo were nominated for 1st and 2nd places just as everyone expected, and after the competition, Cha Eugene was announced as 1st place.

“Great!”

‘Ryu Chungwoo would’ve been better!’

Cha Eugene, who gave a bright and cheerful acceptance speech, seemed a bit cheeky.

However, she was not stupid enough to write malicious comments, so she decided to just be happy with Park Moondae's fifth place.

The participant who received less attention was announced in 49th place, and the ranking announcement ceremony ended blandly.

Park Moondae's portion was also over after the heartwarming scene where members of October 31 gathered and laughed at Seon Ahyun.

'It's too bad.'

For fans like her, there wasn't enough content. She wanted to see more.

Next time, she hoped that she would be able to take pictures on her way to work, and she wished for Park Moondae to be safe.

After the ranking announcement ceremony was over, filming for the next team match probably continued.

'Isn't he going to be on the same team with Keun Sejin or Seon Ahyun again?'

She speculated and wished deeply.

'Whoever it is, I hope Moondae can make a great stage comfortably!'

* * *

I feel like something is going to break.

What is this situation?

"Ah! He has picked participant Park Moondae!"

The MC's excited voice and the participants' surprised exclamations rang everywhere.

"Oh my!"

“Moondae hyung?”

Even though the number was reduced from 77 to 49, it was still the size that made my ear ache.

Are you surprised? I am surprised, too.

Why did he pick me?

“Like this, participant Park Moondae… You will be joining Kim Raebin’s team.”

Filming the second team match right after the ranking announcement ceremony was a routine I had expected.

– The team… will be chosen by drawing lots!

– The 7 participants I pick will become the leaders, and they will take the quiz to select team members!

I knew this rule would come out at least once.

But I didn’t know he’d pick me.

Kim Raebin.

He was a participant from the same agency as Cha Eugene and was currently ranked 4th. As far as I remembered, he was ranked 2nd in the final.

By the way, he never even said hello to me.

“Then, participant Park Moondae, please move!”

I trudged along and stood next to Kim Raebin.

‘I can’t ask why you picked me out of the blue.’

I don't know what kind of editing I will receive if I do. First, let's nod at each other as if we're business partners.

"Nice to meet you."

"Yes, I look forward to your kind cooperation."

Fortunately, unlike his fierce impression, he greeted me well.

'I guess he didn't have bad intentions.'

I guess I had some prejudice because he gave the image of a handsome bully that teenagers seemed to prefer these days.

'So you really picked Park Moondae because he seemed useful.'

Kim Raebin was a participant focusing on rapping, so it wasn't strange if he didn't pay attention to the main vocal position.

In the first place, If I was chosen by a low-ranking participant I would have guessed I was chosen as the main vocalist.

But obviously… In Kim Raebin's last team, there was a participant who was originally going to debut in the main vocal position.

And yet you skipped him?

'Oh, you're uncomfortable with the last team.'

Now that I thought about it, it was better to skip them.

That's because the atmosphere in Kim Raebin's former team was shattered because of the individual reward for first place.

Well, I remember the last episode.

– Didn't you give me this part on purpose?

– No. It’s so everyone can perform their best on the stage……

– So you thought I could only do this much.

It didn’t appear on the show, but after the individual voting reward was announced, I heard that there was a guy who grabbed him by the collar.

‘That brutality was shown very well on the broadcast.’

Thanks to this, Cha Eugene was the only one who survived the broadcast with good editing.

The team’s main vocalist didn’t have a lot of footage, but it wasn’t strange if they cut off each other due to the awkwardness.

And out of the remaining vocals, it would make sense if you chose Park Moondae, the most verified vocalist.

‘But it’s a bit weird that you chose me first.’

It’s nothing to worry about right now, so I let it be.

I quickly organized my thoughts and grasped the situation.

“Next quiz~ Five words that start with ‘Park (박)’.”

“Museum (박물관), applause (박수), bat (박쥐), Park Hyukgeose(박혁거세), park goji (박고지).”

Kim Raebin immediately raised his hand and answered correctly. His momentum was staggering.

“Wow! Participant Kim Raebin, you got it right twice in a row!”

“Aaahh!”

“Isn’t this too advantageous for rappers?”

With the rich reactions of the participants who grasped the broadcasting system, Kim Raebin immediately pointed out the next participant.

“Cha Eugene… I’ll pick this participant.”

Even if he was on the previous team, he was in first place. I would have done the same.

He was surprisingly wise.

Looking at the last team match, it seemed that he had worse social skills than Lee Sejin, but was it just the power of rumors and editing?

However, I didn’t know what effect it would have on me if the team was formed like this.

‘I think it’s going to be very different from the first round.’

“Good choice!”

“Yes.”

Cha Eugene ran quickly as soon as he was picked and pretended to know Kim Raebin.

And then he raised his thumb at me.

“We are together!”

“Yes… That’s right.”

“You’re good on stage!”

“Yes. I look forward to your kind cooperation.”

I don’t know how long I have to talk like this. It’s awkward.

The funny thing is, I was the only one who felt awkward. Cha Eugene was nodding his head at the context that he alone understood.

I could already predict our future communication.

In the meantime, Kim Raebin was relentlessly recruiting teammates. His batting average was quite good, so he quickly filled the team.

“Participant Ryu Chungwoo.”

“Participant Min Jeonghoon.”

And I was starting to feel uncomfortable.

The lineup was too good. Here, ‘good’ meant that their ranking was high.

All the team members were in the top 15. Just thinking about what kind of editing would come out was already confusing.

‘Isn’t that mean you wouldn’t know unless you’re really that good?’

Even worse, I was the only one who felt that the picture got a little weird.

This is because Choi Wongil was among the first 7 people to choose participants to join.

“Seon Ahyun!”

“Keun Sejin, ah, Lee Sejin hyung!”

Starting with Seon Ahyun, Choi Wongil almost restored all of his teammates from the first team match.

Of course, I was excluded. Raebin picked me first, so there was no choice.

‘Well, I don’t think he would have picked me even if there was room.’

However, there was one more person from October 31 who Kim Raebin picked first.

“Lee Sejin, a former child actor, participant Lee Sejin (A)! You will join Kim Rae-bin’s team~”

Lee Sejin walked to this side with a complexion that didn’t look so good.

This meant that the ticking time bomb that didn’t explode thanks to the crazy social skill of Keun Sejin, Gold 1, and Gold 2 in the first round was now joining Kim Raebin’s team.

Why did he pick Lee Sejin?

Did he pick him because he had the highest rank among the remaining people?

After looking at the remaining members who had not yet been selected, I turned my head and saw Choi Wongil’s team.

“Moondae~”

When our eyes met, Keun Sejin and Gold 1, and Gold 2 held out their hands with sad expressions as if they were doing some kind of skit.

And Seon Ahyun, who looked embarrassed, waved his hand nervously.

This… What is this ominous feeling of being on the wrong end of the rope?

A chill ran down my spine. I think this is the moment when I need some supernatural help.

‘Status window.’

Chapter 27

I brought out the achievement pop-up that I had turned off.

[Calling for fame!]

50,000 people remembered your existence!

: Draw Rare Characteristic ☜ Click!

It appeared after the first episode aired, so it was a pop-up from a few weeks ago.

'I unintentionally left it.'

In fact, not long after the third episode aired, I achieved the achievement of 100,000 people and it gave me points as a reward.

So here's my current status window.

[Name: Park Moondae (Ryu Gunwoo)]

Level: 12

Title: None

Vocal: A

Dance: C+

Visual: B+

Talent: C

Characteristic: Infinite potential, I heard it's true (C), Look at me! (D)

!Status abnormality: Debut or die

Remaining points: 1

For reference, the practice points obtained during the team match were already distributed one by one for vocal and dance stats before the team stage.

Ah, taking a look at the visual stat, wouldn't it be a waste to turn my visual into an A stat? There was only one point left.

Of course, it would be a waste.

'However… Unlike other stats, if my visual changes rapidly, I will be suspected of using plastic surgery rather than natural growth.'

This was especially true if the level of the alphabet was changed.

In the beginning, I upgraded it from C+ to B-, it could be excused that I started managing my visuals while preparing for the broadcast. But there was no excuse if I raised from B- to A- right away.

Raising B+ from B- was barely possible due to the long-month break and hairstyle change.

'Well… I am thinking of strengthening my puppy image too, so this is fine.'

Looking at the search rankings, among dog breeds, golden retrievers seemed to be the trend these days, so it would be better if I could give people that impression.

Well, the chatter got long. Let's go ahead and pick out characteristics from the pop-up.

'I hope something useful comes out.'

In the new pop-up, the familiar roulette machine spun and stopped. It was a brass box.

Once again, I didn't catch the silver box which appeared to be high-grade. Just as I was about to think it was such a pity, I saw the name of the characteristic.

[Characteristics: 'Look at me! (D)' Acquired!]

People pay a little more attention to your actions.

'…?'

Why is it this one again?

The pop-up did not stop there, a new phrase appeared.

[Checking the duplicate characteristics!]

Do you want to synthesize 'Look at me (D)'?

This… Isn't this 'Strengthening the duplicate items' which is common in mass-produced trash games?

I couldn't figure out where this system came from.

'Once I debut and avoid sudden death… I'll have to look into it.'

Anyway, there was no other choice, so I synthesized it.

[Successfully synthesized!]

Acquired 'I want to be the center (C)'!

People pay a lot of attention to your actions

– When activated, 'Talent' stat rises by one level

The name was terrible, but the content was impressive.

If it could increase my Talent stat, I welcomed it. This characteristic used to be like a chicken rib, but now it was revived.

(TL note: chicken rib = something that doesn't really give value or benefit, but you can't easily throw it away.)

It felt like that.

But it was the 'Talent' stat. What a mysterious increase in ability.

To put it bluntly, it was the ability to stand out in front of the camera, and to put it simply… Um, it was equal to the quality of a star.

Just in time, there was the participant with the highest Talent stat next to me.

"Like this! The team has been decided~"

"Uwaa!"

I heard the MC's remark signaling that the recruitment of team members was over.

I also responded with moderate applause and secretly checked Cha Eugene's status window.

[Name: Cha Eugene]

Vocal: C+ (B+)

Rap: B

Dance: A+ (S+)

Visual: A (S)

Talent: A+ (EX)

Characteristics: Black hole (A)

It was a terrifying window status even when I looked at it again.

The three consecutive A stats made me think this kind of guy was meant to be an idol.

In particular, Cha Eugene had the highest stats and potential among the participants.

It was higher than Youngrin, one of the judges, which meant that it was higher than most official idols.

And now, one of the lowest stats in my status window was ‘Talent’ that I had just managed to fix.

It would be nice if I could get a hint during this team match as to which one of the two, Dance or Talent, that I should upgrade first.

“Everyone, please say hello to your team members first! As soon as the greeting is over, I will introduce the second team match!”

For now, the question was whether or not the team match would end well.

I thought silently as I looked around at the faces of the team members who quietly gathered according to the MC’s words.

‘Let’s not get involved no matter what kind of mess that might happen.’

* * *

“Oh, I look forward to your kind cooperation.”

Ryu Chungwoo, who suppressed the strange power struggle of other participants and became the leader, greeted the team members with a smile.

Everyone clapped their hands, but I felt the tension underneath it.

'This… I think it'll get caught even if it doesn't get edited.'

The production team was amazing at catching this kind of restraint.

"Have you guys greeted each other?"

"Yes!"

"Oh, it's good to look heart-warming~ Then, shall we announce the second team assignment?"

"Uwoooh!"

Even when the participants shouted at the words of the MC, the participants of this team had a relatively respectful attitude.

'It's like the feeling of losing your body when you're in the same group with other students in liberal arts.'

Anyway, it's not a problem that I can solve, so let's just focus on what the MC says.

"For the second team match, there's content that has been consistently done in <Idol Inc.>~ Do you know what it is? Oh! That's right. It's the <Rediscovery of Hidden Masterpieces> project!"

They're doing it again this season.

"On the website… They voted out of 50 songs, right?"

"Yes."

There were murmurs around. Whether the participants actually knew or not, they all gave conventional reactions.

"Masterpieces that unfortunately didn't shine for many reasons! This is a project that <Idol Inc.> will reinterpret and present in front of the public once again, and this year too, our shareholders have selected several idol masterpieces!”

To put it bluntly, it wasn’t successful but the song was okay, so they wanted us to remake it and use it as our own song.

‘The composition fee will be fixed so there is no creative economy.’

As I was admiring the production crew’s amazing cost-cutting ability, someone suddenly talked to me from the side.

Surprisingly, it was Lee Sejin.

“…Is there any song you want to sing?”

“What?”

He looked regretful for speaking up, but a question was still a question, so I answered it anyway.

“I hope it’s an addictive song.”

It meant that even though the song must have been low-profile, I didn’t want to do a song that wouldn’t do well.

“What about you?”

“I… I want to do <Base>”

It was a good choice. <Base> was the title song of a popular idol when they were still unknown, just like the debut song from the last team match.

I had actually seen the stage, and I remembered that the concept was strong and the melody was addictive.

“That’s a good song. I think it’ll be good to make it into a stage.”

“…Yes.”

Lee Sejin nodded in affirmation.

Just I wondered if he was finally starting to take care of his social skills, Cha Eugene suddenly intervened in the conversation.

“I like that song, too. ‘Base~ Uh, the ringing heartbeat~’“

“…Ah, yes.”

Lee Sejin closed his mouth with an uncomfortable expression.

‘This guy is like this all the time.’

If this is how it’s going to be, I want to ask why you come out here in the first place.

Anyway, a camera was here so it would be better not to leave it alone. Let’s just sort it out.

“I see. I hope we can do it this time.”

“Yes!”

Cha Eugene happily affirmed, not a single thought behind those eyes.

‘He doesn’t have any sense or context, but he’s a positive guy.’

As they evaluated in their own ways, the MC finally announced the selection method.

“There are seven things on the table that you can see in front of you!”

Certainly, a table was seen quite far from the participants.

“These are belongings of the original singers of each different ‘Hidden Masterpieces’~ You can use your reasoning and intuition to pick one of these items! You can choose.”

“Ugh.”

“Ah~ I’m not good at this!”

“The method is- Oh, it’s traditional. It’s running! Leaders, please get ready!”

“Running?”

Ryu Chungwoo, who was good at sports, was the leader, so this situation was favorable.

Of course, it would be effective only if we could match the song selection by looking at the original songwriter’s stuff.

However, such an approach was possible.

“That pouch! I think it’s a girl!”

“Baseball… Are they a fan of baseball?”

“Oh, it’s a skull pencil. They’re somewhat unique?”

There were loud murmurs here and there. Everyone seemed to be thinking in their own way.

Oh, this team reached an agreement in a flash.

“I’d like you to bring the item that looks the most expensive when viewed from a close distance.”

“Um, yes!”

It looked like his reasoning was that someone who put expensive things here had a high probability of being a successful entertainer, it sounded plausible enough.

Perhaps it was a judgment that considered not only the song selection but also the amount of broadcasting footage.

At Kim Raebin's words, Ryu Chungwoo nodded and agreed.

Soon after, the MC called the leaders again.

"Now, leaders. Are you ready?"

"Yes!"

"Well, here we go!"

The leaders ran recklessly and flew their hands over the table.

'No matter how you look at it, it doesn't look like you can afford to choose anything from there.'

Then isn't this song selection just about luck?

"All right, I got it!"

However, Ryu Chungwoo snatched something and returned with a smile.

And he held out the object with a confident face.

It was a baseball.

"This is a ball signed by Ryu Wanbeom!"

"Wow."

Everyone opened their eyes wide with a surprised look. Ryu Wanbeom was a famous hitter who made it to the Major League.

Cha Eugene immediately asked.

"How do you know?"

"I also watch baseball. So I found out right away."

Ryu Chungwoo smiled then threw and caught the baseball. The atmosphere in which things were going well temporarily relieved the tension within the team and created a comfortable atmosphere.

But it didn't last long.

"The owner of the baseball… Oh, it's Lee Chanwoo, the vocalist of the idol band 'Sun Island'!"

The owner of the baseball is… A stranger that no one knows.

"Who is that?"

No one in the team gave an answer to Cha Eugene's question.

"Wow!"

Right next to us, Choi Wongil's team was excited and making a fuss.

"Hello. I am Jung Haim and I am a movie actor."

"Ooooh."

The owner of the pouch chosen by the team's leader, Keun Sejin, was a famous female actor.

Perhaps because of the first team match, there was a strange sense of deja vu.

I shrugged my shoulders.

'Well, this kind of thing can happen.'

The most important thing is music anyway.

Of course, having a famous celebrity appeared would be advantageous in securing the amount of footage.

In addition, it would also be advantageous in blocking reactions such as 'You are taking away precious songs from poor unknown idols.'

But in the end, it was overwhelmingly beneficial to have a good song. In an audition program, the stage had to be good.

So if you check the song…

"The song I will entrust to you… It is <Burning Like the Sun>!"

Oh.

Oh… This… What should I do?

"Ah!"

"I know that one!"

The other team members exclaimed.

"I am glad that you know this song…"

"Sunbaenim, I'm listening well!"

The team was overflowing with relief.

It seemed they had regained vitality because it was recognized and known as a good song.

The original singer also seemed excited and eagerly introduced the song.

"<Burning Like the Sun> was released seven years ago, but it is still loved as a cheering song. I'm sure those who like baseball have heard the chorus."

"Oh, I know. It's a great song."

When Ryu Chungwoo answered softly, the original singer smiled happily. Cha Eugene opened his eyes wide and asked questions.

“How’s the chorus? I don’t know much about baseball!”

The original singer cleared his throat as if he had been waiting for that question.

“Ah, ehem. ‘Now, wake up~ Like that burning sun~’ This one.”

“Aha. That’s right.”

“Ha ha!”

The team members laughed harmoniously at Cha Eugene’s sloppy grammar.

It looked good to create a warm atmosphere with the original songwriter compared to before.

The problem was… The outlook was not good.

After this cut, I think they will probably put in subtitles that say ‘2 days later’ and show the team’s atmosphere as a preview.

Because that song is not suitable for idol survival at all…

Chapter 28

I'll be honest with you.

If someone asks me whether <Burning Like the Sun> is a good song, I could say that it is.

However, if they ask me whether it's a good song for an idol performance, I would tell them to quickly give up on the idea.

Because this song has the lyrics and sound of a typical 2000s rock band…

Trust me. I listened to this song whenever I went to shoot idols throwing the first pitch.

It's just an upbeat band song that doesn't even fit the cheerleaders' choreography. The coolness of the high-pitched sound is also an advantage.

In conclusion, the difficulty of arranging it is ridiculously high.

Can't I pick a characteristic related to composing? I need it right now.

Regardless of my feelings that went unanswered, the conversation between the original singer and the participants was hopeful.

The other team members only knew one or two lines of the song's addictive chorus.

"We haven't been active for a long time, so we couldn't sing this song that much. I hope you guys do a great job this time."

"We'll do our best to make a great performance!"

How?

…No, let's stop being stressed out over unnecessary things, If I don't get hit by the editing in this team match, I can think of it as a save.

Even if it goes like this, I can make a quick debut by catching a small and medium-sized agency.

'Still, the stage… I thought I'd be able to pull it off to some degree.'

I was strangely disappointed. I didn't know why I was so concerned about the stage when I didn't start this out of my own will in the first place.

'I have nothing to say if someone teases me for being too immersed.'

…But, it's fun.

All right, let's talk a little bit more carefully when discussing. Maybe another participant will come up with a good idea.

The original singer soon left the set. A few days later, he said he would watch our practice with the trainer during the mid-term evaluation.

And as the team members sat around, the story of the stage composition finally came out.

* * *

First of all, Ryu Chungwoo came up with a standard answer for the concept.

"Wouldn't it be best to go with a cheering squad concept? I think it'll go well with the song, and it's good to add a difficult choreography."

"Cheering squad? Hmm… Experience is a good thing."

"I think it's okay."

“It will be fun.”

Several people, including Cha Eugene, responded positively. The response was okay.

“What do you think? Raebin, Moondae, Sejin.”

Ryu Chungwoo quickly scanned the reactions of the team members and took notes of the three silent participants. Including me.

Rather than saying it now, It would work better if I said this after taking a look at the situation.

So let’s naturally look in the direction where the other two are sitting.

“Shall we hear Sejin’s opinion first?”

“…I think the cheering squad concept looks tacky.”

You’re hitting us with facts.

So far, there had been no malicious edits, so Lee Sejin’s uncooperative attitude had rarely been highlighted on TV.

Just by looking at a glimpse of it while searching for Park Moondae, Lee Sejin’s fans believed him to be a ‘sensitive and shy hard worker.’

However, since Ryu Chungwoo was edited well, Lee Sejin might be crushed by editing this time.

In any case, Ryu Chungwoo was not very agitated. He just asked back calmly.

“Do you have any other suggestions?”

“Because I don’t have any… I wasn’t going to tell you.”

“Hmm, all right. I got it.”

Ryu Chungwoo immediately asked Kim Raebin again.

“What do you think, Raebin?”

“I’m not familiar with this song, so I think I should listen to it first.”

“Okay. Let’s play it for now.”

When the smart pad provided to us was activated, a chorus melody played with an electric guitar came out, starting with the classical drum intro.

After everyone listened to the song with their mouths closed, Kim Raebin muttered first with a pale face.

“This is…”

Finally, there’s someone else who noticed this disastrous selected song.

First of all, the lyrics were a youthful love hymn that was popular in our childhood. In a good way, it was retro, and in a bad way, it was old-fashioned.

Naturally, there was no characteristic concept like a flower fairy or a vampire, and it was difficult to attach one to the song.

And since it was built on the basis of a good singer standing alone, the chorus octave was high enough to tear the throat.

What if I adjust the octave? The charm of the song would disappear.

This is because the song’s appeal was the exhilaration of the high notes that pierce the vocal cords.

“Hmm, the note is very high. Do you find any other difficulties?”

Kim Raebin inhaled as if he were going to pour out words, then he glanced at the camera and closed his mouth.

It seemed he was paying attention because he was beaten up over a personality controversy in the last team match that aired.

“So… Yes. The song is good, but I think it’s hard to arrange it.”

“Really? If you say that, it must be really difficult.”

Ryu Chungwoo readily agreed. It seemed that even though Kim Raebin’s broadcast was ruined in the first team match, he had taked the lead in the arrangement and selected the right song.

‘He changed a mass-produced EDM song from the late 2000s to a well-loved EDM trap, leaving only the sample bits.’

“Then what about Moondae?”

Finally, it’s my turn.

“I think we should decide on something before arranging it.”

“Like what?”

“Part distribution.”

You can’t see the answer in the selected song? Then we shouldn’t be focusing on this.

We have to focus on somewhere that doesn’t fail.

I assure you, I’m the only one in the team who can sing the chorus of this song properly right now.

To digest this right away, you’ll need an A stat vocal or higher, and I am the only one who has that on this team.

‘But I can’t sing the entire chorus by myself.’

So I had to start by cutting the parts and practicing so that my voice wouldn’t crack right away.

As for the arrangement, it doesn't seem like a reward will come out no matter what we bring in, so let's put it off for a while.

This is not the time to look at the big picture. It's a state of emergency.

If you convey this explanation as mildly as possible, it will be like this.

"It's a difficult song to sing, so I think we should practice first."

"Part distribution… Of course, it's important."

Ryu Chungwoo looked surprised.

"But that's unexpected. In your last team match, I heard that you decided to arrange the song first."

"Yes?"

It wasn't even shown on the broadcast, I didn't know how he knew that.

"Oh, I heard it from Keun Sejin."

'When did he talk to Ryu Chungwoo?'

That guy is not ordinary, either.

"Raebin-ah, I'm asking because you're the best at arranging the song. What do you think about Moondae's opinion?"

"…Yes, that's fine. As we practice, we have a lot of options… Let's think about it."

Kim Raebin readily agreed. Although he looked like he was observing a meteorite that would fall on Earth tomorrow.

"Well, then, I've heard all your opinions, so until we come up with a better idea, let's raise our hands."

Ryu Chungwoo didn't waste time and immediately organized the situation.

"First of all, raise your hand if you agree to proceed with the practice with the concept of a cheering squad."

The majority raised their hands. I obeyed for once.

Ryu Chungwoo didn't pay extra attention to Lee Sejin, who didn't raise his hand, and immediately moved on to the next agenda.

"Then, raise your hand if you don't mind distributing parts first."

Fortunately, this gained a majority vote too. Seeing that Lee Sejin raised his hand, I guess my explanation made sense.

Just before our eyes met, Lee Sejin quickly lowered his hand and averted his eyes.

Do you want to show that you agreed with the opinion but not with me? Why?

"Okay, then let's divide the parts first."

The part distribution progressed step by step and soon faced an expected difficulty.

"I don't think I can do it here."

"Oh, me too…"

"This is too high."

The high-pitched melody in the chorus appeared four times and occupied about half of the song.

However, except for Park Moondae, all the team members either failed or grabbed the back of their necks and became embarrassed.

A member of the team, who had very good singing skills with a B+ vocal, was anxious about his voice cracking, and eventually gave his opinion about ‘that’.

“I think it would be better to arrange it and lower the key before doing it. Since we have two rappers, why don’t we add some rapping?”

In other words, let’s arrange the song first. Damn it.

“Lowering the key…”

Kim Rae-bin’s expression darkened. The bad impression got worse.

But the tide had already turned.

“I think it’s right to lower it.”

“I agree.”

“Hmm, first of all, the team members should be able to digest it. Why don’t we lower the key and rearrange it to match that?”

Kim Raebin glanced around and eventually nodded.

“Yes… Then I’ll try.”

It seemed he was afraid that If he said he wouldn’t do it here, he would lose it all and get crushed by the editing again.

In the end, the arrangement was carried out, reflecting all the inconsistent opinions about ‘lowering the key,’ ‘adding a rap part,’ and ‘accompaniment suitable for the cheering squad concept’.

I guess those guys want to appear smooth with their loud voices when in reality, they’re failing.

The stage is already ruined.

I didn't bother to object to the whole process. No matter what I said, I was outnumbered anyway.

Even if I was lucky enough to trigger <I heard it's true>, without a proper alternative, I would only seem like a dissatisfied person.

In addition, I had no answers if a talk like, 'You can sing it, so why not sing it as it is?' began to come out.

I would be in trouble if I looked selfish and appeared on the show as a person with no social skills.

So, I needed an outsider to tell us frankly that this was terribly horrendous.

'In the end, staying still and doing nothing is the answer.'

The midterm evaluation, which only judged the first verse, was three days later, and if the judges had ears, at least one of them would tell how bad it was.

Until then, I'll have to think of an alternative.

"Let's make the choreography now!"

However, the choreography Cha Yujin made that day along with that shout, was the move from <It's me> with sudden extreme difficulty.

Thanks to this, I had to resist the urge to put the remaining stat points into the dance, regardless of the alternative.

As my stamina slowly melted, three days passed.

And, finally, we've entered the midterm evaluation.

* * *

"This team's ranking is so fancy~"

“Raebin has sharpened his knife!”

“Everyone had good results at the ranking ceremony.”

The judges talked about our rankings first.

The production team might have told them to mention it in advance, but it was the truth anyways, so it would serve as a way to set up expectations.

“Oh, the demo song is already out?”

“Yes!”

It was thanks to Kim Raebin’s direct conversation with the arranger.

“It’s great~”

“Right. This team is the only one! Instead of the original song, they’ve already made their own arrangement.”

“As expected of the team made up of talented people!”

The judges were already satisfied.

But.

“Hm…”

After the stage, the reaction was lukewarm.

The judges, who were shrugging their shoulders and exchanging eyes, eventually grabbed the microphones one by one.

“Actually, your stage itself doesn’t feel that bad, right? But it is not attractive.”

“That’s right. You made the choreography well, too. I can see your

wit. Um, the cheering squad concept… I think it's supposed to go well with the song, but why does it feel so gloomy?"

"It's a shame that the rap feels come out of nowhere. You touched the original song a lot, but it feels worse than the original song."

As the reviews piled up, the problems began to materialize.

Finally, judge Youngrin asked as soon as she grabbed the microphone.

"Who rearranged it?"

I didn't look at Raebin on purpose. Because instead of him, it was the people who brought it up who were the problem.

But when I looked around, everyone else was looking at Kim Raebin, so it didn't mean much.

"We all discussed it together."

Ryu Chungwoo quickly grasped the situation and turned it into a team responsibility. He also tried to neutralize the situation by saying he misled the team as the leader.

That's a good decision.

But there are trolls everywhere.

"Yes, and… Raebin did the arrangement."

You're going to cut your tail off like this?

'Are you crazy?'

You're doing this something stupid like this when the camera is on?

Looking at his embarrassed face, it seemed he was afraid of being criticized so he reflexively named someone else.

*‘Fu*k… ’*

If something went wrong, it would be edited out as bullying.

I also opened my mouth just in case they treated it like a wholesale price.

(TL note: wholesale price = a metaphor for a situation where several people in the same group are treated the same despite their differences.)

Chapter 29

The judges looked like they were about to say something along the lines of,‘Then are you guys saying that Raebin did everything wrong?’

So, I had to choose my words well.

‘I have to make it sound like I am listing facts, not trying to fix the situation.’

“Yes, Raebin… Since he could make an arrangement, we consulted with the arranger, and we all decided on the direction of the arrangement.”

Kim Raebin flinched.

‘He can’t open his mouth.’

Fortunately, Ryu Chungwoo came right in.

“That’s right. We’ll talk about the problem you mentioned and solve it. Therefore, on the day of the team match, we’ll make sure to show you the best performance.”

We saved it.

Ryu Chungwoo and I didn’t add anything else.

The judges looked thoughtful, but they soon nodded.

‘They probably thought that the opportunity to reprimand us already passed.’

It was a relief.

“Then you’ll have to start rearranging it again, but you’ll be far behind the other teams. Can you do it?”

“We’ll do it. We can do it, right?”

“Yes!”

“We can do it!”

If only it wasn’t for the guy who threw his senses to the trash can and brought us all the way here, hopefully, he wouldn’t miss the answer again.

Fortunately, this time, the troll also came to his senses and answered vigorously.

Judge Youngrin nodded.

“Okay, but you have to know that it can be a reckless challenge in this time constraint, the consequences are yours to bear.”

“That’s right. There’s no guarantee that changing it will make it better than it is now.”

But if the stage wasn’t good because we didn’t change it, there would be a reaction like, ‘Why didn’t you change it even after getting feedback?’

And since it would include something like ‘you have no challenge spirit’, it was meaningless.

In the end, whatever we do, the process is edited and evaluated according to the results.

All the participants knew this implicitly, so there was a sense of discipline and tension in the team.

“Yes, we’ll keep that in mind.”

The moment Ryu Chungwoo's answer seemed to end the situation, a voice interrupted.

"May I say something?"

It was the original singer with a microphone.

"Oh, yes… Go ahead."

With a slight reluctance, the judges answered the original singer who suddenly stepped in, and the original singer lifted the microphone with deep eyes.

"On your stage… I couldn't feel the power of < Burning Like the Sun >."

"…?"

What are you saying out of the blue when everyone's already done talking?

The original singer continued to talk over the people who were subtly bewildered.

"This song needs to inspire courage and passion in people's hearts, right? But just because you guys are handsome and good at dancing doesn't mean you can properly deliver that message."

"…"

Ah, yes…

"When we were promoting, we really wanted to give off that feeling. You shouldn't forget the respect for this kind of song just because you're a little famous now."

Aren't you ashamed to say things like that to audition participants who haven't even made their debut yet?

It seemed he mistook old-fashioned remarks as advice for kids. His ego also seemed bloated.

However, it was painful that we had to pay attention since our reactions would go into editing as well.

I still have to squeeze out an alternative arrangement, do I have to take that nonsense into account?

It was annoying, but if we refuted it, only the image of taking a song away from a ‘poor unknown idol original singer’ would come out, so everyone answered meekly.

“Yes!”

“We’ll keep that in mind.”

Well… Social life is like that.

* * *

After all the other teams finished their midterm evaluation, the rearrangement discussion finally began.

The troll hesitated and spoke to Kim Raebin.

“Hey, I’m sorry…”

Is it okay to let him apologize in front of the camera?

Well, since the team setup was already covered, it was up to him to fix his mistake.

Kim Raebin was silent for a moment but he soon nodded.

“No, it’s fine. It’s true that I was in charge of the arrangement.”

In fact, it wouldn’t be strange if he answered, *‘No, fu*k you, you’re the one who told me to do it’*.

Anyway, Ryu Chungwoo patted both of them on the back and ended the conversation.

“Great job, guys. Let’s talk about the arrangement again as soon as we’re ready.”

For reference, ‘ready’ here is referring to the camera setting of the production team.

“Yes!”

During the interlude, the participants dispersed briefly in determination.

Their expressions weren’t very good because the midterm evaluation was close, but perhaps because it was settled at the end, they still had some hope.

‘But hope is useful only if we can come up with an alternative.’

Looking at the situation, no one had come up with the arrangement direction, and it seemed they just expected something to come out.

It meant that they wanted to turn it into a happy situation without having to do anything.

‘The future isn’t very bright.’

“Hey, Park Moondae hyung.”

“Oh, yes.”

As I sat in the corner and tried to think alone, Kim Raebin spoke to me.

‘It’s unexpected.’

He hadn’t talked much to me in the last three days.

…No, come to think of it, he rarely talked to anyone for the past three days in the first place.

I practiced so hard that I couldn't afford to chat.

Anyway, Kim Rae-bin knelt next to me and said solemnly.

"…Thank you."

"No, what?"

He was probably thanking me for cutting off the troll's words earlier.

"It was the first time someone else helped me in such a situation…"

I see, I understand the situation roughly.

Kim Raebin was also worried.

If we fought because he couldn't adapt to the team again, he was afraid that the public opinion of him wouldn't be recovered.

'No wonder you're keeping a low profile.'

Sure enough, he slowly told his long story.

"I was worried that I would be criticized for lacking teamwork again after the first round, but thanks to Park Moondae hyung, I overcame the crisis. As expected, it was a wise choice to recruit someone with good teamwork first."

"…?"

Is it because of 'teamwork' that Park Moondae was picked first?

When I asked that question, he nodded.

"Yes, I saw you treat your team members reasonably. Of course, your singing skills were also great.”

“…Uh, yes. Thank you.”

He was very unique in the aspect that he believed the contents of the broadcast even after being crushed by editing on the said broadcast.

I can’t believe you trust Park Moondae’s teamwork ability even though I was edited as unsocial in the beginning…

It was really amazing. I would have understood it better if he had picked Keun Sejin.

‘Ah, you didn’t pick him because his role as leader overlapped with Ryu Chungwoo.’

I guess you have a standard.

As I was confused, Kim Raebin spoke again.

“Oh, hyung. I don’t mind if you speak comfortably.”

“…Um, yes.”

Well, it doesn’t hurt to talk to a high-ranked guy.

After I answered meekly, I realized that I had a question to ask in the current situation.

“By the way, do you have any idea about the arrangement?”

“…Actually, it’s a little difficult.”

Kim Rae-bin’s impression of a popular bully softened a bit, and his expression turned gloomy.

“Even if I start rearranging again, it’s a matter of which part and how much I should fix.”

So basically he didn't know how many touches he had to do in order to meet the deadline, because he already practiced everything.

"I don't think we should fix it too much… I don't know what to do because there's no unity in the corrections we have right now."

"That's true."

So he meant he didn't have any particular ideas and couldn't decide what to fix.

It was the same as me.

Kim Raebin muttered his worries as if he couldn't stop once he started.

"We should also reflect the original singer's advice, but I'm not sure what it means specifically to 'insert courage and passion'."

"…Yeah."

That's… really true.

It was hardly an advice.

'How can idols inspire courage and passion when they're not some sort of American superhero from the 1980s?'

"…?"

Wait. Just now… I think I realized something.

I recalled my previous thought and realized that I had caught a strange idea.

But the more I thought about it, the more the idea… fitted perfectly with the situation.

A concept idea that can be arranged so that it can be digested even if the original key is used as it is.

We didn't have to change the choreography of the cheering squad concept that we'd already practiced, and we could even catch the concept of 'courage' and 'passion.'

It might be a wonderful solution. But the problem is…

'…It's too much.'

That's right. Not only it was excessive, but it could also become childish. Then I couldn't just fix it. It was clear that even if only one person made a mistake on the stage, it would be ruined.

Huh?

"…No."

"Yes, hyung?"

"Wait a minute."

I ignored Kim Raebin's retort for now.

Instead, I shouted to myself as I saw the team members slowly returning after the break time.

'Status window!'

And I quickly swept through the status of my teammates.

"…!"

I didn't know about the other stats, but all of their 'Talent' stats were above B-.

For reference, having the B stat meant that they could go for the main position with that level.

Indeed, it was a team made up of only high-ranking people.

'This… Seems like this is going to work?'

No wonder the judges didn't really care about the out-of-season cheering squad concept.

"Raebin. This arrangement."

"Y-yes?"

I spat out the idea I had to Kim Raebin who seemed a bit bewildered.

"Yes…?"

Kim Raebin seemed perplexed at first. However, as I added more explanation, he became calmer, and soon his eyes began to shine.

(TL note: the eyes are described with 삼백안 which means a type of eyes that shows the white beneath the pupils. It doesn't translate well to English so I left it out.)

The response was better than expected.

"W-wait a minute."

Kim Raebin ran to the keyboard installed on one side of the practice room and began to tap something out.

And I thought of Kim Raebin's status window that I saw earlier.

[Characteristics: Maestro (A)]

: What you need is just a small opportunity.

When inspired, creative speed +120%

Just like Seon Ahyeon, there was also a separate golden spoon in his status window.

‘The ability to copy other people’s characteristics… Is there none? It comes out often in web novels.’

I wanted to lament, but I had to do what I had to do. I quickly called the status window.

And I invested the remaining points in the ‘Talent’ stat.

With this, my stat also entered B-.

‘All right, I match their figures.’

“Moondae, why did Raebin go to the keyboard all of a sudden?”

Ryu Chungwoo approached, unable to speak to Kim Rae-bin who was pounding the keyboard, and spoke to Park Moondae.

I shrugged my shoulders.

“I came up with a concept idea, and I guess he likes it.”

“What’s your idea?”

“Transformation Hero.”

Behind the confused Ryu Chungwoo, Cha Eugene whispered to the person next to him.

“What is a transformation water tongue?”

(TL note: Here, Cha Eugene heard it wrong. What Park Moondae said = 히어로물 (hiromuri). What he heard = 혀로물 (hyoromuri).)

There were five days left until the day of the ccompetition.

* * *

And five days later, on the day of the competition.

It was crowded in front of the stage set building where the second team match of <Idol Inc.> would be held.

The number of audiences hadn't increased much. It was only thanks to the soaring ratings and the increasing popularity index that there were more people wandering around and trying to listen to our voices.

It was terribly unsettling that some people were already giving out slogans and photo cards even though it was not the last broadcast.

'Wow, it's no joke.'

A woman stood in the line, avoiding the crowd with a sullen gesture.

At the request of a friend, both of them had applied to be part of the audience, however, she was the only one who managed to get in, so she finally canceled her class thinking 'Shouldn't I just go?'.

'Because it's so famous these days.'

Of course, this choice was greatly influenced by the request of the friend who appealed with tears and food, saying, 'Please, tell me how's Moondae doing.'

Still, in the back of her mind, she had this thought.

'Is it that good…?'

She had also seen a picture of Park Moondae with golden brown hair on SNS.

He was quite attractive, but she thought he wasn't handsome enough for her to like him.

Still, she entered the building, thinking that since she got treated to a meal, she should keep an eye on him.

She never imagined a future where she would beg her friend for a picture of Park Moondae after the audience was over.

Author's Thoughts

I change Seon Ahyun's name to Seon Ahyeon. I am sorry for the constant inconsistencies but bear with me please o(￣▽￣)o

Chapter 30

The woman who came to the audience at the request of her friend managed to sit in the middle seat with a good view.

‘I feel a little awkward.’

When the woman who had never seen such a spectacle alone felt embarrassed, the person sitting next to her spoke up.

“Who are you here to see?”

“What? Uh… Park Moondae?”

“Ah… yes.”

The person next to her, who was holding the slogan <Kim Raebin Debut> in one hand, looked up and down at her, and then quickly turned her head away while looking at her smartphone.

She felt strangely bad.

Feeling like coming here was a waste of time and emotions, the woman began to watch the first stage in a sullen mood.

“The first stage is… It’s <Fingerprint> from ‘Rolling Couple’!”

Along with the MC’s loud introduction, the stage of ‘Rolling Couple’, a mixed-gender idol group who failed after two activities, was briefly shown on screen.

It was shown under the pretext of ‘consideration for the audience who wasn’t familiar with the song because it was a hidden masterpiece’ and ‘respect for the original singer.’

However, in fact, it was intended to contrast the old idol's tacky stage with the current participants' stage.

"And the participants who reinterpreted this stage… They are Ha Iljun, Ji Taewoo, Lee Sejin, Seon Ahyeon, Choi Nahoon, Seok Heekang, and Choi Wongil~ Team 'Gigantic'! Please come in!"

The stage screen showing the original song suddenly turned off, and the profile photos of the participants filled the screen one by one according to the MC's call.

Then the screen gradually turned off, and the stage was illuminated.

– Feel it when you put your hands together~

Keun Sejin's smiling face filled the screen.

Tta-tta-tta-

And with the fast beat of the electro-house accompaniment, a splendid group dance unfolded on the stage.

'Wow… '

Unlike seeing it on the screen, it felt more powerful in the field because the sense of space in the choreography was alive.

It even felt a little shocking for the woman who was directly watching an idol performance for the first time.

'Should I have gone to a dance singer concert instead of a ballad singer?'

She unintentionally regretted it and enjoyed watching the stage in front of her, immersing herself in it.

"Thank you!"

So by the time she applauded the participants who left after the stage was over, she was completely excited.

‘This is actually kind of fun?’

It was boring to wait for the preparation in the middle of the stage, but watching the stage while the broadcasting equipment was running tasted different.

It was regrettable that the team’s skills fluctuated depending on the participants.

‘This team is a bit… Yeah.’

The second team was disappointing, and the third and fourth teams were quite fun.

Since the woman had never done the so-called ‘fangirling’, she forgot about it and only a lumpy feeling remained rather than a detailed appreciation of each stage.

First of all, the first team did the best so far, that was the impression left in her head.

‘I was told to vote for the two best teams on the way out, right?’

Saving a spot for the first team, she continued watching the stages.

The next teams also had their own concepts and were fun, but none of them left an impression as big as the first team.

‘Um, I’m a little tired.’

In fact, the teams in the second half were not inferior to the first half.

Looking at songs she didn’t know well one after another, the freshness she felt in the beginning disappeared and she started to get bored.

Moreover, the participant requested by her friend to watch had not yet appeared.

‘Isn’t it the last team now?’

Resisting the urge to turn on her smartphone, she barely listened to the introduction of the next team.

"This performance is… It's <Burning Like the Sun> by the band 'Sun Island'!"

And a video that looked like a music show from about 10 years ago appeared on the screen.

'Oh, this song.'

This was the cheering song she heard at the baseball stadium she went to with a friend who liked baseball.

'It was originally sung like this… '

Well, it wasn't as exciting as it was at a baseball stadium. She just thought it was a difficult song with a lot of high notes.

She sang the passionate vocals on the screen without much excitement and was startled by the MC's roaring voice.

"And the participants who reinterpreted the stage! Ryu Chungwoo, Lee Sejin, Kim Yujun, Park Moondae, Yoo Jiho, Kim Rae-bin, and Cha Eugene!"

'He just said Park Moondae, right?'

She hurriedly looked back at the screen. Profile pictures of the participants appeared on the screen.

'Oh, I know them.'

It was the last team because it had a lot of famous participants.

She repositioned herself with her anticipation rising again. The cheers that were several times bigger than before pierced her ears.

'Oh my gosh, they're really popular.'

“That’s right, the ‘Hero’ team! Coming in now-“

Before she could think the name was tacky, the stage went dark.

It was a dark stage with no screen lights.

The moment a ray of blue spotlight hit it.

A participant holding his index finger up to the sky like a gun was revealed.

A tall black jumpsuit with a racing suit-like pattern absorbed the intense blue lights.

In that hand, a red finger suit glistened in the light.

And she heard a low voice.

-Yah, yah-” Hero Time

[HERO TIME!]

In an instant, the same letters filled the screen.

Screech!

The intense bass began to tear the speakers apart with a blatant glitch sound.

All the lights on the stage came back as if they were exploding. And the seven people began moving in unison.

“…!”

As their outstretched limbs hit the floor and their bodies were bent, an elaborate group dance like a sword unfolded.

They were all dressed in black jumpsuits with different patterns.

Cha Eugene, located in the middle, started singing.

My heart is burning

as bright as the sun

A participant who stood up from behind took over and sang.

– It reaches far and high up in the sky

So that I can fly further and catch you

In the accompaniment where the typical band sound should flow, there was a heavy and intense dubstep sound, leaving only a rocking feeling.

WOB- WOB- WOB- WEEEB-I

BRMMMM-!

And the group danced again.

Participants who reached out with one hand moved as if they were doing martial arts.

She looked at the stage with her mouth open. The more intense movement caught her attention.

The choreography consisted only of large and solid movements without any small movements.

The composition, which might seem monotonous and excessive, just became powerful thanks to the change of movement in the blink of an eye.

-There's one thing that saves the world

A burning passion

Ryu Chungwoo, wearing a navy headband, sang the pre-chorus.

The moment she thought there was a strange and wonderful choreography that seemed to shoot at something, the chorus burst out.

Fly away! Until the end~

Until the day that shines like the sun!

The hair color of the participant, who sprinted forward and stretched a high-pitched tone, was shiny blonde.

A bright yellow glossy choker matched as if it had been made from his own hair.

With that high note, the participant was grinning.

'Crazy.'

Is that Park Moondae? The woman reflexively covered her mouth.

'Y-You're so bad at taking pictures…!'

He looked nothing like the picture her friend showed her!

That's not how you take a picture of someone who's good and cute!!

Beating low expectations had tremendous destructive power.

In addition, there was no business that could win over preference.

'I had similar tastes with her…!'

As she was getting a new realization, the stage entered a new phase.

Kim Raebin entered the seat where Park Moondae had sat down.

Goggles with purple lenses shook near his collarbone.

-Rising like a star

Shining like the sun

'Huh?'

The high note of the chorus continued in the original song, but for this part, rap came out instead.

However, the remaining chorus melody didn't disappear.

Instead, it was treated as a synthesizer like a sampler, adding a lively sound to the hip dubstep accompaniment.

When the rap was put on top of it, the momentum of the high notes did not die off. Rather, it felt easier to listen to.

Besides, the lyrics in that part were old, so the rap lyrics translated directly into English made the song more modern.

– It's flying away! Right now~

It's burning like the sun, time!

-Take your wings

And fly up

Let's catch up

To the moon!

'Wow… '

The woman who was not familiar with the original song only felt the impression that 'this one is better', but she certainly heard that the arrangement was much better than the other teams.

And most of all, the stage was just cool.

By the time the final chorus came out, she was leaning toward the stage, almost bewitched.

– Fly away! Until the end~

This time, Park Moondae and Kim Raebin sang the chorus as if they were exchanging at the end of the formation.

The choreography that moved as if it were a single body looked like a wave.

Under the blue-purple laser light, the black jumpsuit doubled the feeling of a sci-fi comic character.

And the last chorus with the super high note.

– I'll save your world!

"Oooh."

She swallowed a groan that was about to come out of her voice.

Park Moondae, who raised his head in the white pointing lighting, seemed to be able to save the world any time.

No, it was clear that he was saving the world…!

On the stage, Cha Yu-jin came out with the last dance break and back tumbling.

The body cut through the air and landed on the stage floor like a sequence in an action movie.

Thud.

It was a very symbolic, superhero landing.

Over the remaining accompaniment of the top line, narration like a glitchy announcement flowed out.

– Thank you for flying Hero Air today…

The boys on the stage slowly turned back.

And as they all raised a thumb-up together, the song ended.

Only then she realized that the surroundings were filled with tremendous noise.

“Aaaaah!!”

“Uwaaaah!!!”

All the cheers and screams that she unconsciously ignored while focusing on the stage rang in her ears.

What was even more surprising was that she was also screaming.

“It’s crazy!! Crazy!!”

The person sitting next to her was screaming as if she was about to jump out of her seat.

The slogan in her hand was already crumpled and shaken recklessly, so she wasn’t able to fulfill her original role at all.

In her head, images of Park Moondae smiling, Park Moondae pushing the high note all the way, and Park Moondae turning his back were playing endlessly.

At the same time, in order not to miss a single shot of Park Moondae leaving in front of her eyes, she thought with her eyes wide open.

‘Vote!! I have to vote!’

And above all, she was sure of one thing.

‘First place no matter what! Definitely the first place!’

This team is the winner!

* * *

After the stage was over, the ranking announcement began immediately in front of the empty audience seats where the audience had left.

With participants lined up in front of each team, the MC announced the next ranking.

“Third place… ‘Hero’ team, which reinterpreted <Burning Like the Sun>!”

“What?”

“Hey, that’s ridiculous.”

As soon as the MC’s presentation was over, the place was filled with murmurs from all directions.

I looked at the screen with cold eyes.

‘I knew this would happen.’

Chapter 31

“Wow, they got 3rd place?”

“No, weren’t they doing a great job?”

“In the first place, their ranking was the highest…”

“The reaction was crazy, too.”

When we got third place, the other team participants around us talked about it.

Thank you, but in fact, I had predicted this situation since the moment they said each audience had two votes.

‘The vote is to put us in check.’

If they came to the audience, it meant that most of them were heavy viewers who were pushing for certain participants.

The audience first chose the team that had their favorite participant.

And then they would have voted for the team with ‘low rank and good skill’.

There was no way they would vote for this team who could end up as competitors for the participants they pushed for.

If you think about it that way, honestly, getting 3rd place was a good save.

Because it meant that in addition to the audition who came to watch this team, we were able to gain the votes of the people who just came to watch.

However, the team members seemed to be quite shocked.

"…Thank you!"

Ryu Chungwoo, who answered a beat late, bowed vigorously.

The team members tried hard to copy his move, but it was clear that they were trying to look calm.

"Thank you."

I bowed my head, too.

The announcement of the first and second places was also postponed to the ranking announcement ceremony. Among them, there was the 'similar to the first match' team collected by Choi Wongil.

"Then, shareholders! <Re-listed! Idol Inc.> We'll see you again at the ranking announcement ceremony with the announcement of the 1st place in the team match!"

After the MC's closing remarks, Choi Wongil seemed to glance at this side with a triumphant look.

'Are you an idiot… '

He's always like that.

Is it because he hasn't seen the spicy taste of editing yet?

Anyway, this team was too out of mind to notice that. One by one, Ryu Chungwoo patted the shoulders of the team members who were applauding in a depressed state.

"Great job. It must have been cool because we did our best. Don't worry."

"Yes…"

“Yes, we did a good job!”

Well, as Cha Eugene said, we certainly did well on stage.

So if we got a sympathy vote for this, we wouldn’t be criticized.

In any case, no one in this team would be eliminated from the next ranking announcement, which was the best result.

The problem was the editing, but unless there was another editing where they only highlighted Ryu Chungwoo and blackened everyone else, it would be fine. Since the performance came out well.

Everyone already had a fandom, so any bad news would be wiped out in public opinion battles.

Kim Raebin, who was ruined in the first team match broadcast, but settled in the rankings through persistent public opinion battles by fans, was an example.

Ah, he’s talking to me.

“That… Park Moondae hyung.”

“Yeah, what is it?”

Kim Raebin nodded.

“Thank you very much for everything. Can we exchange contact information?”

“Yes.”

I gave my number without hesitation.

There was no harm in having a close relationship with this participant. Thanks to the songwriting characteristic, he ate the arrangement raw.

In addition, looking at his personality, unlike Keun Sejin who kept in touch all the time, he seemed the type who finished his business quickly on the phone when needed.

Kim Raebin bowed his head again after receiving my number.

“I’ll say hello from time to time.”

“…Good.”

I don’t know if I’m talking to an aspiring idol or to my successor.

‘Oh, come to think of it… ’

Is this an opportunity to change the so-called ‘group of tied participants’?

Since this team match was also successful, there was a possibility that the fandom would be reorganized on its own if a few eyewitness accounts were leaked in time for the next episode to air.

‘Park Moondae’ and the guys tied up at the beginning had a lot of risk factors from drugs to the final rankings in the future. Furthermore…

‘If possible, wouldn’t my survival rate be higher if I am tied to someone with a higher final rank?’

I couldn’t ignore the possibility of having a less hostile reputation to people who pushed Cha Eugene if I were tied up with Kim Rae-bin.

‘Great.’

To make such a calculation, reality hit me hard, but who cares about that when faced with sudden death?

“Thank you for your hard work~”

“Thank you for your hard work!”

As I was packing my things and getting ready to leave while occasionally shaking my head, someone touched my back from behind.

“H-hey.”

“Hmm?”

When I turned my head, Seon Ahyeon looked grim.

The guy who has been too busy for the past weeks to say hello suddenly comes to talk with a determined face?

‘Is there a bad rumor going around?’

Seon Ahyeon looked around and after confirming that no one was looking, he opened his eyes wide and whispered.

“Choi-Choi Wongil, you know.”

“…? Yeah, what about Choi Wongil?”

Why are you suddenly talking about Choi Wongil?

‘Did you come here to curse because he said he wanted other parts again?’

Surprisingly, the idea that I just threw was half right.

“He-he-he is so mean…!”

Seon Ahyeon was almost huffing.

No, what kind of personality does he have to make this guy so angry?

“Why, what happened?”

“Y-yes!”

Seon Ahyeon nodded vigorously and carefully began to explain what had happened in the last team match.

"A-at first… W-when asking for his part."

Oh, my prediction was completely correct.

"H-He kept talking about you! Like s-sarcastically……"

To summarize the following explanation of Choi Wongil's deeds, it was roughly like this.

'I didn't get camera footage in the first round, so it's right for me to get some this time. I made the team, so shouldn't you be grateful?'

'You gave all the parts to Moondae hyung, but why are you not giving all the parts to me when I am the main vocalist? It seems you're discriminating against me because of your friendship.'

It seemed he even talked about the latter while crying in an interview with the production team.

'He must have learned from the last team match that the first punch wins.'

It was said that when the team members who were hit in the back of their heads were struggling, Keun Sejin gently calmed Choi Wongil and cleared the situation.

'It's a wise choice considering the broadcast.'

But thanks to that, the frustration of the team members who couldn't speak properly seemed to have disappeared.

Seon Ahyeon's cautious attitude had changed to a completely turbulent state by the end of the speech.

It seemed he was so angry that he started stuttering.

"Y-you have to be careful…! I-I'm afraid he'll make your story weird…

I-I wanted to let you know.”

Seon Ahyeon, whose cheeks turned red, was worried about Park Moondae while everything was happening, and eventually acted on his concerns.

Perhaps the main point was this.

The situation is funny, but… Yes.

‘I’m kind of grateful.’

In this survival audition where everyone was busy taking care of themselves, he treated me like a real friend, not a connection.

I feel like I’m a jerk who divides kids into groups based on their rankings.

‘It’s not like I’m in a middle school class.’

My future knowledge was already being ripped apart since my team had already lost ground in the first team match, maybe I was being paranoid.

I replied with a smirk.

“Yeah, okay. Thank you.”

“N-no…”

Sun Ahyeon was surprised then hurriedly waved his hands and returned to his usual timid appearance.

Keun Sejin, who appeared after breaking through the gap, put his arms around our shoulders.

He seemed to have a strange ability to join any conversation.

“Hey, guys. What are you doing?”

“T-that… I was telling him.”

“What? Ah… him.”

Keun Sejin shrugged.

It seemed Cheo Wongil had been trolling so much to the point that he was referred to by his pronoun instead of his name.

“Can’t we do it next time?~ The stressed side loses. Look at this. The world is too busy to see good things.”

“W-what?”

Keun Sejin naturally passed on the topic, then popped something on the screen of his smartphone and turned it towards Seon Ahyeon.

It was an SNS post that posted pictures of subway station billboards.

Oh, it’s already time for this.

Placing s on public facilities was one of the idol fans’ representative support. I remembered because I took a few pictures of them.

‘Of course, it was uploaded under a fan account name.’

Anyway, I thought Keun Sejin was trying to show his own billboard, but it wasn’t just that.

“Ta-da! This is the three of us.”

“Hm?”

Looking at it again, it was definitely a picture of three nearby billboards facing each other.

Under the picture, I could see a registered post.

[It's at Hongik University Station, it's the same age line from October 31! So cute ㅠㅠ I put a post-it on it!]

Keun Sejin grinned and said.

"Hey, isn't it amazing? How did they put up ads like this? Did they discuss it beforehand?"

No, they must have fought for a spot.

I felt sorry when I thought about the time and money they must have spent to catch a large billboard at a popular station.

'Well, Park Moondae's chances of survival… Thank you for your investment in it.'

I had a new concern. Even if I debuted and avoided sudden death, I would avoid going to hell only if I filled the contract with sincerity.

As I was confused by a strange sense of debt, Keun Sejin got down to business.

"Do you want to go see this? Fans also posted messages, so it's only right to go there and see them~"

Can't we just each take care ourselves?

However, Seon Ahyeon's eyes shone and he shouted okay right away.

"O-okay."

"Good, good. Moondae, you're going too right? When should we see it?"

Somehow, just like back when we watched the third episode together, it was a foregone conclusion that we would go together like this.

Still… As Keun Sejin said, I had to go see the billboard once. If people recognized me, it would be easier to deal with it together rather than alone.

I looked at the two of them alternately for a moment, then just nodded.

“If we’re going, it’d better go within this week.”

“The sooner the better!”

“O-okay!”

Listening to the two happy people excitedly setting the date, I continued packing my luggage.

Well, it doesn’t feel bad.

* * *

And two days later.

I took out the black cotton mask I bought at the convenience store last time and put it on.

The destination was Hongik University Station.

When it wasn’t filming time, I was stuck at home, so it had been a long time since I had gone out.

[Seon Ahyeon: Why don’t we have lunch after looking at the billboard? I’ve found some good restaurants, but if it’s okay with you… (View more)]

A message came from Seon Ahyeon.

‘It’s still a long sentence.’

Checking out Keun Sejin’s response which was filled with excessive emoticons, I went out and got on the bus.

I stayed in a cheap apartment, so there was no subway station within a 20-minute walk distance.

‘Like this, I can move quietly to the bus stop near Hongik University Station.’

…is what I thought, but I was mistaken.

“Gasp.”

“Isn’t that Park Moondae?”

“Oh my God… Hey, hey there!”

Because as soon as I got off the bus and crossed the crosswalk, this happened

I hadn’t arrived at the meeting place yet, but people were already gathering.

There were only a few people who recognized me right away, but it was a busy road so the crowd was gathering.

“Who is it?”

“Is it a celebrity or an idol?”

‘I can’t do this.’

I thought about it, bowed my head to say hello, and ran.

I wanted to respond more, but the atmosphere was unusual. The impact of the most successful audition program at this time was amazing.

This was the time when there was at least one news related to rankings of <Idol Inc.> if you turned on the entertainment news section. I was complacent because I didn’t go outside.

‘Now that this happened, I have to quickly look at the billboard and disappear.’

As I was quickly running down the subway station, my smartphone vibrated, but I thought to check it out after leaving the crowd.

And… As soon as I arrived at the location of the three billboards, I figured out what the call was about.

It was because the two people who had already arrived at the billboard were surrounded by smartphones.

‘I guess it was a call saying that they’ve already arrived and that the situation is like this.’

These idiots came out without masks.

Meanwhile, people who recognized Park Moondae cheered.

“Moondae!”

“Moondae is here!”

I am embarrassed but thank you. Really.

Chapter 32

‘First, let’s quickly finish what I have to do.’

First of all, I caught Seon Ahyeon who struggled with people’s questions and requests around the billboard.

“Give me your phone.”

“H-huh?”

“I’m going to take a proof shot.”

Seon Ahyeon finally came to his senses and sneaked to the front of the billboard. I turned on the camera of the smartphone that was handed to me.

People reacted immediately.

“Oh, picture!”

“Let’s get out of the way~”

“Let’s take a picture of them!”

Surprisingly, the enthusiastic crowd voluntarily began to distance themselves and retreat.

…I’d seen so many people who risked their lives to get a picture, so I was a little worried.

“Stretch your shoulders.”

“Y-yes!”

“Ahyeon, you’re so handsome!”

The last one was not said by me, but by a person who seemed to be a fan of Seon Ahyeon.

Seon Ahyeon’s face became red as if it was broken.

“N-n-no…”

Muttering like that a few times, Seon Ahyeon straightened his body.

Anyway, I mechanically took a picture with the right composition, and as soon as I lowered my smartphone, Keun Sejin shouted next to me.

“Moondae! Me too!”

I turned around as I held Seon Ahyun’s smartphone and took a photo of Keun Sejin.

It was cumbersome to take his pictures because Keun Sejin changed poses several times.

But people were eagerly filming the scene again with their smartphones.

“So cute…”

“Please do another pose~”

‘…If that’s the case, wouldn’t it be fine if I didn’t take a proof shot?’

I just had to go online and download anything that popped up on the internet.

“You too, Moondae!”

“Ah.”

It would be weird if I was the only one not taking pictures, so I moved to the front of my billboard.

When I saw the billboard in front of my nose, which was completely exposed after everyone retreated, I felt a sense of intimidation due to its size.

The photo used for Park Moondae's billboard was taken during the production presentation.

Fortunately, it wasn't a photo of me poking my cheek or making a finger heart, but I was a bit embarrassed by the incredibly large size of the face.

'…Let's not make eye contact.'

As I turned my head, I saw the text written in the background.

[Park Moondae]

[A blue chip that appears like a comet!]

(TL note: blue chip = stock in a stock corporation with a national reputation for quality, reliability, and the ability to operate profitably in good and bad times. Sumber: Wiki.)

At the bottom, 'Please buy a lot.♡' was written in small letters.

"…"

That phrase is very impactful… I can't deny that.

'You must have had a hard time.'

I silently took a proof shot.

I had to show this much sincerity, at least.

And as soon as I took a picture and stepped away from the billboard, people started pouring in again.

“Are you here to see the advertisement?”

“W-what should I do…”

“Did you take a good picture?”

“I’m voting!”

Slowly, the number of people was increasing enough to interfere with the traffic. It was definitely worse than when I got off at the bus stop alone. It was a disadvantage that the three of us came here together.

If I do this wrong, wouldn’t I get called a nuisance?

I wanted to do something and left, but it seemed difficult.

‘I must use the strength of the three of us.’

I winked at the other two.

Fortunately, it looked like they understood the signal.

We bowed our heads.

“Thank you!”

“I’ll do my best!”

And immediately ran to the nearest exit.

As three tall men ran at once, the road naturally opened.

“We’re going to go now~ Thank you!”

Keun Sejin turned around, then waved and shouted. I could hear several voices answering as I followed them closely.

“Huh? Guys!”

“Goodbye!”

“Fighting!”

Fortunately, no one felt that it was rude, and their voices were bright.

It was my first time running while listening to so many cheers.

It felt very… Mysterious.

I immediately caught a taxi from the exit that popped out.

“Ah! That was really good!”

As soon as the taxi departed, Keun Sejin said this with a grin.

Sun Ahyeon also nodded wildly, looking rather excited.

‘Was it that good?’

Of course, I felt a sense of debt because I couldn’t thank them. However, being recognized by many people didn’t particularly heighten my mood.

Is it a matter of temperament? Or…

‘…It could be a matter of age.’

They were all 21 years old.

As I was feeling bitter all alone, Keun Sejin suddenly took out his smartphone with an exclamation ‘Ah!’.

And immediately there was a vibration in my phone.

[(Photo) (Photo)]

It was my picture taken in front of Park Moondae's billboard.

Maybe the exposure value was so wrong that all the colors flew away, and my face, which looked ruined from all the shaking, was floating on a blank billboard.

"…"

He was terrible at taking pictures.

"Hey, doesn't it look more realistic with the shaking?"

This was so full of realism that it was impossible to recognize anything other than the sense of realism.

When I looked at him without a word, Keun Sejin laughed and spoke to Seon Ahyeon, pretending not to know.

"Haha… Right, Ahyeon! You have my proof shot on your phone, too, right?"

"Y-yes! W-wait a minute"

Seon Ahyeon turned on his smartphone and posted a picture in the group chat.

These were the pictures of Keun Sejin and Seon Ahyeon that I took.

'Why are you sending your picture?'

Maybe he was confused and ended up uploading it all at once.

"Oh~ the pictures taken by Moondae…"

Keun Sejin, who was looking at the screen pretending to be pleasant, paused as if speechless for a moment.

And with a slightly flustered look, this time he began to give a genuine exclamation.

“Uh, oh… You are really good at taking pictures.”

I made a living out of it for years, so it was natural.

I glanced at the screen.

The horizontal composition was perfect, the proportions of the human body didn’t seem awkward, and there were four or five photos of each person that captured their expressions and poses well.

It seemed that my skills weren’t rusty.

As I felt a little proud, Keun Sejin added in an awkward tone.

“…Well, I’ll take a good picture of you next time. I’m sorry.”

He seemed sincere.

A Keun Sejin without his usual flavor of business, I witnessed a lot of things today. I just shrugged.

“Well… A photo with a sense of realism is fine.”

Keun Sejin made a surprised face for a moment, then quickly smiled and changed the subject.

“Right? Oh, come to think of it, are we just going to pass by the restaurant that Ahyeon recommended like this? That’s too bad.”

“I-it’s okay. N-next time we come together…”

“…Hn.”

Right, we had talked about it.

It was impossible to go to the restaurants that Seon Ahyeon recommended now.

Since he only selected popular places on SNS, if I went with these people, we would be broadcasting our meal live on other people's SNS.

In addition, it seemed that Seon Ahyeon wasn't very talented in browsing, the cost-effectiveness in these places wasn't very good because they just smelled like viral marketing.

After thinking for a while, I checked the navigation system while passing through the Ewha Womans University station.

"Sir, can you turn us to Yeonhui-dong?"

"I can~"

"Yes, then…"

I looked back at the two in the back seat.

"I know a quiet place, do you want to go there?"

"Oh~ Of course, I agree!"

"Y-yes!"

Right. I asked the driver for permission and changed the navigation to the restaurant's location.

And only after the meal was over I realized that I had volunteered to do something I didn't have to do.

Oh, my God. We're getting closer!

* * *

"Hmm."

The woman who was looking at the smartphone repeatedly agonized in a painful voice.

On the screen, an option that plunged her into a swamp of anguish appeared.

[Idol Inc. stock package discount! ~80%]

Under the large banner, there were stocks tied to all kinds of services sold by the group company of Tnet, the channel where <Idol Inc.> aired.

For example, if you buy Tnet's music site package here, you will also receive a three-month streaming coupon with a 50% discount and the right to buy 20 stocks of <Idol Inc.>.

In short, she could give Moondae 20 more votes.

These broadcasters sold the stocks in a package like this, except for a monthly fixed-rate ticket that could give her one more vote every day!

The scary thing was, this package had a high discount rate, so it had a dual purpose in which existing service users bought this package to get a discount and then ended up falling into <Idol Inc.>.

'It's really terrible… '

The woman sighed as she scrolled through the pages, and saw the message that had just come up in a pop-up.

It was a message from the friend who fed Park Moondae to her mouth by requesting her to apply for the audience.

[Yeonju: crazycrazy ㅠㅠ Someone caught sight of Moondae! (Link)]

'Oh my gosh.'

The link that she clicked hastily led to an SNS post.

= = = =

participant. They seem to be those kids who sang MallangDalkom? (Photo)]

= =

In the attached photo, Park Moondae, Seon Ahyun, and Keun Sejin were seen receiving a ttukbaegi with samgyetang at a table with sagging partitions.

(TL note: ttukbaegi = a small, black-to-brown earthenware vessel used for various boiled dishes in Korean cuisine. Samgyetang = ginseng chicken soup.)

There was a long response below the picture.

– Look at his eyes on the samgyetang, they are about to pop out ㅋㅋㅋ

– As expected, K-samgyetang, is better than basic chicken, you know it

Please stop the discrimination against chicken ㅠ

– I am in favor of these three staying close

– Ah, they must have gone to eat there after seeing the billboard ㅠㅠ I love these cute guys ㅠㅠ

'Billboard?'

The woman searched for 'Park Moondae billboard' just in case.

Immediately, an article a few hours ago that had been shared by thousands of people appeared at the top.

= =

Moondae went to take a proof shot at his billboard ㅠㅠ There were so many people so he couldn't stay for a long time, but he was so cute and kind that my heart smashed into pieces. His face looked handsome even if he wore a mask (short video)

= =

When she played the attached video, Park Moondae, wearing jeans, a black hood, and a black baseball cap, stood in front of his billboard.

[Handsome!]

[I'll buy you a lot of stocks, Moondae!]

[Um, thank you…]

Park Moondae responded a little shyly to people's pouring words.

And the video ended with him and the two other participants happily sprinting and disappearing.

– So cute

– He's more sociable than I thought?

– ㅠㅠAs expected, Moon Puppy is not just a delusional claim, it's official ㅠㅠ What, Tibetan fox? It's heresy!

– The PD who edited it, please die, our kid was just being calm

– Even if he wore a blonde hat it would match

'Cute…! So cute!!'

As she stomped on her feet, she suddenly realized that Park Moondae's billboard photo was familiar. It was the picture her friend showed to her after she had taken it!

She wrote a message quickly.

[Minso: Wow, isn't this yours? Congrats, Moondae saw it! (link)]

[Yeonju: I lost my mind when I saw that, but now I have come to my senses… I didn't do it, it was done by the fan association, but I'm still so excited… I'm overwhelmed…]

When she asked, 'Why didn't you tell me this first?', the answer was 'I couldn't type because my heart was shaking so much'.

The woman giggled and sent a congratulatory emoticon. And she thought.

'I want to do something for him, too.'

Park Moondae did well, so she wanted to see a lot of great performances.

Eventually, she went back to the previous purchase page and bought a music package.

After happily buying Moondae's stock, she checked the Samgyetang restaurant, and in the witness article, a fight broke out.

– Please take down the photo. Stalking is a crime

□I just happened to see him. What stalking;; it's just a sighting

□Are you watching someone else eating and taking a picture without permission? Use your common sense and say something that makes sense

□Yes, I block them ㅅㄱ

(TL note: ㅅㄱ = keep up the good work. After the game is over, it is a term used to say to the opponent, and is also used to slander someone.)

After this conversation, the reactions of the people who were on fire were awkwardly fizzled out. This is because it was difficult to hear news of Park Moondae, so they reflexively got excited about the rare sightings and just now realized that it could be an invasion of privacy.

The woman was also embarrassed and turned off the window. She had forgotten that Moondae hadn't even made his debut yet.

'That's… Because he did so well…!'

As she recalled her previous audience experience, which made her mind dazed just thinking about it again, she suddenly remembered what she had forgotten.

"Ugh! <Idol Inc.> is airing!"

Right. In the first place, she was looking at the stock purchase page while waiting for Idol Inc. to air.

She hurriedly turned on the channel, and luckily was able to see the logo of the show that was just starting out.

"Phew…"

She was relieved, and suddenly the MC's meaningful face appeared on the show.

[Everyone, do you remember <Idol Inc.>'s promise?]

The MC hit the desk seriously as if he were sitting in front of a desk in the discussion room.

[We promise you that we will do everything as you wish. So, even now, numerous votes are being held on our website, such as the vote for the number of final debuts and the song selection.]

For reference, there were people crying, saying 'The final number of debut members I voted for is too small.'

[And today, we're going to carry out one more promise. Everyone. Do you have any participants you don't want to see?]

As soon as the broadcast started, in front of the viewers who were suddenly confused about what this was about, the production team threw a huge mess.

[Then sell that participant's stock! With the newly introduced <Selling Stocks> shareholders can reduce the stocks of the participants they do not want to see in the future!]

[The 'right to buy stocks' that shareholders purchase can also be used as a 'right to sell stocks' in the future. In other words! Instead of buying a particular participant's stock, you can sell it and make it negative!]

It was the arrival of hell.

Chapter 33

After the introduction of a new system to reduce the number of votes of participants in <Idol Inc.>

– Are you kidding me? ㅋㅋㅋ Are the producers crazy?

The Internet had become a mess.

– They've lost it, what if someone has a bad intention and holds a hate vote?

– It's not spicy anymore. It's hellfire

– Oh seriously, I can't watch the next ranking announcement because it's too painful, you bastards, what are you doing to the kids?

– Shouldn't we boycott at this point?

Posts criticizing the production team and the program first covered all the communities.

It was a natural reaction, but after this criticism became a basic sentiment, this kind of post began to appear.

– Participants who will benefit from this negative vote and those who will lose.jpg

It was a review of the participants.

If you go further from here, there will be a flurry of slanderous comments about the participants people don't want to push for.

"Hmm."

I skimmed through the post on the best bulletin board in seven minutes.

As I slowly scrolled down, I saw the name I was looking for.

[Park Moondae's risk of falling in rank ★★]

: Whenever stories about him come out, there are messy fights everywhere about whether his personality is good or not. There are kids who bite at a level of a psycho. His number might drop quite a bit.

'Two stars are fine.'

Honestly, I knew this would happen. This was because Park Moondae was an extreme character who either had to be liked or disliked, with no in-between.

'The PR live and the first team match editing was well done, so I guess that made up for it.'

In addition, the participants of October 31 who appeared in the first team match were latecomers at this point. This meant that they were bound to be beaten by malicious fans of existing strong participants.

When I scrolled down, except for Keun Sejin, everyone was in danger of falling in rank.

'Of course, I can't believe this one article alone.'

The fact that this article became popular and was not ignored by people meant that it was somewhat similar to public opinion.

Of course, there were fights in the comments.

– You wrote a long post, pretending that you're mastering the history of Idol Inc, and pretending to dominate public opinion on the Internett? ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– I'm already tired, I hope this stops, really…

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋThese people are obviously clenching their teeth, why are you guys sucking up to people who are being cursed at?ㅋ

– Isn't this the truth? Admit the realityㅎㅎ

And among these comments, there were people talking about the participants who were posted in the article.

They were mainly enjoying chewing, biting, and tasting the participants who were likely to fall.

– ㅋㅋㅋSejin's fall is confirmed~

– What about Raebin? He's going to go down further… I think the fans should be strong!

Of course, there were also quite a few attempts to drive public opinion by saying, 'I don't know why they wrote that, his rank is stable.'

-Ryu Chungwoo who was a member of the National team should be more than average, aren't many people selling his stocks because they are annoyed by how he is getting fans even during the broadcast?

'They are already creating excuses.'

Of course, there were quite a few stories about Park Moondae.

-I hope the kids who pick Moondae only choose one route. They said they couldn't believe his skills because of the editing, but they brought an edited version of his personalityㅋㅋ

Yeah, let's not believe those people who believe in the broadcast's editing and say his personality is bad~ That's all

I'm going crazy, just listen to him singing without music on PR LIVE. He's better than on TV. And why do you trust the edited version of the interview and pretend you didn't see the video that Moondae actually treated other participants well?

□You're rambling;; Ugh don't risk your life on an idol, ahjumma!

□Reported ㅅㄱ

'This… I'm sorry.'

I was speechless when I saw people suffering from Park Moondae's stocks.

Just because I was better at one thing didn't mean I could change the direction of the broadcast.

'Actually… I already knew.'

The introduction of this negative vote was so controversial that I, a civil student, knew about it.

There had been two or three times when <Re-listed! Idol Inc.> walked a crazy tightrope between going crazy and being ruined, and this was the first case.

Anyway, looking at the current trend, I didn't pay much attention because I didn't think I would be eliminated even if my vote rate dropped quite a bit, but when it came down to it… It bothered me.

Those who support 'Park Moondae'.

'I hope they don't get too stressed out.'

I hesitated, then turned off the window for now.

Actually, I was going to look at the reaction to the newly aired episode 6 rather than <Selling Stocks>, but there weren't that many because it got buried.

'In the first place, I don't have a lot of footage in episode 6.'

The stage of the team I belonged to was assigned to the next episode.

The team formation and song selection scenes were only partially shown, so there was little reaction.

– Ugh, Gommeo, why are you on the same team as Rae1bin ㅠㅠ Kim Raeb1n, please stop doing charity work. The last team was like a beggar too. Except for the faces, there's nothing to see… Ugh, how did you catch something like this…

– Mundae, don't stick to Eugene, just die

Mostly, only the reaction of these malicious fans remained. No, I don't know if you can call them fans.

'…Looking at it closely, Kim Raebin is being cursed, too?'

It was the kind of people I saw often even when I was selling data.

I didn't know why they were cursing while claiming to be a fan, but… The important thing was that there were more reactions saying that they hated him being on the same team as Park Moondae than those who didn't.

Even viewers who liked 'Park Moondae' said it was a shame that he couldn't be with the team members from the first team match.

I crossed my arms and smiled. I wondered how public opinion would change when episode 7 was aired.

The stage was definitely good, and there was a limit to what the editing could touch with it.

'So until then, I'll organize the status window pop-up and practice… '

Ding.

As I was thinking, my phone rang.

Maybe it was the same-age group chat. I unintentionally opened my smartphone.

As if they were copied and pasted, two messages arrived almost at the same time

[Kim Raebin: How are you, hyung? It's Kim Raebin. The reason I'm contacting you like this is because I have something to ask you.]

[Kim Raebin: Cha Eugene and I are going to Gangnam Station tomorrow to check the that our fans posted, do you want to check the with us… (More)]

"…"

Did my appear at Gangnam Station?

I searched and found an SNS post saying that it started today. How surprising. Kim Raebin seems to be good at searching?

But this timing was not good.

'The system of taking votes from participants has just been introduced, so there is no need to stand out.'

If there was a happy eyewitness account, bullshit like 'Park Moondae seems confident?' would come out.

Besides, going with Kim Raebin and Cha Eugene? I could already imagine the cursing.

– You must be so scared of the negative vote, you're acting like you're close to the popular boysㅋㅋ

There was no need to make noises like this. Let's protect the people who support Park Moondae as much as possible.

I'd better wait and see until episode 7 aired.

I typed in a reply right away.

[Park Moondae: It will be difficult because I have work to do. See you next time.]

[Kim Raebin: Yes… Then I'll contact you again.]

I'll see you on the set.

With that assumption, I started stretching before starting to work out.

'Let's build up stamina.'

At this time, I never dreamed that Kim Raebin would send a greeting every day until the next filming.

It was not just a greeting, it was an image file of colorful greetings like those made by the elderly.

[Kim Raebin: (If you smile ^^ Blessings will come~ Let's make today a happy day with a pleasant morning~)]

"…?"

Maybe it's because the field is the art and physical education, every young person I meet recently has a really unique sensibility.

* * *

And finally, it was Friday night again.

[Kim Raebin: (Happy Friday @->— With all my heart in these roses^^ Sharing happiness and health)]

Somehow, The boomer-style picture was getting upgraded. Now it had a sparkle effect.

[Park Moondae: Take care of yourself, too.]

[Kim Raebin: Thank you.]

Anyway, if I wanted to have a 'happy and healthy' Friday as the phrase in Kim Raebin's image file said, today's episode 7 had to go well.

I started watching episode 7 drinking beer.

My portion was more likely to come out at the end of episode 7.

Because the production crew must have postponed the team with the highest ranking to the very end of the show.

As expected, other teams came out one after another.

I wasn't really interested in it, but I watched it carefully to see if there was anyone who could be a hit.

"There's nothing special."

There was no particularly conspicuously friendly or hostile editing. It was just an ordinary storyline about overcoming conflicts and lack of skills.

Then in the middle second half, Choi Wongil's team came out.

It was a team that had a lot of participants from the same team in the first team match, including Seon Ahyeon and Keun Sejin.

The editing potential exploded here.

[Choi Wongil: I don't know why you're only doing this to me…]

[Ha Iljun: What…?]

Choi Wongil's interview cut crossed over with the bewildered team members.

[Choi Wongil: (Staring) Aren't you being too much, Moondae hyung?]

Choi Wongil was completely overthrown.

“Wow…”

They sent it like this.

The production team showed Choi Wongil’s uncooperative attitude in the first round.

To be honest, he was quite annoying in the first round, but I didn’t know that it had been piling up and going to explode like this.

But it wasn’t just me who built these stacks of karma.

[Kwon Heeseung:… Because he doesn’t respond to me.]

Gold 2 seemed to have been a bit scornful since the first round. He didn’t get a response when there was no camera.

[Kwon Heeseung: Maybe because I’m the youngest… or because I am the lowest (in rank).]

Of course, the crew who caught it with a fixed camera and sent it out were also disgusting people. Another participant talked nonsense to bring up the ratings.

[Big Sejin: Now, now! Wongil, I understand how you feel. Sit here.]

Just as I heard from Seon Ahyeon, the conflict being broadcasted was stopped and settled by Keun Sejin.

[Choi Wongil: It’s true that I was a little emotional.]

The team practiced hard and that interview ended with a good performance on the stage, but not one covered their eyes and pretended nothing happened.

Already, Internet pages were being plastered with swear words.

– Is Choi Wongil's personality for real?

– He's a little emotional ㅋㅋㅋ Bullshit, he has anger issues

But I feel worse because it feels like he's only doing it to people who seem easy

– Did you see him ignoring Heeseung? I almost had PTSD because it reminded me of my hard times from school…

– Park Moondae needs to be reevaluated, he was a Bodhisattva who willingly gave his part

'Um, it will be difficult if Park Moondae keeps being mentioned.'

If they praised my personality as they pleased and anything suspicious showed up again, the cursing would be doubled.

Fortunately, the team's stage was okay, so the appreciation on the stage took a stake, and the topic of Choi Wongil was pushed aside a bit.

When the story came up again, the focus was probably only on criticizing Choi Wongil.

'He doesn't look mentally well, he's going to have a hard time.'

I clicked my tongue and turned off the comments.

Now there were two teams left. Soon it would be my turn to come out.

Of course… Under the assumption that no one else stuffed their face.

'The high-ranking guys must be showing up a lot.'

I put down my expectations and continued watching.

And I was surprised.

Dudung!

On the screen, Kim Raebin's interview was reconstructed with a magnificent background sound.

Sparkling golden… With some homage-like captions.

[＜Kim Raebin's journey to gather team members＞]

[Kim Raebin: First of all, I am going to pick participant Park Moondae.]

"Cough."

I spit out the beer I was drinking.

Chapter 34

On the screen, Kim Raebin calmly explained the reason.

[Kim Raebin: Participant Park Moondae has a wide range of vocals, so there is no pressure in terms of selecting the song.]

[Kim Raebin: I also have seen a lot of scenes where he flexibly accepted other team members during group activities. He will be my first team member.]

Shortly after, the scene where Kim Raebin quickly won the mini-game and pointed to ‘Park Moondae’ was shown.

And an interview with Park Moondae who had a blank expression came out.

[Park Moondae:…?]

[Park Moondae: Thank you, but… (Why?)]

Thanks to the BGM and additional captions, Park Moondae, who joined Kim Raebin and bowed his head, seemed very flustered.

And another cut scene where Kim Raebin clenched his fists and expressed a small sense of victory was shown.

It was like a WeTube skit.

“…”

It wasn’t just once or twice that the production team created reactions like this, but it was the first time they were able to pinpoint my true feelings.

[Kim Raebin: Next up is Cha Eugene.]

[Kim Raebin: And Ryu Chungwoo.]

Kim Raebin picked his team members without hesitation with his own logic, and the scene where the team members were confused continued.

It was a cute production in its own way.

'They must be trying to save Kim Raebin.'

It was an edit that openly neutralized his brutal appearance in the first round.

However, the atmosphere did not last long.

After the red caption 'But' appeared on the screen, a suffocating scene filled with only white noise was shown.

[Midterm evaluation a few days later.]

[Who rearranged it?]

The scene of Kim Raebin lowering his head was crossed with the scene of several team members looking back at him. A big caption popped up again.

[What happened?]

And…

An intermediate.

"…Hmm."

I poured the rest of the beer down my throat.

They were trying to get ratings… Now I'm amazed. It's great, <Idol Inc.> crew.

When I checked during the intermission, all kinds of speculation were rampant on the Internet.

The popular opinion was, 'Isn't Kim Raebin's team match ruined again?'

– From the moment the reason for choosing Park Moondae came out, I thought that he really had no eyes for people ㅋㅋㅋ

"No…"

So far, Park Moondae was the first to get rejected.

The beer made me feel a little more relaxed, but I was more pissed off than usual.

I turned off the screen grumpily and turned on Tnet again. The commercial had just ended.

As expected, after the song was decided, the discussion scene was broadcasted on the screen.

[Ryu Chungwoo: Shall we hear Sejin's opinions first?]

In general, the editing highlighted Ryu Chungwoo, who even took care of his less sociable team members.

In particular, his calm response to Lee Sejin's nervous reaction was shown on the screen.

'Lee Sejin, too.'

Is this going to be a picture of Ryu Chungwoo eating up everything again?

There were a few scenes that charmingly highlighted Cha Eugene as a choreography genius, and a few scenes of Kim Raebin spending time arranging the song, but the victory still belonged to Ryu Chungwoo's decision.

It was from the midterm evaluation that the situation changed.

[You touched the original song a lot, but it feels worse than the original song.]

The evaluation was edited more seriously than the original lukewarm atmosphere.

It was the effect of the original singer's sudden remarks being woven and inserted in the middle of the evaluation.

[On your stage… I couldn't feel the power of <Burning Like the Sun>.]

I didn't know that this bullshit would be aired.

In such a serious atmosphere, a team member pointed to Kim Raebin as the person involved in the arrangement.

[(Right away) Raebin did the arrangement.]

The team members' quick attention to Kim Raebin was blatantly emphasized on the broadcast.

It was a spine-chilling editing

'Damn it… '

I put on an act to cover this up, but are we all going down together?

At that moment, the screen suddenly began to zoom in on 'Park Moondae'.

"Huh?"

‘No way.’

Park Moondae on the screen had a thoughtful expression on his face, and then a flashback cut was suddenly inserted.

[I think it’d be good to lower the key before doing it.]

[How about adding some rap?]

[The arrangement goes well with the concept of the cheering squad.]

[…Yes.]

It was a scene where some of the team members were telling Kim Raebin to try adding elements that didn’t suit the song.

As Park Moondae observed it carefully, his gaze was directed in.

Then on the screen, the midterm evaluation came back again.

Park Moondae opened his mouth casually.

[Yes. Since Raebin could arrange it, we consulted with the arranger, and we all decided on the direction of the arrangement.]

Kim Raebin’s face with a surprised expression was zoomed in.

Then, Park Moondae’s interview was inserted.

[Q: Why did you defend Raebin?]

[Park Moondae: (Surprised) I was just telling the truth.]

That’s… It was a cut from an interview related to arrangements for the first team match.

“…Huh.”

‘I was being deliberately blunt about it in order to naturally change the subject.’

After going through the magic of editing, Park Moondae, who didn’t care about others, looked like he had just told the truth.

‘It’s absurd no matter how I think about it.’

Regardless of my bitterness, the broadcast went on.

[Sincerely conveyed.]

[Kim Yujun: I’m sorry…]

After the team member apologized to Kim Raebin, the atmosphere rapidly changed to hopeful and warm, and the focus was on Kim Raebin’s touching interview.

[Kim Raebin: I think I have done well in gathering the team members.]

As he said that, Kim Raebin, who smiled faintly, surprisingly didn’t look bad.

And the new arrangement… Ridiculously enough, Kim Raebin and Park Moondae were suddenly shown as if they were having fun with each other during chatting.

[Ryu Chungwoo: I saw the two of them talking about something during the break.]

[Ryu Chungwoo: But when I went back… Raebin was already on the keyboard, and Moondae was excited saying we would (beep-)]

The narration from Ryu Chungwoo’s interview and the arrangement discussion process made it really look like that, so it was even more ridiculous.

[Ryu Chungwoo: Are geniuses like that? Haha.]

After that, the short cuts continued as if Ryu Chungwoo adored the two unsociable geniuses and the team was fused well, then the amount of preparation for the stage ended.

"…"

I really didn't expect it would work out like this.

Anyway, I wasn't shown as a bad person, so I would have to settle for this much.

Besides, I thought the stage was the best part of it, but I was very satisfied with how the production team took great care in editing it.

The ending was good, too.

[3rd place?]

[Nobody expected this.]

This was because they put the team's 3rd place in the middle of an and highlighted it as if it was very strange and shocking.

You can see that they have pulled out everything.

It's a neat profit.

"It's nice."

I straightened out the bedding. As the tension was eased, the fatigue set in.

'I can monitor the Internet tomorrow.'

Because I didn't look at the reaction immediately at this time, It was only around lunchtime the next day that I realized that the aftermath of my portion in Episode 7 was much greater than I had expected.

* * *

– I have decided to embrace Park Moondae. Compared to the guys in the first team match, he's a fairy

– Looking at Moondae again, his face is fine. He and Raebin seem to be doing well, so keep working as a team

– Rabbit and puppy are a fantastic combination, but the fact they're a medieval rabbit and a countryside mixed breed is the icing on the cakeㅠㅠ

– Oi oi, did you ever imagine a day when this combination would do badly? (Shrug)

– I thought we would fight, but we surprisingly became close:;

"…Oh."

Surprisingly, as soon as episode 7 aired, the public opinion of Park Moondae rapidly changed among Kim Raebin's fans.

Most of them were normal fan accounts that didn't slander other participants, but some of them used to giggle and called 'Park Moondae' with insults until yesterday.

What a change of pace.

Park Moondae's fan accounts who were worried about the negative votes were relieved, but some of them were angry.

– Whenever I see people just wash their mouths after cursing like that, it really… made me speechless. I hate myself for feeling relievedㅠㅠ

– The thought of fangirling with those people once both of them debut made me sigh… I'll just watch Moonda1…

– Moondae showed a great attitude, came up with great ideas, and even performed a great stage, why should I care about anything elseㅋㅋ

‘I hope they don’t get too stressed out.’

Spending money should be fun, but these people didn’t seem to be able to enjoy that, so I didn’t feel good about it.

Even if we might debut on the same team in this program, all the participants were currently competing with each other so this part might be inevitable.

Still, most of them were happy that the stage was selected well.

Immediately after the main broadcast was over, seven episodes were arranged on the broadcast schedule from midnight to this morning and lunch, so the inflow effect could be seen.

The stage video immediately entered the WeTube real-time popularity ranking.

– How can these crazy people handle this crazy concept so well?;;;

– They’re heroes who come to mess with my grade, but I love them

– I can’t believe they changed the cheering song of the baseball stadium to a hero theme song. The stage, as well as the idea and arrangement skills, were absolutely phenomenal

– Ahh the kids must have matched their own colors too, they wore an item for each color! This kind of detail made my fangirling heart race ㅠㅠ

– Is this stage in 3rd place? Aren’t you embarrassed by the vote? ㅋㅋ

– This is the summary. 0:06 Cha Eugene (Red), 0:16 Min Jeonghoon (Green), 0:24 Ryu Chungwoo (Blue)… [Watch more]

Personal fancams that were released at dawn were also having a terrifying increase in views.

This match was bigger than the first team match, but even taking that into account, the number of views on the ‘Park Moondae’ fancams was increasing tremendously fast for someone in the main vocalist position.

The comments were also more favorable than in the first round, and the ‘dislike’ ratio was lowered.

– I can’t deny that he’s a genius

– Thanks for the blonde hair, Moondae. Thanks to you, my sister cheered up and held back her resignation. I’ll buy a lot of Moondae stocksㅠㅠ Let’s make a debut and try silver hair and pink hairㅠㅠ

– It’s amazing, being able to come up with a hero concept after horror! I’m rooting for you a lot. I hope you make a debut! ㅎㅎ

– Why do you look more handsome and better every time I see you? What will happen if I end up ascending to heaven once you debut?ㅠㅠ

I felt embarrassed, but I was happy.

Although this result was inevitable, I couldn’t deny that I felt a sense of accomplishment.

As I thought so, the last best comment caught my eye.

-The main vocalist, who is not just young and cute but also good at dancing, is just like a left-handed pitcher. I would have to grab you from the pit of hell so thank you so much for walking into the idol market with your own feet. You can’t get out anymore, Moondae^^

“…”

To be honest, I am a little scared.

‘I won’t suffer from an abnormal condition like ‘unable to retire’ once I debut right?’

I quickly dispelled the no-good ominous delusion and cleared my mind.

Anyway, at this rate, there seemed to be nothing to worry about at the next ranking announcement ceremony.

‘Now, there are two stages left.’

After two more team matches, the program would end.

It felt strange to think that I had already entered to enter the second half of the show.

I thought it would be cool that the day where I could get rid of this trashy condition drew near, but it wasn’t necessarily the case.

Maybe it was because my grades were much better than I had expected.

I’d been stuck in the corner of my room preparing for the civil exam for the past few years and I hadn’t felt any sense of accomplishment, so the taste of this success was quite stimulating.

‘I was worn out, so of course, I would get carried away.’

Avoiding sudden death… If I looked back at it a few years later, I might think of it as a meaningful experience.

Of course, that scenario won’t happen if I fall behind, so let’s think about survival first.

Ring.

As soon as I made up my mind, a message came in.

[Keun Sejin: MoondaeMoondae How are you doing? Do you want to go together with me on the day of the shoot? With Ahyeon too ㅎㅎ]

* * *

The faces of the guys I met on the day of the shoot were completely dead.

No, Choi Wongil the troll is removed so why are you guys dying? Who makes you like that?

Chapter 35

Seon Ahyeon and Keun Sejin asked to eat something before entering the filming set, so we met at a restaurant.

“Oh, Moondae, hi~”

“H-hello…”

But even with the food placed in front of them, they had dark expressions.

One of them became a social-life-reactions vending machine, and the other looked like he would burst into tears at any moment.

‘Is it because of the negative vote?’

It was a guess that made the most sense.

I thought about leaving it alone, but I wanted to know how they were doing so I asked once while eating.

“Is it because you’re worried about the voting?”

“H-huh?”

“Both of you don’t look good.”

Then, the two of them look at each other’s faces reflexively.

Perhaps because they were in a bad mood, they didn’t realize that the other person was in a bad mood.

“Ah, Moondae, you’re like a ghost~ No, well… It’s hard not to worry. I’ve been looking at the Internet too much, haha.”

Keun Sejin trembled and joked soullessly. At his words, Seon Ahyeon also nodded with a gloomy face.

“I-I’m afraid I’ll be hated…”

Aigoo.

It seems that they had been searching for articles that they didn’t need to see. Looking at this atmosphere, it was clear that they couldn’t leave SNS all night and kept searching for their names.

When they entered the set, they would see the number of people who hate them, so it was understandable that they couldn’t easily swallow food in this situation.

‘…But you have to eat before you go.’

I pondered for a moment, then finally sighed and said.

“Since it’s an audition program, wouldn’t there be more people who keep us in check than those who actually hate us? If you get a lot of negative votes, it could mean you look promising.”

“…!”

Even in the previous team match, the team full of high-ranked players ended up in 3rd place in the on-site voting.

“It means you don’t have to worry about it unless you show up a lot.”

Of course, that didn’t mean you could ignore it. But it would be better if you had a spot where you could mentally win.

As expected, Keun Sejin recovered first.

“That’s true.”

Then, with a bitter smile, he lifted his spoon and muttered to himself.

"…I really need to get something done this time. My trainee period was too long… Well, anyway, let's eat well and cheer up!"

He quickly wrapped up the words that came out of nowhere and resumed his meal diligently.

Seon Ahyeon still looked anxious, but he ate diligently when I said, 'Isn't it be better to eat before you go?'

'It's hard to eat sometimes.'

I also resumed eating with a sigh.

Although they were latecomers, they got roughed up a bit because they were well known, so it was obvious how the other participants were doing if even these two kids who were never smashed by editing were being like this.

'The mood of today's shooting must be crazy.'

And this prediction was exactly right.

"…"

From the participants at risk of being eliminated to the high-ranked participants, all of them had the atmosphere of a funeral home.

This was because slander and rumors about the participants on the Internet got worse after the 'If you're disliked, get out' voting system was introduced.

Cha Eugene was the only one who was excited. It wasn't the confidence of the first place, it was just a personality problem.

"Why didn't you go with me?"

He even came to me and excitedly talked about the day he saw the billboard. He had a really great personality.

It wasn't long before the shooting started.

"Welcome to the second-ranking announcement of <Re-listed! Idol Inc.>!"

I didn't know how it would come out on the show, but the ranking announcement ceremony was held in a more depressing atmosphere than ever.

"The first ranking with the newly introduced system <Stock Selling> will be announced today. The ranking is determined by how many people bought and sold the stocks."

Gulp. I heard someone swallowing saliva and a small voice praying.

I guess grown-ups do child-like things when they can't do something.

"Before that, we should announce the final winner of the last team match, right? I told you that there is a huge prize waiting for the final winner."

Despite the heavy atmosphere, the MC said everything he had to say cheerfully.

"That is, <Selling Stocks> becomes invalid!"

"…What?!"

"Heol."

For a moment, the surroundings were filled with astonishment.

"The team that won first place will be ranked using the number of votes that don't include negative votes of <Selling Stocks>!"

The reaction did not get bigger, but rather died down weakly. And someone murmured a little.

"That's too much."

Certainly, it was an idea that couldn't be done if they respected the participants. It was like the production team was taking off and adding the benefits however they wanted.

'In the first place, they strike with the negative vote in episode 6 without prior notice, so what is it that they want?'

"First place… Congratulations! Team 'Gigantic' that reinterpreted <Fingerprint>!

Choi Wongil's team eventually took the final first place.

Perhaps Choi Wongil, who would certainly be eliminated due to the <Selling Stock> system, was given a rescue signal.

Choi Wongil cried and was relieved, but it wasn't a good thing.

'He's in trouble.'

If his rank dropped due to negative votes, there was a high possibility that sympathy would rise.

However, if he got lucky like this, negative public opinion would surely explode unless he made a huge achievement in the next team match.

In any case, the announcement of the 1st place came to an end with a reasonable impression.

"Then, from now on, we will start the ranking announcement ceremony!"

The total number of successful applicants was 30. Like the last ranking announcement, it began to be announced from 28th place, leaving out two people.

"In the 28th place is Park Joonkyung!"

In fact, there was no significant change until the 20th place. There was no one who got an exceptional cut scene or a lesser cut scene. Participants who could compete in those rankings were called without much reversal.

It was from the top 20 that an unexpected event appeared.

“In the 20th place… Participant Choi Wongil!”

“Wow.”

“Awesome.”

He was ranked higher than Gold 2.

Perhaps his rank went up because fans who were conscious of the negative votes gathered together and voted.

Choi Wongil attached an apology at the end of his long speech.

“…Also, I deeply reflect on my immature attitude…… I-I’ll show you my good side from now on.”

And he sat down in his seat, crying.

‘Wouldn’t it be better to point out Gold 2 and apologize?’

Well, it’s not something I have to worry about. Let’s worry about my ranking.

To summarize the ranking after that… Lee Sejin plunged, and Kim Raebin succeeded in reviving and settled in sixth place.

And participants who were on Choi Wongil’s team, including Keun Sejin, rose. Their ranking rose sharply because the negative votes were removed.

Looking at the flow, I thought I was probably going to fall a little too. So, I was ready to respond immediately if I got called soon.

But there was no need to.

My rank had risen.

“4th place is… Participant Park Moondae!”

“…?”

It was an unexpected save in this chaos.

I wasn’t called until the 5th place, so I wondered if I had plunged below the 28th place, but I didn’t expect to be called in 4th place.

When I jumped up flustering, something even more embarrassing was waiting for me.

“Congratulations!”

Ryu Chungwoo got up and approached me then he patted me on the back with a pleased expression. Following Ryu Chungwoo, Cha Eugene also approached and congratulated me.

“Congratulations!”

‘I was just going to pretend I knew you…?’

Apparently, the reaction on stage was so good that it narrowed the distance between us.

In particular, Ryu Chungwoo didn’t have many close participants because all the people in the last team match were out.

I roughly accepted their greetings, made a high five with Seon Ahyeon who was standing awkwardly and went up to the podium.

I felt like a rare insider. It was very unfamiliar.

“…First of all, thank you to the shareholders who bought my stocks. Keeping in mind that my rank is too high compared to my skills, I’ll strive to achieve as much result as you've invested in."

As soon as the standard appreciation was over, the MC came in.

"Participant Park Moondae, you've entertained the shareholders with ideas that stand out on every stage. Is there any idea you want to use next time?"

It was a terribly difficult question. Showing off a little bit of aegyo would have been easier.

Let's just say it moderately and comprehensively.

"…Next time, I'd like to try something more cheerful."

"Haha, are you slowly missing <POP☆CON>? Participant Park Moondae, I look forward to your next performance."

How could there be an MC who combined cheerfulness with popcorn?

Of course, I couldn't glare at the MC, so I calmly lowered my head and went up to my seat.

To be honest, the fancy sofa given to the fourth place seemed embarrassing. But since my back was honest, I waited more comfortably for the rest of the ranking announcement.

"Third place is Cha Eugene!"

"Heol."

"He was number one."

Cha Eugene, who topped the ranking announcement ceremony last time, fell two notches.

But he didn't seem to care much. He came up with a bright impression 'I am happy that I get a high rank' and settled down on the sofa.

And the long-awaited battle for 1st and 2nd place.

It was Ryu Chungwoo and Seon Ahyeon who made it to the finals.

‘Isn’t he going to pass out?’

Seon Ahyeon staggered and stood on the platform. He looked like he would immediately pass out if he won first place.

“＜Re-listed! Idol Inc.＞ the first place of glory… Congratulations! Participant Ryu Chungwoo!”

“Thank you!”

First place was Ryu Chungwoo. In fact, I knew it would be like this unless something unusual happened.

Since he was a graduate of the national university and had a favorable broadcasting image, the negative vote probably didn’t affect him much.

After Ryu Chungwoo and Seon Ahyeon finished their speech, the announcement for the 29th and 30th place continued. It took so long that my back was starting to ache on the sofa.

But the real highlight came next.

“This is the rank you would have gotten if it hadn’t been for the ＜Selling Stocks＞ system!”

This was because the production team released all the votes and the negative votes, rearranged them, and put them on the screen.

There were groans all over the place.

“I can’t watch.”

I also quickly found ‘Park Moondae’ on the screen.

[Bought: 893,452 / Sold: 12,257]

[Total ranking: 4th / Purchased ranking: 3rd]

3rd place?

When I checked the 4th place, which was originally my rank, it was Seon Ahyeon.

It seemed that there was a significant difference in the negative votes because the number of votes at the top was similar.

But I felt a different feeling than regret.

'This is surprisingly… Upsetting.'

[Sold: 12,257]

Right. Even though the results were good, looking at the 10,000 unit number of people who wished that 'Park Moondae' would fall… It felt a bit strange.

'It's a lot more impactful than I thought… '

…Wait!

'Stop talking nonsense.'

My goal is to avoid sudden death by debuting.

Damn it, how could I think that just having one negative vote out of 90 votes is not good enough?

'Let's just thank the 890,000 votes to prevent sudden death.'

I defined the situation and ended my thoughts.

However, when I looked around, most of them had a face that said

‘It’s driving me crazy’ regardless of their ranking.

‘The next team match is going to work very well.’

The kids who were already squeezing tears with runny noses looked good in my eyes.

* * *

“Wait a minute!”

The filming of the next team match, which should have been held as soon as the ranking ceremony was over, was temporarily suspended, as the production team seemed to be flustered by the funeral-like atmosphere.

Instead, the production crew came out with some strange mini-plan.

＜Idol talent show＞.

…This hasty plan is very tacky.

Chapter 36

The production team's explanation was simple.

Take some time to relax by playing and winning prizes.

In other words, this is what they meant.

'You guys should act cute and enjoy the school trip vibe and then we get to do some promotion for T1 products.'

Everyone probably guessed the nuance but compared to the aftermath of the ranking announcement ceremony, the atmosphere became better.

The product was good and the rules were loose.

"There is no ranking, so it will progress according to your will~"

"Ah…"

"If you come out, you can unconditionally win one of the prizes!"

"…Yes!"

The answering voices were more relaxed.

This was because it was a format where they had nothing to lose.

'The fact that there is no MC also played a part in making us really feels like we're taking a rest.'

…To be honest, I was tempted by the dryer too.

I lived in a one-room apartment so I had no place to put it, but I didn't expect such large electronics to come out as products of this hasty plan.

'I guess the program is going really well.'

As I thought so while looking at the picture of the kimchi refrigerator included in the product, the photos of the product disappeared from the screen and large letters appeared.

[Talent show: Random dance.]

[The one who stays until the end is the winner!]

'You guys even left the font as it is.'

The Hamchorong font was brilliant.

Regardless of my impression, soon there was a five-second countdown on the screen.

Then some of the guys who were in good condition ran out and began to wait.

[Start!]

And famous KPOP chorus came out one after another.

"Ugh."

"Hey, you're wrong! We have to go in!"

"W-what?"

At first, the participants joined in mechanically, but probably because of the amount of time, they almost made a skit to determine the winner in the end.

After about 12 songs, the winner came out.

“Ah, thank you~”

It was Keun Sejin.

“No one asked, but I’ll tell you how I feel. I think the PR live sharpened my skills for this day. Hahaha!”

“Wow~”

Keun Sejin, who did similar content during PR, smiled brazenly and said that then he quickly put his hand into the draw box to pick a note.

“Now, my prize product is…”

[(Real) 1 box of boneless chicken feet.]

“I’ll give it to Moondae.”

The participants burst into laughter at Keun Sejin’s rapid change of attitude. Even the staff covered their mouths and laughed, so there was no angle that showed me frowning at Keun Sejin who looked this way and winked.

‘How long will this chicken feet image last?’

I had a foreboding feeling that if it continued being mentioned like this, it would follow me until I retired.

Anyway, the atmosphere became even more relaxed because Keun Sejin gave a big laugh.

“Give me the next one, please!”

“This is amusing, really.”

After four or five more matches like this, the majority of the participants were serious about the talent show.

And there were still a few expensive home appliances left as prize products.

Then the sixth talent show appeared on the screen.

[Talent show: Random karaoke]

[The one who sings the first verse is the winner!]

“This is an event for me.”

“Wow, I really want to go out, but haven’t I already won? What should I do?”

Ignoring Keun Sejin who was being noisy, I hesitated for a moment and then moved forward.

“Oh~~ Are you confident, Moondae?”

In fact, I wasn’t very confident. I didn’t want to make it a big thing.

This was just a defense in case showing a passive appearance after ranking up made me look arrogant.

…If possible, it would be better to win and take the dryer.

There were seven products left, so the chance of getting it was 14%, which was good enough for me to be hopeful.

With four participants facing each other, I waited for the countdown to end. The production crew quietly left a microphone on the floor.

[Start!]

As soon as the screen changed, an intro immediately flowed.

Boom Clap Boom Clap Boom Shake Boom Clap~

An addictive melody resounded in the auditorium.

“…?”

“What?”

The faces of the participants, who thought KPOP would come out, became blank.

Yes, what came out was a K-trot karaoke accompaniment.

“Uh…”

“Wait, wait.”

Participants listened to the intro with confused expressions, but they couldn’t tell what song it was just by listening to the intro.

This was because there were more than one or two trot songs that started with an exciting rhythm in the intro

“…”

I was in conflict, but I eventually sneaked forward and picked up the microphone.

“…!!”

“Moondae sings trot…?”

Gold 1’s murmur was heard all the way here.

“Maybe he just grab it?”

“Does he really know that song?”

I didn’t answer the shouts and just started singing at the end of the intro.

“It’s raining on Namdaemun Street in Seou~ There’s no one I’m looking for~”

“…!!”

The participants were whispering.

“Heol.”

“How did he know?”

How do I know? I’ve seen it a lot.

When I went to filmings a few times, I often saw the stage of trot singers.

Especially since it was often placed right before the idol stage, I had listened to quite a lot of songs that were popular with the elderly enough to show it later in the event.

The original singer’s performance… Hmm, I probably saw it twice a day back when I saw this kind of event a lot.

Later, the singer recognized me and winked at the camera.

I remembered uploading the fancam on WeTube out of conscience. Hmm, it helped me this way.

“Ah~ The one I’ve been looking for~ The one I’ve been looking for~”

Since it was quite a famous song, the participants sang along when it entered the chorus. I wondered if the singer felt like this at the event.

“I left Seoul~”

“Ooh.”

After I pointlessly sang the first verse following the mood, the participants applauded with admiration.

This was more than cheering… It was like a reaction you would show when watching a strange scene in a magic show.

It was a little embarrassing, but it was successful anyway, so I decided to focus on drawing the prize.

I greeted the participants a few times, then put down the microphone and grabbed the draw box.

When I opened the note, I could see a frozen silver body in the picture.

'Maybe the dryer…!'

[Kimchi refrigerator]

"……"

Crazy.

"Hey! Kimchi refrigerator!"

"What's up with Moondae's luck~!"

"It's the refrigerator Moondae was looking for."

Participants poured out and surrounded me with excitement. I looked at the note with a bewildered feeling and suddenly realized the reality.

'…Don't they give the goods without paying the taxes?'

I had no money to pay the taxes.

As soon as I received the product, I would sell it through a second-hand transaction, pay the tax, and fill up my bank account.

Anyway, it felt good to catch something expensive.

Keun Sejin, who was celebrating next to me, whispered softly.

“Moondae, let’s exchange products…”

“I won’t.”

“Yes.”

Eat your chicken feet.

* * *

After the last match, the talent show ended splendidly, and the filming of the team match began in a more relaxed atmosphere.

I wonder if it was difficult for the MC to proceed due to the adjusted filming schedule, and surprisingly, Youngrin took the lead and announced a new team match.

“<Re-listed! Idol Inc.>, it’s already the third team match. Participants, I’d like you to praise yourself for holding on from 77 people to 30 people.”

Although it wasn’t the MC’s lively voice, Youngrin proceeded with the situation calmly and seriously.

Above all, they were words from an already successful idol, so the participants seemed to take it more meaningfully.

Right next to me, Gold 2 was smiling and stroking his own hair. It was quite a spectacle.

“In this third team match, the team is built in a rather unusual way.”

Let’s see, so far, the team has been formed by the choice of participants, so it’s time for other factors to intervene.

But the element was a bit unusual.

“It’s the big data algorithm.”

“…What?”

“Big data?”

When the concept we usually saw on IT news suddenly appeared, the participants looked at Youngrin with puzzled expressions.

Youngrin smiled and continued speaking.

“＜Idol Inc.＞ analyzed the patterns in which shareholders buy your stock. So the team is formed around stocks that a number of shareholders bought together at the same time.”

In other words, it meant that the money-spending viewers were tying us together and forming a team of their favorite participants.

“Detailed analysis data can be found on ＜Re-listed! Idol Inc.＞ website. Everyone, are you ready to meet your team members selected by the big data of shareholders?”

“Gasp.”

“It’s so exciting.”

Participants began whispering with silly expressions and looking around to see who they would be with.

I also looked around the participants in moderation.

‘First of all… I think Seon Ahyeon and Keun Sejin will be there.’

I knew it would be these two just by looking at SNS. Unsurprisingly, Seon Ahyeon waved to me with his eyes shining brightly.

Keun Sejin took a step forward and patted me on the back and said.

“Hey, I look forward to your kind cooperation.”

“Yeah. Okay.”

Keun Sejin giggled to himself at my blunt answer. I guess he thought my words were a joke.

“Looks like you’re ready. Then come out in order and pick up the box.”

Behind Youngrin, a table with black boxes was set up.

“There are badges in the box. After receiving the box, go down the hallway and enter the room marked with the badge.“

Then Youngrin called the participants in alphabetical order and began handing the boxes to them.

Of course, ‘Park Moondae’ was called quite early.

“Participant Park Moondae. Please take the box.”

I took a box that had the name ‘Park Moondae’ on it and went out the door.

Of course, a staff with a camera was waiting in the hallway. When I opened the box in front of them, a rabbit head-shaped badge appeared.

“…Rabbit?”

I murmured a little bewildered, then quickly closed my mouth, conscious of the camera.

Then I looked up and checked the rooms lined up in the hallway. Each room had a nameplate.

＜Chicken＞

＜Cat＞

＜Deer＞

＜Puppy＞

＜Bear＞

And I found the name I was looking for in the last room.

＜Rabbit＞

“…”

Overall… The naming sense that felt like a kindergarten class stood out.

‘Well, it’s just dividing the team.’

Presuming it was meant to be humorous, I immediately opened the door.

I wasn’t too nervous because all the participants who were likely to be on the same team would be called later than me.

‘I’m probably the first one.’

But as soon as I opened the door and stepped in, the person sitting on the floor suddenly raised his head and looked at me.

“…?”

It was Kim Raebin.

Why are you here…?

“Park Moondae hyung.”

Kim Raebin jumped to his feet with a happy face, then he slowly moved over and stepped aside.

It seemed he was being considerate by letting me sit in the middle.

But, there are only two of us…?

“I didn’t know I could be on the same team again. It’s really nice to see you.”

“…Right. I look forward to your kind cooperation.”

“Yes.”

It was a peaceful conversation, but complex reasonings flowed in my head.

‘Why is Kim Raebin on the same team as me?’

It was only in the previous episode 7 that I had an interaction with Kim Raebin.

So the percentage of votes after episode 7 was big enough to affect the ‘big data algorithm’?

‘Of course, it would be possible if we only considered the stocks of the previous ranking announcement ceremony, but… ’

As I weighed the possibilities, I realized a simple fact.

‘Aha.’

It was because Kim Raebin was rarely involved with other participants.

I didn’t know how it was weighted, but it was quite convincing that he joined the team because the only participants involved with Kim Raebin were me and Cha Eugene.

‘Well, it’s good to have high-ranking participants.’

I neatly organized my thoughts and sat down on the floor. Kim Raebin immediately talked to me again.

“Hyung, the song you just sang at the talent show, it’s my favorite song too.”

“…Really?”

I wondered if I really needed to know that Kim Raebin liked trot, but anyway, we passed the time by chatting roughly until the next team member came in

Then, after quite some time, the next team member opened the door and came in.

Chapter 37

The participant who entered the <Rabbit> room after me was Seon Ahyeon.

"…Ah!"

Seon Ahyeon sneaked into the room with a nervous face, and as soon as he met my eyes, his expression brightened and he quickly ran inside.

And smiled broadly.

"I-it's nice that we're together t-this time."

"Yeah, please take care of me."

"Hn, I-I will do my best…"

It was at that point that Seon Ahyeon, who was excited and opened his mouth right away, made eye contact with Kim Raebin, who was looking this way.

"…!!"

Seon Ahyeon was shocked and stiffened the moment that he realized Kim Raebin's existence.

'Come to think of it, these two have no contact with each other.'

Because their grades were different and they'd never met in a team match.

Seon Ahyeon hurriedly stepped forward, looked between me and Kim Raebin, swallowed his saliva, and greeted Kim Raebin.

“P-p-please take good care of me…”

He was so serious.

“Yes, I look forward to your kind cooperation.”

“N-no, it should be me…”

Kim Raebin also bowed his head with a serious look. Then Seon Ahyeon quickly slammed his head down to the floor.

It was a strange scene that I had only seen happen in Internet humor.

‘If these two are left alone, the conversation won’t proceed.’

As I watched Kim Raebin and Seon Ahyeon’s personnel battle, which was likely to continue forever, the fourth team member opened the door vigorously and entered.

“Who’s the rabbit?!”

It was Keun Sejin. I didn’t know why, but it seemed he was completely absorbed in the room concept as he waved the rabbit head-shaped badge in one hand.

Keun Sejin quickly confirmed Seon Ahyeon and Kim Raebin. And then he looked at me and laughed.

Why again?

“What, why are you here, Moondae?”

“…?”

When I looked at him with a look that asked what nonsense he was saying, Keun Sejin continued to slowly speak.

“No, there is a <Puppy> room so I thought you naturally would be there. I thought we couldn’t do it together this time.”

"…"

Was the Tibetan fox interview not enough? I intended to take on the puppy image, but the reality check was a separate matter, I wanted to hit this guy at least once.

Keun Sejin quickly approached the people and changed the subject.

"Anyway, isn't it good to do it together~ Our team is good this time too! Let's do well! Is there one more person left?"

The total number of room with nameplates were six. Considering that there were currently 30 active participants, there was an extremely high probability that each room would be assigned five people.

'Then since there are four people who have come so far, there's only one person left.'

But I didn't know who would come.

'For now, we've got all positions as they are.'

The team members were evenly distributed without overlapping images and both our ranks and skills were good.

Kim Raebin would arrange the song, and Keun Sejin would likely pick the leader role anyway, so it was good too. All-rounder Seon Ahyeon made the stage easier.

In fact, it meant that it didn't matter if there were just four of us like this.

'As long as a troll doesn't come.'

I remembered several of them, including Choi Wongil. It didn't really matter who came if it wasn't for them.

The problem was that until now, the team members had never been smoothly organized.

I assessed the situation.

'From here… I can cover up for Lee Sejin.'

Because even though he was uncooperative, he wasn't the type to bombard others for profit, so I just had to be gentle with him.

Still, there was a possibility that his mentality died down because of the ranking announcement ceremony, so it was better not to do it together with him if possible.

Then the last team member I am hoping for… Well, in alphabetical order, there was only one person left besides the ones that were already sold out.

'Gold 1 is the most comforting.'

When thinking of the participant with the highest possibility, Keun Sejin smiled and suggested.

"Why don't we hide behind the door? He's the last one, it would be nice to welcome him with all of our heart and sincerity."

It was an obvious idea, but it was also a joke that would come out well on the show if the last team member's reaction was okay.

The problem was that if Choi Wongil came in like this, the atmosphere would be weird, but the other three already went behind the door so I just gave up.

If I stopped them, I would be the one who looked weird in front of the camera.

The small murmur of the team members from behind the door was heard in one ear, and Keun Sejin, who was attached to the wall, shouted quietly.

"He's here!"

Then he boisterously raised his index finger and put it on top of his lips. I was keeping my mouth shut anyway, so I just continued to stay silent.

Soon the door opened with the sound of footsteps.

“Excuse me… Eh?”

“Ta-da!”

After a while, a head popped out from behind the door.

“Gyaaah!”

The participant, who opened the door and looked inside, jumped into the sky and moved funny. The guy was more of a scaredy-cat than I expected.

‘Congratulations on getting a broadcast portion.’

The last team member who rolled around with a strange scream had a familiar face.

“Aigoo, I’m sorry. Hyung!”

Unexpectedly, Gold 1 joined.

‘…This is fine.’

For the first time, I gave a positive evaluation after seeing the team composition.

* * *

“Please take good care of our rabbit class~”

“Wow!”

Clap clap clap. The discussion began with an ordinary reaction without any expression.

Including my college life, the atmosphere was the most harmonious among the team projects I'd ever been through.

With the camera on, no one was swearing or doing anything else.

'It's like a real kindergarten.'

Of course, not all teams were on the hopeful side like the <Rabbit> class.

For example, the two or three teams that were tied with the lower ranks due to the crowding of ranking sections had already given up halfway.

"Ah…"

"Well, let's do well…"

"…So it becomes like this."

However, unexpectedly, the despair came out from a different team consisting of top-level trainees. Choi Wongil and Lee Sejin joined Ryu Chungwoo and Cha Eugene's team. In addition, the troll who grabbed Kim Raebin by the collar was on that team.

Some of the participants murmured.

"How can they get tied up like that?"

"The combination is amazing."

I could hear Ryu Chungwoo's stomach melting down all the way from here.

'It's unfortunate, but it's rather good for me.'

It would be convenient if they took all the aggro editing.

By the time I drew this brief conclusion, Keun Sejin was proceeding with the discussion.

“Now, let’s talk about the song first! Is there a song you want to sing?”

A number of team members raised their hands with their eyes shining. Even Seon Ahyeon slowly lifted his hand up, everyone looked pretty excited.

It was understandable. Since ‘Free Song Selection’ finally came out for the first time.

I remembered the MC’s announcement I had just heard.

‘You can choose every detail you want, including songs, choreography, and concepts that suit your team! It’s called <Self-produced Stage!>’

In other words, the production team wanted to eat it raw.

‘Last season, they picked using mini-games.’

This meant that the production team had already prepared the concepts in advance, including the costumes and stage equipment. It was a structure in which the participants chose what they wanted from among them.

However, this season, without any such thing, they were telling us to come up with it on our own.

Perhaps at the time of this season’s planning, they couldn’t plan ahead due to a lack of budget.

By the way, the show was successful and gained a lot of additional budgets, and one of its advantages was that there were few budget restrictions on the content now.

‘That’s probably why they’re all excited.’

I listened to other team members’ opinions one by one.

The order of the speaking was set clockwise, and Seon Ahyeon, who got the right to speak first, shouted a little.

“H-how about <I Like the Wait>…!”

<I Like the Wait>. Its distinctive features were the high notes and musical-like choreography.

The refreshing and sophisticated teen sensibility hit the target audience properly.

As of this point, it was a song released by a nine-member boyband five years ago, and it gave the group the honor of winning first place.

Looking back on his track record, it was a song that Seon Ahyeon would surely like.

“Oh, the first nominated song is great.”

“That’s right. We’re all young! Refreshing! The concept has never been shown before.”

I added a word, too.

“It’s fine.”

“H-Hn!!”

Seon Ahyeon lit up and nodded wildly. Even if it wasn’t chosen like this, he looked like he was going to die from just positive reactions.

‘How can you live like that with that face?’

It was a bit pitifully absurd.

“Next is Raebin!”

“Considering the composition of the members, I think VTIC sunbaenim’s <Soul(Hone)> is the most effective choice.”

His comments poured out as if he was prepared for this.

“It used a lot of oriental sound samples, so the concept is unique, and the range is appropriate. It’s a song with a difficulty level of choreography, so it’s easy to show performance elements, and it’s easy to put a dance break interlude. I can draft the arrangement within a day!”

“Yes…”

‘You must really want to do it.’

Maybe I wasn’t the only one who thought so, the other team members responded slowly with bewildered expressions.

Then Kim Raebin looked around and hesitated.

“Well, of course… if you have any other good opinions, that’s fine.”

“Okay okay, I also like the song that Raebin chose. Let’s listen to other opinions slowly~”

Keun Sejin shrugged it off.

‘But it would be better to listen to the opinions of the person who will arrange the song in detail.’

It seemed Keun Sejin didn’t intend to accept Kim Raebin’s words more, perhaps there was a song he wanted to push for.

‘Should I take it?’

I opened my mouth.

“What was your favorite part among the things you said?”

“What?… Ah, well, rather than liking a particular element, I took into account the overall best fit for the task.“

It meant that his focus was on the overall perfection of the stage. I nodded.

“I’ll keep that in mind.”

“That’s right. I was surprised.”

“Raebin has a plan!”

“…Thank you.”

When the team members praised him, Kim Raebin bowed his head and muttered.

After a brief atmosphere of warmly watching the awkward Kim Raebin was created, Keun Sejin finally gave his opinion.

“Now is the time.”

“…?”

“We’ve come this far, so it’s time for a sexy concept…!”

“S-s-sexy…”

“Argh!”

“Ugh…”

Cringed reactions followed. Keun Sejin laughed out loud.

“Hahaha! Can you honestly deny it? Can you?”

"…"

It was silly to brazenly say it out loud, but…

'…That makes sense.'

There was no denying that it was a good idea.

'If we pull it off properly, there's no stronger concept than this.'

The sexy concept had traditionally been proved as a route to success,
If you could look great while keeping the level of sophistication,

I crossed my arms and asked Keun Sejin.

"What kind of song do you want to do?"

"Oh? As expected, Moondae has a good eye. Actually, I don't want to push for one song in particular, but rather, compare several songs… I'd like to discuss and decide on a song that will most successfully show the sexy concept, what do you think?"

"…"

It was good.

But the other two opinions were also good.

I turned my head and looked at Gold 1, who had not yet spoken.

The figure of Gold 1 was burned white.

"I… don't know. I was just trying to live it up with rabbits. But everyone… seem to have… A very clear vision…?"

It seemed other opinions were so firm that he lost his fighting power. It was understandable. I shrugged my shoulders.

“M-Moondae… W-what do you want to do?”

“Me? I haven’t decided anything in particular.”

When I answered Seon Ahyeon’s question right away, Keun Sejin’s eyes shone.

“Oh, then I want to hear Moondae’s choice! Which of our opinions do you like best?“

“…!”

Sejin Keun’s words caught the attention of the rest of the team.

It was very burdensome. However, it was a situation that couldn’t be ignored.

‘Which do I like best?’

I was lost in thought.

Chapter 38

“First of all, I want to do <I Like the Wait>.”

“…!!”

Seon Ahyeon looked visibly shaken.

His attitude showed that he didn’t expect I would sympathize with his song selection.

“R-R-Really?”

“Yes.”

It was true that <I Like the Wait> was a good song, and the fact that it was a song from 5 years ago added an extra point.

<Soul> that Kim Raebin mentioned was a song two years ago.

‘I thought about it during the first team match, but VTIC’s latest song is burdensome.’

Kim Raebin himself seemed confident, but we didn’t have to take risks.

However, I had to reflect on the opinion of Kim Raebin, the person who would lead the arrangement.

To take advantage of his characteristic, <Maestro>, I had to throw a keyword that suited his taste.

Contrary to Seon Ahyeon’s expression of joy, Kim Raebin looked a little gloomy. I guess he already expected that his opinion wouldn’t be accepted.

“But ‘self-production’ is the theme of this team match, so it’s hard to put up the original song as it is.”

“Ah…”

“So I wish there’s an unconventional arrangement. Personally, among what Raebin suggested earlier, ‘Oriental style’ seems the best.”

“That.”

Kim Raebin looked dazed as if lost in thought and immediately rejoiced.

“Certainly, the lyrics aren’t awkward either… With the right instrument, I can come up with a very interesting arrangement. If we modify the choreography according to the arrangement, we will be able to create very impressive stage scenes.”

“That’s a relief.”

For once, Raebin let it pass.

Then all that’s left is Keun Sejin and Gold 1.

I turned my head and scanned the two.

As soon as our eyes met, Keun Sejin smiled calmly.

“What about arranging it in a sexy oriental style?”

“…!”

“Even if we go with the oriental style anyway, we have to decide what kind of atmosphere we want to use in it. If possible, let’s put on sexy impact, that’s all!”

His words weren’t wrong.

‘You must have thought of this since the beginning… ’

Among the opinions that came out so far, no one commented that we couldn't use the 'sexy concept' so he probably intended to tie it up like this regardless of my answer.

'Funnily enough, it's hard to refute him.'

Sure enough, Gold 1 sighed playfully.

"You're such a great guy, really…"

In fact, he meant it. Looking at the other two's expressions, they already let it pass.

"Haha, am I like that?"

Keun Sejin shrugged. With this, the opinions of the four team members were reflected in the song selection.

'Since it's like this, let's take the remaining one.'

There were few viewers who hated a warm and democratic team atmosphere. I opened my mouth again calmly.

"Shall we use the rabbit, too?"

"What?"

Gold 1 waved his hand.

"Oh, what I said? It's all right. I was just saying it."

"No, I thought it will suit us well."

"…The rabbit?"

"Yes. There are rabbits in old Korean stories."

The other team members seemed to have come up with their own ideas.

“B-Byeoljubujeon?”

(TL: Byeoljubujeon or ‘The Story of the Rabbit’ is one of Korean classic novels from the Joseon Dynasty.)

“That… Is ‘The Tortoise and the Hare’ a Korean story?”

“It’s Aesop’s Fable.”

Keun Sejin laughed secretly among the team members. A quick-witted guy.

“Moon Rabbit?”

“Moon Rabbit. That’s right.”

It was the rabbit in the old story of pounding rice cakes on the moon. It was also known as the Jade Rabbit.

It was also famous for the nursery rhyme with the lyrics under the katsura trees.

“…How do you make it sexy?”

Gold 1 murmured in dismay, saying that it might be a destruction of childhood innocence. It must have reminded him of the playboy-magazine style rabbit.

But it seemed Kim Raebin liked this keyword, his face cleared up and his eyes shone. It was honestly comfortable that I didn’t have to open my mouth.

“I think we can reconstruct it by just taking the motif instead of using it as it is. It’s an attractive concept if we can make good use of its image as a fantasy animal.”

“Oh, is that so? Of course, it would be nice if you could put in my opinion.”

Gold 1 nodded shakily. Keun Sejin immediately cleared up the situation.

“Hmm~ I like it, too! Shall we decide by raising our hands?”

A few nearby teams had already decided on a song and were informing the production team.

Due to the time limit, it was time for our team to conclude the song selection and move on to the details.

“Raise your hand if you agree with the idea of reinterpreting <I Like the Wait> with the Moon Rabbit’s sexy oriental concept!”

Immediately, everyone’s hands came up. As soon as he finished speaking, Keun Sejin also raised his hand and laughed.

“Wow, that was really democratic~ All of our opinions have been taken into account. Let’s work hard!”

“Yes!”

“Yay-“

The discussion ended with friendly applause just like when it began.

It was then.

“I don’t want to!”

Someone got up screaming from the other team over there.

I happened to catch his face. It was Lee Sejin.

“What’s going on?”

“Uh…”

“Are they fighting?”

The participants around quietly whispered.

But everyone seemed to be reticent. Because saying useless words was like sending a signal that you wanted to be a victim of editing.

Meanwhile, Lee Sejin was staring at the participants on the opposite side.

I could see Choi Wongil with a stiff face and Cha Eugene with a dead expression.

But the standoff did not last long.

Lee Sejin got up, turned around, and ran out of the set with his teeth clenched.

“…!!”

“Heol. They’re…”

Fortunately, Ryu Chungwoo immediately regained his composure and followed Lee Sejin.

“You guys wait a minute… Sejin? Lee Sejin!”

A camera hurriedly followed Ryu Chungwoo.

“……”

Wow, over there is really… screwed.

The atmosphere was transparent enough that even Cha Eugene got dragged into it.

“Aigoo…”

Gold 1 sighed briefly.

Kim Raebin’s face became dark as if the trauma of the last team match had relapsed.

However, no one was ignorant enough to approach that team and ask questions or offer comfort.

It had been several weeks since filming, so there was no participant who still couldn’t understand the situation.

‘If you’re meddling, you’ll just become the broadcast’s scapegoat.’

So, the <Rabbit> class quickly finished reporting the song to the production team and moved to the practice room.

It was a wise decision.

* * *

It was long past midnight when the <Rabbit> class returned to the dorm.

Everyone looked like a withered bean sprout.

“The bedroom is nice…”

Keun Sejin made a dying sound and fell on the bed.

He couldn’t stand the crazy schedule of taking care of the arrangement, revising the choreography, and performing stage concepts for 10 days, so he was K.O.

“I-I’m going to wash up…”

Seon Ahyeon said those words and couldn’t get out of bed.

"…"

He'd been in a state of extreme tension as he continued to recreate the choreography according to the process of the arrangement, and in the end, it seemed his mental strength couldn't stand it.

Gold 1 limped to another room, saying he needed to eat something. I think he was going to get Gold 2's cup noodles, but he'd take care of it.

"…May I use the shower first…"

"Yes."

Kim Raebin called Seon Ahyeon a few times, and when there was no answer, he asked me for permission and went into the bathroom.

So I'm the only sane person left in this room.

Ah, why am I relatively fine?

Of course, it's the status window. I thought of the new characteristic that floated at the bottom of the status window.

[Characteristics: Bacchus 500 (B)]

– Clear mind and healthy body!

: Fatigue accumulation rate -50%

After the last team match stage was aired, it was a characteristic selected as a reward for the next stage of 'Fame Achievement'.

[Calling for fame!]

500,000 people remembered your existence!

: Draw Rare Characteristics ☜ Click!

Quite frankly, it was an unrealistic number.

500,000 people?

How many alternative programs had been released that had more than 500,000 people remember one participant? It was a surprising number even for the top participants.

Considering the speed, it was a little terrifying to think that the number of people would surpass one million soon.

'One million people… No, isn't it 'Park Moondae' whom they remember?'

At times like this, I thought it was rather fortunate that it was someone else's body.

In any case, the 500,000 units fame achievement draw hit the jackpot. It was the most useful thing I'd gotten so far in this survival environment.

There was no immediate increase in lung capacity or muscle strength, but busy and physically exhausting days had certainly become easier to bear.

'Even after running so hard, I still have room to organize my thoughts.'

I got up from my seat and stretched briefly. Anyway, I was tired and drowsy.

'I should wash up and go to bed as soon as Raebin comes out.'

Then, there was a sound from the door.

Knock. Knock.

"…?"

Gold 1? But if it was him, he wouldn't have come in with a knock.

‘If it were a staff member, they would have already said who they were.’

I couldn’t guess who it was.

Knock. Knock. Knock!

But the knock continued. However, the team members that might get a visitor were passed out.

‘…It’s bothering me.’

I sighed then got up and opened the door.

“…!”

Cha Eugene was standing outside.

It was surprising, but it was also understandable. He must have come to meet Kim Raebin who was from the same agency.

The problem was that he was crying.

Cha Eugene was sobbing, wiping away all his tears and snot.

“…”

‘…Why are you crying here?’

It was very disconcerting.

Fixed cameras were also installed in the hallway and rooms of the accommodation. If so, he would have been caught coming here and crying, but I had no idea how it would turn out on the show.

No, more than that, why did you have to crawl in here?

‘Isn’t it common sense to consult with Ryu Chungwoo?’

Considering Ryu Chungwoo's personality, he would have comforted him well already. Why do you come to another team and make a fuss?

'Come to think of it, I don't think he's smart in that area… '

In a moment of silence, I thought of all sorts of things and finally opened my mouth.

"…Did you come to see Raebin?"

"I came here to meet hyung and Raebin."

Cha Eugene replied with an unclear pronunciation.

'Why me?'

I didn't think we'd made that much of a connection. Well, I guess you liked the last team match.

The results were good and the process (from Cha Eugene's point of view) might have been mindlessly fun.

'After tasting the hell of this team match, you must have missed it again.'

Anyway, if I sent him back, I didn't think it would be edited positively no matter what kind of pictures appeared on the broadcast.

I sighed and answered.

"Come on in. Raebin is washing up."

"Yes…"

Cha Yu-jin kept sniffling and entered the room.

Other team members were sleeping soundly in bed. I didn't bother to lower the volume because I was certain that they wouldn't wake up with this much noise.

I sat down in front of a nearby table for now.

‘Should I give him something?’

I looked at Cha Eugene’s upset face, then pulled out a few chocolate bars from my bag and handed them to him.

You’d feel better with something sweet.

“Thank you…”

Cha Eugene took the chocolate bar with a ruined pronunciation and put it in his mouth.

“…”

Only the sound of chewing chocolate echoed through the room. I was uneasy.

‘This… Should I ask this bastard something?’

There was no worse situation than having to ask and intervene in other people’s team circumstances.

However, it was also a problem if I kept my mouth shut and let Kim Raebin talk.

‘Kim Raebin isn’t the social type either.’

I had no idea what kind of situation this would turn into. I would be in trouble if the arrow came back to me who was just passing by.

In the end, feeling like I was clearing out landmines, I opened my mouth again.

Chapter 39

"Are you having a hard time?"

I asked it vaguely on purpose. I hoped the listener would respond appropriately.

However, Cha Eugene, who put a chocolate bar in his mouth, began to shed tears more sorrowfully.

You're driving me crazy…

I don't know if everyone is sensitive because the field is arts and physical education, or if it's because survival is brutally hard, but I think I've seen too many people crying these days.

"Everyone is fighting… If I say nothing, it gets scary, sniff."

"…Hmm."

Cha Eugene looked completely dead. There was no trace of the bright loudmouth from a while ago.

No matter how you look at it, isn't this team ruined within a day?

'It really is just like the name <Puppy> room.'

(TL note: because dog could also mean a swear word, that's why Moondae said that.)

Those guys, if it aired like this, people would ridicule them by tying them up with the room name.

However, it was funny that 'Park Moondae' gave advice to Cha Eugene.

No matter what I said, if I made a single mistake, Internet public opinion would bombard me with posts such as 'Am I the only one who thinks that Park Moondae is wrong?'. Because he was from a different team.

'I'll send him back when he calms down.'

Instead, I just said something else seriously.

"Do you want more chocolate bars?"

"…"

Cha Eugene nodded. I took another handful of chocolate bars out of my bag and gave them to him.

'…I'm glad I brought a lot.'

It was fortunate that there was still one more large bag left. If I looked like I didn't want to waste the chocolates on him, I might get in trouble.

With the sound of running water coming from the bathroom in the background, I spent the moment in silence with Cha Eugene who was chewing on chocolate.

Soon after, Cha Eugene got up and bowed his head, holding a chocolate bar in both hands.

"Thank you."

He seemed to have calmed down a bit and was thinking of going back. I couldn't thank him enough for not giving me the details.

Let's just say something that fits the situation.

"Will it be okay to not see Raebin?"

"Yes… I'll be fine."

“Okay.”

Cha Eugene stopped crying and seemed a little more energetic than before.

‘Isn’t it because of the sugar high?’

I wondered if he would start crying again once he ran out of sugar, but the priority was to send this bomb away.

I watched Cha Eugene for a moment as he trudged down the hallway and then closed the door.

Then I breathed a sigh of relief.

‘I’m so busy that I’m going to die, but there are mines everywhere.’

Now that we were in the second half, I had to be more careful not to get caught in the broadcast. Because once things plummeted, there might be no time to rebound.

The problem was that I couldn’t control everything just by being careful.

‘Just, let’s not stand out… If I keep going like this, I’ll make it to the end.’

I reflected on it and stretched out on the bed. And I fell asleep in an instant.

It was the next morning when I realized that I had slept without washing up.

* * *

While the participants were struggling with preparing for the stage and suffering from planning and creating everything from scratch.

Outside the set, episode 8 of <Re-listed! Idol Inc.> was aired.

– Heol

– Why him?

– Awesome ㅋㅋ

– ??

The higher the ranking, the more unexpected it was, and the real-time viewers were shocked, but what was even more unexpected was the reward for winning the last team match.

[Negative vote is invalid]

It infuriated people that some of them were able to avoid the brutal voting methods that would reflect on ‘how much they are hated’.

– ㅋㅋㅋIt’s amazing

– I’m a fool for spending money on a program like this

– The winning team has a participant pushed by the production team 100%ㅋㅋㅋ You’re going to let them avoid it like this?

The irony was that this anger was directed at the participants rather than the production team that created the system and planned the prize.

As someone who benefited the most from this reward, Choi Wongil, who was originally eliminated, was criticized by public opinion.

But viewers’ anger didn’t end there.

Even the public opinion of the participants of the winning team, whose rankings had risen significantly, temporarily deteriorated significantly.

– Heol, Seon Ahyeon pushed Cha Eugene to second place…

– Is he crying again? I am tired of the tears

– It would be nice if his votes didn't get cut. My child laughed and said thank you even though he was pushed back while that guy stuttered and looked dead ㅠㅠ

– Ugh. Seon Ahyeon who can't even speak properly is in second place ㅋㅋㅋㅋ Fools who give sympathy votes to the disabled who will stutter his thoughts when he debuts, you guys need to wake up ㅋㅋ

This comment is crazy;; Aren't you crossing the lines?

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋThe stutterer's crazy fans are coming soon

You guys are beyond imagination, disgusting.

You're cursing at me because you can't refute it ㅋㅋ D-d-don't tell me, you really think he deserves second place? ㅋㅋ

Even the main criticism that hadn't appeared on the surface, conscious of the minimum morality, had appeared in the comments.

There were many people who were astonished or tried to stop it, but if the number of headcounts was similar, the aggressive public opinion was bound to gain strength,

But with that reaction, favorable public opinion was formed on the participants who showed determination even though their rank was pushed back due to negative voting and the reward for the winning team.

– Guys, you've worked hard ㅠㅠ

– Where there is light, there are shadows. Don't worry too much about the weird losers who use negative voting~ I'm rooting for you^^

– It must have been a bummer, but thank you for showing your courage

Thanks to this, Park Moondae, who had a higher rank before the correction, fortunately avoided huge criticism even after his ranking rose.

Instead, there had been a slight change in the fan base.

Fans who preferred Park Moondae's appearance in the second team match took the lead while people who liked Moondae's team in the first team match were discouraged by the criticism.

– Moondae, congratulations on winning 4th place, you've worked hard ㅠㅠ (Video of getting congratulated by the 2nd team members)

– 'Hyung, what are you doing?' the triple shot of Moondae's expression ㅋㅋㅋㅋ 'Why is the cat doing this to the dog…?' (Captured video with Cha Eugene) (Humorous photo of a cat and a dog)

– It's so funny that Moondae couldn't win against the other kids this time, so he was half-forced to be an insider ㅋㅋㅋ

– If you look at the corner, Moon Puppy is giving out snacks ㅠㅠㅠ Ahh an Angel… Angel Puppy… (short video)

Fans of the other two participants, who hadn't had a strong group of participants until now, were also excited and sneaked into the flow.

They were fans of Cha Eugene and Kim Raebin.

– Moon Puppy Kim Rabbit Cha Kitty, dog rabbit cat, Isn't it a heart-throbbing combination? Try it just once. Try try (photo)

– My kids are so cute even though they look like they'll ignore me when I talk to them on the street ㅠㅠ (Video from the show)

– Animal Heroes, dispatch! (Fan art)

Even the combination that included Ryu Chungwoo was overflowing on SNS from time to time.

As people who fell in love with the program through the second team match were mixed with the people who poured out anger and kept the participants in check, the overheated atmosphere became worse.

Because of this over-immersion which crossed over between fire hell and ondol rooms, the Internet was literally in chaos.

(TL note: Ondol or gudeul in Korean traditional architecture, is underfloor heating that uses direct heat transfer from wood smoke to heat the underside of a thick masonry floor. Sumber: Wiki.)

It was even worse because the program was running on the road of extreme box office success.

Beyond the entertainment community, if you looked at any online community now, you could see articles about ＜Idol Inc.＞.

And every article was filled with people fighting and stressed out.

[Survival pro participant who is popular these days]

: (Photo) It's a participant named Cha Eugene, but do women like this kind of feminine men these days? Tsk… The world is ending.

– The eyes… He looks like a wildcat… It's an unfortunate impression…

– Ugly old man ㅋㅋ

– Why? He's a handsome young manˆˆ My daughter said she likes him.

– This program is popular among young kids these days～ There's a fellow who sings really well, I'll give him a vote if he goes to the final～

You mean Park Moondae ㅋ He looks good-natured, but… Aren't singers supposed to be the best at singing ㅋ

Wake up, are you too old to see? Cha Eugene is very clever. The young man who used to do archery is also very good. I support these two.

Ahjumma, you're the one who needs to wake up

When the comments caught fire like this, someone captured it on SNS, and dozens of fights emerged in the articles every day.

[Idol Inc. Boomer community reaction.jpg]

: (Capture) ㅋㅋㅋThe crazy collaboration between an old man who is being severely dealt with and an old man who scolds him ㅋㅋㅋ

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋCha Eugene is a superstar. All of my friends saved pictures of Cha Eugene, he's a 180-tall baby kitty

– It's ridiculous that Seon Ahyeon who is not mentioned here is in second place, really…

This article doesn't represent every netizen's opinions, so why do your thoughts flow that way;;

ㄴㅋㅋJust by mentioning Seon Ahyeon, I get labeled as a bastard by the fans rushing in, so I shouldn't mention him ㅇㅇ

What you're doing right now is slandering, not criticizing. What did Ahyeon do wrong?

Look, it's starting again ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

And at this time, participants were able to access this turbulent Internet public opinion in real time.

* * *

To be honest, this was my first thought.

'I survived.'

I was lucky enough to avoid public criticism and I was in a good state because I wasn't praised aggressively enough for the backlash to come.

I was even secretly grouped with top-ranked participants.

However, nothing was more rewarding than the relief.

I rubbed the screen with my thumb. A scroll appeared on the side and all kinds of abusive comments were swept up.

'Somehow… I feel bitter.'

To be honest, none of the contestants who were being criticized right now had shown bad personalities except for Choi Wongil.

Most of them were just hard-working children, but did they have to be beaten up like this?

It had nothing to do with me, and to be blunt, I would benefit from other people falling, but even when this gave me benefit for survival, it left a bad aftertaste.

'Besides, this timing… '

– We will distribute equipment to search data~

Since this team match was self-produced, our smartphones were returned for a while to search for specific concept materials.

Originally, carrying a smartphone was prohibited during the filming.

This allowed the participants to be isolated from public opinion outside, but the rule was broken in this team match.

In addition, because the program was so popular, it was impossible to avoid posts related to it when accessing the Internet.

Thanks to that, I'd been looking through posts about the situation of these guys.

"…"

The dorm room was quiet with team members staring at their smartphones without saying a word.

Maybe the other rooms were in a similar atmosphere.

Moreover, apparently, this team had a participant who was currently facing heavy blows from the internet.

Seon Ahyeon.

'Isn't he going to cry?'

I broke out in cold sweats as I thought that I should check Seon Ahyeon's awful state in the bunk bed below.

Because I had an ominous hunch.

'Isn't this going to cause him a mental breakdown and deactivate his characteristic?'

If Seon Ahyeon's 'Grit' characteristic was deactivated again, the 'lack of self-esteem' status abnormality would be revived.

Then, would Seon Ahyeon, who received a crazy penalty that lowered his overall ability by two grades, be able to properly perform on the stage?

It wouldn't be surprising if both the stage completion and the team match editing were ruined.

I sighed silently.

'…I knew these team members are too good to be true.'

There was never a day when a team match went comfortably well.

‘I’ll have to check his status first.’

“Seon Ahyeon.”

I dragged my face out of the bed and bent down. Seon Ahyeon, who was sitting on the bed, turned his head.

“Y-yes!”

“…?”

Why is he okay?

Chapter 40

I was a little bewildered.

Due to Seon Ahyeon's personality, I thought he would be stuck in a corner crying, but his face showed more composure than I thought.

How should I say this? Rather, it felt like he'd entered a military regulation.

He wasn't even holding a smartphone.

On the contrary, it was only when I called him and didn't say anything that he started looking frightened.

"W-What is it…?"

"No, um…"

There was no need to scratch the wound. I glossed over my words, and instead took a chocolate bar out of my bag.

It was an action I learned through the Cha Eugene incident.

"Do you want some?"

"H-Hn! Thank you…"

Seon Ahyeon accepted the chocolate bar with both hands as if he was accepting an offering and put it in his bag.

"…?"

Aren't you going to eat it?

As if conscious of my question, Seon Ahyeon hesitated.

“I-I have to take care of my weight… W-When my body gets heavy, my dance becomes weird. I-I shouldn’t get used to late-night snacks.”

“Is that so?”

He used to be a dance major. I was going to accept it and move on, but then I suddenly found a contradiction.

“Didn’t you give me a chocolate bar past midnight during the evaluation?”

“M-Moondae is fine! You were so skinny back then…”

“…”

There was a story like this?

To my surprise, I heard a laugh from the bed next to me.

“That’s right, Park Moondae was really thin back then, so I thought you were over-managing yourself.”

“But your body? When I see you eat… You don’t gain weight compared to what goes in your mouth. If it were me, I would have turned into a pig.”

Keun Sejin and Gold 1 each chipped in. Oh, dear.

‘I ate a lot on purpose because of my stamina, but it seems I have been misunderstood.’

It was unpleasant, but thanks to this nonsense, the atmosphere in the room seemed to have loosened up a bit.

Seon Ahyeon also laughed a little below me, and when my cold eyes met his, he was startled and started coughing.

"…"

Really… He's an unusual guy.

I silently threw the bottle of water by the bedside.

Seon Ahyeon took the bottle after struggling a few times and drank it.

And murmured softly.

"I-I want to do well. Better."

"…Right."

Judging from his remarks, it seemed that Seon Ahyeon had checked public opinion on the Internet. But I didn't look too closely so I wondered if he was just maintaining his composure.

After pondering about it, I quietly tried my luck.

"…Let's not look for anything else on the Internet and just research the data because it might get you concerned for no reason."

"Ah…"

Seon Ahyeon exclaimed with a mysterious face and suddenly answered with a shout.

"I-I already knew, so it's okay. I-I'm ready."

"What?"

'What are you talking about?'

Seon Ahyeon muttered with an embarrassed expression.

"I-I already saw all those posts before the filming. A-As I kept looking, it kept coming out…"

"…"

That's why he looked so gloomy when I met him on the day of the shoot.

At that time, public opinion was not as bad as it is now, so isn't that kind of comment normally kept out of the surface of the Internet?

Perhaps Seon Ahyeon, who wasn't very familiar with the Internet, had looked into everything without knowing the extent.

'How far did you search?'

I felt like he'd been looking at the ridiculous bullshitting posts where there were only abusive comments about idols all day long.

Seon Ahyeon continued to speak as if he was making excuses.

"I-I knew this would happen someday. I-I'm ready. I-It's okay. I-I'm used to it."

"Is that so?"

"Y-Yes!"

Seon Ahyeon nodded quickly, but I was secretly disturbed.

'When he said he was used to it, it seemed he was talking about being criticized for his stuttering.'

I had thought about it for a long time, but it was clear that he had tasted hell in peer relationships. Teenagers these days are scary.

I clicked my tongue inwardly.

"Don't worry, it won't last long. If we do well on stage, it will disappear again."

"I-Is that so?"

“Yes, it’s a survival program.”

It was always like that with those cheap bastards. The reality is sh*tty, so it’s fun to curse at someone you can bite on the Internet.

If another celebrity became a hot topic, they would move on.

I shrugged my shoulders.

“I might get cursed at from tomorrow onwards.”

“Huh? N-No…! Y-You didn’t do anything wrong…”

“You didn’t do anything wrong either.”

“…”

When Seon Ahyeon got flustered and closed his mouth, Keun Sejin answered instead.

“So what you want to say to Ahyeon is ‘Don’t take insults for granted’, right? Kya~ Isn’t Moondae too cool? If I were a viewer, I’d already bought stocks.”

“Yeah, that’s right.”

“Wow, this doesn’t work anymore?.”

Keun Sejin laughed and rolled around the bed. Gold 1, who was using the lower bed, was terrified but gave words of encouragement to the team members.

“Stop it, you crazy punk! The bed is going to collapse!… Yes, let’s just work hard. Let’s do our best for this performance!”

“Let’s do it!”

The constant effort to somehow sublimate the situation into motivation raised the mood of the bedroom. A friendly atmosphere was vigorously incited.

And Kim Raebin, who had been keeping his mouth closed, muttered in a small voice.

“Yes. In that sense, I found and organized the example materials for costumes and patterns for props, is it okay to post them in the group chat room now…”

“…Ah.”

“Oh.”

Right. That’s the purpose of holding the smartphone.

He must have found it earlier, but it seemed that he couldn’t speak because of the atmosphere.

From Kim Raebin’s perspective, he had received all kinds of curses during the first team match, so the internet for him right now must be like a fairy. He would have no problem exploring around.

“…Um, of course.”

“Yes, I will send them.”

The sound of Gold 1’s dry cough echoed through the bedroom along with the sound of smartphones vibrating here and there.

I checked the data posted by Kim Raebin.

[Color_material_arrangement of pattern_clothes_base.xlsx]

[Prop pattern_Detailed list_No base.xlsx]

When I clicked on it, it was not an ordinary skill to sort them by category. The production team probably didn’t expect this much either.

‘You have good skills.’

As if everyone had similar thoughts, exclamations and simple compliments came and went. Keun Sejin even whistled.

“…Thank you.”

After Kim Raebin’s awkward thanks, the team members continued to discuss the costumes and stage props until 3 a.m.

It seemed that the determination to make a good stage was somehow expressed through the act of ‘Sleeping only after you die’.

I had a status window, but these guys were really great.

* * *

After two more days of labor and practice from dawn to dawn, It was time for the damn midterm evaluation again.

This time, the stage director, the music director, and the costume team also sat down and evaluated us along with the trainers.

First of all, if I had to evaluate myself, even if I thought about it as objectively as possible, the current direction of this team was good.

Still, I wasn’t expecting much. Because I had never received good reviews in the evaluation so far.

But this time the result… It was honestly good.

“I love it.”

“Let’s just go like this!”

For once, the feedback started with these sentences.

Looking at the smiling trainers and the admiring judges, the team members gradually realized the situation.

First, the choreographer.

“Who made the choreography? You did it all together? No, there must be someone who planned it… Wow, you guys got it right, right? You really did it together?… Yeah, whoever did it will show up on the broadcast. Anyway, I have nothing to say because you did well.”

Next up was vocal trainer Muddy.

“First of all, I’m so proud that everyone moves like that and the pitch doesn’t change! Also, it’s attractive how you changed the way the original song is sung, and the way you sing according to the newly interpreted parts. Let’s sing the whole song with this feeling!”

Even Youngrin who rarely complimented openly.

“I know it’s a stage with a lot of thought and practice, but the best thing is that it doesn’t feel like the work of an amateur. Even though it’s a mid-term evaluation, your stage is already complete. I can’t wait to see you on stage.”

Up to this point, the team members had become ‘thank you’ bots and only expressed gratitude.

Amid a series of favorable reviews that would have made anyone shed tears, even the director and the costume team gave praise.

“Looking at the draft you wrote here, we immediately felt that you paid a lot of attention to detail. From what you’ve prepared, I think it’ll look good on stage.”

“It’s a team that arranged the song very easily. I have a lot of friends, and it was fun for us to pick the sound without talking about anything else. Seeing it today, the stage is just as cool as we expected.”

“The team’s outfit entered the production stage very quickly. The concept was clear and there weren’t many ambiguous parts. I can’t wait to see you perform on stage wearing the clothes we made~”

After this whirlwind of praise, the faces of the team members were really worth seeing.

Perhaps because they were so happy, they didn't realize that they were nodding their heads with stupid expressions.

Even Keun Sejin couldn't finish his words properly.

"Team, no, uh… Thank you. We'll work harder!"

"Don't get hurt by working too hard!"

Clap clap clap. Then, with the sound of applause from the judges, the group bid farewell and returned to their seats.

The team members, who were completely blown away, watched the rest of the other teams' performances and only showed reflexive reactions that followed the trend. There was no other audience.

I was stunned, too.

'It's going so well?'

I couldn't sleep well for a few days and I was just focused on completing this so I wasn't sure how good this would look.

At best, it would end with 'it's fine'.

'…Anyway, I feel good.'

The sense of accomplishment was somewhat uplifting.

I enjoyed the sense of accomplishment for a while as I stared at the performances of other team participants.

It was close to midnight when the midterm evaluation was completely over.

"It was so good."

“I think so, too.”

“Same.”

The team members murmured in their beds. It was only after it was over that I could feel it properly, and a sense of happiness that had never felt before flowed through my voice.

“I think we can do really well.”

“T-That’s right.”

This conversation pattern repeated several more times.

‘Are we going to bed just like this today?’

It had been a while since I’d slept for more than four hours.

I quickly closed my eyes. But at that moment, talk about work came out again.

“Oh, I haven’t decided on the color of the sleeves.”

“Oh, right.”

These guys were really tough. I forced myself to open my eyes. Damn it.

“I have a few things to look at too, wait a minute.”

The sound of Keun Sejin’s tapping on the smartphone screen rang out.

“I saw it here…”

But the next words did not come. Keun Sejin stood still holding his smartphone.

“What is it?”

“Why are you like this?”

Keun Sejin, whose face was white, was looking at the screen.

The colors of the smartphone screen shining in the dark bedroom were clearly visible even though the distance was quite far away.

‘It’s a gossip board.’

Linked to a portal site, it was a bulletin board famous for all kinds of conflict materials, rumors, and controversial articles.

Without saying anything more to Keun Sejin, I accessed the bulletin board with my smartphone.

And I saw a post that had already entered the rankings even though it just appeared 30 minutes ago.

[3rd place! Idol Inc. Keun Sejin is accused of bullying] (425)]

It was a big beautiful landmine.

*‘Oh, sh*t.’*

No wonder I was so lucky today.

Chapter 41

School violence in the idol industry was a scandal that had no real answer. The data accumulated from the past incidents that had occurred so far proved that.

Especially when bullying or physical violence entered the list, it was over.I'd never seen any other way that worked out other than just resigning and going to the military.

But for it to happen to a participant from the same team?

'…Let's check first.'

I clicked on the first post. In the meantime, more comments piled up.

[3rd place! Idol Inc. Keun Sejin is accused of bullying] (425)]

: Hold on, hold on, I'm writing this because I feel like I'm going to die if I don't Participant Lee Sejin of <Re-listed! Idol Inc.>, nicknamed Keun Sejin, bullied people throughout his studies at Cheongsol High School.

I saw articles posted on the internet saying that he looked like a model student running for the student council president election in high school, I was so upset that I couldn't sleep.

Lee Sejin had been drinking and smoking since middle school, and he bullied me by hanging out with a group of people who pretend to be kind.

……

The long writing that followed insisted on Keun Sejin's subtle bullying in school.

The description of the one-on-one bullying was detailed and even included detailed examples.At first glance, it seemed convincing even to me.

‘This not just an aggro rumor that has been used once.’

Whether it was true or not, it was a deliberate post. They even attached a picture at the bottom.

The author’s own high school graduation album.

And it was a picture of Keun Sejin with a cigarette on his finger.

Below the picture, this text was added.

[I have a lot of other pictures. If you understand the situation, resign now. I don’t know about anything else, but I can’t stand a guy like him being an idol.]

‘…Even if it’s not real, once the label is attached, it’s hard to remove, and they even uploaded a photo.’

In an audition program, it was almost a death sentence. And it was huge bad news for the team.

Even if Keun Sejin survived, the team editing was over, and even if he resigned, it would be hell. From the part distribution to the movement, we would have to practice from scratch again.

“…”

I sighed and raised my head.

‘Let’s check first.’

“I just read the article.”

“…”

There was a heavy silence.

Nobody asked what was going on.

'It seems everyone else saw it too.'

Keun Sejin silently lowered his head down to the smartphone screen.

"Are you sure this picture is you?"

"…I don't know."

Keun Sejin muttered in a dazed voice.

"I've never taken a picture of anything like this…"

But you can't say for sure.

I asked again.

"Did you smoke?"

"Wait, when I was a freshman in high school… I did a little… but I stopped right away. And I never did anything like this. Seriously, why would I do this at school…"

Keun Sejin, whose voice was getting louder and louder, closed his mouth as if he was suffocated. Then he lowered his eyes to the smartphone again.

'You're reading the comments.'

It was obvious that the comments would be terrible. Gold 1 noticed the situation and quickly stopped him.

"Hey, don't look at it. Just turn it off. Turn it off."

"…I have to see it to respond. But… Yes, it's already over."

Keun Sejin put down his smartphone. The hand that put it down was trembling.

“Honestly, even I wouldn’t believe myself either. I smoked, but I never took a picture, and if I say that everything except for the cigarettes is a lie… It’s not convincing.”

As he spoke, Keun Sejin was getting calmer. No, rather than calming down… He had resigned.

“…People won’t trust me, right?”

“…”

With a picture attached, turning the situation upside down seemed difficult.

Apart from that, Keun Sejin looked upset over being treated unfairly. In addition, the action described in the accusation post was quite different from Keun Sejin’s attitude.

‘Judging from his personality… Even if he bullies someone, I don’t think he’s the type who makes them leave a grudge.’

Wouldn’t it be possible for him to cleverly manipulate the situation so that they wouldn’t even know they were being bullied and made them suffer from their own deeds?

He wasn’t the kind of guy that would slander people this way.

But this was also just a guess. We hadn’t known each other for a long time, so I couldn’t jump to conclusions.Because human beings have many facets.

Aren’t there a lot of cases where someone is a trashy condescending boss but is a reliable father to his son?

“…”

After thinking for a while, I turned on the smartphone screen again. And I started to read all the accusations against Keun Sejin from the very beginning.

In the meantime, Keun Sejin and the team members began to struggle with despair and sadness.

Keun Sejin murmured in a low voice.

“I… I will resign tomorrow.”

“…!!”

“Hey, wait a minute.”

“C-C-Calm d-down…”

“I’ve done enough already. It’s true that I smoked… If I keep holding on here, I think the controversy will only grow.”

Keun Sejin sounded like he was struggling to keep his voice clear.

“After it subsides a little, I will explain it well, then wouldn’t I be able to debut in a year or so? And it’s a bit… I really don’t remember taking that picture, but it comes out, so it’s a bit scary.”

“…”

Keun Sejin, who always had an inch of leisure left to spare, said that, so the other team members seemed to be unable to be able to say anything.

I replied back, still staring at my phone.

“I don’t think that’s a good idea.”

“…Why?”

“The person who posted this wrote, ‘If you understand the situation, resign now.' If you resign now, these words will become established facts.“

It was not really my business, but as I continued to answer, Keun Sejin's anger seemed to rise gradually.

“Stop it. It'll only make me feel bad. Even if I refute it in this situation, the result is the same.”

“It's important to have a good rebuttal material.”

“What?”

I picked up my smartphone and turned the screen to Keun Sejin.

On the screen, the last photo included in the accusation post was zoomed in.

“This is photoshopped.”

“…!!”

Your eyes are going to pop out. Stop being surprised.

In fact, if he had thought about it calmly, he would have guessed that it was photoshopped first, but I guess he couldn't because he was scared.

I handed over my smartphone to Keun Sejin. And I pointed to the obvious part of the picture on the screen with my index finger.

First, the hand holding the cigarette.

“Here, if you zoom in to the design program… The pixel is a bit broken. I guess they lowered the quality on purpose, but some points are still obvious.”

And cigarettes.

“Only the cigarettes don’t fit the brightness. Looking at the exposure value of this photo, it should be brighter than this, but it looks too white, so they lowered it a bit in the process of lowering it.”

It was an easy mistake for a beginner to make when putting a white object in a picture. It was true that white things stood out, but because it looked awkward, they crushed it.

My smartphone’s performance was so poor that it got cut off a bit, but there was no problem with this verification.

‘…I didn’t expect my data adjustment work to benefit me like this.’

I briefly recalled the past when I granted requests like ‘Please erase that damn pattern on my clothes ㅜㅜ’ and received an extra fee.

“H-How do you know this? Are you sure?”

“Yes.”

Keun Sejin looked at the smartphone without saying a word.

Gold 1 shouted at the sight of a glimmer of hope.

“Hey!! Then give them an explanation right now! It’s photoshopped!”

“O-Oh… Yes! You have to upload it…”

“No, wait a minute.”

It seemed because he was a popular guy in real life, he was ignorant of internet physiology. I explained calmly.

“I’ve looked into it too, I’m sure there are some of your fans who recognized that it was photoshopped.”

“Ah!”

“T-Then if you just wait, t-the fans will…”

“No, I mean… It means that even though some parts are obviously photoshopped, they won’t believe it because they have fun cursing at you. They would be sarcastic because this claim comes from people who like Keun Sejin.”

“…Ah.”

Before the atmosphere of the room deteriorated, I added an explanation right away.

“So find it.”

“What?”

“The original picture. If you upload it with the original, they can’t refute that it’s photoshopped.”

Seeing that Keun Sejin in the picture was staring at the lens, it means that he already knew the existence of the camera.

If so, it was highly likely that someone who was an acquaintance took the picture.

‘However, it is dangerous to contact your acquaintances in this situation.’

Maybe the person who posted it was his acquaintance.

‘Seeing that the person who posted the accusation confidently uploaded this photo, I’m sure not many people have the original photo… ’

No, wait. Since it was easy to specify, it seemed unlikely.

‘Well, if that’s not the case… ’

I was deep in thought and asked Keun Sejin.

“When you take pictures with other people, do you tend to save them all?”

“The pictures where I show up, yes.”

“Well, first of all… Why don’t you look at the album from the day you took a lot of photos for some event or gathering?“

If they changed the background after cropping Keun Sejin from a group photo that had been taken several times, it was understandable that they would be triumphant since he wouldn’t be able to find the original photo.

“Moondae, what kind of things did you do before? Are you actually an NIS employee?”

“No way.”

Gold 1’s nonsense was quickly passed over.

The other team members were already sitting next to Keun Sejin, looking for the picture together with their big eyes.

“Look at the group photos, not the individual photos. Maybe it’s zoomed in.”

“Okay.”

Keun Sejin, who barely returned to his usual tone, quickly opened the gallery with his smartphone.

And the eye-sickening search time continued.

Sejin took so many pictures. The pictures from high school came out endlessly.

Half an hour had passed, but we hadn’t finished the first year yet.

“S-Sejin, you have a lot of friends.”

“…Haha.”

Even Seon Ahyeon sounded fed up as he muttered this. Keun Sejin flipped through the photos with an embarrassed laugh.

And when the picture of the first semester of the second year came out.

“Hyung, this!”

“…!”

Kim Raebin pointed to a picture that passed over his fingers. Keun Sejin quickly checked the picture.

It was a picture of five or six people standing together and smiling at the camera. There were several pictures of different poses, taken in the same place, back and forth.

Keun Sejin was a little far away in the corner. And when I zoomed in on his upper body, I could see it clearly.

It was the photo in the accusation post.

“…Ha.”

Keun Sejin bowed his head and let out a long sigh of relief.

Then he muttered in a somewhat dejected voice.

“…It’s a picture from the election campaign.”

“Hmm.”

Come to think of it, at the beginning of the accusation post, there was something about running for president of the student body. I didn’t know who it was, but they must have been a bit of a bother.

‘Maybe I should have told him to look for the picture from that time first.’

But we found it anyway, so it’s fine.

“Huff…”

Keun Sejin stretched back as if the tension had been relieved. He almost hit his head on the wall behind the bed, but it was clear that he couldn’t care about it now.

“Thank God. It’s in my photo album.”

“Right.”

I nodded.

Next to him, Gold 1 spoke vigorously.

“Good! You have an agency, right? Send it to them right away! Ask them to write a rebuttal!”

It was advice that made sense. Since things had already gotten bigger, it would be better to officially respond with evidence.

However, a shaky response came back.

“To my agency?”

Keun Sejin rubbed the back of his neck with a mysterious expression.

“Hm… That’s a bit…”

“…?”

It was supposed to be the agency’s job.

Chapter 42

Keun Sejin smiled bitterly.

“My agency… It’s Happy Friend, you know.”

“Ah.”

At that moment, aspiring idols roughly grasped the atmosphere.

And I, who used to sell data, noticed.

‘That place… It’s a place famous for not giving initial responses to controversies.’

Come to think of it, it had already been an hour since the article was posted but the agency hadn’t contacted him in the middle of this mess, and now there was a riot on all SNS. If it had been a small-scale and fast-paced agency, they would have already contacted Keun Sejin.

“Well… Still, I joined because that place released albums well. haha.”

Keun Sejin laughed formally a few times and got up from the bed.

“T-Then, how about asking your friend to p-post it? Y-You have a lot of friends.”

“Hmm… According to the regulations, official Internet activities are prohibited during filming, so let’s ask your acquaintances. If you send them a picture and ask them to upload it, they’ll get excited and know what to do.”

“…”

‘Should I just leave it alone?’

Even now, I was about to regret it because I had meddled too much. But in the end, I gave advice, thinking that I should deal with it until the very end.

“If you personally ask them, they might record it. It’s better to tell the producers and upload it yourself.”

He indirectly said, ‘I think one of your acquaintances is the culprit, so be careful’. Keun Sejin nodded as if he noticed it at once.

“That would be better. Let’s see…”

Keun Sejin opened the notepad app on his smartphone, then smiled at the rest of the team members who were still huddled together.

“Thank you for taking care of me, everyone must be tired. I’ll write it quietly by myself. You should go to bed now.”

“Hey, it’s a bit weird for us to sleep and leave you alone in a situation like this.”

Keun Sejin replied seriously to Gold 1’s worries.

“If we all can’t sleep, aren’t we really going to see hell tomorrow…”

“…”

There was an awful lot of work to do tomorrow.

It was a very convincing statement.

Eventually, all the rest of the team members returned to their beds with haggard faces.

I also lay in bed and fell asleep.

Unfortunately, however, I woke up early in the morning. Because I was thirsty.

‘I talked too much before I went to bed.’

As I got up quietly and headed to the sink, Keun Sejin, who sat at the table and looked at his smartphone, reacted.

“Oh, you’re not sleeping?”

“I’m thirsty.”

“I see.”

Seeing that he hadn’t slept yet, it seemed Keun Sejin hadn’t finished working on the explanation yet. Or he was still rummaging through Internet public opinion.

Neither sign was very good.

“Are you done?”

“Um… I did write it down.”

Keun Sejin looked down at the smartphone with a conflicted expression, then after a little time passed, he spoke.

“I thought if I uploaded it myself, another noisy mess would come out of it.”

“What noisy mess?”

“Well, first of all, they would say that communicating directly on SNS during filming is a privilege… If my explanation sounds stern, they would react like ‘I didn’t know his personality was like that’, and if it sounds compassionate, I think they would say ‘He’s doing this because he got caught’.”

It was a likely scenario.

“So I tried to write it down pretending to be an anonymous acquaintance, do you want to see it?”

Keun Sejin handed over the smartphone.

[This is Keun Sejin's friend]

: The photo of the accusation posted today is photoshopped. One of the photos I have is the original photo.

(Original picture) (photoshopped picture) The second photo is made by cropping the first photo.

…

"…"

"What do you think?"

What to do with this?

If this were normal academic life, it would be a good explanation. He included everything that needed to be said and he made it easy to understand by adding parentheses.

The problem was that the article was not suitable for Internet anonymous sites.

I unconsciously looked back. The bed was waiting for me.

But if I told him to post this, there was a very high chance that everything we did at midnight would be in vain.

'Ha… '

Sleep… Let's sleep tomorrow.

"…This isn't right."

"What?"

“I said this isn’t right.”

In the end, I sucked it up and brought out my smartphone.

F*ck, I am the one who does everything in the end

* * *

3:30 in the morning.

It was time for most people to go to bed. At a time when only the most hardcore Internet users were saying useless things at night.

The controversy over Keun Sejin’s school bullying was also swept away at once and it was time to come up with sporadic gossip.

At that time, an article was posted on an anonymous site related to an idol.

[I think I found a picture of Keun Sejin]

: (Photoshopped photo) Isn’t this the original? (Original photo)

Attached to the article was a group photo of Keun Sejin and other students whose faces were roughly blackened.

It was a light article written with a common IP, but comments from early-morning users who confirmed the contents quickly increased.

– What

– What is it

– Where did you get it?

– Hey, I think this is real;;;;

– Is it a pilgrimage?

– Did they cut out that photo?

– How did you know?

I found this Keun Sejin's photo on my friend's private account

Isn't this a stalker;;

You would have done it too

ㄴㅋㅋㅋYou hit with facts

Wow, the little bastard covered their face, are you scared of getting charges ㅋㅋㅋ

The author's feedback fueled the atmosphere of the comment section even more, and soon someone who checked the article made an accurate comparison shot.

– When cropped, it's the same. (Picture)

Hiii

ㄴㄷㄷㄷ

Crazy

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋIt's funny that it's photoshopped, are they such a loser that they have to make that up?

– Wow, I thought Keun Sejin is resigning but he's actually operating the stocks

Crazy ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

Let's buy it now ㄱㄱ

The comments grew bigger and faster.

It wasn't long before someone discovered that the original photo was taken when Keun Sejin was running for student council president.

– I searched the website of Cheongsol High School and found a similar promotional photo. I think it's during the election campaign. (Link)

Wow, that's really hot

They're blatantly against the election in the fake post ㅋㅋ

Wow, the sulky kid must have written that with clenched teeth

They're caught right now so they're going to lose it

After coming this far, the captures of this article started circulating on social media and in communities.

[Unanswered justice.jpg (feat. Keun Sejin is not a school bully)]

– Keun Sejin's fabricated school bullying photo has surfaced.

– Who found Keun Sejin's original photo?

Just like when the first article was posted, the number of comments increased in an instant.

With the implications that it seemed to be discovered by chance, this article seemed more truthful.

Public opinion quickly turned to ridicule the school bullying accusation.

Keun Sejin's fans, who couldn't sleep, quickly joined the job of uploading the captured copies.

They commented diligently, kicking out people who said 'The photo is a hoax, but the content may be true' and told them to stop the bullshit.

The information that the accusation was fabricated quickly occupied Internet public opinion.

It happened before the end of the day's rush hours.

* * *

"They deleted it."

Keun Sejin murmured.

When it was revealed that the photo was fabricated, public opinion completely turned over and the person who wrote the accusation quietly deleted the article and disappeared.

It would have been difficult if the situation had been messier, but it seemed they had given up because public opinion was totally reversed.

"…I'm glad, really."

With a deep sigh of relief, Keun Sejin hit his head on the table. As the tension eased, he seemed to have been crushed by fatigue.

"Thank you. I am really… ashamed."

I deserved the gratitude. It wouldn't have been like this if he had posted the draft as it was.

'Data seller wins 1… '

I never thought the time when I was snooping around to see the price flow would be used like this again. This hardship… let's just say I've settled my karma.

"In the first place… If I hadn't touched a cigarette, this mess wouldn't have happened."

Keun Sejin muttered with a sense of shame. He seemed to know it was stupid too.

“Why did you smoke?”

“…Oh, Back then… I was behind the debut team. I even recorded a demo… They made a good debut by adding someone else besides me, and they sold their albums well.”

“…In ‘Happy Friends’?”

They haven’t picked a group of male idols with good grades in the past 5 years, though?

“No, somewhere else… But I don’t plan on joining another team for a while, so I’m here now.”

“Yes.”

At this time, there were only one or two group male idols who debuted three or four years ago and did well on their first album.

And both were from big agencies.

‘…Wouldn’t it be better to hold on even if you would debut a little late?’

He was 22 years old now after 5 years since he turned 17 years old. It was a good age to debut as the oldest team member. It would have been more reasonable to stick to the formation than to go to Happy Friend.

“…At that time I bragged so much that I’d become a rookie within this year, and got contracted, but… It’s already been 4 years since then. Haha.”

“…”

So, that’s why.

Originally, verbal contracts shouldn’t be trusted, but since he was just a high school freshman and his mental state was crushed, I guess he couldn't afford to care.

"As you can see, none of the trainees from Happy Friend's agency can make their debut right away. So I have to make my debut on this program…"

"…"

"That's why I'm saying this, thank you once again for stopping me from leaving. Park Moondae."

This was the first time this guy exposed his inner feelings while blatantly criticizing someone else like this.

'He's sincere in his own way.'

"Okay. Thank you very much."

"…What? Haha!"

Keun Sejin laughed and hit his head on the table. I wanted to laugh, but I guess I was too tired.

I pondered bitterly.

'…Aren't I too relaxed?'

I tried to keep a distance because he was a drug addict, but at some point, I couldn't help it and we became too close.

'Looking at his track record so far, the odds seem low.'

Keun Sejin had most likely resigned and failed to make his debut when the school bullying broke out. Even if he hadn't resigned, it wouldn't have been easy to reverse public opinion like now, so it would have been hard for him to debut.

'Well, child actor Lee Sejin doesn't seem to be in a good state to debut now either.'

Still, Lee Sejin's broadcast volume and image might have been influenced by the variable 'Park Moondae', so it was also a possibility.

'Anyway, this is not an important issue right now.'

Let's just put Schrödinger's drug addict in a box. What is urgent now is the team match stage in two days.

Ta-da! Ba-da!

"Ugh!"

"Uh…"

Just in time, team members woke up from bed at the sound of the morning alarm.

'Another day without a break has begun… '

Standing with heavy eyes, Keun Sejin talked to me again. It seemed to be the continuation of the previous conversation.

"No, really… I'll buy you a meal after this. What do you want to eat?"

"Beef."

"…It doesn't have to be domestic, right?"

"As long as it's delicious."

It was exactly 50 hours before the team rehearsal.

* * *

The 3rd team battle stage was held on a large stage that belonged to 'MusicBomb', Tnet's signature music program.

It meant that we should show a great performance on a stage where senior idols had performed, but in fact, I think it was simply because they liked to pick the reaction cuts.

“On this stage, just three days ago! VTIC did a pre-recording!”

“Wooow!”

The participants cheered at the MC’s words.

Actually, the stage sets were completely different, so there was nothing in common except that they had occupied the same space.

However, the participants seemed excited just by sharing the same space as the top idols.

I didn’t feel bad either.

‘VTIC… Those guys are fine.’

It was worth taking pictures of them because their unit prices were expensive.

“Just like the senior idols have done, I hope you show your skills to the fullest!”

After the MC finished the script, the preparations for the rehearsal began in earnest.

“Everyone! The order is the same as the actual show!”

“Yes!”

In an instant, the stage turned chaotic with instructions and the sound of music.

According to the order, the participants still had some time to relax. So the ‘Moon Rabbit’ team gathered in the corner in the meantime.

“Shall we say fighting before we go? We’ve worked hard, so as much we’ve put in our effort, let’s show them a wonderful stage.”

“Ah, good.”

“O-Okay.”

The team members nodded their heads with tense faces. However, it was clear that the tension was not from anxiety, but from expectation.

“The <Moon Rabbit> team.”

The team members gathered their hands together.

“Fighting!”

The shouts sounded almost aggressive.

‘Oh, my God.’

Willingly participated in this even though there were no cameras close by felt unfamiliar to me.

It wasn’t a bad feeling though.

“Then let’s go!”

Indeed, the stage was right in front of our eyes.

Chapter 43

It was crowded outside the stage of MusicBomb where the 3rd team match would be held.

And the majority of the crowd was not the audience, but the people who came to see if they could hear the sound from outside.

A college student who squeezed through the crowd and entered the queue line was dissatisfied with that.

'Why are you gathering together when you can't even come in?'

She didn't understand why they were excited to be here when they couldn't even see them.

'It was the same last time in the second match, but the scale has increased.'

She stood in line, feeling so fed up. Just looking at the length, it looked like it would take forever to enter.

'How annoying.'

Around her people were sharing slogans or snacks. It just so happened that the names written on those slogans were the same.

[Park Moondae ♡ Debut]

'…He's gotten really popular.'

She pouted as she recalled the previous second team match.

She felt bad because the person sitting next to her was Park Moondae's fan, but Kim Raebin, who she liked, even went on the same team as Park Moondae.

‘Why do they like that concept bug?’

(TL note: Concept bug = a person who’s deeply immersed in a concept character they made themselves. I guess it’s similar to chuunibyou.)

She grumbled.

However, she was still in denial that she had gone crazy when the stage in the last team match was over.

…Still, she couldn’t laugh at Park Moondae on the Internet anymore.

‘…Well, he was okay on stage, so I’m letting it slide.’

She tried to deny it and took her eyes off Park Moondae’s slogan. She didn’t know who picked it, but the fact that it was pretty made it even more annoying.

“Please keep order!”

“Don’t push!”

They lined up according to the number they received in advance and entered inside, but from the middle, there were a lot of people who started running. It was a place where everyone had to stand without a single seat, so the earlier you arrived and took the spots, the more advantageous it was.

She grabbed the fence right in front of the stage.

‘I did it!!’

She couldn’t help but praise herself for succeeding in applying for an audience for the 18th time.

It was a great achievement because not only there were floods of applicants for the audience, the production team changed the application again on a first-come-first-served basis.

‘I’ll see him right in front of me.’

Her heart was pounding. However, some time passed, and it was only right before her expectation turned into discomfort that the MC entered.

“Welcome to the 3rd team competition stage of <Re-listed! Idol Inc.>!”

There was an explosive cheer mixed with relief, joy, and irritation at how it was finally starting.

‘Get started already!!’

She chanted inwardly, holding on to the fence.

“The theme of this team match is <Self-Production>! All the elements of the performance, from song selection to stage setting, were selected and created by the participants themselves!”

‘Kim Raebin must have done this well!’

She recalled her own stock, which was the only thing she could do to not start getting political. She cheered like other audiences in excitement.

“Also, by analyzing shareholders’ past buying tendencies with big data algorithms, the participants that shareholders like together have become a team!”

At the MC’s words, the audience murmured all over the place, asking what kind of nonsense he was spouting.

It wasn’t that they didn’t understand his words, but they simply wondered why the production crew had to do such a useless thing instead of getting a separate vote.

Anyway, the MC naturally finished the opening.

“You seem to have high expectations, then right now! The opening stage will be revealed!”

“Wow!”

“The song chosen by the participants is… It is <I Like the Wait> by the sentimental Idol, Maximite!”

The audience immediately turned their attention to the stage.

Eyes full of anticipation turned to the dark stage, wondering if their favorite participant would appear now.

‘It’s better to come out later… Ah, whatever! Come out right now!’

As if to repay that thought, the light burst from the stage.

Piiing.

‘Ugh!’

But it wasn’t entirely bright.

Thick yellow beam lights soared from below the stage. The beams of light dizzyingly illuminated the dark stage.

At first glance, there was only a huge wooden stump on the stage.

And the sound of wind instruments ringing.

Whoo-whoo-whoo! Woo-woo-woo-.

It was the sound of daegeum in the beginning of the Korean traditional music Suyeonjangjigok. Elegant sad notes roamed the stage alone.

(TL note: The daegeum is a large bamboo flute, a transverse flute used in traditional Korean music. Sumber: Wiki.)

And a shadow came out of the left corner of the stage.

It was a terrifyingly neat somersault.

The tall man with a wooden rabbit mask ran out and turned around, cutting through the air.

"…!!"

The sound of the daegeum was over.

Following the movement of the shadow who landed on one leg, the robe over his body fluttered, revealing the dress inside.

At that moment, the beams of light that divided the stage completely disappeared.

On the stage which was completely dark, a voice rang instead of the sound of the daegeum.

– My wait is long

It's always fun

Without accompaniment or a single note, It sounded perfect, as if it had been recorded.

And now the audience knew whose voice it was.

'Park Moondae… '

The light returned to the stage with a deep drumbeat.

Dung- dungdungdung! dung- dungdungdung!

On the stage, five human shadows, wearing wooden rabbit masks, were standing in a circle.

Behind them, a brilliant Milky Way was revealed as if it were pouring into the background of the black stage.

And a group dance.

Slide.

The movement that started slowly and sensibly started to become more complex and faster as the beat broke.

It was almost like a natural phenomenon.

The speed might change continuously and the timing might not be right, but there was no one who missed the beat or movement.

Following the dance, the outline of the heavy drumbeat became sharp, and the modern baseline was heavily balanced after that.

Then the daegeum and the corrected piano notes began to play on the stairs.

Uhwi- Wiwiwi-

Uhwiuhwi- Wi~~

As soon as the drum sound completely became part of the sound composition, the five of them raised their rabbit masks to the side of their heads in unison in line with the choreography.

At the same time, the person on the far right began to sing. It was Park Moondae.

– On every road, I wait for you

My heart is fluttering

Keun Sejin, who turned completely toward the stage from the far left with the choreography, smiled.

– There is no room for anxiety

Because you already know

Just like martial arts, the formation split and Kim Raebin popped out from behind.

– That you will appear here

We will meet

My heart is sure

Every space is overflowing like this!

‘Raebin!!’

The college student holding onto the fence cried inside. She wanted to scream, but somehow she held it in.

And when it came to his rap part, there was something that was clearly noticeable not just to her but also to the majority of the audience.

‘You changed all the lyrics to Korean… ’

Yes. All English that was mixed with a few words was changed to Korean and matched the atmosphere of the stage.

‘As expected, my kid is a genius!’

She cried loudly inside, saying that he had changed it perfectly. She didn’t even think of the possibility that it might be the other team members who had changed it.

However, as she was sucked into the stage, the sentiment disappeared behind her head in an instant.

– It’s so obvious

I know you.

You'll get to know me

With Gold 1, Ha Iljun's voice backing him, Keun Sejin completed the pre-chorus.

– The answer has already been decided.

An unavoidable fate will come~

Seon Ahyeon came out to the center. The rabbit mask turned in a slightly clunky way and covered his temple.

Still, his face sparkled.

'…He's handsome.'

The college student saw Seon Ahyeon from a close distance and couldn't come up with a negative impression.

Seon Ahyeon started singing while standing up straight and gracefully.

– I like the wait

My wait is long and

It's always fun

'Uh?'

From that chorus, familiar movements began to mix.

It was the hand gestures, the point choreography of the original song.

However, a new foot movement was added offbeat to the hand movement to bring out a strong feeling.

Swish!

The choreography, which used bigger body movements than the original song, was incredibly impressive because it matched the fluttering durumagis.

(TL note: Durumagi is a variety of overcoats in hanbok, the Korean traditional garment.)

'Ah… '

Rather than the emotional and simple feeling of the original song, the stage was completed in a historical drama style with a romantic and overwhelming feeling.

– When this wait is over

I know you who I'll run into

My heart is already bright

Park Moondae sang the high note at the end of the chorus.

Perhaps its color faded during the filming, his hair was now closer to blonde and was swept away by the mask.

'…What's with that hair… It looks fine.'

She struggled to hide her excitement, making excuses saying that it was probably because the stylist put on their life's greatest stage makeup.

And at the end of the note, Park Moondae turned completely backward.

'What's this?'

The audience, who had been focusing on the participants' movements and facial expressions, reflexively turned their gazes back.

A huge dark blue trail was drawn over the starlight that flowed behind the stage.

"…!"

Soon, only strings and wind instruments remained.

With that as the background sound, the dark blue trail drew a huge circle.

The circle, which was completed with traces like an ink painting, as if drawn with ink, soon glowed blue.

Round blue light between the stars. It was the earth seen from the moon.

Uhuuu- Uhuuu- Uhu, Uuu–

Participants gently fall to the floor and rise to the rhythm, naturally taking off their durumagi and throwing them away.

– A light daydream

I'm on my way to meet you

All of a sudden, the participants stood up in full dresses.

Their bodies made a short and intense group dance.

It was a full-body movement that almost looked like a dance, and their bodies curved strongly and smoothly. It felt very strange.

The accompaniment without percussion sounded somewhat sensual.

'Kim Raebin is crazy… '

"Ooh…"

"…"

The college student was startled by the sound of her own voice, but she realized that she could hear it from all directions.

-That you've been waiting for me

Speaking, clear dizziness

By changing the lyric 'déjà vu' to 'dizziness', it sounded more mysterious as if being swallowed.

– Facing the fateful moment

Never hesitate!

Bang!

At that moment, percussion came back into the accompaniment.

The slightly blatant sensuality disappeared in an instant.

– I like the wait

My wait is long and

It's always fun

The chorus came back, and Keun Sejin came out to the center and took the center stage in the complex group dance.

The choreography became more colorful.

– When this wait is over

I know you who I'll run into

My heart is already bright

Then came the low humming.

-Hum hu hu hum- huhu DDu-ru Du-ru Du Du

It was the melody of the chorus.

With the moving choreography, it felt like they were waiting for someone and singing with excitement.

The drumming of the accompaniment sounded like a heartbeat.

The college student belatedly realized that Park Moondae was adding an octave higher to the humming.

She got goosebumps.

'…I thought it was a musical instrument.'

She gulped. On the stage, the intro choreography was once again being transformed.

As the formation constantly changed, the five naturally stood around the only prop on the stage.

'Huh?'

The huge stump of wood.

It was the stump of katsura trees.

Naturally, sitting around the stump, they immediately took off their sheepskin blazers and tossed them down.

"…!"

Revealing a man's jeogori designed like a shirt, Keun Sejin looked straight ahead and smiled.

He turned the rabbit mask back to his face and sang the last verse.

– Wait for me.

The stage was finished with the blue light of the earth falling over the moon rabbits who fell asleep leaning on each other while sitting on the stump of the katsura trees.

And there was a cheer loud enough to smash the roof of the filming set.

“Waaaah!”

“Kyaaaa!!”

“Uaaah!”

Under the stage, all kinds of reactions were overflowing, from screaming to covering their mouths.

It was because everyone was excited at the stage they saw that had a superbly high level of perfection, from the opening to the unexpected combination of high-ranking participants.

In addition, there was something about this stage that stimulated the heart of the fans.

Since they couldn’t interpret everything at once, they wanted to look at it more than once and find the hidden elements.

There must be many audience members who were already counting the days remaining until the broadcast.

‘It’s all over.’

The college student who let go of the fence mumbled proudly.She had been screaming and only barely came to her senses when the lights on the stage went out.

Since the opening was cut like this, the next team automatically set up the stage.

After hesitating, she finally admitted her excitement.

'Well, October kids are good, too.'

While muttering, 'You can debut with Ryu Chungwoo and Cha Eugene over there', the irritation she felt when she had first entered already disappeared.

Chapter 44

After the performance, the <Moon Rabbit> team returned to the group waiting room for a reaction cut. It was a room where a large monitor was installed to watch other teams' stages.

By the way, as soon as I got off the stage, everyone's eyes were swollen like a crucian carp.

Honestly, it was understandable that they cried. We couldn't rest properly for over ten days, and we finished the preparation with clenched fists. If I were 20 years old, I'd be crying too.

"Hey, how can Moondae not shed a single tear? Are you really from the National Intelligence Service…"

"No."

I stopped Gold 1's attempt to use that topic as a joke. The surrounding team members giggled.

The atmosphere was comfortable.

'I know you did a good job.'

Since there were other teams here, I didn't say it out loud, but the estimate had already been made through the midterm evaluation and rehearsal.

Unless someone from another team suddenly showed off their crazy potential and teleported on stage, this was a winning game.

Thanks to this, our reactions came out especially well whenever other teams showed up on stage.

Because we felt comfortable, we could enjoy other teams' performances without self-interest.

'It's fun.'

I also went back to the audience's position and enjoyed the stages. Of course, I looked around and reacted a bit.

'First of all, the second and the third team are doomed.'

The second team's arrangement was so sudden and they failed to complete the choreography in time, so more than half of the people ruined the dance motions in the second half.

I think the third team wanted to push a sexy concept like Keun Sejin, but it was just too much and didn't make any sense… It was uncomfortable to watch.

'Women would hate it even more.'

The key was how much the broadcast would correct it with editing.

And the fourth team seemed to have recovered enough to come out well.

This team with Gold 2 in it picked a cute and upbeat song andthey didn't make a big difference in the arrangement from the original song, but it matched well.

"Heeseung is good!"

Gold 1 screamed excitedly as Gold 2 came out to the center. I applauded, too.

Now there was only one team left.

It was Ryu Chungwoo's team who had tasted the hellfire.

'Poor fellow.'

If there was someone here who didn't feel sorry for Ryu Chungwoo in this round, that person must have never done a group project.

I could see that the relationship between Lee Sejin and Choi Wongil had become completely twisted. On top of that, he had to finish the performance with the troll and Cha Eugene?

That alone was an achievement to be paid for.

For reference, Cha Eugene was still in a state of low spirits, and he had visited once every two or three days to pick up snacks.

I didn't know if he would use as much energy on stage as the chocolate he put in his mouth, but it didn't matter if he couldn't. It wasn't my team.

"Fighting!"

Keun Sejin, who had been sending encouragement to each team that left the room and went to the stage, also cheered for Ryu Chungwoo's team.

After some time, Ryu Chungwoo appeared on the monitor screen.

"Here we go!"

No matter how ruined the team was, it was still a team full of high-ranked players, so the atmosphere in the waiting room was filled with expectations.

Of course, it could have been an expectation for them to fail.

However, Ryu Chungwoo's team did not fail.

'…Why is that bastard flying around?'

This was because Cha Eugene grabbed them by the collars and dragged them.

Every time he hit the center in the chorus, an optical illusion that the stage was perfect arose.

‘That’s why you got first place.’

I thought he was totally out of it, but when he went up on stage, he became a different person.

‘Is it because of your characteristic?’

I remembered Cha Eugene’s characteristics that I checked in the last team match.

[Characteristic: Black hole (A)]

: Immersive stage manpower that sucks everything +150%

Since he had something like this, there was no other choice for him but to debut.

“Ooh!”

When the performance of Ryu Chungwoo team’s was over, the participants in the waiting room applauded with admiration.

“C-Cha Eugene is really good.”

“That’s right.”

I could hear the <Moon Rabbit> team gossiping next to me. But their voices weren’t filled with anxiety.

No matter how much Cha Eugene flew and crawled around, there was a clear difference in overall entirety.

‘The problem is that we were the opening.’

As time went by, the impression was bound to weaken. I wish we hadn’t ruined the mini-game that set the stage order.

I didn't know Gold 1 would be thoroughly cleaned out.

At that time, Gold 1's majestic remark when he went to the mini-game as the team's representative came to mind.

– Just trust me!

…But this statement didn't come true.

Gold 1, who poured all his energy into the team's rock-paper-scissors, suffered a series of defeats in the following team match.

What if we can't get first place by a narrow margin because of this order?

In fact, the only one who regretted it was Gold 1. This was because the rest of the team were those who would go all the way to the end even if their ranking dropped considerably.

Gold 1's ranking came up short, so winning the team match was important.

Based on their tendency so far, the production team would definitely give something that would help to survive as a winning prize.

'They'll announce it soon.'

Now that the last team stage was over, there was about an hour left until the team match's ranking was announced.

This time too, there was a high probability that they'd leave out the 1st and 2nd places and delay it to the next ranking announcement, but it would be outlined roughly anyway.

And an hour and a half later, the results were exactly as expected.

"Two teams remaining for 1st place candidates! Team Moon Rabbit and Team Husky! Which team will win the final championship?"

That <Husky> was Ryu Chungwoo's team name. So far, the development had been predictable.

"Please check out the results… at the ranking announcement!"

Yeah, I expected that, too.

"But if I do this every time, you'll get tired, right? So I'll announce the benefits of winning this team match now!"

"What?"

That… I didn't know.

"The benefit of winning is… You will definitely survive the next ranking ceremony!"

"…!"

It was way too good There were only 30 people left, so why would they pay with this kind of reward?

As expected, the MC cut the flow.

"However, there is only one person who can benefit from it! Until the next ranking announcement, 1st place candidate teams, please select one participant who will receive the benefit through an internal discussion within the team!"

"…"

For some reason, the production team's ideas were getting more and more bizarre as the program entered the second half.

This… Isn't this a penalty for the rest of us who can't get it?

Even the one who received it would likely get criticized by the fans of the participants from the same team and end up getting cursed at.

As far as I could remember as a civil student, the production team didn't give up on the aggro until the final episode.

Those guys were amazing.

Anyway, it wasn't really a problem with the <Moon Rabbit> team. Because the person who would receive it was already decided.

'It's pragmatic to give it to Gold 1.'

I didn't think the rest of us would be eliminated anyway. Rather than receiving it for no reason and being controversial, I would prefer to give it neatly and take care of our image.

If there was a problem, I was afraid that Seon Ahyeon, who had been criticized on the Internet until just before, would say he wanted to receive it, but due to his personality, it seemed unlikely.

Keun Sejin was in a state where public opinion of him had been reversed due to the rumors of school bullying, so his ranking was easy to guess.

I roughly scanned the expressions of the team members. Glancing at Gold 1, everyone clearly had a similar idea. Gold 1 seemed embarrassed but didn't look like he would refuse. He probably would refuse a few times out of politeness.

'There's no problem here.'

The problem was that team over there.

I could see the production crew waiting with pounding hearts for what kind of mess would hit the <Husky> team.

"Then <Re-listed! Idol Inc.> Let's wrap up the 3rd team match! Dear shareholders, see you at the ranking announcement ceremony-"

The filming ended with participants bowing their heads toward the camera with claps and applause.

“Thank you for your hard work~”

“See you at the next shoot!”

When the voices of the well-mannered participants rang out here and there, The <Moon Rabbit> team, who came out after changing clothes, gathered together again.

And in an instant, the winning compensation was handed over to Gold 1.

“Since we all worked hard, should we give the reward to the oldest member?”

“Yes.”

“I agree.”

“G-Good!”

“Hey, thank you so much, but let’s discuss it a little more…”

Keun Sejin laughed and organized his words.

“Hyung-nim, don’t you know? The more we discuss, the more late it will be for us to sleep…”

“Ah.”

When the tension completely disappeared after the filming, the sleep we couldn’t get for the past 10 days came back rushing in endlessly.

Thanks to this, everyone was talking with their eyes half open.

“O-Okay, thank you, guys. I’ll buy you a meal.”

“Haha. Thank you, hyung! I won’t shamelessly order an expensive menu like beef.”

"…"

I think he was taking a jab at me, but let's ignore him. Because I'm tired.

Anyway, with such a warm atmosphere, the <Moon Rabbit> team disbanded.

I held back my yawn and searched the navigation to the bus stop with my smartphone.

"M-Moondae."

"Yes."

When I turned my head, Seon Ahyeon was clenching his fist. No way, you're not going to hit me, right?

"What?"

"D-Do you want to go home with me? M-My parents came to pick me up…"

"Oh… yes, thank you."

Considering the popularity of the program, I thought it would be difficult to get on the bus now, so I was going to call a taxi.

'Thanks to you, I save some money on taxi fare.'

It was a little burdensome to see other participants' parents, but it wasn't a big deal if I could get a ride.

"N-No! D-Don't mention it."

Seon Ahyeon took the lead and walked excitedly, then stopped in front of a black sedan on the road.

It was a foreign car.

‘As expected of the person who lives in that house.’

I had guessed it when I saw where Seon Ahyeon lived.

I followed Seon Ahyeon into the car and gave a greeting as politely as I could.

“Hello.”

“So you’re Park Moondae! Nice to meet you.”

“Hurry up and get on~ Did our Ahyeon do well this time too?”

“D-Dad!”

The family atmosphere was more harmonious than expected. When Seon Ahyeon, whose face turned red, became flustered, I could see his parents were pleased.

“Yes, He’s done well. You’ll be surprised when you watch the show.”

“As expected of my son~”

Seon Ahyeon hit his face on the back of the front seat with an embarrassed expression. When he met his family, he seemed more free in expressing himself.

‘As expected, the root of all evil is peer relationships.’

I politely gave the address of my apartment and leaned on the backrest, enjoying the trip comfortably. Sometimes I had to answer questions, but it was a comfortable ride.

The strange feeling of seeing a harmonious friend’s family was long gone. Thanks to this, I was able to enjoy this comfortable seating.

* * *

“Go home safely~”

“Yes. Thank you.”

“I-I’ll call you!”

“Okay.”

I was able to get off to my address after saying goodbye to Seon Ahyeon’s family several times.

‘I heard more tmi than I thought… ’

I wonder if I need to know that Seon Ahyeon went to Europe to study and learned ballet, but let’s think of it as a price for getting a ride.

I walked past the old stairs and corridors and approached the apartment that I had contracted in.

As soon I go in, I will sleep…

“Ah.”

F*uck…

The door was open.

Chapter 45

"…"

I carefully removed my hand from the handle on the front door of the apartment so as to not make any sound.

I definitely double-locked it before I went out to shoot, but when I come back, all the locks are unlocked?

'It has come to this.'

A problem that comes with fame. The invasion of privacy.

It was an issue I was already worried about. I just left it because I didn't have any other financial measures.

'…First of all, there are no important things inside.'

I didn't buy much and I already brought all my clothes to the filming, so there was nothing valuable in the apartment.

'Then let's go out quietly like this… '

The moment I thought of this, my smartphone rang.

Ring!

[Seon Ahyeon]

When I checked the name on the screen, I realized a problem.

The walls of this apartment were just like paper sheets, so it wasn't soundproof.

*‘F*ck.’*

I hastily moved away from the door.

And I ran to the emergency exit right away.

As soon as I turned at the corner in front of the emergency exit and entered the blind spot, I heard the door open.

Screech.

Poking her head out through the door, I saw the back of a woman’s head who was looking around and entering.

She looked like a normal person. I’d never seen her before, but the problem was that she was breaking into someone else’s house.

I broke out in a cold sweat.

‘It’s driving me crazy.’

First of all, I went out to the stairs outside the emergency exit and answered the phone.

It was Seon Ahyeon who made the call, appearing on the screen.

– M-Moondae… Have you eaten yet?

“I haven’t, but I don’t think now is the time for me to eat.”

– W-What?

“There’s someone breaking into the house.”

– H-Huh.

I could hear Seon Ahyeon swallowing his breath behind the phone and his parents’ voices asking what was going on.

Originally, I would have roughly hung up on him, but right now it wasn't a situation where I could pretend to be bothered.

'I'll have to ask you to give me a ride to the police station.'

If I called 112 and a police car arrived, the neighborhood would become noisy and strange rumors could arise.

It was a last-minute thing, so there was no need to give any excuse.

So, I was thinking of going in person, explaining the situation, and quietly handing it over.

'I thought it would take forever to call a taxi, but it turned out better.'

– W-Wait. W-We'll be right there. Come down right away! I-I have to report…

"I'll go and do it myself. I'm sorry, but can you give me a ride to the police station?"

– O-Of course!

I talked to Seon Ahyeon on the phone and went down the stairs right away.

I thought I was going to go through all sorts of things.

* * *

After that, fortunately, things went smoothly.

Seon Ahyeon and his parents, who were more shocked than me, ran to the police station right away, so I was able to proceed with the report immediately.

– Yes? Ah, the woman…

– I don't know her.

– Ah, I see.

The police seemed a little unenthusiastic, but they were dispatched anyway.

And here's what came to light.

'I didn't know it wasn't just one person.'

There were a total of four people in the apartment. They rummaged through the house together and were packing up tableware and clothes.

After several people who had a history of stalking other idols joined forces and followed me, they went past the security and broke into the sloppy apartment.

'I couldn't even imagine it.'

I bitterly rubbed my shoulders.

Even worse, the police had been consistent in their attitude that they really didn't want to arrest them.

'Was it bad luck to pick this neighborhood?'

The four people who were discovered also smiled as they kept trying to talk to me without showing any signs of nervousness.

– Hey!

– Moondae, can't you hear me?

– You can hear me. Answer me~

– Park Moondae!

'They probably will get released with just a warning or a fine.'

If I don't move out of the apartment, I will be in big trouble.

"M-Moondae. Are you okay?"

"Huh? Ah, I am fine."

Seon Ahyeon restlessly lifted his chopsticks and put them down. I was embarrassed because we were supposed to be having a meal.

Here's what I heard after the whole affair.

– W-We decided to eat out nearby, so I-I thought it would be nice to eat together…

– Ah, so that's why you called.

– Yes!

Thanks to this, right now I was dining out together with Seon Ahyeon in a restaurant.

'The galbi in this place is good.'

(TL note: Galbi = a type of grilled dish in Korean cuisine and usually made with short beef ribs.)

I silently took the meat to my mouth. Since I couldn't sleep, I should eat well.

"Oh, my God, there are so many weird people these days. How could they do that…"

"Wouldn't it be better to contact your parents first?"

Seon Ahyeon's parents repeated this conversation pattern several times as if they were still shocked.

Hmm. I pondered for a moment, but eventually, I just told the truth.

Today, I received a lot of help in various and they even gave me food, so at least I should show sincerity in answering their question.

“There were some accidents before… My parents are not here.”

Gasp. Looking at Seon Ahyeon’s father who swallowed his breath, his mother quietly asked.

“Do you have any other adults to contact with?”

“No one in particular… comes to mind.”

I didn’t know anyone like that because I just came into Park Moondae’s body, but there was no sign that ‘Park Moondae’ had a guardian.

‘We’re really similar in that aspect.’

Now that I see it, it’s kind of interesting. I wondered if the similarity in the background was among the reasons why I entered Park Moondae’s body.

But the atmosphere on the table is sinking like a swamp, so let’s fix it first.

“It wasn’t always like this. It happened because of a number of circumstances… I don’t have any particular problem with my living arrangement.”

“Is that so?”

“Yes.”

Seon Ahyeon’s mother smiled instead of making a fuss.

“Yeah. If you live alone, you must have been busy with so many things to do, but thank you for taking good care of our Ahyeon.”

“No, I got a lot of help.”

"…"

At this point, I thought Seon Ahyeon would jump up and deny it, but he didn't say anything. When I turned around, Seon Ahyeon was turning the meat upside down with his mouth closed.

'Come to think of it, did he know that I don't have parents?'

Now that I thought about it, I only talked to the production team, and it hadn't been aired on TV since then.

He must be quite surprised, but it seemed Seon Ahyeon was trying not to express himself as much as possible.

'I guess you prefer that kind of reaction.'

Now that I looked at it, maybe that was the reason why Ahyeon followed 'Park Moondae' in the early stages of filming.

'Is it because I reacted appropriately to Seon Ahyeon's symptoms in the first ranking evaluation?'

The guess was roughly correct.

'Well, this reasoning is not important.'

I shrugged and picked up more meat. Since I didn't have any other choice, I would spend the day in that apartment and try to find some other place tomorrow.

However, right after the meal, a helping hand was unexpectedly extended to me.

"B-Back there?"

"They've been caught, so at least they won't come today."

"S-Still……"

Seon Ahyeon and his family, who were startled to hear that I was going to return to the apartment, told me I could live in Seon Ahyeon's house until the next filming.

"…?"

I don't know what it's all about, but I won't look a gift horse in the mouth, so let's just shut up and follow.

* * *

Around the time Park Moondae was enjoying the unexpected upgrade of his residence,people who finished watching were frantically releasing spoilers on the internet.

Because the program was so popular, at this point, the ban on disclosure no longer worked.

Individually, it was Cha Eugene who was mentioned a lot, but as a team, the <Moon Rabbit> team was overwhelming.

– Why did you put that in the opening? I felt sorry for the next team

– There's a reason why they're ranked high! They are all so effing handsome

– I bet the internet will flip when they come out on stage ㅋㅋ

– Why is Ahyeon being criticized? He's so damn good

There were a lot of people who tried to suppress the atmosphere somehow, saying that the participants of the <Moon Rabbit> team were manipulating public opinion, but as the audience's confirmation came up one after another, they secretly disappeared leaving behind abusive remarks.

And here, Park Moondae's well-known fan account operator was listless all day because neither she nor her acquaintance won the audience application.

She was the same person who secretly hid a camera during the first team match and settled her heart in Park Moondae.

'Is my network lacking?'

Since he was a survival show participant who had not yet formed a fandom, she refrained from socializing as much as possible with her well-known account, and what came back was a defeat in the information war.

She clicked on the current popular post with trembling hands.

[Went to the audience. (Photo attached) (361)]

: It was my first time doing something like this, so I was excited, but just seeing Moondae's face was worth it ㅠㅠ

Moondae came out in the first team, and he wore a rabbit mask and a hanbok. He looked like a character from a fusion fantasy historical drama. It was so cool that I couldn't stand it… I secretly took photos ㅠㅠ

And the stage broadcast is really bullshit, they're doing far better on stage, my heart is still pounding ㅠㅠ

I don't know what people see when they say that the kids are not good at singing and dancing.

I will write more detailed impressions below!

……

She read the text one by one, and, unable to resist the fact that they had taken a picture, she scrolled down.

Below it was a picture of Park Moondae's upper body wearing a rabbit mask and a durumagi.

"Argh!"

The blonde Park Moondae, wearing a navy blue durumagi against a starry black background, was so handsome it made her heart ache.

'Data… I should buy it.'

She muttered, unable to overcome her sorrow. However, even data sellers usually sell these only after the show was aired because they were afraid of legal problems.

The more she imagined that she could see the trailer of episode 9 at the earliest and episode 10 at the latest, the more her head started spinning.

"…The s, let's see the s…"

She tried to pull herself together by putting on a new draft that would be posted before the last broadcast.

'No, but if we use that picture in this ! It would be nice!'

Then she wailed again and logged on to SNS.

Her routine of searching for audience reviews continued until the trailer of episode 9 was released.

* * *

Living in Seon Ahyeon's house provided a qualitatively different life than living in a one-room apartment.

Of course, there was a problem with the apartment owner and I had to pay compensation for the damaged front door lock.

But that was all. It happened all the time even before I entered Park Moondae's body, so I didn't really feel bitter about it.

The important thing was now I could sleep in a moldless room. Also, the soundproofing was good, so I was able to sleep without earplugs.

However, the pleasure of a noise-free environment was not an advantage I could enjoy today.

“I can’t believe you guys were having fun all by yourself!”

Because Keun Sejin came to play.

Keun Sejin, who talked about watching episode 9 together in the same age group chat, rushed forward when he heard that I was being taken care of in Seon Ahyeon’s house and broke in this morning.

“W-Welcome!”

Seon Ahyeon just looked happy. Since the landlord was kind, I couldn’t say anything.

Keun Sejin entered the living room with a grin and took out the board game he had brought.

…It seemed he really came here to play earnestly.

Ring.

“Park Moondae, aren’t you going to pick up the call?”

“Oh, that’s right.”

I checked the ringing smartphone on the table.

[Kim Raebin: Hello, hyung. Episode 9 is airing today. If you have time, can we watch it together?]

Hmm, we were on the same team anyway, so it should be fine if he joined here.

He could watch quietly, so even if Keun Sejin was here, it would be okay.

“Raebin wants to watch episode 9 together, should I call him?”

“Oh? I agree~”

“G-Great!”

A unanimous agreement came out right away.

Without much thought, I sent a text message to Kim Raebin explaining the situation.

Then after some time, I got a reply.

[Kim Raebin: I… am also with Cha Eugene, is it okay to watch together?]

“…”

Hey, that’s a bit…

Chapter 46

In fact, getting stuck with Cha Eugene wouldn't destroy the atmosphere.

However, if Cha Eugene's team fell into hellfire in episode 9, it would be very solemn.

Do we have to put ourselves in such an uncomfortable situation?

I picked up my smartphone and thought about it for a while. To choose an appropriate refusal.

At that moment, Keun Sejin stepped in.

"What is it?"

"Ah, Raebin asked if Cha Eugene could join."

"Hmm… I think it'll be okay, though?"

Keun Sejin smiled.

"There's no way the production team will untangle that team in episode 9, right? It'll appear in the trailer for episode 10!"

"…"

Wow, I didn't think that far.

Besides, I didn't expect him to be so blunt. Since the school bullying controversy, he seemed more outspoken as if a strange trust had arisen.

"It's better to build a friendship with this opportunity~ Oh, right, The landlord's opinion is important! What do you think, Ahyeon?"

"I-I'm fine with it!"

"That's right!"

Seon Ahyeon calmly shouted yes and concentrated on reading the rules of the board game.

This guy's personality seemed to have changed a little.

I didn't expect him to invite an uninformed participant to his house.

"Well… If you say so."

I'll just tell them to come.

I reluctantly sent a reply to Kim Raebin.

* * *

It was after lunch that Kim Raebin and Cha Eugene arrived.

"Oh~ Come in!"

Keun Sejin greeted cheerfully.

By the way, Gold 1, who hurriedly joined after Keun Sejin 's remarks, 'Now that this is happening, I should call hyung', was also sitting in the living room

.

It was true that the picture became weird if Gold 1 was the only one who wasn't invited among the team members, but Cha Eugene's presence here was also strange.

"Hello. Nice to meet you."

Cha Eugene unexpectedly bowed his head and held out the standard plastic bag he was holding. By the way, everything in the bag was snacks.

“I’ve ordered chicken for now, but if there’s anything else you want to eat, let’s order again.”

“Yes.”

Kim Raebin nodded and sat quietly in the corner. It meant he wouldn’t order more.

But Cha Eugene asked with a twinkle in his eye.

“Can we order pizza?”

“Sure!”

“Wow!”

Cha Eugene turned on the delivery app, leaving only exclamations. I thought he would still be in low spirits, but he was still bright all by himself.

Kim Raebin calmly exchanged greetings.

“Did you join in the morning, hyungs?”

“Ah, I did~ Moondae came here way long before me.”

“Yes?”

There was nothing to hide, but it was a bit annoying.

In any case, I couldn’t ignore it, so I explained the great madness that occurred in my apartment.

In the middle, Seon Ahyeon stepped in and supplemented the story.

It was like this.

"…So when I went inside the front door, there were other people."

"Eeek!"

"N-Not just one, there were three more people!"

"…Well, yes. So it took some time for the police to take them away."

"T-The police were so half-hearted, as if it was nothing… They were too much."

"That too… happened. Yes."

As I repeated this process, the incident became more and more exaggerated and turned into a conspiracy theory.

Thanks to this, the participants who heard the explanation were speechless.

"Wow, it's good that Ahyeon came. It's scary."

"I agree. Hey… I've also had someone visit my house, and I'm worried about that. I have a younger brother at home…"

"Heol, someone came to your house?"

"Yeah. Later, I heard that my brother couldn't go out because they kept ringing the doorbell and sat in front of the house."

"Ugh…"

Those who lived alone or lived in the agency's dorm reported similar experiences.

It was a suitably eerie topic to talk about before watching the shock and horror of <Idol Inc.>

By the time we ate chicken, the story of an acquaintance's idol friend passed by.

"…so when they went in, the lens detector rang 'beep-beep' in the shower…"

"It's crazy."

When chewing on the pizza that had arrived, the rerun of episode 8 of <Idol Inc.> finally began to appear on TV before episode 9.

I watched episode 8 and commented moderately. By the end, even Cha Eugene was caught in the atmosphere.

"Didn't you feel disappointed for getting 3rd place?"

"It was disappointing, but it was good."

"Hey, that's cool."

"Hehe."

Cha Eugene grinned at Gold 1's admiration. It was amazing how messed-up the <Husky> team was that they could make a guy like this lose his spirits.

It wasn't until the pizza box was emptied that episode 9 began.

[Re-listed! Idol Inc.!]

The logo that I was starting to get tired of appeared, and the first portion that came out was the talent show.

Here, the participants managed to get the portion evenly.

I didn't know if it was because the content was meant to promote healing or if it was simply an attempt to make up for the hasty poor progress with something heartwarming.

In any case, it mostly showed humorous scenes that saved the characters in moderation. Keun Sejin was a prime example.

The problem was, my portion… It appeared as a joke and ended as a joke.

[At this moment… He dominates the stage!]

[Park Moondae, is he serious about trot?]

They put in captions like this while I was singing.

Since they blatantly made it cringe, it was meant for laughs.

And everyone laughed so hard.

“Kekeke!”

“Pft…”

“You’ve got a lot of good footage that shows your personality. Congratulations, Moondae!”

The last one came from Keun Sejin. I wordlessly hit Keun Sejin on the back while he was drinking soda.

“Cough.”

Would you still want to laugh more?

Park Moondae’s portion didn’t end there.

After the scene where participants jumped out at the kimchi refrigerator and turned into a frenzy, they even inserted an interview as if to seal the deal.

[Q: Do you like trot songs?]

[Park Moondae: Yes.]

After the immediate answer, a cut of me raising my thumb was inserted.

‘That’s an interview where they asked if I liked the team.’

What kind of hoax do these crazy people make every single episode?

The caption was nailing it.

[Trot lover participant Park Moondae, be happy with the kimchi refrigerator!]

I haven’t even received the kimchi refrigerator yet, you bastards.

What made me even more annoyed was that my portion in episode 9 ended with that.

‘You only gave me dirty, useless things.’

If it was the beginning, I would have felt grateful for the positive amount of footage. But not now.

Because it wasn’t a very beneficial edit at the time when the last team match was approaching.

There were few words that were as fatal as the comment ‘He doesn’t look desperate’ in the final survival voting.

And so far, Park Moondae on the broadcast… Honestly, he didn’t seem that desperate.

it was understandable that there were more funny scenes than despairing ones.

So, I worked harder in this team match, but if this trend continued, it was unlikely that my ‘desperation’ would be highlighted.

‘I can’t help it.’

Because I didn’t come out with the decision to make my final debut here in the first place. I’d never shown enough to aim for a cut like that, and the timing to choose had surely passed.

I didn’t have a backstory, so the fans couldn’t create and share a desperate image on their own.

‘That’s kind of funny.’

Actually, I’m the most desperate person out here. I’m probably the only one who dies if I don’t make a debut.

‘I need to prepare my heart a little.’

Even if the ranking suddenly plummets in the last episode, let’s debut. Whoever picked me up, I would definitely be able to debut quickly.

I smacked my lips. For some reason… I was a little disappointed.

‘If I am really going to do it, it’d be better to do it with people I am comfortable with.’

Perhaps the majority of the people here would debut. I felt a strange sense of defeat when I thought I might not be able to join them.

Compared to when I first started filming, it seemed I had changed quite a bit, too.

But there was no room for sentiment.

Surprisingly, the production team put the whole collapse of the <Husky> team at the end of episode 9.

[Choi Wongil: So, hyung, you can do this much.]

[Lee Sejin: Isn’t what I can do and what I want to do have a completely different meaning?]

[Choi Wongil: Hyung, now is the time to prove your skills. If you think carefully…]

[Ki Jungkyun: Why don't you try it a bit instead of talking like that? Don't regret it later.]

[Lee Sejin:… Stop it.]

The broadcast aired the scene where Lee Sejin's face hardened for several seconds after this conversation.

Then, in a state of complete disarray, they looked at each other as though fists were about to come flying and briefly answered again.

It was obvious that they were conscious of the camera and held back.

This disaster happened when Ryu Chungwoo went to submit a song selection to the production team, so there was no one to intervene.

[Cha Eugene:…]

By the way, Cha Eugene intervened once and was ignored as if he had never said anything.

I guess it was because his remarks didn't fit the mood.

"…"

Cha Eugene looked at the screen with a depressed face, and soon shoved a cup to his face and started drinking soda.

It seemed to me that thanks to him, they passed it well without getting cursed at, but from his perspective, it must have been different.

[Ryu Chungwoo:… What's going on?]

Episode 9 ended with Ryu Chungwoo, who had returned, dismayed by the completely ruined team atmosphere.

[A desperate atmosphere. Will they complete the stage safely?]

“Ah, it’s done, right?”

“Yes, you did well.”

Keun Sejin clapped appropriately and warmed up the atmosphere. I didn’t know why he induced me to respond, but I responded moderately.

Cha Eugene barely took his face off the soda and laughed.

It seems he’s addicted to sugar high?

‘…Is it my fault?’

I quickly erased the ominous idea.

On the screen, a closing disguised as a commercial break was now appearing.

Looking at the time, the broadcast would probably end with a short trailer or behind-the-scenes cut after the commercial.

“They only showed the preparation process today.”

“Right. We didn’t come out much.”

The <Moon Rabbit> team only had a few portions after briefly appearing during the initial formation.

The production team could arbitrarily adjust the order, but since we performed first, I expected our stage to be shown at the end of episode 9, but I didn’t expect them to not show any performances at all.

‘Isn’t this going to lower the ratings?’

As I wondered for a moment, <Idol Inc.> began to appear on the screen again after the commercial break.

The MC appeared on the screen.

“…I don’t feel good.”

“You too? Hey, me too.”

It was never good when the MC appeared alone on the show, so the participants reflexively tensed up and swallowed their saliva.

[<Re-listed! Idol Inc.> Did you enjoy watching it today?]

“No.”

“Nope.”

Weak denial rang out here and there.

It was a small deviation that we couldn’t do during the filming.

[What I’m going to present now is… That’s right, the status of the stocks so far!]

“What?”

“Well, I don’t think it’s going to be this easy… They probably won’t reveal certain rankings…”

[However, only ‘reduced stocks’ will be announced! Which stocks did you sell the most, shareholders?]

“Oh, my God.”

Kim Raebin sighed. It was understandable.

‘What kind of crazy person came up with the idea of only revealing the negative votes?’

Since I already knew about their big aggro, I thought nothing would surprise me.

‘But I didn’t know there would be a surprise like this.’

It was clear that the confidence of not putting the stage in this episode was directed here.

[Now, let’s reveal the sales ranking!]

Along with the MC’s words, the rankings with negative marks on the screen were neatly lined up.

And the living room was engulfed in silence.

Author's Thoughts

I feel the need to give a warning: I am sorry for any grammar mistakes and mistranslations that had occurred before and might occur in the future (:3)∠)

Chapter 47

First of all, the first place in the negative vote… it was obvious

[1st place, Choi Wongil]

‘He’s finished.’

Looking at the editing of episode 9, unless something unusual happened, the next ranking announcement would be the last time I saw him.

The problem was with the 2nd place.

[2nd place, Seon Ahyeon]

This ranking was predictable too. Because the last voting period coincided with the time when the criticism toward Seon Ahyeon was at its peak.

It was a good thing. Unlike Choi Wongil, Seon Ahyeon was suddenly attacked excessively, so sympathy from public opinion was slowly rising.

There was a high possibility that the atmosphere would be completely reversed with people saying, ‘Seon Ahyeon isn’t so bad that he deserves 2nd place in the negative voting.’

In addition, he was stable because he did well in this team match.

‘I am sure you’ll be fine in the end.’

However, if I tried to give this analysis to the person who got 2nd place right away, it wouldn’t work. Thanks to this, only the sound of the TV was ringing in the living room for a long time.

"…"

*'F*ck, if these guys want to watch the show as a group again, I'm going to cut ties.'*

The atmosphere was excruciating

In addition, if you lowered your gaze a little from 2nd place, 4th place was Lee Sejin B. So, it was Keun Sejin.

It seemed this happened because people had robbed the rest of the votes out of a sense of betrayal on the night of the controversy.

'Since it was settled quickly, a lot of people will be worried and give their votes.'

Sure enough, Keun Sejin was the first to laugh and open his mouth.

"Ah~ When our team match airs, it's going to be flipped over, isn't it?"

"That's right."

"I don't think overturning them will be easy."

"…?"

Kim Raebin, who suddenly opened his mouth, muttered that bullshit seriously.

'Are you crazy?'

Keun Sejin looked at him with eyes that seemed to say that, but Kim Raebin continued to speak firmly.

"We've completed this team match well, so I don't think there will be a significant decline in the number of votes."

"…??"

"…Hey, you… Um, Raebin. You know it's the negative vote, right?"

"Yes… Ah!"

Kim Raebin replied to Gold 1 with clear eyes, then soon spat out an exclamation and added an explanation as if he just realized something.

"Negative votes also tend to increase in proportion to the general vote."

It was statistically correct except for special cases such as Choi Wongil. It was a matter of the size of the votes of the participants.

"…Huh?"

"That's true."

In an instant, the atmosphere became relaxed. Participants who recalled the last ranking announcement ceremony realized that Kim Raebin's remarks were reasonable.

'That's good thinking.'

Although his communication skills were a little weak, he was definitely a useful guy.

Before I knew it, Seon Ahyeon already lowered his nervousness and reacted moderately to Gold 1's remark.

"Huh, then I'm out, right? I'm in 21st place!"

"Hyung-nim! It's because you don't have anti-fans!"

"T-That's right."

Instead of watching the TV screen that had already returned to commercials, I checked the ranking again on the Internet.

[8th place Park Moondae ▼ 3]

I was ranked with Cha Eugene in front of me and Ryu Chungwoo in the back.

And compared to the negative votes at the last ranking announcement, the ranking seemed to have gone down by three notches.

'Should I be happy with this?'

It was difficult to analyze.

In fact, compared to Cha Eugene and Ryu Chungwoo who had never been controversial, there was some gossip about the broadcast's 'Park Moondae'.

So it was ambiguous. Whether this was evidence that the negative public opinion of 'Park Moondae' had finally subsided, or whether the overall number of votes for 'Park Moondae' had decreased overall.

'I hope it's not a downward trend.'

I chose the stage well every time. The number of views and references to fancams continued to increase. The problem was that most of the guys sitting around me also had good indexes.

'…If they picked 13 people, my position would definitely be stable.'

I already knew how many people were selected, so I couldn't run ahead with that positive outlook.

I clicked my tongue and looked at the reaction to this episode. There were no major confrontations because Park Moondae didn't show up much.

It was roughly like this.

– Moondae… you're good at trot? What the hell can't you do?

– (Screaming that he's so cute)

– A puppy whose eyes doubled in size after getting a kimchi refrigerator [Short video]

– Everyone, let's be grateful that Moon Puppy didn't participate in a trot survival show. Just a tiny mistake might have taken him away

A burst of laughter came out. It was a ridiculous idea… It was cute.

'I'll die if I don't become an idol, trot my ass.'

However, as soon as I read the next popular article with a smile, I got goosebumps.

– Isn't this the second time in Park Moondae's life? That's a reasonable doubt

"…"

You got it right.

Anyway, other than that, they were just comments about how they liked the Rabbit class.

And looking a little further under the water,there were also quite a few comments about how they were glad that I didn't join the Puppy class, which was the team Cha Eugene belonged to.

– I wished he had followed his nickname because he was a puppy, but I regret it and already delete my post from 20 minutes ago

– Honestly, I thought they were tinkering with his big data algorithm, but I'm just glad my kid is okay…

– ㅋㅋㅋI saw the big data uploaded on the website and it was so meticulously cut. Is there a participant that the production team wants to kill in that class?

Overall, the atmosphere of those who liked ‘Park Moondae’ was like this.

Relief and anticipation for the stage.

It was a bit relaxed as if they already assumed I was going to debut.

It was good that people looked happy, but I was actually less confident than in the first team match. Maybe it was because the final was just around the corner.

‘I don’t think I’ll have a portion in this team match.’

The stage was chosen well. However, no matter how much I thought about it, the majority of the participants in the <Moon Rabbit> team had better storylines than me.

‘I’ve managed this far, I should be satisfied with that.’

From the middle of the broadcast, I was getting cursed at for receiving too much footage.

If only one person in the team comes out like a main character? The number of fans would increase, but that person would easily get antagonized.

The amount of broadcast was limited, so when that person came out, the person they liked wouldn’t come out.

And ‘Park Moondae’ had never failed to get a lot of footage, but he had never devoured it all by himself.

I would just have to be content that they didn’t leave room for nitpicking. I turned off the Internet window with a slight feeling of regret.

And a week later.

It turned out that my regret was as useless as counting chickens before they hatched.

"…??"

Why do I get a lot of footage?

* * *

Park Moondae's largest anonymous fan community was full of expectations even before episode 10 aired.

This was because there was a cut of Park Moondae's upper body in the scene of the <Moon Rabbit> team stage, which passed briefly in the trailer.

Everyone was extremely excited about the high-quality hot content that would come out in 10 days.

– Moon Puppy's face is spinning in the trailer

– Look at this, each of his faces comes out, I'm going to stream the fancam as soon as the broadcast ends. Let's go for 10 million

– Hanbok? Rabbit mask? He must be crazy, how can he pick a good concept in every team match? This one sounds like Moon Puppy's idea too.

Looking at how he picked the stage, just like a pine tree, he only took concepts that would mess up the fans' hearts

It's clear that he was born under the stars of idols

That's right

They were excited and only talked about Park Moondae even after episode 10 started.

For 40 minutes, only teams of other unrelated participants came out, with big news occasionally showing up from time to time.

Then, the portion of the <Moon Rabbit> team began to appear.

– The production crew really put it at the end

– I saw the audience spoiler and they said it was in the opening!! Opening! Why! Here!

– They've taken these kids hostages more than once or twice, I'm getting mad ㅋㅋ

– Moon Puppy is finally coming out ㅜㅜ

People's topic was finally focused on the real-time broadcast.

Moon Rabbit team's song selection process was broadcasted with the atmosphere of a hopeful group project without much modification.

– Moon Puppy: Haha, your opinion is good and his opinion is good. Let's use it all

– Moon Puppy is as smart as ever? ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Did you see Moon Puppy's face when Keun Sejin sang the sexy song? ㅋㅋㅋ Now I know why he talked about Tibetan foxes, so cute ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– There is no need for medicine because everyone is talking calmly and not spouting bullshit

In fact, the broadcast portion of the <Moon Rabbit> team was bound to be heartwarming. This was because there was no particular conflict material to be extracted.

It was thanks to the fact that only participants who had no hard feelings for each other and knew how to save themselves for various reasons gathered.

It would have been a little different if there was a filming in the dormitory on the night of Keun Sejin's school bullying controversy, but there was no data of that day because all the cameras in the dorm were removed due to a device issue.

So the production crew had no choice but to suck it up and send out this image of the <Moon Rabbit> team.

Because it was a storyline that could be a joy to watch in contrast to the <Husky> team's despairing group task.

Thanks to this, fans of the <Moon Rabbit> team participants were able to enjoy watching.

In the production process, the <Moon Rabbit> team was the only team that took care of all the elements step by step.

But it wasn't the only advantage.

As the scene warmed up, the venom went away. And the void was filled with ambiguous sympathy again.

– I've never seen Moon Puppy being this messy

– The kids are familiar with each other, so they look comfortable

– It's so heartwarming

For example, the figure of the <Moon Rabbit> team which was stretched out on a tight schedule came out as if they were close and friendly.

The figures of them not sleeping properly and living like a zombie to meet the deadline were not shown on the broadcast. Because it didn't fit in.

Fortunately, the stage was broadcasted with high perfection.

– They ripped it

– Sexy traditional rabbit and Moon Puppy, how the hell is this combination match so well…

– I heard it through earphones, Moon Puppy put doubling in almost every chorus from the beginning to the end

Wow, crazy

Is that possible?

Even the humming at the end is one octave higher? ㅋㅋㅋ Now if you criticize his skills, you're just confirming that you're a moron

Thanks to the footage of the production process, the fact that viewers could intuitively grasp the various elements of the stage created an unexpected synergy effect.

– Hey, I got goosebumps when Moon Puppy turned around and came out of the earth

– The flow of Hanbok -> Western clothes -> Hanbok was good, I could imagine the Moon Rabbit fell in love with a modern person in the middle.

– It was good to see the katsura tree come out as a stump and the stage end there. It felt a bit lonely and it felt like a long time had passed, so I can only imagine the story

2D fans will like this performance

I am not cursing at this kind of cheesy comment? It means that the stage is really getting to me

– Moon Puppy, thank you for choosing a legend for every stage, thanks to that, I feel comfortable stanning you

It was a stage that received tremendous response, the fans who were watching naturally poured out comments without trying to force public opinion.

However, the fact that no one received a narrative and the stage ended with the performance of model students left a slight feeling of regret

The image of all the team members, except Park Moondae, crying as soon as they got off the stage was also deleted.

Park Moondae was right in thinking that he wouldn't receive a portion.

Contrary to his prediction that other team members would take the narrative, no one was in the spotlight.

Thanks to this, when the last <Husky> team was aired shortly after, the flood of comments from Park Moondae's fans also quickly became quiet.

– Ah, it was good

– Let's debut like this

– I want to see his face more ㅠㅠ Is his portion over already

– I want them to show more of the kids playing, if the production crew edited it like a documentary, it would be very fun ㅠㅠ

It was at this time that Park Moondae suddenly reappeared on the screen.

Chapter 48

The <Husky> team, led by Ryu Chungwoo, practiced in a brutal atmosphere. It was because of the never-ending conflict between the team members.

[Choi Wongil: I didn't know (Lee Sejin hyung) would react so sensitively.]

[Ki Jungkyun: Do you have a victim mentality?]

[Ryu Chungwoo:… Sigh.]

The Interviews and BGM inserted in between created an uncomfortable atmosphere.

The practice didn't stop because none of the participants were unambitious. But it didn't go well.

And instead of the parties involved in the conflict, the production team drove all the growth stories to Cha Eugene, who was alienated from the conflict.

Park Moondae appeared here. To put it bluntly, he had the role of an advisor who helped the main character's growth.

[Park Moondae: Are you having a hard time?]

And several scenes of Park Moondae conversing with Cha Eugene at various places and giving him snacks quickly passed by.

The scenes looked good thanks to Cha Eugene's interview 'Moondae hyung helped me', although he only supplied snacks to end the situation quickly like a mother who gave rice cakes to the tiger.

(TL note: I think it's referring to Korean folklore 'The Sun and the Moon' where a mother fed rice cakes to a tiger in an effort to not get eaten.)

-??

– What's this ㅋㅋ

– You two are close?

Park Moondae's fans were also bewildered because it was an image that they hadn't seen much.

In the previous second team match, he was on the same team as Cha Eugene and made a successful performance together, but there was no personal relationship between them.

Besides, why did he leave behind Ryu Chungwoo, the proven leader, and fled to Park Moondae?

But the doubts quickly faded. Because cute extra content was always welcome.

– He's so good at taking care of food

– As expected, Moon Puppy is a man who is serious about eating

– Moon Puppy: Unexpected healer

– Why do I see my grandmother in a 21-year-old (soon-to-be) idol?

On the screen, Cha Eugene successfully finished the stage by appealing to the viewers with his passion to focus on the stage instead of his existing innocent image.

He might get criticized for eating all the portions alone, but he made a more solid impression. It was a narrative that stuck to inner growth and desperation.

Park Moondae himself cooled down as he watched Cha Eugene taking the amount of portion he wanted to receive, but his fans simply enjoyed seeing Park Moondae's cute and reliable personality come out on the show.

Even the reaction from the general audience was good.

– Park Moondae is more mature than I thought

– There's a reason why he gets along well with his team members.

Yeah, my first impression of him was~ He looked rude, so this is unexpected

Cha Eugene took away all of the agro because the cut appeared as a side note of Cha Eugene, who blatantly took all the portion.

For Park Moondae, only a good image remained.

Thanks to this, the day after the 10th episode aired, Park Moondae, who was browsing the Internet, felt complicated and odd. Because it sounded as if it was enough.

'It's good to continuously recover the initial image. But… I didn't catch the desperation either.'

He needed the image that Cha Eugene showed. However, the only stage left was the final.

And there was no reason for the production team to give a narrative to Park Moondae in the final.

Until now, the broadcast only gave him personalities that would make the show fun.

'Should I give up?'

Park Moondae clicked his tongue and organized the upcoming filming schedule in his head.

Then, all of a sudden, he discovered an event that was going to happen right after the filming.

'Wait, even with that… Is it possible?'

Of course, the broadcast was entirely up to the editing of the production team. However, trying to make a cut that could be used as content might be worth it.

Park Moondae made up his mind.

'There's no harm in trying.'

By the way, Seon Ahyeon was trying to ask him to eat jjimdak together, but he didn't notice that he secretly lowered his smartphone when he saw him lost in thought.

(TL note: jjimdak = Korean braised chicken.)

* * *

"Wow, it's a little hot now."

As he entered the set, Keun Sejin muttered.

It was already the end of April. The first shooting began in the winter, but time passed by so quickly.

'I've totally adjusted.'

Thinking bitterly, I moved Park Moondae's body, which was no longer unfamiliar, and changed into a uniform.

Then, Keun Sejin, who glanced over here, talked to me.

"Oh, it seems you've grown tall?"

"What?"

“You must have been working out hard. You’ve also bulked up a bit.”

Those words gave me a fresh realization.

Over the past few months, I had grown quite a bit in height and gained muscle moderately, so there was almost no difference in size between this body and my original body.

“I’ve heard people say that you can grow taller even if you’re over 21, but it’s the first time I’ve actually seen it.”

“It’s the first time for me too.”

“Aigoo~ Sure.”

I shrugged my shoulder.

‘It’s about 177.’

I sat in the waiting area of the filming set, recalling the height I measured a few days ago. It was rather awkward that there were no unfamiliar faces around anymore.

“Hello, Moondae~”

“Hyung, hello!”

‘Even if I go back to my original body, I need a period of adjustment.’

It was frustrating. I took out my smartphone, roughly returning the greeting.

I had to return it soon, so I was going to turn it off in advance.

However, a new alarm popped up on the smartphone. It came from an anonymous SNS account for public opinion searches.

I clicked on it reflexively and saw an article that had just been shared by 10,000 people.

[Original singer of the trot song sung by Moondae made a post on SNS ㅋㅋ (link)]

It's not uncommon.

As the program became overheated, celebrities who weren't involved were also mentioning the participants

When I moved to the link, a photo of the trot singer's face smiling broadly and raising a finger heart appeared on SNS.

In the background, there was a TV screen showing 'Park Moondae' singing a trot song.

[Participant Park Moondae of <Idol Inc.> who beautifully sang my song! I'm rooting for youˆˆ I hope you debut! #IdolInc #Let'sDuet #TrotCoolGuy]

"…"

Well… it was good that the original singer was satisfied. The fans seemed to be having fun, too.

With that in mind, it was time to turn the page. Another post by the trot singer flashed across the screen. This time, I posted a bigger picture.

'Wait.'

It was a picture that I had taken.

When I checked again, it was indeed the photo that I took from an event a few years ago.

It wasn't sold, so I released it on a fan site out of my conscience. The natural light was good that day and the quality of the photo was good, so I wanted to post it on SNS.

But I felt a bit uncomfortable. As I turned off my smartphone, I realized why.

‘Am I not here right now?’

Certainly, as soon as I entered Park Moondae’s body, I tracked my original body’s whereabouts. But information about my original body didn’t exist.

And yet the picture I took is still there?

‘That’s weird.’

I went straight to WeTube and clicked the search bar. And I searched for the most famous fancam I’d ever taken.

[Youngrin’s legendary fancam]

It was a fancam of judge Youngrin who passionately completed the stage in heavy rain at the time when she was still unknown. This stage laid the foundation for Youngrin’s fame.

Then a familiar thumbnail appeared at the top of WeTube.

‘There it is.’

The video was there.

Of course, it wasn’t my original account.

The account I used to post unsold data was deleted when I started taking the civil exam. So… It was around last year at this time.

The uploader’s comment was pinned at the top of the video comment window.

– The original has been deleted and uploaded. If they sign up, I will erase it.

“…”

It was almost certain.

‘I don’t exist, but the data I took is still there.’

It was kind of creepy. The fact that I would die if I didn’t become an idol within a short period of time made it even creepier.

‘Is it my karma for selling data?’

I half-jokingly thought so, but it didn’t seem like a joke now.

‘What the hell are you?’

I turned on the status window and asked, but there was no answer. I felt stupid.

What the hell is the purpose of this bastard?

“Hey, what are you doing?”

“Wait, I am thinking.”

First of all, I quickly got out of my mind. Although I unexpectedly found a contradiction, right now, the filming was right in front of me.

‘So once I’m done, I’ll find out more.’

I immediately finished thinking and returned my smartphone.

If I uselessly got distracted by something else, I would only become prey to poor attitude scandal. I had to clear my head.

Fortunately, no effort was required.As soon as filming started, the MC took the situation out of the way.

“＜Re-listed! Idol Inc.＞ Welcome to the long-awaited 3rd ranking announcement ceremony～“

After participants applauded, now became an expert at it after several months of filming, we went straight to the point.

“But before we get to your ranking, one thing! There is one thing we need to find out first. It’s your sincerity.”

‘That’ content came right away. I guessed the MC’s next words.

‘They will see how serious we are about this audition. With <Casting Call>.’

Yes. At this point in time, <Idol Inc.> series traditionally added another stimulating content.

It was called ‘Casting Call’.

In short, it was a content where Tnet and a moderately reputable agency came to cast the participants.

However, if you chose an agency, you had to get off the program.

Therefore, participants who had done noticeably well in the program so far would rarely deviate.

Participants were not stupid, they could debut as a group with guaranteed recognition right here so there was no reason to go to an ambiguous agency.

In the end, it was just an event that added tension to the program, because there was no escape for people who deserved to debut here.

‘But I can take advantage of that tension.’

So, I would encourage conversation as much as possible and appeal to the program just how serious ‘Park Moondae’ was.

…Of course, there was a higher chance of getting cut off in the editing.

"…Gulp."

I heard a gulping sound from next to me. Most of them seemed to have guessed <Casting Call> from the timing and MC's words.

And if they were in the middle or lower ranks at the last ranking announcement ceremony, it was a moment that could be conflicting enough.

Since the probability of debuting here was low, they would want to grab another rope.

It was an image of measuring how to escape, they would be able to cover it to a certain extent by saying 'I want to start a new challenge because the agency recommended to me has been my Wannabe for a long time. I'll show you better growth in the future.'

'In fact, there have been a consistent steady number of breakaways from the lower ranks.'

Last season, there were about five people who were openly carried away. Considering that the broadcast ended early shortly after, it was a very wise loss. Only their debut ranking went down the drain.

MC paused until the participants were out of breath, then opened his mouth.

"Right away~"

The large screen at the front lit up.

'Is there a list of agencies?'

By the time there were murmurs about the 'Casting Call', the MC spread his arms wide and continued.

"Personality test!"

"?!?"

“Through the personality type test we have prepared in advance, we will match the KPOP concept that is perfect for you~”

Participants relaxed around me and the words ‘Wow… ’ rang out.

“…”

I bitterly cooled down.

‘Is it just entertainment content?’

Or they could decide on the next team match based on that data.

Anyway, one thing was for sure… I was tricked.

‘Damn it.’

Participants followed the staff’s lead and moved to a small room with ten people each.

It was good that I didn’t have to wait because the order was based on names, but the reality check left a bad aftertaste.

‘I count the chicken for nothing.’

The room I entered was a renovated one-person practice booth, with a camera installed in the middle of a small desk for two people.

It was a space for a typical one-angle cut.

Suppressing a sigh, I went to the opposite side and sat down at the desk. A question-and-answer table was displayed on a tablet that was set in advance.

The popular SNS sensible design already lowered its credibility.

‘It looks like a form that floats around on the Internet.’

Guessing that maybe it was outsourced in a hurry, I chose a multiple-choice question.

Chapter 49

The personality-type questions and answers displayed on the tablet were mainly like this. To explain the situation and choose an action.

Of course, they were all special idol situations.

[1. You have been selected as a performer of TaKon, a world-class K-pop concert presented for global fans in 21 countries.

While practicing with blood and tears, You suddenly have an entirely new idea!

However, there is only one week left until the performance. What choice will you pick?]

For now, let's ignore the indirect s for their concerts that are blatantly inserted.

If I removed that… The question was whether or not I would want to drop what I was doing and do it all over again with the deadline right around the corner.

"Of course, I wouldn't… '

Do you think this is some kind of school assignment?

If there is only a week left, everything from the stage set to the costumes would have been almost fixed, but now that you have an idea, you want to change everything?

'In the first place, in order to do it all over again… I think it'll take more than five years.'

This meant that it was an impossible situation.

Even if I wanted to show my desperation, this wasn't passion, it was arrogance.

[⑤Unfortunately, there's not much time left. Let's finish the preparations we've been doing perfectly.]

I chose this option after pretending to think hard about it. And at the same time, I muttered to the camera so that they couldn't edit it.

"If I was doing it alone, I would want to give it a try… The stage is a comprehensive art, so I think we should consider the situation. I'll put the good ideas together and write them down right away."

With this much seasoning, making a weird personality from this would be difficult. I moved on to the next question.

[2. You have won the Rookie of the Year award at ToneA, the largest music award in Asia. But on the way to the awards ceremony, a member is seriously injured in a car accident.

Fortunately, you only have minor bruises. If you leave right away, you will be able to attend the awards ceremony. What choice will you pick?]

"…"

Of course, you should fu*cking rest your body.

Right now, one of the passengers is seriously injured, so how can you trust you're not bruised enough to go to the awards ceremony?

However, no matter how I looked at it, the option to go to the award ceremony with determination and hard work would look good.

'It sucks.'

I chose the neutral answer, suppressing my wiggling eyebrows.

[④ Find out how to deliver my acceptance speech remotely at the hospital.]

“It would be better to go in person, but the aftereffects of the traffic accident may not be immediately apparent. I think there will be no disruption to my activities if I check my physical condition through checkups.”

Even with an ambiguous explanation attached, it was absurd.

‘Is it going continue like this?’

Yeah, it really continued like this.

Surprisingly, all 10 questions and answers assumed similar ridiculous situations.

Only the production team would know what the hell this had to do with my KPOP concept.

I sighed and solved the rest of the problem.

After passing through question 9 about advertising (which secretly mentioned the company’s products), the last question finally appeared.

It was finally over. I quickly skimmed through question 10.

[10. You appear in <Re-listed! Idol Inc.>, which selects global K-pop idols who will be active worldwide.Through endless efforts, you are finally standing in front of the last gate. An incredible casting call is calling you. What choice will you pick?]

“…”

They put this here?

As soon as I realized that I was double-tricked, the tablet screen changed.

It started counting down from 3.

‘How can those bastards only give three seconds for the countdown?’

I felt their firm determination to pick a surprised participant’s reaction.

In an instant, the number disappeared. And before I could think of anything else, a phrase popped up right away.

[Choose now!]

At that moment, the front door burst open without warning.

“…!”

“Hello?”

Outside the door stood a familiar face.

Wait, let me correct it. It was a face one-sidedly familiar to me.

Because… I’d taken a lot of pictures.

“Nice to meet you.”

A member of VTIC opened the door with a smile and came in.

“…!”

It was the appearance of an unimaginable tycoon.

I bowed my head reflexively. If my greeting was just a little late, the internet would twist my leg.

(TL note: leg-twisting was a form of punishment/torture in Joseon Dynasty.)

“Ah, I’m enjoying the show.”

“Thank you.”

The VTIC member extended his hand and asked for a handshake. I reached out and shook his hand as if I was meeting the boss of a business partner.

A cold sweat ran down my back.

‘How the hell did they recruit him?’

Even if <Idol Inc.> was successful, they didn’t have an investment stake in VTIC’s management company, so how did they make him appear?

Is VTIC hosting an exclusive reality show on Tnet? Did they catch s for T1 affiliates?

‘…No, that doesn’t matter.’

The important thing was to be careful with my words. I didn’t know what kind of captured images would go around on SNS if I made a single mistake.

After confirming that the VTIC member was seated, I sat down again. Then I calmly checked the opponent.

‘Was he the leader?’

I remembered the fame and the popularity scale, but I didn’t remember much of the other positions.

First of all, I only remembered that the individual indexes were good within that team, and the demand for fancams was good because they danced well.

His stage name was Cheongryeo.

“First, let me introduce myself. I’m Cheongryeo who plays the role of leader in VTIC.”

It seemed his real name was different, but of course, I didn’t know.

Anyway, he didn’t seem to think that ‘Park Moondae’ wouldn’t know him either. He just introduced himself once.

“My name is Park Moondae. I look forward to your kind cooperation.”

I didn’t know what to look forward to, but I greeted him politely.

‘Should I have been more surprised and made a fuss?’

I was rather flustered and forgot to react.

“I saw it on TV, but you really are a calm person.”

“…I was so surprised that I stiffened.”

“Haha, is that so?”

Does that mean you don’t believe me right now?

Cheongryeo laughed just enough to lighten the mood and went straight to the point.

“The reason why I came to meet participant Park Moondae today is… It’s to deliver a casting call from LeTi, as a member of VTIC.”

I expected that remark to come out. But I couldn’t help but think.

‘Is the production crew crazy?’

With LeTi’s current worth, even a single-digit rank participant would be able to escape.

Of course, there was no guarantee that I would be able to debut as the next male idol just by entering there. The trainees that the agency already had couldn't be just one or two.

However, the current status of VTIC was so high that it was perfect for children around the age of 20 to chase it. A VTIC member even came here.

'Even those who already have an agency would close their eyes and sign it.'

Cheongryeo continued saying words that sounded like they had been prepared in advance.

"Of course, it's not an offer for all participants. Do you remember the questions and answers you solved earlier?

"Yes…"

"In the 9 situational questions and answers, Park Moondae is the participant with the highest response rate with our VTIC members."

Cheongryeo lightly clapped his palms.

"You can say that you share a similar talent image with the artists of our LeTi agency."

"…Thank you."

Then it meant that people from different agencies went into different rooms and were conducting casting calls.

'Picking the cuts for the trailer will be easy.'

Seeing that even VTIC came out, they must have raked all the famous agencies that were close to Tnet, viewers would be having so much fun.

"First of all, I'll tell you the benefits of choosing LeTi agency."

The words that followed were obvious. It was a rough recitation of their welfare, achievements, and vision.

‘Is it to take care of the agency’s image?’

It was amazing that he memorized it. As a leader, he must have already comprehended it for external use.

Anyway, I nodded my head sincerely and made an exclamation as if I were listening to a very impressive story.

Cheongryeo finished the story at the right level and added humor as if he had prepared it.

“And as participant Park Moondae already knows, LeTi is also the agency of senior MallangDalkom. Well… Wouldn’t there be a chance to dance to ＜POP☆CON＞ together?”

“Haha… Yes.”

I don’t think this damn haunting popcorn will ever go away.

In any case, maybe he thought I was tempted, Cheongryeo smiled brightly.

“Well, then.”

Papers and pens came up on the desk.

It was a contract. Looking at the stamp and the form, it seemed real.

‘Really?’

Do you need to be this serious with the directing? I skimmed through the contract nervously.

“Park Moondae, will you respond to the casting call of LeTi, VTIC’s agency?”

“…”

Let's think.

I was in the first group with 10 people. There were 30 people left. 3 groups.

'Then at least two more people will receive casting calls from LeTi.'

What if there are more than two VTIC members here?

Then up to six people, including me, would receive this casting call.

Let's say one more person other than me said okay.

LeTi was not a fool, if two or more people escaped and went to that agency, there was a high probability that they would tie them together once or twice to promote them.

<Idol Inc.> wasn't just successful, it was almost a syndrome now.

'The agency can't just throw away this fame.'

So if I didn't want to continue to be an idol with the body of 'Park Moondae' this might be a better option.

Because there was a high probability that I would only be active for a year and then fade away.

'After that, I'll find clues to return to my original body… I can look for a new career path.'

If I stopped my activities, I would soon be forgotten. There were dozens of new idol groups that make their debut every year.

I lifted the pen over the contract.

"…"

Then, I quietly put down the pen and bowed deeply.

“I’m sorry… I want to keep trying.”

“Ah…”

Cheongryeo responded as if it were a pity. His fan service was good on the stage, but he also had a good personality in front of the camera.

“It’s a shame. Participant Park Moondae, I thought you would do well at LeTi.”

“You’re flattering me.”

I bowed politely once again.

“Is there a reason?”

Why did I refuse?

First of all… It was because I would be in big trouble if I were the only one who said okay.

They wouldn’t let me do solo activities.

Even VTIC only did unit activities at best. They probably thought solo activities cut down the group’s lifespan.

And… Before I came into this body, three years later, LeTi’s rookie male idol never made their debut.

In other words, my sudden death would be confirmed.

‘Absolutely not.’

Waiting to debut at LeTi was crazy, I’d rather leave the program. I was getting cold feet.

But I couldn’t say it like that, so I had to answer using another reason.

“Well, there’s an investment cost.”

“What?”

“There are people who have bought stocks for my debut so far, so I want to return that investment.”

That’s right.

‘…If I am going to be an idol, it’s better to do it properly.’

When I made my debut in <Idol Inc.>, I would sign a five-year contract with a T1 label affiliate.

Then at least Park Moondae would be active enough to satisfy those who spent money and time on his debut.

…Well, it was from my standpoint. It wasn’t like I had any other dream or vision.

What people like… I enjoyed it too.

‘Is it unexpectedly suitable for me?’

The stage was fun, too.

“I’m going to try harder to make my debut here.”

This much answer should be fine.

VTIC came out of nowhere, so I couldn’t find the right time to show my desperation, but I wouldn’t throw it away.

Cheongryeo listened to my answer and nodded.

Chapter 50

“All right. I’ll be rooting for you, participant Park Moondae.”

“Thank you.”

Cheongryeo accepted the rejection neatly without saying anything more.

I wanted to proceed according to the plan of drawing more conversations and picking out desperate cuts, but that kind of scenario wouldn’t work with such a viable opponent.

‘First of all, their value is too big.’

Since they were the last year’s grand prize winner, there was a big difference. Rather, there was a high possibility that ‘Park Moondae’ would only look pathetic.

“Then I’ll destroy this contract.”

Cheongryeo picked up the contract, held it clearly to the camera, and tore it in two.

‘It’s a performance.’

Perhaps he’d been told to act like that in advance.

“You had a hard time making a difficult decision. I wish you the best in the future.”

“Thank you. Cheongryeo sunbae-nim, I hope you finish your activities well, too.”

We shook hands and bowed, roughly matching the atmosphere.

“Ah, did you see our promotion this time?”

“Yes? Yes.”

Shouldn’t we end the shoot now?

I didn’t know why, but the conversation continued. Let’s respond sincerely.

“I really enjoy listening to the album.”

“Wow~ What’s your favorite song?”

Is this bastard doing this on purpose? Don’t tell me he’s being like this just because I refused.

“Um, I especially like ‘Starlight’.”

I picked out a song in moderation. Actually, I didn’t have time to listen to it, but I saw it in a fan post shared on SNS while searching for ‘Park Moondae’.

“Ah, I wrote that.”

Cheongryeo happily pointed to himself.

‘Cheongryeo is frugal in PR, too.’

They were already so popular that they couldn’t get any better than this. He really was like an idol that had a lot of free time.

“Aha, you deliberately said that because I am here.”

I just laughed. If I said no, it would be strange, and if I said yes, it would be strange too, so there was nothing else I could do.

Cheongryeo smiled facing me, then as if he suddenly remembered something, he went out of the door.

‘What is it?‘

Cheongryeo came back with an envelope in hand.

“It’s nothing much, but I brought red ginseng for you to eat and be strong.”

“Ah, thank you.”

It was definitely a PPL, given that the brand logo written in gold on the red envelope was clearly visible.

‘Anyway, red ginseng is welcome.’

As soon as I accepted it, Cheongryeo gave another final greeting.

“Then fighting!”

“Yes, fighting.”

The shooting ended with us smiling at each other.

Immediately, the staff came in and began to take care of Cheongryeo.

Some adjusted the camera and touched the tablet PC, but it was clear that a majority of them were attached to Cheongryeo. They were probably from the VTIC side.

‘How faithful.’

No matter how much it cost, people was like that.

After confirming that the staff had collected the microphones attached to his clothes, Cheongryeo spoke quietly.

“Moondae-ssi.”

“Yes.”

Unlike before, he had no smile on his face.

That didn't mean that his face hardened, it was just a natural expression of a person speaking.

"As I already said with my own mouth, LeTi is a good agency. Their settlement is good. Contact me if the situation demands it after the program is over."

"…!"

He meant that I should contact him if I was eliminated.

'Are you serious?'

Why are you recruiting trainees here, when you're not even an executive of your agency?

'Ah, do you have company shares?'

That made sense.

I didn't know why he was doing this to Park Moondae, but… Their debut group probably didn't have a suitable main vocalist.

I nodded without saying a word.

"Yes, thank you."

"Don't mention it."

The conversation ended there. I naturally left the room and moved to the waiting room following the staff's guidance.

Perhaps in order to avoid spoilers leaking, I was isolated from the participants who had not yet taken the surprise personality test.

"Hyung!"

As soon as I entered, Kim Raebin, who was already seated first, talked to me.

“Where did you get the offer from?”

“It was LeTi.”

“I got LeTi, too!”

As expected, more VTIC members came.

Kim Raebin was uncharacteristically excited and told the story of meeting VTIC. As I nodded and listened, Ryu Chungwoo, who came in with a tired face, acted interested.

“Ah, you guys finished first.”

Just looking at his face, it was clear that Ryu Chungwoo had a mental conflict.

‘Maybe he got VTIC too.’

3/10 was a very generous probability.

A familiar-looking participant came in from the side.

“Hyung-nim! Where did you get the casting call?”

“I… Wonder Hall.”

It was T-Holik’s agency. It was a large agency famous for selecting long-time idols.

‘That one is good too.’

I heard the guy who asked let out an admiring sound. However, Ryu Chungwoo quickly sat down with a smile on his face.

‘That’s unexpected.’

It was a bit strange that he was thinking of breaking out even though his debut was almost certain, but he must have had his reasons.

Participants returned to the waiting room one after another. Soon, all 10 first batters gathered.

‘Everyone on the first round turned it down.’

To be honest, I thought one or two of the lower ranks would escape, so this was unexpected. Because the lineup of the agency was so much better than I thought.

Everyone from the second round returned to the waiting room. At this point, there were a number of people who looked proud and had a strange sense of resonance.

“T-They seemed like a good person.”

Seon Ahyeon, who returned late, muttered with a bright face. It seemed a solo artist had kindly given him words of encouragement.

“But you refused.”

Seon Ahyeon jumped at the words thrown as a joke. Seon Ahyeon muttered with a shocked face.

“O-Of course I have to do it until the end…! If I go there… We can’t debut together…”

“…”

It seemed that Seon Ahyeon was extremely immersed in the positive peer relationship he was experiencing for the first time.

‘If the deal was a little better, everyone else would have jumped on it.’

I looked at him a little pitifully, and just nodded my head.

“You’re right.”

“Y-Yes!”

Seon Ahyeon energetically affirmed. Kim Raebin was looking at Seon Ahyeon from the side with an expression of looking at something strange.

The third group slowly began returning to the mysterious situation.

“Letty, I am sorry~ What a waste!”

Keun Sejin, who came back first, smiled and said this as soon as he sat down.

So this guy got an offer from LeTi too.

‘Kim Raebin, Keun Sejin, and me.’

It might be a coincidence, but it was quite interesting to see the tendencies of the agency.

And Keun Sejin’s words were even funnier. What do you mean it’s a waste?

‘You said something you don’t mean.’

It seemed his goal was to debut as soon as possible, but there was no way that such a reasonable guy would go to LeTi.

However, Keun Sejin murmured quietly after confirming that there was no microphone and that the camera was not running.

“Ah~ Should I have transferred? It’s a pity.”

“…”

I guess you’re more concerned about it than I thought?

It seemed that those words came out spontaneously because his agency was not reliable in the past.

In fact, it was also a rare opportunity. In this industry, it was actually impossible to change to a better agency without completing the contract period.

Receiving the transfer of the trainees who finally debuted in <Idol Inc.> was in fact a tyrannical act of a large broadcasting company.

In other words, those guys were thugs.

The agencies grinned and bear it because they were just trainees who were eliminated from the debut group anyway, so it was as if they were being sent to the broadcast just to be recycled.

'It serves as a lubricant for the relationship with the broadcasting station.'

But since this season had been going well, there seemed to be a subtle pressure.

The pressure to voluntarily drop out and remain in the agency.

I remembered the words I heard from Keun Sejin during the filming break.

– Yeah, I've been hearing that kind of stuff lately. 'Wouldn't it be better to debut together with the dongsaengs that you've been practicing with?'…People are really funny, aren't they?

It wasn't like they tempted him with benefits, there was no way anyone would like that.

"Just kidding. I am going to debut here~"

Keun Sejin laughed with his shoulders shaking, but it was clear it wasn't a joke, he was really worried.

'Surprisingly, there are a lot of people in the upper ranks who were swayed.'

I shrugged my shoulders. Does anyone plan to leave and reduce the competition?

But unfortunately, that didn't happen.

Only one of the lower ranks escaped.

"In response to a casting call from agency Traveler, participant Choi Wongil will leave <Idol Inc.> from today onwards."

I was amazed.

'You got the right angle.'

It was obvious that he was quickly managing the damage control after seeing the public opinion.

Maybe because he was young, he was unable to control his emotions, but it seemed he used his brain a bit so he probably left without a smile.

"O-Our agency?"

I heard Gold 1 mutter in bewilderment behind me.

'Ah, he belongs to Traveler.'

I heard that he had difficulty rejecting the offer from T-Holic's agency. I guess he had some attachment to his original agency.

'I think he has the guts to keep going.'

Anyway, that concluded the <Casting Call> event.

I felt a little bitter that I couldn't achieve my goal, but I secured my portion.

‘They’re not going to cut off the VTIC footage.’

There was no way that they were able to hire them and just let them go.

After taking a few cuts of the trainees’ reactions to Choi Wongil’s departure, the production team immediately began preparing for the ranking announcement.

Thanks to this, participants sat in the seats where they were seated before the <Casting Call> event started and endured a boring waiting time.

But this time, since they had flashy conversation material, everyone seemed to be busy talking.

“Oh, that agency?”

“Awesome.”

“Wow… How does Cheongryeo-nim look in person?”

Even the tension that was usually felt before the ranking announcement ceremony was lowered.

“Hu~The lineup was no joke. There must have been a lot of conflicted people.”

Keun Sejin whistled and listed off the name of the agencies one by one. Then looking around slightly, he whispered with a strange smile.

“Hey, do you know?”

“What?”

“Hyung-nim who sits over there and has the same name as me is also very conflicted.”

It seemed he was referring to Lee Sejin, the former child actor.

‘Come to think of it, he was the last to return.’

Lee Sejin arrived almost at the same time as the news of Choi Wongil’s departure.

I didn’t pay much attention to it because I wasn’t interested, but, well… Actually, I was still not interested.

Keun Sejin never had any good feelings for Lee Sejin since a long time ago, but he slowly released his true feelings with a smile as if he had become more comfortable with ‘Park Moondae’.

“He was originally from an actor’s agency. Does he really want to change to an idol?”

“That’s possible.”

It looked like he would be eliminated, but if he wanted to continue as an idol, he could have considered transferring.

It seemed difficult to aim for the next team unless he made a debut right away because of his age.

‘It’s up to him to figure it out.’

Keun Sejin shrugged, realizing that I wasn’t interested.

“Is that so?”

It was the end of our spare time.

Then, the shooting for the ranking announcement ceremony began in earnest.

* * *

By the time the participants prepared for the ranking announcement.

Celebrities who made surprise appearances at the <Casting Call> event had already left for another schedule.

The same was true of VTIC, which had their schedules down to minutes once their activities began.

The two people in the van looked at their smartphones and barely spoke until they started ordering lunch.

“Hyung, how was it?”

“It was just business as usual.”

Cheongryeo answered calmly.

“When you met the three of them, did anyone stand out? I like the kids I met.”

“Well.”

PDF by: traitorAIZEN

KW
데뷔 못 하면
죽는 병 걸림
백덕수 현대 판타지 장편소설

Debut or Die

– 데못죽 –

- VOLUME 2 -

-AUTHOR-
백덕수

-ILLUSTRATOR-
텡

[Readhive]

Chapter 51

‘A prominent participant.’

Regardless of the participants finishing the filming of <Idol Inc.>, Cheongryeo was skeptical about their long-term success.

The program’s current top ranks were on the rise with the power of audition entertainment. However, the competitiveness when they came out on the actual market was another story.

‘Maybe they just do well within the program story.’

After all, there were many cases where they failed the internal competition of the agency and were overwhelmed by audition programs.

Cheongryeo was just going to continue talking about the lunch menu, but a participant suddenly came to mind and he casually mentioned him.

“Park Moondae?”

“Ah, chicken feet?”

Cheongryeo didn’t laugh as he listened to the younger member laughing.

“All his answers on the questionnaire matched mine.”

“Wow! Really? That’s amazing… Is his personality similar to yours?”

“…To some extent.”

“Huh, really?”

Cheongryeo ignored his astonished dongsaeng, and felt that it was a bit of a pity.

'It would be nice to have one of those types on the team.'

It was clear that Park Moondae thought the survey was stupid. There were obvious signs that he took neutral answers by paying attention to the broadcast.

"Um, if he has a similar personality to hyung, he must be… cold-hearted?"

"You mean realistic, right?"

"Y-Yes."

The type who didn't immerse himself in other people's circumstances and was not good at thinking unrealistically.A person whose image was more suited to a general company than being a celebrity.

In general, aspiring idol students, especially talented young children, had both the strengths and weaknesses unique to the arts and physical education field.

In a good or bad way, it meant they were less frigid.

However, the reality they faced was an adult society dominated by the logic of capitalism.

"Well, it's good to have someone like hyung as the leader."

"Is that so? Thank you."

Some people might think that his face was precious as if it was made of gold, but Cheongryeo agreed with his dongsaeng.

'It's better for a person with a cool head to set the mood.'

Just like VTIC where he was in charge as the leader.

In that sense, Park Moondae was a pretty good candidate for the next debut group.

'After a year's work, your dance will improve.'

And due to his nature, if he was one of the older ones, he had no choice but to have a strong right to speak in the team even if his years of experience were short. Cheongryeo could guarantee it because he had experienced it himself.

'Then he would be easier to work with.'

It was good for both the team and the company.

However, since VTIC renewed the contract with the company and received some shares, there was no need to pay more attention to the next male idol.

After all, he would become a competitor if he debuted.

It was enough that Cheongryeo recommended it once out of conscience.

'If he thinks about it, he'll call me.'

After the short conclusion, Cheongryeo drew a line on the 'already finished schedule' and removed it from his head. It was a busy season.

* * *

Inside the filming set of <Idol Inc.> not long after the ranking announcement ceremony began.

The format was the same. However, the number of people had drastically decreased.

Only 20 people could compete.

That alone created tension in the hall.

And there was still one factor that would cause a change in the narrow number of people.

“The leaders of the two 1st place candidate teams in the third team match, please stand up!”

It was the benefit of winning the team match. The right of survival for one person which was agreed upon by the first-place team to advance to the next round unconditionally.

Of course, our side had already reached an agreement with Gold 1. We had already submitted it during the pre-interview before the filming.

“Our <Moon Rabbit> team… has selected participant Ha Iljoon.”

However, for quite a while after Keun Sejin’s words were over, Ryu Chungwoo, the leader of the <Husky> team, remained silent.

There seemed to be a problem.

“<Husky> team, please announce the selected team member.”

The MC’s urging words sounded exciting, probably because there was a sense of the damage.

Ryu Chungwoo slowly opened his mouth.

“Our team selected participant Choi Wongil.”

“…!”

Wow, they did it till the end.

‘Is that guy surprisingly rebelling?’

To be honest, I didn’t know he would take it. Then, it meant that Choi Wongil boldly gave up the 50% free pass and transferred.

And anyway, thanks to him, things became ambiguous.

Because they had already informed the production team who they had selected before filming.

On the other hand, it seemed that the production team hadn't confirmed the change after Choi Wongil's hasty escape.

But now, the production team hurriedly made a meeting as though they were embarrassed, and sent a signal to the MC.

The MC looked at the production team's sketchbook and slowly finished his words.

"There has been an unexpected situation, and in principle, if someone drops off voluntarily, that participant's benefit naturally will disappear. However, considering the special situation of <Casting Call>, we will give the <Husky> team an additional three minutes to discuss it!"

"…All right."

Ryu Chungwoo bowed and gathered his team members to sit down.

And I clicked my tongue.

'…It's over.'

Even without seeing this, that team was in first place.

'If you pull out the screen like that and don't give any benefit, it won't make a good picture.'

The production team was not stupid, they couldn't make a situation like that.

In the end, it meant that Gold 1 had to survive on his own.

'Victory by default is out of the question.'

Looking at Gold 1's face pretending not to be nervous, it seemed there was a subtle atmosphere over there too.

And sure enough, the first place was not the <Moon Rabbit> team.

"Congratulations! First place is… Team <Husky>!"

"Thank you."

But the funny situation was not over.

"According to the further agreement of the <Husky> team, the participant who receives the right to survive unconditionally… It's participant Cha Eugene!"

Those crazy guys gave the benefit to Cha Eugene.

'It's either one of the two possibilities.'

Either the agreement fell apart, or Cha Eugene was ridiculously hated.

Anyway, it was their business, and the <Moon Rabbit> team had a second-place atmosphere.

"It's such a shame."

"T-That's right."

"Hey, no! We're ranked fairly!"

Gold 1 shouted and pretended to be energetic, but honestly, it wasn't strange if he was swearing at <Husky> guys inside.

'I already did it, too.'

The announcement of the first place in the team match ended like that.

And the real ranking announcement began.

“The 17th place is… Participant Kwon Heeseung!”

As if the atmosphere warmed up by <Casting Call> was a lie, the air tightened every time a ranking was announced.

“T-Thank you…”

Gold 2, who was called after 18th place, went up to the podium with an openly relieved expression.

‘That guy made it too.’

I didn’t know he would make it to the end. It was a pull-up.

Thus, the rankings were announced up to the 10th place without any significant change. In other words, people who could compete were stuck.

What was surprising was that Lee Sejin rose slightly.

“11th place is… Participant! Lee Sejin~ A!”

It was a good result for the blatant fight in the previous team match. Probably because he had fought with Choi Wongil, who was filmed as a villain, he received an ambiguous revision.

Next to me, Keun Sejin relaxed and applauded Lee Sejin.

“Ah, I’m envious.”

Keun Sejin murmured faintly as if he was worried about falling.

“…”

Isn’t that cheating?

In terms of spirit, he was a guy who could stand up to anyone.

It was clear that he was memorizing the chant ‘Please call me late’ in his heart.

His awareness of the camera was really professional.

“Congratulations~”

On the podium, the MC continued announcing the rankings with moderate intervals between them.

Most of the familiar participants were called and climbed onto the podium.

And Park Moondae’s name was called no later than before.

“Thank you.”

I sat in sixth place.

It was slightly lower than the last time.

‘My rank has dropped too.’

The number of votes did not decrease. My vote just hadn’t increased as much as the high inflation.

The reason for the inflation was simple.

Since they could vote as much as they spent, the more fans became aware of the negative voting, the more they bought them out of anxiety.

And this tendency inevitably got stronger the more desperate the participants looked.

‘When you’re scared, you scream more.’

In other words, the production crew had adopted a great way to squeeze their wallets.

However, compared to other top ranks who had been controversial in the past, whether in portion or rank, ‘Park Moondae’ hadn’t been particularly caught up in special circumstances recently.

‘I can’t help it.’

However, creating a controversial issue was absurd. It was not me who controlled the level of editing, it was the production team.

‘It was a pity to just pass the <Casting Call>.’

It was too bad, but it was already in the past. Anyway, since VTIC came out, it was not possible to pick out a cut centered on Park Moondae.

“Congratulations~”

“Oh, thank you.”

Keun Sejin, who rose slightly to finish in 7th place, smiled and asked for a high five. It was a very standard reaction from a fellow participant.

‘Looking at the momentum, I think this guy is going to debut.’

Except for the negative votes given during the school bullying controversy, Keun Sejin received more votes than Park Moondae.

As expected, the voters had gathered together.

I never thought good deeds would threaten the back of my head like this.

‘I was being a pushover again… ’

At that time, I had no choice because we were on the same team. Still, it was inevitable that my stomach felt a little cramped. I briefly clicked my tongue and turned my gaze to the MC.

First place was Cha Eugene.

“Wow!!”

Cha Eugene smiled excitedly and received the first place badge, then suddenly he took a serious attitude and expressed his feelings and gratitude.

“Coming out here… I learn a lot and think a lot. I will work harder and stronger in the future. Thank you so much for first place.”

His grammar was still strange, but it was a serious tone that had never been shown before. It was an aspect that could create synergy with his recent portion.

‘That’s why we won first place.’

The fact that he didn’t seem to be aiming for it meant that he was indeed the one with the highest talent here.

“Participant Cha Eugene, the No. 1 stock chosen by the shareholders! Congratulations once again~”

With moderate applause, Cha Eugene climbed up to the first-place seat and sat down.

The remaining survivors were the lowest two.

And so far, Gold 1 hadn’t been on the podium.

‘For now, he’s a candidate.’

The situation was hopeful until four candidates for 20th and 19th places appeared on the billboard and Gold 1’s face was shown. The odds were 50 percent.

And Gold 1's name was…

"20th place! The last participant to advance to the final stage of <Re-Listed! Idol Inc.>… is Seo Taemoon!"

…not called.

Just like losing first place in the team match, half of the odds betrayed Gold 1 again.

It was a result of losing to the enemy with a 50% chance.

"I'll go back with the pride to have made it this far. Thank you so much to the shareholders who voted for me!"

In the end, Gold 1, Ha Iljoon, finished the audition in 21st place.

"Hyung!"

"Hey, call me!"

As soon as the MC's closing remarks were over, the drop-outs had less formal send-off than before. Since they had struggled together for months, they probably had three or four close friends.

I came to greet Gold 1 after Gold 2 and Seon Ahyeon, who were shedding tears.

The camera was running, it was quite burdensome to have a conversation after the two of them were immersed in their emotions.

Let's shake hands in moderation for now.

"Moondae~"

However, this one also started with a hug, as if it was an emotional build-up.

'I can't tear him off.'

Gold 1 said calmly as I felt uncomfortable.

Words that sounded like pressing down signs of regret.

“I think you’re going to debut. Cheer up.”

“…”

I wondered if the past me who just had entered the body of ‘Park Moondae’ would believe it if he was told that in a few months, he would feel complicated due to the well-wishing remark of an aspiring idol.

‘Great.’

Instead of sighing, I returned the well-wishing remark.

“Hyung, too.”

“What?”

“I think hyung will debut soon.”

Gold 1, Ha Iljoon, released the hug and grinned.

“Right? I’m ready to thrive.”

I wonder. Will he be able to get a good result with an ambiguous final ranking in 21st place?

But I just nodded.

Surprisingly, It wasn’t an act that came from the thought of doing it properly for the camera.

“Thank you for all this time.”

“Thank you so much!”

20 participants remained and 57 were eliminated. Now all I had to do was wait for the final.

Chapter 52

After all the eliminated players left the room, the remaining participants changed into training clothes and regrouped at the dorm.

Now that they had a send-off filled with tears and snot, everyone seemed to be filled with the strange sense of being the chosen ones.

'It can't be helped.'

They came to the finals with the support of an unspecified number of people, so it was only natural that their egos grew bloated.

If I wasn't mentally strong enough, I would have gotten drunk in the atmosphere. They were too young.

Perhaps having gotten off work, The MC didn't show up.

Instead, Youngrin hosted the filming.

"Re-listed! Idol Inc.>, the 20 participants who will complete the final stage. Congratulations. Shall we clap?"

"Yes!"

Clap clap clap. But what was important now was not this greeting.

'Why isn't there anything?'

It was definitely the time to divide the final team. But there was nothing on the set. I didn't see a single prop waiting.

There was only an electronic display. What are you going to do?

"First of all, I'll reveal the song you're going to perform on the final stage.”

[Hello! This is Eagle.]

“Gasp.”

A team of composers greeted us on the display. It was a famous team that worked on several famous idol titles. The participants were excited as a few cuts of familiar music videos passed.

[The song that Eagle is giving to the participants… We’ll reveal it right away!]

‘It’s a new song.’

It wasn’t until the final that they gave a song that could be included in the debut team’s album. I could guess the size of the budget before the start of the season.

[Lalu~ lali~]

Anyway, the song was good. It wasn’t the kind of catchy songs that would quickly enter the program on the music charts and then disappear in an instant.

The problem was that I didn’t know what the guide vocalist was saying.

‘I think they just sing it as it is.’

Wait, no way?

“The title of this song is <Final>. And the lyric… There isn’t any!”

“What?”

“There are no lyrics?”

The participants reacted to Youngrin’s words. Then, one of the composition team members on the electronic display read the script with an awkward cheering pose.

[With your creativity, please complete the demo version of <Final>! Fighting!]

Youngrin spoke as if taking over from the voice on the video.

“Yes, <Final> is unfinished.”

“…!”

“Participants must write their own lyrics, complete the choreography, and attach a subtitle that suits the song. Arrangements are also possible.”

I knew it would be like this.

‘Are you haunted by self-produced concepts?’

No matter how successful the concept of self-produced idols was, I didn’t know it would be like this even in the final.

Didn’t you see all the production parts besides the <Moon Rabbit> team in the 3rd team match?

<Husky> team’s first place was Cha Eugene. Just listening to the song was not good enough.

‘The final is broadcasted live, what are you going to do?’

I listened to the last stage song playing on the electronic display with a grain of salt.

What was certain was that I should be on the same team as Kim Raebin. Lyrics and arrangement? There was nothing more to be said, I just had to catch this guy first.

‘So how do you form the team?’

Youngrin announced as if responding to my thought.

“And the team you’re going to make the stage with is… totally up to you.”

“…!!”

“Whoever you team up with, the production team won’t be involved at all. Form a team of up to seven people and proceed with the practice.”

Aigoo.

‘It’s a mess.’

If anyone did something wrong, they would become a last-minute controversial post generator.

As far as I knew, the live broadcast on the day of the final was also heavily lined up with landmines. I didn’t know the preparation for the final stage would also be filled with minefields.

“And the benefit of winning the final stage is… Ten million won.”

“Gasp!”

Strange noises broke out here and there.

Everyone seemed bewildered by the sudden prize money.

“To make the competition fair, the production team has decided to leave the final debut of participants entirely in the hands of the shareholders.”

Her voice just passed me by, ten million won… After deducting taxes, it would be around 780,000 won.

‘I want to win that, no matter what.’

By the way, I hadn't received the refrigerator I'd gotten at the talent show yet. No way, those guys are not going to play dumb and postpone sending the prize money, right?

I listened to the rest of Youngrin's words while calculating.

"Then, let's form a team to make the final stage together, now… Get started!"

As soon as those words were dropped, the participants jumped into action.

"Moondae."

"Hyung."

The guys on both of my sides spoke straight away. Keun Sejin in seventh place and Kim Raebin in fifth place.

Keun Sejin smiled after checking out Kim Raebin.

There were no overlapping positions.

"Why don't the three of us do it together?"

"All right."

"Yes."

The agreement was reached in no time. In the meantime, Seon Ahyeon, who was in second place over there, approached with hesitation.

Well, this was Seon Ahyeon… Having him on the team wouldn't hurt, so it should be fine.

"Shall we do it together?"

"H-Hn!"

Seon Ahyeon's face brightened. Other team members also nodded without much objection.

That made the four of us.

I frowned.

2nd, 5th, 6th, 7th.

'Is it too much?'

The top ranks might get criticized for only being friends among themselves.

It seemed I should add a participant I wasn't familiar with who had good skills and a relatively low ranking.

"Hyung, Cha Eugene…"

"Um."

Kim Raebin tried his luck.

I checked out Cha Eugene and Ryu Chungwoo who were already talking over there.

First place, fourth place.

Ah, this wouldn't work.

"Why don't we just end it here?"

"Yes?"

'Even if I want to add a low rank that I am not close with, it won't work if they refuse it anyway.'

I neatly gave up on the additional recruitment.

Keun Sejin immediately came in as a support. This guy seemed to have already figured out the situation.

“We have to think about the significance of our stage, too~ Since it’s the last one, wouldn’t it be nice to show off more? Each of our position is already perfect!”

“…”

He couldn’t deny it. If Cha Eugene came in, we wouldn’t know what kind of distortion would appear in the editing or the portion.

Kim Raebin was silent for a moment with a troubled face and then nodded peacefully.

“You’re right.”

It was a wise decision.

‘Because it’s not about the vote, it’s the prize.’

I didn’t know the voting method yet, but it didn’t matter if it was an individual vote or an unfavorable victory. Ultimately, the portion on stage was more important.

Four people were enough.

Keun Sejin turned vigorously to the organized situation.

“Then let’s take it like this…”

“There, hyung-nim!”

At that time, someone came in after cutting off Keun Sejin.

It was Gold 2.

“Ah, can we… Can we do it together?”

Gold 2 surprisingly came to us with 11th place Lee Sejin.

‘How did you coax him?’

Gold 2 was trying not to show his nervousness, but frankly, it was obvious.

“…”

How do I refuse him in a way that won’t get me cursed at?

I glanced at Keun Sejin. He had an apologetic smile. It was clear that he was squeezing out a rejection phrase.

He must be thinking that it was bothersome since we already put together a small number of the best people.

But Gold 2 was brave. I meant that in a slightly sad way.

“Really! I am confident that I will work hard! No matter which parts I take, I can do it well without complaining!”

The picture was getting weird.

Rather, it was okay to refuse if it was Cha Eugene who came and asked to join. We could mix it with a bit of humor and split it into a rival gimmick.

But we couldn’t do that the 18th-ranked high school freshman. A majority of this team was also in the same group as him in the first team match.

‘They’ll make some editing about our distance.’

I held back my sigh.

Rather, as soon as he came here, we should have finished quickly with words like, ‘Sorry, we decided to do it with just four of us’. But no one wanted to carry the torch.

It was better to just accept it but we already rejected Cha Eugene with the portion excuse right before this. It would be strange if me or Keun Sejin, who made the remarks, wanted to accept them.

“C-Can’t we do it together…?”

Fortunately, the weakest person here declared surrender first. Seon Ahyeon opened his mouth while quietly watching.

‘Good job.’

Now, the key was to persuade Kim Raebin…

“I think it’ll be fine.”

Huh?

‘You easily accept this?’

Kim Raebin nodded unexpectedly.

I didn’t know if he reacted quickly because he had already tasted the spicy taste of editing once, or if there was another reason.

“Well, how about Moondae?”

“It’s fine.”

“Okay. Then shall we do it together?”

“Gasp! Thank you!”

Gold 2 raised both of his hands and posed for a hurray. In the back, Lee Sejin lowered his head with a stiff expression and then straightened it.

It was amazing that he could still be unfriendly.

“What do you mean thank you, let’s do well.”

Keun Sejin quickly cleared up the situation and headed for Youngrin. They exchanged a few words, and soon letters appeared on the electronic display.

[Team 1 confirmed!]

[Seon Ahyeon (2), Kim Raebin (5), Park Moondae (6), Lee Sejin B (7), Lee Sejin A (11), Kwon Heeseung (18)]

It was confirmed.

I felt a little bitter because this turned out sloppier than I thought. I didn’t want to put a concerning bomb like Lee Sejin.

But making him join us would be better than being filmed as a hater.

At that moment, Cha Eugene’s voice filled with regret echoed from behind.

“Ah, I missed it!”

“…”

I guess that team was talking about ‘Park Moondae’ being the main vocalist. Team 1 was made so quickly that the timing did not come.

“Hyung! Let’s do it together next time!”

“That would be great.”

I thought as I answered Cha Eugene, who was waving his hand among the participants.

‘This is the last one. How could there be a next time?’

Cha Eugene had a pure brain until the end.

* * *

“Hey, we made our team quickly, so our practice time has increased!”

Keun Sejin smiled and proceeded with the conversation. Slowly coming to the fourth round, it was good that we didn’t waste time with the useless process of ‘getting to know each other’.

“Once we select a leader, we can proceed immediately!”

“Oh~”

People continued to look at Keun Sejin with exclamations.They seemed to think that since he had been the leader in all team matches so far, he would do it again this time.

Keun Sejin smiled and shook his head.

“Ah, I won’t run for the leader!”

“…!?”

“What, why?”

To the shocked team members, Keun Sejin purposely blinked exaggeratedly as if embarrassed.

I wanted to poke his eyeballs.

“I want to be the main dancer!”

“…”

I didn’t know what bullshit he was saying now but those two were not positions that couldn’t be held at the same time.

‘You had both positions during the second round.’

Are you using that remark to target the main dancer? With lame comments like, ‘I give up being the leader!’.

Surprisingly, actor Lee Sejin spoke out.

“You can do both.”

“Ah~ that’s right. But this time, I’m going to try my best.”

Keun Sejin smiled and put his hands together.

“Besides, there are a lot of things to put in this time, so, well, I thought about it in the third round as well. I think someone who is talented in creating stuff should be the leader!”

At those words, I turned to Kim Raebin.

Kim Raebin looked at Keun Sejin, noticed my gaze, and opened his mouth with an exclamation ‘Ah’.

“I want to recommend Park Moondae hyung.”

“…”

That’s not it.

Chapter 53

“Moondae hyung as the leader?”

“Yes.”

Kim Raebin nodded earnestly at Gold 2’s question. The dumbfounded face reminded me of the team members’ reaction during the second team match.

‘Stop it.’

I didn’t want to get any more jokes.

However, Kim Raebin continued to speak without hesitation.

“First of all, he’s calm, has a good eye, and takes good care of his surroundings.”

“Oh.”

Keun Sejin scratched his chin.

Next to him, Seon Ahyeon nodded vigorously

“T-That’s right!”

Perhaps excited by the reaction, Kim Raebin released his words in rapid-fire succession. He seemed to be influenced by his own logic.

“Most of all, I think his greatest strength as a leader is to have good judgment in heat of the moment. Judging from these aspects, I think he will demonstrate good capabilities in situations where comprehensive creation is required.”

"…That's true."

Gold 2 nodded with a blank look as if swept away by the atmosphere. Lee Sejin was surprisingly quiet.

'Did it work?'

I looked at the situation grumpily and suddenly realized that it was a good opportunity.

'If I become the leader, wouldn't I be able to pick out a desperate cut?'

It was the last minute anyway, so it was all or nothing.

It should be okay to try being a leader and show that I was working hard.

"I don't mind. Is that okay with you guys?"

"O-Of course!"

The team members laughed amicably when Gold 2 was caught off guard and suddenly just answered.

I also laughed and organized the situation.

"Then I'll try. I look forward to your kind cooperation."

"Ooh~!"

"Congratulations~"

I got a round of applause and wore the leader's badge. The 'l' sparkled on the cheap metal badge.

'It's not bad.'

Kim Raebin wrote the lyrics and Seon Ahyeon made the choreography, so I didn't feel burdened.

'I just need to be careful with Lee Sejin.'

I could only hope that the characteristic 'I heard it's true' that I used and forgot a few times in the last team match would be worth its grade this time.

Oh, speaking of characteristics. I had finally leveled up.

This was thanks to the 1,000th practice points collected during the last team match.

'I barely managed to raise my level by singing and dancing.'

I clicked my tongue and called the status window for the first time in a while.

[Name: Park Moondae (Ryu Gunwoo)]

Level: 13

Title: None

Singing: A

Dance: C+

Appearance: B+

Talent: B-

Characteristics: Infinite potential, I heard it's true(C), I want to be the center (C), Bacchus 500 (B)

!Status abnormality: Debut or die

Remaining points: 1

‘I barely held back from wishing to have my dance filmed.’

It was hell to follow the choreography revised by Seon Ahyeon and Keun Sejin duo who had C+ abilities.

Just to be clear, my plan to save one extra point came close to being shattered because I never knew how things would turn out.

And there was one more thing left.

[Calling for fame!]

1,000,000 people remembered your existence!

: Draw Rare Characteristics ☜ Click!

‘One million people.’

It was a staggering number.

I realized that the people who remembered the name, face, and characteristics of ‘Park Moondae’ had grown to an astronomical number.

Actually, I didn’t leave this draw because I wanted to. I achieved it in the middle of the ranking announcement, so I didn’t have time to pay attention to it until now.

Anyway, I would spin this] now.

As I skillfully glanced at the status window, the slot machine started to run.

And stopped in the silver space.

[Characteristic: Acquire ‘Unmoving Heart (B)’!]

The mind is not swayed by external impulses.

: Mental shock -50%

‘Not bad.’

It was a necessary characteristic in a situation where I was the leader. It would help me to not get upset. I was moderately satisfied.

But another pop-up appeared.

[You can only have three characteristics!]

[I heard it’s true (C)] ◀ Delete

[I want to be the center (C)]

[Bacchus 500 (B)]

[Unmoving heart (B) new!]

What?

‘Is this how you balance it?’

If this was a game system, letting me keep having characteristics indefinitely would be strange.

I sighed and skimmed through the list of characteristics.

First of all, ‘Infinite potential’ was not included.

‘It can’t be deleted and it seems it doesn’t count at all.’

According to the current pop-up, there were three possible characteristics. However, I had four characteristics so far, including ‘Infinite potential’, so my guess might be right.

“Hmm.”

I thought about it for a while and chose to delete it.

[Characteristic: Unmoving heart (B) has been deleted!]

It was a pity since I just got it, but it couldn't be helped.

'The others are still necessary.'

'I want to be the center (C)' was a waste to throw away because it corrected my talent stat.It had a lower grade than 'Unmoving Heart (B)', but it was effective.

And since I was the leader, now that I had teamed up with Seon Ahyeon again, it was dangerous to throw away 'I heard it's true (C)'.

In addition, I had no intention of throwing away 'Bacchus 500 (B)' no matter what came out. This thing was no different from the health potion in RPG.I had to carry it to the end.

'Then all that's left is Unmoving Heart.'

It's a bit of a waste, but what else can I do?

In the first place, I wasn't the emotional type, so it wasn't a big loss.

'It ends up like this.'

As soon as I turned off the status window, I heard excited voices around me.

"Chief Moondae! What should we do first?"

"Leader Park! Chief Moondae!"

"…"

Wow, I already got a nickname.

Throwing Unmoving Heart was the right decision but for some reason, I had a feeling that I would regret it throughout this practice.

I ignored the rising skepticism and proceeded with the meeting.

“First, let’s start with the concept.”

That was how the final practice began.

* * *

A few days later, while Park Moondae was working hard on practicing the final stage as the unexpected leader, episode 11, which included the ranking announcement ceremony, was aired outside.

Park Moondae’s fans of course enjoyed the portion of <Casting Call> where Moondae met with VTIC.

In particular, after seeing Cheongryeo openly answering in an interview, ‘All of Park Moondae’s questions and answers matched with me,’ some VTIC fans mixed in and enjoyed the broadcast.

– Meong Puppy who became shy after meeting Cheongryeo. [Video]

– Did you see Moon Puppy jump in shock when VTIC came in ㅠㅠ Our puppy, were you surprised?

– It was so cute that I commented every time Moondae was shown, but it was the same for Cheongryeo as well ㅋㅋ

Even the comments are similar… Sigh… The chemistry between the two is good, won’t they do a variety show together later ㅠㅠ

Yeah, no, why are you rubbing him together with VTIC ㅎ

I’m a fan of Cheongryeo. Just ignore it. It’s low-level aggro. Moondae was so cute~

Yes, thank you ㅠㅠ

As the program entered the second half, fans who had already become experienced showed that they were not shaken by most of the agro.

– Who is the participant who perfectly matched our leader's personality test?

Park Moondae (21, main vocalist), nickname: Moon Puppy, likes chicken feet. A cute participant who always works hard ㅠㅠ [Multiple photos]

Oh, thank you. I'll buy stocks~ ㅎㅎ

Thank you very much, we have a free product for the week, you see. If you can prove the purchase, the chicken gifticon event is in progress [Link]

When Park Moondae's ranking was announced, the warm atmosphere of sharing was broken.

– ?

– Did he just call the Moondae?

– 6th place

– Crazy

– It fell down

– Is this real?

With Park Moondae's current momentum, they naturally thought he would finish in third place or higher.

Fans who were confused and denied reality for a moment soon became angry.

It was anger directed at themselves.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋThat's ridiculous, how can Moondae fall like this?

– Every stage is legendary and the influx is overflowing, but his rank dropped ㅋㅋㅋ Sigh…

– No, the stocks themselves only have good news every time, but his rank dropped? ㅋㅋ It's because the fans are lazy, it's not Moondae's fault

– What controversy does he have other than the early portion? Is it his lack of skills or his face… That's not everything about him. You can see that he's good at everything and care about a lot of things, he shouldn't end up like this

– I'm already pissed off that the eager appraisers are talking bullshit ㅋㅋㅋㅋ I'm going crazy

Even at dawn after the broadcast, this atmosphere did not die down. Instead, it just calmed down a little.

– I can't sleep.

-In fact, the number of stock sales increased for a while due to the reverse of Keun Sejin's rumors but if we take that out, wouldn't the ranking change?

– So, you're saying Moondae is originally in 7th place?

– Ah I'm really at a loss for words

– Honestly, this stage wasn't a stage that would make his rank drop. You would know if you like hot content

– Even though Moondae was the main vocalist, he was ranked 4th in terms of views and likes on fancams. This situation is absurd.

-Do you see what shareholders of other participants are doing? We're the only ones who believed in stocks and just take care of ourselves

And all these opinions converged into one.

– If it continues like this, Moondae might get dropped off. Get a hold of yourself.

So the dawn just before sunrise.

Park Moondae's fan sites were all on fire.

There was only one thing stuck in their minds.

'I'll show you!'

* * *

"The air outside is clear."

It had been a while since I came out of the set. Beside me, Keun Sejin murmured in a rare gloomy voice.

'It's been a week.'

Due to sudden accommodation and filming set maintenance problems, participants unexpectedly got a short two-day break.

It was 10 days before the final and three days before the next broadcast.

<Idol Inc.> conducted a broadcast with surviving participants in the form of a talk show instead of the main broadcast the week before the final.

Of course, it was also a live broadcast.

It was fortunate that I had a short break before that. I was a little worried about the amount of practice, but I knew I would practice to death in three days.

"Is Moondae living in Ahyeon's house again this time?"

“Y-Yes!”

During the break, I would be in Seon Ahyeon’s care for a while.

‘I don’t want to do anything.’

Being a leader… burned more calories than I thought.

I immediately followed Seon Ahyeon. His parents came to pick him up again.

“Hyung!”

I heard the voice I had heard every day for the past few days from behind.

“Hn, what?”

“If you don’t have a schedule for two days, do you want to go see the billboards that fans put up?”

“Um.”

I’d like to answer that I didn’t have a schedule right away. But, I was at a loss for words.

‘It’s time to go see it.’

They spent of lof money on it, so if I didn’t confirm it myself, they might feel down.

But I wanted to go alone.

However, if I refused and went alone, my relationship with Kim Raebin would worsen.

‘This isn’t some kind of dating sim game… ’

It was a bit absurd, but it couldn't be helped.

"Okay. Let's do it."

"…! Yes!"

Kim Raebin nodded with an excited expression. Then he took out his smartphone and started working hard on something.

"The most effective route to see the billboards is… How about this?"

I looked at the screen that Kim Raebin was holding out.

It showed a picture with a line drawn on the subway line.

It seemed he had drawn the location of the move on the map that marked the stations where my billboard was hung.

Sure enough, the related phrase at the bottom…

[Park Moondae's subway latest ver. (27 stations)]

"…"

27?

Only places with a large floating population were marked with circles.

'Is this… possible?'

It wasn't some kind of VTIC global fundraising birthday , was it possible to catch 27 stations alone?

Keun Sejin, who was looking at his smartphone next to me, hit me on the back.

"Hey, you've got one more billboard than Cha Eugene! Subway Ads! You are number one!"

“Oh… Congratulations, hyung.”

“…”

What the hell happened during the week of practice?

Chapter 54

While I was speechless at the number of '27 stations', the billboard confirmation expedition steadily increased.

"Are you going? Then I'll go, too. There are a few overlapping places here!"

"There is a ban on team spoilers, so why don't we go with someone from the other team?"

"Cha Eugene?"

"Yes."

"I'm fine. What about Moondae?"

"Whatever."

"Yes!"

At that point, it quietly and quickly came to an end.

What was surprising was that Seon Ahyeon stepped out of it with a face of regret.

"W-With my parents… I decided to go on a trip."

"Okay?"

If that is the reason, isn't it concerning that I will be alone at Seon Ahyeon's house once he leaves?

"Ah, then should I stay somewhere else?"

“N-No! Stay!”

Seon Ahyeon was taken aback.

“I-I’ll give you the key.”

“Um, thank you.”

I didn’t know what you believed in me to make you lend the key. When I accepted the key, Seon Ahyeon suddenly confessed.

“O-Originally, I was going to ask you to come with me…”

“…”

I didn’t know why he wanted to include Park Moondae on his family trip.

Did your parents give you permission?

“…I’m grateful for your kindness.”

“Yes.”

If it happened like this, I’d rather have an tour with Kim Raebin. I almost went on a trip with someone else’s parents.

“See you on the day of the shoot~”

Under the guidance of Keun Sejin who waved his hand, I saw Seon Ahyeon off. And as soon as Seon Ahyeon disappeared in the car, Cha Eugene appeared.

“I’m so excited!”

Cha Eugene shook his backpack with his eyes shining. I felt tired already.

‘What a day.’

Let’s have a moment of silence for my ruined holiday.

* * *

First of all, the crazy proposal to travel by public transportation with this number of people was rejected. Because we already had a track record.

“We’ll have to run away before we can even get to the station.”

“You’re right.”

Cha Eugene was disappointed but recovered quickly.

It was also fun to travel by taxi. Though, I didn’t know why.

Anyway, the first hit was at Yeouido Station, the closest to the filming set.

“Are you taking pictures?”

This somehow ended well.

It was only me and Kim Raebin who got caught at Yeouido Station, so each of us quickly took a picture and left without saying anything.

There seemed to be one or two people who recognized me when I took off my mask, but it was a weekday morning at a station with a lot of office workers, so it went without a fuss.

“Good!”

As I got into a taxi with my excited companions as if we were carrying out a secret order, I suddenly wondered.

‘…Isn’t this meaningless?’

If there is no eyewitness account, how is it different from just looking at the billboards alone?

Even if it was for confirmation, I couldn't just post pictures on the Internet.

'Should I leak it by acting like a witness?'

But this worry was a useless notion.

Because it was a mess from the Express Terminal Station, the next destination.

"Oooh!"

"Cha Eugene! Hey, it's Cha Eugene!"

"Is it them? Idol Inc.?"

"They must have come to see the billboard. Heol…"

I heard all these words spoken at the same time as soon as I approached within 3M in front of the billboard at the Express Terminal Station.

Of course, we were wearing our masks.

Learning from the previous failure, everyone was wearing hats and hoodies, but I couldn't figure out how they found out. They couldn't even see my hair.

And a huge crowd began to gather.

It was no joke, I could see people running from the underground shopping mall toward this way.

'This… This is a nuisance.'

It was a perfect situation for an accident to happen.

‘Let’s run.’

After roughly exchanging glances, we quickly left the station. Of course, I couldn’t take a picture.

‘Covering our faces is useless now.’

We took a taxi and took a moment to breathe, but I confirmed that another taxi was following behind our taxi.

“Are they following us?”

“The person in the passenger seat is holding a camera.”

The taxi atmosphere became gloomy after Kim Raebin’s confirmation.

The taxi driver joked, ‘What kind of fun things are you guys doing~’ then kept his mouth shut at the serious atmosphere.

‘It’s ruined.’

That was how the billboard tour failed spectacularly from the beginning.

After barely getting rid of the car that was following us, everyone understood the current situation.

“…Let’s go separately.”

“Okay.”

“Yes…”

“Let’s wear a doll mask!”

“…??”

Breaking the quiet atmosphere of agreement, Cha Eugene suddenly made a sudden proposal.

“Doll mask?”

“Yes! It’s cute and people won’t know it’s us!”

Keun Sejin was the first to react.

“Wait… Oh, there’s a rental place in Gangnam.”

“Oh!”

“The price is good too! I think we can spend 50,000-60,000 won per person?”

50,000 won was not cheap.

But it was a good idea. I sighed and added.

“That’s a good idea but let’s go see the billboards separately.”

“Yes?”

“Why?!”

At Cha Eugene’s question, Kim Raebin answered gloomily.

“That’s right, if four people wearing doll masks are walking around, it’ll get more attention…”

“Ah.”

Everyone understood immediately.

“Then let’s rent it together. Is that okay?”

“Yes!”

“Okay. Driver! We’d like to go here…”

Keun Sejin immediately changed the destination of the taxi.

Less than 20 minutes later, we arrived at a party supplies rental shop located in the corner of a commercial building.

“This one!”

As soon as we arrived, Cha Eugene immediately grabbed a doll mask and excitedly headed to the checkout counter. It looked like something similar to White Tiger.

(TL note: White Tiger = Baekho = one of the Four Symbols of the Chinese constellations.)

“That was fast.”

“Shall we quickly choose as well?”

Then, an employee approached the remaining people in front of the doll masks and spoke with sparkling eyes.

“Hey, can I get your autograph?”

“…Sure.”

After asking them not to post it on the Internet today, we lined up and signed.

It was very awkward.

“I want this.”

After the signing was over, I went to pick out a doll mask accompanied by an employee. As Keun Sejin picked a huge bear doll mask, Kim Raebin picked a rabbit mask next to him.

They obviously picked it while being conscious of the fans’ public opinion.

‘In that case, then me too.’

I grudgingly grabbed a doll mask.

The first doll mask I tried after a part-time job five years ago was heavy.

‘This time is going to be hard, too.’

The thought of walking around wearing this made me feel distant.

First of all… Shall we start with a new route?

* * *

Following the encouragement to vote, Park Moondae’s fan sites placed billboards on each public transportation to attract voting during the final.

They caught all the s, including buses and movie theaters, but due to the short preparation period, only subway station s were currently executed.

Here, it was the same for the person who preoccupied the large electric billboard near the underground shopping center of Gangnam Station.

‘It turned out well!’

The woman, who pulled out Park Moondae’s cheek-poking pose at the production presentation, finally picked the billboard with that picture.

‘I’m glad I saved it.’

For reference, The photo of Park Moondae wearing a hero suit for the second team match was hung on the billboard at Jamsil Station. She was going to go see it next.

‘I wanted to do one more.’

Looking at Seon Ahyeon’s billboard on the opposite, she swallowed her disappointment.

She wanted that position.

In fact, she saw a post a few days ago that Seon Ahyeon’s fans almost rented the entire Ahyeon Station, so they installed billboards from the subway safety door to the exit.

‘If that’s the case, I’ll let Gangnam go.’

The fundraising was enough, so it was a waste because there was still money left for her to add.

Anyway, it’s done and the color came out well.’

She took a picture of the billboard with her camera once again.

Then, her friend, who went to buy coffee for a while, came up and called her with a voice full of laughter.

“Hey, look at that!”

“Huh?”

When she turned her head to the direction her friend was pointing at with her coffee straw, a person wearing a yellow puppy mask with pricked ears was waddling toward the billboard.

‘Welsh Corgi?’

Looking blankly at it, she saw a sketchbook in the Welsh Corgi’s hand.

[Park Moondae Debut]

“What’s with that!”

She burst into laughter and gave way to the Welsh Corgi. Some people around who were looking at the billboard were also laughing at the Welsh Corgi.

It seemed he came wearing a yellow dog mask to match Moondae's nickname and his hair color.

The tall man waddling around with a doll mask looked pretty cute.

"Do you want me to take a picture of you?"

Her friend asked the Welsh Corgi, who was standing in front of the billboard. Welsh Corgi nodded and held out his phone.

'Ah, there are so many interesting people.'

She spoke to the Welsh Corgi, unable to hide her laughter.

"Can I take a picture and upload it? It's a good idea!"

The Welsh Corgi nodded eagerly. She quickly took a photo and uploaded it to her fan account.

[I came to check the commercial and met a fan wearing a doll mask! : D (Picture) (Picture)]

Because it was a subject that people would like, the number of shares and likes increased in an instant.

Meanwhile, the Welsh Corgi took a proof shot and got his phone back from her friend.

"Have a safe journey home~"

The Welsh Corgi nodded to her and her friend, then waddled off again.

She, too, giggled and moved to take subway line 2 with her friend. Because she was going to have lunch near Jamsil Station and check the billboard there.

She went to a nearby restaurant, ate, went to a cafe for the second time, and waited for the drink she ordered, then her friend smiled and showed her something.

“Look at this! I think it’s the Welsh Corgi fan that went to Jamsil earlier. Another photo came up.”

“Wow, that’s great. It must be hard to move around wearing that.”

She smiled and checked the photos on SNS, saying that it would be fun to see Mundae.

The Welsh Corgi diligently visited every station throughout the morning and lunch to take proof shots.

‘Did you come to Seoul to do this?’

Sometimes she saw this type of fans, so it wasn’t new to her. Although the doll mask was an interesting idea.

As she flipped through it, she saw the pictures she took earlier.

Then, she found something and her hand stopped.

The scene where her friend took a picture of the Welsh Corgi.

“…Huh?”

“What’s wrong?”

She asked her friend in a trembling voice.

“That… When you took a picture of the Welsh Corgi earlier.”

“Yes.”

“D-Did you check his phone?”

Her friend tilted her head.

“Well… It’s just a smartphone. A little old… and doesn’t have a case… Now, wait a minute.”

Her friend realized it while talking.

Without listening to her words, she checked Moondae’s PR video in a hurry.

‘This model.’

And then she checked the picture she took again.

The Welsh Corgi’s phone in her friend’s hand… It had the same shape as the one in the PR video.

She got goosebumps all over her back.

“Hey, heyheyhey, hey…”

“…Really? Really? Really?”

“No, this is, uh……”

When she and her friend stuttered, unable to complete the sentence due to the unbelievable speculation, a new notification came in on the smartphone.

Crazy Crazy Crazy Yellow Puppy Moondae took off his mask just now aaahㅠㅠㅠ (Shaken photo) (Photo of Moondae unmasking)]

The article was accompanied by a picture of Park Moondae’s upper body, who was smiling and sweating while taking his mask off in front of the billboard at Sinchon Station.

The picture they saw in the morning was correct.

"…"

The two sat with their mouths open until the drinks came out.

Then Americano came out.

"Enjoy your meal."

"…"

Only then she poured ice water down her throat and howled inwardly.

'I should've shaken his hands!'

She was happy to be this lucky and she felt like she was going die from happiness because of Moondae's kindness, but at the same time, she was so sad that she wanted to throw up.

"Let's go to the fan signing event."

"I'll definitely go."

Promising to go to the fan signing, the two quietly flared up.

Chapter 55

I returned the doll mask before sunset and returned to Seon Ahyeon's house.

I felt like my whole body was steamed with moisture inside the doll mask.

'It was hot.'

The expenses were considerable. Besides, I was tired.

But it didn't feel bad.

'Is it because I only heard good things?'

The reaction was amazing when I took off my mask at the end, but in fact, I thought it was more interesting when I was walking around wearing it.

It was a fresh experience to see people laughing and wanting to take pictures together or handing over Park Moondae's printed photos or snacks.

'Of course, I didn't expect these kinds of photos to come out… I didn't know.'

There was also a photo of me with photoshopped yellow animal ears.

I put the items I received, including the photos, in my luggage.I thought I'd look into it more later.

Then I immediately took a shower.

'I think I will live.'

After I dried my body and changed clothes, I felt more refreshed.

As I sat on the bed and drank cold water, the new group chat rang endlessly.

[Keun Sejin: Wow, I saw the news. Everyone did a good job ㅋㅋ Except for Eugene!]

[Cha Eugene: ; ()]

[Raebin Kim: Why did you talk while wearing the doll mask?]

[Cha Eugene: I didn't know…]

When I checked and looked it up, there was a video of Cha Eugene shouting thank you and getting caught at once and then running away.

'Somehow, I'm not surprised.'

[Keun Sejin: Hey, Moondae went around 15 places? That's amazing. He's a Korean with determination. Let's give him a round of applause]

[Kim Raebin: (old applauding emoticon)]

[Cha Eugene: Congratulations…]

[Keun Sejin: Moondae, I can see that 1 has disappeared, answer me ㅋㅋㅋ]

I laughed and replied.

[Me: Yes, thank you.]

[Kim Raebin: (basic greeting emoticon)]

[Cha Eugene: Cool!]

[Keun Sejin: Don’t mention it (heart emoticon)]

I turned off the group chat filled with excessive emoticons and logged on to SNS.

‘Let’s take a closer look.’

I was thinking to check if there was any strange noise like, ‘Just practice and don’t go around during the break, don’t you have a brain?’

“Hmm.”

Fortunately, that didn’t happen. People looked happy.

I moved up the timeline a little bit.

When people noticed that four people were wearing doll masks and looking for billboards of different contestants.

At first, people seemed to think that it was a joke between fans.

– I want to do it with fellow enthusiasts

– Harmonious and cute, I hope fans don’t fight and get along like this ㅠㅠ

– Let’s all debut soon♡

However, when Cha Eugene was found out and the participants took off their masks one by one, it turned into a shocking situation.

– C C Crazy

– Gah, guys, what’s going on?

– I went to Jamsil Station yesterdayㅜㅜ Aaarg Moondae ㅠㅠ If this noona had known, noona would have camped there today…

– What's with that bare face, is it really glowing?

– I gave a photo to Welsh Corgi Moondae ㅠㅠ Uwaaa I love you, Moondae!!! [Moondae's photo with dog ears]

After that, there was a buzz about whether this was part of filming for <Idol Inc.>, but they became happier when a doll mask rental place posted a review with the autographs.

[They seem to have rented according to their own image. The doll mask rental place made a review (link)]

– How in the world do these crazy people think like this ㅠㅠ

– When I think about my kid looking for a doll mask and choosing a Welsh Corgi mask, it's so cute that I want to die [I love you to death and screenshot]

– He must have been proud to find a puppy mask and pick the yellow one just because the fans called him puppy ㅠㅠㅠ My heart aches

'…I'm glad you enjoyed it.'

It was a bit embarrassing, but it was tolerable because people liked it so much. But I wondered why they kept calling me cute… I didn't understand.

'Is it a matter of my emotions?'

It was a mystery. I shrugged and lay down on the bed.

And then I realized.

'I didn't eat anything today.'

I forgot because I was busy running all day wearing a doll mask.

But strangely, I didn't feel empty inside.

Should I eat something and sleep? I briefly thought so, but soon fell asleep.

It was a dreamless sleep.

Falling asleep so early in the evening, the slumber continued until noon the next day.

Well… it was a fruitful holiday.

* * *

I did light exercise for half a day and rested well.

And the next morning, at dawn.

I headed to the set to prepare for the live broadcast talk.

Seon Ahyeon, who returned from the trip at night with some walnut cookies, naturally came along with me.

By the way, the walnut cookies were delicious. It was soft because it used white kidney beans in the ingredients.

“It’s Moondae. Did you rest well?”

“Yes.”

Upon entering the waiting area in the set, Ryu Chungwoo, who arrived first, greeted me.

Seon Ahyeon was not present because he was called by the production team.

“Did you rest well?”

“Um… yes.”

Ryu Chungwoo grinned. His complexion didn't look good.

'Come to think of it, he's not even a leader this time.'

I heard they made a concession, but I didn't know what happened. I wasn't interested.

"I saw you guys wearing doll masks. It looked fun."

"Ah, thank you. I heard hyung also made confirmations, too."

In case we debut together, let's indulge him and respond like this.

Ryu Chungwoo replied with a slight hesitation.

"…I haven't been able to lately."

"…"

What do you want me to do?

It seemed he wanted me to ask but I didn't think I needed to know Ryu Chungwoo's story.

I shrugged and made a closing remark.

"You can do it once after the broadcast."

"Um… I feel like it'll make me lose face if I can't make a debut."

Ryu Chungwoo laughed haha.

'Why does it seem like he keeps grabbing the end of the conversation?'

I cut off the conversation.

"I think hyung is going to debut."

“Thank you, but it’s still unknown. My rank dropped, too.”

Are you talking about dropping from 1st to 4th?

‘I know that you debuted and became a leader.’

I glanced at Ryu Chungwoo bitterly, but I acknowledged that anyone who participated to this point might get anxious.

Besides, this guy… It seemed he was burnout.

‘Wait, if Ryu Chungwoo is eliminated like this, there will be a vacancy.’

I thought hopefully for a moment but soon gave up. Even if he lost his mind now, the only thing left was the final, so it wouldn’t be much of use.

I just decided to answer comfortably.

“Even if you get eliminated, wouldn’t the fans prefer you to verify the billboard?”

“Well… I don’t know if fans will still be there after I get eliminated and the program is over.”

“They even spent money on advertising, I don’t think they will suddenly disappear.”

“Huh?”

“You know, if it’s a transfer station, the unit price is at least 200 won, and if it’s a good place, it’s 10 million won.”

“I-Is that so?”

“Yes.”

I could hear Ryu Chungwoo swallowing his saliva.

‘No way, you didn’t know?’

“I have to… work hard.”

“Of course.”

I looked at Ryu Chungwoo blankly.

“Moondae!”

Just in time, Keun Sejin raised one hand and entered energetically.

‘I can use that as an excuse.’

I naturally bowed to Ryu Chungwoo and approached Keun Sejin.

And I thought about it again.

‘Then I… Even at the minimum unit price, I owe them 54 million won.’

It was an amount of money that would break my conscience unless I worked really hard.

I didn’t expect to have this kind of definite motivation besides the sudden death.

* * *

This was the subtitle of this week’s main broadcast of <Re-listed! Idol Inc.>.

<Re-listed! Idol Inc. – Performance presentation>

I didn’t know that the talk show would have a subtitle like this, but it was a pretty impressive naming sense anyway.

The content was no different from the usual audition program special.

They called in active participants, asked questions, and talked about some stories related to the episodes.

However, since it was a live broadcast, there was no magic of editing and of course, the level of questions was much lower than usual.

“Oh! 14 people like to dip their sauce! As expected, dipping the sauce is more popular!”

Therefore, for the majority of the portion, they released this kind of TMI.

‘You eat it raw.’

I thought to myself as I lowered the dipping sauce panel that I was holding.

Instead of the MC, an actor often seen on talk shows was running the broadcast.

It was amazing that even with 20 amateurs here, there was no awkward silence because his talking skill was so good.

‘Still, I think the ratings will be cut in half if this continues.’

Just as I thought so, MC spoke of new content.

“This segment is~ Random play dance!”

It was a famous content with a simple rule of running and dancing when the music came out, but 20 people rushed out and had fun in their own way.

-Come to me

Come to me

It’s so bright, Paradise by your side

“Wow!”

“I want to try it!”

Cha Eugene and several participants ran out and danced to <To the New World> by MallangDalkom.

“Oh~”

Participants of October 31 applauded with laughter as they followed the choreography from the first team match as if they were completely immersed in it.

Since only the songs arranged in the show were played, it seemed there were some demands to see the participants dancing to the choreography of other teams.

‘Not bad.’

As soon as I thought like that, a familiar melody hit my ear.

-POP! POP!

You’re my popcorn~

“Ooh?”

“Wow, this!”

“Haha!”

Participants jumped out in an instant and started dancing popcorn.

It was such an easy and famous dance that almost all 20 people came out.

It meant everyone came out except me.

“Moondae-ssi! Moondae-ssi!”

“…”

The MC excitedly called for Park Moondae.

‘I think it will be like this until I retire… ’

I trudged out and joined the participants.

Since we’re doing this, let’s dance hard.

– POP POP POP!

POP☆CON!

Thanks to the production team who played the song until the end, I put in the last pose before going back.

The guys in the front row who danced until the end went back together and chattered.

“Hey~ Moondae really has improved!”

“Genius, he’s a genius.”

“…Let’s stop.”

“Oh~? It was a compliment, though? Are you embarrassed?”

“Aren’t you too humble~?”

“…”

It was a mistake to accept Keun Sejin and Gold 2 on the same team.

In any case, the broadcast went well that way.

The 20 participants who desperately rushed to the content without being taken out continued to actively follow the MC's remarks.

"Now, I'd like to ask you a question from our viewers."

"Oh~"

"Wait a minute, let me pick a name…"

The MC pulled a ball out of the box prepared in the corner of the set and read the name inside.

"Participant Park Moondae!"

"…Yes."

I didn't know it could happen with the 1-in-20 chance probability.

I quickly raised my hand and answered.

MC brought a tablet PC under PPL from <Idol Inc.> and held it in his hand, then flipped the screen.

It seemed he was skipping the appropriate questions for broadcasting.

"Among the questions that are coming up right now… Ah, this!"

The MC touched the screen to zoom in on the question, then turned it toward the camera and read it.

"Well, the question is, 'Moondae, is it true that you changed your name?'"

"…"

What?

Chapter 56

‘Did Park Moondae change his name?’

I didn’t like the feeling of my backbone tightening.

Anyway, I shouldn’t look awkward. I immediately picked up the microphone and said.

“…I’ve always been Park Moondae since the register of my birth.”

“Hahaha!”

The MC’s reaction was good.

This was true.

‘As soon as I entered this body, I took off a copy of the resident registration, the draft, and even the family relationship certificate.’

I wasn’t stupid, that kind of thing was only natural.

I’d looked for all the factors that might cause a problem.

Park Moondae continued to live under this name, and there were no other peculiarities. Except for the high school dropout thing that he wrote down himself, he was clean.

‘He dropped out because of bullying, according to the suicide note.’

This meant that it wasn’t going to cause a problem with the debut.

But that specific ‘confirmation of name change’…Something about it bothered me.

‘I’ll have to look up the Internet as soon as I am done with this.’

“Oh~ they must have asked because your name is so unique!”

Feeling that there was nothing more to pick, the MC immediately wrapped up the question.

I waited for the filming to end, watching the other participants being asked questions.

* * *

I just found an in-depth SNS article on the Internet.

[I’m curious about what Moon Puppy had been doing, but I can’t find anything. No, maybe he’s an alien who changed his name]

‘This must have been the problem.’

It was a bit of a letdown.

Since the original account owner was a famous illustrator, it quickly became a meme in a short period of time. Although it was only within the fan community.

– (That… makes sense!)

– Since he’s serious about eating, he’s like an alien that has been sent to investigate the food culture of the Earth

– I saw dog’s ears on Moondae

It didn’t matter if people laughed while making these jokes, but the situation itself raised some doubts.

‘It’s not that I didn’t expect it to not come out at all.’

Park Moondae’s name and date of birth were written on his profile.

To be honest, I thought his high school life would be revealed during the broadcast.

At least something like, ‘I was in the same school, but he was a little weird’. I even expected words like ‘A child who dropped out of school after going around alone.’

These statements wouldn’t harm me. Rather, the fans would be relieved that I wasn’t the type to bully anyone since I was such a weakling at school.

‘Maybe because my impression has changed a lot.’

This conjecture seemed to make the most sense.

When I first came into this body, Park Moondae was skinny and had shaggy hair. In addition, a completely different person (me) came in, so the way of speaking, movement, and atmosphere would have changed.

But maybe someday a story would come out. I didn’t even use an alias.

‘I hope it comes out after the program is over.’

It would be difficult to see the smartphone until the live broadcast.

After filming the talk show, I went back to the dorm and returned the smartphone as usual.

‘Let’s just practice hard.’

Now there was only a week left until the final stage. There was no room for other thoughts.

…But even if there was no room for it, if there was a problem right away, I had no choice but to think about it.

It happened shortly after I noticed this.

* * *

It was two nights later that it happened.

While I was half dozing off and stuffing dinner into my mouth, an urgent call came from the production team.

From my experience so far, I thought I would get an interview cut. However, the atmosphere in the staff room was serious.

“Moondae-ssi.”

The writer who cast me in the karaoke room started talking in a tone that barely sounded concerned.

“On the Internet now… An article came up.”

“…Yes.”

I had a bad feeling.

The writer was even choosing her words in front of me as if she didn’t know how to say this.

I held out my hands, feeling a headache creeping in.

“May I just look at it myself?”

“Um, yes.”

The writer looked me up and down and handed me her phone.

I looked at the screen. A familiar interface appeared.

It was the community where controversy over Keun Sejin’s school bullying had been raised.

And at the top, I saw a title written in large font.

[Park Moondae's reason for dropping out of high school: got caught stealing sanitary pads ㅋㅋ]

"…"

What kind of bullshit is this?

I was stunned by the unexpected title.

It had been a long time since I felt like my head was clogged up.

I checked the contents with a brain that didn't work due to the shock.

It has been revealed that Park Moondae is a graduate of Incheon Public High School, so I'll skip the explanation. I graduated from that public high school, but I'm the same age as Park Moondae. I was in class 3 with Park Moondae, and he was a gloomy weird kid. Actually, I didn't even know his name. I just knew he was Idol Inc. Park Moondae when I see him rising now.

Yes, but don't be relieved after reading this far ㅎㅎ ★ Park Moondae dropped out after getting caught stealing sanitary pads from a girl in the class ★

Even the girl whose sanitary pad was stolen dropped out shortly after because it turned into a strange rumor

And there are quite a lot of people who know this? It was such a mess, I wondered if there was going to be a school riot for a while ㅎ But Park Moondae dropped out and ran away!

I'll verify my graduation album and school uniform in case you don't believe me. But even if I don't do this, the people who know it will keep coming out.

[Photo] [Photo] [Photo]

Below that, there were a series of top comments by netizens who self-proclaimed to graduate from Incheon Public High School and claimed to know the case.

"…"

A chill ran down my spine.

This… there was no answer.

Hitting someone or stealing money would be better than this. You stole a girl's sanitary pad because you had nothing to steal?

Even if I met that kind of person in real life, I would have thought he was a hopeless bastard, but this happened to an idol audition participant.

"Have you read everything?"

I had read it, but I had nothing to say.

Isn't Park Moondae crazy?

'Did you commit such an idiotic thing and write down in your will that you feel unfair about being bullied?'

Yes, if he didn't steal it, he must have felt it was unfair. But right now, is there a way to prove that this bastard didn't steal it?

"…Yes."

I managed to answer.

The writer didn't uselessly mention whether it was 'real' or not.

"You'd better think about what to do right now."

She meant to take care of it myself or get off.

I swallowed my saliva and answered.

"…Give me a minute, I'll think about it and tell you… later."

“Yes, please do it quickly.”

I couldn’t even speak properly.

I went back to the dorm in a state of madness. It was still time to practice, so the dorm room was empty.

I sat down on the bed because I was afraid that if I sat down on the desk, I would smash everything on the table.

And I tried to think as calmly as possible… Fu*ck, it sounded troublesome.

I hit the bed.

There was a dull ‘bam-bam’ sound, but it didn’t relieve my anger at all.

‘Am I going to die like this?’

What am I supposed to do with this sh*t?

You had locked me up in this flawed body while pretending it wasn’t the case and patronizing me with the help of leveling up, you had pushed pressure on me to make my debut within a year; all these things do not make sense to me unless you intending to spite me.

My head hurt. I should have had that damn Unmoving Heart characteristic.

‘Now… what do I do?’

What came after anger was, ironically, a deep sense of helplessness.

There was nothing I could do. Really.

Because I didn’t know anything.

If I had a smartphone, I would have searched… No, this was crazy.

I wasn't going to look at public opinion, so this was how it ended.

No matter how much I lived without caring what others said, I couldn't guarantee that I would be fine after seeing an unspecified number of people mainly pouring out criticism.

Besides…

'…Those people.'

I wonder what the people who supported Park Moondae were feeling.

They spent their time and money, and would never have imagined that they would be stabbed in the back like this.

It was even more ridiculous that I didn't do it. It was driving me crazy.

…It was the first time since I was an orphan that I felt so overwhelmed by the situation.

"…"

Should I give up?

Shortly after that thought crossed my mind, someone creaked open the door to the dorm room.

"T-There…"

"…"

I thought I showed superhuman patience just by not telling them to go away now.

I didn't respond and continued to sit on the bed with my head down. It felt like my brain was boiling.

"Hey, Park Moondae."

Then, the door burst open and Keun Sejin came in.

The rumors must have circulated already. It wasn't strange that the quick-witted guy noticed it first.

"Are you serious about that?"

I don't know.

I thought I didn't answer, but it seemed that I couldn't control my mouth due to extreme stress. That bastard responded.

"Why don't you know? Are you really dropping out because of that?"

"Because I don't know."

I don't know why you're bothering me. Since there's only the final left anyway, isn't it better for me to get off?

"…You know you're talking nonsense right now, right?"

I clenched my teeth.

"I don't remember."

"What?"

"F*ck. I woke up trying to commit suicide and I don't remember anything. Are you happy now?"

Thud.

The sound of Seon Ahyeon, who stood awkwardly on the side, dropping the chocolate bar he was holding was loud.

I sighed. I unnecessarily told the truth.

At least, I should consider it a relief that I didn't talk about changing my body and returning to the past. Even if said that I could see the status window, I couldn't take it out, so I was either a mythomaniac or a psychopath.

No, what's the use of all that now? If I didn't solve this problem, I wouldn't be able to debut within a year.

"R-R-Really…"

"Yeah, really."

It was already difficult to stay calm, but you were making me use my energy for useless conversation.

"Since you already know… Leave it alone. I'll take care of it."

"…If you don't even remember, how can you sort it out?"

"Get out."

"If you don't know anything, it's better to have someone to discuss it with. You don't even have an agency."

"…"

That was true.

"It's honestly hard to believe, but I don't think you'd lie about something like this. Rumors about stealing sanitary pads are even weirder…"

"T-That's right."

"I don't think a quick-calculating guy like you would do such a foolish thing."

"…!! N-No… I-I don't mean that, uh, t-that's why…"

Seon Ahyeon was broken. Keun Sejin ignored Seon Ahyeon.

“Yeah. It would have been different if it was posted by the victim or her acquaintance. But looking at it, that doesn’t seem to be the case.”

“…”

My head cooled down a bit. I raised my head and looked at Keun Sejin.

Keun Sejin calmly sat on the floor on the opposite side.

I didn’t know why this guy was being meddlesome.

‘Anyway, you’re saying that you’re helping me.’

Still, it was surprising that it happened right before the final. I wasn’t in a position to care about this right now.

“First of all… Let’s say you don’t remember this incident. Do you remember what happened in high school?”

“I don’t remember anything about high school. When I came to my senses, there was only a suicide note in front of me.”

There was silence for a while.

“…Did you mention anything in your suicide note?”

“There was no specific mention of the incident itself. There was an expression of unfairness, but that’s something anyone can say at any time.”

“You’re so cold-hearted even to yourself.”

Keun Sejin smiled helplessly.

I wanted to snort, but I couldn’t afford to do so.

“T-There.”

Seon Ahyeon interrupted with difficulty.

“T-Then… F-Finding the party involved and confirming it… I-Is it difficult?”

“…”

You mean the girl who dropped out.

“If we’re filming now, there’s no time or chance to find it… If I drop out, I don’t know.”

…The more I spoke, the clearer the situation became.

It seemed that the survival rate was higher if I dropped out, turned off the urgent fire, and figured out the situation accurately.

“…D-Don’t.”

“What?”

“D-Don’t quit, l-let’s wait a l-little bit.”

Chapter 57

“Waiting for what?”

I sighed.

Considering that he had said with determination not to drop out and wait, Seon Ahyeon looked like was about to cry at any moment

Anyone who saw it would know that I was dropping out.

Conversely, my brain was getting colder.

‘There is a common saying… It is not something that can be solved by standing around.’

If I were an idol who already debuted, I might have the option of waiting while doing a self-reflection.

However, it was an impossible approach for an audition participant with the final just right around the corner.

Seeing a guy who people thought didn’t deserve to be successful at the audition was still holding on only added to the resentment.

It wasn’t just an audition, it was more of a suicide in this program, which was cable but currently had over 10% viewer ratings and dominated real-time search terms.

‘If I am going to fall out of the final anyway, the next best thing is to resign quickly and figure out the situation.’

For now, let’s pretend I don’t know anything with vague words like ‘health problems’.

That would have the least damage. If it was truly an unfair case as Park Moondae thought, explaining it would be easy.

And if I found out it was really this bastard's fault… Go to the party involved and apologize…

Damn it, that girl even dropped out, there was no way she would let Park Moondae be active.

But there was no other way.

"If there is no evidence that it is not Park Moondae, waiting will only make the situation worse."

"B-But… S-Sejin, too."

"At that time, I found out it was photoshopped right away. I also had a smartphone."

"…"

It was rare to be so lucky.

Seon Ahyeon bowed his head.

A brief silence fell again at the dorm. It was then.

"…Are you there?"

Once again, someone knocked on the door of the dorm.

"…"

"Yes."

After hearing Keun Sejin's short answer, the door opened. Kim Raebin came in.

And after that, Cha Eugene followed suit.

I didn't know why he followed to someone else's dorm, but if he came on purpose, he was a really tactless guy.

Kim Raebin immediately noticed that the atmosphere in the room was quite trashy.

"…Personal practice, it's now over…"

"…"

The two of them must have missed practice.

They didn't help much, but honestly… I was thankful.

I squeezed out my last patience.

"Go and practice."

"…! N-No…"

"There are only a few days left, so don't regret it."

"…What about you?"

I answered calmly.

"I need to consult about dropping out."

"…!!"

"N-No…"

Lastly, I would check the public opinion one more time, and If it went as expected, I would have to make up a reason for dropping out.

"Yes? Hyung, why all of a sudden…"

Kim Raebin was taken aback. It seemed this unsociable fellow still hadn't heard the rumor.

'I'm tired.'

I didn't want to talk about anything else. They'd heard it all by tomorrow anyway.

I just passed Kim Rabin and headed for the door. I was thinking of meeting the writer right away.

Then, my shoulders were grabbed from both sides.

"Come on, Moondae. Take a rest first then get up and think about it."

"T-That's right. F-First of all… R-Rest. Rest your head."

As the two clung to me, I was momentarily pushed back in hand-to-hand combat.

Thanks to this, I was dragged back to bed like a dog being subdued. Are these bastards crazy?

"Are you crazy?"

"Pull yourself together. It hasn't even been 30 minutes since I confirmed your outburst. You're going to throw away your months of hard work in 30 minutes?"

"The longer I wait, the worse the situation gets…"

"Even if you drop out now, the article won't come out until tomorrow morning. It doesn't change even if you're in bed."

Keun Sejin and Seon Ahyeon drove me back to bed.

"You have to decide everything with a clear mind so that you won't regret it! Do you know that you're losing it right now because you're scared?"

“What?”

I tried to get myself out of bed and stopped. What kind of nonsense are you saying now?

“I am sane.”

“Hn. No. You’re flustered and frightened right now.”

Keun Sejin added a little.

“…I was the same before.”

“…”

“Or you would have known before I told you. There’s no difference whether you drop out now or tomorrow morning.”

“…!”

That…

Damn it. He was right. I couldn’t refute it.

‘I’m panicking.’

I sighed. I kept thinking I shouldn’t have abandoned that damn Unmoving Heart.

First of all, I lay down on the bed as these guys pushed me.

I could clearly hear Seon Ahyeon’s relief.

“What on earth is going on…”

“Come on, let’s get out.”

I heard Keun Sejin driving Kim Raebin and Cha Eugene out of the room. Seon Ahyeon followed him and said to me, swallowing his saliva.

“R-Rest.”

Screech.

And the door was closed very carefully.

‘…Even if they go out, their beds are here.’

Well, whether they came in awkwardly after three hours or slept in the practice room, they would take care of it themselves. I wasn’t in a situation where I could afford to care that much.

I closed my eyes and crossed my arms.

And I tried to look at Park Moondae’s case objectively… how could I suddenly be able to do that? I would suffer sudden death and real social death.

‘Status window.’

When I called the unchanged status window, only one thing caught my eye.

[!Status abnormality: Debut or die]

“Why are you doing this to me?”

Why me of all people?

Why Park Moondae?

It was grossly annoying that I knew nothing about the situation and had no way to find out.

Of course, I didn’t think I would suddenly think of a good move until morning.

Things were not going to get better all of a sudden.

'It's foolish to wish for good luck.'

Although astonishingly bad things could come into life without warning, the opposite was, of course, extremely rare.

Compare the odds of winning a lottery with the odds of getting into a car accident on the road. The latter was overwhelmingly more likely to happen.

Look at me. A supernatural miracle changed my whole life, but I had never expected that my life was already ruined.

"…Huh."

Damn it. It just made me more anxious. If I was going to do it anyway, I wanted to drop out right away.

'…But let's skip tonight.'

I couldn't expect anything.

I sighed and stretched out my arms, purely out of consideration for those guys' sincerity.

My thoughts turned chaotic. The more I calculated what should be reasonable.

'There's no answer anywhere… '

I fell asleep just like that.

* * *

Pop!

The noise brought me back to my sense.

'…The sound of wood breaking?'

When I turned my eyes half awake, I saw Seon Ahyeon storming through the door.

"M-Moondae."

Seon Ahyeon's face was red.

'Someone else has broken down.'

If someone other than me had broken down, I hoped I could hide away thanks to that.

Seon Ahyeon suddenly shoved something into my face.

It was a smartphone with a screen turned on.

"L-Look at this…!"

The light from the screen stung my eyes. I frowned and grabbed the smartphone.

'Where did you get it?'

Holding an item that shouldn't be brought into the filming set, I read the screen reluctantly.

"…!"

A miracle had happened.

[(2nd place!) Park Moondae, a cast member of Idol Inc who is recently involved in a controversy. (632)]

: I'm still very afraid to write this in public. But I don't want to see innocent people suffer anymore, so I write.

It was true that I dropped out after my sanitary pad was stolen.

But it wasn't Park Moondae who stole the sanitary pad.

…

The article began to explain the situation at the time in great detail.

The writer had continuously been bullied by her bad classmates since the beginning of the semester for no special reason.

The bullying that started with gossip gradually escalated, and in the end, it got to the point where it became unbearable. However, due to family circumstances, she had no choice but to endure it even if it was difficult to cope.

Then her sanitary pad was stolen.

It seemed that they tried to double the fun by putting the blame on Park Moondae who had no close friends in the class.

[I didn't want to live]

It was not specifically mentioned between the lines, but it seemed that this ridicule was sexual harassment. The writer was completely mentally shattered under extreme stress and was absent without notice for 10 days.

And during this period, Park Moondae dropped out.

Although the writer herself was a victim, she tried to contact Park Moondae after dropping out because it bothered her that Park Moondae was falsely accused.

However, it was said that Park Moondae's answer to her apology text was this.

['You didn't do anything wrong, so of course, you don't have to apologize, and it's fine because I was going to drop out anyway. But if you're having a hard time and want to accuse the perpetrators who harassed you, I'll help.' That was his long answer.]

The writer was taking antidepressants at the time and was unable to proceed with the accusation because just going near school made her hyperventilate.

So, she ended the conversation with Park Moondae, but It was said that even after she got away from the incident to some extent, she continued to care and tried to contact him.

However, it turned out his number didn't exist anymore.

'…Park Moondae canceled his cell phone.'

[When I saw Moondae on the audition program, I couldn't recognize him because his style and impression had changed so much. It was only after this controversy that I realized this Park Moondae was my friend.

He was quiet when he was in school, but he wasn't strange or a nuisance. After dropping out, I realized that he was a thoughtful and kind friend.

I hope Moondae doesn't get hurt by this incident]

The writing was based on the recording of the main character in high school against the perpetrators and it ended with an exhilarating sentence that she would proceed with the lawsuit. There were several verification photos attached below.

In the latest comments, people who denied reality were either being beaten up, deleting their comments, or running away.

And switching opinions occupied top comments.

– Crazy, no wonder it felt weird, Moondae looks so clean there's no way he would do such a shady thing ㅠㅠ

– Prepare the settlement money, the self-proclaimed alumni who spread rumors about Park Moondae and the writer without knowing the full story~ ㅎㅎ

– Ah… ㅠㅠThank you for writing this… Thank you so much… Moondae, you worked hard

"…"

I felt nauseous.

'It wasn't Park Moondae.'

The person directly involved even showed up and proved it through verification.

A day after the incident at that.

"…"

"N-Never mind!"

Seon Ahyeon started to talk about something, but it was hard to hear him properly.

Because my head was spinning.

'This… Is it possible?'

I didn't do anything, but the situation suddenly got better?

Can this just be solved like this?

Rather than relief and joy, I felt strange.

It was strange that something like this could happen in life.

I thought I had learned from experience that if my life changed when I hadn't done anything, it usually wasn't a good thing.

I never thought I'd come into someone's body and experience the opposite.

"Hey!!"

The door was kicked open and a stampede of people rushed in. I saw the faces of the team members, starting with Keun Sejin.

'Come to think of it… I am the leader.'

We were not that close so I thought it was strange. Since the leader was in a state of Schrödinger's resignation, they must have felt uncertain to change the practice.

It seemed these guys had been thinking a lot last night.

"Hey! What did I say? I told you to wait, didn't I?"

Keun Sejin looked at Seon Ahyeon and grasped the situation, then shouted loudly. It seemed he already knew everything.

"…Right."

I meekly agreed.

"Thank you."

"…!"

If it weren't for these guys, I would have already quit last night, taken out my luggage, and regretted it in the morning.

"Thanks to you, I can continue with the broadcast."

I laughed.

Seon Ahyeon was happy, repeating 'No' and 'I am glad'. Keun Sejin grinned.

“If you’re grateful, buy me a cow.”

“…Let’s pretend this never happened.”

“Hey!”

I didn’t have money.

Only then I was relieved, listening to Keun Sejin’s grumbling and congratulatory words of the team members.

‘Now I can practice quietly until the final.’

“Thank you for bringing this. How did you get it?”

“I-I asked for it!”

Seon Ahyeon took his phone with a bright smile. Now I hope I didn’t see anything until the finals.

But I didn’t know things would start to turn out even stranger the moment I took my eyes off the smartphone.

The first flame was posted by Gold 1.

Chapter 58

On the Internet, rumors of Park Moondae were quickly corrected.

Thanks to the explanation of the person directly involved, few people unnecessarily criticized it.

However, only the persistent sarcasm of the haters, who were unable to take out their anger on ‘Park Moondae who deserved getting cursed’, remained.

-I don’t know if the impression has changed, but it looks like he got plastic surgery, blargh, the delusional loser acted as if he had become something ㅋㅋ Fantastic ass-kicking ㅎㅎ

– On the show, he pretended to be tough and acted ‘my way’ but he’s just a loser. That or being the thief of the sanitary pad isn’t at all a lie?

– Yes, it doesn’t change the fact that Park Moondae is a dropout. I don’t suck adults who can’t even graduate from high school✋

After all, the final was just right around the corner, and fans were enraged to see people rushing to damage his image in any way possible.

– It’s the end of humanity…

– Moondae doesn’t do anything wrong, so why do psychopaths keep sticking around?

– He has to debut no matter what… I don’t think I can live if Moondae can’t debut, it’s so unfair

-I’m getting all the PDFs. I’m just waiting for Moondae’s agency to be established

It was at this time that Gold 1's, Ha Iljoon's article was posted.

As soon as Ha Iljoon was eliminated, he opened an SNS and posted his impression of participating in the program and his practice diary.

[The final round is coming up! I will watch it live too!]

+) I'm rooting for October 31's hyungs and dongsaengs. Especially #Moondae! During the grade evaluation, he practiced without sleeping for a week, so he was a legend among us👍 Fighting!

#IdolInc. #WatchLive #HaIljoon #Traveler

After seeing Moondae recovering from being beaten up, Ha Iljoon mentioned him partly because he felt sorry and partly to make it hot news, but the content was the problem.

No one knew that Park Moondae stayed up all night during the grade evaluation.

At the same time, because Park Moondae was mentioned a lot on the internet, this SNS post turned into a great aggro.

– Go to sleep for real;;;;

– He must be crazy, a week my ass…

– He must be exaggerating

– ㅇㅇ I didn't sleep properly and worked hard~ isn't that what it is?

– He said it was a legend among trainees ㅋㅋ Do you have to exaggerate like that?

In the end, Ha Iljoon replied to various questions on SNS.

– I'm always rooting for you, Ha Iljoon! About the participant Park Moondae you mentioned, did he really not sleep for a week?

Ha Iljoon: Yes! We were in the same room. Moondae always came in briefly at night, ate snacks, and left~ I think he started sleeping right before the grade evaluation? He's taking care of his condition ㅋㅋ

And Park Moondae's fans fell into a state of shock.

– Our child is that serious?

– Hey what should I do… I thought Moondae's skills were improving because he was a genius ㅠㅠ But he didn't sleep? Why didn't it come out on the show?

– In his portions, they always gave him characters like, 'Why are you good at this when you only came out for fun?' ㅋㅋㅋ Sigh…

– If you think about it, it is impossible for a person without passion to come up with an idea every time and grow

– I would have clenched my teeth ah ㅠㅠ I'm really glad I know now, thank you, Iljoon ㅠㅠ

After the shock disappeared, each community burned with a sense of mission to make Park Moondae debut. Many fans posted sales articles and became more enthusiastic about promoting stocks.

And some fans had begun to look into third-party accusations against the haters through their own lawyers.

– I can't stand it anymore.

– Let's set the mood by posting that we're going to file a complaint!

Originally, no matter how fast they progressed, they couldn't produce results in the final, so they would start once the agency was formed, but some fans who were on fire couldn't stand the bullshit about Park Moondae any longer.

So starting with the purpose of warning the haters, they discovered something unexpected.

– What's this?

While identifying the haters, they found their group chat.

And it was revealed that some of them broke into Park Moondae's house.

They were taken to the police without particular results but were soon released, and there was only one thing they could take in the process.

It was a draft of Park Moondae's resident registration.

Of course, Park Moondae had already cut up the draft and put it in the recycling box.

He would never have dreamed that crazy people would break into his apartment and pick up the shredded rough draft even if they had to search through the trash can.

Based on the draft, they dug up the fact that Moondae was a dropout along with the school he attended and posted it on the Internet.

The fact that Moondae was an orphan was not disclosed 'because there's room for sympathy', but in their group chat, there were a lot of insults that made fun of it.

– These crazy things are real…

– How can people live like this?

Fans who were proceeding with the accusation were angry, but naturally, they tried to proceed quietly without disclosing this fact.

But, as was always the case when the majority dealt with this sort of thing, it leaked.

[(No.1!) Orphan Park Moondae (1373)]

: It is said that sasaengs broke into Park Moondae's apartment and found a draft of his resident registration. Both parents are dead. No siblings.

[Screenshooted photo of the group chat] [Photo of the taped draft]

Of course, there were many people who criticized the post, but the number of views did not lie.

Shortly thereafter, articles began to appear.

[Participant of <Idol Inc.> Park Moondae overcame the sadness of losing his family and challenged the audition.]

Although the articles were taken down a few hours later after facing enormous criticism, it couldn't help what was already known.

But this led to an unexpected effect.

Anyone who insulted Park Moondae right now would become trash.

In addition, the tragic past of audition participants had become a natural selling point for those who were sensitive.

– How could it have been easy for a young person to take on such a challenge when his parents were gone? Park Moondae, I hope you do your best and win

– It's so touching how he can look so determined on the show, even his parents in heaven would be proud – Participant Park Moondae, cheer up~ㅠㅠ You're such a good singer, fighting!

Of course, just like every other information, when this atmosphere calmed down, the fact that Park Moondae was an orphan could be used as a tool of ridicule.

But not now.

Thanks to this, Park Moondae faced the final match while receiving enormous support and sympathy from public opinion. It was thanks to the fact that he got the 'desperate image and narrative' that he wanted.

* * *

What's going on here?

On the Internet, which I looked into for the first time in a long time, crazy things were happening one after another.

'It's all exposed.'

The four trespassers seemed to be out of their minds, but I didn't know they'd go through the trash can and put the torn paper together.

And I never thought it would be leaked and made the entire nation know that I was an orphan.

I was curious about why things turned out like this, but more than that, I felt cool-headed.

'Well… I don't have a family. I don't care if others know.'

I already said this when I was cast for the audition program, but it was known too late because the production team hadn't even mentioned it.

The problem was that the timing when this was revealed was intertwined and the momentum was unusual.

'I'm going to debut…?'

No, not just debuting… Can I become number 1?

"…"

This… wasn't good. Debut was good, but not in first place.

‘There are landmines there.’

I let go of the computer first, feeling like I was breaking into cold sweats.

I borrowed it as an excuse to edit stage lyrics and searched it up. but I didn’t expect to find out so much.

“Hyung, are you okay?”

Kim Raebin, who was browsing next to me, grasped the situation and asked. I guess he was fine with me turning out to be an orphan.

“Yeah. I already said it in the interview, but it didn’t come out.”

I nodded. Kim Raebin looked relieved. then his eyes flashed as if he suddenly thought of an idea.

“Hyung, then why don’t you use this momentum to reveal your memory loss?”

“What?”

This guy also heard the situation on the morning when the affair was being sorted out, so he knew about the memory loss. But apart from that, what kind of nonsense is that?

“If it’s revealed to the current public opinion, malicious comments about hyung will be blocked at its roots! And obviously, the votes will increase…”

“No.”

“Yes?”

If I got more votes and won first place, I would receive a minefield as a prize.

I couldn’t say that, so I just made an excuse.

“There’s no evidence. It’ll only make the atmosphere weird.”

“Ah, if you post the written diagnosis…”

“I don’t have something like that.”

“…You lost your memory, but you didn’t go to the hospital…?”

“My body is fine, and I don’t have money for that.”

Crack. With a face that turned into stone, Kim Raebin murmured quietly.

“Yes…”

It’s fine if you know.

Kim Raebin and I came out of the computer room. The camera immediately followed.

“Did you find the words properly?”

“Yeah, it’s the right meaning.”

Small applause erupted in the practice room when I said that there was no correction.Even though they clearly knew that I went there for the purpose of secretly looking into the Internet, they acted like that because they were mindful of the broadcasting.

“Now, tomorrow is the final… Leader-nim, can you say something?”

“Ooh!”

“Let’s take turns.”

I hurriedly interrupted. The giggling team members cleared their throats and started talking about their own impressions.

They looked happy.

Gold 2, who was almost eliminated, unexpectedly hadn't given up. Perhaps the fact that the number of debuts hadn't been announced yet gave him hope.

There was only one person on the team who looked sullen.

'Lee Sejin.'

Lee Sejin, the former child actor.

He followed along with the practice, but the reaction and the portion of the broadcast were not good.

Still, he didn't protest much in the team practice. He was just not very sociable and looked like he didn't want to do this.

'If wish I could get someone else.'

Because it looked like I was going to debut, I sat down measuring who I was going to debut with. I sighed and threw away my thoughts.

'Let's just take care of myself.'

"Hn! Lastly, Leader Park Moondae hyung-nim~ Please say something."

"…Let's show everything we've prepared so that we won't have any regrets."

"Oh~"

They responded well to the last comment even though it was a cliche remark. I shrugged and sat on the floor of the practice room.

Unexpectedly, the tension went up.

'It will be over tomorrow.'

A nearly guaranteed chance to delete the status anomaly.

“Then, let’s practice again!”

The final was just around the corner.

* * *

The last filming of <Re-listed! Idol Inc.> was held at the concert hall of a famous university.

Since it was broadcasted live, the hall, which accommodated nearly 3,000 spectators to boost the excitement, was already filled with sticky heat.

Thousands of people were waiting for the broadcast to begin, each holding a sign or a slogan for the participants they were rooting for.

MCs and judges entered one after another and settled down. In response to the cheers from the audience, several judges gave light greetings in return.

And at the time of the broadcast.

The broadcast started without delay.

“<Re-listed! Inc.!> Thank you to everyone who has been with us on the long journey of the last 12 episodes!”

In the huge concert hall where the lights were turned off, Youngrin’s voice rang everywhere

“What’s left is one decision to form a group! Shareholders, have you made up your mind?”

Screams of ‘Yes!’ echoed here and there. And it was mixed with painful ‘no’.

“Then let me introduce the participants… Do you have their stocks?”

Kyaaa!!

Aaagh!!!

Lights came on on the stage with overflowing cheers and screams.

In the midst of the lights soaring in all directions, participants ride on stage equipment to come up on the stage.

“Invest now!”

That was how episode 13 began.

Chapter 59

The participants' first stage was a new theme song.

Since the season was endlessly successful, a second theme song was put in hastily to match the assortment.

'I think I've heard it somewhere before.'

Park Moondae hoped that it was because he had heard this song in the future. Or else it would be plagiarism.

In any case, the audience's response was tremendous even though they didn't know the song. It was fun just to see the participants moving in real life.

Of course, the reaction of viewers watching on the screen was different.

– ? What song is it

– Why do you sing <Just Me>? You got a weird one

– Guys, let's debut ㅠㅠ

– Whatever the song is, Seon Ahyeon is great, it's an undeniable fact

– Eugene, be the center forever

– I'm so nervous that my heart feels like it's going to jump out ㅠㅠ

– Let's debut and be happier

Comments calling out the participants and cheering for them quickly passed by, flipped through, and updated so fast that it was almost unreadable.

“Huft.”

“I’m sweating.”

The participants who came down from the stage in front of thousands of people for the first time were excited and out of breath.

‘I don’t even know what I did.’

Park Moondae, who focused all his attention on not making mistakes because he learned it in a hurry at the last minute, twitched his eyebrows.

There seemed to be a lot of people, but they almost looked like a hologram due to the distance from the stage. Because it didn’t feel real.

And before the participants could come to their senses and the tension settle in their bodies, they were busy running around changing their costumes to match the time.

In the meantime, an MC appeared on the stage and led the show.

“Ah, what a great first stage!”

Since it was a live broadcast that would last over 3 hours, each part was hosted by a different person to reduce fatigue as much as possible.

“There are still many stages left to prepare! Guys, please stay tuned!”

The MC, who had hosted several audition programs, skillfully ad-libbed and dragged the time until the VCR came up.

“The team stage prepared by the participants for this final, in what order was it decided?”

Soon, a light-hearted video of the participants deciding the order through a mini-game was shown.

‘I couldn’t sleep because they filmed it at midnight.’

Park Moondae, who heard the sound from below the stage, recalled the situation at that time.

They chose primitive methods similar to cockfighting, so naturally, Ryu Chungwoo won a complete victory.

‘Should I say it’s a predestined outcome?’

What was surprising was that Seon Ahyeon made a good save. Thanks to him remaining right before Ryu Chungwoo, Park Moondae’s team secured the second priority on deciding the order.

Of course, it was not easy to choose the remaining order. The production team put the order from the last place and decided it like that.

It was a method that always appeared when survival shows wanted to be a little cruel.

Of course, the participants who were already forsaken skillfully escaped the trap. They reacted exaggeratedly and laughed, adjusting the atmosphere.

[Park Chanjoo: H-Huh?]

[Lee Sejin (Keun) : Aigoo~]

Park Moondae heard the sound of Keun Sejin deciding the order with a laugh echoed from above.

Thanks to it being decided at the last minute, he could also hear people on the other teams making strange noises about the unwanted orders.

“Wow, that’s scary.”

Just in time, Keun Sejin, who was moving the microphone to his costume next to Park Moondae, heard the sound and stuck out his tongue.

Although he was on the rise, it was not at the level of having his debut confirmed, so he was more nervous before the team match stage.

Keun Sejin’s hands were shaking, which was rare. Park Moondae clicked his tongue.

“I heard Kim Raebin has cheongshimhwan.”

(TL note: cheongshimhwan is a pill formulated with thirty-odd herbs including bezoars, ginseng, and Chinese yam root, used to treat various symptoms such as numb limbs and fit of apoplexy, epilepsy, etc. in traditional Korean medicine. Sumber: Wiki.)

“It’s fine~ I’ve never eaten it before.”

Keun Sejin waved it off and behind him, other team members dressed in their costumes ran.

“Team Park is going up~”

The staff shouted and ran to the side. Due to the need for staff both above and below the stage, the number was insufficient and gaps were created here and there.

“We’re going too, right?”

The moment the participants tried to follow suit, Seon Ahyeon raised his hand.

“W-Wait, F-Fighting… Can’t we do it?”

“Shall we?”

Park Moondae quietly held out his hand.

The team members quickly put their hands on it. Lee Sejin also reluctantly held out his hand.

“Fighting!”

The broadcast-free drill ended shortly.

“I want to say something, but we don’t have time, so let’s run~”

Laughing at Keun Sejin’s antics, the team members ran hard to the hallway.

And at the same time, in the concert hall.

After the VCR ended without showing the final sequence, The MC finally led the way to the next stage.

“We introduce the first team performance that was decided after a fierce battle…”

Instead of the VCR, the participants’ profiles appeared on the screen.

[Seon Ahyeon (2), Kim Raebin (5), Park Moondae (6), Lee Sejin B (7), Lee Sejin A (11), Kwon Heeseung (18)]

“Team ＜Challenger＞ is the first to take the stage!”

The profile disappeared, and the image of the participants high-fiving their team name attached to number 1 appeared on the screen.

– ???

– What, why are you already coming out

– Guys? Guys?

– Guys, why the opening ㅠㅠ

Fans who were confused thinking of the general competition program soon realized the situation.

– Fools, it's better to be sent out first.

They didn't wait until the performance was over to vote, they were already voting, so it was unconditionally advantageous to go first.

That is, only if you're confident you'll do well!

In an instant, audience reactions changed.

– That's right. Coming out early is the answer

– Ah ㅋㅋ I already knew it, you guys didn't know?

– Kya, they're smart

– The kids are smart, I guess I'll just have to trust them^^

– I already believe in them!

Besides, squashing the start was a fairly courageous choice anyway.

People watched the stage preparation process with high expectations.

[Team members: Thank you for the food~]

Participants sitting inside the PPL franchise cafe and talking over drinks were first broadcasted.

– Moondae took a strawberry shake… I want to nom-nom his cheeks, so cute

Reported. (Reason: Perversion)

That's too much, It was Moondae who did wrongㅠㅠ

I got the PPT, please reveal yourself

Crazy peopleㅋㅋㅋㅋ

The tension in the comments was also eased briefly on the screen without tension.

Participants were talking softly in the video.

[Park Moondae: First of all, is there a concept you want to do?]

[Kwon Heeseung: That! I want to do something I haven't done before!]

[Lee Sejin (Keun): Me too!]

[Seon Ahyeon: Me too!]

[Park Moondae: Um… Okay.]

A caption ＜Teacher Park of Rabbit class＞ passed by.

-ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– The kids are all gentle, so it's comfortable to watch

What about Lee Sejin?ㅋ Lee Sejin?ㅋ Lee Sejin?ㅋ Lee Sejin?ㅋ

Don't start with the martyr, he sent Choi Wongil away

Don't go there, you hypocrite bastardㅋㅋ

-The problem is that the children are gentle, but the viewers are not

Of course, the reason why they looked more gentle on screen was because they were filming again for PPL after the concept had already been decided.

[Kim Raebin: I would like a concept that goes well with the title <Final>.]

[Lee Sejin (Keun): Wow, that's good, too!]

[Lee Sejin (Actor): So what kind of concept would suit it?]

After that, there was a moment of silence. The caption <Team members lost in thought> came out.

It was Park Moondae who broke the silence.

[Park Moondae: Among the images of 'last', 'the last minute'…How about bringing out that feeling?]

[Lee Sejin (Keun): Ah, there's only one left. That kind of feeling?]

[Park Moondae: Hn, but not too heavy. It's better if the viewers can enjoy it without being too into it.]

Then Seon Ahyeon raised his hand. By the way, Seon Ahyeon's stuttering symptoms finally stopped being implemented in the subtitles after the production team got cursed at for several episodes.

[Seon Ahyeon: Then… How about something like '■■'?]

Exclamation marks appeared on the participants' heads on the screen.

[Kim Raebin: I want to do it…!]

[Lee Sejin (Keun): Oh, me too! I think it's going to be fun.]

[Kwon Heeseung: That sounds good?]

Even Lee Sejin, who nodded, appeared on the show.

[Park Moondae: Then our theme is… '■■', it is.]

Wow! The screen was switched to the smiling faces of the participants who clapped their hands with exclamations.

And the theme keyword was never mentioned again.

There were only a few cuts of the participants practicing and being praised while recording in the video.

[Eagle (Composer): Your voice is great!]

[Seon Ahyeon: Thank you…]

Seon Ahyeon's ears turned red, and he bowed down and went back to his seat in a daze; Park Moondae's part after his turn was given an okay at once.

The composers smiled at each other and asked Park Moondae.

[Eagle (Composer): Can you sing it again from beginning to end?]

[Park Moondae: Yes, I'll try.]

Of course, it didn't show him singing it again from the beginning, and interview cuts with composers were inserted.

[Eagle (Composer): I love them all. This team is really good. The arrangement of the song also feels like, 'Oh~ It's good?']

[Eagle (Composer): There is almost nothing to fix. If they just do it like this (I think they will do well.)]

And it was also crossed with heartwarming recording scenes of other team members.

Because it was the final, no strange cuts were forced on them, so there was no malice in the editing.

However, it was impossible to guess the theme because only the non-characteristic parts of the lyrics were extracted as if they were ghosts.

Thanks to this, viewers were rolling around wondering about the word that was processed as 'Beep–'.

– What is it

– What is it let me know

– Show me what you showed them…!

– Ugh, I'm curious. I need to see the stage ㅠㅠ

– What kind of innovative suggestion did they come up with that it had to be edited out?

– I think they cut it to hide the amount of preparation for the stage. I'm getting mad

– It would be funny if it turned out to be nothing ㅋㅋ

While the viewers were talking, the <Challenger> team, who had decided on the main dancer without much conflict, practiced the choreography endlessly, and the VCR was quickly over.

Along with the phrase <Please check out their performance now!>.

– ?

– Is that it?

– The stage just starts like this?

– The stage is coming out

When the viewers were a little flustered by the screen that ended blandly, the main screen that had returned to the concert hall was capturing the backstage screen.

The black screen crackled, blue and red glitches popped out, and white text appeared.

[Challenger]

: A challenger

: A person who tries to beat a former winner in a game, fight, or sports event.

After a while, the screen went off with a sharp mechanical sound.

And the theme melody of the song began to fill the concert hall.

Transformed to 8-bit.

Beep- beep- beep- ting!

The blatant electronic sound started as a melody and gradually developed into harmony.

Just like how the classic game evolved into a modern console game, the melody quickly became three-dimensional.

And the moment the theme melody turned around, the backstage screen opened.

Swoosh!

Participants walked out of the black stage with blue and red lasers.

As they settled down, the 8-bit melody changed and faded into a small accompaniment.

"…"

The audience also reflexively stopped cheering and kept their mouths shut.

The figures on the stage slowly formed a formation.

Chapter 60

Over the dark silhouettes of the participants on stage, the audience caught a glimpse of some features of modern combat uniforms.

It was the outline of a bulletproof vest or harness.

'Gasp.'

The moment excited audiences screamed inside, a sudden electronic sound rang in the concert hall again.

It was a modulated, androgynous voice.

[Looking for a match…]

[Successful navigation.]

[Checking the location.]

[Thirteenth round. We're going in…]

All kinds of classical game buttons made up a new melody to match the voice.

BBi BBi- Ding dong! BBibibibibiBBi, BBi, BBi———!

Participants on the stage moved their bodies to match the sound.

The unnatural popping movement reminded them of some kind of doll or robot.

And it froze in an instant.

Thump.

When the comfort stopped at the end of the short motion, the lights turned on.

– Hold it in your hand, VICTORY

I am the one who makes it come true

A clean human voice broke through the modulated accompaniment.

Seon Ahyeon, who made a typical shot pose under the light, smiled at the end of the verse.

“Aagh!!”

In an instant, a burst of cheers filled the concert hall.

The participants began to move brilliantly as if they were responding to the shouts.

– Stages are always thrilling

I feel like my heart will explode

Kwon Heeseung sang after receiving a verse from Keun Sejin who appeared sweeping the floor.

– My WEAPON in my hand

I never miss it, you know

Every time the vocalist hit the center, complex movements were added in between, and the rigid movements similar to classical game characters disappeared.

Due to the synergy with the costume, it felt like choosing a character to play in the character window of the recent games.

– Full of adrenaline

The soaring POWER flew away

Last SHOT!

– Drink in your excitement

I shuddered and lost my senses

Last ROUND!

The voice of Kim Raebin, who was rarely in charge of vocals, jumped over the microphone.

The choreography, in which the dancers shoot in a slightly unique way by pulling their arms in formation, was structured as if they were made to follow the dance.

And the chorus.

Park Moondae took the high note on a rising scale.

– Shoot and blow Last Match-!

I'm the one who laughs at the highlights

The VICTORY you held!

I gave it to you. You'll like it, too

And the beat, which had risen like crazy after the chorus, was temporarily dropped.

Boom!

The theme melody flowed again in the heavy-sounding bass.

On stage, they began to stamp their feet in a triangular formation.

– Hold it in your hand, VICTORY

I am the one who makes it come true

CHALLENGER that you can choose

I'm right here, it's me

The choreography that matched the heavy beat was laid out on the stage by powerfully moving the bodies.

The strength and weakness were distinguished enough to feel strange pressure in each movement of the body.

Every time they shook their heads and set angles, the audience watched the stage with their mouths open.

It was the same for viewers.

The comment window stopped for a while when the stage began and eventually was plastered with short words such as 'crazy' 'ㅓㅓ' and 'wow'.

Despite the horrible camera work, the quality of the stage was palpable.

And as they entered the second verse, a new formation appeared.

– Yes the expectations are always so blissful

My heart is about to stop

The figures on the stage moved to their own parts first, forming a formation each on their own and moving as if they were leading other team members.

It was brutally difficult to do it live, but it looked fantastic.

In the bridge, after Kim Raebin exchanged short but elaborate raps with Lee Sejin's vocals, the chorus appeared again.

Bang!

Here again, the iconic shooting choreography appeared to prevent possible fatigue.

And again, the drop that brought out the demo version of the melody and tone that viewers had heard every time on the show.

– Hold it in your hand, VICTORY

I am the one who makes it come true

– CHALLENGER you can choose

I'm right here, it's me

This time, Seon Ahyeon came forward and danced the choreography. Flashy footwork went back and forth on the heavy beat.

Overall, this carefully composed stage increased concentration by pleasing the ears and the eyes.

Thanks to this, when the stage was over, the viewers were plastered with question marks, saying that it was over so quickly.

[Take this crown.]

[You're welcome!]

The end of the stage. With a narration similar to the electronic sound at the beginning, the participants who stretched and bent their necks walked toward the backstage waving their hands.

The eight-beat melody sounded as if it would break.

BBi- BBi- BBibibibibiBBi, BBi———-!

Lights burst out from behind the stage, and their silhouettes slowly faded away.

Usually, choreography ended with a pose. This composition was similar to having an adventure.

But thanks to this unusual ending, they were like characters who had fun playing a game and then disappeared on stage.

“Uaaaah!”

The viewers were very excited.

After a little bit of time had passed, it wasn’t until the end of the inserted mid- that coherent comments began to appear.

-ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– These cruel guys, this is the first time I’ve heard of this – They hit me in the opening like this?

– It reminded me of when I watched the Rabbit, but it was postponed in the broadcastㅋㅋ

– No kidding, it’s going to be hard to beat

– Wow, that was really fuc*ing cool, my jaw almost dropped

– My gums are all dry from splitting my mouth open

– It was a game conceptㅋㅋ Park Moondae and Seon Ahyeon are smart

– Honestly, don’t you think it was the best idol Inc. performance ever?

– I’m tearing up. Seon Ahyeon is already an idol, there is no objection to this. Don’t be late, everyone, buy the stocks

Go to the fan site~

It's the last time, so just let's watch it. Seon Ahyeon will debut anyway ㅋㅋㅋ

– First of all, I think four members of this team will debut; what about the next team…

And as viewers expected, the stage of the next team was flat.

The main portion of this team, which was composed of relatively low ranks, was about competing in good faith and strengthening teamwork.

And like the previous team, this team also tried to take advantage of the keyword 'Final'.

However, the lyrics and choreography, which focused on effort, passion, and urgency, lacked sophistication and became burdensome.

This comparison was more prominent because the previous team mixed humor and fantasy to form the stage.

– You're working hard

– They catch my eyes

– Boring

– I think everyone is cute and nice~

The stage of the second team ended with a rather dull response.

And in this loose atmosphere, the stage of the last team was revealed.

The preparation process was equally mediocre, but it added a bit more to Ryu Chungwoo's overcoming his slump.

In reality, it wasn't known whether he had overcome his slump.

However, in the broadcast, he received the role of leader that he had been refusing to do in the middle, and it came out as if he performed excellently.

– Hn, I understand, you want to take a video of Ryu Chungwoo?

– Yeah, I don't want to miss the military exemption ㅋㅋ

– Ryu Chungwoo is okay, but it's a bit bad

– Muggles' votes will be swept away~

The reaction from the hardcore viewers was rather lukewarm. Because it wasn't just a couple of days that Ryu Chungwoo got good portions.

Park Moondae didn't know what kind of swearing Ryu Chungwoo would have gotten if he wasn't a former national athlete, but in any case, nothing that crossed the line happened.

And the stage.

– Cha Eugene is going crazy.

– He can't be stopped!

– The master of the stage! Its incarnation!

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋOnly ad-lib comes out

– The bastard is good

– Hm, is he going to win first place

Cha Eugene tore up the stage again.

In fact, since he was the type of person who didn't care much about the combination with others, it happened not because his presence made other people's part look good.

The stage just looked great because Cha Eugene was shining.

It could be seen as a talent optimized for solo or competition programs.

The viewers chatted happily.

– Ah, it was fun.

– It was fun because the first and the last performance were good

– What's left now?

Youngrin, who was in charge of hosting again, had an important announcement left.

"How was the <Final> team match prepared by the participants? Yes. It seems you enjoyed watching it… Now, then, it's time for the big announcement."

Youngrin pointed to the screen with her hand.

"Right away, we're announcing the number of the debut members!"

* * *

After finishing the stage, the participants came downstairs to prepare for the final stage.

A pop-up of successful stages came up for the first time in a long time, but of course, I wasn't in a situation to look into it.

Because you never know when your face will be broadcast live.

In case there was any announcement on stage, there were cameras following each team participant to capture their reaction.

And just in time, they were announcing the number of people from above.

“How many is it do you think?”

“You?”

“I… ten people?”

Keun Sejin shrugged. The answer seemed to be slightly mixed with hope. Kim Raebin, who had just finished getting his makeup fixed next to him, intervened seriously.

“I think it will be an odd number. Usually, considering the formation of an idol group, people tend to prefer odd numbers.”

“It makes sense.”

That… It wasn’t like that.

I clicked my tongue inwardly and turned my head. Seon Ayeon, who had just finished praying, met my gaze.

“How many do you think there are?”

“W-Well… M-Maybe… 7 people?”

“Seven?”

“Isn’t that too little?”

People around me apparently overheard it, so they interrupted and scolded him. It seemed they did that because they were nervous, although they pretended they weren’t.

Seon Ahyeon shrank but didn’t withdraw his opinion.

‘His personality has changed.’

I shrugged my shoulders.

“I think 7 people are the most likely. I wish there are more people.”

“Y-Yes!”

Seon Ahyeon nodded.

As I heard Cha Eugene muttering something like ‘I like even numbers’ next to me, the screams of the audience above echoed all the way down.

“What’s going on?”

It sounded almost like a vibration.

While the participants were confused, Youngrin’s voice on the microphone was heard loudly down here.

“This time, <Re-listed! Idol Inc.> The average number of people to debut selected by the shareholders. is… There are 6.47 people!”

The participants turned stiff.

“As a result of correcting the number through rounding… The final number of debut members is 6!”

And again, the place above became noisy with screams and curses.

“What did she just say?”

“6.4…, what?”

Behind the bewildered voices of the participants, I sighed.

‘This is the last episode’s aggro.’

The number of debuting members selected by people had been completely averaged and discarded.

The number of members who would debut could only be voted once and could not be modified.

Thanks to this, at the beginning of the program's success, people voted for 'the number of ideal idol group members in the mind' without thinking.

By a narrow margin, five people were the most chosen.

However, the series was a huge success, and this was the result of the production team's cheap tearful show to increase the number of people.

In the Internet community where the scale was large but aggressive tendencies were gathered, even the case of terrorizing one person as a joke was included in the sample,

-If you're going to do it in an idiotic way like this, you should have said it a long time ago ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– 6.47 so 6 people? 6 people? You guys are crazy ㅋㅋㅋ

I shook my head, recalling the predictable response on the Internet.

'Let's prepare our hearts.'

Now that the final stage was over, it was the final ranking announcement ceremony.

Chapter 61

As predicted by Park Moondae, everyone, from viewers to the audience, fell into a state of confusion as a result of the new concept of ‘6.47 people on average’.

Some audience members even posted messages on their SNS with their smartphones.

– People booed and the atmosphere suddenly turned cold. Idol Inc is really amazing until the end

– Where did you get the crazy idea of averaging it?

– Rather, just keep it neat and make it 5 people. 6.47 people ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Why did the production crew abandon the 0.47? Let’s accept the 7th place as a guest member

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋthis, tbh

However, after the turmoil passed, the response was surprisingly not blindly negative.

It was because they could tell that the production team was working hard, so they became somewhat solemn.

– Well, they didn’t fabricate it.

– The production team would have wanted to make it 9 members.

– Those guys are conscientious in weird places… Even if they pull aggro, they don’t manipulate…

– Yes, if I have to choose between 5 and 6, then it’s 6

People managed to accept the situation. Of course, there were still a lot of people crying, saying that the number was too small.

– You should've blocked one vote for each person in the first place, Idol Inc bastardsㅠㅠ

And around that time, a new VCR began to come out as if it were timed.

[Hello?]

[Yay!]

It was a video of participants in pastel linen outfits waving and laughing at the camera.

They were walking among dark constructions. Light shimmered through the constructions.

In an instant, the atmosphere on the hall and on the Internet subsided.

– What's this?

– When did you take it

– What video is it?

Participants grabbed the camera and took turns saying how they felt about the last broadcast. And ran somewhere.

[Thank you for always supporting us!]

[I love you~]

Because it looked like a typical touching VCR, viewers responded courteously. Audiences watching the VCR also cheered whenever the participants they were rooting for came out.

And the last participant left was Park Moondae.

Park Moondae awkwardly looked at the camera and just smiled.

[Thank you. I will definitely debut.]

It was an unequivocal statement.

Park Moondae also ran out of the camera screen and disappeared after leaving those short words.

Of course, in the communities filled with Park Moondae's fans, comments flooded.

– ㅠㅠㅠAigoo Moondae…

– Moondae has to debut

– Invest in Moondae who is well-prepared with both mental and technical skills… If you vote today, you can invest 100 won for 5 years…

– The one with dead parents, is it really him?

ㄴㅇㅇIt's him

Hii, Your Honor, I didn't say anything

Aside from his family history, he's great at everything, just try one bite

ㄴㅋㅋActually, I already voted, he was really good

Oh thanks

In order to attract more votes, fans continued to operate the business, enduring their anger at people who reacted by bringing up family matters.

In the meantime, all the participants had disappeared, and on the empty black screen, the acoustic version of <Just Me> grew dimly in the background.

Viewers were caught in a strange afterglow.

– It feels like it's really the end

– It has a proper ending vibe

– It seems more so because of the BGM

– Can't all 20 of them debut ㅠㅠ

– Wouldn't it be worth trying with 20 people? The production team should make a re-voting for the number of debut members

And the angle of the video was turned.

It showed the direction the participants ran to.

Following the rotating camera, participants were seen climbing up on the left.

– ?!

– Heol

– No way

Before they knew it, the broadcast transmission screen was converted to the concert hall. Participants were seen coming up to the stage.

What looked like a video was actually a real-time transmission.

– Ah…

– ㅠㅠㅠ

Then, the participants picked up their microphones and started singing.

An arranged acoustic version of ＜Just Me＞.

-ㅠㅠㅠㅠ

– No, guys, don't go

– Do Idol Inc forever

Are you cursing them?ㅋㅋ But seriously, do it

Let's just go on stage and be all gooey every weekㅠㅠ Don't get droppedoutㅠㅠ

– How can I send them off when I am so attached to them

Participants laughed and sang their parts with sincerity.

However, even before the first verse was over, a number of participants began to sob.

Of course, Park Moondae calmly played his part well. The ad-lib in the second half of the second verse was neat and easy to listen to.

-You sing really well.

– The fanatics are going crazy for a reason

– It's not too late to become a fan, right?

It's not too late, isn't he the winner? You don't have to use up your emotions, just watch the last episode and free-load on their debutㅋㅋ

-I have decided to dig Park Moondae now. I like his face, too

There were some exceptions, but the stage of the participants filled with sad arrangements made the audience sniffle.

It ended with a close-up of Lee Sejin's crying face.

– He's handsome

Out of the 13 episodes, I think today is his best performance

– An actor of confidence

– Guys, you've been through a lotㅠㅠ

– I hope everyone does well.

The participants who came down from the stage struggled, unable to get out of the afterglow.

Just as the stylists who were doing the makeup for the sniffling participants were getting annoyed, they heard the sound of MC introducing a new VCR above.

'Ah, it's that.'

Park Moondae guessed the contents of the video without much excitement. It was family content that could never be missed in the last episode of the audition.

Of course, Park Moondae had no family, so he just idled away and moved on.

'They must have put in a lot of crying scenes.'

He recalled for a moment how Kim Raebin had cried while watching his grandmother's video letter, his eyes were so swollen that they didn't look sharp anymore.

Since most of the participants had cried, he thought picking the cuts would have been easy.

By the way, a few cuts of Park Moondae were taken where he calmly patted the backs of the participants.

He never thought that it made people feel comfortable.

"…It's all over now."

"…?"

An unexpected person spoke to Park Moondae.

'What's with him.'

It was Lee Sejin, the former child actor.

"Well… the program will be over soon."

"You're debuting, so it's not over for you, is that what you mean?"

'Why is this bastard suddenly picking a fight?'

Because he had a lot of thoughts at this time, Park Moondae just ignored his words without answering back.

"…It must be nice."

Lee Sejin murmured, then went to the corner and fell into a depressed state.

"…"

Park Moondae decided not to react. If there was anyone who could care about others right before the final ranking was announced, they were just pushovers.

Participants, who had encouraged each other at the beginning of the live broadcast, had lost their sensibility after the last stage was over and were now turning stiff with extreme tension.

It was at this time that the staff called them again.

“Move to Area B! Go!”

The participants moved in a hurry with stiff faces.

The long final ranking announcement was waiting for them.

* * *

My shoulders ached from fatigue.

‘If I didn’t have the characteristic of reducing fatigue, I would have perished.’

It was difficult to turn my head or change my posture.

It was quite a lot of pressure that thousands of people were staring this way from down there.

‘They’re closer than when I was on stage.’

At least, the audience was closer than during the team match stage, which was the closest it had ever been.

If I rolled my eyes just a little, I could make eye contact with the audience below the stage.

A slogan was also swaying right below.

＜Moon Puppy is debuting today＞

The words written in Gungseoche style were very grim.

(TL notes: Gungseoche/Gungche = a Korean font used by court ladies since the mid-Joseon Dynasty to write Hangul more quickly and flexibly.)

‘I think I should wave my hands at least.’

But I couldn't do that in this tense atmosphere.

"Sure enough, who is the participant who will take the 6th place of honor…"

It was because the MC had been dragging the progress for 15 minutes with several lines, including that one.

It was amazing that 20 minutes had passed since it started, but not a single person had been announced.

'Looking at the number of votes, it's understandable.'

I heard that there were more than a million votes, so it wasn't strange that they were still counting.

The MC didn't get the production crew's signal until about three more minutes later.

"＜Re-listed! Idol Inc.＞ the final stock ranking combining the investment from the Internet and live broadcasts, 6th place! Announced now!"

I could feel the participants' bodies stiffening around me.

"He's a participant who has received attention for his leadership and outstanding skills."

The faces of the corresponding participants were shown dizzyingly on the electronic display.

'…But why am I there?'

Ryu Chungwoo and Keun Sejin were understandable.

I tried not to look ridiculous.

However, unlike the other two, I looked like I had no expectations in my eyes, and when my face was captured, several people from below laughed despite this atmosphere.

“Congratulations, Lee Sejin… B!”

Keun Sejin opened his eyes wide, and when B was added, he burst out laughing and bent down.

“Haha…!”

Countless handshakes and congratulations poured out to Keun Sejin from the participants.

I gave a light high-five to Keun Sejin, who came out after receiving all the congratulations.

“Ah… Thank you so much, really. I tried to get rid of my expectations.”

Keun Sejin expressed his feelings about joining the debut group with a heated face, and after showing off something similar to aegyo to his fans, he went up to the podium.

‘You’re really debuting.’

It seemed he was on the rise.

‘Better him than someone I don’t know.’

I calmly waited for the next ranking announcement.

…And after waiting for more than 15 minutes, the next ranking was announced.

“5th place is…!… Ryu Chungwoo!”

It was a selection that was completely expected.

On the contrary, I thought the ranking had fallen a little, but he showed tears for the first time in the program as if he really hadn’t expected it.

‘It’s fine to be a normal person.’

I applauded from the bottom of my heart this time as well.

And next, fourth place.

“Kim Raebin! Congratulations!”

Kim Raebin was so nervous that he couldn’t even receive the congratulations properly and staggered to the podium.

Then he said his impressions one after another with clear pronunciation.

…But honestly, it sounded more like statements than impressions. It was because he recited what he was good at and what he was improving.

“…So the skill I’ve been developing lately is vocal. I will pay more attention to my communication skills in the future so that I can play my role as the member of the group in any situation with a more accomplished appearance.”

The only thing that sounded like actual impressions was the last two sentences.

“…Once again, I would like to thank the shareholders for investing in me. and Grandma and Grandpa. I love you.”

Then, he bravely removed his mouth from the microphone.

‘…Shouldn’t you say I love you to the fans as well?’

Kim Raebin looked at the MC with a regretful expression, perhaps realizing it only after returning the microphone, but the ship had already sailed.

'…But he's a very useful guy.'

I was moderately convinced.

The next announcement was third place.

Isn't it time to be called now, I had hope, but… That didn't happen.

"Third place is… Seon Ahyeon! Congratulations!"

On the electronic display that had dragged it on between Cha Eugene and Seon Ahyeon for a long time, Seon Ahyeon's face floated.

Seon Ahyeon's face, which had been white, quickly turned heated.

"T-Thank you…"

Surprisingly, Seon Ahyeon received congratulations without crying. Thanks to this, I didn't intend to hug him, but the other guys did, so I followed their example.

"I-I am a really lacking person. T-The shareholders who trusted me and supported me… To my friends, really,… Thank you so much. M-More… I'll be a person that you'll be more proud of. Thank… you."

Seon Ahyeon returned the microphone and cried his eyes out as he climbed up.

It felt strange to see the guy who couldn't make his debut in the future eventually made it.

Well… It seemed to be a good thing.

'Because Seon Ahyeon is a good guy.'

So now all that's left is…

"It's getting more and more heated, the last ranking ceremony of <Re-listed! Idol Inc.>! Now, the long-awaited 1st place announcement is just around the corner!”

‘It ends up like this.’

I held back my sigh.

Chapter 62

Only the announcement for the first and second place was left.

I didn't worry whether 'Park Moondae' would be eliminated like this.

'There are no other candidates.'

Among the remaining people, no one was worth getting first and second place.

Ah, the guy who won third place at the last ranking announcement was spotted with his girlfriend, so public sentiment plummeted.

I feel a little bad, but… Isn't it his own fault for meeting his girlfriend every time he took a break from filming while he was still participating in an idol audition?

"We're revealing the first-place candidates now!"

The MC shouted some hints into the microphone. I rested my throat which turned sore due to the long procession.

And after a little bit of delay just like the previous rankings, the candidates were announced.

"Cha Eugene!"

Cha Eugene smiled and came forward. The people below cheered as if it was natural.

"And the other candidate…"

Let's get ready to go

“Participant Park Moondae!”

As expected.

I came forward while receiving formal congratulations from some of the participants I wasn’t close with.

“Hyung, congratulations.”

At least Gold 2 seemed sincere, but I could see that he was forcibly pretending to be strong, perhaps realizing that he was about to be eliminated.

I just patted him on the back a few times and went up to the podium.

Cha Eugene, who was already climbing up, reached out his hand.

“Let’s shake hands!”

He looked very excited. I hoped he could keep this momentum and take it to first place.

I didn’t say much and accepted the handshake. The atmosphere of the concert hall temporarily became friendly.

‘Is my debut confirmed with this?’

I checked to see if there was a change in the status window, but there was only the ‘Successful stage’ pop-up that appeared earlier.

“The two of you, what do you think when you see the opposing candidate competing for first place?”

Cha Eugene immediately picked up the microphone.

“It’s really cool!”

“Haha! That’s a very clear answer~”

The MC laughed and asked fishing questions to create tension.

“Do you think you’ll win first place today?”

“I don’t know. But getting first place would be nice!”

Cha Eugene raised his thumb.

He sounded at ease enough to make the viewers feel fond of him but not to the extent that would make people resent him for joking around in the final.

“I see~ Now, let’s hear from participant Park Moondae. How do you feel when you see him?

I picked up the microphone.

“He’s such a good friend… I can’t believe I was mentioned together with this friend.”

“It was a very humble statement~ But, the first place… How about it, do you see a possibility?”

I knew you’d ask me this question somehow.

I took a break from answering as if I were thinking about it. Then I shook my head and replied.

“…It seems difficult… Um, to be honest, second place is also higher than my goal, so I’m just grateful.”

I didn’t know why, but when I answered ‘It seems difficult’ a small laugh broke out among the audience below the stage.

‘Did I sound too sincere?’

“Ah, it’s not too bad to come out in 2nd place? Won’t you regret it?”

“…Yes, of course, I’d appreciate it if I win.”

“Oh~ I see. Ladies and gentlemen, it was the resolution of participant Park Moondae.”

‘Tough guy.’

The MC barely stopped asking questions before getting back to it again.

The popularity, ratings, and reactions of <Re-listed! Idol Inc.>, and the (self-proclaimed) best treatment we would receive when we debuted, were broadcasted again.

And after a long wait, right before the announcement.

“The long-awaited first place is…… It will be revealed after the commercial!”

‘I knew this would happen.’

Originally, the candidates were supposed to be nervous and breaking down, well, they had to show such a dramatic reaction, but because the candidates were me and Cha Eugene, only applause and laughter came out

Instead, moans of resentment and several curses came out from under the stage.

‘I think they just threw out curses.’

I was almost certain that I just heard swear words popping out from behind the slogan ‘Moon Puppy’.

“Hyung! Debut! Do a lot of fun things with me!”

“…Great.”

As soon as the sign of the commercial break appeared, Cha Eugene started talking to me. He was completely excited, anyone who saw it would have thought he had already debuted and entered the dorm.

‘Are you really not interested in winning first place?’

Even so, saying that the first-place reward was an ‘amazing reward!’ was just to roughly survive.

If you didn’t have a desire for honor, it wouldn’t be weird if you were like, ‘I don’t know~ I just debut~’

However, if you knew what the first-place reward was, you wold be scared.

As I said before, the reward was actually a penalty.

In fact, since Cha Eugene was originally ranked first and he was also ranked first at the previous ranking announcement, I knew that he had a higher chance of winning.

But don’t people have this thing called premonition?

Looking at the Internet response I saw yesterday, I couldn’t help but feel anxious that ‘Park Moondae’ would win first place.

‘…I don’t know. Then I’ll just get cursed at.’

I gave up thinking. It was good enough that I could avoid sudden death.

After accepting a few words from Cha Eugene, the live broadcast resumed.

“The long-awaited first-place announcement, <Re-listed! Idol Inc>!”

The MC repeated what he had said earlier one more time. I could almost memorize it by heart.

‘He’s saying it slowly one at a time.’

To be honest, why are you taking so long when both of us are already getting on with it?

‘I think everyone has changed the channel.’

Fortunately, the MC finally said the name.

The long-awaited first place is…

“…Park Moondae!”

Although it wasn’t the name I had expected.

‘…It ends up like this.’

I got first place.

I lowered my head to hide my face in case it would show, but I realized an unexpected fact. It felt… good.

I didn’t care about the first-place penalty; once I heard that I had won, the adrenaline strangely rushed to the top of my head.

The taste of achievement was thrilling.

I almost laughed out loud.

‘This is stronger than when I got into college.’

Thanks to this, I was able to express my feelings right away without hiding my face.

“Congratulations~!”

Cha Eugene loyally gave a lot of hugs.

‘It’s American style.’

I gave back a short hug and picked up the microphone.

Looking at the concert hall from the same angle as the MC, some of the production crew under the forepart looked at me with an expression that seemed to be saying, ‘Aren’t you going to cry?’.

‘Yes. I am not.’

I just laughed.

Well, to be honest, half of it was thanks to luck and the status window… Anyway, I had parts in it too.

“Participant Park Moondae, your feeling! Please tell us how you feel.”

“Yes.”

I paused for a while, then I just spoke honestly.

Is it because I was suddenly drunk with adrenaline? There were no calculations in my head, and the words seemed to come out of my spinal cord.

“Honestly, my goal was to debut. I really wanted to debut, and I had to… So I didn’t even think about winning first place. I didn’t even expect it. I think my debut was already too good for me.”

I caught my breath.

“But… it feels nice to win.”

Cheers and light laughter broke out everywhere.

It was to the point that my next words ‘Honestly, I didn’t know this would happen’ were difficult to hear. The MC received a signal from the production team that ‘It’s still taking time’ and asked me again.

“Is there anyone you want to thank through this event?”

I was going to say it anyway.

“Well… I can’t think of anyone to mention in particular. Just, thank you to the people who invested in ‘Park Moondae’.”

A scream broke out under the stage, stopped for a moment, and then slowly continued.

“I wish I could give you something in return… Um, no matter how much you spend on me, I’ll try my best to make your spending produce the highest efficiency within the same price range. Thank you.”

I bowed my head at the end of my speech. Amidst cheers and applause, I could hear some sniffles.

Even the person holding the slogan ‘Moon Puppy’ seemed to have given too much strength to their hand because of the sobbing; the slogan was almost squashed and looked similar to ‘Nudannae’.

‘Just because of these words?’

I was a little embarrassed, but it was a relief that they liked it.

It tingled me a little to see people rejoicing with me even though it was not their business.

‘Not bad.’

At this rate, it didn’t matter if I got the first-place penalty.

As I made up my mind, the MC was conducting an interview with Cha Eugene, who came out second place.

Cha Eugene laughed and expressed his feelings to his mother in English, then waved eagerly to the audience.

He looked like he was openly enjoying himself, I could see why people took videos of him. He was the type that didn’t give people unnecessary stress or emotional exhaustion.

“Thank you~”

Cha Eugene cheerfully finished his speech. The production team sent him a sign to join the debut group next to the podium.

After Cha Eugene left running excitedly, the MC looked back at me.

The background music that created tension started playing.

“Now it’s time to make a choice.”

It had come.

I stood upright and put my hands together.

“A huge reward for the winner of first place, here it is! Let me show you. Participant Park Moondae!”

“Yes.”

“What kind of reward do you want?”

“…Well.”

I wanted to get 100 million won.

“I don’t know… A quick debut?”

“Ah~ that’s important!”

The MC spread his hand.

“Now, show us the reward!”

Then, the intro video appeared on the large electronic display in the front and the electronic display next to it, and soon a message appeared.

[Prize money 50 million won!]

"…!?"

Why is the prize money showing up there?

"Yes! Participant Park Moondae immediately receives 50 million won as the first-place reward!" You can claim it as soon as this live broadcast is over!"

This couldn't be happening.

Even in the midst of confusion, my head diligently drew out the actual amount. 39 million won.

Of course… It was good to receive it.

However, there was never such a thing as getting 30 million won like this either.

"Or! There is another option too!"

Following the MC's words, a new message appeared on the electronic display.

[Recruit a new member!]

"With the authority of the first-place winner, Park Moondae can nominate one of the 14 participants who came up to the final ranking announcement as a team member to debut with!"

'Here it is.'

This damn option finally popped up.

The first place's ultimate reward to select one of the finalists to join the debut group!

Penalty disguised as a reward!

It had become even more vicious.

‘You’re asking me to choose between the prize money and the second option…!’

How can I pick the prize in this situation?!

If I chose the prize money here, I would be turning the remaining 14 people into enemies, so of course, I had no choice but to choose the new recruitment option!

I could already tell how I would get cursed at.

– 50 million won is a big amount of money, but it’s not as big as someone else’s life.

– You’re going to make a lot of money when you debut anyway ㅋㅋ You really like money~ I can see his future in a few years ㅎ

-I didn’t know you’d pick the prize money after seeing the kids suffer together… His image seems to be breaking down

Perhaps no one would have chosen the prize money, no matter who it was.

I was sure the production crew knew that and did this.

Putting some drama in the last episode of the program to torture the winner really sounded just like those guys who put negative votes as an official rule.

‘It’s pissing me off.’

Should I grab the prize money and get cursed at?

“Participant Park Moondae?”

“…Yes.”

I barely answered late.

All kinds of deafening screams were ringing out from the audience seats.

People standing below the stage also were also giving out names and screaming, but my head didn't turn.

"Have you made up your mind?"

"…Yes."

It was no good dragging it out too long. I opened my mouth.

Chapter 63

"…I will recruit a new team member."

"Ah!! Participant Park Moondae's choice is out!"

At MC's shout, the prize money disappeared from the electronic display and the words <Recruit a new member!> were fully enlarged.

The audience cheering and the judges clapping in joy were shown on the other display screen.

I almost clenched my teeth.

'Thirty-nine million won… '

It flew away into the air.

Still, it was an inevitable choice in the long run.

Having one more participant meant that the number of fans who liked the group would also increase. And it was usually multiplied, not just added. The amount of money I could make also varied.

It was an investment that could earn me more than 5000 won in the long run.

The problem was what happened next.

"Then who is the last member chosen by participant Park Moondae?"

The rest of the participants were nervous again on the screen.

"The participant I choose is…"

No matter who I chose, it was the perfect chance to arouse resentment from the fans of the eliminated participants.

So I avoided it.

“The 7th place participant will be chosen by the shareholders.”

“Ah!”

The whispers grew bigger. Most seemed convinced or relieved.

‘…Even the production team is delighted.’

It was a little annoying.

“Participant Park Moondae left the choice to the shareholders!”

The MC glanced at the prompter and eagerly led to the proceeding, and soon the candidates for 7th place appeared on the display.

And the guy who made it…

“Congratulations, Lee Sejin!”

I almost choked.

‘How could he suddenly rise like that?’

Perhaps because of his child actor’s activities, he was highly recognized by the public, so it seemed he had benefited from those who secretly voted for the last episode.

‘…It can’t be helped.’

The water was already spilled. I made way for Lee Sejin, who staggered up to the podium.

“…Thank you.”

Lee Sejin barely managed to express his feelings, and after a few words, he bowed his head. It was enough for fans to cover it up by stating that he was out of his mind due to the unexpected situation.

The MC guided Lee Sejin to join the seats for those who had passed. Lee Sejin brushed past me and murmured softly.

"…Thank you."

I just nodded. You must have wanted to join.

'I want to go there, too.'

It felt like my legs were going to cramp.

How long are you going to keep me standing?

However, the MC continued the process with me standing next to him.

"Now there's only one left! The group name of the <Re-listed! Idol Inc.> participants who will debut"

It was followed by an obvious explanation that they collected the opinions of shareholders on the Internet.

Then a dazzling logo appeared on the electronic display.

An upper case 'T' and a triangle that did not touch the upper side were skillfully combined, and brilliant glitter effects bounced off the sides and the top before settling into small diamond marks.

– Your investment verified.

– Your idol, your star

-TEST + STAR

– <TeSTAR>

“The group name selected by the shareholders is… TeSTAR!”

“…”

The name had changed.

As far as I knew, the original name of the boy group which was going to debut in this program was ‘STier’.

Looking back, I thought it would be that way again because it was listed as a candidate with an explanation attached as ‘Star + Tier’ on the homepage.

Maybe a different name came out because the members had changed quite a bit, including me.

It seemed the name had been decided by a narrow margin last time.

‘…Isn’t Stier better?’

I honestly didn’t expect a group name that would have star occupying more than half of the name.

I was a little confused, but… Well, as long as the group name wasn’t too weird.

“The seven members of TeSTAR will receive a trophy with the group logo on it!”

Then Youngrin came up and handed me the trophy. There was only one trophy in the shape of a graph soaring into the sky.

‘You set me up here to do this.’

I guess it would be over if I carried that and passed it on to the kids.

“Congratulations.”

“Thank you.”

After lightly shaking hands with Youngrin, I was handed the trophy with a cushion on it.

Youngrin looked at me with calm eyes and smiled.

“I hope you will do well.”

“Yes, thank you.”

I murmured a series of thanks.

Then just like that, I walked quickly toward the place where the winning participants were standing.

The winning participants had already stood up from their seats, probably drunk on the atmosphere.

“Wow!”

“They give us a trophy, too?”

I handed the trophy to the guy at the front without hesitation.

Then, this time around the trophy, we put our arms around each other and started making a fuss.

‘My shoulder hurts.’

Knocked between Cha Eugene and Keun Sejin, my body felt sore.

I felt numb everywhere from my shoulder to my feet, but thanks to the adrenaline, my brain was active.

I heard the MC’s voice from a distance.

“TeSTAR, congratulations on your debut!”

The stage fireworks effects exploded spectacularly. I listened to the cheers of the people as I stood between the trophies and the winning participants.

And at that moment.

A status window popped up.

[Successful debut!]

You made your debut through a famous audition program!

!Time limit: Fulfilled (Great success)

!Status abnormality: 'Debut or Death' removed!

[Check the truth ☜ Click!]

'…Really?'

I turned on the status window. The status abnormality was gone. It was over.

Somehow it didn't feel real.

I didn't know the purpose of the status window, it was probably because I had been haunted by the ominous prediction that the status abnormality might be prolonged somehow.

'I never thought it would disappear so neatly.'

I blankly closed the status window. Then, the text at the bottom of the remaining pop-up caught my eye.

It was originally the location where the reward was supposed to be.

'…Wait.'

What's this?

[Check the truth ☜ Click!]

The truth?

I reflexively clicked on the phrase.

“Moondae?”

For a moment, my vision was distorted.

And I blacked out.

* * *

A skinny high school student was lying on a mattress holding an old smartphone.

Every time he moved, the mattress creaked.

The WeTube screen was playing on the broken screen of the smartphone. The image quality was not good because it was barely connected to public Wi-Fi.

However, thanks to the filming skill of the cameraman, the charm of the singer on the screen still stood out.

‘It was fun.’

The high school student, Park Moondae looked sadly at the returned video screen.

The latest fancams posted on this account now ended with the ‘2X0412 Reload Han River Festival’ that he just saw.

This account, ‘Gun1234’, was an account that mainly uploaded fancams of singers and idols.

In particular, it mainly uploaded low-profile people, but it still looked cool.

‘It feels like I am appreciating them.’

He somehow felt good because it felt like cheering for someone who didn’t look like much.

‘I hope it uploads more often.’

There were little things he could do to spend time happily without spending money.

It was the same on WeTube, where he could watch just by watching s.

Even though he watched it in low quality on Wi-Fi that kept disconnecting, there were a lot of videos that he could watch with his heart pounding.

He’d heard that there was almost no profit from fancams because all of the advertising revenue went to the singers, but he was grateful that they continued to upload.

Worrying over it, Park Moondae scrolled down and wrote a comment.

-Big Moon: GUN1234, I always enjoy your fancams. Thank you for the upload.

He knew that this account had never given any particular feedback to viewers until now.

Even when Youngrin’s fancam was a hit, they never left any comment.

But just in case they might see it, Park Moondae checked for spelling errors and pressed the post button.

– This person is always present ㅋㅋ

– I guess they’re a big fan

He was a little embarrassed because there were a few reply comments.

He thought about replying, but suddenly didn't feel like it, so he stopped.

'It's not like I have anything to say… '

When he tried to talk about himself, he became speechless.

The house, no, the room which was too embarrassing to be called home was quiet.

There was nothing to say about his daily life.

When he recalled the last time he was motivated to do something, he remembered a time when everything was normal.

When his parents were still there.

It felt like it was just yesterday, but in fact, it had been years.

And he felt like he had been stuck somewhere for years. Or maybe he was actually dreaming.

Maybe that's why I am so focused on the videos uploaded by that account, the boy thought.

It was comforting to see people singing and dancing passionately even though there was no sign of improvement in their situation.

'…Let's sleep.'

Tomorrow was probably Monday.

Park Moondae closed his eyes on the mattress and dreamed.

And time passed again. Unlike the flowing surroundings, Park Moondae alone hadn't changed.

A terrible thing happened at school. He quit just like that. Quitting didn't change anything.

Well, why didn't he just stop living?

'I know.'

But he didn't really want to die.

Park Moondae found a part-time job but soon lost the job.

Also, 'gun1234' stopped uploading videos.

'Why…?'

Park Moondae thought about it and eventually sent a note to the account. It was the day when he failed to find a new part-time job. Of course, he didn't get a reply.

And soon after, all the videos in the account disappeared.

Only short texts remained on the empty page.

[I quit to play games ㅅㄱ]

Game.

Park Moondae installed a mobile game. He had no money to buy a desktop or a game console.

However, his old smartphone couldn't run mobile games properly and broke down after suffering terrible heat.

For some reason, Park Moondae felt very tired.

He hadn't done anything, so there should be nothing to get tired of.

'I'm tired.'

He was tired of living.

Park Moondae terminated his broken smartphone. And he didn't extend the contract of the old one-room apartment either.

It had been a long time since he ate a proper meal. So the money he had left was just right.

It meant that if he got to a motel and bought sleeping pills, it would be over.

'Because a lot of people die in motels.'

The day was so cold that he couldn't bear to fall into the water or climb the mountain. Because he felt like he might give up halfway.

If he died in his room, he would be left to rot for more than a month.

'I'm sorry.'

Park Moondae took a room and inwardly apologized to the curt owner.

Then, after going into the room, he lay down on the bed and swallowed sleeping pills.

Sleep came like death.

After a while.

Opening his eyes while breathing in on a dirty motel bed…

It was me.

* * *

"Gasp."

I let out a breath.

“A-Are you okay?”

Someone next to me tapped me on the back. When I turned my head, I saw Seon Ahyeon’s worried face.

“…Wait, I’m tired.”

I barely managed to speak and stretched myself up.

Time seemed to barely pass. Thanks to that, I just looked like I had staggered for a while.

Because I was surrounded by the winning participants, the others didn’t notice at all; the atmosphere was still the same.

I broke out in a cold sweat. My mind was a mess.

The owner of Park Moondae’s favorite video account, ‘gun1234’.

‘It’s me’.

It was the account that I deleted when I started my public life.

Author's Thoughts

Seek professional help if you ever feel like committing sewerside

Chapter 64

The videos Park Moondae was watching were also taken by me, and the phrase that I attached when I deleted my WeTube fancam account was the same.

– I quit to play games. ㅅㄱ

I didn't necessarily have to prepare a public announcement; I didn't want to write down my personal information.

Then, a flash of realization crossed my mind.

'Maybe that's why the status window popped up…!'

Did the karma come back to me through a game system because I used playing games as an excuse?!

'…I don't think I did anything wrong enough to cause a sudden death.'

Isn't it rather strange to think that there was someone who gave meaning to the fancams I took to this extent?

Still… it left a bad aftertaste.

If the weird flashback I saw earlier was really the 'truth', I really had stopped breathing for a second and then I woke up.

So, it meant that Park Moondae, who lived in this body before, was really dead.

Isn't he not the kind of guy who did something wrong enough to die like that?

'I wish someone could help me, but… It's difficult.'

Surprisingly, people were not interested in others. Except when it came to cursing out, of course.

Anyway, the process that got me into this body… Honestly, it was practically impossible, but I could see the justification behind it.

‘It was me who Park Moondae had an emotional bond with.’

But since I deleted the account and carried it away, It must have included abnormalities such as sudden death

It didn’t matter whether the person who created this status window did it because they felt sorry for Park Moondae or whether it was some kind of post-death mechanism.

‘This guy must be satisfied with this.’

Thanks to this, the guy you liked who used to film fancams now became an idol with your own body, so you could be filmed on fancams to your heart’s content.

I felt sorry and cool-headed at the same time. I felt like I would be able to live now that the situation became clear even if it was only half of it.

“These are the seven members of <TeSTAR> that shareholders have invested in! We look forward to your continued support and investment!”

At the words of the MC shouting from afar, paper petals burst from above.

“Fighting!”

“You’ve worked hard!”

“Let’s do well~”

The light on the broadcast camera was turned off as passing participants smiled and exchanged handshakes.

It was the ending.

People collapsed one after another, probably because their legs had loosened.

Various groups appeared on the stage, including the crying participants and the passing participants who approached the dropouts and exchanged congratulations and consolation.

And endless waves of cheers and slogans.

I breathed in.

'Now there are only the activities left… '

Ring.

[Outbreak!]

Status abnormality: 'If you don't get 1st place, you will die' has occurred!

"…"

['Win first place or die']

: If you don't win first place on the music show within the time limit, you'll die

Remaining period: D-365

You bastard.

If I meet the bastard who made this system, I won't let them go. Definitely…!

* * *

The moment when Park Moondae was the most pissed off in his life.

In all kinds of online communities and SNS, posts about Idol Inc's debut member confirmation were posted.

[Idol Inc debut members (7 members)]: Park Moondae, Cha Eugene, Seon Ahyeon, Kim Raebin, Ryu Chungwoo, Lee Sejin (Keun), and Lee Sejin (Actor) in order of ranking

Debut group name TeSTAR (Testar)

＜Idol Inc.＞ was a hot topic as its rating was renewed again in the final episode despite its sluggish three-hour development.

Thanks to this, both those who watched the broadcast and those who couldn't or didn't watch it excitedly left comments.

Of course, there was quite a lot of talk about Park Moondae's rapid rise and first-place rank.

– Park Moondae won?

– Heol

– Uaa, it was awesome at the end ㅠㅠ I'm in tears

– Seeing his spirit, he deserved it ㅊㅋㅊㅋ

– Congratulations! I hope it goes well ㅠㅠ

– As expected, the pity act worked ㅋ

□I know right. Isn't it Park Moondae himself who leaked his draft resident registration? ㅋㅋㅋ

□? Are you crazy;;

Most of them were celebrating, but sarcastic words like ‘He won first place by selling family history’ appeared sporadically. There was even an article that analyzed the situation.

[Reason for Park Moondae winning first place]

: Family history bomb to core fans + accumulation of muggle pick.

It’s almost like the universe helped.

Cha Eugene is the type to sweep fans onto the stage. It seems he’s less liked by the muggles than Park Moondae because he didn’t have an emotional narrative that they liked.

And from the beginning, ‘Cha Eugene is debuting lol’ is due to him being a top-rank <- I think this is a situation caused by carelessness.

Of course, as soon as the fans who were immersed in the thrill of victory came to their senses, they began to cut through the provoking posts like a knife.

-They both debuted and there’s not much of a difference in their number of votes, but I am equally good at smacking

– Carelessly framing Park Moondae’s audition, Cha Eugene’s fans’ are bored of it~The fans are just happy that they both stick together, so please stop talking~ Because our kids are good on stage and they’re close ㅋㅋ

While the fans were fighting, the light viewers who just enjoyed the broadcast without hanging onto particular participants giggled as they posted their impressions of the last episode.

– I saw the production team’s tearful efforts to somehow increase the number of people.

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋAveraging the number and adding one person with the 1st place reward, are they for real ㅋㅋㅋ

Just give him the prize money ㅠㅠ Moondae’s situation doesn’t look good, I'm concerned…

It's okay, he's going to make a lot of money from now onㅋㅋㅋ

On this side, there were often talks about Park Moondae's choice.

– Park Moondae has a good brain. When 7th place got picked, I clapped in the living room tooㅋㅋ

– It was rather cool to neatly leave the judgment to the viewers without needlessly arguing with other participants!

That's right! It feels like, 'You bastard, you believe in our eyes (snort)'ㅋㅋㅋ

Honestly, that's a choice that made sense, but it was hard not to call a close participant there.

Yeah, I thought he would call Heeseungㅋㅋㅋㅋ Even when Moondae was called out, Heeseung took care of him

Park Moondae knew how to distinguish between works

Most were favorable. It was the moment when Park Moondae's judgment won.

In the meantime, malicious fans of the eliminated participants and antis of the successful participants leaked subtle messages in order to somehow drive a wedge between the debut members.

– When Lee Sejin joined, it looked like Park Moondae couldn't manage his expression for a whileㅋㅋI don't think they're close Isn't it because of Lee Sejin's skills and attitude?

This is it. Park Moondae probably thought that getting the guy who was rumored to be dating would be better. If I were him, I would have regretted not choosing Heeseungㅋㅋ

Stop making speculative remarks. Moondae's face stayed the same, what are you saying…

Don't use our Moondae for your insults

There was a limit to what the fans could do to block them, and articles that ruined the atmosphere continued to come up.

In particular, the attack on Lee Sejin, who barely made it to the end with the first-place reward, was fierce.

– Frankly, Lee Sejin is on his own in the debut group line-up ㅋㅋ Among the kids who all went to the stage, he appeared as a cider meme alone

Honestly, Lee Sejin ㅋㅋ Isn't it because cool guys trust and depend on themselves?

That's right. It was something pointless, but t was thanks to the fact that the fans started selling it as memes, so his initial image was pushed well.

Aigoo, you crazy people

(TL notes: 'Cider' means a soda drink such as Sprite in Korea. But it is often used as the opposite meaning of sweet potato by Koreans. When you have sweet potato and you feel uneasy and stuff, if you drink 'cider', you feel great and happy. Cider is used to express that kind of feeling. Sumber: Google.)

Thanks to numerous reports and blockages, after a few days, the number of swearing at the successful participants on the surface had decreased a lot.

Instead, the excitement of fans waiting for the debut members' activities overflowed everywhere.

[Countdown to Testa's debut song, will it become a national boy group? (Article)]

: There was an article, so I brought it up! It is said that they will start their activities within a month (Link)

– Gosh, I like itㅠㅠ I can't wait to see them!

– Let's go and leave a good comment.

– They're going to an agency under the T1 group, right? I'm looking forward to the taste of capital from big companies!

Really! I hope they make a lot of music videos and songs

The ratings and popularity of the program are all at a peak this time, so I'm looking forward to T1. They said they're creating a new agency~

Wow~ If you go in with a lot of investment, the kids can do everything!

Those who were newly introduced to the idol fandom through the successful audition program waited for the debut album with commonsensical expectations and hope.

And as always in this area, common sensibility was not a hope, but a dream.

Thanks to this, there was tension among the people who had deep experience in idol-fangirling.

– They said they'd release their debut song in a month but is this for real…?

Let's just think that there is already a song prepared, it's good for mental health

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋI heard the agency hasn't come out yet. It seems they're so successful that they have an internal fight

– I heard that T1 is launching a new agency for Testar, are they crazy?

It looks like our kids are heading to the ground…

□T1 is big but they don't even have experience with idol agencies

□Sigh… They named the group Testar and use it as a real tester;;

-It seems that the executive is trying to give someone a career… Ah, that's so lame

Overall, there was an atmosphere of caution, fearing that the large corporation which was only big in size without any expertise would be crazy about money and career.

– Is there any news… Please upload a group photo of the kids…

– There are no news for the past ten days. Let me see the faces of the kids.

– I want to see what happened after the formation of Testar, not the behind-the-scenes of Idol Inc ㅋㅋ Very sick of it

Fortunately, by the time people grew tired, new content popped up.

[This is TeSTAR's account!]

: Hello, everyone! We're the newly debuted rookie group, Testa! Please take care of us〉 _ 〈 (Photo)

Testar's official SNS account was opened.

The photo attached to the first post was a picture of Testar sitting in a group and laughing with a living room as a background.

Considering the casual clothes and comfortable posture, it was clear they were in the new dorm.

– !!

– I think the kids have entered the dorm

– It seems they've caught the agency

– Ah, the debut album is already successful. If they don't succeed with the combination of these faces, it's corrupted

Fans were greatly relieved just by one SNS post.

In an instant, Testar's SNS followers and shares began to gather thousands of units per minute.

People enjoyed the photo at the nanoscale.

– Moondae's yellow hoodie is so cute, where did you find such a cute thing ㅠㅠ

– Moon Puppy, I was worried because you always wore a T-shirt every day, so this grandma is so relieved that you have bought a new outfit… ㅠㅠ

-Raebin pierced his ears.

CCCrazy, it looks great on this mad dog

Please wear scary fancy earrings during activities, please

– Eugene is lying on the sofa. It's already his house ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

ㄴㅋㅋㅋ I was checking with a smile then I got surprised because his legs are so long…

Since it was a group that was formed through an audition, there were still a lot of people who only mentioned the members they liked.

Having played a lot of team matches together, the members shared good feelings.

However, as a result, the preferred bunch was also slightly divided.

– Guys, please upload a lot in the future! ㅠㅠ

With so much excitement and anticipation, but with some anxiety at the same time, Testar started their full-fledged activities.

And the parties involved were already facing uneasy factors.

* * *

“Sigh.”

How did I manage to get into the dorm?

I entered the door with a sigh.

I sighed when I thought of the week-long struggle between companies and the contract for the group’s dorm which also turned out to be a struggle.

Of course, I shouldn’t make it obvious.

There were cameras from here to the bedroom.

“Hey! I love it!”

“Cool!”

“Wow…”

We started with a reality show contract first.

Chapter 65

It was common for a group debuting in a survival program to film a reality show.

This was because they could bring in some characters and the popularity gained from the audition program.

'…Still, I didn't expect to go straight into filming right away after one meeting like this.'

Even during the meeting, I didn't hear much about it.

It was just an interview about what the members wanted to do.

'It's a relief that the dorm is good at least.'

Maybe they were conscious of the filming, but the dorm was more splendid than I thought. It was the first time I stayed in a large new apartment with such good security.

Of course, there were cameras on every corner.

"Ah, camera!"

"Hello…?"

The guys who took off their shoes at the entrance and ran to the living room looked at the camera and pretended to know. It was an action that had been requested in advance.

'They said it's unnatural to look like we aren't too aware of the camera.'

In the first place, if there were this many of them, it would be more difficult not to be conscious.

Even in the living room, there were several cameramen and production crew waiting in the blind spot of the unmanned camera.

From what I heard, they stayed for a while today for the first cut of the reality show, and they would withdraw leaving only the unmanned cameras behind.

“First of all… Congratulations on passing, everyone~”

“Wow~!”

“Our proof shot!”

The passing participant sitting around the living room clapped and took a picture together before starting the reality show.

“Wow, it feels like a new team match has begun.”

“I think you’re right, except that the team match is happening for five years.”

“Oh~ Raebin seems good at this?”

Fortunately, everyone looked natural.

‘This is how you benefit from living with the camera all the time in <Idol Inc.>.’

In addition, the atmosphere was friendly with the joy of passing.

They were three times less sensitive and tolerant than they were at the time of the audition, exchanging good wishes and jokes and laughing together.

“You all did a great job.”

“That’s right. I feel like I can enjoy anything now!”

“L-Let’s have a good time…!”

And at the right time, a robot vacuum cleaner suddenly popped out of the crew's camera blind spot.

It was the mascot of this reality show and the main PPL.

"Huh?"

"What does he have!"

A card covered with glitter glue dangled near the vacuum's head.

Quick-handed Cha Eugene lifted the vacuum cleaner and pulled out the card.

"What's written on it?"

"Right!"

Cha Eugene excitedly read the contents of the card while still holding the robot vacuum cleaner on his side.

"Hm… 'You guys… From now on, you'll receive missions through cards! Clear the mission so that you can become a true group!'"

"Ah."

"M-Mission."

The atmosphere darkened slightly. There was no reaction to the trauma.

Ryu Chungwoo laughed as if he had given up.

"Haha, I passed the audition, but the mission doesn't end…"

I thought bitterly.

'…To be a true group, I think we need to pull our acts together, starting from the agency.'

I thought of Tnet, which repeatedly notified and canceled the change of affiliation three times a day, three days ago.

I had a bad feeling.

'I feel like I had a meaningless expectation.'

Because the program was so successful this time, it seemed they wanted to roll Testar by creating a new direct agency at the T1 level.

However, since there were contracts with Tnet subsidiaries in the past, taking the group away was difficult.

So, because they were busy fighting each other, the group was in a state of neglect.

I read an article this morning that we would be releasing a debut song within a month. But we hadn't even met our manager yet.

'It's driving me crazy.'

I held back my sigh.

At that time, Cha Eugene raised his hand.

"Oh? There's more! 'Today's mission is… Free time!'"

"Ooh!!"

In an instant, the atmosphere turned relaxed.

I also said 'I'm very happy with the break I got today.' and received high fives from the guys around me.

'Let's not think about it.'

It was almost confirmed that we entered T1's new agency anyway.

Rookies without spare time had no authority. I just had to accept it.

'…Please don't add your relatives to the planning.'

I hoped the high-ranking people would take care of the sales, accounting, and management and didn't touch the planning. Please use the people experienced on the job.

"Look at our room! Let's get a room!"

The passing participants stood up with the 'free time' card and started touring the house.

Three rooms and three bathrooms. It was a good composition that could be used plenty.

And there was a number sign in front of each bedroom.

"Testar's first~ mini-game! The subject is choosing a room!"

"You sounded the same."

"R-Really."

Kim Raebin volunteered to imitate the MC of <Idol Inc.> but he sounded similar enough to stimulate PTSD that we became solemn again. Still, the game went on without a problem.

We picked notes from a box in the order which was determined through several board games with so many random elements.

"This also has a strange deja vu…"

"I know right…"

Every time it overlapped with <Idol Inc.>, the kids got sentimental.

Anyway, I pulled out the second note after Cha Eugene.

It was number one.

'I avoided number three.'

Bedroom no. 3, the main bedroom, was shared by three people. Naturally, two people were much better than three.

'I wish I can share a room with a quiet guy.'

For now, I had dodged Cha Eugene.

'I'll just have to dodge Keun Sejin.'

As soon as I thought so, Lee Sejin, who was next in order, pulled out number 1.

"…"

Right before a silence broke out, Keun Sejin and Ryu Chungwo hit in.

"Oh~ Moondae and Sejin hyung are in the same room~"

"Both of them are fragile types, so I think they'll get along well."

"Right?"

It was fortunate that there were quick-witted guys.

"Take good care of me."

I quickly reached out my hand, and Lee Sejin slowly held out his hand and shook mine.

'I'm a bit worried about this filming.'

I liked that he seemed to be the quiet type.

However, the camera would be running for 2-3 weeks, so the key was whether or not this guy would pretend to be friendly during that time.

'The production team will take care of it.'

It was not an audition, but a reality show, so I figured the editing would go well.

It wasn't good for the production team if there was a controversy.

"Let's quickly pick one too~"

The remaining room ended up being assigned to people with polar opposites.

Kim Raebin and Seon Ahyeon were in the same room.

"P-Please take care of me."

"I look forward to your kind cooperation and please take care of me as well."

Looking at the two guys who weren't close to each other having a greeting battle, I thought it would be uncomfortable over there, too.

Of course, they were still better off than me.

First of all, neither of them had the same personality as Lee Sejin.

"Oh~ Our room looks really fun, right?"

"I like the big room!"

"Okay! Let's get along."

And room number 3 for 3 people… Keun Sejin, Cha Eugene, and Ryu Chungwoo shared the room together.

It was already noisy. However, Ryu Chungwoo looked somewhat satisfied.

‘Come to think of it, Ryu Chungwoo’s position is a little unresolved.’

Except for Cha Eugene, Ryu Chungwoo never met any of the winning participants personally.

It would be better to get into a crowded room and catch up on the situation quickly.

The fact that there was also Keun Sejin who was friendly and polite to his seniors must be the icing on the cake.

Following the crew’s signal, I immediately moved to the bedroom to unpack and rest.

“Which bed would you like to use?”

“It doesn’t matter to me.”

“Really?”

In that case.

I went straight to the bed on the left and unpacked. It was on the other side of the living room, so there would be less noise ringing on the wall.

By the way, Lee Sejin was also looking at this bed. Thanks to that, I was at loss for words again.

“…”

It’s not a survival show so why should I please you?

I planned to do whatever I wanted in the places where I wouldn’t get caught.

Lee Sejin looked this way without saying anything, then went to the other side and unpacked.

With a calm mind, I started unpacking my things. Actually, I didn't have much, so I didn't have anything to organize.

Oh, I bought some clothes because I didn't have a lot of them. It was with the prize money that my team won by a narrow margin in the final.

I heard that because of the problem with the time distribution in the final, it was announced on the Internet after the program ended and got criticized a bit, but well, it was fine because I still got the money.

By the way, the kimchi refrigerator… I hadn't received it yet. There were no other swindlers like them.

'I'm getting a little pissed off.'

By the time I folded my last clothes with a sigh, the quiet room was filled with the sound of human voices.

"Ta-da!"

"As expected, room number 1 is good. Is it because this is where the first place stayed?"

It was the guys from room three.

While Cha Eugene and Keun Sejin were happily wandering around the room, Ryu Chungwoo, a graduate of the National University, taught me how to unpack, so I finished organizing in an instant.

"Is there anything you want to eat for dinner?"

Ryu Chungwoo smiled and sat down on the bed.

"Galbi!"

“Jokbal!”

Cha Eugene was understandable, but it seemed Keun Sejin was being extra on purpose to get more screen time.

…Suddenly, I had a foreboding feeling that I wouldn’t be able to escape this ruckus while the reality show was in progress.

* * *

We had to cook and eat dinner together. Thanks to this, I cooked for more than 2 servings for the first time in a long time.

‘Cooking is better than going to the grocery store.’

Once I went out, I had to talk more. Because there would be fewer people with me.

In addition, it took quite a bit of courage to enter the large mart with three cameras.

Anyway, the cooking was quite successful. Surprisingly, the supports did well.

Except for Seon Ahyun.

“S-S-Sorry…”

“You have nothing to apologize for.”

I think you should apologize to your own hands instead of me.

I kicked Seon Ahyeon out of the kitchen after he almost cut his own hand for the third time.

Seon Ahyeon, who was anxious, was relieved when he was given a job setting the table instead.

‘…That’s why the old lady came to his house.’

I was wondering why they attached a worker to a guy who was good at housework. It was because he was terrible at cooking.

Anyway, the jjimdak was well done. It was Ryu Chungwoo who picked this menu that after winning the rock-paper-scissors.

'I tried to cook it on my birthday because eating out was a waste of money, but it ended up being useful like this.'

I shrugged my shoulders as I recalled my birthday in the first year of earning money from selling data.

"It looks delicious."

"Right."

"…"

Lee Sejin did not respond in particular to Kim Raebin's words, but he was surprisingly cooperative in cooking.

'Is it because I am holding a knife?'

I tidied up the kitchen knife I was still holding. In the meantime, the jjimdak was taken to the table in the hands of the grocery shopping group.

"Oh~ The jjimdak is really good!"

"The soy sauce is well seasoned and soft."

The meal was a success.

"Should I learn how to cook, too?"

"I'm good at cooking."

"Oh? Then you should cook!"

“But grocery shopping is better.”

With Cha Eugene’s bright remark, the reality show’s introduction was wrapped up.

“Thank you for your hard work～”

As the filming team withdrew, they installed a claw machine in the living room.

All the dolls inside were placed with the back of their heads facing up.

‘It would be creepy to see it at night.’

Anyway, they asked us to pull out one of those dolls after we got surprised to see it in the living room tomorrow.

‘It’s pulling out doll content.’

I heard that we would meet the manager tomorrow and finally started an album meeting with the agency, but to do that, I needed a good sleep.

I quickly entered the room with the determination to sleep a lot today.

Lee Sejin was already in bed and looking at his smartphone.

“Good night.”

“…You too.”

Is it because he ate well? He seemed a little more relaxed than in the morning.

I immediately put on earplugs and went to bed. The last thing I saw was the camera spinning alone in the corner.

‘I hope the people I meet tomorrow don’t just talk nonsense.’

And this wish was only half fulfilled.

* * *

The manager was a decent guy.

“If you need anything, just tell me!”

He looked gentle and his critical point seemed high. He looked like the kind of person who wouldn’t raise his hand to a child.

‘Indeed, we’re already too popular to be called rookies.’

“Once you start the album activities, there will be another manager, so don’t worry!”

“Yes!”

First of all, there was a high possibility that the person who spoke up first would set the atmosphere, so I decided not to care about that for now.

And the meeting with the agency.

This is…

“The talented Testar is in charge of organizing the songs, right?”

“…? Yes?”

To sum it up, it’s sh*t.

Chapter 66

From the moment I met and talked to the agency official, I felt awkward.

He had been working in the planning and marketing team of another T1 affiliate, but this time he was appointed as the director.

In short, this person was the head of the company's business division, and he had no experience in the entertainment business.

*'F*ck.'*

Fortunately, the content production team underneath him seemed to have been packed with experienced people, but this punk sounded strange.

"Worldview?"

"These days, most idols who are aiming for global fandom have a worldview. Right? All young kids… You like cartoons and stuff."

"…"

You're holding tightly onto useless things.

Worldview? That's nice.

But if you say that you will release a new song within a month, is it okay to start by talking about the worldview? Even if it's a single, you should talk about the song right away.

And Testar wasn't in a hurry to see the world.

'I made all kinds of characters and stories through auditions, but what are you saying… ’

As far as I knew, the worldview was about providing content that fans could immerse themselves in and play with, but <Idol Inc.> itself was made for that kind of content.

In addition, the members had already gone through the debut process, gaining public awareness and positioning.

This meant that the agency only needed to bring popular songs, sophisticated choreography, and costumes.

Even if the worldview was still rough, it didn’t matter since we could be built it slowly while preparing for the next album.

‘Did you see a lecture or something?’

Recently, as agencies had been appealing their own independent capabilities due to the stock issue, it seemed that this guy was also affected by it because he kept referring to the worldview as if it were some kind of great plan of the century.

‘It’s because it’s your career.’

What was even crazier was that he worked hard without knowing much about it.

“…Us?”

“Yeah! I watched the broadcast, you guys were doing good.”

The director praised each member, saying that he ‘binge-watched’ <Idol Inc.> diligently, and then he brought up a bombshell.

“Well, let me tell you right now. You’re going to perform two songs.”

“…?!”

“However, the company will only be in charge of one song. The other one will be managed by the talented Testar.”

Of course, we would do the confirmation and revision ourselves.

“Making it according to our world view, just like this~ It’s nice, isn’t it? Self-produced!”

Self-produced idols are the trend, blah blah blah…

He wanted to do everything that others said was good.

It seemed he wanted the new agency to have an image ‘independent and hip’.

Of course, the members were bewildered, but as befitting of those who successfully completed <Idol Inc.> where all kinds of tricks ran rampant, they didn’t show it.

“Ah, thank you very much… But it might be difficult with our capabilities alone.”

“Uhm~ Of course, all the staff do it together. You are free! Uh, make good use of your creativity and your inspiration, this is what I mean.”

“Yes…”

The high-ranking person who was almost twenty years older was adamant, so Ryu Chungwoo swallowed his words with a bitter smile.

Kim Raebin’s expression was already turning blank.

‘You’re out of your mind.’

As I thought about what to do, I was more stunned by the enormous amount of work compared to the time limit.

“Come on, we have a lot of work to do, so we have to get up now, right?”

“Y-Yes.”

The director left after saying what he had to say. It was evident that he was happy that he had taken the time to take care of ‘Testar’ himself.

‘…Was the CEO also the nephew of T1’s owner?’

The future had already been drawn.

‘…It’s going to be hard if we don’t get first place this time.’

Looking back, I should have guessed it from the moment T1 suddenly created a new agency in order to intercept <Idol Inc.>’s debut group.

‘It’s a land that they fought and stole away… Of course, it would be impossible to continue with the preparations for the debut album that the original agency was going to do.’

Thanks to this, we had to make a new album right away.

In addition, since a person who was not familiar with the industry was sitting on top of the working staff, bullshit was running rampant and the deadline was extremely short.

‘Um, I really want to quit.’

…Again, I vowed not to expect much from this company.

The situation was the same in subsequent meetings with several people from the content production team and the A&R team under the producer.

These people hadn’t had any results yet.

…Actually, it was understandable. It had been less than two weeks since this agency was launched.

“Um… First of all, our worldview will go with the ‘school’ motif.”

“Ah… Yes.”

“I think we can focus on that. Um…”

There was no practical benefit other than just saying that the worldview was related to school.

“Of course, I’m not saying you should make a song at all. We will send you the candidate songs as soon as we get the final confirmation, so please take a look at them.”

“Yes!”

“How long will it take?”

“Ah, um… It’ll be out in two days.”

Fortunately, these people were basically fond of the Testar members.

‘It’s thanks to the nationwide successful audition.’

First of all, the investment was basically guaranteed, and they had a personal liking toward the group, so the treatment also became more personal.

“They asked a lot of our opinions.”

Keun Sejin said after coming out of the meeting.

“O-Originally, i-isn’t it supposed to be like that?”

“Yes!”

“Yeah!”

Unexpectedly, Cha Eugene and Kim Raebin responded strongly. Seon Ahyeon was taken aback.

“He didn’t listen!”

“He didn’t let us speak at all. The atmosphere was saying that working hard by following instructions is a virtue!”

“U-Uh…”

Cha Eugene and Kim Raebin even recorded their debut song at their former agency, but it seemed that there were a lot of pent-up feelings because they got knocked down.

‘Their agency was doing well. maybe… Did it go bankrupt because their figurehead idol filed a lawsuit over a fraudulent contract?’

It seemed that the two of them got caught up in the process, so they left the agency and appeared in the audition program.

“There are some things I am worried about, but it’s a good environment to work hard. Let’s try our best.”

“Yep!”

“Yes!”

Ryu Chungwoo laughed, checked the number of members, and then got into the car.

There was some talk about it, but it was almost certain that Ryu Chungwoo was the leader.

First of all, Lee Sejin, who was one of the oldest, didn’t fit to be a leader, and the agency preferred to have an older person lead.

We would go through a plausible process in reality, but… It was pretty much fixed.

I didn’t have a complaint.

“I like home~ Oh?”

“What is it?”

“Claw doll machine!”

Cha Eugene was the first to enter the living room and ran after seeing the claw machine.

The director had called us early in the morning, so it seemed he’d forgotten that it was there because he had gone out half-asleep.

‘Thanks to that, his reaction is real.’

I went closer and took a look. Cameras were installed inside and outside of the machine.

The robot vacuum cleaner reappeared and handed over a card. It meant that we should roughly pick out a doll and carry out the mission inside.

“Hmm, ‘Each doll has Testar’s anonymous missions’…Oh, am curious.”

“Let’s pick one!”

Most of the members were excited and stuck to the machine. For now, Cha Eugene, who was the first to grab the steering wheel, took control of it.

“Yap!”

The result was a disastrous failure.

“…The machine is weird.”

“Leave it up to me~”

Keun Sejin took over the joystick from Cha Eugene who withered away and moved excitedly. And likewise, he failed.

“He’s right. The machine is weird.”

Since then, countless failures continued.

In the midst of lame excuses from those who couldn’t accept the results, I politely declined from joining.

‘It’s troublesome.’

If I just turned around, someone would take over.

And it was Lee Sejin who grabbed the joystick.

“…Which doll?”

“Rabbit!”

“P-Puppy…”

And Lee Sejin succeeded in pulling it out at once.

“…!”

The moment the furry brown rabbit’s head dropped to the outlet, people accepted the result.

“W-Wow!”

“Hyung-nim, you’re good with your hands.”

“This was something I could pull out at once.”

“Can I pull another one?”

However, the claw machine had already stopped working.

It was probably a homemade machine designed to stop automatically once one was pulled out.

Behind Kim Raebin, who murmured that he would definitely pull out one tomorrow, the members stuck to the rabbit doll.

When I turned the doll over, a card was attached to its belly.

“Then, who wrote which…”

[Watch a horror movie together~^^]

“…”

“…Is it you?”

“Hey, no way.”

Keun Sejin waved his hand. He was confident that he had written more usable content.

And Ryu Chungwoo calmly answered.

“Ah, it’s me.”

“Wow! That sounds fun. Horror movies!”

“I-I’m looking forward to it…!”

The surrender of the older person they weren’t very close with created an urgently mild atmosphere.

In the end, I spent the evening watching a horror movie. I concentrated on the popcorn as the movie was streamed. Screams rang in my brain.

It was a waste of time, but I felt comfortable.

And the next day, early in the morning, the demos for the debut title track arrived.

It was time for me to suffer.

* * *

“My ears hurt.”

Cha Eugene said after listening to all the demo songs about 20 times with the volume turned up.

Almost everyone except Kim Raebin faintly agreed with that. I just nodded.

Those who had been excited and enthusiastic about having their own songs were exhausted after listening to the songs for several hours.

“…I don’t think there will be a big change now even if we listen more, so let’s raise our hands”

“Yes~”

“Then starting with number 1.”

That was how it went to the last number 11.

They had a tendency. It was similar to what I had already seen while working on <Idol Inc.>.

First of all, Seon Ahyeon and Ryu Chungwoo preferred a medium tempo. Seon Ahyeon especially liked lyrical songs.

And Kim Raebin and Cha Eugene preferred songs with strong bass and rhythm.

Keun Sejin chose the trendy genre. And he raised his hand only on kitsch melodies.

I didn’t know about Lee Sejin because he raised his hand only for one song. I was the only one left… I just picked the ones that sound good.

But, as to how I could do that.

It was because of this characteristic which was selected in the <Successful stage> pop-up displayed during the live broadcast of <Idol Inc.>'s last episode.

[Characteristic: Snatching ears (A)]

– Do you think this song will do well?

: Ability to distinguish masterpieces +200%

The grade was A.

It stopped on a platinum-colored slot, in which there was only one in every ten slots.

'Even without considering its grade, I have to keep it.'

If I was going to be in the music business, there was no other characteristic as useful as this.

Thanks to this, the characteristic 'I want to be the center' that raised my talent by one level was abandoned, but it was worth it.

To be honest, I even thought about throwing out 'I heard it's true', but I kept it for now because I thought it could be used in various situations.

'It's fine because I leveled up my fallen talent stat through practice and stage achievements during the final.'

So here was my current status window.

[Name: Park Moondae (Ryu Gunwoo)]

Level : 0

Title: None

Vocal: A

Dance: C+

Visual: B+

Talent: B-

Characteristics: Infinite potential, I heard it's true (C), Bacchus 500 (B), Snatching ears (A)

!Status abnormality: Win first place or die

The remaining points: 1

The problem was that the ability to distinguish songs obtained this time was not added as a fixed amount, but rather, it was added proportionally.

'It means that if I am tone-deaf in the first place, the increase is ambiguous.'

I didn't know because I'd never been very conscious of it, but since it was amplified to 300%, I thought it would work to some extent.

So the song I chose was…

"Then Moondae, you only pick number 7?"

"Yes."

Number 7 was the only one good.

The song was rather dreamy, with a trendy beat and a popular melody, which made it uniquely pleasing to listen to.

'The rest is weak.'

The development was either slow or quickly worn out. I didn't know the music theory, but I just trusted my 'ears' and judged it.

Still, Kim Raebin's eyes shone as if it was plausible.

"It seems hyung has a good ear. Number 7 is the most perfect."

"Hey, Raebin, you're too much~ Is this hyung's ear bad then?"

"N-No, that's not what I meant…"

When Kim Raebin was sweating at Keun Sejin's joke, Ryu Chungwoo smiled and sorted out the situation.

"Then there are number two and number seven left in a tie. Let's focus on these two songs."

"Yes~"

Number 2 was an R&B song that was easy to listen to.

'I didn't raise my hand because I quickly got tired of it.'

Anyway, everyone seemed exhausted, so I agreed without a word.

'I'll have to push number 7 more properly next time.'

As soon as we finished the morning like that, we got called again.

It was a meeting with the content production team. I heard that the company had selected a title track.

'…Shouldn't they discuss the song with the A&R team?'

I had a bad feeling this time, but I couldn't avoid it.

And the song they came up with…

“How is it? Is it okay?”

“…Yes.”

The song was good.

The problem was that they brought the concept of a baseball club to a disco song…

It was driving me crazy.

Chapter 67

The reason why a baseball club concept suddenly popped out was because of the director.

It was said that the existing concept brought out by the staff was rejected yesterday evening.

“The director has set the world view similar to cartoon movies. He said that the background of school in cartoons is sports, um, so it’s decided to be a baseball club.”

By the way, the original concept was retro.

‘Isn’t it too irrational to use as a school-related worldview?’

Still, it was at least suitable for a disco song.

A disco song and baseball club… It was neither rice nor porridge.

(TL notes: It was neither rice nor porridge = a project or an event that doesn’t result in anything. Like when you try to cook rice and it becomes neither porridge nor rice.)

As if they knew that, the staff kept talking about the song.

The story of the director popped out because they also felt it was unfair, but it was clear that they were regretting what they had done.

“We worked on a tight schedule, but the song came out well in our opinion.”

“Um, yes.”

Come to think of it, it was a song I had heard somewhere. Originally, this was the debut song for <Idol Inc.>'s passing participants. Although the arrangement was a bit different and there were no lyrics yet.

"Everyone… I hope you can set a concept that doesn't feel too different from this youthful style of students."

"Yes, I'll do my best."

"If it doesn't go well, it's okay to just choose a song and give it to me!"

"Ah… Yes."

"Don't worry, just tell me quickly~"

'I don't have much expectation.'

I just felt the urgency of office workers to meet the deadline quickly.

'We really don't have much time.'

Perhaps, if it became more urgent, 'Testar's participation' would be used only for marketing purposes, and the company would take care of everything.

I wonder how the album we prepared so hastily would turn out… Hmm, it wasn't a very promising prospect.

"Thank you!"

The mood of the members coming out of the meeting was uncertain.

Everyone felt it instinctively. That the debut performance reviews were not going to be great.

Ryu Chungwoo opened his mouth.

"…Shall we do our best?"

“Yes.”

“They say we’re going to use a studio or something like that!”

Surprisingly, opinions that we should pick the results as soon as possible were gathered, even if meant staying up all night.

These guys, who hadn’t forgotten their habit of working to death in auditions, had become accustomed to choosing and thinking about the results first.

“Guys, wait!”

As I confirmed that the manager was urgently contacting the reality show crew, I felt a strong premonition.

‘I won’t be able to sleep for more than five hours.’

The great death march to organize debut activities within a month had just begun.

* * *

The studio where the reality show camera was hastily installed was in the basement of a building near the company.

‘I heard that there are no extra studios or choreography practice rooms in the company yet.’

It was an agency that had no system, mentally and physically.

“Hello～”

“We’re working from now on!”

After responding appropriately to the camera, the discussion began right away.

“Let’s choose between number 2 and number 7. A majority vote?”

“Yes!”

What I wanted to push was number 7.

The result was 4:3.

“Then it’s number 2?”

“Yes～”

It was number 2’s victory.

‘…It has become difficult.’

The people who voted for number 2 were Ryu Chungwoo, Keun Sejin, Seon Ahyeon, and Lee Sejin.

“Since the company’s song is an exciting disco, I think it would be better for us to choose a song that is easier to listen to.”

“The medium tempo in number 2 is easy to listen to. Should I say it’s like a faint youthful feeling? Don’t you think it would be nice to use it with the school concept?”

“M-Me too… Number 2.”

To sum it up, it meant that they were conscious of the company’s song and considered the school concept.

‘Hmm.’

I wanted to try persuading them, but the timing to bring it up was risky since I was beaten by the majority vote from the beginning. If I looked like I couldn’t accept the result, I would sound less convincing.

‘Should I try my luck again after a while?’

And after a while. The timing arrived with unwelcome news.

“Uh? Heol!”

“Ah…”

It was because I briefly looked at my smartphone while eating dinner and saw this article.

[Comeback war in June, from VTIC to Cha Dolche]

The article was sorting out the singers who would make a comeback next month, in June.

And among them, VTIC was in the ‘scheduled second week of June’ category.

Our scheduled date was just around there.

*‘F*ck.’*

So… It meant that the group worth counting on your fingers on, who could push aside Testar’s first week of debut with <Idol Inc.> on its back, would come out together with us.

“If the article is right… Our activity will overlap with VTIC sunbae-nim, right?”

Keun Sejin, who finished the calculation quickly, murmured.

“…I can get their autographs.”

“U-Uh…”

The members made awkward noises and laughed bitterly.

If the schedule was really fixed like this, we were practically sentenced to give up first place on the public broadcast.

Besides, looking at the way the company had been doing so far, it was going to be difficult.

‘Looking at how the director is so full of himself, he’ll probably talk nonsense about having a chance of winning against VTIC. Even if the staff persuaded him, it would be delayed for a week.’

Even if we considered it as the best-case scenario, it was the second week after VTIC. We would still be pushed out of the weight class.

‘There were definitely more than 1.8 million copies of the last album.’

Therefore, it meant that we had to choose the right song so that the outline of winning first place could be visible.

‘I can’t waste the opportunity to avoid sudden death.’

Now was the time to bring it up.

“…Wait a minute.”

I immediately changed my stance.

“I’m sorry for bringing this up when the agreement is already over, but no matter how much I think about it, I want to push for number 7.”

“Huh?”

The members were startled.

‘…?’

I thought they’d be annoyed that I was dragging on a conversation that was already over, but this felt a little different.

“W-Why?”

“Oh, it’s the first time I’ve seen Moondae do this. Are you feeling emotional?”

“I guess you really like demo song number 7.”

“Have the overlapping activities with VTIC sunbae-nim awakened Moondae?”

“…”

These guys were sitting there wondering.

Say whatever you want. At any rate, it had to be number 7.

“Um, Moondae. I know it’s such a shame, but it’s hard to reverse what’s already been concluded. It’s a majority vote and we don’t have much time.”

Ryu Chungwoo smiled at the other members but tried to straighten out the situation.

‘No way.’

I had a headache just imagining how angry I would be while waiting for the next album if I missed first place by a narrow margin.

‘Besides, if the next album doesn’t win first place because of poor form, I will really be at risk of sudden death.’

“Give me five minutes. I’d like to try to persuade you.”

“…R-Really?”

“Moondae even go this far?”

“It’s weird!”

I didn’t mean to, but the members started to make a fuss.

‘…What the hell did you think of Park Moondae?’

Anyway, it was a good introduction that stirred up a commotion. I quickly sorted things out.

‘If we’re going to go by a majority anyway, I only need to win one person who’s easy to persuade. The score was 4 to 3.’

“First of all, Keun Sejin… And Chungwoo hyung, you guys chose number 2 because of the concept, right?

“Ah, that’s right.”

“Yes.”

The two nodded obediently. They were willing to listen.

It seemed that after 5 minutes, Ryu Chungwoo would get it sorted out again, so I had to quickly develop a story.

“If we exclude the concept and compare the songs objectively, number 7 was okay, right?”

“I like number seven a little more. But isn’t that not enough?”

Keun Sejin immediately replied.

‘I got you.’

“Because it doesn’t go well with the company’s title track?”

“That’s right.”

“Then why don’t we change the company’s song?”

“…??”

In an instant, all the group members became noisy.

“Hyung, that’s a little…”

“It’s impossible!”

"…There's no way we can do that."

"But I do want to change it."

"Wait a minute."

Ryu Chungwoo took control of the conversation again.

"Moondae, think about it. Even if we leave out the company's song, number 7 itself is school, youth… It's not a song that goes well with this."

"That's right."

Kim Raebin nodded sullenly after choosing number 7.

"Number 7 is a deep house song. In addition, it is somewhat dreamy because it was shot with the riff melody of kalimba… It's hard to bring out the 'youth' theme. If you remove that part of the arrangement, the charm of the song will disappear."

I shook my head.

"We can make that concept come alive without getting rid of it."

"…"

I brought out the idea that I had been thinking about while we were talking about the concept at the company.

"…"

'Their faces are saying it's plausible.'

Kim Raebin already looked like he was creating something in his head with a dazed expression.

"No, that… That's a good idea."

Ryu Chungwoo struggled to open his mouth.

“I don’t know if the company staff will be persuaded. We’re running out of time.”

“…”

He couldn’t help but think about that. Of course, he must be worried about the director who couldn’t communicate well.

‘I didn’t want to say this, but.’

I swallowed.

Whatever.

I just had to suit the taste of the director.

“…I’ll make a PPT.”

“…!”

“By tomorrow morning.”

“…!!”

How else can we show our hard work and passion?

‘Is this how I get rewarded for going to college?’

I swallowed a sigh.

* * *

On that day, Park Moondae stayed up all night in the dorm. And the other members couldn’t sleep either.

It was because the loyalty and the conscience of putting off everything to the speaker woke them up.

Thanks to this, the presentation material became a picture that everyone made together.

“What should I look for?”

“I’ll write it down here.”

“I like this image! It’s perfect!”

However, the person who proposed the overnight PPT production was not very happy.

‘If there are too many boatmen, the boat will go up the mountain.’

(TL notes: It’s a Korean proverb meaning ‘if too many people are involved in a task, it will not be done well’.)

Park Moondae was planning to show the completed version in the morning and receive feedback.

In the first place, this work didn’t need the help of 20-year-olds who had never made much presentation material.

‘Raebin does some data research, but it’s not like I can’t do that too, so it doesn’t matter.’

Plus, he also had some goals.

‘…I have done this much, but I wouldn’t be able to knock them down if they want to go with number 2.’

It was intended to fan out the mouths of number 2 voters, who had become a minority, with a sense of debt.

Seon Ahyeon was a representative example. He was a member who chose song number 2 purely because he liked it.

“M-Moondae. D-Do you want to drink this?”

However, Seon Ahyeon was the one struggling to help complete the PPT.

He was so passionate that he couldn’t possibly do it out of conscience alone.

“…?”

Park Moondae hesitated at the sense of disparities but eventually asked.

“Are you okay with this? I am doing this to push for number 7.”

Seon Ahyeon nodded vigorously.

“I-I thought a lot about it and decided. N-Number. 2… Um, N-Next time, I’ll be greedy!”

“Um… thank you.”

“Huh, n-no! S-Since we’re all doing it together…!”

“…”

‘Why do I end up feeling a sense of debt?’

Park Moondae decided to be nicer to Seon Ahyeon.

“Where’s Cha Eugene?”

“He’s sleeping in the kitchen~”

Anyway, the night passed quickly.

And the morning when the sun came up.

“Good morning.”

Park Moondae and the members went into the company’s morning meeting with the PPT.

“How passionate.”

“Thank you.”

The director, who didn’t know the contents of the presentation yet, reacted favorably, saying that he liked the speed and attitude.

In the first place, they weren’t unknown rookies whose future was still uncertain, but a group that would become a golden goose, so it was just natural.

And five minutes later.

The director was extremely bewildered.

“Director, I heard that the baseball club concept was created by taking references from cartoons.”

“Right.”

“Certainly, when it comes to school-related cartoons, sports seem to be the trend.”

“Hm-mm.”

“And one more thing, there’s a genre that’s steadily on par with sports in school cartoons.”

“Oh~ What is it?”

Park Moondae turned over the PPT slide screen.

A magic wand floated across the screen.

“It’s the magical girl.”

“…?!”

The meeting room plunged into a whirlwind of confusion.

Chapter 68

"…"

There was a moment of deceptive silence.

The director asked as if he had heard a random joke.

"…Magical Girl? You mean like what the kids watch? Like Luna Moon?"

"Yes."

Park Moondae quickly cleared up the situation before the director became displeased.

Thud.

"Of course, I don't really mean Magical Girls for toddlers."

As the PPT went over one more slide, they could see cuts of props in dreamy colors.

A classroom window glittering in the glow of the sunset.

The sky wallpaper on a cracked phone.

Classroom clock with purple effect.

……

"However, if only the symbolic motive of the genre is reconstructed, it can compete well enough. The retro sentiment is trendy these days, so it's also a choice that can capture both popularity and batting eyes."

(TL notes: batting eyes = the ability to distinguish between a ball and a strike in baseball.)

"…Hmm."

Park Moondae posted some examples of retro marketing in several PPTs. Among them, there was a viral SNS conducted by T1, the parent company of the agency.

"Also, if the song's dreamy atmosphere and the keywords 'Youth' and 'Magic' are combined, I think we can bring out the artistry with the composition of art films."

Art.

He poked at the weak part of high-ranking people like the director.

When the director talked about self-produced idols, Park Moondae noticed the image he expected from the agency's business.

'He wants to look good, so he has no choice but to do it well.'

Since he talked about popularity a lot in front of them, Park Moondae also made enough excuses for the commercial.

"Related image references and arrangement plans."

Park Moondae turned over the PPT slide and showed additional image data he had selected with the members.

And lastly, he briefly played song number 7.

It was the chorus part.

However, it felt different from the demo.

"…!"

"We want to proceed with the overall arrangement in this direction."

Kim Raebin, who was standing together and looking at the presentation materials, nodded slightly.

The rest of the members were slightly relieved because it gave a strange comfort to see the person who led the arrangement being satisfied.

'I couldn't sleep a wink because of that.'

It was fortunate for them that Ryu Chungwoo had a car and a driver's license. They were able to go to the studio just by texting the manager.

Of course, the manager who woke up in the morning and saw the text had freaked out.

"Oh…"

The director gave a strange exclamation and soon nodded his head.

And he clapped.

"Oh, I definitely need to have friends who are young and talented. In just one day! You even prepared a presentation~"

'I guess he likes it.'

Park Moondae held back a snort.

The director shouted compliments to the staff, saying, 'They seem to be better than the kids who joined the company these days', and finally got to the point.

"Okay~ Let's proceed like this."

"Thank you!"

"Oh, I'm okay with this because it's me. Other directors, those old people don't know much about these things~"

Looking at the director who was showing off, Park Moondae smiled as sincerely as possible.

It was the vibe of dealing with a professor.

By the way, the members who saw that scene were exchanging glances behind, saying, ‘You want to go with number 7 that much?’

“Right. Director, I believe you so there’s one more thing I want to tell you.”

“What is it?”

Park Moondae turned over one more slide on the PPT that the director thought was over.

“It’s the opinion on the song that the company gave us.”

“…?”

“Ah, we really like the concept of a baseball club. Isn’t that right?”

“Of course!”

“I really want to try it.”

“I heard it’s the director who decided it. Thank you!”

Park Moondae and the members eagerly exchanged responses that were already planned.

‘Let’s finish it before the company staff come to their senses.’

“So to make it more like a traditional baseball club, why don’t we add another genre instead of disco?”

“W-What?

Park Moondae smiled faintly.

“How about using Rock?”

* * *

Two weeks before Testar’s debut date which was officially approved by the agency.

An article was posted on the portal site.

[＜Idol Inc.＞’s Testar debuts on June 18]

[Big rookie Testas from the audition, the countdown to debut]

[Testar (TeSTAR) appears… music upheaval in June]

The debut was set about five days later than previously stated, but the fans were still enthusiastic.

Because there had been no news for the past two weeks.

– Ah, finally

– Something must have been going on. Phew…

– There are 20 days left. I can finally wait in peace.

– Nothing has been posted on the kids’ SNS besides the first post ㅠㅠ Guys, I wish you’re doing well! You’re all busy preparing for the album, right? ㅠㅠ

– The reality show schedule has been set. I hope the trailer will be released soon

Some fans were slightly concerned about the overlapping schedule with VTIC, but they couldn’t say the debut date that had already been announced should be delayed so they were satisfied with reality.

– The kids will love it ㅋㅋ There are quite a few members who said they respected VTIC, right?

– It's not going to be released at the same time. It's going to be a week apart, so it'll be okay.

– I'll be able to see Moon Puppy with Cheongryeo-nim again

Just thinking about it makes me happy

Fans used this piece of news as hot content and talked about this and that.

It wasn't that there weren't fans who expressed dissatisfaction, but the general reaction was to wait and see.

And a week later.

Less than two weeks left until the comeback.

– Why isn't anything coming out?

People exploded.

– Is the agency actually working?

– It's time for the teaser image to come out, but why isn't it showing up on their SNS?

– How come there isn't any content? It doesn't make sense

– You didn't publish the articles and put the kids on an island, did you?;;; No eyewitnesses

– You're not going to leave the kids neglected and run away with the company's investment, I won't let you go

Terrifying clouds of war hung in the air as if a statement would be announced at any moment. The website of the agency, which was made hastily, was already inaccessible due to traffic overload.

On the day the LAN cable was about to be torn apart due to the explosion of anger.

– CCCrazy something has come out (link)

The teaser was released at midnight that night.

* * *

[TeSTAR (Testar) 'Magical Boy' Official Teaser]

"…"

On the thumbnail, there were two hands outstretched to the sky. The sky with a subtle mixture of yellow and purple stood out.

But when the play button was clicked, a black screen suddenly popped up.

Click.

The English narration was accompanied by subtitles.

[As a child, I always went home before sunset.]

[There was no moonlit night in that daily life.]

[And now.]

[Looking out the window from inside the classroom.]

[The sun was setting.]

Screech- Click.

The sound of a film being played could be heard.

At that moment, the sunset sky filled the screen.

Golden and purple and red sunlight crashed into each other.

A music box rang.

♫♪♩♪-♫♪♫♪-♪♩-

The two note scales soaked the screen like water droplets and colored it dreamily.

Suddenly, the camera started to move back. A white border surrounded the fantastically colored sky.

It was a window frame with fluttering curtains.

Then, on the window frame, a figure could be seen sleeping.

[…]

Back view of a dark-haired boy in a white summer school uniform.

There were old gloves and baseballs scattered around.

The boy tossed and turned, slightly. The light of the sunset poured in.

♫♪♩♪-♫♪♫♪-♪♩-

The moment the boy's white school uniform turned pink in the sunset.

The fluttering curtains seemed to unfold wide, and then they shone white and shattered down like crystals.

Psssh…

The transparent crystal fragments poured down on the boy's back, shooting a purple sunset in all directions.

It was a feast of enchanting colors.

And.

The screen turned black.

[Magical Boy]

[06.18. 00 : 00]

“…”

A short 30-second video, that was it.

However, the terrifying number of views proved the reaction.

[View count: 5,191,045]

It was crazy.

It even took less than a day to reach three million.

Considering that Testar had no overseas base, it was stunning.

“What do you think?”

“P-People… they like it?”

I nodded.

“Yes.”

“T-Thank goodness…!”

Ahead of their debut, several members who were detoxing on the internet for their mental state sat down on the floor

The tension eased, and the fatigue seemed to darken their eyes.

‘It’s understandable.’

To be honest, if the response was not good, my mental state would have melted.

Because I’d been working like a cow with insomnia for 25 days now.

‘…Still, the date is close.’

In fact, the teaser was supposed to be released later. Because the ‘Magical Boy’ music video hadn’t been edited yet.

However, if we delayed it any longer, people who waited for us would probably vomit blood due to stress, so everyone tried to speed it up somehow.

‘It seemed the agency finally got scared.’

Anyway, the response was overwhelming… It was great.

– What’s with the crazy quality

– How in the world did they come up with a concept like this;; I am really perplexed, tell me their bank account number

– Guys, it’s already fun. It’s already a great song

– What’s this? Magical boy? You are my magic… Argh

– That’s why there hasn’t been any news, they were making something like this… Then it can’t be helped. Okay, I understand – My wallet belongs to Testar. It’s reserved.

None of the scratching comments from fans were noticeable. It meant that the review was good enough that all dislikes were pushed away.

The teaser came out well too in my opinion.

The part of the song to be revealed was picked well, and the directing was appropriate.

'It was also a good choice to make it difficult to know who appeared since only the back side was shown.'

I didn't know what would happen if they picked out just one person to be in the teaser from a group that debuted in a survival show.

And above all, the visual beauty that the capital was poured into was excellent.

'I think people's expectations have grown too high… Since the song is good, I'm sure we can cover it.'

Additional contents would continue to appear in a few days, so fans wouldn't have to worry.

"…Guys, let's get up and get ready again."

"Yes…"

At Ryu Chungwoo's tired voice, the members lifted themselves up like zombies.

I also put my smartphone aside and joined.

"Great job. Now the music video… It's over after we shoot this song."

"Wow…"

"The schedule will return focusing on dance practice."

"…"

There was no forced march more hellish than this.

"Yes!"

In the terrible silence, only Cha Eugene's answer echoed excitedly.

Then, the staff approached.

"We're done setting up~"

"Yes!"

The filming of the second music video was slowly coming to an end.

In fact, considering that we usually start filming at least a month in advance, there was no crazier schedule than this.

'…It means that everyone involved stays up all night to finalize this.'

For reference, the director who filmed 'Magical Boy' also filmed this.

'This company, the staff are definitely doing a good job.'

No matter where they got the music video director from, they quickly recruited a new, famous director. It was probably intercepted in the middle through personal connections.

It was a move of experienced people who ambitiously gathered in T1.

The problem was that we didn't know when the ticking time bomb in the form of the director who only had the motivation and the incoherent system of the company would explode.

In particular, I would like the superiors who had been blinded by the media's brainwashing 'Testar's agency is here' and hit me with articles such as debuting within a month to quit immediately.

…Let's erase this from my head for now.

I had to work, but I was just so stressed out.

"Have you guys familiarized yourself with your parts in the filming?"

“I didn’t have anything in particular to be familiar with.”

“Me, too!”

“Ah, right~ We didn’t have anything in particular. Sejin hyung-nim must be having a hard time?”

“…Not really.”

Lee Sejin replied bluntly but did not seem uncooperative.

Somehow, both of the music videos we filmed had storylines, so we decided to make good use of his background as a child actor.

‘Hmm, it wouldn’t be a bad idea to make work him harder.’

I talked to Lee Sejin.

“Actually, I was kind of impressed when I saw it… You were really good.”

“…”

It wasn’t completely empty talk. We definitely didn’t have time left. Among us, he was the only one that didn’t look amateurish in unedited cuts.

“I understand how Moondae feels. He’s embarrassed that only the back of his head is shown alone in the teaser~”

The nonsense came back from the wrong guy.

When I turned around, Keun Sejin quickly averted his eyes and looked away. That bastard is really…

“…I was going to make a living from it, so I have to do it well.”

“Yes?”

Lee Sejin did not answer further. He just followed the staff with a slightly sunken face.

‘You’re like that even if I complimented you.’

I held back my sigh. Being annoyed was just a waste of energy.

“Okay, let’s start with the group dance scene~”

“Yes!”

I set my posture according to the choreography formation and reorganized the schedule in my head.

Originally, the concept photo should have appeared first, but the schedule was delayed due to the release of the teaser video, so it was planned to be released around the time the album was released.

‘Then maybe… the reality show will be cleared up first.’

In fact, I thought the video trailer would be released last week at the latest, but it was still very late. There were only a few days left until the show aired.

And, as expected, the reality show trailer came out that night.

[Testar’s ‘Living Together’ TEST]

[Revealed on Friday, June 8th at 7 pm!]

Chapter 69

‘Today has finally come.’

Park Moondae’s first homma stared at the monitor, cracking her fingers.

Today was the day the first episode of the reality show aired.

There was still a record of her being excited with her friend in the group talk because of the scene in the trailer released a few days ago.

– Moondae is cooking!

– Moondae is playing a game!

– Gyaaah!!

…The video clips that were thrown in while they were suffering from a chronic lack of content were no different from drugs.

She had watched the cutely edited short trailer so many times that she almost memorized all the contents.

And now, she was finally about to watch the full video!

‘It’s starting…!’

She rubbed her hands together when the ‘For 12-year-olds’ sign came out. The teaser streaming that she had played for the record of the number of views was temporarily suspended and she stared at the screen with a disciplined attitude.

[Honored debut!]

The program began by introducing Testar's situation, briefly showing the final moments in the last episode of <Idol Inc.> and various media reactions.

[TeSTAR is finally formed]

[Where are they?]

Meaningful captions.

And what came right after…

[Uaaah!!]

[Let's do it one more time!]

[U-Uh…]

It was the figures of Testar members who were overly immersed in board games.

-ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– You've been doing well, noona is relieved!

– Looks like a lot of fun

It was as people said on SNS, Testar looked very happy.

Fans were happy to see them look comfortable outside of the audition.

[Testar, why… are you playing the game so seriously…?]

With a humorous caption, the screen changed.

[<202■May■■Day 9 AM>]

[Wow!!]

[I love this place!]

Testar was seen entering the dorm noisily.

The editing and effort of the members to look bright and excited shined through, making them look like a pack of puppies.

'What about Moondae?'

Park Moondae was not running around, but he was looking around the house with his eyes wide open. What he was wearing was the yellow hoodie that she had seen in Testar's first photo on SNS.

'It's even cuter watching it in a moving image…!'

While she was moved, other viewers were also busy talking about the plain clothes.

– I finally see the kids wearing what they want in high-definition ㅜㅜ Is this the taste of debut!

– Their preferred style is exposed

– ㅋㅋAh, everyone is predictable, only Moondae sticks out ㅋㅋㅋ

I know, according to eyewitnesses, he only wore t-shirts every day, but for some reason, he's wearing such cute clothes ㅋㅋㅋ

He had worn a Welsh Corgi doll mask too. He's serious about his character…

It's so true

As expected, he mysteriously works hard

And on the screen, the scene of the Testar members receiving a mission card from the robot vacuum cleaner began to be broadcasted.

[Clear the mission so that you can become a true group!]

[Ah.]

[Ah… Mission.]

After that, the figures of the passing participants overreacting to each element reminiscent of <Idol Inc.> and being slightly depressed was used as a good gag element.

– ㅠㅠㅠAah

– What should I do ㅋ큐ㅠ

– Guys, actually, we all suffer from Idol Inc PTSD…

– The program is really sinful, now that Testar has come out, get rid of it now!

– I hope there's next season of Testar reality show every year ㅋㅋ

Viewers laughed but sympathized.

And they burst into laughter again when they saw the members change their attitude due to being overly immersed in the game during the roommate mission.

[Please, just once!]

[I want to win!]

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– What should I do with the kids' competitive spirit ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– This is kind of… Could it be an occupational disease… They couldn't break Idol Inc's habit of working to death.

I think this is correct ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

And the fact that the most immersed person and the most calm person came in first and second place side by side also became a fun element.

[Yeaaah! I won!]

[…Um, congratulations.]

The calm appearance of Park Moondae, who seemed bemused by Cha Eugene's loud ceremony, made the contrast even more hilarious as it reminded them of the team match between the two.

– Moon Puppy looks like a Tibetan fox again ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– The two of them are so different, but since they're on the same team, it's so much fun. Please continue being close, guys ㅠㅠ

– ㅋㅋㅋ First and second place exchanged their rankings and became first and second place again

– Cha Yu is very lucky and Moon Puppy seems to be good at games? ㅋㅋ

However, the reaction faded slightly at the roommate's result.

This was because the combinations that they had never really thought about or hoped for came true.

– Oh

– It ended up like this ㅋㅋ

– I hope they're doing well

– The roommate won't stay like this until the end, they'll change it again, right?

However, most of the reaction was recovered in the scene of making dinner.

It was because the grocery shopping team, which excitedly ran through the mart and picked up goods, and the cooking team, which made jjimdak in harmony, were both cute.

In particular, Park Moondae and Seon Ahyeon pulled out their portions with unexpected cooking skills.

[I think it would be better to start by trimming the ingredients first. I'm going to prepare the chicken, is that okay?]

As soon as the cooking materials arrived, Park Moondae distributed the work in an instant and took on the most difficult task himself.

It was purely because he couldn't trust the other members, but on the screen, he looked quite reliable.

And Seon Ahyeon somehow looked like he was good at cooking but he mercilessly messed it all up, taking his portion with a very embarrassed look.

[S-Sorry…]

[You have nothing to apologize for.]

Park Moondae looked alternately between the miserable onion and the kitchen knife that almost cut Seon Ahyeon's hand and gave the depressed Seon Ahyeon a new job.

[With this… Can you set up the table over there?]

[Y-Yes!]

Seon Ahyeon on the screen instantly brightened with a bright effect. And of course, the fans were amused.

– Moondae is good at cooking?;; I'm flustered

– Aigoo, Ahyeon ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Guys, let's not leave Ahyeon with a kitchen knife (alone) from now on. I think he's going to get hurtㅠㅠㅋㅋ

-Moondae is good at taking care of people?ㅠㅠ Why did he come out like that at the beginning of Idol Inc…

I think this is the question of every Park Moondae's fans

The scene of their first meal at the dorm, where they ate jjimdak and had a friendly conversation, was well-received as a typical image that fans expected from a reality show.

– The kids have big hands, they made a lot of jjimdakㅋㅋㅋ

– Everyone is eating well

– The kids seem to be closer than I thought. Is it a comradeship born out of captivationㅋㅋ

– Let's be together for a long time, guys ♡

And the climax finally came up.

The group watching a horror movie.

[Hihihihihihi]

At the ghost's face floating on the screen, the supermarket PB popcorn cut through the air.

[Ugh…]

[Ooh!!]

Thanks to the production crew who caught each member's reaction, fans were able to happily build more characters of the members.

– Cha Eugene is laughing?ㅋㅋㅋ

– No, the world's Keun Sejin, is scared of ghosts! I thought he was such a socialite that even the ghost wouldn't pay attention to him!

– Raebin, you're going to tear your clothesㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Ryu Chungwoo-ssi, I didn't see you like that, but you're so dishonorable. You chose a horror movie because you're not afraid!ㅋㅋ

And before Park Moondae's cut came out, Park Moondae's fans were all guessing.

Of course, Park Moondae can't be scared!

– Looks like the Tibetan fox will come out againㅋㅋㅋ

– (Everyone seems scared. Horror movies are scary things.)

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

It's already cuteㅠㅠ

– I think he's just eating popcorn and watching

But Moondae, who was the last to appear on the screen…

He was eating popcorn with his eyes down.

And every time he heard a ghost, the popcorn bucket jumped sporadically.

[Guuuuuuurgh…]

[(Popcorn acrobatics)]

Still, Park Moondae firmly didn't turn his attention to the movie.

Comments flooded in.

-…?

– ?!??

– Scared… He’s scared!

– Oh my gosh

– I must be losing it, he’s so cute

Fans were completely excited by the agitation of Park Moondae, who always appeared calm on broadcasts whether he stayed up all night for a week or won first place in the final.

– Wow, he can’t look at the screen until the end ㅠㅠ Ehehe look at him pretending he can – He’s eaten all the popcorn, but he keeps holding onto the empty bucket! He can’t let go because he’s so scared!

– He’d wake up when the movie had turned off

– The other kids didn’t notice? Did Moondae think he’d look natural in front of the camera? ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

Park Moondae’s homma who was watching the screen couldn’t hold back and sent a message to her friend.

[Aah]

[Moondae is good at cooking]

[He’s good at board games]

[But he can’t watch horror movies ㅋㅋ Crazy, he’s so cute that I want to break down my apartment]

There were a series of typos because she kept her eyes fixed on the screen while typing the message, but that was what she wanted to say.

[7 members, 7 colors]

[Testar is getting to know each other from scratch]

[What will happen tomorrow?]

The first episode of the reality show ended with the horror movie part that brought joy to all the fans of each member.

"…Ah."

Come to think of it, it had already been an hour.

As she regretted it, the commercial break ended and a trailer was shown.

[We are now in the studio~]

The figure of the Testar exchanging discussions in a music studio with a soundproof booth.

And…

[Right now… We're on our way to give a presentation.]

It was the figures of the members wearing neat clothes and entering the meeting room.

"Gasp."

There must be a lot of footage related to the album!

She already wanted to see the next episode.

She hurriedly turned on SNS. She wanted to share this overflowing feeling.

– Honestly, I expected it to be boring, but it was really fun

– Where did all the guys who said the kids would be awkward with each other go hiding? ㅋㅋ They seemed close and content?

– Ah, in the trailer, it's great that the story related to the debut is being released. I feel relieved ㅠㅠ

– Wow, no way, was it the members who choose the new concept? Is this because of Idol Inc's experience, too?

She could relate to every word that showed up in her timeline feed.

She was about to press the write button with a happy smile when she saw an article pop up on the newly updated timeline.

[Ah… I'm going crazy (link) (screenshot)]

"Huh?"

The link was a portal site news address.

And the screenshot… It was from that article.

"…!"

As soon as she read the contents, her heart felt as if iyt had been hit by cold water.

[The unfair contract of <Idol Inc.>'s Testar was revealed in a lawsuit]

: The former agency (Dream K) of Lee Sejin (22), a member of TeSTAR who debuted through Idol Inc

According to Dream K's claim, Tnet forcibly requested the participation of artists from multiple agencies in order to recruit participants for <Re-listed! Idol Inc.>, which aired last January, and when a participant debuted through the program, they were forced to sign an unfair contract in which the artist's affiliation was transferred to Tnet.

……

She swallowed and clicked on the article.

* * *

In the middle of the night, past midnight.

A cold atmosphere broke out at the dorm.

"…Let's sort it out."

"…"

"So, Sejin's former agency… They're asking for their artist back."

Ryu Chungwoo calmly sorted out the situation.

I held back a sigh.

'It was something that could explode any time.'

In the first place, it was unreasonable to push through a contract stating that any participants who debuted with Idol Inc. would belong to them.

They must have made it that way because they couldn't resist the greed of having a long-lived group created by the audition.

'Still, if possible, can't you pay twice for the double affiliation?'

It seemed there was hardly any stealing in this industry.

Since they couldn't fight the broadcasting station, the agency would have lost anyway, but this season of <Idol Inc.> went so well that one thing exploded in the end.

'Perhaps… Complaints had already piled up since the 'Casting Call' content, where the broadcaster proposed to change the agency at will.'

Besides, they could use Lee Sejin as an actor alone, so it was understandable that they regretted it.

Even if they couldn't, they must at least want to receive their share of his Testar activities.

"…"

Lee Sejin didn't answer even in the confrontation that lasted for quite a long time. He just sat on the sofa with his head down.

Keun Sejin urged with a smile.

"Hyung, let's talk~"

At first, he coaxed him gently, but his tone gradually changed as if he couldn't stand it anymore.

"Keun Sejin."

"We need to get this sorted out quickly. You know there's a week left until the date of our debut, right? We don't have time~"

"…"

"If hyung-nim doesn't clear up his position now, other agencies can do the same and talk about lawsuits, right?"

Keun Sejin was still smiling his usual smile, but his words got faster and faster.

"If we stay still, it won't end with hyung alone, it might harm other members too, you know? Whether you leave or not, hurry up and talk to your agency now."

'This one is also having a mental breakdown.'

I clicked my tongue.

Come to think of it, Keun Sejin's agency could have joined the lawsuit filed by Lee Sejin's agency after taking a look.

He barely passed the audition and was about to make his debut; just thinking of going through that situation seemed to make Keun Sejin's blood rising upside down.

"…"

However, instead of opening his mouth, Lee Sejin got up and ran away.

"…!"

"Hey."

Bang.

Then he went into his room and shut the door.

'…Are you kidding me?'

It's your own business, but you're avoiding it one-dimensionally like this.

At this point, even I who hadn't thought much of it was starting to get annoyed. It's not just once or twice this happened, what are you doing?

'…In any case, I'll have to open that door if I want to sleep tonight.'

I approached the room and struck the locked doorknob from above.

Thud.

It was a doorknob used at home, so it just opened. There were benefits to working out.

“…!”

“I’m going in.”

Chapter 70

When I opened the locked door and walked into the room, Lee Sejin, who was sitting gloomily on his bed, freaked out.

“Urgh…!”

“Calm down.”

I sat on the opposite bed. Ryu Chungwoo and Keun Sejin, who I thought would follow immediately, were nowhere to be seen.

‘…I guess they courteously leave us alone.’

If it was just those two, it should be fine.

Well, it was fine. Anyway, since Lee Sejin was like this, I couldn’t sleep right away, so let’s hear what he thinks.

‘I wish I had a drink.’

There was no way that there would be such a thing in the dorm of an idol group that was about to be launched. Thinking it was such a pity, I just spoke out.

“Hyung, you know that you’re going to have an interview with the company tomorrow morning or early morning anyway.”

“…!”

“If that’s the case, wouldn’t it be better to just relax and organize your thoughts here? It is not a situation that can be avoided by avoiding it.”

As I wondered whether the characteristic ‘I heard it’s true’ didn’t pop out this time, Lee Sejin spoke only after a while.

"…I don't know."

"What is it that you don't know."

"What I want to do…"

"…?"

Isn't it too late to worry about your career now?

"Do you want to go back to your former agency and continue acting?"

"…I don't want to go back."

"So you're saying you want to act?"

"…Isn't that obvious?"

Lee Sejin buried his face in his palms.

"I never thought about becoming an idol in the first place…"

"…"

This somehow reminds me of when something went wrong…?

I clicked my tongue.

'I guess you didn't participate in the audition out of your own will.'

"I guess you participated in <Idol Inc.> because of your former agency."

"…That's right. I took a long break… I had to do something like that because I just joined in."

“Um.”

I said nonchalantly.

“For that kind of reason, you seemed to be working hard.”

“…Even if I didn’t have to work hard. I couldn’t be like that.”

Lee Sejin flared up a little.

‘Hmm, it felt different from that.’

I remembered what he said to me in the final.

– You’re debuting, so it’s not over for you, is that what you mean?… It must be nice

Doesn’t that mean you want to continue? In addition, the change in Lee Sejin’s status window was also noticeable.

‘There is no F anymore.’

Lee Sejin’s dance stat, which was F at the beginning of filming, had now risen to D+.

It was never a growth that could be achieved if it had been done without any special interest.

So I got a rough idea.

“It was actually fun.”

“…!”

“It was fun, so you worked harder without realizing it.”

Lee Sejin kept his mouth shut. He couldn’t deny it.

“That’s right… It felt good being on stage. I thought I would like to continue. But acting, too… I want to continue it.”

“…? Do it.”

“What?”

I don’t know why you are worried about this.

“In a couple of years, the agency will probably insert individual activities. Postpone it. If you serve out for five years, there will be the season of contract renewal, so if you want to stop being an idol, you just have to continue acting.”

Lee Sejin, who had been listening with his mouth open for a while, soon lowered his head with a bitter smile.

“…I can’t.”

“Yes?”

“You don’t know what my former agency is like.”

“…”

Well, I didn’t know. Learning that kind of stuff wasn’t my thing.

Lee Sejin seemed to have given up halfway, moving up the situation.

“Dream K, over there… It’s not a decent agency. If I stay here like this, I don’t know what will explode out of their resentment.”

“Do you have any weaknesses?”

If drugs came out here, I would go ahead and recommend withdrawal.

Fortunately, Lee Sejin frowned.

“I didn’t lead that sort of careless life… I mean they will blow it up in the form of plausible tabloid gossip.”

According to the explanation that followed, it seemed there were already several actors who had been sent off that way because they didn’t renew their contracts.

When the contract renewal season came, they deliberately released rumors to lower the ransom.

‘Isn’t it just like a picture of a bad company?’

“Um, Is there a line-up of rumors that you can predict??”

“Mine is obvious… First of all, the purpose of joining the audition was to make a comeback as an actor and they set the mood by saying that I didn’t even want to be an idol.”

“Hmm.”

“And then there was an affair… Well, anyway, they’ll release strange propaganda articles and since it’s not a crime, I can’t prove it.”

“Well, our investment destination is T1, so I don’t think you’ll leave just like that.”

“For now, their goal is to blow up the former agency first and set the mood. They’re making T1 cut me cut off.”

Lee Sejin murmured bitterly.

“At any rate… I was added at the last minute.”

“…”

“The public opinion about me on the Internet is not good right now. There are a lot of people asking to do it without me… Because I’m no good.”

"…Um."

He must have looked it all up.

Certainly, that kind of talk had been circulating.

In other words, the group would be much better if we left out the person who was an additional passing participant, a former actor, and had the lowest skill.

I shrugged.

"That public opinion will weaken when we debut."

"…It's no use consoling me."

"No, I am just stating the truth."

"…What?"

"We are moving together with VTIC. It means that they're uniting internally to keep that side in check right now."

"…!!"

Originally, when a powerful enemy was formed outside, the inside was bound to unite.

"Besides, if hyung leaves, someone else will be the target. That's how it is. So, I don't think you should think about it."

Wanting to get rid of someone who looked like the weakest was a common behavior in any group. This meant that it didn't happen particularly because it was Lee Sejin.

Lee Sejin seemed a little teary-eyed, but he soon recovered and shook his head.

"Still… There is no way to stop my former agency right now. Just because I talk to the agency now doesn't mean that I can block off the gossip at its source."

"Then I guess you should do it yourself."

"What?"

I crossed my arms.

"Hyung, you can spread it yourself beforehand."

"…Beforehand?"

"You were forced to participate by your agency, and you post an article saying that you don't want to go back because you've found your aptitude. Make sure to emphasize 'force, forced' by your former agency. Thanks to the audition, you escaped."

"…!"

"Then even if gossip comes out, it won't work well."

My former agency is spreading rumors~In other words, creating an atmosphere that allowed the fans to defend him.

Once public opinion was turned around, the former agency would feel burdened to drag out the lawsuit, and then T1, who didn't want to give shares, would properly end it.

Lee Sejin was silent for a moment with his mouth open.

"…What have you been doing after you dropped out?"

"I joined the audition."

This repertoire didn't change. It was fortunate that the NIS topic didn't come out this time.

"Then let's talk like that with your former agency."

"…Okay."

Anyway, the situation was sorted out. Ryu Chungwoo would take care of the rest. I held back my sigh.

"…Should I post it on my SNS account?"

"Be sure to write it in your own handwriting."

* * *

After news of Lee Sejin's former agency, Dream K's lawsuit came out, the internet entertainment articles section was always filled with at least one related content.

In fact, since it was really an unfair contract, various reactions came out in connection with the issue of abuse of power at the broadcasting station.

– It's too much to take away someone who still has a remaining contract period. Keep the contract and they just need to manage the operation

– Then it's a double settlement. The kids aren't doing some kind of outsourcing service, so why should they do that;; It's better for idols – To be honest, the former agency didn't do anything right, didn't they even send him out to the audition? ㅋㅋ It's obvious that they're asking for a refund now that things are working well!

– In terms of cost, it's true that the agency would it was unfair after training trainees and paying for this and that.

– Ah, I'm tired because of Lee Sejin. What is going on. Let's just do it with six of them. Even without him, the quality of the stage and the atmosphere will help

In particular, there was a strong response from those who insisted on leaving out Lee Sejin.

– Oh really he’s not helping

– Our kids are doing well, but let’s pretend he’s an obstacle and take him out ㅠㅠ

– A week before their debut, what’s going on – Who wants to see the face of the person who was forced to come to the audition and made a debut by chance? There’s no one, right?

– I couldn’t sleep, I cried and watched the stage. The actor didn’t look good on Testar so let’s take him out

With those words, Lee Sejin’s fans were hurt, and the vicious cycle was repeated.

And the next morning.

A new notification came from Testar’s SNS, which hadn’t happened since the first post.

Fans who clicked at the speed of light saw a post with a picture of a handwritten letter attached.

–…!

It was written by Lee Sejin.

[Hello. I’m Lee Sejin, a member of Testar]

: I’m writing this to convey my thoughts about the latest news and stories

Carefully written in neat handwriting, the content began with a story about his childhood life in the entertainment industry.

In summary, it meant that the former agency had overworked him tremendously.

[…Due to such an excessive schedule, I stopped acting as a child actor due to health problems. I think it was hard for a 12-year-old to handle a schedule where he couldn't sleep 3 hours a day]

And it was said that as soon as he barely recovered and tried to take on a new challenge, he was forced to participate in the audition by his former agency.

[…I turned it down several times because I had never been on stage before. However, I participated in <Idol Inc.> under great pressure from explanations such as 'If you don't appear on this program, you won't be able to work.'

And in the audition that he participated in.

Lee Sejin wrote that he found an unexpected joy there.

[I, who was passive regarding peer relationships, had so much fun making good friends and performing with them. Standing on that stage made me happy.

I didn't expect it at all, but I really wanted to keep doing this. I became desperate.

And thankfully, that dream came true, and now it has become a very precious opportunity for me to debut with these good friends.]

Lee Sejin concluded the post by saying that he really wanted to debut as a Testar with these friends.

[I'm sorry I couldn't deliver the first post with good news. In the next post, I will come back with news that can bring you happiness as a Testar member. Thank you for reading this long post]

Shortly after this article was posted, the public opinion of Testar fans, who were hardly favorable to Lee Sejin, revived.

– ㅠㅠㅠㅠ

– Sejin said he wanted to become an idol! Just let him do it ㅠㅠ

– No, where did the conscience of the former agency go, what a damn unfair thing to say to a 12-year-old ㅋㅋㅋ Isn't what you did unfair?

-T1 was right this time. And Dream K is a pig.

– To be honest, I also thought Sejin joined Testar so abruptly… Sometimes I wondered if he really wanted to do this ㅠㅠ I'm sorry

Those who had been his fans since he was a child actor were more heartbroken.

– It makes me sick to think of a 12-year-old smiling on TV even though he was having such a hard time…

– I thought Sejin's personality got calmer because he grew up a lot… Sigh…

– I want to see Sejin acting… But more importantly, I want to see Sejin do what he wants to do. First of all, he can't go back to his former agency.

And once public opinion snapped, people who enjoyed ostracizing Lee Sejin were pushed aside.

Of course, there were still a lot of sarcastic people, but for now, they had lost in numbers.

– Lee Sejin is also good with pity acts ㅋㅋ But I can't do it better than him, what should I do.

You're doing better than having a life where you get mad at a 23-year-old and leave hate comments! ㅎㅎ

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋ You nail it

– Lee Sejin saw idols are living well so he wanted to keep going ㅋㅋ – I feel sorry for the kids who were eliminated, it seems he'll make it to three years and then run away

How could you interpret the accident so twistedly…

Characteristics of these guys: In other posts, they sarcastically ridiculed those who were eliminated because they were pushed back by Lee Sejin

As fans of passing participants began to feel sympathy for Lee Sejin's post, Testar's individual fandom began to feel repulsed by hate comments about the incident.

Taking advantage of this opportunity, Tnet seized Dream K with a few carrots and so many whips.

(TL notes: carrot and whip = a system of reward and punishment.)

The day when the articles quietly went down and were settled, the atmosphere of the fans was reversed.

As if to drive a wedge, another teaser was released at midnight.

However, this time it was not uploaded to the official Testar Wetube channel.

Instead, it was added as part of Tnet's Testar reality show.

[TeSTAR (Testar) 'Hi-five' Official Teaser]

'Is it a channel error?'

'It's not Magical Boy…?'

Fans thought so for a while, but they quickly clicked on the video.

"…!"

Chapter 71

The new teaser video started with a cheerful voice.

– High five~

Against the backdrop of the blue sky and the ground that appeared to be a school playground, Cha Eugene waved his hands and shouted.

Behind Cha Eugene, the members could be seen in a choreography formation.

All of them were wearing striped baseball uniforms that fit perfectly. The members, who were warming up, danced the choreography in line with the chorus that suddenly started.

– This shot

Tang Tang Tang

It will fit correctly

– Yes heart

Pang Pang Pang

Like a fanfare!

– Just burst out!

It was an exciting choreography with big movements and finely divided beats.

When the chorus part was over, the screen froze with a final dance pose. It was the pose of stretching their feet toward the screen and turning around.

And after a while

[…Cut!]

[Ugh!]

At the director's words, white captions appeared above the members sitting on the ground.

['Hi-five' music video]

[Revealed for the first time in episode 2 of ＜Testar's Living Together TEST＞]

It was a humorous and dynamic teaser that contrasted with the first teaser of 'Magical Boy'.

Of course, the number of comments increased in an instant.

– Crazy, two songs?

– Is this a pre-release? What should I do, I like this too

– No, you really picked funky beats for school ㅋㅋ

– Which of the two you're going to like? ㅋㅋㅋ By the way, I like both. It's great, Testar.

ㄴㅋㅋㅋYou too? I am the same!

– I only heard the chorus, but I'm already getting the hang of it, I think the second music will win

No, the Magical Boy choreography hasn't even been released yet. Give them a fair chance! ㅋㅋㅋ

– When the drumrolls came out, I thought they were hitting my heart as well; Ah, Testar is the human defibrillator!

The Internet was burning as people were getting excited, enough to overturn the gloomy incident just before.

Still, I was a little perplexed.

It worked so much better than I thought.

– No, did you go through training at your agency while cutting off the real news? You picked two songs, but both ended up being good?

– Even the concept is perfectly contrasted, but I guess it's connected a bit;; Do you remember the glove and baseball in the Magical Boy teaser?

Heol

It's amazing, really…

– Looking at the trailer for the 2nd episode of the reality show, it seems the kids took the initiative in participating, but I'm already looking forward to it.

– Let's go for 500,000 albums for their debut album!

And this reaction exploded once more the moment the second episode of the reality show came out.

[Related image references and arrangement plans.]

Because the members preparing the presentation materials within a day were broadcasted.

Since the broadcast was well-connected to the people at the front and the back, any mention of the director's irrationality and the simultaneous release with VTIC were all cut off.

Instead, the image of Testar passionately pursuing the title track was reflected well.

– No, why are the kids so good at their work;;

– I couldn't even imagine. Did you choose all the songs by yourself and come up with a concept?

– Besides, no one is fighting and they're on good terms! They have different opinions, but they're trying to persuade each other!

-Testar's blissful group project comes true…

Of course, doubtful people also came out.

– A rookie did this?ㅋㅋ It's all directing. Don't be fooled~

– Everything's already been decided. The portion was picked out as if it was the idols who publicize it. Don't trust the script!

I guess your favorite idol can't do anything by themselves, what should we doㅠㅠ

I know, right… Cheer up!

However, fans whose deal meter had exploded ignored them all, leaving only one or two words. They didn't even care much.

(TL notes: deal meter = a program that sums up the number of damages inflicted on enemies in games.)

It was because the feeling that things would go well had already prevailed.

-This will definitely succeed.

– The popularity index is already skycrocketingㅋㅋㅋ Even if it's a teaser scam, I think it will be fine

– Will the music video appear at the end of the broadcast?

The second episode of the reality show was more like a production journal. However, the scene with the claw machine was added at the end for a bit of entertainment.

It was a cut that had been omitted to bring the scene of the horror movie into one episode.

It mainly captured the image of the members who failed to pick dolls and won mentally in a cute way.

[He's right. The machine is weird.]

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Ah Keun Sejin is so funny!

The second episode ended with Lee Sejin picking out a puppy doll from the claw machine.

And when the music video preview subtitles appeared, the atmosphere heated up again with tension.

– It's starting.

– The music video is coming out!

The moment the commercial break ended.

The screen turned into a sunny classroom window.

* * *

"The music video is coming out."

"W-Wait a minute."

Seon Ahyeon slipped into the living room. And at the same time, the commercial break ended.

'Good timing.'

I focused my eyes on the screen.

In the first scene, Park Moondae… So, it started with a cut of me looking out the window. It was a bright blue sky.

And a notice paper was shoved to Park Moondae's face.

[Sports competition]

[School baseball game]

The person who handed out the notice was Lee Sejin.

His usual unfriendly appearance was nowhere to be found and he looked like a nervous model student.

As soon as Park Moondae looked into the notice and snooped around, the prelude began.

Swish!

The song started with a cheerful whistling melody.

A modified disco that eliminated the clutter of the upbeat drum and used a rock sound with an electric guitar… Honestly, I didn't know, but it was exciting.

It was a relief that once I went as Kim Raebin recommended, the existing cheap atmosphere completely disappeared.

However… Due to time issues, I couldn't change the lyrics.

-OH While thinking and thinking

I made up my mind Um~

Today I will throw

You will throw me away

Yes, heart~ Shot Shot!

…It was enough said.

“The choreography fits well.”

“Eugene is flying around?”

“Hehe.”

As soon as the group choreography cut came out, the members threw out one word at a time.

Perhaps they were conscious of the reality show camera installed to select the music video reaction content.

‘In the first place, I’ve seen the storyboard, so there’s nothing particular to be surprised about.’

On the screen, the story was developing with choreography cuts in between.

To summarize, it was about model student Lee Sejin gathering kids from his class to participate in a baseball game to fill in the school record.

As he gathered those who didn’t participate in the sports competition, he ended up gathering all kinds of weirdos and unique characters… Well, that was the story.

“Moondae is in the book club!”

“I-It suits you.”

I was given a role where I mostly read books or e-books.

– You have to give it a mysterious feeling. You know it, right?

The director emphasized that, but honestly, I didn't know about being mysterious… It just came out looking like they didn't know what I was thinking.

Next up was Seon Ahyeon. As you might have guessed… he was in the dance club.

"You're really good."

"You have the skill befitting of a dance major."

"T-Thank you……"

Seon Ahyeon, who worked hard on modern dance on the screen, was definitely impressive. It was clear that he couldn't immediately refuse and was suddenly taken away to play baseball.

Next up was Ryu Chungwoo.

"As expected of the national team!"

"Everyone! He actually shot that and got it right!"

"Haha, my posture got better after practicing."

There was a scene where he was cast playing archery, but of course, it wasn't awkward at all. Because he was not an amateur.

And next… Cha Eugene and Kim Raebin appeared together.

A little skit was inserted.

First of all, Lee Sejin vigorously opened the door to the sports warehouse.

Screech!

Then, he saw Kim Raebin and Cha Eugene, who were hanging out in the warehouse.

The two men, who looked like gangsters to anyone watching, stared at Lee Sejin who opened the door.

[…]

[…]

[…I'm sorry!]

Screech!

The door that had been opened was quickly closed again.

"Hahaha!"

"Sniff, it came out well."

The guys watching the music video burst into laughter.

Honestly, it was funny to me, too.

'It must be funnier because those roles were given to the youngest two.'

By the way, they decided on the characters they played on their own.

'I want to experience life at the top of peer relationships hierarchy in my work… He said that.'

When I thought of Kim Raebin's elaborate remarks, Cha Eugene's bright remark also came to mind.

– It's fun!

In any case, neither of them gave a good impression, but they did a frighteningly good job.

At last… Keun Sejin, who was in the election for the student council president, was recruited on the condition of running a campaign.

“Experienced people are different.”

“Ah, I would have been elected in that world~”

Keun Sejin said slyly and smiled.

‘You chose it on purpose.’

It seemed he chose that character from the music video and cover that side of the story because of the topic of the student council election that came up during the rumors of school bullying

Anyway, the music video ended with a humorous ending in which the ragtag team somehow managed to beat other schools in the sports competition.

For your information, Lee Sejin’s purpose–the school record–entered like a post-credit scene at the end and saved a slight twist.

“Wow!”

“It was fun until the end!”

There were no interruptions that made it hard to understand, and the story didn’t come out enough to be boring, so it gave just perfect fun. The arrangement with the group choreography cut seemed appropriate.

“Thank you for your hard work hard!

“Good job!”

First of all, words of relief poured out here and there with the joy that one music video was safely released.

And Ryu Chungwoo hinted, as if on purpose.

“Especially… Sejin, thank you.”

“…!”

“That’s right. Thanks to Sejin hyung-nim, even we, the amateurs, came out naturally.”

“Gasp, Raebin-ssi. These hyungs looked like amateurs…”

“N-No, it’s not like that…”

Let’s skip the fact that Kim Raebin is being caught by Keun Sejin’s words again.

“…”

Lee Sejin bit his lips but soon nodded.

And he added a little.

“…No, everyone did a great job. And… I’m sorry if I had a terrible attitude at that time.”

“N-No…”

“From now on… I won’t avoid it like this. I’ll get my act together.”

Lee Sejin clenched both of his hands tightly.

‘I guess you’ve come to your senses after turning off the urgent fire.’

It seemed he had looked back on the situation over the past few days.

“I-It’s all right! H-H-Hyung, thank you for your hard work…”

“You’re debuting now. It’s natural to go through trial and error.”

“Cheer up!”

“…Thank you.”

The atmosphere was warm again thanks to accepting the low hurdles.

After Lee Sejin’s affair broke out, the slightly awkward atmosphere that had been going on for several days seemed to have disappeared thanks to the music video.

That didn’t mean that we suddenly became closer and friendlier than regular co-workers.

“Fighting~”

For example, Keun Sejin who was smiling over there still didn’t seem fond of Lee Sejin, but… It was strange for seven strangers that stayed together to like everyone.

As long as we didn’t fight, it was fine.

‘This atmosphere will come out well in the reality show.’

The apology would be edited on its own.

I stretched, turning my shoulders. At that moment, Ryu Chungwoo spoke softly.

“Then, let’s go back to the practice room.”

“…”

“…Yes!”

Even that Cha Eugene answered late.

Everyone was already tired of practicing because of the forced march, but they knew that they couldn't sleep like this.

Because there were only three days left until the debut showcase…

"Let's cheer up, there's not much time left."

"Of course…"

"F-Fighting!"

After a few meaningless chants, it was confirmed that we would practice almost all night that day.

"…"

I hope there would be more fans coming to the showcase, not the reporters… I thought that would be comforting at least.

"Hey."

"Yes?"

Lee Sejin talked to me while I was pressing my eyelids. When I turned my head out of courtesy, I heard a small murmur.

"Thank you for putting up with me."

"…?"

Is it about the room?

I was so tired that I couldn't think straight for a while.

I immediately thought of a recent example that might fit better than that.

"Ah, the handwritten letter?"

"…Right!"

Lee Sejin shouted out loud, then took a deep breath and calmed himself down.

"…Thanks to you, it ended well. I'll pay you back."

"Yes… Well, you don't have to worry too much about it."

In fact, it was just a quick summary of what anyone would pick out if they woke up and wrote them down. We hadn't had time.

So the favor was over, all he had to was to stop the drug scandal.

Well… In fact, the drug scandal also seemed to be a problem related to the former agency.

'…That's how it is, but don't tell me something else will come out.'

It's not like I got hit in the back of my head just once or twice, so let's continue to be careful just in case.

"I'll pay you back!… Anyway, thank you."

Lee Sejin shouted again, and soon he took care of himself and quickly left the dorm.

I would see him again in less than 30 seconds.

'…You and I have to go to the practice room anyway.'

It was clear that he also couldn't sleep and his brain wasn't working. I shook my head and moved my feet.

* * *

Testar's Hi-five music video satisfied fans.

It was a sentence that might sound like nothing, but it actually meant a lot.

Because it meant ＜Idol Inc.＞'s debut group had met the soaring expectations that were high enough to pierce the ceiling.

– Honestly, when I saw the teaser and heard that it was a double title, I was a little worried that the firepower would be dispersed… But it was a useless worryㅋㅋㅋ

– Ah, did you watch the music video～ This is how the capital of large corporations tastes!

– Ah, what should I do, my heart flutters so muchㅠㅠ The Magical Boy music video will come out too, right?

– It's a crazy masterpiece. Quickly release the song, guys. Take my money

In addition, the tears of the people who couldn't get tickets for the showcase overflowed.

– Idol Inc crazy bastards sold everything as a stock package, so they said there was no ticketingㅠㅠ I heard the showcase was already sold out before the final episode!

– Does this make sense, Tnet! Among the people who bought it, there are fans of the eliminated participants and they resell the tickets at a high priceㅠㅠ

I am glad it ended with ticket reselling. What if someone had a bad intention and booed at them at the showcase… Sigh…

While fans who couldn't get tickets were worried and upset.

In fact, some of the fans of the eliminated participants didn't resell their showcase tickets.

'Let's see how good you are.'

Whether there would actually be boos or commotion, it was certainly a risk factor that Tnet inadvertently overlooked.

And on June 18, when the music video for ‘Magical Boy’ was released.

The showcase started at 8 PM that evening.

Chapter 72

I heard that the music video for ‘Magical Boy’ was released last midnight.

However, there was no time to catch up and monitor it. Cha Eugene’s half-dreaming nonsense was proving it.

“Hmm…? Is your hair done?”

“My hair was done a while ago, and we’re moving in the car now.”

“Oh…”

Cha Eugene went back to sleep with a vague exclamation.

Yes. Since last night, I’d been moving around, polishing, filming, interviewing…

We hadn’t been able to sleep properly for about a month., so it wouldn’t be strange if someone came out confused about who and where they were

“I-It’s the showcase now, right?”

“That’s right~”

I heard Seon Ahyeon take a deep breath after asking the manager with a tone of uncertainty. It seemed he was suddenly nervous because the event was right in front of him.

“Well, what we’ve been preparing this month… Let’s show them everything. No matter where you go, practice won’t betray you.”

“Of course~”

“Y-Yes!”

Some of the members who were awake responded to the encouragement said by Ryu Chungwoo whose voice was sinking.

And Kim Raebin, who was sitting next to me, murmured quietly.

“…In fact, the proportion of practice compared to the time period is great, but it is insufficient in terms of the absolute amount of practice…”

“…”

When I stared at him in silence, his words changed subtly.

“I think I’ll be able to perform the stage well with passion alone…”

“That’s right.”

It was a relief he was a sensible person even though he wasn’t sociable.

* * *

Most of the reporters who attended the showcase had high expectations.

It wasn’t about Testar’s skills, but about their popularity.

‘I’ll pick the number of views for the article.’

‘It would be damn nice if you fail.’

Reporters taking pictures and writing articles eagerly waited for the showcase to begin.

And in front of and behind the reporters, the shareholders who had purchased the stock package from <Idol Inc.> sat down.

Most of them had brought slogans and cheering tools. The shapes and colors were different because the official light stick had not yet been released, but the excitement of the fans was still visible.

In the atmosphere full of excitement, the opening began with lights on a dark stage.

– High five!

Wearing the same baseball uniform worn in the music video, Testar performed the stage with a more accurate group dance than in the music video.

– My feet are moving

Like zooming in~

To you

Ddan Ddan Daradara DAAN Yeah!

Jumping movements that move the body with excitement appeared frequently in the choreography to match the pleasant song.

Swish!

Every time they turned their bodies to the whistle or bounced their feet, the concentration on the stage increased significantly.

‘They’re good.’

‘The song is good, too!’

The witty ad-libs, such as playing rock-paper-scissors or greeting each other, were also cleverly cute.

‘They don’t look like rookies.’

‘People from the audition are good at this.’

The reporters turned the favorable impression into a fuss and worked hard to pick a title.

['Hi-five' Testar begins to prove its popularity]

[Testar 'Opening that ends with a homerun!']

In the meantime, the Testar members who finished the opening briefly went in. And instead, the MC came out and dragged the time.

It was a face that everyone here knew.

"Hello~"

"Oh!"

While fans were both pleased and disgusted at the familiar MC of <Idol Inc.>, Testar frantically changed their clothes under the stage with the help of the staff.

"Argh, my head!"

"The baseball uniform really doesn't come off…"

While Testar, who barely wore a school uniform jacket with splendid epaulets, ran out, the MC skillfully led the audience's reaction.

"Hey~ long time no see, shareholder-nim!… Huh? You're not happy to see me? Ah, let's not do that between us~ We haven't seen each other for three months! Of course, only the shareholder-nim saw my face."

A moment of laughter, playful boos, and cheers. The MC smiled and introduced the next stage.

"Then I hope you can meet your stock after a long time. Your stock has soared!"

And on the stage where the lights came on again.

Testar smiled and started dancing to the prelude.

It was <Just Me>.

"…!!"

It had been a while since the show ended, and the audience was enveloped in a strange nostalgia.

Moreover, it was a new feeling to see Testar singing <Just Me> with a smile, even dividing parts with each other.

It felt like watching the epilogue after a happy ending, so the audience enjoyed the stage with warm hearts.

– What shines on the stage today?

It's me!

Yes, you'll make Shining Star.

It's me!

"Finally, you wake up and shine~"

Eventually, a chorus of chants ensued.

Testar, who was flustered, sang the song with a bigger smile.

It was a fun trendy song time, even several reporters who watched <Idol Inc.> were nodding their heads.

However, it didn't warm everyone's hearts.

Some were cold-hearted.

'They're pretty much done with their songs.'

‘They get excited just for sharing parts?’

They were fans of <Idol Inc.>’s eliminated participants who were attending the showcase with crooked minds.

Of course, most of the fans of the eliminated participants were just enjoying the stage.

Even if not the first participant they liked, Testar also had some members they liked to some extent.

However, there were always a few exceptions.

“It was the Challenger version! Thank you~”

The incident happened while the members were talking for a while after the next song was over.

“That version! I really wanted to do it!”

“Yes~ Congratulations, young Cha Eugene.”

“Hee.”

Cha Eugene was excited to try a different team version of the song <Final> than the one he did in the final, and the other members were looking at him more cutely than when there was no camera.

Reporters also didn’t ask particularly malicious questions. However, a few sharp or trapping questions were asked.

“Everyone seems close, but who is the member you’re least close with?”

“Hmm, the preparation for the album was done in a very short period of time. How was that possible?”

“VTIC made a comeback just a few days ago on the 12th. What do you think?”

The questions were all expected, so Ryu Chungwoo and Keun Sejin threw themselves out, gently blurring the topic.

“We’re all getting to know each other~ But during <Idol Inc.>, everyone had developed a strange camaraderie… We’re surprised that we became close faster than expected!”

“The preparation for the album was able to proceed quickly because the company had already prepared everything for it. I would like to take this opportunity to thank Director Kwak Shinkyun and the staff.”

“When I meet VTIC sunbae-nim, I want to get a signed album! It was on my bucket list!”

At times like this, the surviving interview skills that the members learned to avoid evil editing were shining.

And the right question came up.

“You selected two songs. What is the charm of ‘Magical Boy’ that is different from the ‘Hi-five’ stage you showed earlier?”

“Ah.”

Ryu Chungwoo reflexively tried to grab the microphone, but after a brief decision, he handed the answer to the inventor of the idea, Park Moondae.

‘It’s not a weird question, so it should be okay for Moondae to answer it.’

He did it out of complete consideration, but Park Moondae was not a person who liked interviews very much.

‘Great.’

Still, he couldn’t turn the microphone back, so Park Moondae picked it up.

“The Magical Boy…”

It was then.

"…!"

"Ah!"

Something translucent strongly bounced off from below the stage and hit Park Moondae's arm.

"Careful…!"

Ryu Chungwoo pulled Park Moondae with his quick reflexes, but since it flew so strongly, he couldn't stop it properly.

"…"

Park Moondae looked down at his arm.

It was all wet.

'They threw a water bottle.'

Water dripped from the splendid epaulets to the sleeves.

Seeing that his forehead was cold, it seemed that the side of his face was also slightly splattered.

His elbow throbbed a little.

'They threw it hard.'

In an instant, the concert hall hardened with panic.

There were all sorts of chatter, worried murmurs, and small screams from the audience.

And the reporters became happy.

‘This is great.’

‘I don’t know who it is, but great job~’

Park Moondae quickly grasped the situation.

‘First of all, there are no strange ingredients.’

Considering that his forehead was intact, it was not hydrochloric acid or alcohol. In the worst-case scenario, the person who threw it had spit on it.

‘Then I’ll just let it go.’

The whole accident was over in three seconds.

It was possible thanks to his adolescence, where he always had to live by measuring the situation.

Park Moondae smiled.

“How quick-witted.”

“…!?”

“I guess they predicted my answer.”

And he took off his jacket. Inside the jacket, a school uniform shirt that fans already knew was revealed.

It was the white summer uniform from the Magical Boy music video.

“If you look directly at the stage, you can see the differentiated charm of this song, um. Enough that you’ll be able to confirm… That’s what I thought.”

“…Ah!”

The members quickly grasped the atmosphere, and they took off their jackets and threw them sideways.

“Then thanks to your urging, I’ll start right away. Magical Boy.”

Park Moondae brushed his hair which was still wet and took the microphone back.

Soon, the sound of a music box filled the concert hall.

♫♪♩♪-

♫♪♩♪-

♪♩-

In the dreamy purple stage setting, Park Moondae whose hair was still wet opened his mouth.

– I will meet you tomorrow

I’ve been thinking about it all-day

Have a dream blue as the day

And fans at the scene quickly forgot about the water bottle incident.

* * *

Testar’s showcase lasted less than an hour, never too long. However, articles and reviews came out after another even before it was over. Of course, the articles didn’t omit the mention of the accident.

[Testar, ‘Magical Boy’ with water-soaked dreams]

[The power of a prepared star. Crisis refined into a performance]

If you clicked on an article with these kinds of titles, you could see a picture of Park Moondae shaking off the remaining water from his hair in summer clothes.

Or it could also be a picture of him throwing a wet jacket. The water on the epaulet was splashed and reflected in the light, which actually enhanced the sense of beauty.

There were occasional photos of the water bottle, but most of them were captured from the videos they were taking, so the quality of the dynamic scenes where the object was inserted was not good.

Still, the response was clear.

– What kind of crazy idiot threw a water bottle at debuting idols?

– They threw it at his face ㅋㅋㅋㅋ If Cheongwoo hadn't pulled him, he would have been hit in the face

– They're obviously mentally ill

– They got caught, right? Please tell me they got caught and taken away

– I'm sad that I couldn't go to the showcase and had to watch the stage late, but that bastard took my seat? ㅋㅋ Die, please

Fans were furious but deeply relieved by Park Moondae's response.

– ㅠㅠ If he did something wrong, it could have ended in a mess, but I'm glad that Moondae handled it well. Really.

– He must have been flustered, but it was really amazing that he didn't show it and passed it off naturally.

– Hey, I think Park Moondae just seriously didn't notice? ㅋㅋㅋ It seems that the interpretation of his Idol Inc's character was correct~

Did we ever mention his character here? Get the hell out

– I was moved to see the members take off their jackets as soon as they saw it. I think the kids get along well.

Still, WeTube's cyber wrecker did not miss this good prey.

(TL notes: cyber wrecker = an influencer/YouTuber who makes fake news and stupid videos for money.)

Thanks to that, these kinds of titles briefly appeared in real-time popular videos of the day.

[What is the identity of the water bottle that flew to <Idol Inc.>'s first place?]

[Number 1 Idol got hit by water at the showcase!]

Ironically, thanks to the good response, all of these things brought out a buzz like viral marketing.

"Hyung, did you see this?"

And the news reached the ears of VTIC, who had just finished their first week of activities.

Chapter 73

During the boring music show pre-recording waiting time, one of the VTIC members who was touching his smartphone as he liked told Cheongryeo.

What he showed was the 9th most popular video on WeTube in real-time.

[Number 1 Idol got hit by water at the showcase!]

[On the evening of the 18th, an idol group's debut showcase was held at Red Square. The audition that heated up the internet a few months ago, <Idol Inc.>…]

Issue WeTuber was excitedly talking about the showcase water bottle incident while adding personal opinions.

"This is him, right? That Idol Inc…"

"…Ah."

Cheongryeo looked at the screen and remembered the ridiculous personality test.

"Park Moondae."

[He's quick-witted.]

Just in time, the video showed a small, ambiguous-quality fancam (due to copyright issues). It was the scene where Park Moondae gently took care of the situation.

"Isn't he really smart?"

“That’s right.”

“But it’s such a shame. We had the same schedule…”

Other members who were sneakily watching from the side also joined in and clicked their tongues.

“It’s been a couple of days since Tnet acted recklessly.”

“Their index is good, but it’s a pity that they won’t get first place.”

The slightly sympathetic tone presupposed the conviction that they would win in the second week as well.

In fact, it was inevitable.

[#1 Night Sign / VTIC]

It was the daily ranking of the nation’s largest music site.

Since the music charts were reorganized so that they couldn’t be seen in real time, it was impossible to break through the existing music charts and immediately win first place unless it was dire.

‘It takes a week at the earliest.’

The same was true for Testar’s music, which would be released at midnight.

Then, if Testar’s album sales in the 1st week beat VTIC’s 2nd week with a triple score or higher, they could expect to win first place on the music show, but unfortunately, their initial period overlapped with VTIC for about a day.

Unless Testar in either case set a record that was crazy enough to exceed expectations, their loss was meant to be.

Of course, even if they were from the audition, saying that a rookie boy idol won first place on the music charts was absurd.

“Ah~ If we have time to worry about hubaes, let’s just do our best!”

“Right!”

VTIC quickly returned to their respective interests.

And Cheongryeo rested his chin and thought.

‘…I might lose.’

* * *

The debut showcase ended safely in an enthusiastic atmosphere.

But there was no special after-party.

“We just debuted, we can’t appear like a hoppang on TV. We were fed a lot~”

(TL notes: Hoppang = a steamed bun, usually filled with red bean paste.)

“Hoppang is delicious!”

“Your face has to look good, you can’t be so chubby that makes people want to eat you.”

“Aha!”

Cha Eugene was convinced at once. After appreciating Keun Sejin’s amazing communication skills for a while, I became the subject of conversation again.

“Still, Moondae’s achievement is the real after-party.”

“T-That’s right”

“It was great.”

"…Yes, thank you."

"Haha, this guy is embarrassed!"

"…"

I… Since the end of the showcase, I had been hearing the words like 'Park Moondae's quick wit is the best in the world'.

Rather than being embarrassed, I just felt uncomfortable.

In particular, it seemed that Keun Sejin was doing that on purpose to embarrass me even more.

"You all worked hard, wait… Let's take a rest."

"Yay~"

"Finally."

Anyway, instead of an after-party, I received a short break. At Ryu Chungwoo's words, the members scattered to the dorm, showing a wide spectrum of reactions from relief to joy.

For your information, I slept. Lee Sejin, who shared the same room, also slept, improving sleep quality.

'I miss the characteristic of not having to sleep.'

But reality show cameras were still running. Thanks to that, we had to gather in the living room again after spending a short personal time.

"Looks like everyone had a good rest."

"Hehe."

Cha Eugene, who obviously forgot the snack, laughed.

And we all looked at Ryu Chungwoo's smartphone.

"It's amazing that it's already released."

"I-I'm nervous…"

Because the debut album would be released at midnight.

Why don't you don't watch it on your own instead of watching it as one group together… Well, maybe it was because this image would come out nice.

"Oh! It's coming!"

Soon, the smartphone clock unit changed.

[00 : 00]

"D-Did the song come out?"

"Are you looking at it now?"

Kim Raebin firmly organized it.

"It takes more than an hour to see it on the 24Hits chart."

"An hour…"

Lee Sejin disappeared into the kitchen, spitting out a sigh. It seemed he was trying to bring some water.

'…There's a high probability that it won't show up after an hour.'

Because we had to compete with an hour-long performance among other songs that were counted over 24 hours.

Even VTIC ranked 87th on the 24-hour chart after an hour.

Perhaps Kim Raebin tried to continuously explain this fact, but he closed his mouth after making eye contact with me.

"…?"

Isn't it okay to explain it this time?

Keun Sejin said with a smile, as if trying to offset the tense atmosphere.

"Then we… How about watching the 'Magical Boy' music video first?"

"Ah."

Right. We hadn't seen that yet.

I had just returned to the dorm and had a break, so I didn't really have the time to think about it

'The reality show staff asked to film a reaction for this as well.'

"That's a good idea."

"Look in the big one!"

Cha Eugene quickly picked up the remote control and changed the TV screen to WeTube.

There was no need to search, the music video was on the top spot in real-time.

[Testar(TeSTAR) 'Magical Boy' Official MV]

"Yees!"

"W-Wow."

The members stared at the screen as if they didn't realize it and finally came to their senses.

“Oh. The thumbnail is Moondae.”

“I-It came out well.”

The thumbnail was of Park Moondae looking back in front of the classroom window.

Behind the white curtains, the sky colored with scarlet and purple was shining with backlight.

‘Is this first-place privilege?’

I looked at the thumbnails in disbelief, then pressed the play button using the remote control that Cha Eugene was holding.

“Oh.”

The music video for ‘Magical Boy’ started playing with Cha Eugene’s embarrassed voice in the background.

The video started with the thumbnail screen.

[…]

In the meantime, Park Moondae was looking out the window at the setting sun in an empty classroom.

The moment he looked back and made eye contact with the camera.

The song started.

– I will meet you tomorrow

I’ve been thinking about it all-day

Have a dream blue as the day

The screen changed.

The old and broken campus was clearly visible under the midday sun and suddenly, glistening soap bubbles that were dyed purple poured down.

♫♪♩♪-♫♪♫♪-♪♩-

And in the ordinary places of the school, the images of the members doing extraordinary actions passed by each part.

– Even if the world is cold

Dreams are sweet

Even if reality collapses,

Dreams are clear

In a destroyed classroom, Cha Eugene was sitting at a desk unscathed alone.

He lined up animal-shaped dolls at the corner and turned their gears. Because of the shadows and lighting, the dolls looked like small creatures.

– I don't want to be locked

I want to fall asleep.

I'm drawing a dream

But reality is breathing

All the time…

Seon Ahyeon, who was sitting on a bed in the infirmary, tore off a pillowcase. Instead of cotton, shiny dandelion fluffy things popped out of it and sparkled around the bed.

-All that time.

Maybe it's what I needed

The magic to the future

So I

Ryu Chungwoo shot flowers in the garden with a toy gun. Instead of bullet balls or water, a stream of light burst out and blue petals soared

And a zoom that unfolded on the rooftop with a purple sunset.

-Cast a spell

Make a wish come

true true true

– Dive into the future quietly

– Cast a spell

Make a dream come

true true true

– Sleep with a dream, blue

The interlude that came out after the chorus had more split in beats, followed by a splendid dance break.

The midday rooftop was cross-edited, and the mysteriousness of the purple background scene deepened.

"We had a hard time because we did a new makeup."

"That's right! Everyone, if you look closely… There is a difference between the photo taken during the day and the photo taken at sunset both in the outfit and makeup!”

Keun Sejin explained to the camera.

It was true.

In the daytime background, we were almost bare-faced, and in the sunset background, we had something like glitter and flushes under our eyes.

As for the costume, they added more accessories when filming the sunset background.

‘If we had to film it in one day, it would’ve been like hell.’

Fortunately, the cut came out well, paying off the hard work.

♫♪♩♪-♫♪♫♪-♪♩-

And the second verse.

Kim Raebin came out of the back after strange finger movements that seemed hypnotizing.

And he did a melody rap in a slow, complex, and very strange rhythm.

Crossing the broken cabinet in the hallway was Kim Raebin who was sitting on a stack of piles and throwing awls.

“Oh!”

“Your voice is good.”

“…Thank you.”

Kim Raebin replied a little awkwardly, unable to hide his pride.

“But how did you pick something scary like an awl, Raebin-ssi?”

“…Because it’s so cute…?”

“…?”

Keun Sejin’s mouth fell shut at the answer beyond his imagination. I answered pleasantly instead.

“Let’s say so.”

“Right. It’s so cute, Raebin.”

I was relieved to see that the color of the music video was okay so I reacted more comfortably.

On the screen that followed, Lee Sejin appeared last.

Lee Sejin was standing inside the school building, looking at the main entrance. The school ground was visible through the glass door.

And in the bridge before the last chorus.

The tone of the music box, which was a riff melody, was lowered, and a vocal melody followed on top of it.

– What I can’t hide even if I hide it

Maybe it’s magic out of breath and trembling

A dream.

Lee Sejin broke the glass door.

At that moment, along with the sound of a film rolling, the cuts came back together.

A strange whisper passed by, like a tape being turned backwards, and then a cut was inserted without music

.

Park Moondae walked into the school ground from outside the school.

[…]

Soon, Park Moondae, who stopped in front of the entrance, stretched out both hands and grabbed the handle. And.

Click.

Set the lock.

…Click.

As the film turned around, the final chorus burst out along with the choreography.

– Cast a spell

Make a wish come

true true true

– Sleep quietly into the future

– Cast a spell

Make a dream come

true true true

– Fall into the dream, blue

Before I knew it, the area around the rooftop where the choreography took place had turned into a more unrealistic space.

The railings surrounding the rooftop were broken, forming transparent crystals. And like a prism, it distorted the light.

Like the light that disturbed the background, the choreography had become more complicated and the curve had become stronger.

♫♪♪-♫♪♫♪-♪♪-

At the end of the choreography. The members naturally changed the formation to a circle. The song ended as soon as they laid their heads together on the rooftop.

Thud.

Purple soap bubbles popped out.

[…]

And a black screen appeared.

In the midst of the slowly arranged inst of ‘Magical Boy’, the classic ending credits went up like a short film.

Only then did the members start talking again.

“Wow!!”

“It turned out so well?”

“Thank you, director.”

“I-I think it came out great…”

It had become a strange situation where no one accepted each other’s words because they spoke simultaneously.

But no one cared and they talked excitedly.

“Really, um, it’s fun because it came out meaningfully.”

“I think fans will have fun discovering the various details.”

“Yeah, we like it, so I hope the fans will like it, too～”

The atmosphere couldn’t be any warmer than this.

‘We made a good start, so they’re excited.’

Thanks to this, when checking the music charts, the tension wasn’t so high that it felt uncomfortable.

And the result.

“Wow! It went in～”

We were ranked 85th and 88th.

‘…One song is slightly higher than VTIC.’

The popularity of the audition that had been booming nationwide was bigger than I had expected.

‘It’s crazy.’

However, perhaps because there were more people who were more accustomed to words like ‘real-time number 1 entry’, the members were just happy.

Even if I knew it in my head, all I could see right now was the top 80.

So a more intense reaction erupted next.

“A-All our songs…”

“Gasp.”

On other music sites where real-time charts were still alive, Testar’s title songs showed off their spirits by taking first and second place side by side.

[No. 1 Hi-five / Testar] New!

[No. 2 Magical Boy / Testar] New!

[No. 3 Night Sign / VTIC] ▼2

[…]

All four songs released from this album were even included in the top seven.

Of course, after a while, it would be pushed back by VTIC in an instant. It was crazy, though.

The members, who finally realized it, continued to look at the smartphone screen in shock.

“L-Let’s take a screenshot.”

“That’s a good idea.”

It was a good signal that erupted from the beginning of our activity when we had not even appeared on music shows yet.

Chapter 74

Testar's propaganda on the music chart caused a huge stir.

[Testar 24 Hits entry ranking (1 hour)]

: Hi-five in 85th place and Magical Boy in 88th place, renewed male idol's highest entry ranking after chart reorganization

One song ranks higher than VTIC ㄷㄷㄷ

– I'm out of my mind

– Wow, Idol Inc is scary

– I think we need to put Testar in the top 3 male idols? ㅋㅋㅋㅋ Let's get rid of T-holic

This bastard is not a Testar fan. Please report this troll

Report is done~

– I knew it would be like this. Even from the teaser alone, the firepower is crazy ㅋㅋ

-They said the reservation period was short and they sold 250,000 copies in one day ㄹㅇ They were on a different scale as soon as they debuted

– Wow I am getting hooked? I'll stick with them for now ㅇㅇ

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ What a great loyalty

The level of recognition had already risen to the highest level in Korea.

The comments which were added one by one by the people who had watched <Idol Inc.> at least once couldn't even be considered a fuss.

In addition, when the competition structure was created, the reaction of VTIC fans turned cold.

– Debut album entry renews the rankings ㅋㅋㅋ The disruption to the ecosystem of broadcasting companies is really serious.

– You have to look at the number, they're obviously robbing empty houses

Unfortunately, the music only comes out now ㅋㅋ If it came out a month ago, it would have been worth aiming for the top 70

What a great delusion ㅋㅋ Ah, Testar daddies are really shameless~

– Enjoy it now~ Idol Inc's next album will fall ㅠㅠ It will end with a career-high debut album~

Have Vtic fans lost it? ㅋㅋㅋ

How ugly

– It seems everyone had a controversy at least once during the audition program, it's amazing that so many people listen to this…

Thanks to malicious netizens who were excited to put firewood and drive a wedge between them, the atmosphere among fandoms was freezing like thin ice.

But apart from that, people who were only moderately interested in idols really enjoyed it.

– Wow, then I'll see Vtic and Testar together in the music show this week

– It's going to be super fun ㅋㅋㅋ

– If this continues, isn't Testar going to win first place next week?

I don't know. VTIC's initial period lasted until today, but 180,000 copies were sold today

Hiik, that number is crazy too

I think the key is how much the songs will explode after Testar's performance?

Oho, Testar needs to set up a lot of entertainment schedules

The next day, Testar put 'Hi-five' at 17th and 'Magical Boy' at 19th on the daily chart.

It was ridiculously fast, but of course not as fast as VTIC.

– Is Testar crazy?

– Since VTIC is heaven, it's out of the question ㅋㅋ Honestly, I can't believe that rookie boy idol is doing that on the music charts

– It's amazing that they don't lose the ranking and maintained it

Everyone was moderately surprised and moderately expected it.

And so Thursday came.

It was Testar's first pre-recording of the music show.

* * *

"Too sleepy."

"Yeah."

I never thought that the day would come when I could truly sympathize with Cha Eugene's words.

‘I knew would do it early in the morning. But I didn’t think about the preparation time.’

Let’s say the pre-recording of the music show starts at 4:30 a.m. Then you have to stand by at the broadcasting station at 4 o’clock at the latest. Then you have to go to the salon a few hours before that…

In short, it was night labor.

‘We keep moving indoors, but what about the people who come to watch?’

It was said that they applied and were selected by lottery, but honestly, if you were going to call people at this time, you should give them an hourly wage.

It was fortunate that the weather was not cold. No one would catch a cold while waiting.

“I’m going to sleep…”

Cha Eugene stretched out on the sofa as soon as he entered the waiting room.

“S-Should I wake him up? I-If he looks like he just woke up from his sleep, it won’t reflect well…”

“He’s been living like that, but he’s doing well. Don’t worry about him.”

“I-I see.”

At Kim Raebin’s firm words, Seon Ahyeon put his hands back together. His face was pale.

He seemed nervous rather than lacking sleep.

“…Wait a minute.”

“Hn?”

I rummaged through the small bag I was carrying and threw a bunch of candy to Seon Ahyeon.

It was glucose candy.

“Eat some. It’s good for when you’re tired.”

“U-Uh…”

“Heol, Moondae, me too!”

Keun Sejin, who was looking at his smartphone, quickly tried to take candy from Seon Ahyeon but was unexpectedly stopped by Seon Ahyeon.

“I-I-I will eat it well!”

“No, Ahyeon…!”

“…”

I took out more candy from my bag and threw it without saying a word. Keun Sejin accepted it with joy.

“Oh, thank you!”

‘…Whatever, I’ll buy three or four times as much, so I can eat as much as I want.’

The financial situation was still not good but this was not a desirable phenomenon.

Then, the manager and Ryu Chungwoo came in with the camera outside the door.

‘Is it for the reality show again?’

Since this music show was on Tnet, it seemed it was easy for them to get in and out.

The manager smiled broadly and waved. Ryu Chungwoo said with a smile.

“Guys, the fans sent us lunch boxes!”

“Gasp!”

“…Lunchbox!”

Cha Eugene, who had been sleeping, got up. It was amazing.

The lunch boxes that came into the waiting room were dazzling.

‘I never thought I’d see a 5-layered lunch box in real life.’

I was a bit taken aback as I took apart the lunchbox each filled with dishes.

Lunchboxes were not supposed to be better than ordinary meals… This was more than just a meal.

A sticker was attached to the top of the lunch box.

[Testar’s debut song]

[It’s magic ♡]

At the bottom, only ‘All Testar fans’ were written.

“…”

It seemed several individual fan communities prepared it together. Since it was the group’s first debut stage, they must have sent it together rather than sharing names.

It was a delicate consideration for the members.

“Let’s take a picture.”

“I think it would be better to take one shot like this, open it, and take another shot.”

“That’s a great idea. Moondae is good at quickly taking pictures, he should take it.”

“Okay.”

“Oh?”

I took a few shots with my phone, adjusting the angle and focus without complaining. Then I adjusted the brightness and saturation to correct the color right away.

“You took good pictures.”

“Y-You’re good with your hands…!”

“Thank you. I want to upload this, is it okay?”

“Huh?”

Actually, I asked the members, but the question was directed to the manager.

It was because we had never personally posted anything in particular ever since Lee Sejin posted. It was because there was a problem with spoilers and an issue with the atmosphere.

I thought it would be okay to upload it, and fortunately, the manager also sent an okay gesture.

The members also checked the gesture and proceeded with it.

“Of course, it’s okay～”

“Moondae’s idea is great.”

“Are we going to eat now?”

Cha Eugene's earnest question was silently ignored.

Instead, Kim Raebin nodded seriously.

"Starting with this, I hope we can post more often."

"…Right."

But you… Check and post it if you can.

"Let's put in I love you."

"Then, if we made a mistake, wouldn't it look like we love them for giving us lunchboxes?"

"Ugh."

The members eagerly started writing phrases as I edited the photos.

"There's a 180-character limit. Let's choose carefully."

"Yes!"

So the finished phrase was this.

[This is Testar(TeSTAR)'s account!]

: We're waiting for our first music show recording! Thank you so much for the lunchboxes! We'll eat and work hard and do our best on stage.

As much as we've worked hard on it, there are so many things we want to show you! For everyone who has been waiting for us, thank you so much and I love you ㅠㅠ Let's see each other for a long time♡ (photo) (photo) (photo)

"Great! It's uploaded!"

While the members were feeling proud, Ryu Chungwoo who was looking at it with a faint smile suddenly looked puzzled.

“…?”

“Wait, what time is it now?”

…It was three-fifty.

It was early in the morning.

Seon Ahyeon turned pale.

“R-Right now, us, n-notification in the early morning.”

“Delete… Will they get a notification if we delete it?”

“Of course, they will…”

“…”

The atmosphere became solemn.

Of course, there were many idols who posted at dawn, but in this case, the problem was that the news of the group, which was uploaded for the first time in a month, was sent like a morning chat.

Cha Eugene, who was making a sad face while looking at the lunch box, asked.

“What about it?”

“It’s a nuisance if you get a notification at dawn.”

“Aha.”

Cha Eugene said brightly.

“Let’s apologize!”

“…!”

After a while, another new notification popped up on Testar’s account.

[This is Testar(TeSTAR)’s account!]

: Sorry for posting suddenly in the morning ㅠㅠ It happened because we lost our sense of time… Next time, we’ll be sure to set it during the day! (Photo)

The attached additional photo was of Testar in the waiting room with their heads down together.

I felt something was out of place.

“…Wait a minute.”

“What is it?”

“I think we spoiled our outfits.”

“…!!”

…Fortunately, I was able to ask the production crew for their understanding.

However, just before the pre-recording, the faces of the members who experienced an unexpected trial turned pale.

“…From now on, let’s think for at least about 30 minutes before posting on SNS.”

“Yes…”

After the great feast was over, the recording time was right around the corner.

“Let’s eat the lunch box quickly now!”

“There’s no time, let’s eat after we’re done.”

“Uh…”

Cha Eugene was heartbroken.

We drank the vitamin drink included in the lunch box and headed straight to the stage.

“Woow!”

About 200 people who had been waiting in line since last night cheered.

By the way, we were not even on stage yet. We were just going back and forth next to the stage.

Keun Sejin said seriously.

“Let’s not ask questions like ‘Have you eaten?’. It seems we’re the only ones eating packed lunches and taking medicine this early in the morning.”

The members, fully realizing that it was dawn due to the previous incident, nodded eagerly.

Except for Cha Eugene.

“But I couldn’t eat…”

“Let’s eat as soon as we’re done.”

“…Yeah.”

Ryu Chungwoo lightly subdued the situation.

“Let’s go up!”

“Yes.”

The members went up to the stage at the instruction of the staff.

The set was great. It seemed the key points of the MV’s broken school set had been moved here, and even the purple LED and the bubble effect were perfect.

‘They’ve spent some money.’

But there was no time to look around the set closely. Because hundreds of people were watching in front of me.

“This is our first recording stage. Everyone, I look forward to your kind cooperation.”

“Please take good care of us~”

As the members gave a greeting following Ryu Chungwoo’s lead, screams and greetings mixed with cheers were heard from below.

“If there’s anything you want from Testar…”

“Please post more often!”

“Ah, that.”

They must have checked the posts on SNS earlier; laughter erupted from under the stage. Thanks to this, Ryu Chungwoo stopped laughing.

“We’ll post often. Not in the early morning.”

“Increase it from today right away!”

“How often do you want us to upload…”

“Every day!”

The fans shouted at the top of their lungs. They weren’t losing out to Raebin. It was amazing.

It was the first time I had a conversation so close to the stage, so I couldn’t honestly say that the communication seemed natural.

But it was refreshing in its own way. Since our rookie days were short, fans would enjoy this atmosphere too.

“Ah, let’s begin.”

The members, who had a short conversation with a few words, soon took their positions on the stage at the staff’s signal.

I came forward because I started from the middle for the first part.

“Moondae!”

After thinking about it for a moment, I made a small heart. That… Not the so-called K-heart. It was just a finger heart.

“Aagh!!”

I felt like my hands and feet were about to explode, but it was okay because people looked happy…

My legs would hurt in the morning, but shouldn’t I have fun like this?

When the reaction subsided, the prelude came out.

♫♪♩♪-♫♪♫♪-♪♩-

And from under the stage, I heard powerful voices.

‘…It’s a fanchant.’

I never thought I would hear that.

– I will meet you tomorrow

I've been thinking about it all-day

"All day!"

I unconsciously laughed as I entered the first verse.

It was kind of fun.

Chapter 75

MusicBomb kicked off Thursday at 7 pm.

The Internet was unusually crowded with people waiting for the main show.

– The line-up is impressive, I like it

– Testar will come out first, so call me when they come out ㅋㅋ

This was because two large boy idol groups appeared on the music show together, and one of them just debuted, too.

Thanks to this, Testar's fans were more active.

– Did you see the kids posted at dawn? So cute ㅠㅠ

Posting a photo of apologizing because they were too flustered, what a nerd… But next time, make sure to include a selfie. That would make up the apology

– It's okay to post 50 million posts in the morning, so I hope they post a lot

– Good job with the lunchbox support. The kids must have had a hard time at dawn, I hope they had eaten well ㅠㅠ

– I was so jealous when I read the pre-recording review that I almost tore my stomach… They filmed it three times, and they talked a lot in between

– They said Moondae did aegyo heart…

Crazy

Why did I fail to get into the pre-recording

Who else took a fancam? ㅠㅠ Please upload it like this…

As the pre-recording review was already released, all kinds of information, including costumes, makeup, fan services, and talk, became familiar to fans.

So fans waited for the show with more excitement.

– High five isn't pre-recording, it's live, right?

ㄴㅇㅇ I'm already looking forward to what kind of baseball uniform it will be…

– Ah, when will it come out? ㅠㅠ Is there any spoiler about the order?

Unfortunately, Testar's stage didn't come out for a long time. Because it was Tnet's music show, they were being treated well.

– The order is… going like this…?

– It's good but I'm sad

– Where are you guys ㅠㅠ

What was comforting to fans was that the group introduction interviews appeared in the mid to late stages.

[We have gathered Testar, rookies who have appeared like comets!]

[Take your STAR! Hello, we're Testar!]

Testar who appeared on the screen smiled and waved her hands. Wearing baseball uniforms, they carried props that fit their image, from guards to gloves.

-Crazy, baseball uniform

– ㅜㅜMoondae looks good with black hair, too. He's become a black puppy

– The person who did Cha Eugene's pink hair!! Thank you!! Ah, I love it!

– Damnㅠㅠ

– The team chant is good

[Testar, how do you feel about today's performance?]

[I'm really nervous, but I hope we can show you everything as much as we had prepared!]

The interview was nothing special, it ended with an ordinary script and a chorus. However, fans enjoyed watching the members.

And when the stage was finally broadcasted.

– Heol

Reactions poured in an instant.

– They're damn good?

– Shouldn't the blind infatuation come off after the audition? Why are you so good?ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– It's a concept that's perfect for being solemn, but they really pull it off… Maybe it's because they're the ones who chose it

– I'm not kidding. I think I really became a fan. Hurry up and tell me the name of the person who looks like a brown-haired flower deer

Seon Ahyeon

Good catch sir, our baby is an angel

– I’m the manager of Testar baseball team from now on. I won’t get refuted

‘Hi-five’ live performance was really fun

Testar, who quickly found the cameras and made mischievous expressions or refreshing smiles that matched the concept, certainly looked like they owned the song.

Because they divided their parts, the live performance was not shaken. They seemed happy to take off the stage with the perfect choreography without showing signs of nervousness.

– Ah, it’s fun

– Kya, as expected, idols have to perform well on stage

People talked as if the stage was already over just by watching ‘Hi-five’, but as soon as the stage of ‘Magical Boy’ came out, the comment window and SNS were again plastered with new posts.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋWow, I am speechless

– Moondae has good eyes, I know why he pushed this song

Yeah, as expected, the fortune-teller Tibetan fox who was picking the concepts at Idol Inc didn’t go anywhere ㅋㅋㅋ

ㄴㅇㅋㅋㄹ

– There aren’t many boy idols that can make this dreamy concept isn’t cringe, so I think we should add Testar to the history book

The Testar members on the screen stirred the stage to the sensual deep house song, with a dreamy music box melody setting the mood.

Taking advantage of the fact that the stage was pre-recorded, they added some graphic effects; the sparkling and glitching were not excessive, making good use of the mysterious keywords of ‘surreal’ and ‘magic’.

And since they didn’t let go of the ‘school setting’, the refreshing and uneasy feeling of adolescence was also alive without being too excessive.

This was because some dramatic movements were added to the decisive choreography.

And the members who were at the center of the choreography performed it so well that it was jaw-dropping.

People admired it and expressed their tastes.

– To be honest, the baseball song from earlier is better for popularity, but in the end, it seems that this is the one that wins

? Isn’t it the other way around? This song is more trendy and the baseball is for performance

Let’s just say both are good ㅋㅋㅋ

– Hey, it’s really humankind’s victory, How can you sing both songs and perform both stages so well?

– To be honest, Magical Boy wins by a landslide. From the narrative to the choreography and melody. High Five is a bit B-class compared to this one.

Yes, but High Five is higher on the music charts~

It will flip over soon.

Aah, guys, don’t fight… ㅠㅠ Testar does both…

That’s right, please enjoy it ㅠㅠ

Fans enjoyed the afterglow of the stage with excitement.

– There's a rookie who tore up their debut stage?

Yes, it was their Testar.

– I wonder if a shabby person like me can like such a precious idol

– Shareholders-nim, thank you for your good eyes… I am grateful…

– I can feel the hearts of our kids who divided their parts well so that no one was upset ㅠㅠ

An old ballad group's performance was broadcasted next, but Testar's fans were in a rush, soaked in the lingering aftertaste of watching the first official debut stage.

However, the atmosphere changed slightly when VTIC came out.

– Show them what class is ㅋㅋㅋ

– Wow, they're so good that I am scared

– Shouldn't we register them for something like a cultural asset?

– Where are all the guys who tried to drop adlibs after Tholic? ㅋㅋ

The noir-inspired swing house song was terrifyingly sophisticated and intense.

But originally, people were more interested in fresh images and dark horses. Therefore, the mention of the Testar did not fade.

– Ah, the future of K-pop is bright~

– We can watch both stages together throughout this week ㅋㅋ

Since VTIC's stage was the ending, the 1st place announcement was held right after.

[This week's 1st place is… It's VTIC's Night Sign! Congratulations~]

[Wow~]

VTIC skipped MusicBomb to come out of the music show last week. Thanks to that, they were able to win the first-place trophy along with the comeback stage.

-ㅊㅋㅊㅋ

– It was so obvious that I almost forgot to celebrate

– Congratulations!

[Thank you very much. First of all, everyone who has worked hard together for this album…]

Neither VTIC nor netizens were surprised.

There was no big impression, but the happy and joyful acceptance speech continued.

And not long after, the MC threw a closing comment.

[The joy of music that makes you burst into laughter!]

[Music~bomb! See you next week!]

– It was fun~

– It was worth watching music bomb today after a long time ㅎㅎ

In the full wave atmosphere, VTIC members came forward for the first-place encore.

At that time, an unexpected cut was broadcasted.

Cheongryeo came forward and looked back at Testar who just entered, smiling and waving at them.

-Eh, did you see that?

-?? It's Cheongryeo, right?

– No, what's up with Cheongryeo, he said he had no friends in other groups ㅋㅋ

– I think they've become close

– Cute ㅋㅋ

– As expected, hubaes are cute

People talked happily, not expecting that the person who received the greeting was agitated.

* * *

'…What's with the sudden greeting?'

VTIC had arrived in a hurry due to a scheduling problem and immediately entered the live broadcast, so there was no time to say hello.

In other words, it meant that this was the first time I saw Cheongryeo after <Idol Inc.>

But even though we didn't even make eye contact, he openly waved his hands?

'He doesn't seem to be that kind of person.'

I felt a little uncomfortable, but I soon left it alone. I was so busy that I didn't care if someone greeted me or not.

'I guess he's excited because he won first place.'

“I think he said hello to you, Moondae? I guess it’s because he met you during the Casting Call.”

“Hmm, maybe.”

I agreed with Ryu Chungwoo’s words and moved on.

I heard Cha Eugene’s hopeful voice.

“Can we go home now?”

“Hey, you should say bye before you go~”

Keun Sejin muttered in response to the manager’s answer.

“Oh, I guess they’re still doing that here.”

“What?”

“Standing in line to greet the PD.”

“Hmm.”

I’d also heard of that story. I heard that greeting was the reason idols got home late on music shows after taking a group shot during the 1st place announcement.

‘I heard that a few other music shows do this as well.’

Thanks to this, I had to go home so late, so I wasn’t too happy about it. I had a hard time staying awake since early in the morning.

‘…Still, it’s for social life, what else can I do.’

It was better not to stand out for no reason.

We followed the manager without a word.

“T-This is a little awkward…!”

When we arrived in the hallway and lined up, Seon Ahyeon whispered with a flustered face.

The cast was more crowded than I thought and their attention was focused on us. It felt like someone was going to talk to me at any moment.

In actuality, it was the first time we met in a group like this even though we had greeted them before to distribute the albums.

‘The sociable guys will take care of it.’

I ignored their gazes and chatted with Seon Ahyeon.

“How was the stage?”

“Huh? O-Of course… I-It was great!”

“In what way?”

“Um… T-There are people who support me, t-the song is good, t-the members I work with are close…”

“…”

‘Honestly, aren’t we all close?’

However, there was no need to jinx it by pointing it out. I just shut up and nodded. Seon Ahyeon’s face brightened.

Then, I saw people moving out on the other side of the hallway like water in low tide.

At this timing, there was only one.

‘It must be VTIC.’

The ballad group that performed after us was already absent before the first place was announced because of their schedules. It was interesting that they could get a privilege from such a place even though their annual leave was full.

With the same principle, VTIC was able to greet the PD quickly thanks to their years of experience and popularity.

'…Is there any special privilege for T1 affiliates?'

As I thought about deep-rooted evil and muttered to myself, VTIC passed by.

Let's just say hello.

But someone stopped walking and started talking to me.

"Ah, Moondae-ssi, nice to meet you again. Congratulations on winning first place."

"…!"

It was Cheongryeo.

"Ah, this is him…?"

"That's right."

"Wow, nice to meet you. Good luck with your activity, fighting!"

Other VTIC members also pretended not to know and added one word at a time. Cheongryeo was smiling.

'…This bastard seems to be doing this on purpose?'

I couldn't throw away my doubts and just said hello.

"Yes, thank you. It's good to see you, sunbae-nim."

“It’s good to see you, too. Um… Shall we exchange numbers? It’s rare for our activities to overlap like this.”

“…I’m grateful.”

Let’s exchange numbers for now. It might be useful. I calmly took out my smartphone.

However, I doubted his intention of saying this in the hallway where other cast members were laughing.

‘I just need to quietly get his number through the manager.’

He didn’t have to bother to say hello when the camera was on, I was certain that he was up to something. I didn’t know what it was.

‘…Is it just to show off your connections?’

Anyway, it was true that Park Moondae won first place in the audition program. Cheongryeo was probably just seeking attention.

‘How can I properly understand the personality of a guy who I only met once?’

“I’ll contact you.”

“Thank you. Have a safe trip home.”

VTIC quickly disappeared from the hallway. I put my phone back, holding back my sigh.

Next to me, Keun Sejin clapped and grinned.

“Wow, Moondae, you give your number to a boy idol before to a girl idol… Cough.”

Eat more glucose candy.

Chapter 76

Keun Sejin grumbled for quite some time.

“No, you’re not playing along. It’s not like I asked for a girl’s number.”

“…”

If you did, something else would have gone away, not glucose candy.

Anyway, after eating all the candy, Keun Sejin felt better and he joked again after getting into the car.

“Ah, I get it. Is there a girl idol you want to see, Moondae?”

There isn’t any, you bastard.

‘I saw them a lot at events, what are you talking about.’

I smirked and replied.

“What about you?”

“Ah, I’m married to the fans~ Girl idol? What is that?”

Ryu Chungwoo laughed at Keun Sejin’s natural words.

Kim Raebin responded seriously.

“That’s right. We should try to stay wary of other groups, regardless of gender.”

“Hn?”

“Because girl idols are also competitors…!”

“…?”

Everyone couldn’t answer for a moment because Kim Raebin suddenly shouted fiercely.

I didn’t know what kind of signal he took it for, but Kim Raebin continued to explain more seriously.

“Think carefully. Idols are a long-term competition. But there are only a few people who like idols. Then, idol groups last for a long time regardless of gender, and the more you try different concepts, the more our target audience overlaps…!”

Seon Ahyeon was taken aback.

“I-I see…!”

“That’s right. So we must always be on our guard against idol groups whose demands might overlap!”

“…”

“…Um.”

There was a moment of silence.

‘Just… Let’s just agree.’

I struggled to open my mouth.

“Um, that’s right.”

“…!! Right!”

Kim Raebin’s eyes sparkled as if he was enjoying the moment of victory. Ryu Chungwoo gently took over the situation.

“Raebin is smart.”

“Thank you!”

Behind Kim Raebin’s spirited voice, I heard Cha Eugene muttering softly.

“Are you an idiot?”

The relationship between those two similar people consisted of ignoring each other. I got it now.

* * *

Filming for music shows continued every day until Sunday after that.

After doing the pre-recording in the middle of the night every other day, my head started to feel dizzy.

At least, the pre-recording on Fridays was held from 9:00, so I could take a breather, but since I went to work at 7:00, there was no big difference.

I became like this with even the characteristics of ‘Baccus 500′, so I didn’t have to see the other guys’ situation to know how they were doing.

‘Lee Sejin almost collapsed yesterday.’

Fortunately, he fell down in the car and finished without getting hurt. Perhaps the agency was also surprised, the diet that didn’t contain any grease had loosened up since then.

In the midst of this, we had to shoot reality show content in the evening so it was natural that our physical strength would run out.

‘…I can’t believe I have to do this every week.’

The only thing I liked was the moment when I performed on stage

while listening to the cheers. The fact that both fans and idols had to put up with the time of endurance for that moment was a great structure.

It was even more so considering the fact that there were many children crying because they didn't get this opportunity.

'They're squeezing people out.'

I sighed.

"In the third week of June, the number one popular music is… Congratulations, VTIC's Night Sign!"

Anyway, the last music show on the weekend was finally over. I mechanically applauded the first-place winner.

'I slept a little because they didn't let us do a pre-recording here.'

From what I heard, it seemed they were a bit territorial because we were from a cable audition.

For that reason, our order of appearance was in the early and middle stages.

Of course, there were pros and cons. Since there was no pre-recording, there was a limit to the composition of the stage.

Because we had to finish the stage with just one live broadcast.

'In the first week of activities… Pre-recording would be useful.'

It was ridiculous when I thought about it, but if there was no work-life balance anyway, I thought it was better to have a good result.

"Shall we take some pictures?"

"I'd love to!"

“Moondae, how about a selfie?!”

As soon as I returned to the waiting room, I received a photo request first.

‘It’s for SNS upload.’

I had to take a picture of this. Needless to say, I just received the smartphone and turned on the front camera.

And I adjusted the angle so that all 7 of us could come out with our upper body costumes, and took the picture consecutively.

Like this, they picked out well among themselves excitedly.

Sure enough, there were some guys who were arguing again about which photos to upload.

“Now, isn’t photo number 3 the best? It’s better to see all 7 of us smiling~”

“My mouth looks weird. Use the next one!”

“Don’t listen to him. It’s unreasonable to use a photo where only one person comes out good.”

“A-All the photos came out great…”

Of course, Seon Ahyeon’s attempt to stop them didn’t work.

In the end, two photos were uploaded, one selected by Keun Sejin and one selected by Cha Eugene.

Lee Sejin looked at the process with a tired expression, then shook his head.

It seemed he had completely forgotten his complaints yesterday about posting something where he didn’t come out.

‘Haha, the team is doing really well.’

It was just a relief that it didn’t build up into a fight due to the camera.

Anyway, the first week of activities seemed to end like this.

‘…For now, I’m glad that the reaction to the stage was good.’

I checked it from time to time whenever I had free time. Both the number of views and the overall rating were great.

‘As expected, the correct answer was to shoot the choreography.’

In fact… Right before filming the music video, I invested the one remaining point into the dance stat.

It was because not only the vocal, but my portion on stage was also larger than I thought. It was probably the side effect of winning first place.

‘I have to move to the center a lot so it can’t be helped.’

I was agonizing about other stats until the very end, but for now, my judgment leaned toward the priority of covering up the weakest stat.

‘If I get mocking memes for no reason, it will be troublesome.’

Thanks to that, my current dance stat was ‘B-‘.

It meant I could just dance well.

‘Of course, I didn’t gain much because three of us are grade A.’

It was not an individual competition anymore, so let’s be satisfied with the leap to a level that contributed to quality.

…Well, it was fun to see fans enjoying Park Moondae’s fancams.

“Thank you for your hard work~”

“The first week of activities has ended successfully!”

Before leaving the waiting room, the members and staff congratulated each other with a smile. The manager added.

“Congratulations on being in the top 10 on the digital music charts~”

“Hahaha!”

Right. As the manager said, the songs were going up encouragingly well.

I thought of the 24Hits ranking screenshot that was posted in the group chat today.

[10th place Magical Boy ▲ 4]

[13th place Hi-five ▲3]

‘I guess there really is such a thing as a music show buff.’

What surprised me a little was that Magical Boy made a reversal.

Perhaps it was thanks to the stage, but the fact that the song didn’t get boring easily also played a part.

‘Because even the people who thought that High Five is loud all the time would think that ‘Magical Boy’ is fine.’

I was satisfied because my new characteristic for selecting songs seemed to be quite effective.

…Of course, VTIC was still at the top of the music charts. They were really great guys.

‘Hmm, is it impossible to win first place on the music show with this activity?’

Looking at the situation, it seemed the next album would be released within this year, and since the results of this album were good, I didn't have to be nervous and worried.

…In the first place, it would have been better if there wasn't this damn situation where sudden death was renewed.

Deep anger that I had forgotten in my busy schedule tried to rise, but I managed to suppress it.

Getting angry didn't change the situation, so let's calm down.

'…Should I be satisfied with putting them on a smooth path?'

I shrugged and grabbed my bag. From next to me, I heard Ryu Chungwoo asking the manager.

"Then, shall we go straight to the dorm today?"

"Ah… Actually, I had an urgent meeting today."

"Yes?"

"You guys wanted to be on a variety show. You'll get a variety show!"

When the manager spoke brightly, several guys were hooked even in the midst of exhaustion.

"Oh~ what kind of variety show is this?"

"Is the variety show fun?"

The manager nodded proudly.

"It's a program called ＜Working Man＞!"

"…?"

“This is a new program launched by TVC, you know? All the variety shows made there are good~”

“Ooh!”

Several members nodded their heads as if they were tempted. The manager added more.

“It’s a variety show where you experience a unique job, and the PD is a good person, and everyone says they have high expectations. They said they really wanted to work with Testar, so let’s work hard!”

“…”

…Ah, I already had a feeling.

‘It was weird from the moment his tongue grew longer.’

TVC was a broadcasting station affiliated with T1. In short, since they were launching a new variety show within their own affiliates, they wanted to use Testar to make the headline.

In addition, it was a program that even I, who came from 3 years in the future, hadn’t even heard of.

‘You put us in because you think the program is going to fail.’

Since Testar hadn’t been able to win first place in other broadcasting companies, it was difficult to give a casting call to people from a cable audition, so it seemed they were fighting internally with the entertainment casting.

‘You can’t wait for that deal so you put our first variety show special there?’

It was ridiculous to see the company making a decision that had no productivity in the group because they were drawing a big picture.

However, the members who didn’t know answered the manager brightly and spiritedly.

“Yes!”

“All right!”

“…Yes.”

I eventually nodded, too.

Right. What else could I do with the camera there? It wasn’t like rookies had the right to reject a schedule, so let’s just stop talking and come back.

And just then, my eyes met Keun Sejin’s, who was smiling and nodding.

“…”

Looking like a di*k, his eyes were saying something different.

Later, when I sneakily asked him in the car, he said that the reaction to the first episode of <Working Man>, which aired just before, was devastating.

‘As expected.’

I thought I had given up enough expectations for the company, but it seemed I had unnecessarily regained them back while preparing for the album.

Let’s throw away some more.

* * *

“Hello~”

There was a camera at the meeting with <Working Human> as if the talk of our appearance with the agency was already over.

‘They’ve already set things up between themselves.’

“Let me ask you a few questions first.”

“Yes!”

The meeting ended in a hurry by exchanging about 10 questions and answers without a single greeting, probably because the next shooting was right around the corner.

Just like the title <Working Human>, it was a question that mainly asked what we wanted to do.

‘…It’s best not to work.’

However, I couldn’t write down these answers due to my current job, so I replied with a few moderately unusual jobs.

‘We’re in a hurry.’

The production team hurriedly collected all the questions and answers they wanted and ended the meeting.

It was obvious that they were busy to death.

‘The reaction to episode 1 isn’t good, so people’s opinions seem to be divided.’

Anyway, thanks to that, I was able to take the car back to the dorm before nightfall.

“Now, everyone, please raise your hand~”

As I dutifully waved my hand to Keun Sejin, who was taking a video to post on SNS, I felt a vibration in my pocket.

‘I have a bad feeling about this.’

After confirming that Keun Sejin finished taking videos and turning off the camera, I checked my smartphone.

[VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim: I haven't heard from you, so I'm texting you first. Is this Park Moondae-ssi's number?^^]

"…"

Wow, this was really uncomfortable.

'Are you secretly preying on a rookie just because he didn't contact you first?'

I knew he didn't take my number because he really wanted to get close to me.

Still, I couldn't ignore it due to the annual ranking, so I sent a reply.

[I'm late to contact you because I don't look at my smartphone often. I'm sorry, sunbae-nim.]

Then a reply came in an instant.

[VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim: There's nothing to apologize for, I just texted you to say hello.]

I was so tired.

I sent a short reply, roughly saying, 'Okay, thank you', and turned off my smartphone altogether.

'I'll be late checking the message tomorrow so let's just replace it.'

It was annoying that strange kids kept popping out, how did they find it anyway?

Let's change the status message while blocking contact with numbers that were not in the address book.

'Anyway, today… Are we going home like this?'

Just as I was about to fall asleep in the car, I heard Ryu Chungwoo's voice.

"Guys, the beats of our choreography are gradually changing, so shouldn't we set it up since we have time?"

"…"

I immediately woke up.

Looking around, everyone had 'I want to rest' written on their faces. However, they couldn't bear to refute what was right, so there was only an implicit silence of agreement.

I held back my sigh.

'…Going home, my ass.'

I should go practice.

* * *

While Testa pulled off the first week of murderous activities, fans were having a happy time with overflowing content.

That also served as Testar's driving force to quietly follow the schedule.

– The first week's cross-edited music shows came up on WeTube, and it's really cool (link)

– This week's reality show episode was so good! The kids doing their hair was so cute. I cried when they were seriously preparing for the stage. Let's keep going for a long time, Testar ㅠㅠ

– CQ pictorial, interview, and behind-the-scenes. The magazines are all sold out. (link)

Ah… ㅠㅠ I'm late…

Take more pictures, please… ㅠㅠ

Since the contract with Testar was not short-term, the agency worked hard to create an atmosphere that favored the group itself rather than deliberately promoting individual competition among members.

And that effort tried to settle down well in the fandom.

The fact that the group used only one SNS and frequently uploaded photos of them together no longer created backlash.

However, it was not possible in one area.

It was the random photo card that went into the album.

Since it was a factor directly related to the album sales, the photo cards of the members, which were included in the album at random, were put in as it was according to the traditional tactic.

Thanks to this, people who wanted to curse at Testar were excitedly sticking to related comparison articles.

[Testar photo card unit price ranking]

: Cha Eugene > = Park Moondae > Seon Ahyeon > Kim Raebin = Keun Sejin > = Ryu Chungwoo > > Lee Sejin

+) The statistics are published by Secondhand World. I won't accept denial~ (link)

– As expected, Cha Eugene is in first place ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Ah, Park Moondae presented the ending center ㅋㅋ Was it good to sell your dead parents and get first place?

– Lee Sejin is really useless everywhere. Does he have anything else to do besides getting airtimes in music videos?

– Ryu Chungwoo's bubble finally burst. I knew he wouldn't have any core after seeing the final ranking ㅋ

– Please stop pretending to be a popular guy, pretending to control the situation, and pretending to be a cheerful guy. Keun Sejin, unpopular members shouldn't seek attention ㅠㅠ

– Even with that face, Ahyeon's limit is third place, I think it would have been better for him to choose a job where he doesn't have to talk. Not an idol, but a picture model? Same thing!

No matter how much fans reported or ignored them, there was a limit. The jealousy and anger that poured out, which was 'on the verge of going beyond imagination', was at a level that was difficult to understand with common sense.

Because the ridicule was poured out on all members in all directions, a strange consensus was formed among fans.

– Let's not feed these crazy people

– It's been a long time since Idol Inc was over, and they're still hung up on that? I'm sure they're not the kids' fans or a personal fan

If they're really a fan, does it make sense that they express themselves that way? ㅋㅋ

– You don't have to be swayed by sick bastards who pretend to know it all just because they watched Idol Inc. We just have to look at the kids.

– That's right, Testar is this good, so there's no need to waste emotions on things like that. They're just losers or agencies that don't know anything.

Among them, the identity of a 'group fan' was slowly forming, not only as a formal expression.

And right around that time, a special event was coming up.

It was Testar's first fan-signing event.

Chapter 77

After reorganizing the choreography on Sunday evening, I collapsed and when I woke up, it was already the next week.

This meant it was time to check the first week's album sales.

The result was… Terrifying.

"…670,000 copies?"

"That's right!"

I asked the manager one more time.

"The sales volume, not the pre-order volume?"

"…No? Anyway, it is really the sales volume!"

"…"

For reference, pre-order volume referred to the number of pre-orders from retail stores in anticipation of the album being sold.

'I doubted it would be like this since we stepped in a lot in the beginning.'

670,000 copies were sold.

'I can't believe it.'

No matter how high the recent album sales inflation was, it was a sales volume that really made you feel paralyzed.

It was even more amazing when considering that Testar's fanbase was formed mainly in Korea from the former audition program.

It was even bigger than it was originally.

‘Wasn’t it originally 600,000?’

Certainly, the initial release of the group that originally debuted with <Idol Inc.> had 600,000 copies. I couldn’t figure out where the hell the 70,000 came from…

“…I heard that our boy idol’s debut album sales are breaking a new record?”

“U-Uuuh…”

“Holy moly.”

The other guys were overwhelmed rather than happy.

If it had been 300,000 copies, I would have happily rolled on the floor, but when the double score came up, I felt a little scared.

Of course, the guys who came to their senses soon jumped out. This meant that they were starting to make realistic judgments.

“…Can we win first place next week?”

“…!!”

In an instant, the tension rose.

Ryu Chungwoo opened his mouth.

“How much is VTIC sunbae-nim’s sales volume this week?”

“Let me check.”

Kim Raebin immediately started searching.

Weekly sales could be checked immediately on the album chart.

“[LONG NIGHT / VTIC 312, 608]”

“…!”

“Wow.”

It was an unbelievable number considering it was the second week.

‘Even if it’s the last day of the initial release, it’s like that.’

It was at the level of total sales of boy idols that were just doing well.

Now that it came to this, I got curious about the initial release of this album.

“…Wait a moment.”

I tapped Kim Raebin’s smartphone screen several times to check VTIC’s album sales in the first seven days and initial releases.

[1,872,863]

“…”

Ah, it was hopeless.

“Wow~”

“Haha.”

“If we work hard, the day will come when we win first place!”

The tension instantly disappeared. Members began to laugh and cheer each other up.

I already expected it, but with such a difference in the basic score, the desire to win also disappeared.

Even if this total, which was twice as different from the album sales, came out at the perfect time, it seemed difficult because it was pushed back from the song.

'After the initial period, there's no chance the album sales will go well… It's probably going to be tough even in the second week.'

Although the music ranking continued to rise, it was also uncertain whether we could push out VTIC which was stuck in first place.

I shrugged.

"Shall we get ready to go out?"

"That would be nice."

"Today too, fighting~"

Members dispersed to change into outdoor clothes.

The manager said, 'This isn't it… ' He murmured the same words several times but soon sighed deeply as if he had accepted the reality.

'I guess you have different ideas.'

Well, he would take care of it.

It was right after getting in the car that the manager started again.

"Your fan signing event starts two days later, do you know that?"

"Already?"

The members were nervous. I heard about it at the beginning of the activity, but I forgot the date because of my busy schedule. The manager nodded.

"Yeah, they bought so many albums and cheered for you passionately. Do your best~ Treat them well with sincerity~"

“Ah, of course!”

Perhaps the reason why he talked about the album sales first was to lead into this topic. He seemed relieved to be able to say it now.

‘A fan-signing event.’

If I didn’t want to make a mistake while talking with a hundred people in a row, I needed to put in some spirit.

However, it seemed this had the opposite effect on some of the members. Because Seon Ahyeon’s face turned blue at once.

“I-I-I don’t think I can.”

“Why’s that?”

“Huh? I-I’m not good at talking…?”

“…? Hyung is good at speaking Korean right now.”

Seon Ahyeon, who was caught up in Cha Eugene’s nonsense, started to get more confused.

I sighed and interrupted.

“You’re cautious, so you won’t make a mistake. Don’t worry too much.”

“…T-Thank you.”

Seon Ahyeon replied with a faint smile, but it wasn’t an expression of someone who wasn’t worried.

‘It’s understandable.’

I hadn’t even talked much to fans in the first place.

I sometimes saw fans from close range as I went back and forth during schedules, but usually, we only exchanged greetings or fan services and quickly get in the car.

Sometimes, it wasn't a fan, but a sasaeng who persistently followed us near the dorm or at the convenience store, so it was hard to make an example of it.

'Any members would be nervous to have a one-on-one conversation… '

"Time should pass quickly~ To see our fans' faces."

"…"

Except for him.

Keun Sejin in the front seat was humming and rummaging through his smartphone.

'He's confident.'

I never thought I would confirm an example of an idol's polar opposite ahead of a fan-signing event like this.

…What about me?

'I don't know.'

If it was a famous idol public fan signing event, I had been paid a few times to take pictures as a substitute.

But I'd never heard what they were talking about while getting autographs.

This was because the place itself was more noisy than expected, so most sounds were muffled.

'Well… I've seen a lot of headbands.'

It was kind of embarrassing, but it couldn't be helped, so let's move on.

I clicked my tongue while looking at my brain, there was only a vague impression left. No content.

'Should I find out what kind of conversation they usually have?'

I was in the middle of moving, but there was no reality show camera in the car. I immediately logged in to SNS on my smartphone and started searching.

[Fan signing event review]

'Since I put 'review' at the end, I can roughly skip homemaster's pictures.'

However, before I could move to the popular posts tab, a recent article that just popped up caught my eye.

"…!"

Wait.

[Testar, 120 copies for this fan signing ㅋㅋㅋ It's a workday, but it's crazy, really! I'm crazy… Please post more reviews of the fan signing event ㅠㅠ (photo)]

The image attached to the post was a screenshot of the certification message saying that 100 copies were bought.

"…"

120?

To be honest, I thought of this as soon as I saw it.

'…How much is this?'

The regular price of Testar's debut mini-album was 15,000 won. Even if the discount rate was raised through group purchases, etc… about 11,000 won would be the lowest price.

'Even if you calculate it… '

It was 1.32 million won.

"…Huh."

My brain spun.

'Even if the conversation is long, it would be a minute or two.'

Since there were seven Testar members, it meant that each person had to be worth more than 180,000 won.

'Isn't the efficiency too low?'

Can I make 1 minute of conversation worth 100,000? Of course, I'm not confident.

'Should I just… do whatever they ask me to do?'

Other than that, I couldn't think of any special measures. I put down my smartphone and pressed my forehead.

Even though I had taken pictures of guys with more than 100 copies for fan signs, I never thought I'd become one of them.

I broke out in a cold sweat.

* * *

Park Moondae's first homma arrived with full preparation at an art hall in Mokdong where the fan signing event was held.

The small stage and audience seats that could accommodate 300 people accepted 100 people on the waiting list without any difficulty.

And the waiting numbers were distributed.

[07]

‘Hooray, a front number!’

Murmuring that they would be able to talk before Moondae got tired, homma happily set up the camera quickly.

And when it was just past 7:30 pm.

From the side of the stage, Testar entered.

In an instant, deafening cheers filled the small art hall. Originally, the sound of taking pictures would have been heard first, but before that, the first fansign was filled with excitement.

Testar, who waved their hands and entered with slight embarrassment, bowed in front of the autograph table set on the stage.

“Take your STAR! Hello, we’re Testar!”

“Wooow!”

It was an official greeting befitting of a rookie who was not used to the fan signing event yet. The fans cheered enthusiastically, but on the inside, they were shouting for each member they were rooting for.

The same was true of Park Moondae’s homma.

‘Moondae, black hair! Ah, I love it!!’

She’d been to the pre-recordings several times so it wasn’t her first time seeing Park Moondae’s black hair, but she still liked it every time.

It might be because Park Moondae had black hair when she first became a fan.

‘Blonde hair is good too, but as expected, it has to be black.’

She briefly thought of her friend who was a stubborn blonde, but soon erased it and quickly focused on the camera.

She had to take a good picture and spread that face wide.

‘I think he gets more handsome every time I see him.’

Perhaps because of the album concept, Park Moondae had a strangely refreshing atmosphere with black hair and a white summer uniform as his current stage costume.

‘This is not a joke, it is the truth…!’

While she was muttering like that, the greeting ended and Testar slipped back to the table and sat down.

‘Moondae is at the last row.’

Homma murmured that it was a good idea to bring gifts to the other members just in case. It would be kind of weird if she walked with her hands full of gifts but she didn’t give them away until the last seat where Moondae was.

“Let’s start in order of numbers～”

Soon, the fan signing event began in earnest.

Because she got a front number, she could start getting autographs without waiting long. Moondae was about to meet his first fan.

The first in line was Ryu Chungwoo.

“Hello!”

“H-Hello.”

Seeing Ryu Chungwoo greeting first, Homma stuttered a little.

‘He’s handsome, too.’

She had seen him being called nicknames like the hot Confucian man on SNS, but seeing him up close, she could see why.

‘You look like an athletic student who will appear as the main character in a webtoon… ’

She shared a few light small talks, and after a high five, she handed over a small red ginseng box.

“Wow, thank you!”

“Ei, not it’s fine~”

The first sign ended warmly. And next.

“Where can I sign for you?”

It was child actor Lee Sejin. Lee Sejin, who had a delicate and neat impression, was not particularly active, but he wasn’t insincere either.

“Who are you here to see?”

Unexpectedly, he even asked a question first.

“I came to watch all Testar~”

“Is that so? Thank you.”

Lee Sejin answered calmly without being particularly sensitive and finished the autograph neatly.

‘It’s more refreshing than I thought.’

Somehow, the image that was renewed as she got an autograph from each person was good.

It was the same for the members who signed next.

“Um, then I will try to find a blank space that is as conspicuous as possible without covering the face…”

She also liked Kim Raebin, who signed shyly with a tense look contrary to his sharp impression.

“Which album cover do you like best? I love violet the best!”

She found it cute that Cha Eugene was more excited than the fan receiving the autograph and he put all kinds of graffiti around his autograph and threw a bombing question.

‘At the beginning of Idol Inc, I really hated him.’

She praised herself, saying it was a good thing that she didn’t say anything wrong at that time.

And then Keun Sejin appeared.

“Welcome~ How’s your first fan signing event today? I am really nervous!”

“I am nervous, too!”

“Ei, I don’t think you’re nervous~”

With a friendly tone, Keun Sejin asked her what she did during the day, how she was feeling, how she was doing now, and even her worries.

In addition, she didn’t say anything, but a high-five came out automatically.

“See you next time~”

“Yes…!”

'…I think we've gotten closer?'

She felt like she had built an inner circle with a handsome business major. Although she vaguely guessed that the other person was friendly to all his colleagues.

While she was impressed by the popular guy vibe she felt from a conversation that was only two-and-a-half-minute long, her excitement went up at Moondae's turn that would come soon.

'Now, after this is Moondae…!'

So full of expectations, she was thinking of passing Seon Ahyeon quickly.

'…That face is too great… '

"N-Nice to meet you…!"

Seon Ahyeon smiled brightly and listened carefully to her words. Thanks to this, she got an autograph almost as if she had been possessed.

Seon Ahyeon even put a sincere P.S. underneath it.

[Thank you so much for coming today, Jiwon! We'll work harder in the future and show you great things!^^]

'…He really is a natural monument.'

That face and that personality. Even that character would be difficult to maintain.

…And now, what was left was the long-awaited favorite.

She gulped down and looked back at Moondae.

Chapter 78

Moondae in the next seat was already staring at her with a weak smile.

“Hello.”

“…!!”

Conversation! The first conversation with Moon Puppy at a close range!

‘Gosh.’

Due to the tension that rose up all of sudden, the mouth that had been talking well until just now opened half a beat late.

Years of fansign experience were useless…

“H-Hello, Moondae.”

“Um, noona?”

‘Crazy!’

She had a complex feeling of wanting to beat herself up for suddenly speaking informally, as well as wanting to praise herself for being called older sister.

“That’s right!”

“Nice to meet you… Would you like some of this?”

“…!?”

Moondae quickly pulled something out from under the desk and handed it out.

…It was a lollipop.

It wasn't just a manufactured product sold at a convenience store. It was big and cute and had pretty animal decorations, and it smelled like a specialty store.

"You're giving it to me…?"

"Yes, it's delicious."

"…"

It suited his character somehow and tears welled up in her eyes.

'W-Why are you giving me this… '

He hadn't received the payment yet, so he didn't have any money, why did Moondae prepare something like this?

'I think it would have cost me a fortune to buy 100 of those, too… '

She almost sunk into her emotion while holding the candy, but fortunately, Park Moondae didn't give her time to rest and spoke again right away.

"Is that mine?"

"Huh? Uh… Yes!"

She realized that she had reflexively taken out the flower crown when Moondae's turn came.

She made up a conversation 'I want to see you use a flower crown instead of chicken feet in the self-introduction video' to request him… There was no need to. Park Moondae grabbed the flower crown immediately and put it on his head cheerfully.

"…!"

"…Noona, are you taking a picture? I'll keep wearing it, so don't worry."

Park Moondae signed an autograph for homma who was stunned.

"What's your name?"

"Uh… My name."

Homma was taken aback by the unexpected situation and it was only after the signing was over that she realized that she had given her real name, not her account name.

'I was going to get it from Moondae under the account name…!'

However, this thought also evaporated at Moondae's next words.

"Thank you for coming… It would have been nice if I had a more fun personality, but I'm not the type of person who is good at talking… Do you have any questions?"

"No, um…"

No, Moon Puppy! Your personality is funny enough!

…She wanted to answer but looking at the staff approach to shout 'Let's move' she asked reflexively.

It was because she witnessed the staff continuously acting inflexible in front of her.

"W-What's your MBTI"?

"I don't know because I've never tested it, but I'll try it and let you know."

At the end of that fruitless conversation, she was forced to leave the desk at the beckoning of the staff…

No, she should have left already…?

“Wait a minute.”

She was still sitting at the desk.

This was because Park Moondae was holding her album down with one hand on purpose!

‘Uuh… ’

Park Moondae asked again as if nothing had happened.

“I couldn’t answer the previous one, so let’s say it’s invalid, do you have any other questions?”

In an instant, homma’s brain was restored

It was part of the conversation log that she had originally prepared.

“Moondae, we met when you wore a Welsh Corgi mask and did a billboard proof shot. Do you remember?!’

But her mouth… It moved faithfully to instinct and public interest.

“I-I-If you have one favorite food other than chicken feet, what would it be? I know you eat well!”

Park Moondae smiled.

“I like all kinds of chicken.”

“Ah, really?”

“Yes, I’ll buy it next time. What does noona like? Chicken feet?”

D-Did this kid just say he was going to buy it? And he just joked about chicken feet, right? Gasp.

But since there was no time, homma hurriedly gave an answer.

“I like chicken, too!”

“It seems we have similar tastes. That’s great.”

The homma, who tried to say ‘And I like Moondae better’, was blown away by Park Moondae’s friendly answer.

All the silliness she had prepared was blocked by this idol’s preemptive attack…

“Move! Come on!”

“Um.”

The staff tried again, and this time Park Moondae also obediently sent the album to the fan.

Barely coming to her senses, she held out one hand and cried out.

“Handshake, please!”

“Ah.”

Park Moondae immediately raised his hand, and instead of shaking her hand, he clasped it. Then he smiled and shook it.

“…!”

“Goodbye.”

“…Uh.”

Oh my gosh.

Oh my gosh!

She returned to her seat dazedly.

Then she sat down and thought.

'It's crazy, really… '

How was he so calm and nice?

Even his vocalization was good, so the conversation went well without shouting at each other.

'Because this is the first fan signing event, I knew you would be sincere! Like that! I didn't know you'd be so good!'

It was really useless to prepare herself in case Moon Puppy turned out to be the type who was indifferent to things like this…!

She wanted to beat up everything and roar, but with superhuman patience, she picked up her camera instead.

'That flower crown, I will definitely take the best cut.'

Her fighting power ran rampant. She silently operated the camera.

Through the viewfinder window, she could see Park Moondae wearing the flower crown.

But before she knew it, he was wearing a rabbit ear, a steady item for fan signing events. The white ears rose above the yellow flowers.

"Yes!"

It suited him!

Afterward, Park Moondae even received a cotton ball doll that looked just like him. Homma reflexively guessed the size with hawk's eyes.

‘Is it about 20cm?’

Moondae seemed to hesitate a little and contemplate its location, but the doll was soon placed on top of his shoulder.

Cute!

All three items fit perfectly together. Fans with cameras everywhere shouted Moondae’s name and urged him to look at the camera.

“Moondae!”

“Moon Puppy!”

“Park Moondae, here!”

While the next fan was bringing the album, Park Moondae took advantage of that gap to find cameras directed at him like a ghost and made eye contact.

Of course, he had the time to look up to his former job.

‘Heol.’

But that time flew by in an instant.

Surprised by Park Moondae’s accuracy in finding her camera, homma didn’t realize why until she saw several fans getting autographs.

‘You make the most of your time… ’

He persistently held out so that the fans who received his autograph could spend all their remaining time until it was the next person’s turn.

It was an obvious choice considering that he was last in the row.

‘Our Moon Puppy… He was born under the stars of idols… I don’t accept objection… ’

It was an attitude of an idol who had worked for 10.000 years, homma was so moved.

Beyond the viewfinder, Park Moondae was now shooting with a money gun. Looking at Park Moondae among the fluttering fake money, she really wanted to put cash in all of his pockets.

'Don't retire and walk the path of money for the rest of your life.'

She thought warmly as she saw Keun Sejin and Park Moondae throwing fake money at each other's desks.

A problem arose after that.

This time, the fan who moved to get an autograph from Moondae was presenting… A yellow Welsh Corgi hat.

'Are you going to replace it?'

It was such a shame, but she already took some shots of the flower crown so it was time to be satisfied. She licked her lips and waited for Moondae to wear the Welsh Corgi hat.

As expected, Moondae took off the flower crown and the rabbit ear and then wore the hat.

But it didn't end there.

Park Moondae put on the flower crown and the rabbit ear on it after enough time had passed to take several shots of him wearing the hat.

"…!!"

At that moment, Moondae's remarks rang in homma's head.

– I'll keep wearing it, so don't worry

…And Park Moondae really didn't take out 'a single item' until the fan signing was over.

* * *

"…"

"…Sigh."

After the fan signing event, the moving car was quiet. This was because the guys who were tired of talking to 100 people in a row were all stretched out.

Thanks to that, I could check the Internet quietly. I let out a small sigh.

'…I've done everything I can for now.'

Still, I couldn't say in good conscience that it was worth 100,000 won per minute.

I briefly recalled a few people.

– Can you poke your cheek…?

– Moondae, three kinds of aegyeo! Quick!

– Do you mind if I put this on for you!?

– Morning call! Can you give me a morning call?

Um, I already expected those requests through preliminary research. Thanks to that, I could clear it safely without panic.

'I was a little embarrassed, but… It was worth it.'

Sometimes, there were people who tried to pick a fight because they didn't like Park Moondae, but it was fine.

Well, they didn't intend to punch me in the face.

Rather, I was more embarrassed by the people who kept giving back money in an attempt to impress Park Moondae.

'Do they have to go as far as giving money…?'

I reflexively recalled the student who came wearing a Welsh corgi mask and did a three-line poem with 'Park Moondae', and soon realized what I was originally trying to do. Reaction monitoring.

"Um."

Let's turn on the smartphone.

First of all… Testar's first fan signing event was trending in real-time on SNS.

'I expected this to some extent.'

It was a private event, but because there were so many people who were interested, real-time articles were posted almost live.

– The kids' responses at the fan signing were crazy. They talked more than I did;; My family register was robbed by Cha Eugene

– I never thought the day would come when I said 'Ah really' from this side

– Ah, Testar, everyone was so nervous ㅋ큐ㅠ So cute! (short greetings video)

– Hey, who gave Ahyeon the monocle? I just want to say thank you. May your family be blessed for three generations (photo)

– Look at Chungwoo wearing a durumagi. He has to appear in a historical drama with thousands of billion episodes (photo)

Most of them were happy about the first fan signing event, and even though the fans who couldn't make it were sad, they were excited about the real-time content.

‘I guess it’s a good choice to suggest banning post-its notes.’

Since <Idol Inc.> had a lot of viewers, the group was basically getting a lot of attention.

It was right not to give room for anyone to manipulate and post it as they please.

‘Thanks to that, there are no useless rumors on the surface.’

Instead, it seemed what I did became quite a hot topic, so I went to the trending post.

[#6 Moon Puppy’s March]

…Let’s take a look at one of the most liked articles.

: Aaah, everyone, look at Moon Puppy’s march of what the fans gave him, he stacked a tower on his head ㅋㅠㅠ Isn’t he a puppy material that is completely attached to his own thing? (photo)

I noticed a photo of Park Moondae which was edited by attaching a series of cuts where all kinds of props were stacked on his head and body as the fan signing event progressed.

‘…I think I wore up five layers at the end.’

It managed not to collapse.

I was a little bit regretful that I was so conscious of the 1.32 million won, but it was a relief that it made them smile.

Hmm, let’s take a look at some more popular reviews.

– Park Moondae is really crazy, wow. The staff told me to move over, but he didn’t hand let go and held hands with me until the end. Wow, I almost proposed – Moondae even picked out my dinner ㅋㅋ Have I told you? I thought you were really my puppy

– Fan signing review (7) lastly, Moondae!

I asked to grant the wish of the winner of rock-paper-scissors, but I lost.

But Moondae took a quick look and changed his own and lostㅠㅠ I thought my heart was falling – To Moondae… I gave Moon Puppy a cotton ball… The best moment of the year… Moondae said it was soft and amazing, he took it with his own hands aaah (photo)

"…"

That… That doll called a cotton ball felt good to touch, so I kneaded it like a stress ball, and I even brought it to the car with me.

It was in my bag now.

Somehow it felt strange.

'Isn't it the person who received it who's supposed to be thrilled…?'

Why is it the person who made the gift themselves who is thrilled?

Anyway, I was grateful and moved on to the next article. It was the most shared article.

– Ah, it's Moondae's first fan sign, so he prepared candies according to the number of peopleㅠㅠ No, When did our puppy grow up to do things like thisㅠㅠ My sister keeps it as an heirloom! (photo)

'…I bought it so they could get something to eat in case they got bored if they just sat down after signing.'

How come nobody was eating it.

Anyway, it was a good thing that they enjoyed it, but the post below it was a problem.

Ah… I was wondering what he gave you, it was candy? I thought he gave you something amazing…

? Do you know me?

No, but it's so pitiful I have to say it ㅎ I'm sure you spent a lot of money buying stocks, but you're thrilled with the cost-effective idol who only gave you candy… ㅠ Take care of your self-esteem

All the weird people are popping up; Blocked~

'Hmm.'

I operated the tabs and looked around the Internet.

When I checked, for each popular post in the community, a similar anonymous account started posting bullshit. Judging from the timing, it was an organized move.

– Is it just me who feels he's a little selfish? It's the first fan signing event, but he's the only one who prepared it like that;

– I want to make fun of the reluctant fans because I feel like they're only getting their money back through lollipops

– Did he only give it to people who came to the fan sign? ㅋㅋ The stone steps up and categorizes the fans in the order of how much they spent their money… Sigh

– What's the point of stacking up fan-signing items like that? It doesn't look pretty… He just debuted in first place, but he's not that popular, so I feel like he's very self-conscious

I knew this would happen.

'How can these bastards have the same pattern?'

However, after <Idol Inc.> which was like an inferno was over, it seemed they were scratching gently while looking around, as if to confirm whether their primary speech worked.

In fact, when the audition was over, it was fine ignoring these guys.

But it was a problem if they threw candles at people who were having fun.

'Let's solve it quickly.'

I clicked my tongue and turned on Testar's SNS.

Chapter 79

After Testar's fan signing event became a buzz on SNS, some of Park Moondae's fans were suffering from <Idol Inc.> PTSD because of the malicious accounts that came up belatedly.

– What's wrong with them?

– They're really going crazy… Sigh

– I feel like they're conspiring from somewhere

The antis tried to incite public opinion against Park Moondae by spreading cleverly distorted logic in all kinds of communities.

The main arguments were 'It's selfish to prepare a gift alone', 'Miraculous cost-effectiveness that can be condescending with a lollipop', and 'uselessly seeking attention with fan signing items'.

Of course, there weren't a lot of places where it worked properly, but the defense itself was mentally exhausting.

When the fans got emotional, the key to the event got caught.

– This is a good day, but what is going on

– I want to quickly clean up and go back to the fan signing event…

– I get tired every time

Just before panic turned to exhaustion.

There was an alarm notification on Testar's account.

Hello, everyone

This is Moondae (puppy emoticon)

Here's today's settlement (photo)

The attached photos were Park Moondae's selfies, each with separate fan-signing items that he had received. Looking at the background, it seemed he was in the car.

That wasn't all.

An additional notification popped up immediately.

There's more

Photos of other members with similar concepts were uploaded one after another.

Each of them exchanged the fan sign items they received and even took care of the color difference. It was almost embarrassing how well the photos were compositioned and professionally taken.

– ??

– Moondae?

– No, suddenly, how precious…

Before the fandom could react to the sudden content, an article came up again.

Next up is #Myself! (photo)

P.S. All seven of us will do it~ Please look forward to it ♡

It was a post with a selfie of Park Moondae taken with a V on the chin and Keun Sejin opened a package in the background.

They could see that the package contained colorful lollipops.

– Heol

– Crazy

Yes. In the first place, Park Moondae didn't plan this alone.

It was because he was wary of holding an event alone in the Testar fandom, which still had individual fandoms as its basis.

And of course, the first person he invited was Keun Sejin, who was full of confidence in the fan signing.

The fans were on fire in an instant.

– Is this a selfie bomb for real? Go ahead and explode more

– It reminds me of the doll mask event during Idol Inc ㅠㅠ Our kids are really good children. I love you!

– Look at his stunts to take care of all the fans who couldn't come to the fan signing event. This is the idol that survived Idol Inc

– I should've bought 120 copies, so kind ㅠㅠ

And Park Moondae's fans felt at ease.

Because now, no matter what kind of bullshit came out, they could beat it up and drive it out.

– I don't think it's good to see Park Moondae doing that alone

Yeah, Keun Sejin will do it tomorrow~ They all planned it together as a relay! Isn't it nice to see them overflowing with love for Testar fans♡ (photo)

– What is that;; If he did that at the fan signing event, the people who gave him the item would lose their energy. He was just stacking it on his head.

He made the time to wear them one by one and take a picture! And he uploaded each item separately? Even with the other members all together ㅠㅠ Do you want to see it together? (kink)

In this way, those people could quietly disappear or meet 'This comment has already been deleted', needless to say for a longer period of time.

– Ah, the cider tastes good.

– Moon Puppy, here's another bowl of cider!! (bang!

– Get off, ah it's fun ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Moon Puppy is a genius, I don't accept objections

– Moon Puppy has to report his survival through selfies every day, not posting is against the law

Fans ran excitedly to the fan signing the next day and were able to sleep sweetly with refreshed hearts.

– Keun Sejin gave me a bubble toy lol ㅋㅋㅋ

– The fan sign event site suddenly became the Magical Boy set

– It's so cute. Following Moondae's candy, Keun Sejin also chose something that suit his personality ㅠㅠ (photo)

And in the festive atmosphere, a great conflict came to many people.

The agency announced an additional fan signing schedule with the intention to take advantage of this opportunity.

– Next fan signing event schedule. (link)

Is it true they grab this after the initial release? The agency is really… Crazy

– The additional fan signing event is in this weekend. I really want to go ㅠㅠ

– Don't you really have to go to the fan sign at least once?

– It seems the next album will go up even more now, or maybe I should break my saving account

No one knew yet that after a while, the additional fan sign event, which reached 180 copies, would drive everyone crazy, including the fans and the singers.

* * *

Rattle.

My body moved and I woke up. I heard a voice from the front.

"…Hmmm, have we arrived?"

"There's still some time left."

"Yes…"

A conversation between Ryu Chungwoo and the manager passed through my sleepy mind.

'…Right.'

I was in the middle of moving.

I thought I would fall asleep again if I stopped thinking for a bit, so I moved my body.

First of all, I turned on my friend's smartphone.

[Friday 4:35 AM]

‘It’s been two and a half hours… since we started.’

The schedule was really amazing. I brushed my head.

‘I was relieved that there is no pre-recording this week, so why are we filming the variety show so early in the morning?’

I never imagined that I would have to go all the way to Gyeongsang-do. Thanks to that, I couldn’t even touch the settlement of the fan signing event yesterday.

‘Should I post something?’

I was a little conflicted as I accessed Testar’s account on my smartphone, and I uploaded some group photos taken at the dorm.

This is Moondae. (puppy emoticon)

Testar’s matched pajamas. (photo)

‘…Hmm. It seems too much.’

Looking at it, I wondered if someone else’s pajamas actually mattered.

Many people asked idols to share TMI, but they often got disappointed when they solved it, so I had to choose the right information.

‘I’ll have to look at the reaction and adjust the range.’

As soon as I finished uploading, there was a sign of movement from next to me.

“Um…”

Seon Ahyeon opened his eyes in a half-dreaming state and was startled when his eyes met me, who had completely woken up.

“-! H-Have we arrived?”

“No.”

“Uh…”

“Sleep more.”

After saying that, I also closed my eyes.

There were still two hours left until we arrived, so I was going to sleep a little more.

Because of his personality, it was clear that he wouldn’t be able to sleep if the person next to him was awake.

“…”

However, when I closed my eyes, I had already arrived at the destination. Fatigue ate up the time.

In addition, an extraordinary demand awaited.

“We can’t?”

“Yes. Your reaction when you find out what kind of job you will experience for a day is important.”

“Um, I see~”

Thanks to the manager who stepped in and organized it, I had no choice but to wear a blindfold. In the meantime, my eyes were thoroughly blocked so that I couldn’t see the outside at all.

It didn’t matter, but when I put on blindfolds on the guys who were already sleepy, some of them seemed to be out of their minds.

Cha Eugene, who was on the verge of dozing off, came to his senses only after being poked in the side.

“Ugh… Oh!”

“Come on, let’s go!”

As it was, we moved in a hurry according to the instructions of the production team.

“Now take off your blindfold~”

“Yes!”

And the sight I saw after taking off the blindfold…

It was a lake and a field.

“…??”

‘What’s this.’

Of course, I wasn’t the only one perplexed.

“…I’m awake, right?”

“Where are we?”

Before I could say anything more, some sort of mobile banner appeared in front of Testar.

[Congrats! National stock ★ Testar ★ Drop by!]

[Korean birds welcome you!]

[in Junam Reservoir]

A colorful picture of a bird fluttered.

“…?!”

Underlined Gothic font flashed.

"…??"

When I turned my head, Lee Sejin was looking at the banner with his mouth open. It looked like he couldn't accept the situation.

And before anyone could say anything, a kind-looking elderly man appeared with a smile.

"Hello, everyone~ I'm Kim Jeongwon, a bird researcher!"

"Ah, hello!"

"Hello!"

As if the survival filming experience hadn't gone anywhere, everyone came to their senses in an instant and put their heads together.

'…I'm wide awake.'

But they still didn't understand the situation.

The bird researcher smiled and offered a handshake.

"I heard that you're going to experience bird research here today~"

"Yes? Yes. We are doing a one-day job experience…"

"Yes yes. That's right~ Let's do the basic work of a bird researcher with me today~"

"Bird research…?!"

When the unimaginable job popped up, everyone was taken aback. But the bird researcher didn't care.

"Oh, they are very attractive friends. We will have time to observe them more closely today."

“Uh…”

“We will be taking pictures of migratory birds today!”

“Gasp.”

The cameras were distributed in an instant. Testae came to their senses only after receiving the items handed out in an orderly manner by the staff who brought the banner.

“Y-Yeah!”

“Birds are great!”

“I’ll do my best!”

The bird researcher laughed with satisfaction.

“Haha! They’re young friends, so they have good energy~”

“Hahaha!”

At last, a harmonious laugh broke out. Seon Ahyeon seemed relieved and quietly spoke to me with a slightly excited look.

“I-I think it’s going to be fun…?”

“Yeah. Moondae is good at taking pictures!”

“…”

These guys… Of course, but they didn’t know.

However, after checking the camera, I managed to change my answer.

“…It must be worthwhile.”

“Haha, right!”

Right, indeed, it would be worthwhile…

I remembered the tearful story I heard from a senior in my club whose name I didn't even remember.

– F*ck, if you want to take pictures of migratory birds, it must be winter.

– In the summer… there aren't many migratory birds.

– It was so hot I was going to die…

"…"

I was already worried about whether these guys would be able to appear sane on the afternoon music show.

"Hahaha! Then let's move!"

"Yes!"

The laughter of the bird researcher sounded like a professor capturing a master's degree. Testar guys, like undergraduates who didn't know anything, followed the researcher.

"Wow, the weather is nice!"

"It's bright now because the sun has risen up early."

I silently moved my feet, listening to the conversation of those who would soon be desperate for shade.

And I kept moving.

…I continued moving.

"…?"

Ryu Chungwoo took the lead among those who were perplexed by the endless march.

“Mister?”

“Yes?”

“Um, how much further do we have to move?”

The bird researcher smiled brightly.

“Haha! You have to walk until you see a migratory bird!”

“…!”

“Oh, when will we be able to see it?”

Keun Sejin quickly stepped in. The bird researcher waved his hand.

“Oho~ Only God knows that~”

“…!!”

Just before the guys who grasped the atmosphere could freeze, Keun Sejin quickly opened his mouth again.

“As expected, right? Still, God bless me with good luck, I hope I can see it soon. Haha! Right?”

It was a signal not to ruin the atmosphere of the entertainment show and to laugh.

“Ahaha!”

“You’re right.”

The atmosphere was forced to become friendly again. And then the march continued.

Trudge.

Endless reservoirs and greens followed.

If I kept walking like this, it would not be an entertainment show, but an experience documentary.

Fortunately, Keun Sejin was constantly talking to the bird researcher to get his portion. As if it suited the elderly's taste, the conversation went well.

"That's why Korean crow-tits are like this in the summer~they're so thin."

"Ah~ then the pictures we usually see on the internet aren't summer ones!"

Thanks to this, I just had to react while moving.

'You're properly paying for your meal… '

However, no matter what he said, what kind of portion would come out if the answers kept returning to the story of Korean crow-tits… I didn't know.

And at some point.

The bird researcher raised his arm.

"The~re, do you see the willow tree? There's a bird!"

"Ooh!"

"Wow!"

Faces brightened in an instant at the thought that the march was finally over. Cha Eugene openly tried to run towards it.

"Oh, don't get too close! Birds run away!"

“Oh, yes…”

At Cha Eugene, who was trying to walk carefully again, the bird researcher smiled and grabbed his shoulder.

“Come on, let’s sit down and move~”

“…”

After a while.

Everyone began to move forward while squatting.

‘What kind of training camp experience is this?’

I think I know why the first episode of this entertainment show was ruined.

Chapter 80

As a result of all of us, including the production, crouching down and moving near the summer migratory birds with extreme caution, we were finally able to pick up a camera.

But this 'near' was… It was a relative concept.

"Oh, here?"

"Of course~ It's better not to approach it any further."

It was a distance where the bird could not be seen properly with the naked eye.

Ryu Chungwoo, who was looking at the camera from next to me, muttered awkwardly.

"Um, I'd rather shoot the bird…"

"…?"

It was an idea that only a gold archery medalist would do.

In the meantime, Cha Eugene, who had been touching the camera noisily from the side, pressed the shutter hard.

'…I think it's not even focused.'

I didn't know. It was already a mess. I sighed and picked up the camera I had received.

'This reminds me of the old days.'

I didn't have money, so I rented club equipment to take pictures. After making some money, I received cheap used equipment from my graduating senior in the club.

I fiddled around with the low-end camera and set the exposure value.

'Where… if you pull it up a bit.'

The control and resolution were not so bad. There were a few cuts that could be roughly used.

It was a small blue bird with a white belly. It was throwing branches with its beak as if to show that it had a violent personality.

…But I didn't know what species that bird was.

'Matching a camera model would be easier.'

With a sigh, I approached the bird researcher and asked quietly.

"I think I took it, but I don't know what species it is."

"…?! A-Aha~ Is that so?"

The bird researcher's eyes widened, and soon he complimented me, saying that I was fast.

'…I think this guy freaked out just now?'

But before I could think of anything else, the others stepped in.

"Oh~ As expected, Moondae!"

"I want to see it too."

"H-How is it?"

When I handed over the camera to the people who were gathering and talking quietly, they began to admire it with excitement.

“I-It came out well. I-It’s cute.”

“As expected, Moondae is talented.”

“It’s cool!”

“Sir, what bird is this?”

The bird researcher raised his index finger.

“…Figuring that out is your goal today, my friends!”

“Aha!”

“After taking pictures of the migratory birds, we will have time to look at the photos and find out~ Now, let’s move again~”

“Yes?”

“We don’t have much time, so let’s take pictures of various migratory birds in various places!”

“Yes…”

And then the forced march started again.

‘Looks like it’s ruined.’

I couldn’t find joy in this atmosphere even if I washed my eyes and searched for it. I sighed and got up from my seat. Seon Ahyeon, who was still looking into my photo, hurriedly returned the camera.

“H-Here.”

“Um.”

As I took the camera, I took a picture of Seon Ahyeon without much thought.

"…!"

"I think it came out well."

Seon Ahyeon certainly received natural light well. I would have to pick it out and upload it on social media later.

"M-Me too…"

"Thanks, but I am okay. Let's move."

"H-Hn…"

I was starting to feel sleepy again. It seemed it was because the expectation I had for the filming were all gone.

'Is this the end of the walk?'

…Was it that thought that caused all the problems?

"Then… I think it would be okay to get closer to the bird over there. Let's go."

"Yes!"

Five seconds after approaching the big white bird on the shore at the instruction of the bird researcher.

Suddenly, the bird flapped and rushed with a shriek.

"…!?"

"Oooh."

"H-Hold on!"

Literally, we were scattered in an instant to avoid the bird who was chasing us like crazy.

The bird began to chase after Cha Eugene and Kim Raebin, who were the closest.

*‘F*ck”*

What kind of mess is this?

“Sir! What should I do!?”

“HELP!!”

“No, usually birds are very wary, so this is rare… How amazing!”

“Aaaaa!!”

Cha Eugene rolled away from the bird looking like he almost cried. There was nothing more hellish than this.

And I realized the situation.

The bird… was running?

“…”

I approached the ‘bird researcher’ and talked to him.

“…Is this fake?”

“Yes?”

“That’s not a bird.”

At that moment, the big bird that attacked Cha Eugene shouted.

“Got you!”

“…!!”

At that moment, the bird's head snapped, and a human face popped out from within.

"Hee!!"

The mask was realistic, so it was kind of gross. Cha Eugene's reaction was completely understandable.

"Tada! This is <Working Man>, Kwak Jungwon's prank show!"

"Huh…"

Cha Eugene melted down on the ground.

The woman wearing a new mask shouted in surprise.

"Aigoo, what should I do!"

* * *

After a while, I moved to a cafe near the reservoir under the guidance of the smiling production team.

The MC apologized as soon as she sat down.

'This is the show's common rule.'

"No, they seemed the most fearless, so I chased them… I'm sorry, you both seemed so surprised."

"…It's okay…"

"It was scary."

Kim Raebin received the apology with a bewildered expression, but Cha Eugene still sat as far away from the MC as possible and hid behind the members.

I just wish you stopped pulling my clothes. I was choking.

‘You watched horror movies well.’

As expected, it seemed his experience was another story.

In any case, the MC seemed to think the situation was settled enough, so she brought out the filming.

“As you may have realized by now, our <Working Man> is actually a full-fledged surprise camera broadcast~”

“Aah…”

The MC laughed as she watched Testar clapping with groans.

“T-Then the first episode is…?”

“We even tricked the viewers through the preview episode! Actually, <Working Man> is just an abbreviation, and the original title is… <Man who only needs to say it once>!”

(TL notes: ‘Man who only needs to say it once’ = the actual Korean words are slang referring to when someone says a joke and then the joke is repeated again to the point it stops being funny. You say this slang when you tell them to stop repeating the joke.)

“…?!”

Seon Ahyeon opened his mouth wide. And I almost bit my tongue, too.

‘I think I’ve heard of that name.’

I didn’t expect to be the first cast member to be fooled by the name change.

“Now, how does it feel to experience the true title of <Working Man>, <Man who only needs to say it once> for the first time?”

In an instant, words came out like a flood.

“That banner! You made it like that on purpose!”

“I was wondering why I had to walk so much!”

“We didn’t even need to squat walk, right?”

“Ahaha! It’s all right~ It’s all right~”

The MC laughed and happily drank coffee. I sighed and added a word.

“Was the bird researcher fake, too?”

“Of course! He’s a great actor.”

“That’s why it was weird! He kept talking about Korean crow-tits!”

Everyone, including the production team, burst into laughter at Keun Sejin’s words.

“No, in the first place, this is where you take pictures of migratory birds in the winter~ You don’t have to come all the way here to take pictures of migratory birds in the summer. They live by spreading. In Gyeonggi-do, too!”

“Ah…”

It was the first time I saw Ryu Chungwoo suffer from embarrassment so openly like that.

I sipped my drink in silence. If I didn’t, I thought I’d be like that too.

Fortunately, the agency was no fool, the MC continued to chat for quite some time about the album and Testar’s activities afterward.

Although Ryu Chungwoo was suffering, he answered sincerely for publicity.

‘I’m glad I’m not the leader.’

As expected, I had to avoid the high position that only had responsibilities.

Anyway, after that small talk, we were able to shoot one of the title tracks.

Receiving applause from the staff after performing at a rural cafe was a unique experience in its own way.

“Oh, my God, it was so cool! As expected, you passed the audition!”

“Whoa, thank you!”

The MC smiled brightly as she watched Testar bowing their head in all directions.

“Thank you for starting today’s show in a fun way!”

“We really appreciate it!”

“It was fun!”

The ending was heartwarming. It was a variety show, so they couldn’t not end it on a warm note.

At the last minute, Cha Eugene also came to his senses and nodded.

“I’m scared of birds.”

“Hahaha!”

The MC must have thought it was a joke and laughed, but Cha Eugene must have been sincere.

‘Well… It won’t get caught so it doesn’t matter.’

He was not the kind of guy who would notice what I was trying to say.

Then, the MC received a signal from the production team and continued to talk, slapping her palms.

“Now, everyone! We’ll give you the daily wages we were supposed to give you～”

“Yes?”

“Expensive lunch! I brought as much as everyone’s daily wages～”

“…Ooh!!”

“Heol!”

Grill plates and Korean beef appeared.

All the bad feelings were washed away. It was the power of beef.

“Eat a lot!”

“T-Thank you!”

The members sat in front of the beef with puzzled expressions. There was still a sense of doubt about whether or not this was also another prank.

But nothing happened, and the Korean beef sirloin steak was the most delicious thing I’d had in the past half a year.

‘…This is fine.’

Considering that I even received an appearance fee, it was a profitable schedule.

‘Though, it might be different for Cha Eugene who got a direct hit.’

But shortly afterward, Cha Eugene whispered.

“She’s a good person.”

“…Right.”

As I responded to the sincere words of Cha Eugene who was satisfied, I didn’t have a clue what kind of entertainment all these skits would consist of…

‘…I don’t know.’

It was fine as long as I didn’t get cursed at. I took the meat into my mouth.

At the front, the manager was signaling to the members to please stop eating, but no one except Seon Ahyeon cared.

* * *

And then, on a Sunday afternoon.

The second week of Testar’s music show was over.

Fans were delighted to see that costumes that didn’t appear in the MV were appearing on music shows and events.

– The light pink summer uniform in Music Night is a legend… (screenshot)

– See the power of the black baseball uniform that pierces the valkyrie and quickly become a fan of Testar. If you become a fan now, you can become a fan without having to buy stocks (video)

– Testar’s Park Moondae 2X0630 Oseong Event (photo) he was wearing Oseong Bears baseball uniformㅠㅠ He also got number 11 on his back too!

Complaints that the agency was bad at their job broke out sporadically, but overall, it was a fun atmosphere to enjoy content-rich activities without major incidents.

However, there were many people who were thirsty for entertainment.

– Reality show is good but I hope they can come out on some large-scale variety shows as well

– I want to see them being cute on a talk show…

– All of our kids have characters, so they're great when they appear, but why isn't there any news?

In this situation, the news of 'Testar' appearing in an entertainment program that no one had ever heard of before was spread through articles.

[National stock Testa, their first variety show is TVC's new <Working Man>]

[Who's the first guest of <Working Man>? <Idol Inc.>'s Testar.]

– ??

– What kind of variety show is this?

– Is it misinformation?

– A new work?

However, SNS was soon filled with the anger of the people who came to see the first episode, which had a preview on WeTube.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ T1 is trying to use our kids to promote their nonsense program.

– Episode 1 is no f*cking fun. Are you crazy?

– It's already rumored to be a failure among those who watch entertainment shows ㅠㅠ

– This really can't work… Sigh…

Of course, it didn't last long. Because if they lamented it openly, they would unnecessarily feed the agro.

Therefore, there were a lot of lamentations that couldn't be searched right below the surface, and this kind of reaction had become a trend in the article's comments.

– Wow! Testar will come out and make this program a hit!

– Testar, I'll finally see you on another show, not on a reality show

– Let's watch it live~

Of course, this was done step by step in case it exploded like an active volcano.

However, before the fans' anger could subside, the preview of the second episode of <Working Man> appeared that night.

[Preview of <Working Man> Episode 2]

: It's here! (link)

– Already?

– Isn't it a Thursday broadcast?

As the bewildered people clicked on the link, this title popped up.

[Sorry! Actually, the name and the first episode were also to fool you! A PRANK show that is serious about fooling <Man who only needs to say it once> The first guest is Testar! Episode 2 preview]

The thumbnail showed the members of Testar who stiffened at the sight of the out-of-world emotional banner.

– ???

– What’s this

– ?ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

People were confused but rushed to click play.

Chapter 81

The preview of ＜Working Man＞ episode 2 that suddenly appeared.

When it was played, the sound of a music box could be heard first.

♫♪♩♪-♫♪♫♪-♪♩-

Right. It was Testar's Magical Boy.

But because of the weird modulation, it sounded like BGM for some kind of gag.

[Ding ↗ Ring ↘ Ding ↗ Ding ↘ Ding]

On top of it, the colorful banner and Testar's bewildered faces overlapped in a close-up.

[Keun Sejin:… I'm awake, right?]

As soon as he finished speaking, a huge caption appeared.

[↑Plan to keep doubting whether this is real]

And right away, a bird researcher appeared. Behind the benevolent smile, the CG of burning hell fire was synthesized.

[Bird researcher: We will be taking pictures of migratory birds today!]

[Testar: ????]

Above the bewildered Testar, violently swaying captions were poured in along with heavy metal sounds.

[A professional suddenly appears! (※Fake)]

[Taking pictures of migratory birds suddenly begins! (※Fake)]

It was meant to make anyone who saw it laugh.

However, as the cut changed, the atmosphere became grim.

[But Testar is not easy!]

A short scene was overlapped under red flashing captions.

[Former national archery representative: If this is about shooting (the birds), I would do it.]

[Seon Ahyeon: (Pupils shaking)]

Seon Ahyeon's frightened face was slowly zoomed in as he grabbed the camera tightly at Ryu Chungwoo's calm words.

Then, all of sudden, the cut of Testar seriously squatted down as a group showed up.

[Bird researcher: Let's approach it quietly~]

[Testar: Clatter (Serious about the shoot)]

The cut of the tall boys holding their breath and moving while squatting down continued without BGM.

[(Overly immersed)]

And the scene where Park Moondae carefully picked up the camera and took a photo was naturally inserted.

[Park Moondae: (Cli-ck)]

But when he pulled back the camera, he was taking picture of Seon Ahyeon, not a bird.

[…??]

The caption was puzzled.

And from that quiet cut, another cut of Testar screaming while running away like a madman showed up out of nowhere.

[Testar: Argh!!!]

[Bird researcher: It's fascinating ㅎㅎ]

[Testar: Gyaaaaaa!! (it roughly means I won't leave the broadcasting station guys alone)]

The handy cam shook like crazy.

[Cha Eugene: Help! (Help!)]

The caption flashed. There was no movie more disastrous than this.

[First variety show filming that should have been peaceful!]

[An unprovoked disaster hits Testar!]

[What will be the fate of Testar?]

A modulated voice came out of the MC's mosaic face.

[??: Aigoo, I'm sorry!]

And on the black screen, a huge golden caption popped up.

[The MC and production team who are serious about prank!]

[<Working Man>]

[<Man who only needs to say it once>]

[July 5th, Thursday at 11 pm!]

Magical Boy's modulated sound flowed out again, and the screen finished magnificently.

"…"

These guys too… They were out of their mind.

"Puhahahaha!!"

Keun Sejin, who was watching from next to me, rolled around the living room.

This guy burst into laughter from the moment the stupidly transformed Magical Boy BGM came out and ended up like this.

I admitted it.

'…It's fun.'

Like in <Idol Inc.>, they were creating a context that didn't exist through editing, but it wasn't just a couple of days that this happened so I gave up.

'It's not a composition that will cause a controversy, so it'll be fine.'

Just… They seemed serious about being funny.

Still, it was ridiculous that the agency used the first entertainment show card as a tie-in instead of a deal, but apart from that, it seemed the fans would enjoy it.

'If we maintain our form, we can get through the variety show on public TV next time.'

Thinking that it was roughly a pass, I looked through the current reaction.

– What did I see? (photo of being sucked to the universe)

– ????ㅋㅋㅋㅋ??

– I think I've lost it ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ Oh my Godㅋㅋㅋ

-The state of Testar's first variety show…? (attachment)

When I clicked on the GIF file attached to the last comment, a picture of a wild goose inhaling and emitting a laser was played.

By the way, the lasers were emitted from its eyes as well.

"…"

In a sense… You could say that they made a very intuitive prediction.

I recalled Cha Eugene did exactly that when the bird's neck broke.

"Hahaha! Our fans are so cute!"

Keun Sejin, who got up and rested his head, smiled at the comments.

Then, he touched the screen however he wanted to watch a related video.

…This was a business tablet for sponsorship.

Be patient.

"Hey, let's watch this, too. This one is hilarious."

"What is it?"

When he held the screen in front of my nose, my eyes automatically checked the video.

[Testar Animal Kingdom: Episode Park Moondae Exploring Moon

Puppy's Life ZIP <Testar's Living Together TEST> EP.3]

"…"

In the meantime, the 5-second naturally ended and the content came out.

[Blow~ Blow~]

The rustic opening that seemed to come out of animal entertainment in the 1990s was parodied into Testar and passed by.

What came out immediately after was… Park Moondae in puppy pajamas.

…I got it as a gift, so I wore it sometimes when I washed all my pajamas.

'…It's kind of weird seeing it on the screen.'

Regardless of my embarrassment, a voice I often heard in dubbed foreign documentaries flowed out in the video.

[Wild wolves hunt in packs. They live in nuclear family units and are social animals.]

[But here, this individual is a puppy, not a wolf.]

[He has learned the habits of the cold city while living with humans.]

The screen fast-forwarded to the scene of Park Moondae, wearing a pajama and sitting on the sofa in the living room.

He didn't move an inch even though all kinds of housemates were busily coming back and forth.

Cha Eugene and Keun Sejin approached, waved their hands, sat next to him, and turned on the TV, but he remained the same.

[This individual has evolved to not lose energy in a small social life.]

'…I am sure I had responded to them?'

I probably stayed still out of exhaustion since I barely had time to exercise and wash up in-between breaks. The familiar smell of fabrication was very friendly.

[However, like a puppy, he likes humans. He's particularly favorable to humans of the same group.]

"…?"

Come again?

On the screen, Park Moondae suddenly got up and disappeared into the kitchen.

And appeared with soda.

[Let's see where his favor is successfully delivered to.]

Park Moondae first showed the plastic bottle to Ryu Chungwoo, who was passing by, but he was politely rejected.

[The first attempt is a failure.]

'I was just asking if he would like to drink it…?'

Do you even need to call it a failure?

No, in the first place, wouldn't any adult with a brain make that kind of gesture?

But regardless of my distraught mood, the narration diligently came up with bullshit.

On the screen, Park Moondae trudged back to the living room with a plastic bottle and handed over the drink while being warmly welcomed by Cha Eugene and Keun Sejin.

The edits seemed to emphasize that a hunt had been successful.

[Ah, he has succeeded this time.]

[He receives gratitude from the humans.]

The video ended with a cut of Park Moondae receiving half-empty soda back and putting it in his mouth.

[It's the time when Testar Puppy and individual Park Moondae is living in Seoul]

[Ta-da!]

"…"

I was speechless.

I was so busy that I couldn't shoot the content for the reality show, and now that the filming of the music video was over, they aired something like this.

Keun Sejin giggled again.

"It's funny, right? Honestly, it's funny, right?"

Yeah. Everyone had a good laugh.

The best top comment was this.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋPerfect

There were 4,000 'likes' stamped on this list of ㅋ.

There were many laughing comments below that. Everyone looked really happy.

Of course, not all of them were like that. Let's look at other best comments.

– Moon Puppy is official, the Tibetan fox is heresy

– Everyone, Moondae has always been sincere about puppies, from mukbang to doll masks to pajamas. Let's be a fan who respects Moondae's choice.

– Have you lost it with the animal kingdom BGMㅋㅋ엌ㅋㅋㅋㅋ It looks as if the puppy was hunting for the plastic bottle with excitement!

– Yes, our Moon Puppy, let's be a puppy forever♡

– The Tibetan Foxes will not forget the silent oppression of the broadcasting station. We will come back…

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

"…"

The image of Park Moondae that I had used to survive the survival show was distorted into the image of being obsessed with dogs… I felt like I could hear my 29-year-old self screaming.

'…Well, people like it, so it's fine.'

A few days ago, I also used moving puppy ears at the fan signing event. The time had come for the civil service examinee to give up.

"You're not mad, are you? Right? Then, I'll play my video to make it fair."

Next to me, Keun Sejin laughed and automatically played the next video.

There was a hint of the content in the title.

[Testar Animal Kingdom: Lee Sejin B The ‘Sociable’ Big Bear ZIP Testar’s Living Together TEST EP.3]

‘Sociable.’

The content was a special feature about Keun Sejin, who got along well with anyone whether it was with this guy or that guy.

It is edited with a good proportion of humor and warmth.

“But honestly, yours is funnier than mine… Hey, hey!”

This bastard only took good things for himself and made fun of people.

I handed the tablet to him and lay down on the bed.

I should make the most of my hard-earned break, not waste it watching stuff like that.

“Hey, monitor me, too~ Are you going to sleep?”

What monitoring, you laughed at Park Moondae’s video just now.

“Yeah. You should go to sleep, too.”

“Ah~ You’ve slept in the car too. If you have time like this, you should use it well~”

This guy didn’t even have a status window, there was no way to know where all that stamina came from. I slept for only three hours yesterday.

Then, for some reason, I got support from my roommate.

“…He said he’s going to sleep. Get out. You’re noisy.”

Lee Sejin, who was already lying down to sleep, piped in. It was clear that he had been enduring it.

Keun Sejin stared at the person who shared the same name without answering, then he just laughed.

“Ah, sure, well. Good night, hyungnim~”

Then, when our eyes met, he pretended to shake his head, then shrugged and left the room.

‘That guy seemed a little annoyed too.’

It was obvious that he intentionally surrendered lightly so that they didn’t fight when the reality show camera was running

‘They don’t seem to understand each other.’

That didn’t seem quite right. If we changed rooms later, we shouldn’t put those two together.

As soon as I thought so, I got a notification on my smartphone.

[Keun Sejin: Come out! The time is now!]

“…”

[Go to sleep.]

I sent a short reply and turned off the phone. And I started to sleep.

At this time, I didn’t know what would happen to Testar’s first variety show.

* * *

[Testar’s first variety show video is crazy ㅋㅋㅋ]

[Working Man Episode 2 Preview (feat. weak cheek)]

[Testar’s variety show where everything is fake]

The preview video, which was edited like crazy, naturally became a popular post in the entertainment community.

– Heol so funnyㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– WowㅋㅋI thought it was going to fail, but these are the guys who came through Idol Inc

– The scratching comments that pretend to be worried about Testar appearing there are all gone ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– The fans must be happy. It's already so funnyㅋㅋㅋ

– Oh, it's been a long time since I've watched a full-fledged pranking show like this. It's niceㅠㅠ The Idol Inc kids are so cute. I'll watch it live!

It's obvious that you're a fan~

? What's wrong with this guy?;;

Ignore it, the guy's crazy

It was natural since the entertainment show that they thought would fail showed a twist, and the idols from the hottest audition even made an appearance.

In addition, the video itself was funny.

Thanks to this, it also went viral outside of the entertainment community and SNS.

[The identity of the new variety show starring Testar? Full-scale pranking broadcast!]

[Variety show where they're serious about tricking Testar]

[TVC's new variety show, Testar's hot content?]

The video, which was full of bird banners and keyword prank that were drawn by the development team, terribly attracted aggro and increased the number of views.

Besides, it wasn't long before it got chosen.

– ㅋㅋㅋIs there anyone who's here by searching for it?

It was the choice of the famous 'WeTube algorithm'.

Chapter 82

WeTube algorithm.

I didn't know exactly what was the criteria, but it was a video algorithm that showed recommended videos.

And the preview video of <Man who only needs to say it once> starring Testar… For unknown reasons, it was chosen by the algorithm.

It first appeared as a recommendation related to overseas prank humor videos.

These people clicked excitedly, surprised by Korea's professional surprise camera entertainment that appeared after a long time.

– ㅋㅋㅋOur country makes this again? It's very good

– I hope a lot of famous guys come out and get frightened. It's my fetish

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋCelebrity's reactions are so much fun

– Please be successfulㅠㅠ I'm tired of healing variety showsㅠㅠ

After that, it appeared under various TVC entertainment clips. Similar sensibilities had led to more influxes.

– Is this a new TVC variety show? ㅋㅋㅋㅋTestar is so cute!!

– We need Testar's talk show and healing trip… They have to come out and show off their friendship and drive me crazyㅠㅠ Ah, TVC, why aren't you quickly recruiting them~~

– It's Idol Inc kids kyaa I was out of my mind then, but the memories keep coming back… I miss the spicy chicken flavor. I'm going to watch the show

Lastly… Strangely enough, there was an influx coming from animal videos.

This was because the bizarre birds on the banner that were caught in the thumbnail were classified as animals by AI.

There were many people who clicked in bewilderment at the unexpected otherworldly emotional thumbnail.

-? I came to criticize why such a monstrosity is recommended in the cute puppy videos, but it's fun… ㅎ

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

Heol, there's someone who thought the same thing as me ㅋㅋ

– Is it because of that baby bird that it came up in connection with the bird's eating video? It's ridiculous, but it's funny… It hurts my pride ㅋㅋ

– All the cast members were cast beforehand, right? ㅠㅠ I'm worried because they seem so surprised

Thanks to this, the preview of the second episode of < Man who only needs to say it once > began to soar endlessly

And in the process, the BGM that fit perfectly with the craziness of the video began to attract attention.

It was Testar's 'Magical Boy' modulated vision.

– The background music sounds like a cat stomping its back paws in a distraught mood

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ Look at that metaphor

That's right, it's exactly like this ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Does anyone know what the BGM is?

Testar – Magical Boy~ It's the latest song of the idol group that appeared here!

– Aha thank you~

– Heol idol song? ㅋㅋㅋ Is their concept crazy? ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

No, the original is a great song! ㅠㅠ (music video link)

Oh, I saw it and it's cool👍

I can't believe they changed the song like this ㅋㅋㅋ

And again, people flowed into the 'Magical Boy' MV through the chain of related videos.

– Who came here after being chosen by the algorithm? ㅋㅋ

– I was definitely watching a video of a fountain installation for migratory birds, and when I came back to my sense, I was already watching the boy idol music video

– They're so cute, but the music video is so cool! Press 'like' and go♡

– Heol, Idols are doing this kind of song these days. I didn't know because I wasn't interested in it after graduation… The song is nice

– Fans, are you having fun? I am curious

Make sure to remember that these guys are debuting

It's fun, but you'll get pissed off, shed tears, and want to break the monitor. Recommended!

□????

This series of processes had an unexpected butterfly effect.

It was an opportunity for the people who were not interested in idols or the latest songs to be interested in their songs.

In conclusion, it brought a slightly significant rise in the music charts.

[5th place: Magical Boy / Testar] ▲1

‘Magical Boy’ which had been stagnant in the 6th to 8th places, made a slight leap forward.

And a good song was bound to speed up its rise once it gained momentum.

This was because once exposed to the top five, the number of people who ‘try to listen’ even if they had prejudice increased significantly.

As a result.

[3rd place: Magical Boy / Testar] ▲2

The next day, Tuesday. ‘Magical Boy’ rose by two spots again.

For your information, a few days ago, VTIC gave up the top spot to a strong rapper after a long reign.

This thought began to occur among Testar’s fans, who were streaming like crazy.

‘Perhaps?’

‘No way?’

And as always, they impossibly hold onto it.

* * *

The third week of the music shows was coming to an end.

“Wooow!”

They couldn’t hear us because the microphone was off, but the members moved their mouths to left a greeting, waved their hands, and ran backstage.

Colorful lightsticks swayed below.

“I-It was fun…!”

“Today’s outfit was great and the shoes were comfortable, so it was really nice!”

When Kim Raebin shouted, shaking off his summer clothes and fancy jewelry, a friendly laugh broke out.

“Haha!”

“That’s right!”

They were going to laugh no matter what he said. The sweaty faces were smiling.

Cha Eugene chipped in.

“Winning first place is great!”

Yes. We finally won first place.

‘Of course, it’s not broadcasted.’

We won first place on Tnet’s music show ‘Music Night’ this week.

Am I upset? Honestly, I am. This was because a big singer would make a comeback this Friday and the chance to win first place with this activity was all gone.

Moreover… Um, first place on Music Night wasn't very credible.

'…Honestly, it's favoritism.'

I checked and it was pushed by the broadcast score.

Anyway, the mood was good, there was no need to spoil it, so let's just clap and nod.

We hadn't been able to sleep, so there had to be a sense of accomplishment during our activity.

Even Lee Sejin added a word.

"…I wish it hadn't been canceled."

"S-Still we got the trophy!"

"Right, we're going to receive a trophy for this activity!"

Ryu Chungwoo smiled and stretched.

I also felt relieved that we finished the week well.

And a little later.

"In the first week of July, the number one popular music is… Yes, congratulations! Testar's Magical Boy!"

"…?"

We suddenly got another trophy.

"…??"

The stage fireworks exploded in front of the confused members.

Tap, tap! Pop!

No one was in a sound state of mind as the MC presented a bouquet and the trophy.

Me included.

'What the hell is going on here?'

Moreover, the person who received the microphone was Kim Raebin.

"Uh… Thank you…"

Kim Raebin, who was out of his mind because he hadn't prepared anything, looked around with eyes asking for help, and made eye contact with me.

"…"

'Hey, I can't either.'

Sorry, but I didn't know what to say either. My head stopped for a moment as I was confused by the sudden escape from death.

Fortunately, the microphone usually went to the leader next… or so I thought.

"…Thank you. Unexpectedly, we won first place… First of all, thank you to the fans. And thank you to the staff who work together…"

Ryu Chungwoo calmly mentioned all the people that should be mentioned, and suddenly burst into tears. It felt like a sense of reality had returned.

'I'm going crazy.'

Honestly, it was understandable that he'd cry. All this time, Ryu

Chungwoo had been taking care of the kids… He did like half the manager's job.

Fortunately, Keun Sejin received a microphone from Kim Raebin and diligently continued the speech.

"Director Kwak Shinkyun and Team Leader Kim Hyejung. Also, thank you so much to everyone who made this album together! And most of all… Fans, I love you so much! We really didn't expect this… Thank you so much for giving us first place!"

"Aaaah!!"

"Congratulations!"

Fortunately, a strong reaction came back from under the stage. Thanks to VTIC not coming out this week after 3 weeks of domestic activities, live booing was avoided.

…Wait, that's right.

'How the hell did we beat VTIC?'

However, the score had already disappeared because of the prompter, and instead, it was right before the encore began.

"Yes~"

MCs slowly came out with microphones to leave ending remarks. It meant they were going to wrap this up.

At that moment, Cha Eugene, who grabbed the microphone before we knew it, blinked and shouted a word of appreciation.

"Shareholder-nim? Thank you!"

"Cough."

It was a broadcast accident.

In front of the members who hurriedly suppressed Cha Eugene, the MCs steadfastly finished the ending remarks.

“Haha, when you want to listen to a popular song?”

“Live popular music!”

“Come to listen to it next week, too.”

And the prelude to ‘Magical Boy’ began to flow out.

After sending various glances to Cha Eugene who was full of question marks, the members let him go.

I barely started singing.

“…Tomorrow, I think of you who I met today and tomorrow…”

Maybe it was because of my mood, but the sound of the music box sounded exceptionally like in the preview video of the first variety show.

It was after checking the encore video that night that I realized that I even got the lyrics wrong.

There was no party crazier than this.

* * *

“Understand? If you are going to say something on a broadcast in the future, make sure to ask the hyungs first!”

“Yes…”

Cha Eugene was depressed after being nagged by the manager for 30 minutes. But at the same time, as he kept glancing at the trophy, it seemed his heart wasn’t in it.

‘Saying more would be useless.’

It seemed he was reflecting so I had to do something. I sighed and spoke.

“Hyung, I think we need to take a picture of this, too.”

“…Alright, go ahead.”

“Yes!”

Cha Eugene ran quickly and tried to lift the trophy like a baboon boasting a baby lion.

I stopped Cha Eugene.

“Hold the trophy and hang your head down.”

“Yes?”

“You should reflect.”

“Yes…”

Cha Eugene lowered the trophy with a sullen face.

The photo composition would come out well. I took a few pictures and sent them to Keun Sejin who was preparing to upload SNS.

“Write on the postscript that he’s reflecting on himself.”

“Okay~… Um, but it doesn’t seem necessary?”

“…?”

“Look at this.”

I checked the popular SNS posts on the smartphone screen that Keun Sejin held out.

[Is it true that Testar monumentally won first place on a music show but doesn't have a stable fandom name yet? ㅋㅋㅋ It must have looked like they were shaking a carrot[1]shake a carrot = a Korean meme. Something like ("If you're in danger, shake/draw/show a carrot!".]

"…"

"The atmosphere is fine."

"Wait a minute."

I took over the smartphone from Keun Sejin and started searching in detail.

And I found the answer in the number 1 most popular post in the community.

[Testar's first place commotion ㅋㅋ (feat. the restraint of survival that can't be escaped)]

When I clicked, the previous encore video was already uploaded with captions.

They added effects with all kinds of subtitles, so the figure of the members who were confused and out of their minds was expressed in a funny way.

…For your information, the cut of us avoiding helping Kim Raebin was combined with the 'robot turning its eyes away meme', and at the end, the wrong lyrics were cross-edited with the original stage and received countless 'ㅋ' captions.

[Testar's first 1st place award becomes a dark history.]

By the way, it was the title.

'I'm going crazy.'

Anyway, right here, Cha Eugene's courteous 'shareholder remark' was edited and uploaded like the highlight of the joke.

[Shareholder-nim? Thank you!]

[!!!!!]

The caption was 'Idol Inc spirit is never too far'.

"…"

Below the video, among the laughing and congratulatory comments, there was some resentment from fans who wanted to beat up the Idol Inc spirit.

– My kids debuted and got 1st place, but why is the only name used to call the fans is shareholderㅠㅠ

– Still, idols, fans, and everyone suffers from Idol Inc PTSD, are you not working in an agencyㅠㅠㅠㅠ

– I, too, want to hear the kids say 'I love you ()' <I want to hear the name of the fans here…

– The kids are going to have fun playing around with fan names, right…?

It didn't end here.

Opinions recently uploaded to SNS or communities had begun to take a step further.

– Neither the light stick nor the fan color came out, right? Isn't their operation has been a hit-and-miss? Honestly, it had been weird since they made a comeback within a month, but I didn't say anything because I was afraid it would hinder the kids' debut.

– There are no additional schedules for the kids' variety shows, and instead of holding an event, they'd rather have a f*cking concert. With a boy group of this scale, you'll make more money, but you don't know that either ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Come to think of it, the members also came up with the concept of the first-place song. And Moondae did a PPT presentation. But isn't it ugly that they started like this and produced it within a month? How much of the kids' work did you change?

"…Um."

All of a sudden, they were approaching the truth.

- 1. shake a carrot = a Korean meme. Something like ("If you're in danger, shake/draw/show a carrot!"

Author's Thoughts

I have finally found out a way to make footnotes in a way that wouldn't distract from the story. Also, I forgot to say this but since a few chapters ago, I use Italic to indicate that the word is originally English.

Chapter 83

The anger against the ‘agency that has yet to give away a single thing, including a fandom name, color, and official lightstick’ spread like an escalator.

‘I am not patient enough to suppress this.’

To be honest, it wouldn’t have been strange if it exploded earlier, but the song came out so well and was in the process of gaining momentum, so it seemed they didn’t discuss it publicly because they were afraid it would affect the performance.

Anyway, it seemed the company’s planning department had received a red light thanks to that.

Testar’s company-related schedule, originally scheduled for tonight, was canceled.

“Congratulations!”

Instead, there was a small first-place party in the dorm. It was on a small scale as we just ordered some chicken with the company card that they had allowed us to use.

The surprise element was the presence of alcohol.

“Since we’re celebrating first place, I think beer would be okay. Let’s drink moderately then clean it all up.”

“Yes!”

Ryu Chungwoo, who had received permission, spoke coolly and drank the beer at once. I wasn’t surprised because he looked like he was strong at drinking.

Of course, the two minors were given soda.

It felt like they were being alienated somehow, but Seon Ahyeon talked to the two of them, which was rare.

“L-Let’s drink together next year!”

Cha Eugene answered with a paper cup in his mouth. It seemed he was distracted by the carbonated drinks he hadn’t seen for a while.

“I can’t drink…”

“…U-Uh?”

“He’s a Korean-American, so he’s allowed to drink from the age of 21.”

Keun Sejin who was opening a beer interjected with a grin.

“Hahaha, it doesn’t matter. You’re going to drink it in Korea anyway!”

“…!”

Both Kim Raebin and Cha Eugene looked very enlightened.

‘You guys are having fun.’

I held a beer in one hand and operated my smartphone in the other. It was to confirm the situation.

‘How the hell did we win first place?’

It was an impossible situation when I checked a few days ago.

I hadn’t looked into it since then because this week’s ranking period was over.

“…”

And after a while. I realized the situation.

‘There are three factors overlapping.’

Here, the influx of music videos and music songs became a small catalyst, and the chart rankings gradually rose.

The second was… The fan signing event.

Album sales were still quite high due to the application for the additional fan signing event.

‘…The copies have gone up.’

Seeing that it had reached 180 copies for the fan signing, I broke out in a cold sweat.

Let’s think about this later. I had no idea what to do to now make it a fair price…

…Anyway, with these two factors interlocking and creating synergy, fans seemed to have noticed the situation first and drove the vote. VTIC’s music activities had ended, so there was a slight decrease in their voting.

In addition, a decisive third factor had entered here. ‘Popular Music’ on Sunday had recently reorganized its ranking system.

In the process, the ranking date, which was originally on Monday, was pushed back until Wednesday, reflecting all of the rising music scores.

In terms of album sales, all of Testar’s special fan signing events were reflected, and the gap with VTIC’s score widened only because the counting period was pushed back.

‘It’s luck.’

That’s why we beat VTIC by a narrow margin.

To a certain extent, the score was only seven points apart.

"…"

I unknowingly gulped down my beer. I couldn't believe we had accomplished it like this.

Of course, I had suffered terribly. So I was very excited that this had happened, maybe it even triggered my need to have compensation.

Besides, a small experiment was also successful.

"…Are you going to drink more?"

"Yes."

I took another can of beer from Lee Sejin and called out the status window.

"Kyahahahaha!!"

The surroundings were filled with laughter.

It seemed they were playing the captioned encore video on the TV screen.

In contrast to the guys who were embarrassed, laughing, and enjoying themselves, a cold and neat status window pop-up caught my eye.

[Successfully won first place!]

You won first place on the music show <Popular Music>!

!Time limit: Fulfilled (great success)

!Status abnormality: 'Win first place or die' removed!

: Check the truth ☜ Click!

‘Check the truth’ was given as a reward for the removal of the status abnormality.

If I didn’t take it, the status abnormality was not removed.

In other words, if I didn’t take the reward, the content of the pop-up wouldn’t be applied.

‘I was agonizing over this.’

The earlier I removed the state abnormality, the period for the new status abnormality to appear was getting shorter.

Then, the sudden death crisis remained the same, and only the difficulty level rose like crazy.

So it was better to wait as long as possible within the time limit.

Considering the last case, I thought about the way to do it from time to time, but I was just glad that the simplest guess worked.

‘I feel much more at ease.’

The biggest reason was that I could look at the situation for the next 300 days without being chased.

Next, about this status window… The speculation that it was a system, not an intelligent with fluid malice, was strengthened.

‘If it had any malicious intent, it would have threatened me to take the reward through a pop-up or made me take it by force.’

Considering that it didn’t happen, there was a high probability that there would be an end to the status abnormality. Games usually had an ending.

‘Well, it’s just wishful thinking.’

It seemed that once I solved a problem and got drunk, I was able to interpret the situation positively.

Anyway, now that the pop-up had been put on hold, I could take my time checking the status window and the situation. I gulped down the beer in my hand again.

“M-Moondae.”

“Yeah.”

“Y-You’re drinking too fast… I-I don’t think it’s good for you…”

“Ah, you’re right.”

Was it too much to empty one can at a time? I clicked my tongue, cleaned up the beer, and then grabbed the chicken.

“Y-You like chicken, I heard it.”

“You did? Ah, that fan signing event.”

“H-Hn!”

Seon Ahyeon smiled and nodded.

“E-Eat a lot!”

“I will.”

“Eat a lot… A lot!”

“…”

‘I think he’s a bit drunk.’

He hadn’t even finished a single can, but seeing that he was drunk, it seemed he didn’t know how much he could drink. Had he never tried drinking before?

I gave Seon Ahyeon a soda. Then, I ate the chicken while remembering the homma I met at the first fan signing event.

'She's good at color correction.'

She posted a lot of things during <Idol Inc> so I felt indebted to her.

The next time I saw her, I should allocate more time to her camera.

"Oooh!"

"Hey, what should we do? We look really stupid. Hiccup."

The other guys played a clip of <Man who only needs to say it once>'s main broadcast on the TV screen following the encore video.

[Heee!]

Just in time, Cha Eugene, who was screaming at the bird's head split open, was being zoomed in.

"Uahahaha!!"

Even I burst into laughter so hard that I teared up.

'It's really funny.'

It is so well-edited that there was no harassment controversy. In addition, the last beef scene was well done, so it was heartwarming.

[You must have been surprised, so eat a lot]

[Today's Testar]

[They eat 5kg of Korean beef… ☆]

[It was worth spending all the staff's production cost]

The members were astonished.

“Oh my gosh.”

“5, 5kg…”

“No wonder I gained some weight the next day…”

“It’s all right. It’s all gone because of the schedule.”

“That’s right.”

In the midst of this, the guys who were worried murmured these words.

“Still, I didn’t know I ate up to 5kg.”

“That amount would have been quite huge.”

“…It’ll be fine.”

They made it sound as if they were losing money, but there was no such thing as a show that lost money.

I took the remote control from Keun Sejin and went to a related video.

[Testar’s Korean Beef 5kg Mukbang Unedited <Man who only needs to say it once> ep.2]

“We must have already paid for all the meat there.”

“…!”

The view count already exceeded a million. The members nodded in admiration.

“How about doing a mukbang show? I think I can try everything I’ve always wanted to eat.”

“Let’s send Moondae to the center!”

“C-Center!”

Who gave Seon Ahyeon another beer?

Fortunately, this topic passed quickly.

“I want to keep watching!”

“Ah, that’s right! Let’s play it again from the time we rushed into Moondae!”

Because the excited guys giggled and replayed the video.

‘Now that I look at it, I think everyone is a bit drunk.’

Even the two minors got drunk in the atmosphere.

Well… They looked happy, so let’s leave it alone.

We were at the dorm anyway, so it didn’t get matter if they got drunk.

I decided to proceed with the monitoring I had been pushing back with my smartphone.

– Thank you for feeding our kids so much Korean beef… Thank you so much…!

– Cha Eugene watches horror movies well, but it’s so cute that he’s weak against it in real life ㅠㅠ Coo Are you scared of staff bird?

– It’s as funny as the preview video ㅋㅋㅋ It’s a successful sale to Muggles who haven’t seen Idol Inc ㅋㅋㅋㅋ – Regarding the fact that Ahyeon’s picture taken by Moondae is better than mine… Yosol 1 loss, Moondae 1 win ㅠ (revised photo)

"…"

The last one… Looking at the profile, this was the account where the person who took pictures of Seon Ahyeon posted small talk.

And I remembered taking the photo of Seon Ahyeon which was attached to the post a few days ago. I didn't expect to find it on the Internet.

Just as the meat mukbang ended, related content came out on the TV screen.

[Boom!]

[※Post-credit scene※]

First, a short cut of Testar taking pictures here and there with a camera passed by.

[The result of this action]

Messy photos came pouring out, including a photo of a bird that looked like a strange creature because it was all shaken, feets running and stumbling to the ground, and a picture of the sky and the shore that wasn't horizontal.

And a caption came up.

[It's unrecognizable…]

"Ahahaha!"

"It was my first time trying it!"

"What a waste of film."

As the parties added a word at a time, a new caption appeared on the screen.

[With exception]

A black bird leaping off the surface of the water, a blue bird swinging on a tree branch, and several scenes of the reservoir passed by.

These were neat cuts that contrasted with the previous photos.

And the last thing that came up was Seon Ahyeon smiling brightly under the sun.

This was the original of the revised photo that Seon Ahyeon's homma posted earlier.

"Huh?"

"…It must be Park Moondae's."

Just as Lee Sejin said so, a caption immediately appeared.

[It's all from the same camera.]

[↓The person who took the pictures]

The video of Park Moondae taking a picture of Seon Ahyeon was crossed out.

And the voice of a self-mosaicked staff was inserted with the caption 'Camera Director'.

[How did he get such a good shot…?]

[This fellow is really good at taking pictures? (Flustered)]

The images of the staff looking into the camera with exclamations of 'Oh~' passed by on the screen.

[Park Moondae: Mysterious golden hands (According to the camera director)]

[※Confirmed by <Man who only needs to say it once>]

The caption had a stamped-on effect. And the video was over.

"…"

I didn't know that this could be used as content.

And from next to me, Keun Sejin deliberately started pretending to be heartbroken.

"Sigh… This is really saddening. Moondae is discriminating against friends. Could it be that you only care about Ahyeon? If you have a friend besides Ahyeon who treats you so well, isn't it right to prove your friendship with them by taking their photos and uploading them often?"

"…"

"The more Moondae stays still, the more heartbroken I am, the more I talk. Moondae, you don't like giving up quickly and making a promise to upload pictures…"

"I'll take a picture and upload it tomorrow, so stop it."

"Alringht."

Drunken men didn't know how to give up. He might talk to me again, so let's pretend to look at my smartphone.

On the screen, Seon Ahyeon's revised photo that was posted earlier was still there.

'Anyway, it came out well as expected.'

To be honest, if this picture was sold, it worth higher than the market price.

I forgot to return the camera, so I couldn't check it properly, but I didn’t expect to see it like this.

‘Well, it’s nice to be recognized.’

There was nothing wrong with taking good pictures. I continued to check SNS with a relaxed mind.

And I saw a popular post by a fan of Park Moondae.

– I thought the pictures posted on SNS were unusual, but he’s really good at taking pictures, so why is his selfie skill so bad… ㅠㅠ

“…”

I haven’t taken a lot of pictures…?

Come to think of it, when I took pictures of others, only good pictures came out. I needed to research how to take a good picture of me.

Chapter 84

“Hmm…”

Before I knew it, the dorm’s living room became quiet.

We won first place, but since the alcohol was added, we became relaxed and most of the accumulated fatigue poured out, so now most of them were sleeping and stretched out.

The two minors also fell asleep. Lee Sejin had already entered the room in the midst of this, perhaps due to physical problems.

He was probably asleep, too.

So what was left of the living room…

“Moondae, are you okay?”

It was just me and Ryu Chungwoo.

Because the guy over there was a strong drinker, and I was still sober thanks to the characteristic ‘Bacchus 500’.

“Yes, I am fine.”

“Then I’m glad.”

Ryu Chungwoo smiled and drank the beer in his hand.

‘How many cans did he drink?’

It didn’t matter since he was hardly drunk anyway, but he must have drunk more than half a dozen cans.

It was clear that his drinking capacity was enormous.

“Um, how’s the activity?”

“Well, it’s worthwhile.”

“Haha, Moondae is always calm.”

Ryu Chungwoo put aside the can of beer that he had finished drinking. His face looked sad.

‘Why are you being like this again?’

We made it to first place, but his face didn’t look good as if there was something else he was worried about.

“I wish I had a calm personality like you.”

“…I think hyung is calm enough, though?”

Considering the attitude this guy took for the past two months after <Idol Inc>, it was an unexpected remark. However, Ryu Chungwoo shook his head.

“No, I think I have poor judgment at a critical moment. Like the fact that I couldn’t say how I felt when we won first place today… In general, that’s how it is.”

“…?”

This was even more random.

‘My thoughts on winning first place are already a mess, but what’s this.’

“Hyung, you’ve been a good leader since the audition. I don’t think you had such a problem.”

“I was a leader because I was the older one, not because I was good at it. I had never run a team properly… Yes, except for the second round that we did together.”

Honestly, it wasn’t Ryu Chungwoo’s fault.

‘You just didn’t have much luck with your team.’

I grudgingly opened another beer.

“During <Idol Inc.>, it was a short-term survival game, so there were very few teams that worked properly. Besides, I think Testar is doing well.”

“…We’re doing well but I am worried I will get us into trouble.”

Ryu Chungwoo smiled bitterly.

“Honestly, the only way I can contribute to this team is tby taking the leader’s position, so I assigned myself to it… I kind of hit my limit. I’m not the type to put up with anything like this…”

“Hmm.”

No wonder Ryu Chungwoo’s attitude had become more conservative and sensible since the formation of Testar, it seemed he had been holding it in.

‘Now that I think about it, in the second round, he originally had a more challenging and cheerful personality.’

The conflicts that he had experienced during Idol Inc must have had a strange learning effect.

Ryu Chungwoo continued to speak. He seemed quite upset.

“I thought about it during Idol Inc. I wondered if coming here was the right choice…”

“…”

Come to think of it, there was no reason to quit archery and appear in a failed audition program after winning the gold medal.

"How did you turn up there?"

"Oh, I don't think anyone knows this. I have a relative among Idol Inc's writers."

"…!"

Wait.

"Is it Ryu Seorin?"

"That's right. Did you know right away because we have the same last name?"

Ryu Chungwoo laughed, but I couldn't laugh.

"Because noona kept asking me… I was starting a new career path anyway, so I showed up."

I broke out in a cold sweat.

'If this is found out now, wouldn't it be a scandal…?'

It wouldn't matter if the audition had failed, but now <Idol Inc.> season 3 had established itself as a wildly popular program.

One of the members who debuted was a relative of the writer?

'Ryu Chungwoo only received friendly edits too.'

…It was a perfect scandal.

Perhaps noticing this, Ryu Chungwoo also added with a smile.

"It won't harm you guys. She was a distant relative anyway, and I barely knew her. One day, I suddenly got a call… It was like a casting."

It probably meant that in terms of format, his was no different from what Park Moondae had received.

However, when the article appeared, there was no way that it would be written kindly.

Titles like 'A Testar member is actually a relative of the Idol Inc's writer', 'A relative who was invited to debut… Idol Inc's shadow' would come out.

I barely managed to open my mouth.

"…Don't tell anyone."

"Um, don't worry about that either. It's the first time I'm talking about it."

Apparently, as soon as the first episode aired and she saw the reaction, Writer Ryu Seorin called and asked for confirmation.

'…We just need to get past this period.'

By the time the next season of <Idol Inc> came out, then… If it exploded in two or three years, it would go away without a hitch.

And if it hadn't exploded throughout the broadcast and hadn't exploded yet now, that meant nobody knew it yet.

I checked with Ryu Chungwoo once again just in case.

"How distant are you related to that writer?"

"Um… except that we are both from the Pungsan Ryu clan… I didn't even know her. That's about it."

"…"

In that case, it was possible to make an excuse by saying that she wasn't even a relative. They could just say that it was easy to cast him because they were from the same birth family.

I relaxed a little.

I didn't know what the next status abnormality would be, but it seemed I would struggle even more since it certainly wouldn't be good if bad news came to the team.

And I thought about other things.

'Come to think of it, I am also from the Pungsan Ryu clan.'

I couldn't be sure since my parents were dead and I didn't care much about it, but perhaps I was.

In that case, Ryu Chungwoo's generation name[1]a syllable in the given name that is typically shared by siblings was similar. Ryu Gunwoo, Ryu Chungwoo.

Hmm.

'It's driving me crazy.'

Well, it didn't matter. I shrugged my shoulders.

"Strangely enough, I ended up telling you… I don't usually talk about things like this to my dongsaengs. Haha."

"…"

Do you instinctively sense that I am older?

I changed the subject.

"Then… You joined the broadcast, so it means you were already preparing to be a singer."

“Hn, I can’t continue archery.”

Ryu Chungwoo pretended to turn his shoulder slightly.

“I had a serious car accident when I was young… I didn’t know that something was wrong, and it wasn’t until I grew up that I suffered the side effects, my hands shake when I put in strength.”

“…”

“So I quit two years ago… What I’m good at, I’ve been exploring it in my new career path. Haha.”

It was the relaxed attitude of someone who had already overcome it.

‘That means it’s over.’

I just nodded, too.

Then, I heard someone moving next to my feet.

“…Sniff.”

“…??”

“I’m sorry, I heard…”

Cha Eugene, who had been sleeping on his stomach next to me, woke up with tears running down his face. And Kim Raebin, who was lying behind him, also sniffled and moved his body.

“I happened to come to my senses… I’m sorry. I didn’t mean to eavesdrop…”

“I didn’t mean to, sniff.”

“…”

The two guys who hadn't drunk alcohol seemed to have quickly come to their senses at the noise.

Ryu Chungwoo looked embarrassed for a moment but soon laughed it off.

"It's my fault for talking in the middle of the living room. Don't worry about it and go to sleep."

But the two guys hesitated and threw in more words.

"Hyung, I'll do better…"

"Chungwoo hyung is cool. You're doing great as an idol!"

"…Um."

Ryu Chungwoo nodded with a complicated look. I chipped in.

"I think I can listen to you better now, but wouldn't be nice to take it easy from now on? Leader."

"…Don't you want to do it?"

"Yes? Of course, I'll give up halfway and fail."

"…"

Me, the leader? I certainly would get mad and cut off one or two relationships.

Perhaps sensing my sincerity, Ryu Chungwoo turned speechless. His face looked ridiculous.

"…Phew."

But he soon answered with a more relaxed attitude.

"…Right, I understand. I'll continue as the leader."

"Wow!"

"Instead, you guys stop me if I try to do something useless. Now I can't just put on a brake."

"Of course."

Ryu Chungwoo muttered something like 'Seriously', then stretched out and went into his room. Perhaps because he had spoken his mind, his steps seemed lighter.

And in the living room… Only food waste and fallen men remained.

"…"

"…Shall we go in?"

"Yes."

When they woke up, they would go in on their own. Let them be.

* * *

Shortly after Testar untangled the feelings and joy of winning first place.

Fans held back until the news of Testar winning first place for the first time hit the headline and became a real-time search term. Because they didn't want to teamkill Testar's good news.

– For now, let's continue making inquiries

– If you know what's going on, prepare yourself. Fans can contact each other via phone and email and quietly continue to request feedback.

However, in the end, they didn't receive any feedback even after a few days had passed.

– Are these bastards out of their minds?

Public opinion, which had been bubbling under the surface, eventually exploded, and fans eventually issued a statement to the agency.

[Statement requesting support for artists' activity]

[July 10, 202X, Testar's fan association criticizes T1 Stars Entertainment's irrational management and demands that the legitimate rights of artists and consumers (fans) be respected. Before debut…]

Because it wasn't tied to any individual member, the scale grew like crazy as all members' individual fan communities united.

Fortunately, to the fans who were preparing for fax and post-it protests as a next measure if they didn't receive a statement, the agency gave a respond.

[Hello. This is T1 Stars Entertainment.]

[We are doing our best to support Testar's activities, and the recent concerns of the fans will also be implemented in time…]

It was a declaration of surrender.

There were some fans who were annoyed by the slight nuance that 'We were already preparing and you guys overreacted!' but for now the atmosphere subsided when they said they would do something soon.

– As expected, do these losers even listen to words…

– Honestly, you're saying that the fandom name would have come out with the 2nd album if we didn't make a fuss, right? ㅋㅋ Actually, I think so too ㅇㅇ

– A lightstick is still a lightstick, but from now on, please don't set up the kids' comeback schedule like that. No matter how much you like the money, stop squeezing the kids.

– Just know that I'll send you a protest truck next time there's another crazy article about a comeback within a month

Afterward, the agency secretly tried to raise their luck with articles such as 'Fandom name chosen by fans themselves' as if they were going to do it Idol Inc-style, but it was sunk in by the fans' attack,

– Please! Stop! Making us! Do that! We're tired of voting stocks now, so just let Testar do it ㅠㅠ – Enough with the Idol Inc spirit…

– Why do you keep trying to get the fans to do it for the genius idols who can easily create a concept for the number 1 song? We're just going to laugh and talk with the kids

– Yeah, we're just going to spend money. Hurry up and take a picture of the goods

Fortunately, the agency didn't look further and prepared the schedule diligently.

So that Friday.

[The national stock is here!]

[Testar's first W Live]

[Testar talks about giving a name to the fans!]

[7/15 (SUN) 3 : 00 PM]

A jaw-dropping event banner popped up.

– Wow, finally

– ㅠㅠㅠㅠOur kids are doing dub live now, too!

– Holding out wins!

– Keun Sejin is speaking in crazy live aaaaaㅠㅠ

– Please, even if it turns out boring, I will still love it, so let's go live for a long time

– Still, for a large company, T-One guys don't know how to workㅠㅠ

Fans who had only barely seen Testar move in real-time on music shows were very excited.

Testar's W app channel, which had yet to post a preview video, had already started to have an increased number of subscribers.

And at 3:00 pm on the day of the event.

[Aah!]

[Hello~]

Testar turned on W Live.

- 1. a syllable in the given name that is typically shared by siblings

Chapter 85

[Have we logged in?]

[I think the alarm has just set in.]

Although the transmission was only delayed, Testar's members, who had no experience in this kind of live broadcasting, whispered while looking at the screen.

Then Cha Eugene shouted with a bright face.

[Oh, there's a number!]

[Ah!]

[Hello~]

Looking at the real-time comments that popped up in an instant, Testar's members smiled and lowered their heads, and then they waved their hands.

"Hello… Hello!"

A college student waved her hand unconsciously when she saw Park Moondae bowing on the screen.

The puppy lying on the bed stared at her with a look as if it had seen all sorts of weird things, but it wasn't the time to care about that.

'I couldn't even go to the fan signing, so I have to watch the W live!'

She was planning to go to graduate school after graduating in the fall and couldn't make time at the end of June, unlike her friend who was a homma. Thanks to that, she had to let go of the fan signing event with eyes full of tears.

‘I was thinking of breaking my saving account… ’

It hurt her heart even though her friend had consoled her through a text message as she cried about how she had money but couldn’t use it. What Moondae did at the fansign… It was because she had heard too much detail…

‘When he dyes his hair blonde… I’ll meet him then.’

She concentrated on the screen, muttering that when she saw him in real life for the first time, she wanted him to have blonde hair. It was a sad self-justification…

[The reason we’re doing this W live today… It’s because we’re finally announcing the official name of our fans.]

[Woow!]

Testar applauded and responded enthusiastically to Ryu Chungwoo’s words.

Moondae was also clapping, the cloth fluttered because he moved without rolling up the big-sized sleeves.

“So cute…!”

The dog raised its ears, thinking she was talking to it, but it quickly realized that she wasn’t and it looked away from the college student with sullen eyes.

On the screen, comments were going up fast.

– I love you!

– Congratulations on winning first placeㅠㅠ

– MARRY ME PLEASE

– ♡♡♡♡

– It's my birthday today, please call my name ㅠㅠ

– Let's make Testar's next album a hit!

Since it was just the beginning, there were many comments like these that just poured out.

Testar seemed to want to read something, but they couldn't read it well because it was too fast, so they just smiled instead. Because they had confirmed that there were a lot of hearts.

[It's good to see you~ Everyone!]

[I missed you a lot~ What are you all doing? It's 3 pm on the weekend, so it's the right time to eat a snack~]

[I want to eat snacks!]

As soon as Cha Eugene finished speaking, the staff behind the smartphone camera sent a signal saying, 'I will bring it to you, so please proceed with the opening as scripted.'

It seemed they were worried that the rookie who was doing W live for the first time would go off-topic during the opening.

At the sight of Cha Eugene looking like he was about to shake a carrot at any moment, the members naturally pacified him and pulled him back.

(TL note: Shake a carrot is a meme in Korea. "If you're in danger, shake/draw/show a carrot!", it's something like that.)

[Haha, shall we check what we prepared first?]

[Yes!]

As Testar moved away from the camera, a desk was seen set up in the back. The desk covered with white cloth looked uneven, and anyone could see that there was something in it.

– What's with the desk?

– Is that an album?

– I'm cheering you on from Indonesia

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋAll of the oppas are so cute!

– You all look ugly

– Eugene, are you hungry?ㅠㅠ

All kinds of questions, personal questions, and even hate comments filled the comment section but fortunately, Testar was unable to see the comments due to the distance from the screen.

Because anyone could come in, real-time comments were a mess.

The college student gritted her teeth.

'I have to report all the haters…!'

She was barely able to check it because it went up in an instant.

She hoped that Moondae was at a distance where he couldn't check the comments, and she focused again on Testar on the screen.

[What we're going to introduce today is… Tada! It's the lightsticks that we drew!]

[Wow!]

When the first white cloth was removed from the desk, panels with each member's name were piled up.

The members clapped excitedly and each took the panel with their names on it.

[Each of us made one, and today, with you guys as witnesses, we are going to discuss and select one of them!]

[I worked really hard on it!]

[We haven't checked our drawings yet.]

[Revealed for the first time!]

"…"

She shut her mouth tight.

Moondae holding his panel with both hands was cute. But her stomach was burning.

'The guys in the agency really don't understand…!'

It was absurd that they made Testar kids vote for themselves when they told the fans not to vote.

'When the kids say they want this and that, you put them together and pick out the design…!'

It was the first time she liked an idol and her head became dizzy from the frustrating situation.

Did they make members do this when working on the title tracks and that was how the concept production presentation came out in the second episode of the reality show? Did Testar personally take on the challenge?

A strong doubt flashed through her mind.

However, since her top priority was Park Moondae who moved in real-time right in front of her eyes, the college student's attention was on him again.

[Now, shall we reveal and explain the pictures one by one?]

[Good idea!]

[Then, starting from the right~]

Ryu Chungwoo, who was sitting on the far right, looked slightly embarrassed, but he took off the tape and revealed his drawing.

And what was in it… It was a picture of a ball made of mysterious lines.

[…?]

[…?!]

[Hyung, this… It's a lightstick, right?]

[Pfft.]

Several people grasped the situation and buried their heads in their knees. It was to prevent themselves from bursting into laughter.

Ryu Chungwoo also ended up laughing.

[HaHa, I'm not good at drawing. Um, this round lightstick… I thought it would be nice if it has a hole in the shape of fingers to make it easier to hold and shake over your head.]

[Ooh.]

[Round like a baseball instead of a stick!]

[It's pretty when it's round and shiny.]

The drawing wasn't great, but everyone held back their laughter and nodded, saying that the presentation was good.

Afterward, Testar pointed out only good things from each member and proceeded with the conversation by giving out compliments.

Because it wasn't an event where their opinions had to be reflected, even if they went about it in a roundabout way, it was fine as long as they picked a pretty one.

[Ahyeon's drawing looks like a magic wand, it's so pretty.]

[T-Thank you.]

[We are… Magical Boys… So we use a magic wand as a lightstick…? That's convincing!]

[It's possible!]

Of course, the overly unrealistic argument was naturally ignored.

[Since the purpose of the lightstick is to make it fun for the fans to enjoy the stage, what if it makes a sound like maracas when you shake it?]

[That's a fun idea.]

[But Raebin-ssi, wouldn't that make our voices difficult to hear?]

[Ugh.]

Kim Raebin was defeated three minutes after his presentation began.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Raebin, it's okayㅠㅠ

– So cuteㅠㅠ

– Any lightstick is fine ♡

– so cute

Although comments such as 'eng plz' and 'screw you' appeared from time to time, most of the fans were watching the screen with warm smiles.

It was the same with the college student. Before she knew it, she was smiling at the screen while hugging the puppy.

'Now it's Moondae's turn!'

[Now… Moondae-ssi… Oh?]

Park Moondae on the screen silently took off the tape and turned the picture to the camera.

It was a drawing of two majestic black lightsticks.

It was fine until there. There were quite a few lightsticks in that style.

The problem was that there were traces of attempts to draw various things around it.

All of them were terribly poorly drawn, so they looked like some sort of weird amoeba.

[…??]

Then Park Moondae opened his mouth with a face that looked like he'd given up everything.

[…It just happened.]

In an instant, waves of laughter ate up the audio.

[Puhahaha!!]

[Moondae's drawing has the most impact!]

[You… You're worse than Chungwoo hyung!]

The members, who forgot the concept of using honorifics, looked into the picture and laughed like crazy. Even Seon Ahyeon was holding back his laughter with his face turning red.

And the college student burst into laughter.

It was half funny and half dorky.

'I guess Moondae is really bad at drawing…!'

But the traces of him working hard to draw it were so cute that her heart was about to explode!

[Ah, sorry for laughing!]

[Right, we should listen to Moondae-ssi's explanation!]

[…Well, it's fine.]

Moondae on the screen cleared his throat a few times, then started to explain it piece by piece, pointing at the drawing with his hand.

[First of all… It looks like a baseball bat.]

[Mmmm.]

[It would be nice if a magic wand comes out from the inside when you turn the handle and take it out.]

[-!!]

[That's new?]

[It's nice?]

Everyone started to get excited, saying that they remembered the magic sword toy they used when they were young.

[Then, how about using Ahyeon's design for our magic wand?]

[Put Chungwoo hyung's circle in the middle!]

[Please separate the bat with one touch!]

The production cost was rising like crazy, but no one cared.

As a result, something like a mega ultra magic toy was being made.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋGuys!

– Enough… That's enough ㅠㅠㅋㅋㅋ

– Oh my gosh

– What the heck is that ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Can we just change into that and cheer for them?

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋAs long as you guys like it!

Testar received a pen from outside the camera and each of them added various elements, drawing a new lightstick.

As a result, it naturally began to be compared to Park Moondae's drawing, which was in the middle of being introduced.

[Wait, then was this a magic wand, Moondae-ssi?]

[…Yes.]

Keun Sejin laughed again when he saw the shape similar to a twisted pretzel.

Park Moondae eventually covered his face with one hand and pushed the picture to the end of the table.

“Gasp…”

He looked so miserable and cute that the prospective graduate student eventually began to post real-time comments. Perhaps she wasn’t the only one who thought so, the comments were lagging due to the heavy traffic.

– ㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠMoondae is so cute

– Let’s get married

-ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋKeunse comfort Moondaeㅋㅋ

– Is this what love is – (heart emoticon)

– It looks like a wormㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Do anything else except drawing

– I love you!

It even passed through foreign languages.

A flood of comments poured down to the point that it was impossible to know what was what.

Meanwhile, the new lightstick design, which was completed after many twists and turns, was displayed on the screen.

[Tada!]

[The drawing of the lightstick concept, it’s decided!]

[Wow!!]

The production team would be overwhelmed by the unit price as soon as they received it, but it seemed plausible.

It was thanks to their sensible opinions.

By the way, Park Moondae took his painting back with a series of 'It's okay' from the members.

Still, he must be happy that the lightstick design was completed, there was a small smile on Moondae's face as he clapped his hands.

'…I like black hair, too.'

Whether it was black or blonde, the college student eventually admitted that she had to see the real thing…

The members on the screen put down their paintings and organized them, and then they rushed to the front side of the desk which was still covered with a white cloth.

[Now, there's only the long-awaited announcement left.]

[Announcement of the fandom name!]

Saying that this was also decided after discussing it together, the members who were amused stretched out their hands toward the cloth together with slightly nervous faces.

[Dadumdadum!]

[Revealed!]

Then they all picked up the cloth and threw it behind them.

"…??"

Chapter 86

[Tada!]

What was hidden under the cloth… was a heavy nameplate.

– ???

– ? What's this ㅋㅋㅋ

The luxurious and huge pearly nameplate, which could only be found on the desk of a corporate chairman, was written in Gungseo style.

[Loviewer]

[Loviewer]

Ryu Chungwoo opened his mouth with a smile.

[We chose this song by thinking of the fans who watch us with love.]

[LOVE plus Reviewer! Like that~]

Cha Eugene attached an additional explanation. He looked at the giant nameplate with proud eyes.

[You want to have it? It was made for you!]

[It means that our fans who have invested in us are the best… Ah, and after this W live, we'll send it to fans by lottery!]

It was only natural, but the nameplate that popped out of nowhere was so random that it was just funny.

By the way, Park Moondae had opposed it until the end, but he gave up because he was pushed back by the majority vote.

Anyway, Testar seemed so proud, so the fans just pushed down the comments with smiley and heart emoticons. Because they were cute.

Of course, the fierce situation was relayed back and forth to SNS.

– You're telling us on W app to take the old-fashioned nameplate and get rid of it, right? But it's the first W live, so we'll let it slideㅠㅠ We'll let it slide only this once!

– Ah ㄹㅇㅋㅋGood joke~

– I don't see any sh*t coming out, read the mood

– First of all, the name is fine, so the nameplate is unexpectedly cuteㅇㅋ?

Thanks to this, the members who were curious about the reaction to the fandom name and went closer to their smartphone screens were able to judge the situation based on texts such as 'ㅋㅋㅋ', 'ㅠㅠㅠ' and 'I love you'.

[Report! The response seems good!]

[I-I am glad…]

[Great!]

Testar excitedly continued the next presentation.

[Then, we will announce the official color next!]

* * *

Testar's first W live lasted quite a long time.

It was originally scheduled for two hours, but the members were unwilling to end the first W live only following the script.

So in the second half, quite a lot of TMI came out.

[Summary of the MBTI that Testar released on the W app today ㅋㅋㅋ]

: Ryu Chungwoo ESFJ / Lee Sejin A ISFP / Seon Ahyeon ISFJ / Keun Sejin ENTJ / Park Moondae INTJ / Kim Raebin INFP / Cha Eugene ENTP

It was a delicacy to see the kids who hadn't done anything like this do this live and have fun… Testar is where you should go even in W live…

※It wasn't an official test, so just watch it for fun!

– None of the kids' personality overlap ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– ㅠㅠㅠㅠThe kids are so cute today. I hope they turn on the W app often

– Extrovert, introvert, it all came out accurately. Keun Sejin's E is especially convincing ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– When Chungwoo's ESFJ was explained, the kids were amazed that it was so accurate, but they were like kindergarten kids who adored their teacher ㅠㅠ Aigoo, cute ones

– The ones who seem to have low empathy are T. It suits them.

?? There's a fool who judges other people based on their MBTI?

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋIn that case half of humanity should be tied up and smacked

Of course, they were mostly currently celebrating the fandom name that was finally decided on.

-Testar, honestly I felt uncomfortable because I immediately thought of tester, but thanks to my singer who set the concept of a loving viewer to the fans, I forget everything

That's right. Testar-Loviewer, a fated pair. I don't accept objection

– As soon as the court opens tomorrow, my name will be changed to Kim Loviewer ㅇㅇ, it's lovely and doesn't sound nerdy

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋAre you crazyㅋㅋㅋl It's weird if two people apply in one day, I am the only one who's going to do it

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– It's nice to make the fandom color three-tone based on the sky-blue for each time zone. It's related to the worldview of this album

That's right. It's a recent color, so it doesn't feel superficialㅋㅋㅋ

– Actually, I think our lightstick will stand out a lot… The color is good regardless…

ㄴㅋㅋㅋThat's rightㅋㅋㅋㅋ

I'm already looking forward to the public broadcastㅋㅋㅋㅋ

Testar's fans spent Sunday enjoying the various hot contents that exploded at the first W Live.

In addition, the last fan signing event for this activity was in progress.

– Will the fan signing be okay right after W liveㅠㅠ

– They're really bad at scheduling;

While worrying about Testar and cursing the agency, the human heart had no choice but to wait for the reviews after hearing that they would ask questions related to W live.

Fortunately, the atmosphere delivered in real-time was very good.

– Someone gave Raebin maracas in the shape of a baseball bat ㅋㅋㅋㅋ Raebin was about to die from embarrassment (photo)

– I asked Moondae to draw a puppy. Um… Anyway, Moon Puppy said it's a puppy, so this is a puppy from now on. (A drawing that looked like a burst-out hotteok[1]hotteok = Korean sweet pancake)

– Today, it's Ahyeon who prepared the gift ㅠㅠ A deer pen. I got an autograph with this! (photo)

And Testar was also holding the fan signing event more energetically thanks to the feeling that the work was ending successfully.

* * *

"Moondae, can you draw a lightstick here?"

"…Sure. Here?"

"Yes!"

I felt like I got similar requests about 10 times just today alone. I drew the final version of the lightstick next to the autograph, hiding my bitterness.

…I was the one drawing it, but I couldn't tell what it was.

"Gasp! I love it so much…"

Do you like it because my sloppy appearance looks humane…

'Or is it because it's rare that I am bad at drawing?'

It didn't matter either way as long as the receiver liked it, but I couldn't help but feel like I had become Bongi Kim Seondal[2]Bongi Kim Seondal is a great swindler from a Korean's old story.

'It feels like I am just wasting their time.'

I finished the drawing as soon as possible and asked again.

“Is there anything else you want?”

“Gasp, then write something heart-fluttering!”

“Hmm, heart-fluttering words…”

In an environment where I couldn’t waste the time worrying, this non-specific request was really difficult.

However, this was also something I had heard more than twice in an hour of fan signing, so I gradually picked up speed.

I immediately wrote down a message under the lightstick.

[Today’s schedule for Park Moondae’s evening: Thinking of the Loviewer he met at the fan signing event]

“Gasp…”

“See you again.”

The fan staggered and was moved to the next seat by the staff. Since I had already held them out once, the staff was also determined this time, so I couldn’t do anything about it.

‘As expected, mentioning the specific situation related to the other person is most effective.’

It would be better to add some personal feelings, but I couldn’t think of any in 20 seconds so it couldn’t be helped.

‘It seems I’ll really think about them in the evening.’

I stroked the back of my neck and waited for the next person to come, but there was no sign of them coming yet.

“Sejin, do you have a secret to being good on stage?”

“Um~ If noona tells me what’s good about it, I can make that my secret!”

“Wooow!”

It was because Keun Sejin was continuing the conversation almost as if he was doing some kind of stunt. It was so amazing that even the staff couldn’t use their hands.

‘It’s about time… ’

As I was looking at the camera calling my name, I heard a fan who just crossed over talking to Seon Ahyeon

“H-Hello.”

“Ah, yes. Hello.”

Maybe she wasn’t very interested in Seon Ahyeon, her voice didn’t sound very impressed.

“W-What’s your n-name?”

“Yes?”

I heard the fan ask in a slightly bitter voice.

“That, y-your name…!”

Seon Ahyeon asked once again, but his voice, which had become a little smaller, was rather muffled. I started to get a little annoyed by the other person’s tone.

“I can’t hear you very well…”

“I-I-I am sorry.”

“No.”

“…”

I didn’t feel good.

After that, Seon Ahyeon’s words were gone.

I glanced at him, but he was still signing the autograph.

“Hello!”

“Hello.”

Perhaps Keun Sejin’s words were over, another fan finally came to me. As I waited for the fan who was still waving with Keun Sejin to hold out her album, I heard voices from next to me again.

“T-This i-is…”

“Ah.”

It seemed Seon Ahyeon was giving the gift he had prepared.

Then, a slightly offended voice refused.

“Oh, that’s all right. It’s fine.”

“…!”

The fan sitting in front of Seon Ahyeon left her seat.

In fact, cases like this could happen.

There was no job where you only met kind people. That you didn’t get cursed at to your face was good enough, you probably would just feel offended and let it be.

The problem was this damn sickening feeling.

‘Stuttering, unfamiliar peers, rejection.’

These keywords were a triple crown.

It was at the level of someone tap dancing on Seon Ahyeon’s trauma switch.

“…”

Looking sideways, Seon Ahyeon was breaking out in a cold sweat.

*‘F*ck… ’*

If I was just a little bit late, it would be found out.

I snatched the pen from Seon Ahyeon’s hand. And immediately tore open the packaging.

“…!”

“This is a gift prepared by Ahyeon. May I sign it for you?”

“Wow! I love it!”

I immediately started signing an autograph, drawing Seon Ahyeon into the conversation.

“And Ahyeon said he’ll give noona what I’m using right now and another wrapped one.”

“Heol…? Really?”

“Of course. Isn’t that right?”

“…Y-Yes!”

Perhaps coming back to his sense, Seon Ahyeon began to answer.

‘His stiffness has disappeared.’

“Ooh, I love it. Why do I get two?”

“It’s a reward to thank you for accepting Keun Sejin’s long talk. Our member talks quite a lot.”

“Hey, you’re so mean!”

“Uahahaha.”

Listening in, Keun Sejin faded away after chiming once.

At this point, perhaps thinking it was all a joke, the fan laughed excitedly and took the pen.

“Thank you so much~ But how did you know I was older?”

“Keun Sejin from next to me had mentioned it about 10 times?”

“Hahaha…!”

Fortunately, the fan who smiled looking embarrassed spoke sincerely to Seon Ahyeon, the next in line, and exchanged conversations.

And Seon Ahyeon regained his composure before the next person came.

‘I’ve passed it for now.’

Fortunately, there was no other unexpected event until the end of the fan signing event that day.

* * *

“Are you okay?”

“…I-I am alright.”

In the car returning to the dorm, Seon Ahyeon's condition was definitely better than before.

But his complexion was still pale.

And he murmured an apology again and again.

"I-I'm sorry… I-I almost c-caused trouble…"

"It's not like that."

It could create a troublesome scandal, but it wouldn't hurt the group.

However, the problem was, if it went on like this, his mental state would be destroyed first.

'If we get another fan signing event, I'll keep worrying that the same situation will happen again.'

And then on the day when the 'Grit' trait was deactivated… It could really hurt the group. There would be a hole in the dance line.

"Do you have any plans to seek counseling?"

"…T-T-There's no time…"

"If you tell your agency, I think they'll cut it a bit. These days, there are many people who take a break from their activities because of this problem."

It had been 4 weeks since the start of the activity, so if Seon Ahyeon said he couldn't do it, they would accommodate him to some extent.

However, Seon Ahyeon hurriedly shook his head.

"W-We are going to get a vacation soon, s-so… I'll do it then."

"…"

It was for the media play, it seemed he was going to show it off for about three days.

I was just going to say, wouldn't it be better to get it now, but Seon Ahyeon opened his mouth first.

"N-Now… I don't want to. W-We're still in the middle of activity and I-I don't want to miss out on the schedule."

He was so firm.

Since he said so, I decided to move on for now. Because it was the first time it happened.

"Hmm… Okay. I understand."

"Hn…"

'If Seon Ahyeon's mood becomes weird, I can just contact his parents.'

This conversation didn't leak out because we had a quiet conversation in the car with music playing. I decided to use earplugs to run away from Cha Eugene's voice singing along to a pop song.

"…"

And when we arrived at the dorm.

The living room was filled with balloons.

"…?!"

- 1. hotteok = Korean sweet pancake
- 2. Bongi Kim Seondal is a great swindler from a Korean's old story

Chapter 87

“What is this…”

Ryu Chungwoo muttered while checking the living room that looked like it had been hit by a balloon bomb, then stopped himself. Maybe because he could see the rotating lens between the balloons.

The familiar reality show camera was back.

‘The reshoot starts today.’

We hadn’t had much time sticking around the dorm lately, so the reality show camera used to be short and thick only when selecting content and then it was gone.

‘I was already too worried about activities and daily content, so I couldn’t make full use of it anymore.’

However, since it was the first time it showed up on full-scale, the members hesitated to enter the living room.

And I found a large note amidst the swaying balloons. The note was so big that it occupied a quarter of the wall in the living room.

[Special! Testar’s 1st Place Celebration Trip]

“Huh?”

“…A trip?”

“A trip!”

Cha Eugene immediately approached the wall, kicking the balloons. The colorful balloons, apparently derived from the three pantone numbers which were chosen as official colors, floated in the air.

“It’s going to tear apart! What’s inside!”

“Eugene, be careful!”

“Oh.”

Cha Eugene quietly put down the note with a slightly downcast face, probably remembering the scolding he had gotten last time.

“That’s right, let’s check together.”

“Yes…”

I didn’t know if it was necessary to do this, but we all tore off the note together for the broadcast pictures.

“One, two, three!”

Then, a huge roulette wheel appeared.

‘…Roulette.’

Just by hearing the word, it felt like flashbacks were going to burst out.

But the members were excited at the smell of full-fledged travel content.

“Wow! What’s this?”

“Gamble?”

“It says here travel gamble!”

Like Kim Raebin said, <Travel Gamble> was written in large text at the top. And the explanation continued in proper handwriting below.

“Hm~ ‘You spin this roulette together to decide the concept of this trip… Testar’s friendship trip for 2 days and 1 night’! Wow, it’s real?”

“I love it!”

“S-Should we quickly spin it…!?”

Even Seon Ahyeon who had been a little listless stuck to the roulette in excitement. The roulette had a total of 7 slots, each with a different theme written on it.

[Healing, Mukbang, Adventure, Extreme, Theme Park, History.]

“Oh~”

The keywords were quite distinctive.

‘Healing would be the best.’

Looking at it, it was a schedule to go to the mountains and live in the countryside. It seemed the most easygoing and didn’t use up any energy other than for housework.

“I want to do Adventure.”

“Healing is nice.”

“It seems they put in mukbang for Moondae’s sake?”

Those who had been expressing their tastes for a while, probably thinking of their portions, soon couldn’t resist and excitedly stuck to the roulette.

“Let’s hold it together and spin it at the same time!”

“Let’s do that. Moondae, hurry up and come here too!”

“…Yes.”

Thanks to this, the camera caught a strange scene of the six of us spinning the roulette together.

'Please let it be something heartwarming.'

I mumbled my wish and touched the roulette at the same time as the members.

"Oooh~"

"It's working!"

'Of course, it is, then did you think it wouldn't?'

Perhaps we had spun it with too much power, the roulette wheel spun for quite a long time before finally stopping.

"Theme Park…!"

Despite Kim Raebin's desperate words, the disc went beyond the theme park's purple slot… and went all the way to the red.

"Oooh!"

And in the red column, the subject was written in a futuristic font.

[Extreme Travel]

"…Extreme?"

"Ah, Extreme!"

Cha Eugene finally realized the meaning of the pronunciation and raised both of his hands with a smile.

'Cha Eugene, you like it?'

It was so ominous.

And after a while, Ryu Chungwoo's smartphone received a text message from the production team.

[The concept of Testar's trip this time is extreme~]

[We'll serve with you an exciting concept where you can enjoy extreme fun! ^^]

[※No takeback!]

"N-No takeback…?"

"Huh… Uh…"

The members' complexion began to change as if the instincts trained in survival were triggered

"…"

I approached the roulette.

"Moondae?"

And I spun the roulette again.

Round and round, the spinning roulette…

It stopped on the extreme travel again.

I spun it again.

Round and round… Thud.

…Extreme travel.

And the members realized the situation.

"…!!"

"…It's a scam!"

…By the way, the production team we met the next day laughed, saying that they had to make a schedule first, so of course, they couldn't let us take all seven of them.

'You bastards… '

I felt their determination to somehow pull out the viewers' ratings from the travel content.

…Really, I had a bad feeling.

* * *

[I checked late because of my schedule. Congratulations on winning first place on Music Core.]

[Thank you, sunbae-nim.]

It was getting ridiculous to reply to a text message as soon as I woke up in the morning.

The status message said he checked it late, but it kept coming.

For your information, the opponent was VTIC's Cheongryeo.

'This bastard is really exhausting.'

How could he have checked it late when he was also a candidate for first place?

Of course, any members could have told him on the same day. The triple crown had been stopped on public TV for three weeks in a row, there was no way they couldn't have talked about it.

'I think you're contacting me on purpose to give in.'

Sure enough, a reply soon came.

[I hope to win first place sooner next time.]

It meant if we avoided and didn't bother each other, each of us taking first place would be fine.

[Thank you. I hope you have a great day, sunbae-nim.]

*'I can't ignore this f*ker.'*

For now, I turned off the notification. I felt like sh*t every time I met the director, but these bastards were annoying too.

"Travel! Ready!"

"M-Moondae, you… g-get everything?"

"Yeah, wait a minute."

As soon as I turned off my smartphone, a thumping noise began to ring out.

'It's the shooting for the leaving preparation… '

It was the beginning of the reality travel content.

"That's it?"

"Yeah."

"Will you be okay?"

"Of course."

When I brought my backpack, people intervened, commenting that my luggage seemed too small.

'Well, it's two days and one night.'

It was a package tour to wherever the production team wanted us to go anyway. Clothes and toothbrushing tools would be enough, right?

“What about snacks?”

“What?”

“What about snacks?”

“…Snacks.”

“Yes!”

“Let’s go buy it.”

“Yes…”

It seemed I had become a snack supply in Cha Eugene’s eyes.

‘I feel like I’ve become a bread shuttle.’

I couldn’t wrap my head around the cool title that I’d never worn in high school.

“Well then… We are finally going on our first trip~”

“Wow!”

“I hope we can make a lot of good memories!”

Anyway, the opening was good in front of the production team’s camera. Even though they had been tricked, everyone said it was a trip, so the atmosphere of excitement was evident.

‘It had been a tight schedule.’

Since the preparation for the debut album, we had been working without a break for about two months.

However, I should have already guessed what was going to happen from the moment the production team smiled at the members.

After about three hours.

We arrived at a rural village under a mountain at the end of Gyeonggi-do.

“Congratulations to Testar who have arrived at today’s first destination!”

“Wow!”

“The view is really nice!”

It was a bit hot, but the weather was definitely nice. The PD shouted through a loudspeaker to the members who were in a bright mood as it had been a while since our last outdoor activity.

“Your first extreme activity is… Skydiving!”

“…!?”

The atmosphere froze.

“You see that light airplane up there?”

Whir…

A black flying object flitted across the blue sky.

“You’re going to get in there and jump off.”

“…!!”

And it became a mess.

“Aaaaah!”

“This is completely safe… I’m safe…”

“Hahahahahaha!”

“…Is it impossible to give up halfway?”

“Ei, Getting on the airplane costs a lot~ They already paid for this.”

“…”

Lee Sejin’s face turned pale at the instructor’s casual reply.

‘What a mess.’

Still, the production team dropped the last bombshell.

– If you can’t do it, you can just come down. Instead, the next course doubles!

‘I think the fans will get mad at them for this.’

If someone really cried that they couldn’t do it, the curses would come out saying, ‘Why do you make the idol reality show unnecessarily sadistic?’, and they had to announce an apology.

However, that seemed unlikely.

“Then, let’s jump one by one!”

“Uaaaah!”

This was because these guys were surprisingly tenacious.

Maybe it was only natural since they were the ones who had endured far worse in Idol Inc.

Anyway, from Kim Raebin, who muttered to himself in the corner, to Cha Eugene, who stamped his feet with excitement, everyone jumped off safely

Having an instructor in the back must have played a part in them gaining some courage.

“Then, let’s go!”

“Y-Yes…!!”

Seon Ahyeon also jumped down without any problems.

‘It’s my turn next.’

My turn came out last again. I recalled Idol Inc’s surprise VCR.

‘It’s not scary at all.’

It’s not like I’m going to die or get hurt, so what can I say? I just didn’t understand why we should be spending money on this.

“Then~ Let’s run together. Take a deep breath.”

“Yes.”

“Oh, this fellow has the strongest heart~ Let’s go!”

Whiff.

The wind pierced my face.

“…Ha!”

“It’s nice, right~?”

It was great.

…I didn’t even think about it.

The blue sky was everywhere.

Mountains and fields spread endlessly over the blue horizon.

The sun stung my eyes, but it wasn't hot. The wind swirled.

"Then, the parachute~"

Thud, with a feeling of pressure, the body stopped slowly in the air and began to move with the wind.

I felt a great sense of freedom.

"Great ride! Grab this and… Let's push like this!"

"…"

If I had lived as Ryu Gunwoo, would I have thought of doing this?

'Never.'

I would have asked why I had to spend money to jump from the sky.

But I was doing it now.

And there were so many things like that.

Accomplishments, performances, fans, cheers… The feeling of living my life.

'…It's strange.'

Status abnormality or whatever, it was good.

Strangely, I liked that I was Park Moondae.

"Now, let's land!"

The moment I landed on the ground, those who went down first laughed and waved.

“Moondae has arrived~”

…Well this extreme travel didn’t sound so bad. I stepped on the ground laughing.

* * *

Did I say it didn’t sound so bad?

“Then, today’s second extreme experience! It is~ ‘Invitation to the Haunted House’!”

“Aaah!”

I took it back. The production team suck.

“Do you see that building in front of you?”

“Yes…!”

“I can see it, but…!”

The members who were certified as scaredy-cats were already crying.

The PD excitedly talked through the loudspeaker.

“This time, it’s a horror experience set and operated by a professional team that makes a visit to Korea!”

“Uaaah…”

“They only open it this summer, so we can only do it now!”

This detailed explanation… It meant this was a PPL.

Lee Sejin muttered beside me with a gloomy face.

“I just have to endure it this summer…”

“…”

I know, right.

“Then, everyone, please divide into groups to join the ‘Invitation to the Haunted House’!”

“We…! We have bad memories of making groups…!”

“We will enter together!”

…But of course, it didn’t work, and Testar began to be divided into groups.

Chapter 88

…Unexpected extreme horror experience… The number of people was divided using common sense.

“We can divide it into two, two, and three.”

“Phew…”

The scaredy-cats’ complexions improved when they were told they weren’t going to enter alone. Especially, Kim Raebin.

“T-Then… how are we going to divide it?”

“I want to go with Chungwoo hyung!”

“Me, too!”

Ryu Chungwoo’s stock price suddenly started to rise.

‘…Certainly, he’s particularly reliable in this area.’

Ryu Chungwoo looked around and opened his mouth with a smile.

“Haha, then including me… Um, should I go together with Raebin and Moondae?”

“Thank you!”

“Ei~ Then it’s no fun! Chungwoo hyung-nim, it’s only fun when you make a two-people group!”

Keun Sejin started to sprinkle vinegar on the rice.

(TL notes: sprinkle vinegar on the rice = making things go wrong by interfering with things that are going well.)

'This bastard is really… '

I was afraid of horror movies so I supposed that concept was correct.

"Hmm, is that so?"

"Of course!"

…And because Ryu Chungwoo was persuaded by Keun Sejin, the groups were designated by the person who won the rock-paper-scissors until the end.

"Hey~ so that's what happened."

*'F*ck.'*

The most ridiculous thing about this was that Keun Sejin survived until the final.

'Isn't someone who says things like that usually get ruined in the end?'

Keun Sejin smiled and formed a group in an instant.

So I…

"Aaaaah!!"

"Get out! Get out!"

With the crazy combination of Keun Sejin and Cha Eugene, we explored the haunted house.

With this combination, I felt like my eardrums would burst out first before I could get out…

I managed to ask Cha Eugene.

"…You're not afraid of horror movies."

I thought he wasn't afraid of ghosts and was just weak against gross things. However, Cha Eugene jumped up at every step as if he had stepped on a frog alive.

"Just watching it is fine! I hate real ones! Only the fake ones are fine!"

"…"

'Isn't this completely fake in a sense… '

But this… It wasn't a matter of convincing him, so let's move on.

Instead, I asked Keun Sejin.

"Why did you choose me?"

"What can I say… It's my conscience calling? I want to join the three-person group, but my inner self cried that it wouldn't be fair if I brought someone brave."

"…"

"So, I decided to show the three scaredy-cats how to overcome it!"

What a load of crap.

…Hmm, let's not forget that we had cameras in our foreheads.

"…Let's move first."

"Okay, then~"

"Let's go quickly…"

…We had to consider the shortest distance.

“By the way, Moondae, where do you think the ‘suspicious sign’ is?”

“…”

It was also a problem.

In this ‘Invitation to the Haunted House’, each group had a mission to carry out, which was to find a ‘suspicious sign’ and took a picture. We had to get at least one!

“They said they’d give us a gift if we find a lot of them and take a lot of pictures! Let’s explore and challenge ourselves!”

“…Sounds great!”

Even Cha Eugene started acting recklessly, perhaps he was hooked on by keywords gift and explore.

There was no solution.

“…Then, let’s go through the hallway first and enter the smallest door.”

The staff had to be waiting in the largest and most prominent room…!

“You usually hide things in that kind of place. Let’s search through things that don’t stand out first.”

“Wow, that’s a great idea~ So, the person who provides the idea will take the lead, right?”

“…”

I really wanted to quit.

However, the front side was better than the back side, so I stood in front of them, feeling like choosing the lesser evil.

“Alright.”

“Wow~ That’s so cool! I’m scared, so I’ll go to the back~”

Still, he didn’t want to shake hands with Cha Eugene at the back, but Keun Sejin still went to the back on his own. He showed a firm determination to get a good amount of reaction.

“Okay then, let’s go!”

“Let’s go!”

“…”

I walked slowly down the hallway. Inside the dark wooden building, the musty smell of mold stung my nose.

“Moondae! Blood!”

“…!!”

I almost cursed. I just turned my head and gritted my teeth, and then answered.

“Stop shouting…!”

Keun Sejin put on an apologetic expression.

“Okay, I’m sorriiieh?!”

“Aaaaah!!”

“…?!”

…I turned my head forward.

A woman was there. She was wearing an employee’s outfit that could only be worn in a movie that was set 50 years ago.

But she didn’t have feet.

And she didn't have eyes.

There was only blood.

"Gyaaah!!!"

"Huaaaah!! Run!"

…As I ran into the next room with these screaming guys, I realized that this group was already doomed.

* * *

"…"

When I came out, the sun was setting.

It meant it had taken an hour to get out of that crazy haunted house.

'It's a 25-minute course.'

I had no idea how embarrassing it would look on the broadcast…

"…My throat hurts."

"You, too? Mine as well."

The two had screamed so hard and were drinking like crazy after receiving an ion drink from the production team.

Of course, Keun Sejin screamed for fun, so he inflicted it on himself as his karma.

Perhaps bothered by the group who spent twice as longer than the expected time, Seon Ahyeon asked.

By the way, the Seon Ahyeon and Lee Sejin duo took three pictures in 20 minutes and came out looking for an exit.

…It was a huge reality check.

“A-Are you okay?”

“…Well. So-so.”

This was really an experience that I couldn’t understand why anyone would be wasting their money on.

‘No, even if I get paid.’

I didn’t want to go in again if I got a minimum wage.

“Moondae, you’ve worked hard~ Hey, thank you.”

“Thank you!”

Because it was all caught on camera, it wouldn’t be ridiculous if I claimed that I had carried this group. I nodded slowly.

Still, since we came out after taking pictures, this situation was much better than running away.

“Huft…”

“I’m back.”

When the last team, Ryu Chungwoo and Kim Raebin, returned in 35 minutes, the PD began to speak again.

“Thank you for your hard work~ You have to get dinner now!”

“Don’t tell me… Is the dinner extreme, too?”

“Of course!”

“Huh…”

Without a camera, there would have been a riot, but with a camera here, they could only groan.

“Extreme~ grilled pork!”

“Ooooh!”

“Grilled meat!”

Fortunately, the production team seemed to know that it was the right time to release us.

Soon after, in the vacant lot next to the haunted house, a pork barbecue began to turn over in the fire.

‘It’s already grilled.’

Looking at the fire, it seemed the campfire was there to keep the meat warm.

Anyway, the members were happy with the incredible sight. Except for Raebin who still seemed to be out of it.

“Thank you for the food~”

“Thank you!”

The taste wasn’t as overwhelming as it looked, but the meat was delicious as always.

* * *

The gift I got from the photos taken at the haunted house… was an animal pajama.

‘I’ve gotten another pair like this.’

In total, I had gotten more than five sets of gifts.

Anyway, seeing that they gave us seven sets, they were practically asking the members to wear these to sleep during the reality trip.

'It's not difficult.'

So at 8 pm, all Testar members sitting in the living room of the pension were wearing animal pajamas.

"The three scaredy-cats did a good job, so we're wearing it together."

"I like it."

"I-It's cute and nice."

Seeing these guys talking enthusiastically in case it might be a PPL, I felt like they had already become broadcasters.

Anyway, it was free time from now on until the time to sleep.

But of course, it didn't mean I was free to do whatever I wanted.

'It means we're picking out the contents ourselves.'

Well… It could be playing karaoke, playing board games, or writing a heartfelt letter to each other. It meant we should do something we seemed comfortable with.

"Huft~ Since we're bored, shall we play truth or dare?"

Like that.

"T-Truth or dare?"

"Hn. I saw a lie detector earlier."

"Is that so? That's fine."

But over there, Kim Raebin, who was pondering on something, intervened.

“Hmm, since we’ve spent the day playing, I’d like to do something a little more productive in the evening.”

The members quickly came to their senses at the ominous keyword.

“Productive…”

“Raebin, don’t tell me what we’re going to do… Is it that?”

“Yes!”

“…”

There was a brief silence for a moment.

However, Lee Sejin unexpectedly stepped in.

“…What do you want to do?”

“Ah, it’s making a new song.”

“-!? What?

“N-New song?”

“Yes. Actually, there’s a song I was working on a while ago! I also brought portable recording equipment just in case.”

Kim Raebin excitedly brought out his bag.

In an instant, everyone tried to intervene.

“Raebin! If we do this wrong, it will be a spoiler~”

“That’s right. And I think it’s better to start after finishing this activity first.”

"…? Is that so?"

Kim Raebin lowered his smartphone with a perplexed face. He looked like he didn't expect this reaction at all.

'…He's not sociable, but he's not a fool.'

Let's piece it all together.

"A new song isn't the goal for the title track of the next album."

"Ah, yes!"

Only then Kim Raebin looked like he had caught on.

"The one I made is a fan song!"

"…Ah!"

An unstoppable attack had appeared.

If a reaction like 'That's too much' came out here, we could be subjected to clever editing, making us look like we didn't want to make a song for our fans.

Of course, it would no longer be the production team's editing anymore. I was talking about the aggro's.

[The dialogue scene from Testar's reality show today]

[It's fine VS It sucks, Testar's remark]

…It was already obvious that we would occupy the popular posts in the community in this way.

Fortunately, Keun Sejin immediately opened his mouth.

"Fan song sounds good? I really want to make it!"

Let's fire support.

"It's going to be fun. The timing is perfect."

"…It will be fine."

"I-It sounds good."

Kim Raebin just looked proud at the sudden change of attitude.

"Thank you…!"

It wasn't his intention, but it was the only time I'd ever seen Kim Raebin win through politics.

* * *

On a leisurely weekday afternoon, Testar's fans were having a good time reviewing the contents poured out during their activities.

– Among the music video interpretations on WeTube, I think this one is the best (link)

– Classical musicians' Magical Boy reaction video is up!

– Can anyone tell me when the High Five that they did in the red jumper was aired?ㅠㅠ

□Last week's Music Night!

□Thank youㅠㅠ

After beating VTIC and winning first place in Music Song, the aggro tried to make them fight with VTIC fans somehow, but it didn't turn into a big problem.

It was after VTIC finished their domestic activities anyway, so it was a factor that could be put aside in their fandom.

Thanks to this, Testar's fans had a relatively peaceful time when they received an SNS notification.

It was from Testar's account.

'Who is it?'

Because the members dropped by quite often, the fans just happily clicked on the notification without much tension.

[Please accept my heart (WeTube link)]

'Accept heart?'

'…??'

'Dating… It's not about dating, right?'

Fans clicked on the link half worried and half confused.

And on the thumbnail, they saw seven people wearing animal pajamas.

'…!!'

Chapter 89

The title of Testar's video that suddenly popped up was as followed.

[Testar(TeSTAR) – The Magic Is You]

It was a title that didn't sound very official and had no special description attached.

And most of all, seeing Testar wearing animal pajamas, it somehow looked like the content of a behind-the-scene cam.

'Nice~'

Fans happily clicked play.

Then an unfamiliar accompaniment began to flow. It was a refreshingly smooth medium tempo of an electric piano.

In addition, Testar, which was spread out in the indoor space, got up and made a formation.

'…??'

New song? Cover?

In front of fans who were taken aback, their vocals rang out.

– I'm feeling good today,

I think something good will happen

– If it's you, everything's gonna be fine

It's strange, but somehow it'll be great

A good melody that didn't feel excessive.

And Testar in animal pajamas jumped into the air once and started dancing.

The cloth in the shape of animal ears fluttered over their heads.

"…!"

Fans' shouts began to fill SNS in real time.

– I thought it was the reality show's behind-the-scenes, but it's a new song. Click on it right away

– Hurry up and watch the video on the kids' account, it's crazy

-ㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠCute

The dance was pretty basic with extra cuteness added.

However, thanks to the animal pajamas and the free gestures and movements on the camera, it didn't look silly.

– The reality shines like a dream

In my dreams, I dream of a wonderful tomorrow

When I meet you tomorrow,

I'll only tell you the sparkling dreams

Cha Eugene in a snow leopard pajama came out waving his tail with one hand and hummed the verse.

And he sprinkled pollen to match the lyrics.

Seon Ahyeon, dressed in deer pajamas, appeared between the pollen.

– My dreams that won't be locked

It makes reality run fast

Reality is breathing~ Yeh

YES breathing (breathing!)

Hoo-ha! Hoo-ha!

Perhaps it was because of embarrassment due to the reaction of the people around him or maybe it was because of the sudden hip-hop arrangement, Seon Ahyeon made a dance-like movement that was uncharacteristic of him.

And at this point, the fans realized.

'It's the lyrics of Magical Boy!'

The words derived from the lyrics of 'Magical Boy' were cheerfully reassembled to form the feeling of a strenuous day.

And they all thought at the same time.

'It's Kim Raebin.'

'This is Kim Raebin.'

It was the impact of the Moon Rabbit contest.

Meanwhile, the song entered the pre-chorus.

– I'll run breathlessly (Umm~)

Will you smile when you see me?

Park Moondae in a white puppy pajama came out to the center and suddenly knelt down.

'…??'

And he started to imitate Keun Sejin, the center of the Magical Boy's ending choreography.

Of course, it was a gag, but he worked hard.

The fans laughed out loud.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Random Moondae comes out once again

– He's about to faint behind Keun Sejinㅋㅋㅋ

– Someone, please make a quick meme from Moondae's part, I'll have to watch it regularly

The part ended with the members picking Park Moondae back up to quell the riot.

Meanwhile, the lyrics were sweet.

– Even if there's nothing that doesn't change

(Even so)

The magic of this moment

– Maybe it's YOU~

After singing the last pre-chorus, Testar began to perform the choreography beautifully in the chorus.

Keun Sejin, wearing a black baby bear mask, was the center.

– I'm feeling good today,

I think something good will happen

(Ooh- yeah!)

– If it's you, everything's gonna be fine

It's strange, but somehow it'll be great

Thanks to the pleasant lyrics and Keun Sejin's large movements, the chorus was stretched out like a great choreography video.

But then Kim Raebin came out next, wearing, a pink rabbit pajama.

It was the peak of the imbalance.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋRaebin's pink

– What's going on with the medieval rabbit

– But it's so cuteㅠㅠ Raebin, do whatever you wantㅜㅜ But let's get permission

Holding a carrot pen as if it was a microphone, Kim Raebin hummed the rap.

– LIFE is strange

Kick off lightly and climb up

Walking on top of the sky

Even if it rains, I don't know

My life

– bright, pouring light

All right, you're right

I'm shining today

The sight of Testar's animal ears flapping around as they banged their head as if it was some kind of rock festival was the best.

-ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– I'm glad you guys are happy

The video continued in this manner with a spoonful of humor.

But at the last bit, they ended it seriously with a slightly embarrassed smile.

– My meeting with you yesterday

Becomes today's shining dream

It becomes the magic of tomorrow

Right, the magic is you.

The video ended with Testar holding hands and bowing together.

– ㅠㅠㅠ

– Why are you suddenly uploading a video like this without notice? These good kids

– The quality of life suddenly rises sharply

– I don't know who made the animal pajamas, but please feed me Korean beef

Fans enjoyed the new song and video that was suddenly dropped so much that they were about to have indigestion. But at the same time, they had questions.

– Is this a new song?

– It seems to be a new song, but I searched and couldn't find it

– Heol, is it okay to release a new song like this?

– It didn't even come up on music sites ;;; It's not the agency's fault, is it?

Crazy

Fans who had experienced the failure of an agency that had done a poor job several times suddenly became anxious. No matter how they thought about this, it was strange.

Fortunately, less than half an hour later, a new post was uploaded to Testar's account.

[It's a small gift from Testar to Loviewer who gave us so many things from our debut to winning 1st place. I love you ♡

'The Magic is You'

Soundcloudy: (link)]

Fans lost their mind at the fan song that was released for free.

– It's a fan song?!

– No way, are you giving it for free because it is a gift?

– No, guys, I'm so thankful, but just release the song on the music sites… ㅠㅠㅠ Considering the results of the year-end awards, it's a waste to release it at this timingㅠㅠ

The song is good, so it feels even more wasteful

– When did you make this again? You guys don't look like you have time to sleep… But thank you. You guys are so cute

Fans were delighted with Testa's unexpected gift, but they were also distressed, saying, 'This song is easy to listen to' and 'If it had been released on the music site, it would have gone up all the way'.

Of course, most of them were touched.

-Testar is magic. This situation where the singer returns the meme in reverse… It's so nice?

– It's not going to just humanly end with this…? When we get a concert at the end of the year… We're going to add more choreography to the fan song and sing along…? Just imagining it makes me feel great

– How did you come up with the idea of making a fan song with the lyrics of the first-place song ㅠㅠ – I knew it, Kim Rabbit is a genius, as expected of the arranger of the first-place song

It probably wasn't Kim Raebin. All of Testar might take part in writing the lyrics

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋWho are you, what you're doing is obvious, so get out of my accountㅅㄱ

– If it comes out in the next album, I'll buy it… The fan favorite's version with the lyrics of the official album art

Anyway, most of the fans were happy, and Testar who was monitoring them was also happy.

* * *

"Working on it on this trip is worth it."

"I know, right. We filmed it in a hurry, but it came out well~"

"I like the pajamas."

Cha Eugene, still wearing his snow leopard pajamas, smiled.

The current time was 1:30 pm. It was time to pick up the last content for the extreme travel.

'…Honestly, I didn't expect that from the production team.'

In fact, from last evening to this morning, we spent all of our time recording the fan song and making the video.

It was because the production crew, who was hooked on fan song production content, gave us time.

'Thanks to that, we got the draft and managed to complete it.'

Still, the announcement was planned to come out later, but it seemed the production crew had persuaded the company to release it now.

It was supposed to be used for the reality show's promotion.

Perhaps on next week's notice, there would be a phrase like 'The production of the fan song'. And the actual production would come out the week after that… Well, the format was like that.

Anyway, everyone's faces were bright because the response was good.

"…Shall we go eat now?"

"Yes."

I skipped breakfast to practice the choreography. I was hungry.

Fortunately, the production team took us to a nearby restaurant out of their guilty conscience. It was a duck jumulleok[1]jumulleok = short steak marinated with sesame oil, salt, and pepper. Sumber: Wiki. restaurant, each person seemed to eat almost three servings.

"Thank you for the meal~"

"I-It was delicious."

“Moondae-ssi, do you have any detailed review?”

“The sweet and spicy taste is well-balanced and the meat quality is good. And I keep going in because the rice tastes good. Are you happy now?”

“Oh~”

And the next activity was… Valley rafting.

“You’re falling over there! Watch out!”

“Uaaah!”

Smack! The valley’s water splashed on my face like a water bomb. Meanwhile, I had to keep rowing.

“Come on, everyone! If one person makes a mistake, everyone falls into the water! Let’s take care of each other!”

“Ye… Yes!”

Exerting strength while being hit by water on a rocking boat… It was more like labor.

“Hurray!”

But some of the members looked quite excited. Especially Cha Eugene and Ryu Chungwoo.

I didn’t understand what kind of fun this was. But I knew one thing.

‘…Are you telling me to use as many calories as I ate?’

Somehow, it was a format that seemed to have been tipped off by the company.

I rowed silently, unable to shake off the thought that the duck jumulleok was the main culprit.

“Yeah~ that’s how you move your arms-“

It was an experience that reminded me of my part-time job at a factory.

* * *

“Thank you for your hard work~”

“It was fun!”

After rafting, the afternoon passed quickly after washing and changing clothes at a nearby facility. It was time to wrap up the shoot.

With the camera set up, we continued to settle in a nearby spot that had good scenery.

“Wow, really… I made good use of my time here.”

“It was really fun because it felt like we were on a trip together. Thank you for letting me have a good time.”

Half sincere and half for broadcast, the members laughed and exchanged ending remarks.

‘N-Next time… If there’s a chance, I-I’d like to go on a trip together.”

But this one seemed to be completely sincere.

“Okay, let’s go on another trip together.”

“Agree~”

“It would be nice to go abroad.”

…Wait, did the other guys actually mean it?

“Then, the fans will see us come back with great performances!”

“Until now~ this is Testar’s Living Together TEST!”

The members enthusiastically waved their hands after the set ending remarks. Of course, I did too.

“Thank you for watching.”

“See you again!”

That was how the filming ended.

“Cut! Thank you for your hard work~”

“Yes!”

“Thank you!”

First of all, thanks to the successful completion of another schedule, everyone’s faces were bright.

Perhaps it was true that this filming was quite fun.

“It’s nice and close to Seoul. I hope I can come with my family next time.”

“It was alright.”

Listening to Ryu Chungwoo and Lee Sejin talking, I returned the microphone installed on my body, and suddenly the manager come running from the side.

“…?”

“Raebin, wait…”

The manager took Kim Raebin to a nearby corner.

And he returned Kim Raebin’s smartphone, which he had left out while playing in the water, and whispered something.

Then, Kim Raebin's face turned pale.

"…!"

- 1. jumulleok = short steak marinated with sesame oil, salt, and pepper. Sumber: Wiki.

Chapter 90

I'd never seen Kim Raebin's complexion change that much.

The members who were scattered and doing their own business noticed right away.

"Raebin, what's wrong? Hyung, what's going on?"

When Ryu Chungwoo approached and asked quietly, the manager took Ryu Chungwoo with him and left somewhere.

"…"

If complicated personal circumstances occurred, there was a high probability that he would be reluctant if anyone interfered.

It was fine with Ryu Chungwoo because he had a strong sense of leadership, but I didn't know what Kim Raebin would think if other members interfered.

'First of all, let's look into the situation some more.'

Sure enough, after a while, the manager returned with Ryu Chungwoo.

Kim Raebin had already disappeared.

"…What about Raebin?"

"Wait. Let's talk after the filming is over."

The manager seemed to be concerned about the staff around us. Having grasped the situation, the members kept their mouths shut and continued what they were doing. Then, after a short farewell with the production team, we got into the car and heard the whole story.

“His grandmother collapsed?”

“Yes, so he went to the hospital right away.”

“…”

The members’ faces changed because they already knew that Kim Raebin lived with his grandparents.

I clicked my tongue… I didn’t feel good.

‘…Still, you let him go.’

It was the end of the activity, and it seemed he was contacted at the end of the day’s schedule, so they sent him off right away without complaints. I wouldn’t say anything unnecessary.

…Wait a minute.

The bad news was well-timed… Was it possible?

“Hyung, when did you get contacted?”

“W-What?”

“When did you get contacted when Kim Raebin’s grandmother collapsed?”

“…”

The manager had a slightly sad face.

“…I was contacted at the end of your valley rafting, but my phone was turned off and left behind… It was only when the shoot was over that I checked.”

"…!"

The atmosphere froze.

"Then… Even if Raebin already left."

"M-Maybe it's too late…"

"That won't happen! I've been getting in touch."

The manager hastily added an explanation.

"…Yes."

At least, the atmosphere in the car eased.

I observed the manager.

'Could it be that you'd checked beforehand and didn't tell him?'

It was possible.

'The shooting was going to be over, so in order to pick out the cut, you could pretend and send him off.'

Anyway, whether Kim Raebin left or not, if they rationalized that his grandmother wouldn't just suddenly get better…

No. It was too much. Whether it was the manager or the company, they weren't that unethical.

Besides, if it was really the case, he wouldn't have told us honestly like this.

I held back my sigh and leaned back.

"…Grandmother, what should I do?"

I heard a sniffle next to me.

Cha Eugene was crumpled in the corner with a gloomy face.

'You must have met her in person.'

Ryu Chungwoo struggled to open his mouth.

"It will be fine. Later… Let's call Raebin."

"Yes…"

The atmosphere in the car was gloomy. Even Keun Sejin shook his head when his eyes met mine as if he didn't know what to say.

"Hmm…"

Lee Sejin turned his head out the window as if suffocated by the atmosphere.

In such a gloomy atmosphere, the car ran and headed to the dorm.

The insanely lively schedule for the past two days and one night ended as if it was all a lie.

* * *

It was dawn past midnight when Kim Raebin returned to the dorm.

"…!"

"You're here."

Some of the members sitting in the living room were still up.

Seon Ahyeon and Lee Sejin, who had photo schedules tomorrow morning, went to sleep at the manager's insistence.

‘It was wise because we didn’t know when Kim Raebin would come in.’

And the judgment was correct. It was now half past three in the morning.

“Did you take a taxi?”

“…Yes.”

Kim Raebin’s face was swollen from crying, but he didn’t look particularly upset.

‘I guess it wasn’t a big deal.’

I opened my mouth.

“Is your grandmother okay?”

“Yes… She went to the hospital right away, and she’ll have almost no side effects.”

As it turned out, his grandmother had collapsed from a cerebral hemorrhage. Fortunately, Kim Raebin’s sister found her quickly and the treatment was over within the golden hour.

“Thank God…”

“Really, I am glad, Raebin.”

“You must have had a hard time. It was hard, right? Good work.”

“…Thank you.”

Perhaps he was crying again, Raebin came into the living room rubbing his eyes hard. The welcome and consolation continued.

“Did you have dinner?”

"…No."

"Ugh."

"You must have had a hard time, but it would be better to eat something and sleep."

It was true.

'…It can't be helped.'

I sighed and volunteered. With this lineup, I was the fastest among them.

"…Sit down. I'll warm up something."

"I-It's fine!"

"It's dawn. Lower your voice."

"Yes…"

After confirming that the situation was okay, the members got up with more relaxed faces and stretched out.

"Then Raebin, get some rest. Moondae, take care~"

"Yes…"

"Eat well and go to sleep."

"Great job."

Finally, Cha Eugene tapped Kim Raebin on the shoulder and entered his room.

There was another group schedule tomorrow afternoon.

Once we confirmed that it wasn't a big deal, it would be more burdensome to sit as a group in front of the kid and watch him eat.

'I should finish this quickly and go back.'

I heated up the instant rice and stew in moderation and served them. It was a wise decision to order another one for dinner just in case.

"Here."

"Thank you…"

After confirming that Kim Raebin was eating, I turned around to enter my room and realized.

'…Isn't it strange to eat alone at dawn in this situation?'

It was good to be sad. So one or two people staying would be right.

Besides, I was entrusted with this.

'…Still, this is right.'

I sat across from him.

Kim Raebin was eating quietly.

Then, he couldn't finish half of it and put down his spoon.

"…It doesn't taste good?"

"No…"

Kim Raebin lowered his head and murmured.

"Grandmother, I made sure she's okay… Still… I feel strange."

"…Why?"

“N-Next time, this situation happens again, and if I see her late again, and… Back then, it was really… If it was real.”

“…Um.”

“Even if I am not late, during the performance, during the filming… Is it right to stop and leave? But then… I feel like I lack professional skills.”

“…”

“Continuously… I can’t stop thinking about that.”

…It was a reasonable concern.

And it was also a concern that anyone who separated their jobs from their lives would have.

You were busy working, and then one day, something fatal happened… What would you do if you were doing something very important when you got the call?

The problem was that Kim Raebin wasn’t even an adult yet.

Was this the kind of work environment where it was normal to worry about that at the age where you couldn’t even drink legally… I didn’t know, honestly.

‘I have nothing to say if you ask whether we’re pro because we made money.’

That kind of call… Those who hadn’t experienced it didn’t understand.

“…”

This was difficult. I never thought I’d say this at dawn.

After thinking about it, I opened my mouth.

“When I got the call… I was at school.”

“…!”

“I was in class, so I put my phone on silent… I didn’t see it until quite a while later. The exam was just around the corner.”

“…”

There were 24 absences.

I still thought about it. What if I hadn’t gone to school…

I wonder what would have changed if I hadn’t gone to school and tagged along to that family event… It was a meaningless thought.

“At that time, I was so much less busy than you are, and I was just a student. So this… I think the problem of the timing is, in fact, a matter of luck.”

“…Ah.”

“Besides, you’re not going to live on a schedule like this for the rest of your life. If you have more experience, you can adjust the schedule as much as you want.”

I rubbed the back of my neck and continued

“But if you’re still worried, when your family contacts you, tell the manager to check it out. Besides, there’s no problem even if you leave in the middle of work.”

“…!”

“Everyone lives like that. If anyone curses at you, they’re a psychopath so just sue them.”

“…”

Kim Raebin, who hadn't answered for a long time, eventually nodded.

"…Yes."

"Are you feeling better?"

"…Yes!"

Kim Raebin replied slightly more forcefully. And he lifted the spoon again… It was a relief that he seemed to have gained some energy.

'Looking at the speed, I can go to my room in five minutes.'

I felt relieved and checked my watch… Um, it looked like the sun would rise when I went in.

'Day and night are switching once again… '

I heard my body's internal clock shattering. When I got a vacation, I had to set a pattern of going to bed at 9:00 pm and waking up at 9:00 the next day.

"Hyung."

"What is it?"

"Can I ask you something?"

"…You can."

Kim Raebin cleaned up the table after finishing his food and carefully opened his mouth.

"I think you said you have amnesia, but I am not sure how you can remember the incident from that time…"

"…I suddenly remembered in my sleep."

“Ah, I see.”

He was really a consistent guy.

* * *

Testar’s reality travel episode sparked cheers from fans as soon as the news article came out.

– Hurray! Travel!

– It was so much fun at the beginning of Testar’s reality show, but these days, it’s so boring that I only watched the clips. The production team finally come back to their senses

-There’s a talk about a sighting in a valley, it seems to be a healing content and playing together in the countryside ㅠㅠ I am looking forward to it

And when the trailer came out, the reaction doubled.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋCrazy extreme!

– Skydiving and playing in a haunted house? Wow, you really save up the most important things ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Moondae and a Haunted House? This is where the stocks all poured in!

– Heol… I think they made the fan song at this time too ㅠㅠ – Even though they only show one cut of the kids making it, it’s so cute

– As expected, Raebin was the one leading. The bastards who tried to beat down Raebin saying they all did it together, go die

– They seem to eat well, I am relieved

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋThis was completely my reaction ㅋㅋㅋ

– ㄹㅇI was worried that they weren't fed well, but a whole pig came outㅋㅋㅋ

Fans looked forward to the first episode of the reality trip which came out in a few days.

And at the same time, they scraped together the rumors and speculations with regret, wondering if there was any other entertainment content.

Then they saw an unverified anonymous post.

: <Let's Get Close First> This time, the guests are VT Chgry and Tst Pk Mdae. ㅊㄹ One was cast and personally nominated the other. Everyone is whispering that the ratings will be good.

It was saying that VTIC Cheongryeo was filming a variety show with Park Moondae.

Under this absurd claim, of course, there were mocking reactions.

– ? What kind of bullshit is this

– I saw a good delusion

– This bastard thought they were best friends after seeing Cheongryeo and Park Moondae greet each other

– Kya these days, the reaction to low-level aggro is different, the world is getting better

Of course, the fans didn't believe it either and skipped it over.

But a few days later.

An official article was published.

[<Let's Get Close First>, Next guest is VTIC and Testar? (Exclusive)]

: According to an MBS official on the 21st, <Let's Get Close First> recently announced that VTIC's Cheongryeo and Testar's Park Moondae are scheduled to be filmed as guests…

-???

– What's this

– For real?

It was real.

After a while, a preview video produced by <Let's Get Close First> appeared.

Chapter 91

＜Let's Get Close First＞'s preview video began by showing past guests.

After showing the appearances of huge celebrities, it showed the new guest at the climax.

[This guest is…]

[VTIC!]

Behind the caption, VTIC's numerous records and activities passed. And one of the members was zoomed in. It was a famous scene where they gave a greeting and received an award at an international award ceremony.

[VTIC's leader]

[Cheongryeo]

[Who does he want to be friends with?]

Soon after, a new screen appeared.

[One day in July 202X]

[Cheongryeo: Hello, I'm VTIC's Cheongryeo.]

It was a pre-meeting video featuring Cheongryeo in plain clothes.

[Q: What are the criteria for selecting the person you want to be friends with?]

[Cheongryeo: I guess… A fellow singer? (Laugh)]

[Cheongryeo: Actually, I've been focusing on my activities, so I've rarely met fellow singers.]

A small caption saying 'A Workaholic's Lamentation' appeared and disappeared.

[Q: If you can only ask for one person?]

[Cheongryeo: It's difficult. (Laugh)]

[Cheongryeo: Actually, there's someone I've been paying attention to lately.]

[Cheongryeo: I think he's kind of similar to me.]

Cheongryeo's voice that came out next was covered with a 'beep-' sound.

The shape of his mouth was also obscured, so no clues could be gathered from it.

But the next moment, almost everyone could guess who Cheongryeo was pointing at.

It was because only some part of <Idol Inc.>'s 'Just Me' performance was zoomed in and broadcasted in blurry quality.

It meant that since it all was leaked in the article anyway, they were openly giving a hint.

[Who is the 'similar fellow singer' pointed out by Cheongryeo?]

[It will be revealed next week in <Let's Get Close First>!]

And the comments were already occupied with spoilers.

– It's Park Moondae

– Anyone can see that it's Park Moondae ㅋㅋㅋ

– Wow, Cheongryeo-nim, you rarely show up on variety shows, but finally ㅠㅠ I'm looking forward to your chemistry with your hubae!

– Wow, it's going to be very fun

The best comments were basically like these.

It was another story if you arranged it by the latest order or went to SNS, but at any rate, the expectations of the general viewers were high.

It was rare for male idols to secure popularity, and among them, those two, who hadn't made solo appearances in entertainment shows, showed up in a public entertainment show.

And for one of the two, it was his first appearance in a public entertainment show, so the fans were completely excited.

– Gasp, Moon Puppy's solo entertainment ㅠㅠ

– This program is really fun and I'm looking forward to the type of program Moondae will do well

– Finally, my wish is fulfilled… Holding-out wins 1 score. I'm so touched.

– (This soul is already on the defense. Please pass by)

There were definitely lingering conflicts caused by VTIC's overlapping activities and dissatisfaction from Testar's individual fans.

But it didn't blow up. It was because Testar's individual fans would want anyone to break through the public entertainment programs.

It was the same with the individual anti-fans.

– He was picked out and not randomly put in by the agency, so I am not going to curse… In the first place, it's uncomfortable to see Gommeo winning first place by storytelling ㅎ

– Moondae, don't mess up. My baby has to come out

– I'm not interested in Gommeo's f*cking entertainment, so I'll mute it but they only have a group account, so I have to keep watching

– Huh? Only Park Moondae will appear on a public variety show? T-one guys, please set up more individual schedules for my kid too Negative public opinion subsided quietly after they only said this much under the surface.

– Ah~ I hope it's next Friday soon ㅠㅠ

Overall, this opinion was the general opinion of the entertainment community.

And now, the subject of this excitement was entering the filming set, filled with distrust.

* * *

'That bastard is suspicious.'

Suddenly, without discussing it beforehand, he pointed out Park Moondae as a guest on a variety show?

He was the one who blew it up, but in his messages, he didn't say a word about this variety show. It meant that he didn't intend to tell me personally in the first place.

'I think he's trying to screw me.'

However, there was no way the company would be okay with calling off casting on a public Friday night entertainment show that had good ratings.

Thanks to this, I was currently approaching the filming location after saying hello to the staff.

"…"

I saw a huge wooden building in front of me.

'It reminds me of bad memories.'

Out of all things, it had to be wood. I held back my sigh and knocked on the door.

"Is there anyone inside?"

Thump thump.

When I knocked hard on the door, the door opened slightly.

"It must be cold, come in quickly."

"…Thank you."

Because of this sh*t midwinter setting, I almost died from the heat trying to wear a padded jacket in the summer.

'Since it's the person inviting who decides on it, it must be this bastard who decided the setting.'

It didn't matter to him because he was indoors from the beginning.

I swallowed the curse that rose up to my throat and entered the building.

Inside… It was a typical mountain cabin. It wasn't like a pension, but it looked like a simple facility for hikers to stay for a while.

'…Is it the time to say the lines?'

I muttered, taking off my luggage and putting it in the corner.

"I was surprised by the sudden snowstorm, but it's fortunate that there is a mountain cabin.”

“I see. I also quickly came in after seeing the weather.”

Yes. Currently, the default setting was ‘a state on the verge of distress in a snowy mountain cabin’.

The reason for this absurd setting was obvious.

It was a feature of this program.

＜Let’s Get Close First＞ was a program that cast a celebrity and let them spend time with the celebrity they pointed out.

However, since healing content like this was common, they added fresh elements.

An extreme situation.

The setting where the two guests were isolated to take care of their body’s safety in some extreme situations was unconditionally the default.

Of course, it wasn’t real, it was just some kind of skit. To the point that it went back and forth between gag and immersion.

For reference, the situation with the apartment where the zombie apocalypse broke out was a big hit during the pilot.

Youngrin picked out an actor from MallangDalkom and the two of them appeared together; it was quite interesting when I looked at some clips.

‘The problem is that I’m on the show.’

With a 1.8 million copies idol who I couldn’t figure out.

‘Let’s not show weakness.’

The goal was to finish filming safely and leave, as if dealing with a bad-tempered senior.

“It’s rare to go hiking in this weather, so an encounter like this is amazing. Ah, would you like some coffee?”

Cheongryeo smiled and lifted a thermos bottle. His other hand was holding an old and tacky coffee cup, perhaps the setting was he found it in the cabin.

“Thank you.”

I accepted the coffee cup offered by Cheongryeo with both hands. Americano was boiling inside.

I was about to die from the heat but I had an Americano boiling hot in my arms…

“…”

I pretended to drink it and put it down.

Fortunately, the air conditioner was tight on the inside, so it was gradually bearable even with winter clothes.

‘It’s my turn to offer something.’

I opened my mouth.

“I’ve received the coffee, so if you don’t mind, can I treat you to dinner? I brought some canned food.”

“That’s great. Um… The snowstorm is still strong. It looks like we will have to wait a long time, so we should eat well.”

“Yes.”

I wondered what this was all about as he pretended to peek out at the window that was blocked by the green screen.

'…What's going on?'

I did this job for the money. Let's not think about useless things.

I approached the bag I had thrown in the corner and took out the canned food.

I didn't pack this up, it was prepared by the production team…

A trademark caught my eye.

[Convenient Boneless Chicken Feet Rice Bowl]

"…"

Let's pick another one. As for the chicken feet… This gag was overused.

"Thank you for the food."

"Don't mention it."

The meal time just passed by with a light skit about why I started hiking.

"I'll clean it up."

"…No! We have to do this together."

Are you making your hubae play in order to send someone away?

As I organized the remaining plastic and containers, I heard a loud noise from outside.

'Clangclangbang!!'

The sound was real. I was honestly surprised.

"…!!"

"Is it thunder?"

Cheongryeo frowned and went to the cabin door to open the door slightly.

But the door didn't open.

"…I guess that sound earlier was a landslide. It looks like it's snowing outside."

"I'll call the police for now."

I took out an old phone. And I pretended to be 'the person who called the police, but heard that they couldn't come today because the snow was too piled up'.

"It ends up like this. Then let's hold out in this cabin today for now."

"Yes, I look forward to your kind cooperation…"

"Likewise, I look forward to your kind cooperation as well."

With this, the notified default setting was over.

From now on, we could set up the situation freely with one or two character settings in mind… was the prior explanation of the production team.

So I did some gag pretending to find the stove and crack down on the windows and sat down in the living room again.

"The stove is not working well. I don't know what's going to happen, so I'm going to stay up all night today."

It was the production team's wish to have us say absurd lies all night for the broadcast image.

'…What should I do?'

Given the format of this program, I supposed it was time to have an honest chat 'with a stranger.'

'If it starts with a subordinate asking for advice, will it be suitable for the broadcast image?'

After pondering about it, I tried my luck.

"Come to think of it, how did you end up hiking today?"

"I wanted to organize my thoughts, but I only had the time today, so it ended up like this. Haha. Um, actually, I am a singer."

"Yes?"

As if embarrassed, Cheongryeo cleared his throat and continued.

"I am from an idol group called VTIC, I don't know if you've heard of it."

Look at this hideous setting.

I gave a reaction like, 'Of course, I've heard it, I'm a fan.' and told my story.

"Me too… I debuted recently."

"Really? You're my junior. What a coincidence."

"I think so too."

It was really a situation setting where the reality was as small as a hole made by a needle.

I was about to start a serious conversation, but Cheongryeo, who was rubbing his chin, suddenly said.

“Um… We happen to have the same job, and we’re not supposed to sleep… It reminds me of a story.”

“Yes?”

“Would you like to hear it?”

Is there anyone here who would say no?

“Yes, I will listen.”

“Haha, it’s not something to listen to… It’s just small talk.”

Cheongryeo lightly tapped the wooden floor.

“Do you know an idol ghost story? I heard of this recently.”

“…A ghost story? An Idol ghost story?”

“Yes.”

…I didn’t know what kind of skit he was going for, but let’s just accept it.

“What is it about?”

“Um, as for what it is about…”

Cheongryeo chuckled lightly.

“There was an idol, but one day when they opened their eyes, they went back to the past.”

“…”

“The idol was surprised, but this time they tried hard to become a successful idol without controversy… But, what’s this? They kept dying in accidents and going back to the past!”

“…”

“So, the idol who was trapped in the past had unknowingly become a ghost. They wandered around the recording studio, and when an idol who was likely to succeed was recording, they interrupted and recorded together. ‘I could have done this… ’ they said.”

Cheongryeo crossed his arms.

“What do you think?”

Chapter 92

"…"

I made eye contact with the opponent. And murmured in a small voice.

"…I think I'll remember this every time I record."

"Haha!"

Cheongryeo waved his hand.

"You don't have to worry. Actually, I just made it up. I modified the story of the ghost in the recording studio."

"…Um, I see."

"But you know that the story of the ghost in the recording studio is real, right?"

"…!"

Cheongryeo laughed a few times and started making up nonsense, then after saying that he would go wash up, he disappeared.

"…Sigh."

It was over.

I tried my best not to look overwhelmed.

'That guy definitely knows.'

A bastard who knew about this damn status window or regression had looked through me using the ghost story as a smoke screen.

'How do you know?'

I wasn't sure. It meant he didn't check my status directly… In that case, does it mean he deduced it based on the circumstances while knowing the background knowledge?

…No, this was also uncertain.

'There are too many uncertainties.'

Pretending to tidy up my hair, I wiped the cold sweat from my forehead. And decided on the next move.

Soon, Cheongryeo returned.

"I'm glad I brought a rechargeable electric kettle. Mix well with cold water."

"Ah, thank you very much."

I received the cylindrical device from Cheongryeo.

It was an electric kettle, not a thermos.

'No wonder the Americano was boiling.'

Admiring the production crew who made sure only cold water come out and took care of it down to unnecessary details, I quietly did my part

'Status window.'

First of all, I checked the status window.

Judging from the trend so far, there was usually a hint of the person's personality in their characteristics and status abnormalities.

‘There’s no harm in checking it.’

But the moment it popped up.

An unexpected hint appeared.

[Name: Cheongryeo (Shin Jaehyun)]

This person is currently unidentifiable.

※Required condition: Check the second ‘truth’

“…!”

I immediately my head turned to the bathroom.

It was to hide my agitation.

Then I slowly moved to the bathroom and closed the door.

“…”

There were no cameras in the bathroom.

“Sigh…”

But the microphone was still on. I checked the status window again, keeping my mouth shut to avoid talking nonsense.

[※Required condition: Check the second ‘truth’]

I didn’t read it wrong.

It meant I had to take the reward ‘truth’ that I had been putting on hold to be able to check Cheongryeo’s status window.

‘Are you rushing me?’

Or maybe it was required because Cheongryeo was really connected to this situation.

'It's like watching game content with level restrictions.'

Either way was plausible, so I couldn't be so sure.

'…Restart the status abnormality with this uncertain hint?'

It was crazy. So I felt even more uncomfortable.

'If it's for the purpose of rushing me, It can use more extreme measures.'

What if the status window is shaking a carrot because that guy really has a clue?

"…"

Let's decide.

'In any case, I can't continue living with the status abnormality.'

Strictly speaking, my speculation that status abnormality would disappear if I cleared it up like this was no different from a happy delusion.

Besides, no matter how much I delayed it, the time limit was 300 days. After that, I had to take the reward.

'I'd rather get what I can get now.'

If I let this timing pass by, I didn't know how Cheongryeo would turn up. I'd rather finish it when we were still investigating each other.

'…Pop-up.'

[Successfully won first place!]

You won first place on the music show <Popular Music>!

!Time limit: Fulfilled (great success)

!Status abnormality: 'Win first place or die' removed!

: Check the truth ☜ Click!

I slowly raised my hand and touched'Click!'.

And like last time, my vision went black.

* * *

On the rooftop of a building where the cold wind blew.

"…"

A man was smoking a cigarette. The smoke was blown away by the chilly winter wind.

He might cough in the cold air, but the man didn't blink an eye.

He just looked down with sharp eyes. A brilliant night view passed by. There was an on the billboard across the street.

It was a brand he once filmed for.

His group, to be exact.

'Where did it go wrong… '

The man looked at the colors of the flashy video and was suddenly lost in thought.

Going overseas at the wrong time? The concept that didn't fit the trend? Members who lost their original resolution? Investors in the agency who only added useless obstacles?

"…"

And he came to a conclusion.

'It was wrong from the beginning.'

In the first place, the composition of the members was wrong. There were too many useless members.

No, not useless, they were a hindrance.

'If it was me, I wouldn't have done it like that.'

He finally admitted. He'd lived a wrong life.

'Emotions, tears. I have sold everything,'

When people stand, they want to sit, and when they sit down, they want to lie down. Personal circumstances, inevitable stories… It was just an excuse to speak and sell it at a low price.

"…"

He felt relieved after admitting it. The man chuckled and tossed the remaining burnt cigarette into the sky.

And just like that, it fell down the railing.

Rattle.

With the sound of the cigarette hitting the railing, the man fell down from the tall building into the road.

But when the man came to his senses.

"…!!"

He woke up in a small room at home.

"…What."

The old cell phone screen he picked up reflected a boy's face.

…It was himself before he became Cheongryeo.

* * *

"Gasp!"

I took a breath and came to my senses.

And I turned on the water right away.

Splash.

Cold water poured with a creaking sound. I immediately splashed my face with water.

"…"

It was the same as 'Park Moondae'. This format that looked into a person's past situation from a third-person point of view.

And… That guy was definitely Cheongryeo.

*'F*ck.'*

This bastard also returned to the past.

If I were to roughly guess, it seemed he'd messed up his career but he came back and succeeded.

I laughed at the thought that it fit the plot of the web novel, but before that, I was angry.

'That's why I was blocked from checking his status window…!'

If I could check his status window, the ‘truth’ reward would have no meaning.

No, more importantly, why the hell is this a reward?

Park Moondae’s past was directly related to my situation, so it was understandable.

However, no matter what Cheongryeo did, what does it have to do with me that I have to get this ‘reward’?

‘Give me a hint about the status abnormality…!’

The rising anger only subsided after I soaked my head in cold water for quite some time. And I managed to draw a reasonable conclusion.

‘…It means I can get some hints.’

If I could get information from the person who had experienced this strange supernatural phenomenon, I would certainly understand how things worked.

In that sense, it seemed the status window gave me hints step by step as if I was playing a game.

Ring.

[‘Win an award or die’]

: If you don’t receive the Rookie of the Year award at the most prestigious domestic awards ceremony within the time limit, you will die

Remaining period: D-365

…When I saw it pulled this bullshit again, I felt like it just wanted me to suffer.

‘But it’s a little better this time.’

Unless something unusual happened, I could take care of the Rookie of the Year award.

Although that vague ‘prestigious’ standard bothered me, the candidate… Hmm, there were three. In terms of objective performance, there was no way we would lose.

It was hard to get popular these days; no matter which rookie debuted in the second half of the year, it was impossible to surpass <Idol Inc.>’s Testar.

‘Winning first place on a music show is harder.’

I calmed down and wiped the water off my face.

Then, I walked out of the bathroom holding the kettle I had received from Cheongryeo.

“I’ve used it well. Thank you very much.”

“You’re welcome, I’m glad you’ve used it well.”

I returned the kettle and sat across from Cheongryeo.

Then I took out the snacks from my backpack and handed them over.

“We’re going to stay up all night, so if you don’t mind, why don’t you eat something sweet?”

“Ah, thank you.”

Cheongryeo accepted it right away, but he just pretended to open it and didn’t eat it.

‘I don’t know if he’s monitoring or being vigilant.’

I pretended to rummage through my backpack and checked Cheongryeo’s status window again.

This time, it showed up properly.

[Name: Cheongryeo (Shin Jaehyun)]

Vocal: B+ (B+)

Dance: S+ (S+)

Visual: A+ (S-)

Talent: A (A+)

Characteristics: Judgment (A)

!Status abnormality: Remediation (inactive)

'Are you crazy?'

What kind of high-level f*cking stat is this?

I was going to check his characteristics first, but my eyes naturally moved on their own. I almost bit my tongue.

'But his potential isn't infinite.'

My vague expectation that his stats would be limited to EX was wrong.

At any rate, I had to come back to my sense and see what I was originally going to check.

Let's start with the characteristics.

[Judgment (A)]

: Valuable things are rare, and trash is everywhere.

– Human resource judgment +150%

‘He has similar talents to a businessman.’

If the ‘truth’ recollection I saw earlier was true, it might be a talent gained by recalling his life before death.

The only thing that bothered me was that he only had one characteristic.

‘He doesn’t have drawing characteristics?’

The difference between us was quite clear.

Anyway, let’s move on.

This time, it was the status abnormality.

[Remediation (inactive)]

: Let’s try again

– If you fail, you go back to the beginning.

…I got goosebumps.

And I just remembered the conversation.

– This time they tried hard to become a successful idol without controversy… But, what’s this? They kept dying in accidents and going back to the past!

‘The idol ghost story he was talking about earlier… Was it about him?’

Could it be that if he failed to remove ‘~if you die’ type of status abnormalities, he would go back to the time when the status window first appeared?

It was an eerie deduction.

However, this status abnormality was ‘inactive’.

That alone was a great harvest. Because it meant there was a way to disable it.

‘For now, I have sorted it all out.’

A further investigation followed next.

I put down my luggage and stared at Cheongryeo again.

“Are you done checking the snacks?”

“Yes. It’s nothing much.”

“Haha.”

You’re still confused, aren’t you?

As expected, this bastard didn’t know much about me. He was just figuring me out.

It meant I had the upper hand in terms of information, so this time it was my turn to ask.

Catch him off guard.

“Um… Sunbae-nim, is it okay if I ask for advice?”

“Of course. I don’t know if I can give you any advice, but… Do you have any concerns?”

“Yes, actually… Sunbae-nim, how did you start with other sunbae-nims in your group?”

“…Um, How did I start?”

I brought out my cold coffee and took a slow sip on purpose. And I continued slowly.

“Since our team’s formation process was unique… I think we definitely have a lot in common, but I wonder what the other groups are like.”

“…Is that so?”

“Yes. How did the VTIC sunbae-nims debut together?”

“…”

In the ‘truth’ recollection, this guy definitely picked ‘members’ as the fundamental cause of VTIC’s failure.

‘This bastard definitely changed the members in the middle.’

I didn’t know how a trainee did it, but this guess was almost certain.

Currently, VTIC was strong and living well as a top tier without major controversy.

“Um, that’s an interesting question.”

Cheongryeo smiled and picked up the snack I gave him.

Chomp. With that sound, the nuts were chewed and disappeared. I waited silently for an answer with a serious face.

Come on, get agitated.

Chapter 93

Cheongnyeo started to blur his words from the beginning.

“Um, Where should I start…”

“I’ll listen.”

I knelt down on purpose. It was because I had to appear as a rookie idol seeking advice from the top senior on this broadcast.

Cheongryeo smiled soullessly and told me to sit comfortably a few times, and when he confirmed that the conversation wasn’t going as he wished, he began to answer.

“We met as a group at our agency, and we got close quickly because everyone had good personalities.”

The standard answer continued, saying that everyone worked hard even when they debuted.

It was obvious, but it was also a virtue that people expected from idols.

Well, I couldn’t let him get away with it like this.

“I’m very attached to Testar members right now, and Cheongryeo sunbae-nim also gets along well with the sunbae-nims on the same team from the beginning.”

I took a sip of the coffee I had left. I got to the part where the coffee had already sunk in, so the taste was so strong that it kept my mind awake.

“Strangers who don’t know anything about each other met as a team, and everyone got along well without fighting. It’s really amazing and wonderful.”

“…”

“I’m sure you are all good people, but Cheongryeo sunbae-nim must have played a big role as a leader. I really look up to you.”

A proper flattery befitting of a rookie.

I didn’t cross the line that would make me look like I was beating down other members.

But its meaning would have been roughly conveyed to Cheongryeo.

‘You did everything you could to select only the ones that fit your taste and formed a team with them. I know that.’

…Sure enough, Cheongryeo was staring this way.

“Is that so?”

“Yes.”

“I’m embarrassed. It wasn’t like that.”

“No, you’re amazing.”

“Okay, thank you.”

Then, you should have figured out the situation now.

“It’s my first time talking about it in a place like this, so I didn’t know how it was.”

“It was a great help. Thank you.”

“…You’re welcome.”

With this, he must have recognized which side was missing out. I ended the conversation at that point.

“Now then, shall we make ourselves comfortable?”

“Yes. Thank you.”

After that, the mountain cabin distress skit continued.

Continuous landslides and ruined back rooms.

And even the eerie news from the radio found in the warehouse.

Well, it seemed I took care of it well because I was immersed in it. I would have to watch it live later.

So without incident, the filming was finished the next morning.

* * *

As soon as the filming was over, it started to rain. It was the rainy season.

“Thank you for your hard work~”

I nodded and greeted the people around me, and at the recommendation of the production team, I took out my smartphone.

And I made a video call.

Tut-tut-tut- Click!

Before long, a familiar face appeared on the screen… It was Keun Sejin.

‘I called Ryu Chungwoo, but why are you coming out first?’

[Heol, Park Moondae.]

[Is it Moondae hyung calling?]

I heard a thud, and soon the screen was filled with Testar.

'It's worthwhile telling everyone to come out together if I call anyone.'

The production team had said beforehand that it would be nice if Testar would also come out as an outsider even if the story was over

Originally, I was going to put it in the main shoot, but it was impossible due to the timing, so I thought it would probably go into the ending as some kind of post-credit-scene.

[A-Are you done filming?]

"Yeah, I'm leaving now."

[Be careful on your way.]

[T-That's right. B-Be careful…]

[Buy some snacks on the way~]

"…"

It was raining, but I was listening to all kinds of heartfelt requests. I tried to ignore it, but I answered Keun Sejin as gently as possible, mindful of the camera.

"Buy it yourself. Go inside and have some."

[Oh~ Moondae is good at talking back? Alright!]

They were also conscious of the camera, so they laughed lightly and moved on. I had a few more trivial small talks and soon ended the video call.

I received a text message from the manager saying that his arrival was delayed a little due to the sudden heavy rain.

Oh, by the way, he was a new manager who finally came in a few days ago. He was younger than my original age.

“Moondae-ssi, aren’t you leaving?”

“Ah, sunbae-nim.”

I bowed my head to Cheongryeo, who was talking to me. I could feel a few staff looking at me sideways.

“I’m waiting because my manager said he will be late.”

“I guess it’s because it’s raining. Then you’ll be late for lunch, so why don’t we go inside and get a meal?

“That’s right, Moondae-ssi. Eat first before you go home. We’re supposed to have a company dinner, but we’re not done cleaning up because of the rain so we can’t.”

A writer passing by intervened to help.

He praised Park Moondae for his cuts, so it seemed Park Moondae had made a pretty good impression on him.

Thanks to that, he made things easier.

“Then I’ll be grateful.”

“Alright.”

Cheongryeo brought out his car, and I explained the situation to the manager and quickly got permission. There was no afternoon schedule anyway.

‘I’ll go home and sleep as soon as this is over.’

In the midst of the pleasant imagination, Cheongryeo drove the car back.

‘If you’re in your seventh year, you deserve to get your own car.’

“Get in.”

“Thank you.”

I got in the front seat right away. Thud, I closed the door and fastened my seat belt, and the car started right away.

Cheongryeo didn’t wait any longer.

“I don’t like wasting time. Shall we get straight to the point instead of uselessly sizing up each other?”

“…”

“What year are you from?”

“Sunbae-nim first.”

“Haha.”

Cheongryeo stopped laughing.

…He seemed a little psychotic?

‘He suddenly laughed and used informal speech?’

Just in case, I should keep checking to make sure he didn’t forget to keep his eyes forward. I started paying attention to both conversation and the view.

At any rate, this was no different from admitting with my own mouth.

“I’m already past that point. It’s not very useful. Um, I thought I’d want to hear a little bit about the future.”

“I don’t have much to say either.”

“What?”

“I was a civil exam student.”

“…”

Cheongryeo didn’t answer as if he was speechless and soon sighed as if drained by the wind.

Then, as if to lower the level of tension a little, he spoke in a slightly relaxed voice.

“It’s ridiculous. A civil exam student, what kind of idol is that…”

“If I don’t become an idol, I will die.”

“Oh, you’ve known that much already?”

‘…?’

I felt a slight sense of incongruity.

“When did you find out, sunbae-nim?”

“I tried to send someone away but I failed, so I died and went back.”

“…Where did you send him away?”

“To his own country. After all, he’s the kind of guy who’s going to set up a factory after doing it for three years.”

Cheongryeo smiled and lightly tapped the steering wheel.

‘I’d rather be the person driving.’

The problem was that Park Moondae didn’t have a license. There was no other situation where I could take a break.

…Anyway, I definitely felt it in the conversation just now.

‘He can’t see the status window.’

Seeing that he realized the ‘death status abnormality’ only after he died, this guy didn’t have the guide called a status window.

‘That’s why he couldn’t fill in the three characteristics.’

He literally started from scratch.

He had an advantage over me in that he was an idol from the beginning and went back to his own body.

‘At what time did he die? I think he would have died without making a debut at the audition.’

If I lied here for no reason, my words would start to get twisted. If this guy noticed and started mixing in lies, I would be in trouble too.

Let’s tell the truth.

“I haven’t died yet.”

“…Really? Then how did you know?”

“I just know. If I don’t make an achievement within the deadline, I will die.”

“…”

Cheongryeo looked ahead without saying a word and then murmured softly.

“I’m jealous.”

“…”

I only moved my eyes to glance at the rearview mirror but I could see Cheongryeo's eyes staring at me.

…Frankly, it was downright creepy.

"Now would be the perfect time. You must feel like you're the main character."

"…I might die every time the deadline returns."

"…Ah, right. There will be a difference in standpoint… Um."

Cheongryeo suddenly continued in a lighter tone.

"I think it's kind of a penalty."

"What?"

"If you fail to do something that you feel like you should do, you die. Isn't it bearable? Going back in time."

"…"

I didn't have the slightest idea.

Isn't this just crazy? I think he's gone crazy trying to rationalize the situation because of his defense mechanism.

However, Cheongryeo unexpectedly gave a reason that made sense. It was a very surprising reason.

"I made a calculation… It basically lasted for as much as the years you returned. So."

"…!"

It meant that there was an end to the status abnormality.

‘So, that’s why his status abnormality was inactivated.’

Let’s assume that this statement was correct. So I’d gone back three years…

‘Four. Two of them have already been completed.’

There was a glimmer of hope.

…Of course, how much I could trust this guy was another matter. But I was satisfied with having someone to dig out from, and next, let’s ask what had been bothering me.

“By the way, how did you know I had returned to the past?”

“…Ah, I just know?”

“…”

He was copying my words on purpose. It meant I should come clean first.

I clicked my tongue inwardly.

‘But I can’t talk about the status window right now.’

This guy was usually fine, but he seemed to lose his mind when it came to this supernatural situation.

No more provoking him today.

“At any rate, it was fun to meet hubae-nim in many respects. It was a useful experience.”

“Yes, sunbae-nim. Thank you.”

“If you have any questions, please contact me.”

“Thank you.”

After that, I ate quietly at a proper Korean restaurant and returned to the dorm.

‘…Finally.’

I stayed up all night fighting a battle of wits and I was terribly tired.

When I opened the front door and went in, people without afternoon schedules popped out and waved their hands.

“Moondae has arrived~”

“How was it, was the variety show alright?”

“Y-You’ve worked hard!”

“…Oh, it was fine, thank you.”

Wow, good to see you guys.

It was often said that you would get attached if you see their faces often, but it seemed I had gotten comfortable because we were together every day.

I grabbed Keun Sejin who was brushing his teeth and asked.

“Any snacks?”

“Oho, did you believe me, Moondae?”

Of course not.

But for some reason, I got into the mood and said it this once. Of course, the results were as expected.

But surprisingly, Keun Sejin pointed to the refrigerator.

“Check them and pick two things you want to eat. I bought them at a convenience store.”

“…”

My expectations… were off the mark.

I shrugged.

“Thanks.”

“Don’t mention it. It’s supposed to be three per person, but since you got a solo variety show, your snacks get deducted.”

“…”

“Hahaha! It’s a joke~ A joke! It’s supposed to be two per person.”

This guy was crossing the line these days.

At that moment, the smartphone rang.

Ring.

[VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim: Call me if you feel like dying ^^]

“…”

Suddenly, I didn’t mind Keun Sejin’s behavior.

‘First of all, he’s much better than this guy.’

[Yes, I understand. Thank you.]

After replying roughly, I washed up and left my snacks behind, and then immediately went straight to bed.

“You’re here.”

“Yes. Did anything happen?”

“No… You’re going to sleep?”

“Yes, I stayed up all night. Can I close the curtains?”

“Yes.”

After a brief conversation with Lee Sejin, I closed the blackout curtains with his permission and took a nap.

Because I had to do some monitoring in the evening.

[Testar’s Living Together TEST! Episode 6]

The reality travel episode came out today.

Chapter 94

“You’re awake?”

“Did you sleep well?”

“Yeah, it was refreshing.”

I rarely said it out loud. After a good nap and a bath, I really felt good.

“Now, everyone, look here and smile~”

Keun Sejin caught the guys sneakily gathering in the living room and took a picture.

“For upload?”

“Hn.”

I didn’t meddle because I thought I could revise it later. Instead, I took out my smartphone to monitor real-time responses.

‘…It’s slow.’

I picked up the lowest price among the low-end types and it was slowly getting worse, perhaps because the daily usage time was too long.

Well, I didn’t have money to change it now, so let’s not think about it anymore.

Anyway, the SNS timeline was crowded with people waiting for the main broadcast.

“Ah, it’s starting.”

“Cha Eugene! The reality show is here!”

“Yes!”

The broadcast started when Cha Eugene ran out of the kitchen with snacks.

The first thing that came out… It was the excited Testar preparing for departure.

[Ryu Chungwoo: Can I bring this much?]

[Cha Eugene: I like traveling~]

[Keun Sejin: We’ll finish the trip and return home safely!]

[A little later…]

Then a cut of a skydiving airplane leisurely flying appeared.

The camera slid down to reveal Testar, who was standing blankly in some countryside, carrying their luggage.

[PD Jung: You see that light airplane up there?]

[Testar:…?]

[PD Jung: You’re going to get in there and jump off.]

[Testar: (Shocked)]

A huge white caption floated above Testar who was bewildered.

[Why is this happening?]

Shortly after, the screen showed the dorm.

[Testar’s dorm a few days ago]

Above the living room floor with balloons, a huge note with the words ‘Special! Testar’s 1st Place Celebration Trip’ received a spotlight CG.

And a caption was added.

[※The cause of this situation (Spoiler)]

After that… What Testar went through came out without much editing.

[Cha Eugene: A trip!]

It meant that the figure of us getting excited about the trip, spinning the roulette, and being taken aback by the extreme travel came out humorously well-edited.

Of course, the finishing touch came from noticing the manipulation of the roulette wheel.

[Tada! (Again) Extreme travel]

[Tada! (Again) (Again) Extreme travel]

[Testar: ?!]

An interview was attached.

[Park Moondae (Genius puppy): When the roulette stopped, it bounced once. It looked unnatural.]

[Park Moondae (Cheated puppy): But my guess was really correct… (Speechless)]

[Lee Sejin (A in Idol Inc): Even Idol Inc never did such manipulation…!]

-ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Lee Sejin’s words are so funny. He said even Idol Inc never did such manipulation ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

I'm sure he's being serious ㅋㅋㅋ

– The only thing that's been heartwarming so far was the driving in the travel episode

– No, Moondae's ability is really extreme. He's really good at what he's good at and really bad at what he's bad at ㅋㅋㅋ

Examples of the things he's bad at: horror, drawing

Hey, we'll see one of that two today^^

I'm looking forward to the haunted house so much that I'm going crazy

"…"

Why… are you looking forward to something I am bad at?

Anyway, Testar on the screen received meticulous skydiving training and boarded the light airplane.

[Testar: (Focused)]

During this process, the attitude of the members drew quite a bit of attention.

– Raebin is chanting prayers ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

Kim Rabbit: This is… completely safe… I'm safe…

– Seon Ahyeon is surprisingly strong-willed, he doesn't even blink an eye ㅋㅋ I don't understand those who are scared, but I have to comfort them <- This point is really funny ㅋㅋㅋ

– Ha, but everyone is trying too hard for this… Guys, if you think it's hard, you can mess around, this isn't survival ㅠㅠ

Ah… My heart suddenly hurts…

– Ryu Chungwoo running is so cool, even the instructor is amazed

I just got on and ran, so there was nothing special about the portion of my preparation.

Just a caption and a format when landing… I got one.

[Puppy landing]

And jumping… A black Welsh corgi was inserted as a translucent CG.

“Hahahaha!!”

“Puppy! Puppy!”

“…Stop it.”

Stop hitting the sofa, too.

‘…The reality production guys, when there’s nothing to edit, they deal with it using puppies.’

Where the hell did you get that kind of video material from?

Anyway, fans laughed and enjoyed it. But given the occasional responses mentioning Tibetan foxes… Keun Sejin’s interview seemed to last for a long time.

[Keun Sejin: It feels like flying in the sky? Haha, it’s not an easy experience. I liked it.]

[Cha Eugene: I want to do it again!]

[Kim Raebin: When I jumped down, I felt a refreshing sense of freedom.]

On the screen, interviews with warm words were inserted to deal with the shock of ‘abrupt skydiving’.

And next…

[PD Jung: Everyone, please divide into groups to join the ‘Invitation to the Haunted House’!]

It was the extreme horror experience.

[Keun Sejin: We…! We have bad memories of making groups…!]

[Kim Raebin: We will enter together!]

Fans were both saddened and delighted by Testar’s words that weren’t going to work.

– Bad memories adlibㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Idol Inc PTSD here?ㅋㅋㅋ

– Is it that scaryㅋㅋ

– Ah, I’ve been waiting for this, guys, hurry up and go in (popcorn)

And as they wished… The figure of Testar exploring the haunted house was broadcasted.

But somehow… Our portion was the biggest.

‘…It must be because there are three of us.’

If I didn’t think like that, I wouldn’t be able to see it out of embarrassment.

[Keun Sejin: Aarrgh!]

[Cha Eugene: Uaaaa!]]

[Park Moondae: (Fainted)]

Fainted?

'I was moving just fine, why do you put captions like that?'

Looking at the screen, Keun Sejin and Cha Eugene clapped and laughed.

"Right! I thought you really fainted!"

"Your soul left your body!"

…Cha Eugene also knew advanced words like soul.

"…It wasn't like that."

"Oh, is that so?"

Keun Sejin grinned.

"Then tell me the one thing said when you were being chased."

"…"

Was there… something said?

"You don't remember, right? You don't know, right? It's because you fainted!"

Keun Sejin chuckled, saying that we should thank him for forming the group.

"Hey, look over there. It's coming out now!"

"…"

When I turned my head, I saw an employee running down the hallway on the screen.

…Sure enough, there was a sound of screaming.

[Bbbirrrrrrrddd…!]

“See?”

Keun Sejin asked triumphantly.

But right after that, Cha Eugene and Keun Sejin started screaming louder on both sides of the screen.

[Aaaaaaa!!]

[※The volume is adjusted.]

“…”

It was because of these guys.

In the meantime, the broadcasting team collected Keun Sejin’s quiet activities, edited them with emphasis, and broadcasted them.

[Doing everything while being scared]

[Oh? He found it?]

[Keunse who takes care of his team members]

[Found it alone]

– Hey, Keun Sejin is kind of cool?

– Did you see him change direction as soon as he found it?

– What’s this, he’s just enjoying the fear ㅋㅋㅋ He’s really good at exploring

– He is the competence itself

– Moondae is completely frozen, so cute ㅠㅠ

– Our puppy can't even bark, he's so gentle

"…"

When I turned my head, Keun Sejin was smiling broadly.

"Wow, Keun Sejin shortened the escape time? As expected, he was taking care of Moondae!"

It must be hard have been for him, but I wish I could hit that guy's mouth at least once.

* * *

'Invitation to the Haunted House' ended by telling a little bit of its backstory on the broadcast.

[The identity of the photos taken by Testar is…?]

The storyline, which combined human sacrifice with the 20th-century western classic haunted house, was quite creepy.

"Ah, that's why there was an altar there."

"…It's kind of sad."

"…"

People had different sensitivities, so let's move on.

Anyway, the first part of the trip ended with the scene of eating a whole grilled pig.

Taking care of the staff's share in this kind of cut was now almost a national rule, so the scene came out well.

– It's nice to see you guys eating well ㅠㅠ

– Wow, the pig disappeared in a snap ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Are they not managing themselves? They always eat meat

What are you talking about? All of Testar members are too thin

Manage your own body

– Please do a mukbang on the W app ㅠㅠ

Hmm, that last comment was worth considering.

'The reality show will end next week.'

Episode 7 was actually the end, and episode 8 seemed to be a special highlights compilation with captions like director's cuts.

In fact, considering that most idol reality shows were finished within 4 episodes, this was already lengthened to a mind-blowing level.

In addition to the momentum when <Idol Inc> had just finished its final episode, a huge drama was coming out on another cable at the same time slot so Tnet's scheduling was empty.

'It's almost longer than the activity period.'

The music show was also the last this week. The debut album activity could be seen as complete.

'Should I do a W live to commemorate the end of the activity?'

I went back to my bedroom and logged into Testar's account on the W app to check.

And I was a little surprised. The last live was just a few hours ago.

[Test]

But the length of the video was 1 minute and 2 seconds.

'…One minute?'

I didn't know what the hell happened.

Considering that I couldn't hear anything, it wasn't an accident, but I didn't know what was going on.

'Who is it?'

First of all, the most likely candidate was Keun Sejin. But there was no way that guy only did it for one minute.

I clicked on the black thumbnail.

With some white noise, a dark screen was printed out.

And after a while.

Suddenly, the screen was filled with forearms.

[Ah…, l-like this…]

[Huh?]

[…Ugh!]

It was the end of the video.

'It's Seon Ahyeon.'

It seemed he had touched something wrong and turned on the actual live while practicing.

Looking at the comments, everyone was crying because it was so cute. There were quite a few people who made happy guesses that he was rearranging and would play it at night.

It was just a little strange.

'Um, with his personality, I think he would have posted a long apology on SNS.'

When I accessed Testa's SNS account several times today, I didn't see any trace of it.

'I was going to do W live anyway, so I'll have to talk about it.'

It was also easier to proceed with one or three people together than do it alone.

I would be less burdened if a motivated guy joined.

I went to the next room and knocked on the door.

"Can I come in?"

"…Y-Yeah!"

The door opened immediately. Kim Raebin was still in the living room and Seon Ahyeon was alone in the room.

"W-What is it…?"

But why are you walking on eggshells?

I used to be like that too, but the time for this had already passed.

'Come to think of it, I don't think I've heard Seon Ahyeon saying something today.'

He'd become quite talkative lately.

Now, his attitude and tone had returned back to the beginning of <Idol Inc.>.

“What’s going on with you?”

“N-No.”

Seon Ahyeon stubbornly denied it. Huh.

“You’re breaking out in a cold sweat right now.”

“…!!”

“If you don’t want to tell me, tell Chungwoo hyung or the manager hyung.”

“W-Wait.”

Seon Ahyeon struggled to open his mouth, still breaking out in a cold sweat.

“I-I… m-made a mistake.”

“W live?”

“Y-You saw…”

“Yeah. You accidentally turned it on. But well… It’s not a problem.”

Everyone in the comments said that they enjoyed it, but Seon Ahyeon shook his head heavily.

“T-That… I-I turned it on, it wasn’t an accident.”

“…?”

Seon Ahyeon swallowed.

“I-I was going to turn it on, but then I turned it off.”

“…”

“I-I was too s-scared…”

Chapter 95

I summarized Seon Ahyeon's difficult explanation.

"So… You turned it on to say hello, but you suddenly got scared and turned it off."

"…Y-Yes."

"Um."

Seon Ahyeon lowered his head as if he had become a sinner. It was kind of funny that we sat on the floor in front of the door and did this.

"What were you scared of?"

"P-People… I-I don't think they would like it."

"They wouldn't watch it if they didn't like it."

"…T-They cursed."

"Hmm, did you read the real-time comments?"

Seon Ahyeon nodded vigorously.

'I guess another crazy bastard went in as soon as the notification came in and started talking bullshit.'

I didn't know why there were so many people who want to change others' lives by hurting them.

'It's frustrating.'

Anyway, Seon Ahyeon definitely had seen a ridiculous level of verbal abuse when he appeared in <Idol Inc.>

He had endured it well at that time, but what broke out this time was probably triggered by the fan signing event.

'It seems the comments coming up in real-time also had an impact.'

It sounded as though he'd heard it right in front of his face.

I said, rubbing my shoulders.

"Even if you don't have this job… You can't only meet people who like you. Someone will hate you. And there are also guys who just enjoy cursing at others."

"…"

"Of course, it's not right. It can be scary, but… If you're scared enough to quit, I think it's better to get some help."

"…!"

"Wouldn't it be better to get counseling now? We are now in the final stages of our activity."

"I-It's fine."

Why are you so stubborn?

I narrowed my eyes.

"I think you just don't want to get counseling."

"…I-It didn't work."

Seon Ahyeon closed his eyes tightly.

"I-In the past… This s-stuttering, I fixed it… I-It's like this again, so that's why."

"…"

"I-It's no use."

Seon Ahyeon lowered his head.

"I-I have to keep living like this…"

"…?"

What kind of extreme nonsense is this?

"That's just… Didn't you just meet a quack?"

"…! Q-Quack…"

"Besides I didn't mean that you have to fix the stuttering, I was saying it would be better if you worry less."

"…"

"If you don't believe me, let's call the other kids and vote."

"…?!"

Fortunately, there was no trauma related to this so the survey was conducted under Seon Ahyeon's dazed consent.

First, Ryu Chungwoo.

"I can't speak rashly, but… Whatever your job is, it's better to continue rehabilitation. Don't give up until you come to a conclusion. Think about it carefully"

"…Y-Yes."

Next up was Keun Sejin and Kim Raebin. They were reading the fan song's comments in the living room.

"Heol, you should definitely see another doctor. If you tell the company, they'll probably introduce you to a famous doctor. There are many people who have worked for other agencies."

"I don't think you can generalize from a single case you've experienced before. I think you need to compare and analyze at least five cases to get reliability."

"I-I-Is that so…"

Cha Eugene, who was in the kitchen, didn't understand the word quack. After explaining the meaning, I asked t again.

"Throw away the quack! Meet a new doctor!"

"…"

Somehow it was like the summary of a soap opera, but it was clear and concise.

Lastly… I asked Lee Sejin, who was lying in bed.

An unexpectedly serious answer came back.

"…Every doctor is different. There are people who want to talk and get paid… There are good people."

"Y-Yes."

"If they don't suit you, it's better to change them quickly… I haven't received one for a long time either."

And after hesitating, Lee Sejin added quietly.

"…Do your best."

“-!! Y-Yes!”

It was an unexpected fire support.

Now then, it was the end of the investigation. I crossed my arms and asked again.

“What do you think?”

Perhaps his heart was moved, Seon Ahyeon agonized over it.

And soon, he clenched his fists and said.

“…T-Then… W-When the activity is over, I’ll tell you right away.”

“You will? Alright.”

“…Y-Yes!”

“Tell your parents.”

“Huh?!”

Then again, when the schedule came up, it was good to postpone it.

I sat down and waited until Seon Ahyeon contacted his parents and told them about the counseling plan.

Seon Ahyeon had to say it himself, so he eventually sent a text message while sweating, and his parents replied in an instant.

Thus, Seon Ahyeon’s counseling schedule was successfully set.

“Well done.”

“H-Huh…”

His dumbfounded expression was asking what the hell had happened.

I patted his back and returned to my room.

And that evening, I received a sudden thank-you call from Seon Ahyeon's parents.

Apparently, Seon Ahyeon said that I persuaded him.

'…Do you have to?'

It was a bit embarrassing.

– Thank you. We… Um, there are areas that we can't meddle in…

Perhaps they were choked up, and after hearing the sound of them clearing up their throats a few times, the words of appreciation continued again.

"No, I just brought it up to him."

– Even so.

…From what I heard after that, it seemed Seon Ahyeon had heard a few abusive remarks stating that he would continue to live like that immediately after his relapse.

I could bet my money that it must have been the school. Although I didn't have much.

'As expected, peer relationships were the problem… '

Anyway, I ended the phone call with Seon Ahyeon's parents with proper courtesy.

Really, I had gone through all sorts of things.

I threw my arms over the railing of the veranda where I came out to talk on the phone quietly and I could feel the summer breeze.

'…Tired, cold.'

That was how the group life ended after a long time.

* * *

The last music show ended well without any major problems.

“Everyone likes short pants.”

“I-It’s easy to move around, so it’s nice.”

I also liked it because it was cool.

Keun Sejin who had a kneeling move at the end might have a different idea.

[Hello, Loviewer.

It’s me, Moondae. (puppy emoticon)

This is today’s outfit. (photo) (photo)]

After uploading the last group photo on SNS, I really felt like the first activity was over.

“We’re on vacation starting tomorrow.”

“I am excited~”

“I can go down after a long time.”

At Ryu Chungwoo’s words, everyone became excited.

Yes. The agency gave us a vacation as rumored.

Exactly four days.

‘For the guys living in the countryside, they’ll be happy to go down, eat, and rest.’

Still, think about where this is. It seemed there were a lot of guys who didn't give it their all while preparing for the music show and the next album.

And as soon as they finished filming the commercial that evening, Testar skipped meals and arrived at the dorm, and then they went home one by one with the luggage they had already prepared.

"Then I'll see you all in a few days~"

"See you!"

"See you in good health."

"B-Bye…"

In the midst of this, Seon Ahyeon disappeared with a squeak, perhaps he was extremely nervous about going to the counseling.

Thud. Screech.

The front door was closed.

Like this, I was left alone in the dorm.

'…It's a piece of cake.'

Thinking of spending four days quietly in this spacious place alone, I already felt full of energy.

I let out a long sigh of relief and lay down on the sofa.

'I'll lie down for a while, then get up and eat… I'll have to do a detailed monitoring that I have been pushing back… '

…As I thought of this, I fell into a deep sleep.

And that evening.

I woke up in the living room and realized that something was wrong.

My body didn't move.

It was the symptoms that I experienced after the first filming of <Idol Inc.>.

It meant I was suffering extreme fatigue.

'…I'm dying.'

It even got worse. My brain seemed to be tearing apart.

At first, I tried to do something but soon realized that I wasn't in a situation to do so.

'How is it so difficult to watch TV?'

With a heavy hand, I turned off the TV where the WeTube screen was playing.

I was going to monitor the trailer for episode 1 of <Let's Get Close First> taken with Cheongryeo, but I didn't know what I saw. I had a throbbing headache.

'…Let's check my fever.'

Beep.

[38.8°C]

It was driving me crazy.

In the container where I found the thermometer, I rummaged through it and found painkillers. And I chewed it at once.

It tasted awful. But after a while, the pain subsided a little.

More productive thinking became possible.

'…The manager is taking a break, too.'

It wasn't serious enough to contact the company for now. It was just the tension in my body was released and the problems accumulated from overwork just exploded.

'For now… should I rest during the vacation?'

It was the same as taking a break anyway, but taking a break because I was sick wasn't very enjoyable. Unfortunately, it couldn't be helped.

'Let's make porridge first while I still have the energy.'

I cooked white porridge with a bowl of instant rice, and after a few drinks, I lay down on the bed.

And while I was still feeling the effect of the medicine, I started monitoring.

'First of all… From the reaction to the stage.'

The personal fancams of the comeback stage posted on Music Night had already accumulated quite a number of views.

It seemed there was a subtle competition between individual fans.

[(MBomb fancam) Testar(TeSTAR) Moondae MoonDae Magical Boy / 1.12 million]

'…I got over a million views, too.'

It was worthwhile to raise the dance stat. I smiled faintly and clicked on the video.

– Now, go watch our genius puppy who can dance well… Let's all watch Moon Puppy… ㅠㅠ

– Are you practicing in your sleep, Moondae?ㅠㅠ I'm worried that he's not sleeping like he did during Idol Inc. You have to rest well and eat wellㅠㅠ

– Wow, it looks so good. Is he the first-place winner?

– Each movement has some details of each dance member… What kind of practice did you do, Moon Puppy…

It just developed naturally because we did it all together. Because I didn't have the basic skills.

'Still, I feel good.'

This kind of taste was like uncaring about the work-life balance and having a life ruined by work.

Hmm, there were quite a few English comments, but I couldn't read them because my head wasn't working well. I just moved on for now.

I did this regularly, but… I couldn't do it often these days because there were a lot of other things to do.

Let's search 'Park Moondae' on SNS.

"…"

Like last time, videos, photos, and fan art poured out.

To be honest, I didn't really realize that so many people were interested in me.

But it was fun to look into them one by one. I slowly lowered the timeline to see what they were gossiping about.

Then I discovered some odd things.

Park Moondae Testar Moondae Idol Inc

Park Moondae, please do blonde hair again. Black f*cking hair doesn't look good on you. Please, blonde hair! Why did you dye your hair and come back to black ㅠㅠ Your hair will grow black if you leave it alone. Please dye it blonde

"…"

The wish was strongly penetrated through the screen.

Below that, there were some people busily fighting against people who stopped them from doing this.

"Oh my God."

All my laughs came pouring out. For the next album, I should get a vote and change my hair color.

"Next…"

Did I just say it with my mouth?

I blinked and looked at the smartphone screen. It looked a little blurry…

My head hurt. It seemed the effect of the medicine had run out.

*'F*ck.'*

This was really difficult.

I fell into bed in a daze. Whatever. I'd get better after a nap…

My thoughts stopped there.

* * *

My body felt heavy. It felt like I was paralyzed in my sleep.

…I heard a voice.

“…dae? Hey! Park Moondae!”

“…!”

In an instant, my mind returned.

Chapter 96

Through my blurry vision, I saw a familiar face.

“…Keun Sejin?”

“You seem to have a fever.”

I wasn’t sure, but Keun Sejin looked like he was freaking out.

I cleared my throat a few times before answering.

“…Cough, uh. I took my medicine.”

“It’s not just about taking medicine… Hey, go to the hospital. Do you want me to call the agency?”

“…It’s not a serious illness… It’s fine. It’s the fatigue.”

Keun Sejin clicked his tongue.

“You can get better quickly, so what are you suffering for? Just take a shot. Get a lot of prescription pills.”

“…”

It was troublesome, but honestly, it was a bit tempting.

‘The agency can do that much.’

Still, it was an affiliate of a large company, so there was an expectation that they would deal with industrial hazards of this level.

Then I realized the current situation.

“Ah… Manager hyung is taking a break today.”

“You can call a taxi. Just dress casually.”

“…”

Taxis were in the options.

I watched Keun Sejin finish the phone call and managed to speak out my rational doubts.

“But why are you here?”

“I was stopping by on my way to the agency because I needed to get something. It’s near my house.”

You have something to get from the agency?

“What is it that you get?”

“Is that important now? That’s enough, change your clothes. The taxi will come soon.”

“…Yeah.”

I slowly got up, threw off my sweaty shirt, and put on an ordinary hoodie. It was chilly, so I didn’t feel hot.

“Do you need help?”

“I am already done.”

I could just go ahead like this. If I just wore a mask to cover my face…

“Come on, wear this.”

“…”

He noticed it like a ghost. I wore the mask and acknowledged it obediently.

“Thank you.”

“If you understand, be nice to me.”

Keun Sejin shook his head and checked his smartphone.

“Ah, it says the taxi is nearby. Let’s go down.”

“Yeah. Can it goes to the front door?”

“I called it over there. Follow me.”

“…?”

Looking at him, it felt like he was going to go with me instead of just seeing me off.

“I’ll just go by myself.”

“Imagine what kind of article will come out if you collapse while going out alone.”

“…”

I accepted defeat.

“Let’s go.”

“Yes.”

I shut my mouth, followed Keun Sejin down, and took a taxi.

As I endured motion sickness with flickering consciousness, I arrived at the hospital shortly after.

* * *

“It’s much better, right?”

“Yes.”

I readily agreed. I didn’t know what the hell was in the shot, but after receiving two packs of different colors, my condition improved dramatically.

‘It’s just tolerable flu.’

It was a big hospital, and due to its location, it ended quietly even if some celebrities came.

“You can go eat and take medicine. Kya, where can you get another friend like me.”

“Yes, thank you.”

“…Don’t mention it.”

Keon Sejin shrugged his shoulders and opened the front door of the dorm.

Then a pile of boxes appeared in front of me.

“…!”

It wasn’t just delivery boxes. These boxes of different sizes, wrapped in ivory wrapping papers with dark green ribbons…

“Ah, they’ve already moved it.”

“…”

I quietly asked Keun Sejin who seemed nonchalant.

"…Is it your birthday?"

"Huh? Ah, Moondae must have looked it up while searching~"

Keun Sejin smiled with a wink.

"That's right, it's the day after my birthday. August 1st."

What he had to get from the agency must have been that pile of presents.

'…I thought you were the type who would make a fuss a week before your birthday.'

I didn't know he wouldn't say a word.

In fact, if I hadn't remembered what I saw on SNS a few days ago, I almost passed by that pile of presents thinking it was to support the debut commemoration.

At any rate, the birthday guy was unconcerned.

"Because my birthday passed in the middle of the vacation~ I was going to take a proof shot first. It's nice to see this right away on the actual day."

"That's true, and… First of all, congratulations."

"Alright~ Send me touching congratulatory messages and gifticons on my birthday. I'll be satisfied with chicken."

I smiled.

"…You paid for the chicken today."

"-! Moondae, If you listen to this, you can get two."

"What?"

Keun Sejin grinned, then walked into the kitchen and lifted a pot.

“This is galbi-jjim[1]Galbi-jjim = braised short ribs…”

“…Galbi?”

Where did it suddenly come from?

“You know~ I’m worried about my friend who’s going to stay alone at the dorm. So I take this away from my birthday presents!”

“…!!”

“Just… Isn’t it touching? Keun Sejin brought galbi for his teammates while on vacation… Hah, tell this moving story wherever you go.”

“…”

“Are you speechless because you’re grateful? It’s okay. It can happen.”

Keun Sejin waved his hand and headed for the front door.

“I’m going back, so take good care of your health during vacation. Make sure to heat up the galbi-jjim.”

“…Do you want me to take a proof shot of the presents?”

“Haha, that’s enough. You’re still sick. I already took a picture at the agency.”

Keun Sejin disappeared leaving a piece of advice, ‘If you get sick again, go to the hospital again’.

“…”

‘I’ve been through all kinds of things.’

This one was quite new because I hadn’t been with anyone when I was sick and only the annoying things had increased.

'It's nice to have someone to help me.'

…When Keun Sejin's birthday came around again, I should really send him a chicken. It was worth that much on my holiday.

'Now, take the medicine and monitor again… '

Ring.

I got a message on my smartphone.

[Seon Ahyeon: Are you enjoying your vacation, Moondae? I've just finished my first consultation. They seem to be a good person, so I'm going to try really hard this time. I thought I should call you to say thank you, so I texted you… (View more)]

"…"

This… He hadn't changed. Still, I wondered why he didn't post it in the group chat.

I clicked to view more.

To sum up, what he was saying was thank you and do you have any thoughts of visiting during the vacation?

'None.'

I replied with, 'Congratulations on receiving good counseling. I'm not feeling well, so I'm going to rest'.

Then, I threw my phone on the sofa and took medicine, and when I came back, the long text messages had multiplied to 5.

In addition, a lot of complicated notifications popped up in the group chat.

When I checked, it seemed Keun Sejin had already talked about everything that had happened today in the group chat.

[Cha Eugene: Be healthy, hyung! (default crying emoticon)]

[Ryu Chungwoo: I guess it happened because you took a break from work. Call me if it's too hard.]

[Raebin: My grandfather gave me red ginseng. Should I bring it with me when I return to the dorm? (a blurred photo of a bucket)]

[Keun Sejin: please give some me too (laughing emoticon)]

…There were dozens of conversations like this.

"…Huh."

At this point, instead of being alone, I felt like these guys were in the next room somewhere.

'But I'm thankful.'

I was taking a break so they knew not to bother me with troublesome calls.

Even Lee Sejin sent me a message.

Of course, it wasn't in the group chat.

[Lee Sejin A: Are you okay?]

I replied one by one in the order that came first.

First of all, I sent a message to Seon Ahyeon, saying, 'I am getting better and I never thought you were tactlessly inviting me to play, so don't worry', and I also sent one to Lee Sejin saying that I was fine.

Lastly, I posted the same content on the group chat.

[I've gotten better after coming back from the hospital. Have a nice vacation, everyone.]

Then the screen was filled with OK emoticons from the people who checked. Well… The feedback was quick and positive, so it was nice.

'Let's just eat now.'

I shrugged and heated up the galbi-jjim and instant rice.

The galbi-jjim was quite delicious.

* * *

While Park Moondae was recovering and quietly finishing his vacation, Testar's fans were enjoying the news of Testar's vacation posted on SNS.

– Ahyeonㅋㅋㅋㅋ He's starting to use sponges, cute… It's so cute…! (photo of a half-used sponge)

– Today's Raebin: I eat chodang corn with my grandfather… I want to sit under the air conditioner and eat mysterious peaches and chodang corn until my stomach is full.

– Does anyone know where Cheongwoo took the picture and uploaded it?ㅠ It looks like a mountain, but did you climb a mountain this summer, Chungwoo…? During a vacation at that…?

In particular, Keun Sejin was overflowing with birthday content, releasing all kinds of photos and videos.

The most popular content was a short video of Testar lip-syncing to the sound of their Hi-five music broadcast performance coming from the TV.

Testar, who was passing by the living room doing everyday activities such as drinking water or reading a book, got excited and followed others people's parts; it became a hot topic and got 10,000 shares.

– No, why do you look closer here than in the reality show ㅋㅋㅋ

– I didn't know that actor Sejin would really play along… In Cha Eugene's rap part too… ㅋㅋ

– It feels like they've gotten a lot more comfortable with each other, so I feel warm… Sniff… Make sure Testar lasts longer… for 100 years…

And as the last episode of the reality trip was aired, fans were feeling a bittersweet aftertaste of Testar's successful debut activity.

However, it was still too early for fans of one member to enjoy the aftertaste.

They were Park Moondae's fans who had the main broadcast of <Let's Get Close First> right around the corner.

– Today has finally come.

– Moondae ㅠㅠ Entertainment ㅠㅠ Overflowing portion ㅠㅠ

– What's this, I was so nervous that I couldn't sleep last night…

-When I saw the trailer, there was a ghost story about an escaped murderer. Thinking that Moondae got scared and followed his senior around, it was already cute and fun. I'm the winner today because I am spending my annual vacation watching the scene with a clear mind

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋ No, just how much were you looking forward to it ㅋㅋㅋ

Amidst the fans' nervous expectations, this week's <Let's Get Close First> started airing.

The first thing that appeared… It was a skit about two people meeting in a mountain cabin in the middle of a snowy mountain.

[I was surprised by the sudden snowstorm, but it's fortunate there is a mountain cabin.]

[I see. I also quickly came in after seeing the weather.]

The problem was that neither of them had any talent for acting.

It suddenly became a good gag corner.

Laughter erupted at every community comment that ran the program on-air in real time.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– No, you're not in distress, you two look like you're having a business meeting

– Mysterious meeting room vibe

– When did the true leader Cheongryeo-nim leave and Jaehyun come out? Aigoo, Jaehyun, whoever sees it will think you guys are meeting at a seminar

– Moondae, the setting is winter. You were trying to take off your padded jacket because it was too hot, but you hesitated ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

The scene of sharing hot Americano and sharing the instant food awkwardly taken out of the backpack also made people laugh.

– Moondae pretended not to see the chicken feet lunch box just now ㅋㅋ

– No, according to the setting, the puppy brought it with him, but he's looking through his backpack like it's his first time seeing it!

– Cheongryeo, even in the middle of summer, you only drink hot water, so even for your junior, you're boiling Americano this summer… (speechless)

– I guess the lunch box doesn't taste good. They both became silent after eating ㅋㅋㅋ

The vague snowstorm CG in the window made the sense of dissonance funnier.

[At that moment,]

[There is a sudden roar…?]

In addition, when these captions were added, the atmosphere became more strange.

[[A tremendous roar echoes through the cabin]

[Victim 1: Is it thunder? (Calm)]

[Junior 2: I'll call the police for now (Calm)]

– They're isolated in a mountain cabin due to a landslide, but I don't feel any tension. It's because they have a PPL product that produces infinitely hot Americano.

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ It's driving me crazy.

– You two are really no different ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

They must be thinking that they're totally immersed in it… maybe…

It was when Cheongryeo brought up the ghost story that this endless cycle of skits was cut off.

- 1. Galbi-jjim = braised short ribs.

Chapter 97

Cheongryeo on the screen smiled and began to unravel the ghost story.

[Do you know an idol ghost story? I also just heard of this recently.]

[…A ghost story?]

– It's here.

– Finally ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Park Moondae, are you going to throw away the Americano this time?

In order not to go against people's expectations, Park Moondae stiffened as soon as he heard the introduction of the 'ghost story'.

– Moondae, are you scared of the ghost story? ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– His face is all hardened but it's so cute how he's pretending that he's not

– I'm not even a fan, but for some reason, it's so fun to see him being scared… ㅎ

Welcome to Park Moondae's bulletin board

In reality, he was nervous because of the meaningful content, but on the broadcast, he looked stiffened because of the ghost story.

[They wandered around the recording studio, and when an idol who was likely to succeed was recording, they interrupted and recorded together.]

[I could have done this…]

[…They said.]

The ghost's line in the middle was treated with red captions to liven up the atmosphere.

[Silence descends inside the mountain cabin]

And finally, a slightly chilly atmosphere was created.

– Huh?

– Hey, Park Mundae is immersed

– They finally manage to escape the skitㅋㅋ

– Cheongryeo-nim, nice shot

[You don't have to worry. Actually, I just made it up. I modified the story of the ghost in the recording studio.]

[…Um, I see.]

[But you know that the story of the ghost in the recording studio is real, right?]

[!!]

– It's actually a phone ghost story

– But the phone ghost story is also a phone phone ghost story.

– It's rare for Cheongryeo to play pranks… Since he's with his hubae, a new personality comes out, It's fun

– Ah, the gap between the gag and immersion is just rightㅋㅋㅋ

Since then, the broadcast began to create a proper atmosphere.

[The stove is broken.]

[The door in the back room seems to be locked.]

Slowly, the feeling of isolation heightened.

In the serious atmosphere, Cheongryeo and Park Moondae sat face to face in the living room and began a deep conversation.

[Um… Sunbae-nim, is it okay if I ask for advice?]

The rookie that recently became the hottest topic mentioned the process of the formation and the teamwork until his debut.

[It's my first time talking about it in a place like this, so I didn't know how it was.]

Also, the picture of a senior who sincerely responded to the words of a junior while being shy, saying that he had never talked about it before was quite good.

Regardless of the truth, in the strange format where strangers seemed to reveal their innermost thoughts in unusual situations, there was some touching impression that the prime-time entertainment aimed for.

– ㅠㅠIt's a bit cheesy, but I like it

-I think idols are working hard from a young age.

– I hope all K-pop idols cheer upㅠㅠ Ah, of course, except for the bastards who appear on general news

– Leader-nim, I guess you got hungry while talking. He's eating snacks ㅋㅋ

– The only impressions I had of Moondae were from the first evaluation of Idol Inc. But it was unexpected and nice because he worded it nicely.

The broadcast seemed to end warmly like that, but then a small content was thrown and connected to the next week.

[-Next episode-]

[I think the radio is working…?]

[Bzzt- Breaking news. A felon suspect has escaped from a prison near the mountain…]

[-!]

– Oooh

– It's serious

– Do the two of them escape the cabin? Or defense?

People were interested because they knew that it wouldn't be too serious due to the nature of the program and that it would end with a gag at a critical moment.

And next week.

The majority of the viewers were shocked.

– What's this how could this be

-ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋwhutㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– How can it be connected like this?

At first, it seemed to be going as viewers expected.

At the beginning of the broadcast, Cheongryeo and Park Moondae spent a relaxing time waiting for the police.

But soon, strangely enough, they realized that the cell phone battery had run out, and they went around the mountain cabin looking for something to send an SOS signal out of the window.

But instead of flashlights or flares, they found a radio.

[Shall we listen to this first? It seems to be working.]

[Bzzt…]

And they heard a broadcast saying that a murder suspect had escaped from prison.

The moment both of them stiffened at the sudden news.

[Thump thump!]

[!!!!]

Someone started knocking on the door.

And a dull voice was heard over the door.

[It’s the police! Please open the door!]

[…]

Due to the timing, of course, it was a development in which the escaped murder suspect was lying.

[The two people exchange glances]

– Heol, it’s more nerve-wracking than I thought

– ㅠㅠGuys, you’re all smart. Let’s not open the door carelessly

– Bring back last week's meeting room vibe!

Fortunately, the two just approached the door cautiously.

And Park Moondae opened his mouth first.

[Please tell us your position, name, and affiliation.]

[…]

Suddenly there was silence outside the door.

And after a while

[Thump thump!]

[Hey, open the door!]

[!!!!]

– I'm scared

– It's like an all-genre variety show

– Have they ever done it on full-scale like this before?

Viewers were a little taken aback. And then something even more surprising happened.

[Crack!]

The front door was split.

[????]

A huge question mark caption bomb appeared for a while.

[Escape at once]

Before the door could be completely broken down, the two hurriedly started running.

– Heol

– It's more serious than I thought;

– Wasn't this program supposed to only show skits? Why is it suddenly so scary?

The comments gradually went beyond bewilderment and began to express anxiety or bitterness, but that didn't last long either.

It was because those two suddenly broke the window and escaped.

[This way!]

[Yes!]

The green screen attached to the window was torn apart, and the CG began to get confused.

The caption was also confused.

[Th-this…?]

[A situation where there is nothing to see]

Meanwhile, the two were holding the window frame while one of them moved the lock. They were very much in sync.

The people burst out laughing.

– Aren't you both too immersed ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Where are the businessmen from last week?

– Guys, is it okay to break the 4th wall like that on a broadcast?

 Destruction of the 4th wall (physics)

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

After the two ran out, the camera rushed in and caught the two who came out.

Low-cost CGs appeared in a hurry to cover filming equipment.

[The snow has melted.]

[Thanks to the warmer weather… It seems they can take off their coat]

[But it's still pretty cold.]

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋThese people… They're pretty shameless…

– The snow has melted because the weather is warmㅋㅋㅋ Crazyㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– I was wondering what kind of snow picture it is, but the staff and the filming equipment are roughly combined using CGㅋㅋ

– Meanwhile, Moondae secretly tried to take off his padded jacket, but Cheongryeo stopped himㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

I guess he can't because the immersion isn't broken up to that point ㅋㅋㅋ

No, I can't understand the criteria…!

Contrary to the boisterous reaction of the viewers, the two continued to talk casually.

[Let's hurry up and go down before that strange person catches on and chases after us.]

[Yes. See you next time.]

[…You're not going to go down with me?]

[In case of emergency, it would be better for at least one person to live. Why don't we split up?]

[Um, that's true. I'll see you next time.]

[Yes. Have a safe trip home, sunbae-nim]

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Otherworldly wisdom

– That's so cool. I guess this is winter

– Is it okay for this conversation to flow like this ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– I am not a fan, I just knew that both of them got the same answer on the idol personality test… I didn't know it would be this much…

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

While viewers burst into laughter, Cheongryeo and Park Moondae politely exchanged greetings and parted ways.

The camera briefly focused on Cheongryeo going down the mountain, then it turned around and followed Park Moondae. Park Moondae glanced at Cheongryeo who was going down and he turned around.

Then, he headed to the front door of the mountain cabin that he had just escaped from.

– ???

– What's this

– Why are you there

Standing in front of the entrance, Park Moondae took off his coat. Inside the long padding, the clothes he was wearing were revealed.

He was dressed in a red prison uniform.

[!!!!]

Park Moondae murmured dryly.

[Ah, sunbae-nim, you are lucky.]

People who realized the situation started to scream.

-?????

– crazy crazy what is this

– Aaaaaaaa

– Heol, prison uniform

– I think I'm going crazy

– Is Moondae the runaway ninja that appeared on the radio? Aargh

Park Moondae whistled and entered the front door. Surprised exclamations were briefly inserted into the scene.

And the cut was switched.

This time it was Cheongryeo going down the mountain.

– Run away

– Cheongyeo-nim, hurry up and run

– It's a thriller drama all of a sudden. Why are you doing this, MBS ㅠㅠ

However, Cheongryeo stopped his slow steps.

And murmured.

[I couldn't take him this time either…]

-??

– What is he

Cheongryeo sighed and started walking again. When a huge tree brushed by, there was a gap in the camera's view for a moment.

Cheongryeo had disappeared.

And a flyer was zoomed in next to the tree where he disappeared.

[Looking for a missing person]

[Went missing during a landslide caused by heavy snowfall]

On that list… Cheongryeo's photo was printed.

– Aaaaaaaah

– Is he a ghost?

– Oh, my God. What the hell is this?

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋOh my God

A tense BGM exploded.

[When we meet again, then…]

With that caption, the broadcast ended.

– Oh, my God

– What did I just see?

Because the development was so dramatic, people were more shocked rather than scared

– I want to have adlibs with unexpected twists, but I feel like this isn't satisfactory

– How could you think of doing something like that with those two bad actors, MBS?

– Hiiik It's not that they're bad at acting, but it's a format where they're pretending they're bad at it!

? What are you talking about?

If they're a ghost and an escaped convict, both of them are not in distress, that's why they were calm when they met last week, right? ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

Heol

People were puzzled by the complete big picture but soon began to enjoy it.

Because thinking back on it, it was funny.

– Everything is complete with the last skit

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋIt fit just like this

– Suddenly, it became the production team's big picture

– Ah ㅋㅋ This is so fun, I have to rehash last week's ㅋㅋㅋ

Although it was dramatic, people tolerated it because they were definitely immersed and had fun.

In addition, it was easy to push public opinion because both of them had such a big fandom.

– Today's <Let's Get Close First> was really fun~ I want to see VTIC Cheongryeo more often on variety shows^^ Testar Moondae fighting!

– Even though it was Park Moondae's first time doing a solo variety show, I think he did a good job. His chemistry with Cheongryeo sunbae-nim was good, too. Recommended!

– Both Cheongryeo and Park Moondae were excellent casts. I hope you invite them again next time. (default smile emoticon)

Because entertainment articles didn't have comment sections, the viewer's bulletin board was booming.

Since the unconventional and funny format was well received by general viewers who didn't know Cheongryeo or Park Moondae, the fans laughed and enjoyed the variety show's content without much worry.

And a few days later.

A new content popped up again.

[This is Testar's Moondae (puppy emoticon) It's a W live]

It was Park Moondae's first solo W-live.

The Novel will be updated first on this website. Come back and continue reading tomorrow, everyone!

PDF by: traitorAIZEN

KW
데뷔 못 하면
죽는 병 걸림
백덕수 현대 판타지 장편소설

Debut or Die

– 데못죽 –

- VOLUME 3 -

-AUTHOR-
백덕수

-ILLUSTRATOR-
텡

[Readhive]

Chapter 98

‘The streaming has just started.’

I checked the screen again to see if it looked good and sat down.

Soon people started coming in.

Since there was a slight delay, I deliberately waited for a while and then said hello when the comments started to come in.

“Hello. Um, streaming personally to the Internet like this… I think it’s the first time since that PR live.”

I deliberately spoke slowly, observing the delayed response. The comments were filled with hearts, greetings, and aggro.

‘It’s still hard to read.’

I continued the introduction.

“I was thinking about what to do… I’m nervous. First of all, I prepared something familiar to you.”

I slightly changed the angle of my smartphone and lowered it.

“Today… Tada.”

The camera lit up the view in front of me. Today’s menu, ssambap[1]Korean rice lettuce wraps , appeared.

“Mukbang together… I’ve prepared it as content.”

I lifted the spoon.

“Thank you for the meal.”

Then I put a pre-wrapped ssambap in my mouth. Um, it tasted like stir-fried spicy pork.

‘It’s nice.’

Since this was my first broadcast, I made this myself out of conscience, but this was better because it tasted familiar and was easy to eat.

‘Let’s pay attention to the audio.’

After chewing and swallowing the food in my mouth, I continued my small talk.

“I purposefully came in time for dinner, but if you have any other schedules, later… You can play this while you eat.”

– The camera angle!

– I can’t see your eyes

– Oppa, the camera ㅠㅠ

– He’s already started eating

“Ah.”

When I checked my smartphone again, perhaps due to a lockup problem, the angle had gone down to the point that my eyes were barely visible.

‘Isn’t this fine?’

There didn’t seem to be any problem in showing the eating content, but since they said they didn’t like it, I adjusted the stand and pulled the smartphone back a bit.

“Wait a minute.”

I turned the stand to secure it more firmly and tapped the smartphone.

“I think it’s done, how is it?”

As I waited calmly, the replies started to mix in the comments. My eyes quickly caught the readable ones.

– Uaah

– My idol was holding me and shaking me

– Moondae’s collarbone is straight

– Looks good

– Good

– I like it

“I guess it looks good.”

Looking at the comments responding to me shaking the smartphone, it felt like it was full of small people in here.

‘It’s pretty funny.’

I smiled, sat back down, and began to eat. Then I picked the right comments and answered from time to time.

“What’s your favorite menu? Um… I like everything that objectively tastes good. This tastes fine.”

“…’Did you order it?’, no. I just made it.”

Come to think of it, I hadn’t been cooking much lately.

Due to my schedule, I usually just bought food and ate it. To be honest, it was much more comfortable that way.

– Are you good at cooking?

– I want to eat it tooㅠ

– I came in from the chicken feet mukbang

– How did you do it?

– Gasp, homemade

– Explain the tasteㅠㅠ

Oh, the reaction was unexpectedly strong.

“I see there are people who want to eat it, so after the broadcast, I will post a simple recipe on our account. Um, but there’s no secret method… The difference from what you usually eat… I don’t think there’s any.”

I put another ssambap into my mouth. It tasted like bulgogi[2]Bulgogi, literally “fire meat”, is a gui made of thin, marinated slices of meat, most commonly beef, grilled on a barbecue or on a stove-top griddle. It is also often stir-fried in a pan in home cooking. Sirloin, rib eye, or brisket are frequently used cuts of beef for the dish. Sumber: Wiki.

“And as for the detailed description of the taste… The sweet and spicy seasoning goes well with the meat and the rice, and the ssamjang[3]Korean spicy dipping sauce gives a slightly stimulating taste while the lettuce refreshingly completes it.”

I kept checking the comments with my eyes.

‘There are more foreign languages than I thought.’

– MOONDAE I love you♡

– No eng sub?

– hello (smiley emoticon)

– is it mukbang?

– did you got KIMCHI refrigerator?

It seemed they managed to come to the debut group's personal broadcast.

Even though <Idol Inc.> did a global launch, judging from the fact that I hadn't seen media articles that caused a stir overseas, it didn't seem to have that much effect.

'Did you know about us as a bonus from our activities overlapped with VTIC?'

Or maybe it was because of the swamp of the WeTube algorithm. At any rate, it was pretty amazing.

"Ah, the kimchi refrigerator. I haven't received it yet. I'm just waiting comfortably because they'll give it to me when the time comes."

After that, I continued to eat by answering appropriate questions, but it was surprisingly difficult to select the 'appropriate question'.

It was because even if I looked into it for a minute, there were quite a few cases where only the foreign languages and aggros were running rampant.

– No fun

– Eat a lot!

– Ah, of all things, it's Gommeo

– Moondae, are you doing this with your phone?

– There's something moving in the back

– Change the filter

Hmm, I caught something that I could answer amidst the aggro that was just being thrown.

"Ah, this is the company phone. Mine is here."

I brought out the old smartphone that I had thrown aside and waved it in moderation in front of the camera.

And at that moment, a message suddenly came in.

Ring-

[VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim]

"…"

It was some sh*tty timing.

It was a relief that the pop-up didn't show the content.

– Cheongryeo

– Heol, Vtic

– Are you close?

– I hate it

Looking at the comments, it was already found out. I quickly sorted things out.

"Ah, Since <Let's Get Close First>, I get close with sunbae-nim and greet him from time to time."

If I don't reply to him right away, am I going to get slandered from the VTIC's side?

However, if I replied, my attitude might cause controversy during the first W live, so let's ask for their understanding first.

"Now that I've seen it, can I reply to him for a moment?"

– You don't have to ask for permission ㅠ

– Yes, yes

– Show me the content

– What message are you going to send?

– Are you close?

'I'm going crazy.'

I quickly checked the contents of the message. It was just a work-related talk. I replied 'Yes, I understand' and quickly turned it off.

'We need to change the subject.'

I happened to have something prepared.

I immediately found the right comment. It was a question that constantly came in since the broadcast started.

– Where are the other members?

"Hm, there are a lot of people asking about other members. Some are on schedule and some are at home. Wait a minute."

I got up right away and went outside of the camera's view.

And I went outside the door and brought in the guy who was already waiting in the living room.

“I brought in a friend who is at the dorm.”

“H-Hello…!”

It was Seon Ahyeon, who was shouting ‘I’ve made a big decision’ with his whole body.

After receiving counseling for a few weeks, he seemed to have gained a little courage and decided to appear, but he said he didn’t dare to appear for a long period of time yet, so I made a setup where he could stay in the middle for a while and then leave.

Fortunately, the response in the comments was good.

– Heol, Ahyeon

– Welcome, deerㅠㅠ

– I love you

– Is Chungwoo oppa not here?

– Call Eugene

Perhaps having this much rejection was fine, Seon Ahyeon’s complexion was quite stable.

Seon Ahyeon waved to the smartphone with a slightly flushed face.

“E-Everyone… How have you been?”

However, due to the delayed comment time, what Seon Ahyeon could see was mainly ‘Your face is crazy;’.

“Everyone seems to be doing well. What have you been up to lately, Seon Ahyeon?”

“Ah! I-I learned knitting…! D-Do you want me to show you?”

“That’s good.”

Clang. Seon Ahyeon immediately ran to his room. I asked the camera.

“…Can you give him a big round of applause if he brings out something? He’s still learning and he really likes it.”

With this, they would post a lot because it would be funny.

“H-Here is it…!”

Seon Ahyeon returned at a lightning speed and immediately held out some colorful items to the smartphone.

It was a loofah sponge. From bread to strawberries, they were sorted by type.

And as requested, people began to push down the comments with clap emoticons as soon as Seon Ahyeon returned to view.

“Ah… T-Thank you!”

Seon Ahyeon bowed his head with a bright face, not knowing that people who hadn’t seen the sponge yet were clapping because of the delay.

‘Is this enough?’

If left longer, the trauma-level hate comments that appeared at unexpected timing could destroy Seon Ahyeon’s mentality, so I thought it would be okay to let him go now.

However, as if gaining confidence, Seon Ahyeon sat down in front of the table and started explaining about the sponge.

“I… I scooped the shape first, so it looks a little weird, b-but I think the strawberries are well done.”

Just as I thought it would be difficult to stop him, someone knocked on the door.

Then the door burst open, and someone walked in.

“Moondae-ssi~ The 10-minute PR mukbang was over, but I got a report that the live is still going on~”

It was Keun Sejin.

“If you give me some ssambap, I’ll pretend it never happened.”

“I want ssambap, too!”

After that, Cha Eugene raised his hand and came in. Anyone could tell they broke in while watching the broadcast.

‘…I’m sure the meat will stay in the frying pan.’

They could just go to the kitchen and eat, the only reason they came here was to intrude into the W live.

And in an instant, the room became noisy.

“Heol! This is really delicious.”

“There’s a lot of meat in the kitchen, go eat them.”

“No, I think this tastes more delicious because it was carefully packed for this broadcast.”

“The best!”

Cha Eugene raised his thumb like a typical eating entertainment guest. And I also started to recommend ssambap to Seon Ahyeon.

Seon Ahyeon wanted to eat it, but he was starting to feel sorry. I had a headache.

“…Eat comfortably.”

“Y-Yes!”

“Hyung, I eat a lot, too?”

“Do whatever you want.”

“Yeah!”

I looked at the ssambap that was finished in an instant and told the camera.

“…Next time… I’ll prepare more portions.”

The comments were full of laughter. I’m glad you have a good laugh.

“Since we ran out of ssambap… I’ll wrap up today’s mukbang.”

Instead, I tried to come up with another content, like a question time or something, but Keun Sejin waved his hand after eating a ssambap.

“Huh? Hey, don’t do that, we’ll just pack up some ssambap for you!!”

“…!”

…So for the next 20 minutes, I moved my smartphone to the kitchen and did a ssam broadcast.

“Cha Eugene, how much lettuces did you use??”

“T-The ssam is as big as his face…”

Soon after, the other three people who had just came back from the hospital for a medical checkup joined.

“What are you all doing?”

“Hyung! Try this!”

Eventually, I turned off W live after feeding ssambap to the people who just joined in and listening to their reviews.

I wondered what the heck just happened, but I couldn’t deny that it was an interesting content considering the number of viewers was good…

‘…But I couldn’t say what I wanted to say.’

It was a side effect of having the broadcast infiltrated by intruders.

I turned on SNS instead. In the process, after a short look at the Internet, the response was quite good.

– I definitely clicked the mukbang, but when I came to my senses, I was watching the world’s best ssambap competition

– When the chicken feet video was broadcasted on W Live today, they ran excitedly

– Ah, on WeTube, he can change the name from chicken feet to ssambap from now on ㅋㅋ

– Moon Puppy ripped apart the ssambap (screenshot)

‘Is this successful enough?’

I shrugged my shoulders and wrote down the promised short meat recipe for ssambap in a new post.

And I uploaded it with additional phrases.

[+ The new album preparations have begun.]

By the way, the kimchi refrigerator that was mentioned on this day was immediately received at the dorm two days later.

- 1. Korean rice lettuce wraps

- 2. Bulgogi, literally “fire meat”, is a gui made of thin, marinated slices of meat, most commonly beef, grilled on a barbecue or on a stove-top griddle. It is also often stir-fried in a pan in home cooking. Sirloin, rib eye, or brisket are frequently used cuts of beef for the dish. Sumber: Wiki

- 3. Korean spicy dipping sauce

Chapter 99

Actually, I expected that the preparation for the second album would go smoothly.

It was because the company staff, who had tasted hell while preparing for the debut album, tried to start preparing for the next album early.

“We have almost filled the candidates for the songs, and within this pool, we plan to select and organize them according to the album concept. The rest will be taken out or dropped into the next album.”

“Yes.”

The only problem was that the director couldn’t abandon the self-made concept.

“Since we have plenty of time this time, please discuss the title track thoroughly and tell us.”

“Thank you.”

“All right!”

This time, he passionately delayed the production of the title track.

‘…Is it caused by the success of the debut album?’

It was clear that he thought his ideas worked well in the entertainment industry.

But it was fortunate that we had plenty of time this time. The deadline was set for more than two months, and the song was almost already out.

Thanks to that, the members' complexion looked good.

"Let's pick a good song this time, too."

"I'm already looking forward to Raebin's arrangement."

"Thank you."

Even if the concept was still undecided and we had to pick three songs out of twenty songs for the title track, a hopeful atmosphere was created.

…However, after a few days, I came to think that self-production was better.

* * *

"…A collab?"

"Yes, that!"

I thought it was weird from the moment the director suddenly call us, but I didn't know such a bomb would come out.

"What… May I ask what kind of collaboration you're talking about?"

"Now, look."

The director held out a document with a confident look.

The big letters caught my eye first.

[New business proposal]

[Mobile game]

[T1 Place Co., Ltd.]

"…?"

"It's a game developed by a start-up that T1 acquired as an affiliate, and I think it fits just right. The timing is perfect. If they collaborate with our Testar, you can see that there will be synergy. Yeah? It's a game, so it's easy to grasp the concept, isn't it nice?"

Pouring out one line after another, the director added the last sentence with a pleased face.

"This is the internal document, I show it to you because I believe in our Testar. Stop talking, just look here."

That kind of thing didn't f*cking matter anyway.

'Mobile games…?'

Please, I wished someone would tell me it was a dream.

From next to me, Ryu Chungwoo asked back in a voice as calm as possible. It seemed he was less shocked because he wasn't familiar with mobile games.

"…By any chance, what kind of collaboration do you have in mind?…"

"Now, think about it. You're going to make a comeback together with the release of the game. And if you go with the image that promotes each other, the interest will double, right?"

I didn't know where this dogsh*t idea came from. Does his pituitary produce saliva instead of hormones?

'What are you expecting from a mobile game… '

Or did he get favors from that side?

No, unless you were an advertising model, very few people would welcome the release of an idol album that was deeply intertwined like this.

‘Because it will eat up the idol image.’

If the game were to be released in two months, it would already be almost finished, then they were going to insert content promoting unfamiliar idols? It was a perfect mess.

‘If they push this from that side, it means they’re really trying to get money from Testar’s fans and resigned to it… ’

The future of Testar’s brand image was as good as dead.

*‘Mass-produced sh*t game meme will stick.’*

No, how could you ask us to add game promotion content to the album in the first place?

A mobile game at that too.

I didn’t know if the director was being tricked or pressured. Either way, we were f*cked. It felt like this bastard was just making lame attempts.

“I’ve set up a meeting with them on Friday afternoon., so prepare yourself.”

“…Director, is it already decided?”

“I’ve already told everything to the higher-ups, so I’ve got it all sorted out. Our Testar just has to work hard.”

“…I understand.”

It was a confirmed kill. This meant that even if we said we wouldn’t do it, we would only have an emotional fight with the company and suck it up.

*‘It’s real sh*t… ’*

Should I prepare the next album in advance and get a confirmation? It was driving me crazy.

"…"

On my way out after the meeting with the director. I checked to see if anyone had a good understanding of the situation.

'Except for the two Lee Sejin, they're all wiped out.'

I could understand Keun Sejin, but Lee Sejin was unexpected.

'Do you have a hobby of playing games?'

Anyway, the other four's moods were, 'I'm a bit taken aback, but I'll try my best'.

It seemed they had anticipated similar hardships as the debut album. Let's just leave it alone for now.

'They'll notice it if we go to the meeting on Friday anyway.'

At that moment, Keun Sejin tapped my elbow from next to me.

"…Hey, what do you think?"

"We're screwed."

"Haha."

Keun Sejin laughed slowly, and eventually, an annoyed look passed across his face.

"This time, it's for real. Right?… It's not something that can be solved with effort."

"…You're right."

“It’s too much, really…”

Keun Sejin tried to say something, but he just shut his mouth, realizing that his voice had gotten a little louder.

‘It’s a wise choice.’

I checked Lee Sejin’s reaction instead. Lee Sejin was walking with a pale face.

“…”

Is it because of the situation? It was a distressed look that I had never seen before even during <Idol Inc.>.

Sure enough, Cha Eugene, who was right next to him, slapped Lee Sejin on the back.

“Hyung! Are you sick?”

“…! No,… I am fine.”

Easy for him to say.

‘Should I dig it up?’

I pondered for a moment, then I gave up. He wasn’t a kid, he could take care of it.

Right now… Coming up with a solution to this damn situation was more urgent.

‘…With one bonus track, use it as the game’s theme song… ’

It wouldn’t work for the director. Damn it.

I racked my brain all the way back to the dorm, but couldn’t find any solution (of course).

However, at that moment, the game collaboration grew like a snowball due to another unexpected accident.

It wasn't just Testar who was divided by this.

* * *

The first time it happened, T1 Stars Ent was finally registered on 'Job Universe' and was able to write company reviews.

Having left the company after getting burnout during the debut album preparation, several staff members wrote scathing reviews.

= =

[Pros: The singers work hard, the food is delicious.]

[Cons: Unsystematic structure, the stupid mess from the higher-ups who have no entertainment experience, and unreasonable schedules that erase work-life balance.]

[Overall rating: Only those who move to another company will survive. I hope the singers will change company too.]

= =

This was the most recent review. One star.

Since the review of the employees from famous agencies received quite a bit of attention, this screenshot was also passed around in various communities.

– They change people too in here… I think it's rather severe because it's an affiliate of a large company, it's like they keep installing stupid people above me

– Save Testar

– Huft I can only sigh

– The fans didn't do that all-out attack for no reason

Isn't that the reason why the work-life balance is gone?

There's no mention of the fans here, so why do you keep thinking about them?

They're suddenly grabbing the fan's hair;;

You guys are like this, that's why it wasn't written down ㅎㅎ…

Because Testar's debut activity was successful, everyone was rather talkative.

And this screenshot even entered the anonymous web portal for office workers.

= =

[Entertainment must be really hard]: I am looking into changing jobs because I am interested, but I'm scared. I don't have a relative in that field so it's going to be hard ㅠ What are the opinions of people who actually go there? (screenshot) @Entertainment

= =

– To be honest, it's not something I would do with this salary (MS Entertainment)

– It's the same everywhere ㅎㅎ (LeTi Entertainment)

– They give me just enough to keep me from starving to death, but the work is worth it. But this also feels stupid (Treasure Entertainment)

Somehow, the lamentations continued. However, just before this article disappeared from the front page, the person in question suddenly appeared.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋOur company. Never come here, stay… (T1 Stars

Entertainment)

Heol, you made it

Was it really difficult?

Yes (T1 Stars Entertainment)

ㄴㅜㅠㅠㅠAigoo

ㄴㅋㅋㅋTell me everything

The short and bold answer contained a lot.

People hung around and asked questions, and eventually, the employee was angry and spilled a lot of things.

– First of all, there are a lot of weird people at the top. I've met all kinds of people, but it was the first time I met someone that weird. He almost ruined the debut album. How could he come up with such a weird concept…

– He was going to bring in something weird, but it was already confirmed so I thought I had to do it… To be honest, I feel sorry for the singers

– ㅌㅅㅌThough it was nice to see, I felt bad seeing them going through so much trouble trying to convince the higher-ups during their debut… I felt so bad for them. Running around here ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Everyone's thinking the same thing, so I don't think anyone will figure out who said this at least… I am so pissed off, I'll just stop here. Never move to our company! (T1 Stars Entertainment)

Soon after, this comment was deleted after it was posted on the Hot article, but this time, the screenshot remained and was passed around.

Naturally, the fans who were waiting for the next album with excitement suddenly felt like being doused in cold water.

– What are they saying?

– Is this real?

It's legit, it's a site where you need to verify with your company mail.

Ah… I'm going crazy

Fans who were suddenly in pain rushed to watch the second episode of the reality show.

And they started to get a strange feeling from the second episode and its behind-the-scenes videos that looked like a heartwarming production journal filled with passion.

– On the reality show, did the higher-ups try to bring in something weird and the kids tried to convince them with a presentation?

– It seems the guy who brought it is the director. The man sitting in the middle. They were doing the presentation while looking at him.

– Looking at it, they left the title track Magical Boy to the kids while the company worked on the High-Five. But Raebin was involved in the High-Five's arrangement.

– It seemed they really persuaded the higher-ups for High-Five

Then, they reworked both songs from this point on? Less than a month left?

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋThe kids did two songs, including the concept, music video, and choreography, within a month? Are they out of their mind? Did they let the kids sleep?

When I thought it was just Magical Boy, I was mad, but now I was twice as madㅋㅋㅋAhㅋㅋㅋㅋ

The fans who were on fire soon had chills running down their spine due to worries about the future.

– The commenter said he's bringing in a weird concept this time too, but it's already confirmed.

– Ah, no way

– Sigh…

– Please give the kids plenty of time and let them do it.

Frightened fans called and e-mailed the company. The question was, 'There is a talk on the Internet that the concept of Testar's 2nd album, which just start being prepared recently, has already been decided. Is it true?'

At first, a consistent answer came back as if they had run an answering machine, but soon, the content and format became more polite in response to the quantity that poured out.

= = = =

– Give the company to Testa, that’d be better

Fans eventually started taking a bit more extreme action.

– Kwak Shinkyun is the director that came out on the reality show, right? I think you’ll get feedback if you go directly to that person.

And this choice produced tremendous results.

Chapter 100

When I woke up, my boss had disappeared.

'Is it a dream?'

It wasn't a dream.

The director, who had been fighting with fans for the past few days, had disappeared.

Of course, he didn't quit. He just went back to where he used to work.

As it turned out, it seemed that the director was slowly filling up his portfolio and looking for opportunities.

According to what I heard from the staff gossiping, he was originally planning to leave in a year.

In the meantime, there was a dispute with the fans, so he talked to the higher-ups using that as an excuse and quickly flew away.

And of course, the 'collaboration between Testar and the game' that was included in the director's portfolio…

It continued. He had already signed the contract.

*'F*ck.'*

However, I couldn't whine to the fans who were happy about sending the director away.

I accepted the reality and started getting ready to go out.

Today was Friday, the day when the meeting was scheduled.

* * *

“Hello, I’m a huge fan!”

“Hello!”

“Hello!”

The man and woman who I met at the meeting were surprisingly gentle.

It was to the point that I felt sorry for having anticipated the impression of scammers.

Besides, their side seemed a bit dazed, it seemed the talk of collaboration was a little out of the blue.

“That… Should I explain our game first?”

“Y-Yes!”

“We will listen.”

“Yes, then…”

What followed… It sounded quite unique and fun.

It was also unexpected.

‘Hoo.’

“…So, the main story of the game is the story of the main character exploring Seoul, which was destroyed by a mysterious material from a meteorite. It’s a roguelike adventure where you meet various forces in Seoul, and your comrades and abilities change depending on your choices.”

“It sounds really fun!”

“Ah, thank you!”

Kim Raebin was the first to applaud.

This… It was a sign that this would be fine.

Surprisingly, does this mean that what the director threw away might not be trash, but high-quality beef?

Besides, these people were quite friendly. It wasn’t just their words that were kind, but that meant we could use their goodwill.

“Actually, this collab… We also received it out of blue, so we didn’t have enough time to investigate, but when we checked the basics… The ‘Magical Boy’ that you made was really cool.”

“Ah, thank you. We also want to check the game soon. It sounds like a lot of fun.”

“Oh, then, hold on a second… Would you like to play?”

“Yes?”

“I’m fixing the bug, but it’s already possible to play! It should be fine.”

A smartphone device came out of the arms of the person sitting on the left. It was a large Android model.

The person ran the game screen by flicking the smartphone screen then he handed it to Ryu Chungwoo.

“Ah…”

“Me! I’ll do it!”

Ryu Chungwoo, who accepted it a little awkwardly, stiffened at Cha Eugene’s desperate request.

However, perhaps he thought it would be better to give it to someone who was good at it and would have fun, Ryu Chungwoo handed over the smartphone with a request.

“Play carefully.”

“Yeah!!”

Cha Eugene quickly took it and started the game with his eyes shining. The rest of the members started looking at the screen with curious expressions.

‘…I think they’re excited, too.’

Conscious of the two people watching Testar with youthhful eyes filled with excitement and tension, I also looked into the screen.

Perhaps because of the high degree of freedom and the mobile system, it was difficult to implement everything in detail, so the game progressed in alternating text, graphics, and illustrations.

However, it was very sophisticated and distinctive.

Besides, it was fun. The format of gathering comrades and clearing the story chapters was quite good.

‘This… This is going to work.’

It was a level of quality that made me understand why T1 took over.

‘…But where do you put idol’s promotions here?’

The mere thought of it made me speechless.

Anyway, Cha Eugene, who finished Chapter 1 in an instant, shouted excitedly.

“It’s so much fun!”

“Oh~”

“Thank you.”

The two struggled to get the smartphone back from Cha Eugene, who was regretful.

And the man said with a smile.

“How was it? Is there a part that you thought would be good for the collaboration?”

“…Mmm.”

“I think we’ll have to think about that from now on.”

“…Right? We’ll think about it, too.”

It was a situation that everyone expected, so there was nothing to be solemn about.

But anyway, the fact that the game wasn’t a failure was already a big harvest.

“Thank you~”

“See you next time.”

The first meeting ended with an ambiguous conversation saying ‘Let’s think about it each on our own’. However, the atmosphere was fine, perhaps because the outlook wasn’t bad in its own way.

“I think it would be nice to change the BGM of the game and use it as the title track.”

“…Wouldn’t that be a commercial, which means it wouldn’t be able to come out on the music show?”

“Ugh.

Kim Raebin, who was drawing a picture as if he had been inspired, was troubled by Lee Sejin's point.

And I was a little relieved.

'For now, the brand image won't be destroyed.'

Our grade might fall after being criticized for being unreasonable, but I didn't think it would become a joke enough to interfere with the next album.

'Now the question is, what kind of collaboration are we doing?'

We held a discussion regarding this topic as soon as we entered the dorm.

First, Ryu Chungwoo delivered the suggestions he had heard from the company staff.

"The exchange between recorded songs and the game's BGM would be the best… is the current opinion."

"Hmm, that's safe."

They said that since there is no one in charge to intervene, let's just do a collaboration like this and finish it in moderation.

'I can feel the sadness of office workers.'

However, Keun Sejin unexpectedly shook his head with a smile.

"Ei~ Then, we're the only ones working too hard, aren't we?"

"Huh…?"

"They're both music-related! I think we and the AR team will be the only ones who will suffer… Hm, I think we should have something to bring along with us, too~"

Right.

‘It’s not that there’s no loss, it’s that we’ve reached the point where we need to make profits.’

Certainly, if we proceeded this way, the work would increase and only the game company would eat up the profits.

This was because the games would receive publicity, but Testar wouldn’t gain recognition by collaborating with a game that hadn’t even been released yet.

‘…It’s rare for gamers to become fans of idols because of the BGM.’

“Then what is your opinion?”

“Let’s think about it from now on~ If we have to work anyway, I would like to get rewarded for it.”

“Mmm.”

And just as people were about to sink into their worries, Lee Sejin opened his mouth with a murmur.

“…Just leave it to the people at the company. Isn’t it strange that they’re asking us to decide what to collaborate with when we’re busy preparing for the album?”

“Hyung, then the workload…”

“That’s for the AR team to figure out. We just have to say we’re going to record.”

Lee Sejin cut it down.

“In the first place… This situation is weird. Why do rookies make and decide things like this? It’s not like the company doesn’t have money.”

“…”

It was so true that I just wanted to accept it.

Lee Sejin, who rarely talked a lot, was breathing hard. It must have been something that he had been thinking about for a while.

And Cha Eugene answered brightly.

“But I want to do something else! The BGM is not fun.”

“…”

Lee Sejin had enough and closed his eyes.

‘Geez.’

Still, seeing that he didn’t run away, he had gotten a lot better.

“Now~ then let’s do a majority vote? Those who want to come up with a new collaboration theme, hand!”

Surprisingly, everyone raised their hands except Lee Sejin and me.

‘You punks.’

It probably wasn’t because they were trying to make a profit like Keun Sejin, but for reasons like ‘I want to take on the challenge’, or ‘I want to do a great job’.

Meanwhile, Keun Sejin pretended to be surprised.

“Heol, Moondae, you don’t want to?”

“No, I hold it off. If you come up with a good opinion, proceed that way, or let’s just make BGM.”

“Yes, let’s proceed like that for now.”

Ryu Chungwoo changed the subject again.

“Now, then, what are the advantages that our group can gain from collaborating with the game?”

“…C-Can we appear in the game?”

“That?… is out of the question. The contract is already over.”

“Yes, neither of them seems applicable this time. The release is just around the corner, so there’s no way they can put us in.”

Um, that was correct.

Even if they had enough time, they wouldn’t want to add characters based on celebrities out of the blue as soon as the game they worked hard to create with their worldview was released.

‘…Wait.’

…This, can’t we think of this in reverse?

“How about this?”

“Hn?”

“Don’t ask them to add our characters, let’s pick and use their characters.”

“…??”

I pointed my finger at the smartphone.

“Why don’t we pick game characters that resemble us the most and pick a B-side[1] B-side is the song on the album that isn’t the title track. In Korea, it’s called sub-song. I thought long and hard about it and decide to go with the English equivalent. with them?”

“…!”

“Since it’s not the title track, it doesn’t matter if it can’t get on the music shows, and even if we just target tv cables and WeTube, they are big deals these days.”

Well-made game IP, it meant we just had to absorb it into our worldview.

* * *

“That… You’re asking for the list of characters?”

“Yes.”

“Uh…”

The people of the game company that we met again looked taken aback by the sudden proposal.

They exchanged glances and answered in a slightly reluctant voice.

“Um… We do have a character draw system to generate profits.”

“Yes.”

“That, the elements are all random…”

“…!!”

It meant the selected character was randomly created.

“But I saw an illustration.”

“That was chosen through cartoon rendering… Well, anyway, you can see that it was created randomly!”

“…”

I didn’t expect to get stuck here.

Then, Kim Raebin raised his hand.

"…So, the comrades that Cha Eugene used are not fixed and their names change every time?"

"Ah, those comrades… Well, at the beginning of the next chapter, they all die."

"…!!"

"We have to make the main character explore Seoul alone… Haha."

The people sitting in front of me laughed, saying that those comrades were the only fixed characters.

"I don't want them to die…"

Cha Eugene suddenly became depressed. It seemed he had grown attached.

And I realized.

'…? Then why don't we just use them?'

When I turned my head, everyone except Cha Eugene had that thought on their faces.

'…Coincidentally, there are seven of them.'

Because the party in this game consisted of 4 people, the number of people at the tutorial was set to 8, including the main character.

Ryu Chungwoo spoke carefully.

"…Can we use them?"

"Uh, yes?"

"Ah, so… The members are going to play those comrades' roles, make a song and create a stage."

"…"

'Maybe they don't like it.'

If they also received a call for collaboration all of a sudden, they could say that they didn't want us to be involved this much.

'Then calmly talk about the BGM… '

"Heol!"

"…?"

"I love it!"

"…!!"

"If we have time and budget, we want to do a project like that!"

Following the excited woman, the man shouted with both his fists clenched.

"Our kids are coming out in 3D…!"

"…"

Unexpectedly, the collaboration seemed to go smoothly.

- 1. B-side is the song on the album that isn't the title track. In Korea, it's called sub-song. I thought long and hard about it and decide to go with the English equivalent.

Chapter 101

It was Sunday, September 23.

Testar's fans, Loviewers, were saddened by the dried-up content.

Of course, Testar regularly left news on SNS and they steadily delivered news related to advertisements and events every few days.

However, fans couldn't forget the taste of the debut activity that poured like a waterfall.

– No other news from the kids…?

– The director was kicked out too, I hope they can do a celebration party on W app for about a week

– We have a conscience, too. We don't already want a comeback. Guys, but how can we not get WeTube's own variety show…? ㅎ

– It feels like only eating barley rice and soy sauce after having a banquet feast every dayㅠㅠ

Fans who were so conflicted between conscience and desire were expecting to fall asleep in agony on the coming Monday.

That is, until the video came up.

– Uh, something just came up on the official account. It's WeTube??? (link)

[Testar(TeSTAR) "Bonus book" Comeback Trailer (with 127 Section)]

-???

– Comeback trailer?

– All of a sudden?

– I almost had a cardiac arrest.

People screamed and freaked out, but they clicked on the video right away.

The thumbnail was a left eye looking through a scope. It was unknown whether it was a lens or a CG, but it was shining with a rather eerie purple light.

And soon the video started playing.

[…]

What appeared was a long black leg. The outstretched feet, clad in sleek leather pants, strode to somewhere.

The camera followed each footstep, moving at a high speed into a destroyed hallway marked with plasterboards and cloth.

And the camera went all the way up from the bridge, and in an instant, it showed a left hand wearing a black finger suit. In the process, a face profile was zoomed in together.

It was Cha Eugene with his red hair down.

And in Cha Eugene's hands… There was a worn-out red stuffed toy.

[♫♪♪-]

Whistling a familiar melody, Cha Eugene turned over the stuffed doll.

There was a cogwheel behind the doll's back. His right hand grabbed the cog without hesitation and started turning it.

Click click.

The sound of the gears turning was loud, and soon a strange sound began to mix.

Pi Pi Pi Pipipipipi

PPi-.

Clang.

With a popping sound, the screen turned black. A narration echoed.

[WHAT makes people live?]

[…A CHOICE]

When the screen lip up again, the background changed.

It was a half-destroyed playground. The sand had hardened, and the goalpost had already been torn down. The moment a strange pattern was caught in the middle of it in an aerial shot.

A very heavy beat started ringing.

DOOOM DOOOM DOOOM DOOOM

Then a brilliant string orchestra began to play out. It was an accompaniment of an urgent construction.

On top of that, an intense synth of electric sound began to play a riff melody like thunder.

– I”m gonna survive.

Like you did before

I”m gonna grab it.

Just like I dreamed

It was a high-pitched intro.

At that moment, the bottom of the goalpost on the screen exploded. And Cha Eugene came out from under it.

– Ashes to ashes, dust to dust

But NOT for me I'm not.

I'm alive, right, like

Legends never die

Shaking off the dust and sand from his hair, Cha Eugene excitedly kicked the goalpost and ran across the playground toward the front gate.

The moment he opened the front gate covered with dark red ivy and strode through it, the scene changed.

– All crossroads are the crossroads of choice

But wherever you go, find it the most certain equation.

You will never die

Lee Sejin, the former actor, peered into a monitor in a blue laboratory full of samples.

Unlike his delicate impression with glasses on, there were green and dark red marks attached to the coat he was wearing.

Watching Cha Eugene run out of the front gate on the monitor, Lee Sejin got up from his seat.

And as he walked in front of the barbed wire fence that blocked the lab door, he stopped and read a warning sign.

It was a biohazard sign.

At that moment, the scene was changed to a hand that tore off a similar sign in another place.

– That”s what keeps me alive

I’m going after you violently

Steps to complete life

If I reach out, I can hold it

Holding the torn paper in one hand was Keun Sejin in a neat modern attire. He stood on an old podium as if giving a speech.

And the moment he threw the paper he was holding onto an old iron fence.

Thud.

The crumpled paper bounced off the iron fence helplessly, but the people standing under the podium rushed to the iron fence.

Keun Sejin shrugged, picked a baseball cap that was hanging on one side, and put it on his head. And he leisurely disappeared from the podium.

At that moment, the camera soared into the sky.

– I’m gonna survive.

Like you did before

I”m gonna grab it.

Just like I dreamed!

A sniper armed with modern weaponry from head to toe was aiming at something strange over a scope from a rooftop.

A blue light was fired from the sniper's gun.

The moment the light hit a pounding red lump, the lump burst and exploded.

The camera panned around and it showed the sniper throwing his gun and getting up. It was Ryu Chungwoo.

As soon as Ryu Chungwoo's gun fell down the rooftop, it melted red and soaked into the asphalt, disappearing without a trace.

And the camera fell down below the asphalt.

– I will never die

Like I did before

I"m gonna keep you

Alive- Alive- Alive!

Mannequins and all sorts of weapons were piled up half-destroyed in a huge sewer filled with still water.

Kim Raebin lay down quietly at the top. A ray of sunlight fell on him, but at the same time, water dripped down and wet his black hair and face.

At that moment, Kim Raebin raised his eyelids.

And he rolled his eyes sideways.

The camera moved to follow that somewhat eerie gaze.

Tap.

The cut continued with the busy footsteps of people moving through the sewer.

Instead of being dropped, the song became more melodic. A soft voice followed.

– Choose your way

Choose your side

Make your way

Decide your fate

The camera focused on an object similar to a giant water tank being carried by people.

The water tank shook, then the top opened and white arms popped out.

It was Seon Ahyeon, pulling his body out of it.

A strangely glowing stream of water spilled out of the tank through the shaking camera.

The feast of water droplets shining behind Seon Ahyeon stopped like a halo.

At that moment, the camera came out of the sewer along with flying drops of water.

And illuminated a broken window of a skyscraper.

– Choose your way

Choose your side

Make your way

Decide your fate…

Standing behind the window was a boy staring into his smartphone.

The song died down.

[…]

The boy in a black hood stared out the window with his back facing the camera. What he had in his hand was an old smartphone.

Even in the middle of the night, the city was filled with shimmering lights. The boy's figure was dimmed by the backlight.

The moment his upper body was gradually zoomed in.

The boy turned around and stared at the camera.

It was Park Moondae's face.

The camera swerved away as if surprised. Then in the blink of an eye, drones were seen floating around the boy.

The drones with shimmering luminous lights shot at the camera.

.

Park Moondae looked at the camera with eyes that shimmered in a strange purple light, then threw his smartphone out the window.

And when Park Moondae approached the camera, the screen turned off.

Snap.

Captions showed up.

[Choose Your Side]

[127 Section]

[Coming Soon]

The video ended just like that.

– ????

– !?!?

And the fans were left with question marks and exclamation marks.

* * *

The trailer was a short video of 2 minutes and 42 seconds, and only one verse of the song was cut out.

However, due to the overflowing visual beauty, meaning, and elements connected to the previous album, all kinds of SNS fan accounts and communities forgot about Monday and started talking about the video right away.

– ㅠㅠNo, launching a trailer without warning, is this a way to surprise a new fan like me, seriously ㅠㅠ Thank you. Please make it into law.

– It”s good that we got rid of the director. They”re doing well without him.

– Doesn’t this sound like a pre-release song? It”s a shame that there”s no choreography, but having a choreography scene would relieve this tension, so this is perfect

– That’s right, it”s not really a one-take, but I like the way it”s edited

– But why is the song called bonus book ㅋㅋㅋ I still don’t know. That mean it”s a bonus book or is it just a video title?

Of course, the news came up right away from the general entertainment community.

＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝

[TeSTAR comeback trailer]

: Even the fans don’t know, so they’re in a state of confusion.

＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝

– Wow, the smell of money.

– It’s like a movie trailer.

– But there’s no choreography and the song doesn’t seem idol-like┬

– T1 must be investing a lot of money. Lee Sejin is lucky, he went in and had it easy

Hmm, I think the video quality improved because he came out as an actor this time

└ㅋㅋHe only came out for 20 seconds, can you judge his acting skill from that?

Aigoo, I’m sorry that the stock you were pushing for at Idol Inc was eliminated, who was it?

– It seems to get eaten by the world view… It’s too nerdy

– Seriously, it”s awesome

There were many people who strongly shouted their dislikes, but the comments and views didn”t lie.

And of course, the caption at the end of the video was immediately analyzed and concluded.

= = = =

with interest.

Fans went back and forth between worry and expectation, but the next day, the album reservation notice popped up and they decided to wait and see.

– Seeing that money was put in the video, it's not just some discards. The song is good, and the worldview seems to connect with the last album, so I dig in – I don't think this is the title track. I think it's just a collaboration with the game company. I'm satisfied with this quality trailer!

– I like that the three beats of the song, video, and visual match perfectly, I'm looking forward to the title track ㅠㅠ

However, there were some that were not done yet.

[Hey, have you guys seen this?]

It was the gaming community.

Chapter 102

The game developer who made a collab with Testar had gained recognition by releasing several games with strong fanbases even before being acquired by T1.

Thanks to this, there were small game communities involved.

= =

What do you think about the 127 section in the caption of the idol music video?

(Testar comeback trailer video)

= =

– Hmm this… seems to be true

– I saw it. Seoul background, red curse, biohazard, water tank. Isn't it already confirmed?

– No, there's an idol commercial for a game production company like this? (confused emoticon)

– It's the sweet taste of being taken over by a large company.

– Something… Something is happening.

– Ah, I'm glad it's not girl idols. It stops maniacs from flowing in

Instead, we're stuck with fangirls

It doesn't matter who it is as long as they spend a lot of money, I'm worried these bastards will shut down the server again.

□Ah ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅇㅈ

I couldn't find words like, 'Why do you make something like this with an idol group and smear your image?'

First of all, it was because the video was so cinematic that it brought out the atmosphere of the previously released game background, and the second was… This was because they weren't in a position to make a fuss about such things.

'Abandoned Factory', the producer of <127 Section>, had gained quite a bit of recognition over the past few years for making high-quality games, but it had always lacked management due to its inability to develop charging models properly.

Thanks to this, they just wanted to prevent an early server shutdown.

– Is this a part of the company's investment that I can look forward to?

– Wow! Section 127 will become a national God-game!

– So when is the game coming out… Why didn't the release date come out when you already put out the trailer! (hitting the table emoticon)

□What do you expect from a small store ㅎ?

And after Testar's comeback was sufficiently publicized through articles, the game company announced the release date a little later.

[<127 Section>, a new game from 'Abandoned Factory', will be released in partnership with National Stock Testar]

[Testar's comeback trailer is a collaboration video… <127 Section> coming soon]

– Hurray!

– Wow, their popularity is rising!

– Testar? They're Abandoned Factory's kids.

– Uh-huh Testar is what they call Godstar

As the game enthusiasts were swelling up in anticipation, Testar's fans began to feel uneasy.

– Is this album really for a game commercial?

– Don't tell me you're working on what the director did…?

– No, tell me in detail what and how you collaborated. It's really annoying to put it all together ㅋㅋㅋ

– Do I have to beat up the agency again? ㅠㅠ

……

Fortunately, at the point when fans' anxiety couldn't grow any further, new information was released.

[Testar(TeSTAR) Concept Photo 'Side A']

It was Testar's album concept photo.

And the atmosphere of these photos… It was so refreshing.

There were scenes such as lying in the forest in a white T-shirt, lying on the bed with headphones on, and looking at the natural scenery outside the window.

And they were all barefoot.

Overall, it was a refreshing and nostalgic scene like a summer day in adolescence.

– No, it's crazy.

– Uwaaa It's refreshing!

– Ahyeon is barefoot…! Barefoot!

– Did you see the cut of Moondae biting apple? Did you?!

– I think I'm going to pass out

– Sigh ㅠㅠㅠ The more I see you guys, the more handsome you get…

Fans were able to edit the photos with peace of mind because of the completely different feeling from the comeback trailer and the previously disclosed information of <127 Section>.

* * *

"Moondae! The response is great!"

"I'm watching it now."

"Haha!"

Keun Sejin laughed and I heard the sound of him crossing the hallway. It seemed he was trying to talk to the other room as well.

I looked at the comments on my smartphone screen. Everyone knew that game collaboration was only a part of the album and naturally moved on.

'It seems it was correct to solve them in this order.'

If the fact that it was a game collaboration was revealed late, they might feel betrayed or rejected, and if we strike first, their attention could be sucked into the game.

'So we approach step by step.'

It was important to build it up without creating a sense of repulsion, and at the same time to blend in with the game in moderation.

‘We can’t get too involved.’

It was better to treat the game collaboration as a side story that made the worldview more enjoyable.

As I was enjoying a sense of satisfaction, a pop-up appeared on the screen of my smartphone.

[VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim: Are you releasing an album?]

“…”

This… Without a doubt, it was a question with a purpose.

Still, it was something I couldn’t ignore, so I replied.

[Yes. We’re making a comeback at the end of this month.]

[VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim: I see. Then we still have some time.]

Then came an unwelcome suggestion.

[VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim: There’s a song I made, do you want to use it as a b-side song?]

Are you crazy?

[It’s really fine. I can’t cause such trouble to sunbae-nim, and the album has already been organically completed. Thank you very much for your suggestion.]

[VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim: It’s because there’s some story I want to hear. I give it to you because I want to receive something from it, don’t worry. You don’t have to use it on this album^^]

“…”

[Perhaps, is it about the future?]

I said it in a roundabout way in case there were people who peeked at my text history, but it meant he wanted to hear the information about the future.

[VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim: Yes.]

[As I said, I don't have much experience, so I don't have much to tell you.]

[VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim: I'll decide after hearing it.^^]

"…"

Ah, I didn't want to see this bastard again.

'I can't cut him off.'

Then I would have to dig up some information.

[Then, I'd like to hear sunbae-nim's stories rather than receiving songs.]

Unlike right before, when the reply came in an instant, it took some time for the reply to come back.

[VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim: Sure.]

* * *

I was busy preparing the album, so I wanted to postpone meeting this guy until after the activity, but I couldn't.

– At that time, I'll be going abroad for a concert tour.

Thanks to this, I rented a recording studio in the middle of the night after practice.

'Damn it.'

For now, I told the company that I would try to work with him, but I didn't know how that would turn out.

'Although it's not for work anyway.'

Anyway, it was a few minutes later when Cheongryeo arrived.

"Hello. How have you been?"

"Yes, I've been doing well."

"It seems so. The trailer was good… Ah."

Cheongryeo hung a thin coat on the hanger next to the door and turned around expressionlessly.

"Did you already know that game? That it's going to be an unprecedented hit when it is released? So you made that collab?"

"…We did it because the company asked us to."

"Ah, I see."

Cheongryeo smiled and sat down on a chair in the recording studio. Then he took a small object out of his pocket.

It was a USB.

"Then, would you like to listen to the song first?"

This bastard really didn't listen to people.

"…I am fine with not getting a song."

"Since we're meeting in a recording studio, just listen to it."

Cheongryeo operated the machine in front of the booth, and soon the song started playing.

"…!"

"It's good, right?"

It was a tropical house song that stuck in my ears.

That made him even more suspicious.

'I don't think he's the kind of person who would give this to someone else.'

"Why do you give it to me instead of using it yourself?"

"Hm, I don't like this type of music."

"…Then, how about the juniors from the same company?"

"…"

"Or you can give it to a member of the same team. As a unit activity."

"…Hm."

Cheongryeo turned off the song. And locked his jaw.

"As expected, you're smart… Uselessly so."

"…!!"

"Actually, I didn't make this."

Cheongryeo took out the USB and threw it into the trash can.

"Two years ago, a promising new composer gave it to T-Holic and it was quite a hit… It's a song that they should've done. I intercepted."

What?

"Ah, I have no sympathy for the composer. This person was sued for plagiarism after this song, but ended up escaping overseas…"

"…"

Cheongryeo smiled awkwardly.

"Well, that was before I came back. He's doing well now. Because I paid for the song."

"…"

"But I can't give a song to a person in our company. I don't know if it's going to be a plagiarized song again."

"…But you're going to give it to me?"

Cheongryeo smiled.

"Of course, I was going to explain the situation. If I explain it like this, Moondae-ssi will never accept a song from this person again. Isn't that right?"

"…"

If I hadn't noticed, he was just going to screw with me like this.

"I think you said before that I noticed because I was uselessly smart."

"I said that because the fun of explaining it is gone."

He was skillfully evading it.

Cheongryeo continued with a serious look.

"I want to manage these risks well. I don't want huge amounts of information… The big flow. Just tell me what you remember about the trends and events. Then I'll answer as much as I know."

"…"

I was just studying.

All I remembered was the incidents that frequently appeared on the 9:00 news or the main portal.

But what this guy wanted to know was not the name of the typhoon that would appear summer next year.

"…Do you remember that I was a civil servant examinee?"

"I think you were familiar with the community enough to participate in Idol Inc and win first place."

There was a misunderstanding here. I answered brazenly.

"It's just hard work and talent."

He looked like the type that would go crazy if I brought up the status window. Let's not say anything.

"…You took care of the cut as if you knew it too well for that matter."

Even if I sold data as soon as I dropped out of high school, I didn't think it would work… Um.

Let's give the closest and most copious examples.

"I knew roughly about it because I dug up idols before the announcement began."

"…"

Cheongryeo seemed to be speechless for a moment.

"…Huft."

And he finally let out a sigh.

“You were an idol fan.”

“Yes.”

“…Who were you fans of?”

“MallangDalkom.”

“…”

Cheongryeo sighed again. And he answered in a slightly softer voice.

“…First of all, tell me everything you remember. I’ll answer you too.”

It was a declaration of surrender. I nodded.

“Yes, I’ll do that. Um… Ah, Maximite Biton’s drunk driving will explode early next year…”

“That’s just how he is. Next.”

“Hmm… Muddy-ssi is releasing a carol at the end of this year, and I kept listening to it at restaurants… I think it probably will do well on the music charts.”

“…I see. Next.”

After repeating this three times, Cheongryeo asked grimly.

“…Don’t you know the beat that’s going to be popular next year?”

“If I knew, I would have written it already.”

“…!”

In the end, Cheongryeo admitted that I had no particular information.

“It doesn’t sound like you’re lying… Really.”

“Should I at least tell you the competition rate for next year’s public announcement?”

“…Never mind.”

“Hmm.”

Now it was my turn to ask a question.

“Do you have any idea why this happened? Or an incident.”

“I want to know that, too.”

Cheongryeo frowned.

“One thing’s for sure, once you’ve done the task, you won’t have to worry about sudden death anymore… Besides, the knowledge of the future still remains, so those years have been very useful…”

The nuance of the word ‘useful’ in the context was very subtle.

“…Did you steal a song?”

“Ha ha, why do you ask such an obvious question? It’s not like they compose the music themselves, isn’t it a matter of who gets it from the composer first?”

Cheongryeo smiled brightly.

“It’s too bad it ended last year.”

“…!”

From those words, I realized.

‘This bastard turned back time last year.’

And he went back to before his debut.

That meant… given VTIC's annual leave, it had been running for at least seven years.

Then there were at least eight status abnormalities. If he tried to avoid it without knowing anything, how many times did he fail…

'…No wonder you lost your mind.'

I decided to keep my distance from him in the future.

Chapter 103

I returned to the dorm after the fruitless meeting with Cheongryeo.

It was already 3 am. Of course, everyone was sleeping.

'…I have to get out of bed at 8 tomorrow.'

I had to go to bed right away. I lowered the sound of my footsteps and hurried to my room.

And I was surprised.

"…!"

"Hu…"

It was because Lee Sejin was cooped up in his bed, staring at his smartphone and crying.

Light leaked from the phone screen and showed Lee Sejin's crying face.

'…Are you watching Netfler?'

I was very embarrassed.

"…"

I deliberately made a slight sound of footsteps and crossed the room. It was to give him time to patch things up.

'I'll wash up first and change my clothes.'

And after taking a shower in the bathroom, Lee Sejin was invisible with the blanket pulled over his head.

That side was embarrassed, too.

'…Now, then.'

I lay down on the bed. I didn't have to wear earplugs at this late hour.

However, it wasn't long before I regretted not wearing it.

"…Sniff."

It was because the sound of crying from next to me echoed dully.

No matter how you heard it, it was the sound of crying with one's face buried in the pillow under the blanket.

'I'm going crazy.'

I seriously contemplated lying back with earplugs on, but eventually, I got up and approached the bed next to me.

And I tapped on the blanket.

"Hyung, is something wrong?"

"…!!"

The blanket rattled and a cough resounded.

'Tears, runny nose, and even saliva came out… '

I waited with my arms crossed because even if it wasn't seen by others, it didn't show what it was like.

"…You didn't wear earplugs?"

"I didn't know I would need to wear it at this early hour."

There was a sound of tossing and turning again. And Lee Sejin's voice sounded calmer, closer to normal.

"…Now, it's not a big deal."

"…"

It meant there was something going on.

At that moment, a faint warning sound rang in my head.

"…Hyung, don't tell me, is it a drug problem?"

"Are you crazy?"

Hm, so it wasn't that.

Frightened, I confirmed with Lee Sejin, who had come out of the blanket, and went back to bed.

Even though it was dark, I could see Lee Sejin's face turning red.

"Do I look like a junkie?"

"Nope… I just met Cheongryeo sunbae-nim today, and I heard a story about someone who went on drugs. I asked because I suddenly remembered."

"…"

Lee Sejin must have recalled some specific examples, he looked uncomfortable.

"…It's best not to get involved in anything like that. It's better if you don't create lines at all for the weirdos."

"I understand."

I shrugged my shoulders and covered myself with the blanket.

'It's become ambiguous to ask more.'

Lee Sejin seemed to be trying to grow in his own way, so he would tell if a big problem occurred.

But let's say this just in case.

"Hyung."

"What is it?"

"If you're having a hard time, just say it."

"…Yes."

"To Chungwoo hyung."

"…Hey!"

I waved and lay flat.

And I fell asleep in an instant.

* * *

As the comeback approached, my fatigue started to increase due to practicing and scheduling at the same time.

"Still, it's better than the debut album."

"I think so too."

Compared to the time when we were preparing for the double title album within a month like a fairy, this was still acceptable within the group.

Certainly. I had at least enough time to sleep, so it was helpful.

‘I also have time to monitor.’

I checked the current flow with my smartphone.

Um, until a few days ago, fans were starting to compare concept photos and album specifications that were recently released.

– Crazy, the album came out in two formats, Side A and B, so the name of the album is Choose Your Side? The geeks are crying over these details

– I push A for refreshing and B for dreamy.

What about the trailer?

Isn’t that just an intro song?

I think it’s Side B

– No, Magical Boy props definitely appeared in the trailerㅠㅠ It’s hard to say it’s just a game advertisement, but the game hasn’t been released yet, so I can’t even compare it…!

Hello, sir. Abandoned Factory has only released god games so far. Please try it when it’s released…!

Ah, yes, I understand.

And today, the second concept photo was released.

[Testar(TeSTAR) Concept Photo ‘Side B’]

It was the pictures of Testar wearing a classic winter uniform.

There was a connection with the last album, but the atmosphere was clearly different.

It was because the classroom in the background wasn't worn out or broken, but instead, it was covered with graffiti that shone with fluorescent light.

In addition, the material of the classroom wall that was seen over the graffiti was not the usual ivory color, but the rusty chromium structure.

Some members were carrying gas masks or unique mechanical equipment. The equipment also glowed like a neon sign.

It was obviously a pseudo-punk with a dystopian feel.

– Uwaaa

– Crazy, cyberpunk

– I love it.

– Looks like they didn't pack winter uniforms in the last album… Our kids learned too much. Loviewers are almost hanging by a thread

– ㅠㅠㅠChungwoo finally dyed his hair, guys. Although it's close to black hair… But it's still blue. I'm so happy. Everyone, be happy.

– I only thought about Dream 2, but I broke my head…

– I really like both concept photos, I hope the album comes out soonㅠㅠ

Without having to manage public opinion, the fans were happy

'It seems my worries about the game are almost gone.'

In fact, this concept photo had quite a lot of similarities with the trailer, but maybe because I felt good, a lot of my foreboding seemed to have disappeared.

And the overall response was good in most Internet communities, not just in places where only fans gathered.

= =

[Testar Choose Your Side Concept Photo]

: Side A (photo)

Side B (photo)

The current opinion is that they are generally well-chosen

= =

– Oh so handsome

– Seon Ahyeon gets more handsome every time I see him

– Their concept is always excessive, but it feels like they're pushing it with money.

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋPerfect description

I'm a fan of 2D, that's why I started watching them

– Kim Raebin is really good in the second concept. It stands out because he looks more decadent than looking like a bully.

– I'm looking forward to the music video. When it comes up, put it up here, too!

Some people tried to change public opinion somehow but to no avail.

– Whatever… Where did you pick it well?ㅋㅋ

– Hn, public opinion is fine wherever I go. Everyone says they did well here, too

Maybe it's because the fans came ㅠㅠ

If all these numbers are fans, aren't they public opinion? ㅋㅋㅋ

It mostly ended like this.

'It's too bad.'

I smiled and left the article.

"M-Moondae… You're watching the internet?"

"Yeah, I checked the response to the newly released concept photo."

"I-I see."

Seon Ahyeon didn't bother to ask what the public opinion was like.

I heard that he was training himself not to care too much about 'what other people think of me'.

Seon Ahyeon's face was bright these days, perhaps the new doctor was a good fit.

'Didn't you say you would start correcting your pronunciation in earnest after this activity?'

Mm, I hoped it worked out.

"I-It was really hot when we took our pictures."

As soon as Seon Ahyeon said that, shouts of agreement erupted here and there.

"That's right!"

"Because of the abnormal temperature and the heat wave in early autumn, the air conditioning on the set was extremely insufficient!"

"…"

Thank you for speaking up for me.

"Still, Sejin's complexion didn't change when taking pictures. Amazing."

"A great actor!"

"I agree."

Lee Sejin, who was suddenly praised, almost spewed out the water he was drinking, but soon answered quietly.

"…Thank you."

"I just said you did a good job."

Ryu Chungwoo smiled and resumed stretching.

The scene of reviving Lee Sejin's spirit when he couldn't keep up with the pace of learning new choreography was now quite familiar.

'Well, it's not just some empty talk.'

Once content that required acting was included, Lee Sejin's skills were overwhelming.

Next to him, Keun Sejin grumbled playfully.

"Hey, that's too much~ Let's not forget that Sejin is here too, guys. I took a good picture too~!"

"Haha!"

"Wow, hyung, you're so cool."

"Eugene, you have no spirit."

“I can’t lie. Oops!”

Keun Sejin lightly put a headlock on Cha Eugene and let him go with a laugh. Lee Sejin turned his head.

‘Those two are still at odds.’

It didn’t seem like they were going to fight, it was just… It felt like they didn’t want to be together because they didn’t like each other.

“Then, let’s start practicing again~”

“Yes!”

After a short break, the choreography continued.

“Look at your feet closely~”

“This way~”

The members, whose advice from the choreographer stuck to their lips, mimicked his voice and danced to the chorus. It was a spectacle where everyone couldn’t hold back their laughter and the corners of their lips kept rising.

However, Lee Sejin still seemed to be having a hard time following. He was looking at the mirror with his mouth closed.

‘It’s understandable.’

His dance was still D+.

It would be difficult for a person who wasn’t very talented in dancing to surpass it in a short period of time because going beyond one alphabetical stage was a level where some of your classifications would change.

‘I think he can surpass it soon if he keeps going like this.’

I checked Lee Sejin's stats window.

[Name: Lee Sejin]

Vocal: C- (B+)

Dance: D+ (B)

Visual: A+ (S)

Talent: A (S-)

Characteristic: Focus (B)

!Status abnormality:

His vocal was already at C. Originally, it was higher than the dance, so I thought it was upgraded at a relatively quick speed.

Besides, Lee Sejin's dance potential stat was 'B', so if he kept going until C, it would go up.

'On top of that, that characteristic.'

It was pretty good.

[Focus (B)]

: I want to make it happen

– Concentration +100%

It had a simple name and description, but it seemed quite versatile. I'd probably keep it if it appeared to me.

'Come to think of it, I need to organize my status window.'

I brought out my status window.

[Name: Park Moondae (Ryu Gunwoo)]

Level: 15

Title: None

Vocal: A

Dance: B-

Visual: B+

Talent: B

Characteristics: Infinite potential, I heard it's true (C), Bacchus 500 (B), Snatching ears (A)

!Status abnormality: Win an award or die

The remaining points: 3]

It was a splendid feat brought about by achieving stage achievements up to the 100th and practice achievements up to the 5000th.

I received additional stats by updating the pop-up that appeared when I put on a good performance a couple more times.

In the process, I also received a characteristic draw…

[Characteristic: Faucet under the eyes (B)]

Turning on and off with ease!

: Tear control ability MAX.

I threw it away immediately. Damn it.

Anyway, even without this, I received a lot.

'…The debut activity was tough.'

It seemed my reward for not being able to sleep came out here. But this wasn't the most surprising thing either.

…What surprised me most was that talent stats increased naturally.

……I speculated that W Live, fan signing events, etc. had an impact.

Of course, other than me and Lee Sejin, most of the members naturally increased their stats, but first of all…

"Moondae, stop thinking about something else~!"

"…"

I immediately stopped thinking when I heard Keun Sejin call my name.

'Let's focus on practice first.'

And after a while, the last accompaniment ended.

Keun Sejin wiped off his sweat and asked out of courtesy.

"Huft, shall we play it again from the beginning?"

"Let's do that."

"Yes!"

Keun Sejin raised the A- dance stat to A, and his speed of picking up the choreography given by the choreographer became much faster.

'I envy you.'

The moment I thought about putting all the remaining points into the dance.

Lee Sejin fell to the floor during the choreography's intro that started playing again.

"…Gasp!"

"Are you okay?"

"…I am fine."

Lee Sejin tried to stand up but he hesitated.

Then he lay down, grabbed his ankle, and bit his mouth.

…I had a bad feeling.

Chapter 104

“Hyung, are you okay?”

“Sejin, let’s see your ankle.”

“…”

Lee Sejin looked at his ankle with a pale face, and eventually clenched his teeth and pulled his pants to check its condition.

His ankle was swollen.

‘…This isn’t good.’

The injury was confirmed.

“…!”

“I-It’s all right! I-It’s a little swollen, but… I-If you go straight to the hospital…”

Seon Ahyeon looked at the ankle and shouted urgently. As a dance major, he seemed to have some knowledge of ankle injuries.

“Yes, Sejin, sit down for now. Let’s call our manager and go to the emergency room right away.”

“…Yes.”

Lee Sejin sat down in a chair in the corner of the dance room with Ryu Chungwoo’s stable support.

And shortly afterward, he left for the hospital with the manager who had been contacted.

“G-Go together…”

“No!!… You can’t delay the practice because of me. I’ll be back.”

Lee Sejin strongly refused to be accompanied and left the dance practice room with the help of the two managers.

“I hope it’s not a big deal.”

“I hope so too.”

“I-It’s not that swollen… I-It will be fine.”

Since it was just a fall, everyone resumed practice again, thinking that it wouldn’t be a major injury.

However, it was only after the dance practice was over that Lee Sejin returned.

Besides, he wasn’t alone.

“Ah~ Is this our Sejin’s dorm? It’s nice!”

“…”

“Yeah? I’ll come often.”

“…Because of my schedule, I’m rarely at the dorm.”

“Is that so~? Then this dad can come in and take care of it. You don’t have to refuse.”

“…It’s fine.”

Lee Sejin was being supported by a middle-aged man, but looking at the man’s face, it seemed he was his father.

However, the conversation smelled like a convenience store part-timer and drunken Karen.

(TL note: I feel the need to explain. The real word used here is Korean slang for a rude customer. I figured I should use the English equivalent to fit the context more.)

'…?'

"Ah, our Sejin's friends~ I am Sejin's dad!"

"Ah, sir. Hello."

"Hello!"

"What do you mean with sir~ When I go out with Sejin, people think I'm his eldest brother."

"Haha, you look young."

Keun Sejin cut him off while receiving the conversation.

Then Ryu Chungwoo continued with a smile.

"Thank you for taking Sejin home. We have to film the dorm now…"

"Ah, I'll sit there quietly! Keep filming~"

"…"

Ryu Chungwoo looked a little at loss.

I checked Lee Sejin's expression.

It wasn't embarrassment or bashfulness for introducing rude parents, but more like fatigue and shame that appeared and disappeared quickly.

'…It seems he's really a Karen?'

Keun Sejin waved his hand to Lee Sejin's father.

"Ei~ Sejin's father, we'll have to formally invite you next time. Is it okay to treat a member's parents like this? We will prepare and get back to you!"

"You don't have to do that~ I'll be gone after a while. It's because I'm having a hard time supporting him."

In other words, there was only one way to get rid of him.

I hurriedly went into my room and returned with something.

"Sejin's father, you must have worked hard, so come in and eat comfortably."

It was a red ginseng set that I received as a holiday gift from the company.

"…! Aigoo~ I'm not the kind of person who accepts things like this. Hmm? I didn't mean to ask for something like this."

The middle-aged man quickly took the red ginseng while saying obvious things. I nodded obediently.

"Of course. You want to see the dorm where your son is staying. I am glad and sorry that you can't do that due to our schedule."

"Okay~ Hn? You're the friend who won first place, right? The friend Sejin picked. Yeah, very reliable. Sejin, hurry up and say thank you."

"…"

"Oh, it's time for our manager to come because of our filming. Get home safe."

"…Mm, yes, I'm off~ I'll be back soon."

Lee Sejin's father glanced at Lee Sejin, then slowly opened the door and left.

"…"

Lee Sejin lowered his head.

"That, y-you have to sit down…"

When Seon Ahyeon approached, Lee Sejin reflexively waved his hand and swung it away.

"…!"

Fortunately, Seon Ahyeon avoided his hand. And Lee Sejin was horrified.

"I… I'm sorry!!!"

"I-It's all right!"

What a mess.

In any case, Lee Sejin glanced at his room and looked as though he wanted to want to run away, but instead of running away, as if recalling past experiences, he went to the sofa in the living room and sat down.

'…It could be that it's just difficult getting to his room because of his legs.'

Because he was wearing a half-cast.

Anyway, thanks to that, an atmosphere to talk was created.

"…Is that your father?"

"…Yeah."

In the heavy atmosphere, Kim Raebin carefully raised his hand.

“Then, where did the manager hyung go and your parents come from?”

“…There was a problem, and it seemed the manager contacted him on the way in a hurry.”

Originally, the manager would rather have contacted someone from another company, but it seemed he contacted the parents because the second manager who came in later was a newcomer.

And in the slightly heavy atmosphere, Cha Eugene asked the most important thing.

“Is your ankle okay?”

“-! T-That’s right, ankle!”

“How long do you think it will take to recover?”

“…It wasn’t a big deal. I just have to be careful for a few weeks.”

“Hmm, they fixed it a little too well for that.”

“I overdid it on purpose… because I want to get better soon.”

A few members raised their thumbs.

Mostly the minors.

“Hyung…”

“So cool!”

Only then did Lee Sejin’s expression loosen.

And, as if a little embarrassed, he spoke with a faint smile.

“…I’ll make sure I don’t bother the group.”

“Ei~”

Lee Sejin’s smile darkened slightly.

“……I won’t let Father come either. Don’t worry.”

“…”

It was so ambiguous.

‘That’s what family affairs are like.’

It wasn’t the kind of thing to ask for it in a group situation like this.

“…? Wouldn’t it be fine if he comes?”

…I forgot that Kim Raebin was here. It seemed he didn’t notice the strange atmosphere that had flowed earlier.

At Raebin Kim’s question, Lee Sejin became embarrassed and began to stutter like a sea cucumber spitting out its intestines.

“That… This dorm is spacious, he might insist on staying here.”

“Then tell the company and get permission…”

“…Don’t! He has bad hand habits… Anyway, he’s not a good person to be with.”

Lee Sejin looked like he didn’t even know why he was talking about this.

And he quickly finished talking.

“…Anyway, I won’t let him come, so you don’t have to worry about it. T-That’s it.”

Then he quickly got up from the sofa and waddled into the room.

The remaining members in the living room looked back at each other blankly.

"…"

"Hmm, well… His ankle seems to be okay, shall we go to bed now?"

"Let's do that for now."

Idling around, everyone got up from their seats at Keun Sejin's arrangement.

"Eugene, don't watch Netfler and go to sleep."

"I don't want to…"

Cha Eugene, who was playing Netfler in the living room, turned off the TV depressedly at Ryu Chungwoo's words and trudged into his room.

"…Um."

Netfler. It reminded me of Lee Sejin crying in his bed a while ago.

'It wasn't Netfler… No way, was it because of his father?'

…I hoped it wasn't an issue.

…Not only was it difficult to solve, but I also didn't know what would happen to Lee Sejin's paper-like mentality.

I headed to the room feeling uncomfortable.

Then I made eye contact with Lee Sejin, who was struggling to put his half-cast leg on top of the hamster body pillow.

"…"

"…"

Lee Sejin looked embarrassed and averted his gaze.

'I'll pretend I didn't see it.'

I went to bed pretending to look at my smartphone and sat down.

Then, Lee Sejin started talking.

"…I'm sorry. Take my red ginseng."

Oh, it's about that. I nodded.

"Yes. I will eat well."

"Alright."

As soon as the room was about to sink into a peaceful silence, Lee Sejin, who was checking something, hurriedly continued.

"B-But I already opened it and ate one or two. I'll buy you a new one, so take this."

"…? It's all right. I'll just eat it. Well."

"…Huft."

I heard Lee Sejin let out a long sigh. It sounded more like embarrassment or emptiness than relief.

.

Lee Sejin muttered as he looked at his cast pressing down on the hamster.

"Why do I keep… being a burden?"

“There’s no such thing.”

“…Anyway, I’ll pull myself together this time, so you don’t have to worry about it.”

“…Yes.”

Turning his head, Lee Sejin looked at his smartphone. His eyes seemed to be burning with determination.

Are you watching the dance video?

‘…Well, passion is good.’

It’s good to have motivation. Just don’t ask me for it.

I turned off my smartphone and put on earplugs.

The last thing I checked was Lee Sejin, who was staring at his smartphone with a serious face.

Somehow, the scene of him holding his smartphone and crying overlapped.

‘…Could it be that he’s trying to solve the issue regarding his father?’

It was often seen on the Internet bulletin board looking for cider, but in reality, family-related problems were not likely to be solved so easily.

‘Well… It’s even funnier coming from me.’

Isn’t it strange for a person without a family to give advice? I just decided to go to sleep.

However, Lee Sejin seemed to be looking at his smartphone for quite a while this time as well.

* * *

A few days later, I was on my way back from the last meeting with the collab game <127 Section>.

I heard that the game production team was so excited to see the trailer that projected their own work.

Consequently… I received this result.

“Wow, they modified it to make them look like us.”

“This is totally me!”

“I have a mole on my cheek…”

Some of the external characteristics of Testar members were lightly reflected in the appearance of the initial characters.

– No, I didn’t fix everything, I just tweaked it a little in the materials we had.

– What do you think? It totally reminds me of the trailer! Especially, Lee Sejin’s rimless glasses! We unanimously revised it right away

…Well, it was mostly like that.

By the way, I heard that my character had changed from double eyelids to inner double eyelids, I’m sorry, but… I don’t know the difference.

“Huft~ It’s fun and difficult.”

“We can do it!”

“Let’s do our best!”

The music video was released a few days later. The schedule became busier, but even with the heavy workload, the feeling of ‘doing well’ was definitely addictive.

Thanks to this, all of Testar members had happy faces. And this included Lee Sejin.

Looking somewhat relieved, Lee Sejin exchanged conversations with Ryu Chungwoo with a fairly relaxed face.

His leg injury seemed to be recovering well, and I thought it would be nice for things to go smoothly until the comeback like this…

The incident happened on the way out of the company.

“Lee Sejin! Come here, huh?!”

“…!”

A familiar middle-aged man was sitting in front of the lobby at the back door of the company and jumped up when he saw Lee Sejin.

Of course, it was Lee Sejin’s father.

Lee Sejin’s face turned blue.

*‘F*ck.’*

Fortunately, the two managers blocked him right away.

“Sejin’s father, you can’t do this!”

“Calm down!”

“Let go! People these days are f*cking rude! Oh! You’re so oppressing!!!”

Lee Sejin’s father faltered when the bulky manager blocked him, but he pointed his finger until the end as he was dragged away.

“I won’t leave you alone! This unfilial child will receive retribution!”

“…”

The noisy lobby soon became quiet as Lee Sejin’s father was dragged away.

But after a while, a more tumultuous situation occurred.

Chapter 105

The manager returned and reported the predictable, goal-hitting news.

“…You tried to report it to the police?”

“Yes. What kind of assault is this… I really sweated a lot.”

The first manager wiped off his cold sweat, saying the man almost gave us a strange rumor before the comeback. And he grumbled.

“Then why did I bother to contact him… Tsk.”

Those words were aimed at the second manager who was not present.

By the way, Lee Sejin wasn’t here because he was accompanying the agency to the interview.

“How did he get into the lobby?”

“At that time, on the way back from the hospital, Sejin said he would go to the practice room, so he came to the company. The guards said they let him in because he was a member’s parents.”

“Aha~”

Keun Sejin exclaimed, but his face didn’t look good.

‘It’s not a problem that can be blocked from the source.’

Family gossip could continue even if the person involved was disowned.

In addition, causing that much disturbance in the lobby, that man clearly wasn’t an ordinary person, so there was enough possibility that it could be a problem later.

"…Anyway, Sejin must have been surprised, so treat him well when he comes to the dorm."

"Of course."

"I understand."

From an ankle injury to family issues, it was almost certain that he was having a hard time mentally.

The members nodded their heads, but they seemed to be worrying about the situation in their own way.

And soon after, Lee Sejin returned to the dorm wearing a half-cast.

It was the same situation as a few days ago, but the difference was not the lack of a companion.

Lee Sejin's face was grim.

"…?"

As if they noticed that sign, the members hesitantly started talking.

"Sejin, um… Did the talk end well?"

"Are you okay?"

"Yes… I am perfectly fine."

Lee Sejin said as if he was determined, and then he steadfastly walked through the front door and headed for the kitchen.

And he drank a cup of water in one shot.

Gulp.

Lee Sejin put the cup down on the table and spoke after taking a deep breath.

“Tomorrow… I will apply for a restraining order.”

“…!”

“T-To your father?”

“Father my ass, that bastard got divorced when I was young, he doesn’t have custody…!”

Some members were taken aback when they heard Lee Sejin swearing for the first time.

“…Do you have any evidence?”

“It’s not like I’m applying for a grand prize… I will do it for my mother.”

“…!”

“…Sigh.”

Lee Sejin sighed and explained the situation in moderation.

“…It seems he has been contacting my mother and extorting money ever since I became a bit popular as a child actor.”

However, it was said that his mother didn’t bother to reveal the situation to young Lee Sejin. He found out about this for the first time.

“He rarely did it after I took a break from my child activities, but… He started contacting her again when I came out on <Idol Inc.>.”

Lee Sejin swallowed and continued in a slightly shaky voice.

“I… I just thought they split up because of personality differences. He said he had a hard time, so I sent him money…”

It was said that the amount he demanded gradually increased, accompanied by subtle verbal abuse and threats.

"…Because the program worked so well, it had been like that almost every day since the later half of the program."

Lee Sejin's face turned pale as if he was recalling the time.

'…Is that why you'd become especially sensitive since the 3rd competition?'

At that time, his mental state had already burst.

"…Then, I found out while talking openly with my mom on the last vacation."

From the beginning, they were divorced because of his gambling and hand habits, and Sejin's father continued to make financial threats.

"…"

There was a moment of anxious silence.

"…Then why are you still in contact with him…?"

"…I-If I moved recklessly, my mom… It could be a nuisance to the group. Already… I had a problem with my agency last time."

Lee Sejin clenched his teeth and brushed his eyes vigorously.

"I've decided not to run away, so I'll do whatever I can… That's what I thought… But it didn't work out."

"…"

"I apologize in advance, if I apply for a restraining order… An article might come out. The company said they'd try to stop it as much as possible, but…"

Lee Sejin bowed his head.

“If there’s a problem again… I’m sorry.”

“…!”

“Sejin, you don’t have to apologize for this.”

“I-It’s really fine…!”

Among the members who were at loss, Keun Sejin opened his mouth with a kind face as if he was sorry.

“Um… Hyung-nim, I’m sorry to hear that. I don’t think anything will end with just applying for a restraining order, so shouldn’t we think of another method?”

“…I know.”

Lee Sejin swallowed.

“Therefore… I found out where he gambles.”

“-!! H-How?”

“…Is that important? Anyway, I’m going to call the police there.”

“Gasp!”

“Then he’ll go to jail. In the meantime, I can get the settlement and send my mom to a place with better security.”

“Oh!”

Among the admiring minors, I thought to myself.

‘Isn’t illegal gambling only getting a fine?’

Even if they got a sentence, I had only seen cases where it ended with probation.

In addition, it was also a matter of whether the police who received the report would believe it and send their men.

"…Isn't it going to end with a suspended sentence?"

"I don't think so. He used to cheat while working at a casino."

"…!"

"I recorded everything he said to threaten me. A gangster or something like that… I can send it to the police anonymously if need be."

It was said that he had a gambling problem, so I thought he was just addicted, but he turned out to be a full-fledged criminal.

Well, I understood Lee Sejin's desire for cider and I got the big picture. However, in this case the situation would become more dangerous.

'If a criminal goes around saying he's Lee Sejin's dad, it'll hurt even more.'

As expected, it would be better to visibly cut off his relationship with Lee Sejin… Hmm. There was one thing I could think of.

'I'm not sure if he'll be okay with it.'

Let's bring it up for now.

"I think we should stop someone with such a criminal record from borrowing hyung's name and saying unnecessary things later. He might come out of prison and call himself hyung's father and start an investment scam."

"…!!"

"How about drawing a line here?"

"H-How…?"

I spun my finger.

“Hyung, change your name to your mother’s last name.”

“…!! Cough.”

“It will completely erase your connection with your father.”

Was it an unimaginable unconventional proposal?

Lee Sejin choked.

“Calm down.”

Lee Sejin added another glass of water to the glass he was drinking earlier. Lee Sejin drank it in a one-shot, then muttered with a bewildered face.

“That… That idea… I never thought about it.”

“Me, too.”

“M-Me, too.

Cha Eugene and Sun Ahyeon agreed blankly next to each other.

Keun Sejin seemed to search quickly on his smartphone and then nodded.

“Oh~ if you’re not a minor, you can do it without your parent’s permission. Still, It is said that a letter of opinion will be sent, so the perfect time would be when he gets distracted with the report of his gambling place! I think you should go for it.”

Lee Sejin made a mysterious face.

“…Then it will take quite a while, and it’s also a bit difficult to change it in the middle of our comeback activity…”

Mm, his worries were pointless.

“You can just use it as your stage name right away.”

“…!!”

“Ah, I see. Once you change your activity name, you can change your name naturally!”

Kim Raebin was impressed. And Lee Sejin still looked puzzled.

‘Well, if you suddenly have to change your last name, of course, you would be troubled.’

It was kind of funny that I, who had both my first name and surname changed, had that thought.

Anyway, he had a career built under that name since he was a child actor, so he had plenty of reasons to feel reluctant.

‘He can refuse.’

The moment I thought like that, Lee Sejin nodded solemnly.

“…It’s great! My last name doesn’t matter.”

His eyes were burning.

‘…It was the same gaze as when he looked at his smartphone a few days ago.’

Maybe it was a desire for cider.

Anyway, the members clapped at Lee Sejin’s bold declaration of the name change.

“Ooh!”

Lee Sejin turned his head as if embarrassed.

'You've come to a conclusion.'

I immediately made an additional request.

"Make sure to tell the company to pick an article with the nuance that your parents were divorced for reasons credited to your father. Not openly, but just enough that it can be guessed between the lines."

It meant don't drag it out with aggro and don't leave any opening.

Of course, the company would take good care of it, but there was nothing to lose if you grabbed it all at once and moved on.

Lee Sejin had an expression as if he was recalling something.

"…I thought about it last time, but you… No, it's nothing."

"…? Go on."

"I said it's nothing."

Well, if you say so.

Ryu Chungwoo joined the conversation with a slightly awkward smile.

"In fact, apart from the purposes that have just been mentioned… I think it's a good decision. The last name from a mother who loves you is much better than the one you got from someone like that."

"…Right."

"Anyway, thank you for making a difficult decision. Sejin."

"…It's not difficult."

Lee Sejin must have used up half a year's worth of social skills, he returned to his usual blunt tone.

“Ah, anyway. I’ll just call the company.”

“Yes!”

“I’m glad it ended well.”

“…Thank you.”

“Hehe.”

“You’ve worked hard~”

Keun Sejin also smiled and added a well-wishing remark.

He still didn’t seem to be very fond of Lee Sejin, but at least he didn’t seem annoyed this time around.

Lee Sejin seemed to have no time to be uncomfortable with Keun Sejin because he was so immersed in his task.

‘That’s good.’

There was no need to attach them together.

In that harmonious atmosphere, I threw a question that suddenly occurred to me.

“Come to think of it, what is your mother’s last name?”

Then Lee Sejin’s ears turned red.

What is it?

“…Bae.”

“Yes?”

“I said it’s Bae[1]Actor＝배우＝Baeu. Hence, the reaction !”

“…!!”

…Turning around like that, Lee Sejin, the former child actor, really became Bae Sejin.

It was a relief that Bae Sejin himself seemed satisfied because it was a surname derived from his mother this time, not an abbreviation of the word actor.

It was the same name, but it was a little bit strange that such a different result came out just because of the perception of the receiving side… It was fun in theory.

But this wasn’t the most surprising part of the case.

It appeared in an Internet article that Bae Sejin looked up a few days later.

“This is it!”

Bae Sejin showed his smartphone to me with an unusually excited face.

“…?”

I read the article.

＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝

[XXX City illegal gambling house operators are arrested… And checked for drugs]

: Gyeonggi-do Northern Police Station announced on the 12th that a gambling house was opened in the basement of a building in XX City on the 11th and arrested Mr. A (43) and five others for illegal gambling.

In addition, 2.2 kg of pill-type drugs were found inside the gambling establishment…

= = = =

I decided where to distribute the points without thinking much about it.

And before actually raising the stats, I decided to do what I had to do first.

“Hyung.”

“Yeah?”

“What do you think about changing the salon?”

It was an advanced version of what I had done during <Idol Inc.>.

- 1. Actor = 배우 = Baeu. Hence, the reaction

Chapter 106

Bae Sejin's change of name received a moderate amount of attention and passed by safely.

It was because he only changed his surname, and since the new name was one of the nicknames people used to distinguish him from Keun Sejin, it didn't create a sense of incongruity.

＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝

[Testar's Bae Sejin really changed his name to Bae Sejin]

: His mother's last name is Bae ㅋㅋㅋㅋ He said he changed his name in respect of his mother who raised him alone, but it's funny that his nickname becomes his real name ㅋㅋㅋ (article link)

＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝

– Hn is this real? ㅋㅋ

– Interesting ㅋㅋㅋ

– An unimaginably good son ㄴㅇㄱ

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Well, there are also personal family matters, but there are two Lee Sejin on Testar, maybe he changed it because people got confused, they can't keep putting on the alphabet like that ㅋㅋ

-ㅋㅋㅋ It's nice that the fans won't get confused

However, the fans didn't blindly love it.

Bae Sejin was not a nickname that the fans used to call him, but rather it was a nickname that spread because that was how the viewers of <Idol Inc.> used to sarcastically call him an 'actor'.

As time passed, the negative nuances were mostly buried, but fans who still remembered its first origin couldn't help but feel strange.

However, after reading the full text of the article, there was a subtle atmosphere in which the fans would accept the change positively.

= =

…According to his agency, T1 Stars Entertainment, Bae Sejin said, "I know that there is an existing nickname that overlaps with the name I am changing to now. It's a strange thing, and I want to take this as an opportunity as well. I hope the fans can approach this nickname with a new feeling."

= =

This was because they could feel Bae Sejin's willingness to break through it head-on.

– Bae Sejin's name is like a gift from his mother, that's how it is from now on – I never used that nickname in case Sejin gets hurt. But Sejin is saying I can use it…

– There are a lot of people who have a bad relationship with their fathers, but our Baese is a good son. A good son to his mother and a good son to his fans ㅠㅠ thump thump – Hmm, out of two, I don't want to change Little Sejin to that nickname, but looking from a professional point of view, I understand. It seems Sejin is a much stronger person than I thought.

Not just in Bae Sejin's personal fandom, but within Testar's fandom as well, they said 'It's nice that we won't get confused, it's cool and cute' and moved on.

There was not much objection because the general atmosphere was that ‘Lee Sejins’ were not referred to by their real name in order to distinguish them.

However, Keun Sejin’s malicious fan accounts became noisy for a while.

– Ah, did he finally get his Lee Sejin’s name back? I felt like s*hit when I had to search with his nickname every time I left out his real name

– I quickly caught on to the bastard’s scheme. I was so pissed when I saw he gave himself a nickname to suit the actor’s mind ㅋㅋㅋ ‘That person’ changes his name and even takes care of his image. Wow, great^^ – Don’t put a political frame on our kid, you should put it on your head.

However, this reaction only fluctuated briefly below the surface and ended.

Thus, just like Testar and the company wished, the change of name naturally settled among the public without much turbulence.

And by the time Bae Sejin’s change of name was no longer news.

The comeback date was approaching.

* * *

“Finally.”

The grad student, who had gotten released from the lab after two days of staying up all night, staggered past the front door. Her dog was enjoying a nap in the living room.

But she couldn’t sleep.

‘I have to watch Testar’s music video.’

Even though it was released at midnight yesterday, she still hadn’t seen it.

Thanks to this, all she knew was the last teaser video she saw.

That one wasn’t even much of a content because it was just a combination of short scenes similar to concept photos that were tied to one melody.

Thanks to that, she was really curious about the music video, but…

It was late anyway, so she clenched her teeth and rushed home with the thought of watching it on a big screen.

As soon as the grad student washed her face with cold water, she immediately sat down in front of the computer. And with a pounding heart, she entered Wetube.

Without further ado, as soon as she entered the popularity tab, the title that she had been waiting for appeared at the top.

[Testar(TeSTAR) ‘Airplane (Airplane)’ Official MV]

“…Whoa!!!”

She could finally see it. Finally!! She clicked on the music video right away, only looking at the thumbnail and nothing else.

The first thing that appeared was a white school hallway across the blue sky.

The fantastic screen, like an abstract painting, strangely reminded her of the previous Magical Boy concept.

But before she could take a good look at it, the cut suddenly changed to a pitch-black hallway with the same format.

‘Huh?’

The black corridor was dripping with water from all sides. Graffiti drawn with glow-in-the-dark paint and flickering emergency lights were distorted by running water and flashed strangely.

And at that moment, someone appeared at the end of the hallway.

“…!”

A dark figure stumbled and hurriedly walked forward with his hands on the wall.

The moment she thought she caught a glimpse of who it was.

The black figure suddenly outstretched his palm and covered the camera.

[…]

The screen turned black. And…

An acoustic guitar began to resound.

“…?!”

It was an unexpected, frighteningly clear sound.

And the palm fell off the screen.

A clear blue sky and a sky full of white clouds. Beneath it was an old school.

But it didn’t look unsightly.

The small school, nestled between the mountains and the trees like a painting, looked like something out of a teen novel.

And the next moment.

A boy was standing in front of the school gate.

[…]

The boy's back seemed to hesitate for a moment, but he soon grabbed the doorknob.

The moment the door slowly started to open.

A clear, fresh voice began to sing.

– My heart is pounding.

I want to blow it somewhere everything without leaving a single point

– Open the window now

I'm going to send it to the sky.

The paper airplane that I folded today…

The boy ran through the open door and into the hallway. The camera turned slightly sideways and showed his profile.

It was Park Moondae.

Then, the sound of a cool drum rang out.

Tang Tang! Drdrdrdrdr!

On top of that, the sound of the band and the violin filled her ears.

It was a classic instrument and a sound that would have been popular only in the early 2000s, but thanks to the modern arrangement of the beats and detailed elements taken with a synthesizer, it only had a retro sensibility without the tacky feeling.

Meanwhile, the boy, who had arrived at the door at the end of the corridor, suddenly opened the door.

Clang!

Beyond the open door was a dorm room.

Each of the boys playing looked back at the camera with their eyes wide open.

[…?]

And the video was completely transformed into a teen movie.

Testar took classes at a small rural school and enjoyed everyday life.

Every time the school area where they stayed changed, a choreography scene cut in. As if the students had cleaned it up themselves, even the desk that was slightly clumsily pushed to the corner saved the atmosphere.

'Oh, my God.'

The graduate student already had the music video, which was mixed with youth and nostalgia, poured into her heart but this was not the end.

It was because new scenes began to mix in as they entered the second verse.

Testar began to experience minor abnormalities as they encountered specific situations and props at the school and in the forest.

For example, when Seon Ahyeon turned on the water near the playground, sparkling bubbles poured out instead of water.

“Wow…”

She admired reflexively.

It was really great to see the sparkling bulbs hovering around Seon Ahyeon in the wind…

After that, the scene showed most of the members first encountered the abilities they had shown in ‘Magical Boy’ without being too obvious.

‘What about Moondae?’

As she was worrying whether he would be skipped in the opening scene, Moondae’s ability appeared on the screen.

The moment Moondae grabbed the doorknob as he was about to follow his friends out of the music room after class, the illusion of a mysterious pattern engraved on it flickered.

And the door was locked.

‘Gasp.’

As the grad student swallowed her scream, the music video reached its climax.

The seven boys planned to use their abilities to sneak out of school during the curfew to play.

So, in the middle of a starry night.

A playful escape began.

When Keun Sejin closed his eyes and confirmed that the situation in the hallway outside was okay, Cha Eugene turned a clockwork decorated with a small bear into a human size and covered it with a blanket.

Kim Raebin carefully opened the window with a compass, made a pretty round hole in the window, and looked at his friends with an ambiguous face

.

Anyway, after many twists and turns, the boys eventually succeed in sneaking out of the school building.

The last chorus came out.

– Will you let go without holding me?

pleasure

Even regret

when it fills up again

I'll make it again

towards you Airplane

– Airplane

A drop was added along with a modern electronic instrument, and a group dance set in a starry field as its background appeared.

And the moment the fancy choreography stopped.

The members stopped dancing and started running in the field. The storyline began to flow naturally with one uninterrupted one-take.

[Hahaha!!]

When the boys' laughter was inserted over the accompaniment, the drum faded out.

The bridge was changed to finish the song softly.

– Far away Fly high

My heart is flying

Beyond the Milky Way

I hope you become a shining star

Ryu Chungwoo smiled and fired a toy gun into the sky.

With a cheerful sound, the bullets exploded like firecrackers and embroidered the night sky.

– Put your hands together, Pray again

Closer to you

Beyond our line

I want my hands to touch

The boys ran out into the field laughing.

The camera captured the view of their backs for quite a long time.

'Ah… It was good.'

She relaxed and tapped the keyboard softly. It was so good, but she had no stamina.

However, the video wasn't over yet.

The moment the music ended, the screen suddenly turned black.

"…?"

Black screen… It was in the middle of the night by the classroom window. However, outside the window, it was a pitch-black night view without stars, creating a tremendous sense of dissonance.

And instead, suddenly, a light flashed through the curtains.

"…!"

The glow-in-the-dark graffiti that she saw at the beginning of the video was filling up the curtains.

Thanks to that bleak light, she could see a figure lying face down by the window.

It was a familiar composition for Testar's fans.

'…Magical Boy teaser!'

The composition was the same.

…But this time, nothing magical happened.

[…]

The video ended like that.

"…Phew!"

The graduate student let out a long sigh.

'The last part is… No, more importantly… It's so good…!'

The song, the choreography, and even the outfit were all good!

However, due to physical problems, the detailed appreciation wasn't completed in her head, and only the impressions floated around.

'At times like this, you have to look at other people's appreciation…!'

Then she would be able to relate without using her head. Excitedly, she lowered the screen to the comment window.

"…"

And seeing the screen full of English, she stiffened.

It was because of WeTube's policy to reveal English comments at the top.

There was only one Korean comment revealed at the top.

– Looking for Koreans. Testar, I love you! (laughing and crying emoticon)

"…"

The graduate student decided to create an SNS account.

Chapter 107

A few days had passed since the song was released last Monday. This meant that the schedule for the first stage was just around the corner.

However, perhaps because the company was conscious of the debut showcase accident, I heard that the company wouldn't hold a showcase for this comeback.

But we got new content.

"I never thought we'd have a separate comeback show."

"I'm really excited!"

Cha Eugene finished Ryu Chungwoo's slightly burdensome words and completely changed the line.

In any case, it was just like he said. Testar received a solo comeback show next Thursday at Music Night.

In addition to the performance of the last album, it seemed the fact that we were from Tnet also had some influence.

'We debuted with <Idol Inc.> so we're like a royal.'

Anyway, the VCR filming was already over.

"Isn't it nice that we don't have to sing 'Just Me' since we already have a couple of songs? It feels like we've established ourselves as a group. Haha!"

Keun Sejin seemed to be in a good mood. Perhaps this comeback show was one of the step-by-step goals he had set.

‘That’s great.’

I shrugged and continued what I was doing. I was going to check it out a while ago, but I couldn’t because I didn’t have time.

“A-Are you going to look at the album?”

“Yeah.”

I was going to check the actual album.

I received one separately from the company, but I just pre-ordered this.

Because the last album was prepared in such a hurry, we confirmed that there were quite a few cases where the actual album was not finished or the printing on the inside was poor.

‘Hopefully, it won’t happen again this time.’

There was nothing I could do if such cases got away from me due to a lucky draw, but I still wanted to order it myself and take a look.

“Oh, Moondae, are you unboxing the album? Do you want me to film a video for you?”

“No, it’s fine.”

I turned down Keun Sejin’s offer and tore off the bubble wrap.

A huge album composition set box was revealed before my eyes.

“Wow…”

“…Can you call this an album?”

Bae Sejin murmured. Ah, by the way, he had completely got rid of his ankle brace last week.

Anyway, just like he said, this box was the size of a drawer.

And there was a reason why it had to be.

“Ah, is this the set that includes the lightstick?”

“That’s right.”

It was because the lightstick was finally released and they were booked together.

‘Then let’s check the actual lightstick first.’

I opened the box. And I was taken aback.

“…!”

On the left, the lightstick between the buffer material… It was much more colorful than I thought.

In particular, the huge cubic glowing with the aurora light in the center was overwhelming.

‘It’s more colorful than the final picture…?’

I could feel the madness of the office workers who wanted to put in everything they had.

The other guys watching from the side also seemed a little taken aback.

“Oh… Oh~”

“I-It’s very… big.”

“It’s sparkling!”

Cha Eugene’s vocabulary had improved.

“Ah, that thing next to the lightstick, do you put it on top of the lightstick?”

“Maybe.”

I took out the black cylinder placed next to the lightstick.

Ah, the baseball bat shape was rejected because it was difficult to attach and detach it due to the time and the cost.

‘This is actually more than I expected.’

I tried changing the shape of the lightstick by putting the cylinder on top of it, and after confirming that it was placed stably, I took it out again.

‘Now, the album.’

On the right side of the box, there were two albums that were almost as thick as a hard-cover book.

“…It’s really big.”

“I think it’s because the photos take up a big part of the composition.”

“You can use that as a weapon.”

I checked it properly by looking into the two albums in order.

One side had a summer watercolor landscape on a white background, while the other featured luminous graffiti on a black background. However, thanks to having the same basic design, the sense of unity was alive.

Fortunately, both of them had a clean finish and the print quality looked good.

“Oh, the photocards are falling~”

"…! I-I got them…!"

For reference, the photocards were Seon Ahyeon's selfie in a classroom and Ryu Chungwoo taking off his gas mask respectively. I gave them the cards and finished checking the album.

"Hey, Ahyeon is really handsome. How can you be so handsome when you're bad at taking selfies?"

"T-Tthank you…?"

He got S- stat recently, so it was understandable.

After this, it was time to prepare for the pre-recording of the comeback show.

"Since we're not just doing one song, let's properly distribute our stamina."

"Yes!"

After a few confirmations, we went out on stage to record our first song.

And I checked the actual long-distance of 500 lightsticks.

"Waaaaaagh!!"

"…!"

I expected it, but… No, it was more than I expected… It boasted a tremendous brightness.

Each person seemed to be holding a mirror ball.

'…Doesn't it get in the way of watching the stage?'

Having a light source that close would bother me.

It looked fantastic on stage, but wouldn't be useless if the people holding it were uncomfortable?

I raised my mic after the members exchanged a few greetings with the fans.

"…About the light stick…"

"It's pretty!"

"I love it!"

"…All right."

As long as you're satisfied.

* * *

The morning after Testar filmed the comeback show with fans all day long. Of course, reviews were posted.

Among them, Park Moondae's anonymous fan community was also there.

= = = =

– Blonde again?

– Blonde hair! (Park Moondae doing puppy landing GIF)

– No, my baby's scalp is going to melt. Just go with black hair… Isn't black hair better for the song concept?

Hn, no, Park Gommeo only has blond hair

– How many songs?

– Is this fake?

Similar posts continue to appear on other sites

– Gommeo seems to know something ㅋㅋ But don't come in here when you search. If you're watching, press back and never return

This is called excessive self-consciousness

– The pre-recording was held on weekdays, so even these guys were going

The first comeback stage hadn't been aired yet, so even if they looked at the reviews written in detail, the only thing fans could intuitively feel after reading the pre-recorded reviews was the description of the change in appearance.

And since the first comeback stage was scheduled to be aired on Thursday evening, the pre-recording of the Music Night was held early at dawn.

Naturally, the early morning in mid-to-late October was quite cold.

"Don't push!"

'…It's cold!'

Kim Raebin's fan grumbled and entered the pre-recording site. The article she checked earlier still lingered in her head.

'…Park Moondae dyed his hair blonde again?'

Good… No, it was only because Park Moondae looked better with blonder hair.

After the 2nd team match, she secretly became concerned about Park Moondae, and sometimes went to Park Moondae's fan site to check the news.

Even when her acquaintance on SNS, a personal fan of Kim Raebin, criticized Park Moondae, she was secretly rooting for him.

– Did you see Gommeo paying attention to Rebin? Selling stories to the elders and winning first place. There are no young people here ㅋ

Still, Gommeo is good for him. With Big Bird-ssi, Rebin only gets political

…It was mostly like this. By the way, Big Bird was a nickname that had been changed to the extreme to prevent Keun Sejin's search.

Nevertheless, she was still in denial of having feelings beyond a favorable impression toward Park Moondae.

'…Let's just watch the performance!'

She quickly shook off her thoughts and pulled out her lightstick. The composition of getting a Shara-La magic wand when you removed the black cylinder was honestly funny.

'The lightstick is nice.'

As the fans waited with their lightsticks, Testar walked out from across the stage.

"Hello!"

“Hello, Loviewer!”

Deafening cheers rang through the recording studio.

“Are you tired? Thank you so much for coming.”

“Yeah!”

“No, I’m not tired!”

It was a mess, with people’s reactions ranging from honest to kind, but the atmosphere itself was fun, so everyone laughed.

Testar showed signs of nervousness, but they spoke well in general…

Above all, the outfits were really amazing.

‘What’s with that…!’

In their winter school uniform, Testar was wearing techwear props instead of jackets.

The silhouette of the accessory made of black leather, plastic, and metal went up over the student uniform and pants, and it fit just right.

‘I thought the atmosphere would be different from the title track… I knew it!’

But it was still shocking because she didn’t know it would be more serious than the concept photo.

In addition, Kim Raebin had grown his hair a little longer, leaving only half of his forehead exposed.

‘Half bang!’

She really liked the fact that he was moving into a dangerous impression rather than being a bad boy!

She wanted to express this excitement by hitting something with her lightstick, but she endured it because there were too many people.

And at that moment, Park Moondae, who was standing a little away from Kim Raebin, caught her eye.

"…!!"

So handsome?!

Why are you so handsome? She looked at Park Moondae, doubting her own eyes.

Although Park Moondae was trendy, attractive, and objectively handsome… He wasn't a handsome man that made her admire him the instant she saw him.

But for some reason, he looked like that today!

'Is it because of that platinum blonde hair?!'

Park Moondae had platinum blonde hair that looked almost colorless.

And she didn't know why, but it seemed to suit him so well.

'…Did you get plastic surgery?'

She suspected briefly, but couldn't pinpoint the difference in features.

Then she heard someone whispering to each other quietly next to her.

"I heard they changed the salon…"

"They must have changed it to a better one. The kids seem to have gotten more handsome."

"…"

‘Ah, that’s what happened.’

She was quickly convinced of the situation.

She didn’t know who it was, but it was clear that they were a great expert.

In the meantime, Testar finished the short greetings and the small talk with fans, and they lined up to prepare for the stage.

As Testar turned around and each took a starting position, she waved the lightstick in her hand in excitement. And she realized.

‘Ah, the lightstick’s cover… ’

Come to think of it, when she came in, she was told not to take off this black cylinder.

‘Are you telling me to cheer for them like this?’

As she looked at the black stick with hesitation, the lightstick was switched on by a central controller connected via Bluetooth.

Then a familiar luminous graffiti wrapped itself around the cylindrical shape as it activated.

“…!”

It felt like the light inside was leaking through, but for some reason, it reminded her of a neon sign.

“Heol.”

She wasn’t interested in this cylinder and didn’t know anything about it, so she was taken by surprise.

However, most of the fans were just staring at the stage, perhaps they had already turned it on at home.

‘Ah!’

She quickly fixed her eyes on the stage, too. She couldn’t waste her time on this.

At that moment, the lights in the studio went out.

And an intense prelude began to play out on the stage.

Chapter 108

The stage was still dark.

On the stage without lights, a subtle and heavy bass sound resounded as if a dull machine was moving.

DOON DOON DOON DOON DOON DOON DOON DOON

Most of the fans had already listened to it while streaming, but the power when listening to it live was different.

Tension was created at a faster tempo than expected.

And on top of that, an electric sound was plugged in.

Dvvvviiiiii-!

It was the thunderous riff melody that appeared in the trailer.

As if surprised by thunder, the lights came on the stage like lightning.

A stage set resembling a back alley in a sci-fi game was revealed under the pale lighting that didn't have any shade of color yellow. However, school props such as desks and blackboards were placed here and there and looked as though they were being thrown away.

Testar turned back and looked in different directions.

Cha Eugene slowly turned his head and faced forward.

– Do not trust it

There no justice

Oooohh—.

The moment the low-pitched rap was over, the slashing riff melody disappeared.

And on the spot, a moombahton unfolded.

The early first dance break entered a thrilling level that was full of rhythm but not exciting.

It was a group dance centered on Cha Eugene, with a slightly mechanical feel.

And the moment Cha Eugene disappeared behind the formation, the song began.

– Looking back, I can't tell

Umm

What happened.

– Target Target Target

GOT IT

As you run, as you grab

It was a completely different vocal melody from the song in the trailer.

She didn't know, but this b-side track, 'Better Me', seemed to have only sampled the accompaniment from the song in the trailer.

However, this was a trendy dance song that seemed much more befitting of an idol.

Thanks to this, Testar on the stage was almost flying.

It was a composition that made her wonder if there was room to breathe.

– This clear feeling.

(It won't be erased, it won't be forgotten)

I know even now.

(I got that CODE)

The moment they entered the pre-chorus, the voices of Kim Raebin and Keun Sejin intertwined and spread.

The two parted ways after showing a violent pair of dance moves that seemed to capture each other.

And at the second part of the pre-chorus.

Park Moondae came out, and suddenly, the electric sound of the trailer returned.

And lyrics similar to the trailer came out.

– I will never die

Like I did before

I'm gonna keep ME

Alive-!

The high notes rose flawlessly.

The trailer and vocal melody were completely different, but the level of difficulty was indisputable.

And Park Moondae sang this high note with a dynamic choreography that came out by intertwining with other members.

In a slightly gloomy mood at that.

'Wow… '

Kim Raebin's fan forgot to cheer and admired it as if she was watching a competition program, but soon she came back to her senses and focused on the stage.

Finally, Kim Raebin come out in the chorus!

Kim Raebin sang the chorus in a slightly melancholy mood with glaring eyes.

– BUT.

It's just confusing

Since when

I'm just confused

Umm

How far you're going

The chorus returned to moombahton and was tightly woven with low-pitched vocals and bright beats.

Then Ryu Chungwoo came out and took over the next chorus.

– Could be confusing

What do you want

May be confused

Umm

How do I do this

The lyrics and atmosphere seemed to wander, but it was somehow meaningful and abstract.

Thanks to the combination of the stage, choreography, and costumes, the stage looked as though they were wandering in a dystopian worldview, not reality.

Thanks to this, neon signs and devices that could be distracting, on the contrary, saved the slightly melancholy taste at the center of the intense song.

– Take me and get that might

As soon as the melodious chorus ended, the choreography for the second verse with Cha Eugene's sharp rapping became more intense and complex.

– This distant feeling

(Erasing and forgetting)

But I know

(I got that CODE)

Elements continued to be added to the accompaniment and the beat became more intense as if it were climbing endlessly until it was about to burst.

And the moment the chorus burst through the bridge.

Instead of the song being dropped, the accompaniments were all removed. And only that intense riff melody came back alone.

Dvvvviiiiii~!

And in the absence of the beat, the last chorus broke out, competing only with the riff melody.

– BUT.

It's NOT confusing!

Who am I

I'm NOT confused

Oh!

To find BETTER ME

Park Moondae, who received the note from Ryu Chungwoo, captured the note by playing it up to a super high pitch.

It was so loud that the AR could not be heard properly.

'Heol!'

The audience cheered internally.

When she listened to the song, both the riff melody and the voice were bright, so she got tired after listening to it a few times, but it was incredibly dramatic on stage.

In addition, the moombahton, which started again shortly after, stuck to her ears.

– BETTER ME

With a big smile, Keun Sejin jumped out to the center at the last dance break.

And the accompaniment of the first dance break was changed.

As if a conflict had been resolved, a lighter and more upbeat atmosphere continued.

However, the choreography was more impressive in terms of difficulty and attraction because the number of foot movements increased and became extravagant.

– BETTER ME

It wasn't until the end of the song that the song ended by singing the title that popped out as a variation hook once again.

And the internal shouts immediately burst out.

"Waaaaaaaa!!!"

"Aaahh!!"

"Oh my gosh!!"

The b-side track stage, which seemed to be shouted out for its performance by everyone, had a great composition that made it fun to watch and listen to.

Even better, they would be recording it repeatedly, so the audience would be able to watch this stage several more times!

Testar stumbled and gasped for breath because of the song composition that had no structure to rest, then waved their hands in gratitude.

Perhaps it was too hot, a few members secretly picked up the techware props and fanned themselves.

Then, a moment later, Ryu Chungwoo talked to the staff.

"Huft… hu, next take… Yes? Like this?"

Testar's expression brightened.

“Wow, they said we did it in one go!”

The sentence was like a lightning bolt.

‘No!!!’

Even the rehearsals were already completed due to equipment maintenance, so the only thing fans could see was that stage!

But, of course, there was no turnaround. Testar belatedly figured out the situation and made a vain attempt.

“Director, don’t you think we made a mistake with the vocal?”

“I didn’t see the camera!”

But that didn’t work either. Thanks to this, they showed aegyo or danced apologetically and disappeared.

“…”

Thus, the fans came out of the recording studio 20 minutes after entering.

All they had in their hands was cream bread and Americano from a restaurant that Testar had prepared.

‘…Kim Raebin!! Park Moondae!! Who told you to be so good!!’

Not knowing what she was thinking, Kim Raebin’s fan tore off the cream bread.

That it was delicious made her even more pissed off.

* * *

That evening, all of Testar’s b-side and title track performances were finally broadcasted for the first time.

Perhaps because the director was gone and there were a lot of recent incidents, the company gave us time to sleep during the activity.

Thanks to this, I was able to see the reactions to the first stage at the dorm at midnight on the same day.

Of course, there were a lot of views for the title track on WeTube and others, but when I entered SNS or community, the response to the b-sides was almost equal.

I clicked on a post with over 500 comments.

= =

[Testar's new b-side]

: (Link to SNS video)

I just came out from 'Music Night', and to be honest, the response to this stage seemed better than to the title track

= =

– This is really for performance.

– It's difficult

– They're good at it;

– The title track is much better, but I think I know why they chose this as a b-side. It's much better when you see it on stage ㅋㅋ

– Is this live?

ㄴㅇㅇ It's totally live.

– It's almost like lip sync ㅋㅋㅋ Park Moondae's AR part is so obvious. He did that during Idol Inc

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ (MR removal image link)

– The stage is really good, but what the hell are the lyrics?

We don't know either, but Kim Raebin wrote the lyrics. In a little while, he's going to come to W live and talk about it. Please come and see it when you have time.

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋPlease post a summary

In general, there were a lot of good comments. Occasionally, there were people trying to throw aggro but those were the guys that always popped up every day.

Of course, among those comments, I also found the talk that I had expected.

– Wow, Park Moondae is on a roll whenever he has blonde hair ㅋㅋㅋ

– Is that really Park Moondae with platinum-blonde hair? Heol, Park Moondae in my head is his image from Idol Inc. What the hell happened?

– Moondae is really handsome

– No, Park Moondae's hair looks really perfect as if it will grow blonde. What's going on?

– I couldn't watch Idol Inc because of the exam, but is platinum blonde hair the first-place winner? Since he sang with that face, I thought he must have won first place.;;

This is the guy who poured the broadcast material into his mouth with a water purifier. Don't be fooled.

It was mostly like this.

'It was worth it.'

Of course, doubtful reactions also popped up, but they didn't develop further there.

It was because I was a player that had laid the groundwork.

– Hmmㅋㅋ Change in appearance… I have a lot to say but I won't say it

I heard they changed the salon

How do you know that?

Behind the scenes of the comeback dub live, there is a scene where they do their hair

Ahaㅇㅋ

– If your face changes because you change the salon, I will go to that salon too.

Surprisingly, this is a common occurrence for idols who wear stage makeup…

ㄴㅋWho said that?

I know because the idols whose data I had sold were ruined after changing salons

Sorry;

Hmm, as expected, it was a good excuse so I rubbed it in moderation.

'It was fortunate that the company was about to change the salon.'

Thanks to that, I was able to raise my visual to A- without difficulty.

And the reason why I took care of my visual… This was because Ryu Chungwoo, who was recently B+, went up to A-.

…He had a hard time during Idol Inc, and it seemed the aftermath of that had disappeared. I could see that his look had improved.

Anyway, if this continued, I thought I would be left alone as B stat and I would be caught in comparison screenshots, so I made an investment now.

'It was a good choice.'

Ah, and I took the other one for vocal and made it an A+.

As I kept practicing the last chorus of that b-side, I had a strong feeling that I would lose my voice someday, so I couldn't help it.

'It's a bit unfortunate.'

Actually, I thought I could raise my vocal naturally if I waited a little longer. However, I couldn't help it because the comeback was right around the corner.

'I'll save the remaining points as planned.'

I shrugged and turned off my phone. I had to sleep right away because my schedule tomorrow started almost very early in the morning.

'Let's take a closer look at the reaction to the title track tomorrow.'

And the next day, while waiting for the music show and looking at the response to the title track, I heard strange news.

"You guys will shoot a variety show next week~"

"Oh~"

"Where?"

"I don't like birds."

In the midst of bitter reactions from the guys who couldn't escape the afterimage of <Man who only needs to say it once>, the manager raised his thumb.

“It’s an entertainment show where you ride a horse and shoot an arrow!!”

“…!”

At that moment, everyone’s eyes turned to Ryu Chungwoo.

Chapter 109

Ryu Chungwoo asked with an ambiguous face.

“…We’re going to shoot… riding a horse and holding a bow…?”

“Alright!”

“Wow!”

“I like it!”

“…Perhaps, did we get cast because of Chungwoo?”

At Bae Sejin’s question, the manager shook his head.

“No, Well, it’s… It’s similar to the previous Idol Olympics which was made by KBC, so the format is like that. I think most idols will come out.”

“Aha~”

It meant that if we didn’t show up, it would be an obstacle in appearing on music shows. Got it.

“Huh, but the holidays are over, we’re doing this now?”

“Well, there must have been an internal situation at the broadcasting station.”

“Hmm~”

Most of the members were convinced, but Ryu Chungwoo still had a mysterious expression.

“Hyung, is there a problem?”

“Hn? Um… I’m a little worried.”

Ah, is it because of the aftereffects?

Even if he didn’t feel any pain, the situation itself might be uncomfortable. There was always a risk of injury in entertainment shows where people like this were called in and forced to do physical work.

However, this time, the manager opened his mouth with an ambiguous face.

“Um… About that.”

“…?”

“Chungwoo… is banned.”

“…!!”

“The broadcast refused because the game wouldn’t work with him there. Instead, they want him to show a demonstration.”

“Ugh.”

The members were shocked by the incredible judgment that made sense. It was clear that they secretly put their trust in him.

However, Ryu Chungwoo’s expression didn’t improve.

“I think I’d rather do it… Hyung, we can’t go out like this, right?”

“…Mm, it must be hard to keep appearing on KBC. Why?”

Ryu Chungwoo shook his head.

“It’s too dangerous. Riding a horse is difficult, but shooting a bow from it is even more dangerous. How long has the training period been secured?”

“…They said you’ll come and learn…”

“…”

“…Wait a minute.”

After getting us in the car, the manager seemed to have a pretty long phone call with the company in the parking lot.

Then he got back in the car with a bright face.

“Oh, don’t worry, guys. They said everything is already prepared.”

“Oh…”

“Still, KBC is a public broadcaster. They won’t make you do anything unreasonable or dangerous, so let’s do it!”

Seeing him rant like that, he must have heard something. Since he didn’t explain in detail, it seemed he needed a reaction.

‘Did they call the national horseback riding team?’

There was no way they would wrap up the show with warm scenes by bringing in the current national team in front of an idol who retired from the national team due to the aftereffects, right?

I’d met so many of the great broadcasters on Tnet that I had to value it from my side and measure the angle.

“And I heard that they’re going to do various other sports, so I think Cheongwoo can play there!”

“Um, I understand…”

Ryu Chungwoo still looked uncomfortable, but he eventually agreed.

And on the day of filming, we got to see a tremendous sight.

* * *

The filming location was at Daegwallyeong.

What was even more interesting was that I went there wearing an outfit I had never imagined before.

“Hwarang[1]Hwarang, also known as Hwarang Corps, and Flowering Knights, were an elite warrior group of male youth in Silla, an ancient kingdom of the Korean Peninsula that lasted until the 10th century. Sumber: Wiki. ?”

“Yes. The concept of this program is Silla Hwarang competing with each other!”

“Wow…”

I didn’t know that they even mobilized their ancestors to differentiate themselves from Idol Olympics.

Thanks to this, I was taken to Daegwallyeong in a Hwarang outfit after getting my makeup and hair done in Seoul.

– Don’t lean on your hair too hard because it can get ruined!

I thought my neck was going to break.

And in the filming location we arrived at.

A pink merry-go-round was spinning.

“…??”

“Excuse me?”

“It’s your horses!”

“…!!”

The camera eagerly captured the blank faces of the member.

And after a while, bows were supplied.

They were colorful toy bows.

Our figure holding the bow in this historical drama costume was the pinnacle of disparity

“…”

“…Isn’t our ancestors going to get angry with this?”

Yeah.

Anyway, thanks to that, the filming went safely as promised by KBC.

Idols dressed up in Hwarang outfits riding on a bling-bling merry-go-round and hitting animal character dolls with toy bows was a very strange triple-complex gag.

‘Why the hell did you have to call us to Daegwallyeong?’

It wouldn’t make a difference if we just went to any theme park.

Watching the scene, Keun Sejin laughed and stretched.

“Still, there’s no fans calling us out here. I heard they have a hard time.”

“Aah.”

I remembered. I’d never been to the filming because it didn’t fit my schedule, but there were quite a few people who took pictures and sold them.

“Moondaemoondae, let’s save some pictures to upload news for the Loviewers.”

“Shall we?”

Hmm. It was a pretty good suggestion.

“Oh~ Aren’t you enthusiastic? To be honest, Moondae also likes the Hwarang’s outfit~you think it’s cool, right? Isn’t it like that?”

This was kind of annoying.

“M-Me too…”

“Are you taking pictures?”

“I want to see the hair!”

As I was taking a few group shots including the guys who had interrupted, I could feel gazes from around me. It was from the other idol teams.

‘It’s the same as in the hallway of the music shows.’

It would be good to build a more personal friendship here since everyone was on standby. There were no fan seats, too.

However, these guys didn’t seem interested in other groups.

Even Keun Sejin. It seemed none of the idols who participated here had a similar level to Testar, so I guessed they just made sure they kept their hands clean. They greeted the others politely, and after that, they didn’t even look back.

‘How should I say this, they’re real bastards.’

I was in no position to talk, but… These bastards were really huge jerks.

Well, thanks to that, it was comfortable not having to talk to anyone.

After such a peaceful waiting time.

“This group~ It’s the famous National Stock! Here is Testar’s Hwarang!”

I wondered if it was okay to use other cable’s extreme capitalist catchphrase on public broadcasting, but in any case, we got called for our turn.

Ryu Chungwoo, who was excluded to make it fair, and Bae Sejin, who voluntarily dropped out of the five-member quota, remained on standby. They would participate in the next event.

“Good luck. Be careful.”

“…Yes.”

Looking at the merry-go-round, I wondered if there was a need to be told to be careful, but my doubts disappeared after being hit by Ryu Chungwoo’s backstory beam.

“Let’s go~”

And I got on the merry-go-round.

The merry-go-round began to spin after the explanation to wear the seat belt and give a signal to stop the merry-go-round if a problem occurred

– Ddara ddda climb~ Ddara ddda~

A cute music box rang out and the merry-go-round began to turn up and down. I felt a sense of shame.

And one more rule was added here.

“Then, everyone, Testar’s Hwarang~ What should you do before shooting an arrow?”

“Quiz!”

“We have to guess the answer!”

Right. We couldn’t shoot indefinitely, we had to guess it correctly and then we could shoot for 10 seconds.

So, the group that got five questions right in the shortest time won the game.

“That’s right, as Hwarang group with all the martial arts, you have to guess the correct answer, the target, and even the timing~”

“You don’t have to guess the timing, you have to guess…”

“Hahaha! Give us the question!”

At Keun Sejin’s words, the entertainer who was in charge of being the MC immediately raised his hand and shouted.

“Now, the first question, guess this person! He is one of the most famous Hwarangs, and he is the general who led the unification of the three kingdoms of Silla. What is the name of this general who defeated the army led by Gyebaek in the Battle of Hwangsanbeol?”

“…??”

What’s with the difficulty level?

It wasn’t particularly difficult, but the previous group was only asked to say the name of the place where we were now.

‘Are you trying to mess with us because we’re from a cable program…?’

KBC wasn’t an idiot, so it probably wasn’t like that. It was just a matter of luck.

In the midst of this, Cha Eugene was the first to raise his hand, turning this into a problem.

“What kind of bee is Hwangsanbeol[2]beol means bee, that’s why Cha Eugene got confused…”

“Answer! General Kim Yushin!”

“Oh, Hwarang Park Moondae~ Correct!”

Fortunately, I could get rid of the audio ‘Hwangsanbee’.

‘I survived.’

I sighed and lifted my bow.

“Okay, 10 seconds from now! Start!”

“Huh??”

And like a joke, the merry-go-round sped up. The wooden horse, which had been moving like a turtle, suddenly started running like a group cyclist at the gym.

I had seen it while waiting earlier, but they really tried hard to be funny.

“This is faster than I thought?!”

“Hahaha! Come on~ One!”

And like a lie, Cha Eugene hit a doll right away.

“One!”

I sighed and aimed my toy bow.

And of course, I didn’t hit it. Damn it.

“Ah, it was fun!”

“It was nice!”

Keun Sejin and Cha Eugene smiled and came down from the merry-go-round and waved to the camera.

Surprisingly, they finished in 2 minutes and 7 seconds, setting a new record.

What was even more surprising was that Cha Eugene answered the second question correctly.

– Then, the second question~ WWW, which is commonly seen in the address bar is…

– World Wide Web!!

-…? That’s correct!

It was an unexpected save.

By the way, this time I also managed to hit a doll. Getting the hang of it was important.

“Good job. It seems you’re doing well?”

“Good job~”

“There were no major difficulties!”

“Let’s do it again~”

Next to the guys who were taking control, Bae Sejin asked quietly in front of the chrysalis.

“…Did you have fun?”

I shrugged. It meant it was fun. Bae Sejin understood without words.

“T-This time, we did a good job.”

“I know. Let’s continue to do well~”

“Yeah~”

After doing it once, everyone was excited as if they were immersed in it. In this gap, I had a foreboding feeling that if I did it alone, I would be engulfed in a subtle controversy despite my initial intention.

‘Let’s pay attention to the reaction.’

By the way, Ryu Chungwoo, who came out next as a demonstration, burst into laughter and showed a crazy trick of hitting all five dolls alone within the first 10 seconds.

I had no idea what kind of place the Korean national archery team was.

* * *

And as time passed, from sheep shearing–which I couldn’t guess why it was even included–to a large yut nori[3] Yut Nori, also known as Yunnori, Nyout, and Yoot, is a traditional board game played in Korea. Sumber: Wiki game, we finally arrived at the last event.

“Next~ It’s a coloring battle!”

“Oh~”

It sounded plausible, but it was just a paintball survival game. The team who shot paint at each other and survived without getting hit until the end won.

This time, it was a 7-member team match, so Ryu Chungwoo and Bae Sejin were included. Since luck played a big role, this time Ryu Chungwoo didn’t miss out as a demonstration.

‘It’s comfortable to be away.’

Looking at other teams, there were quite a few places where they were mixed.

“Is this going to be a picture where if we stay still, Chungwoo hyung will shoot everything and win～?”

“I will shoot, too!”

“…I look forward to your kind cooperation.”

Perhaps not confident, Bae Sejin said to Ryu Chungwoo with a grim face.

Ryu Chungwoo said awkwardly with an embarrassed face.

“Let’s just have fun, guys, you might get eliminated.”

“That’s weak!”

“I want to win!”

“F-Fighting!”

Even Seon Ahyeon stepped forward like this, so Ryu Chungwoo was eventually pushed back.

“Haha, alright. Let’s win!”

“Wow!”

The camera eagerly captured the scene.

‘Hmm, it won’t be a very good picture if we really win like this.’

Since Testar performed the best among the groups that appeared here, it might be better to avoid winning in this event.

‘We’ve already finished second in yut nori.’

If we went further from here, it was clear that there would be people who thought that we were taking away other groups’ opportunity to receive the portions.

However, if we did it half-heartedly, we would get criticized for doing it half-heartedly, so it would be best to get immersed like crazy and fail.

So I nodded my head and shook my fists as if impressed by Ryu Chungwoo’s words.

‘Let’s roll.’

Don’t give any real help, just pretend to work hard.

If I wore this outfit and rolled around on the ground, they would have no choice but to say that I had worked hard.

And five minutes later, with this decision, I really rolled on the ground.

“Moondae, are you okay?!”

“…Yes.”

It was because everyone was eliminated and only Ryu Chungwoo and I were left.

This situation happened thanks to the five guys who were immersed in shooting the paint and didn’t care that they didn’t shoot it right.

All of a sudden, I became the person who held out until the end.

And when an arrow came, Ryu Chungwoo rolled hard to the left and rolled to the right, giving instructions in order to save the one remaining member of the team

I myself was rolling, so I ended up not getting hit.

'Wow… '

Let's get eliminated.

However, Ryu Chungwoo was more immersed than I expected.

- 1. Hwarang, also known as Hwarang Corps, and Flowering Knights, were an elite warrior group of male youth in Silla, an ancient kingdom of the Korean Peninsula that lasted until the 10th century. Sumber: Wiki.

- 2. beol means bee, that's why Cha Eugene got confused

- 3.Yut Nori, also known as Yunnori, Nyout, and Yoot, is a traditional board game played in Korea. Sumber: Wiki

Chapter 110

“It’s coming from the right. Let’s crawl and move.”

“…”

No… Do I have to do this?

However, Ryu Chungwoo had already begun to crawl with a serious face.

‘Crawling on the ground wearing a wig and a Hwarang costume… ’

It was a terrible combination.

In the meantime, an arrow flew overhead and hit the wooden fence.

Thud!

The wooden planks were smeared with blue color.

Then with his sharp eyes, Ryu Chungwoo pointed his bow at the spot where the arrow flew from.

Of course, his bow was a toy bow for children.

Whoosh.

“Uaagh!”

“Out~!”

“Ugh, what a waste!”

Wearing scarlet headbands, the team's two finalists came out from behind a wooden fence with their shoulders covered in yellow.

They were the guys who shot with their heads moving up and down from the end of the fence.

'…You shot one and hit two.'

This was at the level of destroying the ecosystem. It was like on the same team with a diamond on a bronze alt account slaughtering the civilians.

"There are three teams left. Hit from the left."

Stop it.

"…Hyung, why don't we wait until the number of people shrinks down?"

"Ah."

Ryu Chungwoo finally realized that he had crossed the line and became a little embarrassed. He was like an adult who came to his senses after having a fierce snowball fight with children.

"That's right… Let's wait back there."

"Yes."

"Hmm, it's been a while since I've done something like this, it's so fun."

Ryu Chungwoo's face slightly cooled down.

It seemed he was the type who relieved stress by winning in such primitive competitive content.

'It's not RoR[1] it's literally RoR, as in the English alphabet. When I looked it up, it's Return on revenue (ROR), which means a measure of company profitability based on the amount of revenue generated, but it doesn't really fit the context, is it? It's probably a gaming term but I have no clue what it could be. , is it?'

It would be perfect for this guy since he wouldn't get cursed at.

Anyway, at Ryu Chungwoo's suggestion, I crawled behind the largest wooden fence nearby.

But before I arrived there, the arrows started flying again. They were the guys with green belts on their heads.

'Has that side already gotten cleaned up?'

There were four people left.

'I guess I'll just have to get hit and get eliminated now.'

Even if Ryu Chungwoo eliminated two more, the other side could win and finish it just fine.

But things didn't go as expected.

"Dangerous…!"

"Heol!"

"It's over?"

"Uoooh!"

Ryu Chungwoo really did eliminate two more people.

However, right after that, he ended up getting hit with paint and got eliminated, and in that way, the remaining one from the other team was eliminated together.

So, all of a sudden, a one-on-one match occurred with only one green-belt guy and me left.

“…”

“…”

Is this for real?

The problem was that the other side also knew that they had to eliminate Ryu Chungwoo, so they focused intensively on Ryu Chungwoo, and Ryu Chungwoo also shot those who seemed most likely to hit him.

In other words, both the surviving men were the weakest.

The other guy must have been taken aback as well, and his arrow missed as he repeatedly shouted, ‘Uh, huh?’

“…Huh.”

All of a sudden, it became a s*ht fight.

At that moment, Ryu Chungwoo, whose throat was covered in paint, quickly shouted.

“Moondae, use me as a cover and get him quickly!”

“…”

What happened to the implicit agreement to do this in moderation that we had made earlier?

Anyway, I couldn’t show a roughed-up appearance, so I leaned over and aimed moderately.

“Ugh!”

It was funny that the paint that the other guy shot in the midst of all of this hit Ryu Chungwoo’s back.

‘Will it get through?’

Reluctantly, I fired an arrow.

It was a shot that I expected to not hit.

It would probably pass over his head.

“…Uagh!”

“…?”

But this… I got him?

“Ah! Seriously!”

It seemed the last remaining guy raised his hand to pull out an arrow, and he happened to raise it in the direction of the arrow I shot.

How could this happen?

“Uaaaa!!”

“Moondae won!”

The waiting crowd who had been eliminated poured out and began to rejoice.

Ryu Chungwoo also patted my back with a big smile.

“Great job!”

“…Wow!”

I clenched my fists while looking at the camera. It couldn’t be helped that I won, so let’s just stop the s*hit attitude controversy.

However, the MC, who ran out of the commentator’s booth, delivered good news.

“Ah~ Testar’s Hwarang! You’re out!”

“…?!”

“Why!?”

“The failed Hwarang should leave the battlefield right away, not help the surviving Hwarang!”

“…!!”

Just like that, the victory went to the green belt team.

“The winner of the coloring battle is… Onyx!”

“Waaaagh!!”

“It’s over!”

And Testar’s expression looked just like the raccoon's face after washing cotton candy[2]It’s a popular meme, y’all.

“…”

“Is it Chungwoo hyung’s fault?”

“I’m sorry…”

“It’s fine.”

With Cha Eugene’s dejected answer, the filming of <Idol Hwarang Battle> was over.

* * *

And <Idol Hwarang Battle> failed spectacularly.

It was not due to sadism or controversy.

It was just that boring.

– Nothing catches my eye

– Please tell me when Testar's cut is out

– The editing is so bad

– The captions are so cheesy. Why is it so old-fashioned? It's no fun ㅠ

– How can it be so boring with that composition…? I really don't understand.

– Why can't they bring out Ryu Chungwoo's crazy genius national team vibe? Ah, it's so frustrating.

The editing and subtitles were so old-fashioned that they couldn't make use of the sick taste of the content.

In addition, the publicity wasn't stimulating, so the word of mouth about Testar before airing itself didn't spread.

This was because the production team was overly conscious of the 'Idol Olympics' so they only focused on the format of the program to distribute press releases.

Thanks to this, the people who liked Testar didn't even know that Testar was going to show up at all.

– If it was the kids' reality show where they went Daegwallyeong and played with the sheep, it would have been more fun than this – All that remains is the kids' Hwarang outfit and Ryu Chungwoo's proof of being a gold medalist

– WeTube golden hand's re-edited Testar cut version is out (link)

Heol, when I look at it like this, it's so much fun

That's right, it should have been done like this instead of editing it like a documentary about the kids not winning first place. It's so much cuter and funnierㅠㅠ

Only photos and videos of various idols dressed in Hwarang remained and were used as good sales materials, and <Idol Hwarang Battle> had completely served its purpose.

It couldn't be organized and ended forlornly just like that.

But apart from that, the stock price of Testar, who appeared in this ruined program, continued to rise.

= =

[Testar's Initial Chodong[3]Originally, I translated Initial chodong as 'first period', 'initial record', or its variations, but I decided to use the word Initial Chodong from now on. It generally means the first week sale or something like that. Sorry for the confusion, K-pop terms like this are new to me.]

: Closing at 780,000 copies (weekly trend summary table)

= =

– Wow, crazy

– It's driving me crazy

– But their momentum is really scary. If you go into the group chat, there must be at least one Testar profile picture – Idol Inc's hype is almost all gone, is this number possible?

– They probably don't have a lot of overseas stock, hmm…

They're booming overseas (receipt photo) They did so well in Korea during their debut activity that it seems they have gone viral overseas as well

Overseas fans are accurate when it comes to noticing things like this

– They must have made a lot of impacts because they had a lot of fan signing events… Anyway, congratulations~

Hn, there weren't that many Testar's fansign events, it was just average.

ㄴㅋㅋㅋYes~

– To be honest, I think they should be included in the top 3 male idols. Honestly, among the top 3, there are times when their songs aren't as good as Testar's. Isn't Testar on the next level after Vtic in Korea?

Yeah, no, I don't agree

Let's stop screwing around

Testar fans never claim that Testar is the number one group. We're just happy with the kids

The fans were still keeping a low profile, but Testar, who broke their Initial Chodong record with a difference of more than 100,000 copies and was doing well on the music charts, had completely established itself as a 'popular idol'.

Thanks to their record in the first week, they even managed to achieve the no. 1 spot on music shows.

= =

[How I feel about the kids winning first place + encore video]

: Guys, congratulationㅠㅠ

+1st place pledge to sing different partsㅋㅋ Cuties…

= =

– Congrats on winning first place, Testar♡ We'll fly forever ♡

– Finally, we heard our name in the acceptance speech!!ㅠㅠ

– Guys, thank you so much for mentioning Loviewer whenever you hold the micㅋㅋCuteㅠ

– Ah, Rabin speaks clearly about his feelings. It's so cute that he's proud. I love our rabbitㅠㅠ

– What's this, Park Moondae, why are you so good at rapping?ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

Moon Puppy did so well that Eugene got excited

– The chorus part is so heartwarming and nice.

Fans were nervous that something strange might happen due to the other fandoms keeping them in check, but they enjoyed the career-high and continued to have fun.

And it was around this time that the game <127 Section> that collaborated with Testar was released.

The fans actually weren't too wary of the game. This was because Testar's comeback activity seemed to have very few elements that were related to this game.

– I think they just made a game collaboration song based on the b-side song?

– The concept is similar, but Better Me, written as a b-side, feels a little dystopian, and the game is post-apocalyptic, so it's a bit different. I think they just picked a song that had a similar atmosphere and be done with it – Maybe it's better not to put too much meaning to the elements in the trailer.

– Just looking at Magical Boy's worldview, the title track 'Airplane' is definitely connected

The analysis when the trailer first came out also had withered and decreased due to the analysis of the Airplane music video.

The atmosphere was similar to when the game advertisement came out.

It was because the advertisement was so carefully selected that they even used photos of Testar members wearing their trailer costumes to promote the game.

– It's just like a game commercial being shoot by other celebrities ㅋㅋ Ha, I was worried for nothing

– I'm going to play once because I'm loyal to Chungwoo dressed in a sniper costume.

– I was surprised to see Testar's trailer come out as an advertisement on WeTube. So, it was a game advertisement;; After watching it more, the gameplay video come out.

The response from game enthusiasts was also good.

– Subway commercial…? (rolling eyes emoji)

– They're ready to suck up money

– I've lost my mind…

– You have to strike when the iron is hot. Take good care of the server, factory punks

– Hold your breath until it's released

– From now on, I will only buy T1's fried dumplings

– The publicity cost a lot of money, don't tell me those bastards are going to split the game and call it DLC

Then only death awaits

Although they were anxious, they welcomed the expansion. Because the probability that the company wouldn't go bankrupt right away even if they pulled some crazy sh*t had increased.

– Please let it be a god-game

– If they go bankrupt this time, it's impossible to recover. It's a loss to the company

– I've confirmed the gameplay scene of the promotional video. The beta feels alive. If they properly digest the inflow, they can do it

F*ck… Please!

And the day the game was released.

Both Testar's fandom and the game community were turned upside down.

* * *

"Oh, it's done."

Park Moondae's first homma placed Park Moondae's video that she had been editing for a while into the gallery and checked her smartphone.

The game <127 Section> was downloaded and an app icon was added to the desktop.

'I've never played a game like this before, but… I'll have to give it a try.'

Because Moondae did the commercial. She was going to take care of the number of downloads and the number of plays.

Of course, she didn't have a hobby of playing games like this, so she thought she'd just do a tutorial and then quit. She launched the app.

'Let's quickly finish it.'

After a brief extra installation, the tutorial started right away.

[You've woken up in Section 127.]

And five minutes later. In the game, the college student met a comrade character.

It was the boy in a black hoodie who used drones. His eyes glowed purple whenever he controlled his drones.

"…!?"

It was Park Moondae from the comeback trailer video.

- 1. it's literally RoR, as in the English alphabet. When I looked it up, it's Return on revenue (ROR), which means a measure of company profitability based on the amount of revenue generated, but it doesn't really fit the context, is it? It's probably a gaming term but I have no clue what it could be.

- 2. It's a popular meme, y'all

- 3. Originally, I translated Initial chodong as 'first period', 'initial record', or its variations, but I decided to use the word Initial Chodong from now on. It generally means the first week sale or something like that. Sorry for the confusion, K-pop terms like this are new to me.

Chapter 111

“Is this Moondae? Moondae?”

Park Moondae’s homma unknowingly muttered and touched the screen. She couldn’t help but doubt it because the figure’s characteristics were similar to the comeback trailer.

As the conversation progressed, the name of the character that appeared as ‘??’ was introduced.

And it wasn’t ‘Park Moondae’.

[??? :… Right.]

[B11: I… Call me B11. That’s enough.]

Then the comrade’s additional cut scene entered, and a boy in a black hood rotating a luminous drone showed up as a playable character.

‘Ah, then did Moondae copy this character?’

She had seen a few advertisements with that concept, so she tried to skip over it, but her over-immersed mind started to spin and analyze the situation.

‘Wait a minute. In High Five, the back number of Moondae’s baseball uniform was 11. Then if we assume that B is derived from ‘Park[1]Park is 박 in Korea. It’s actually ‘Bak’ but usually gets romanized as Park ‘…!?’

The college student gulped at the reasoning that seemed to fit.

‘Huh, anyway, let’s keep playing…!’

Surprised by the unexpected content, the college student continued to play.

Besides, this game was actually quite interesting.

The game was completely in first-person and it began with the main character falling into a sinkhole while out of town and moving to Seoul, a half-destroyed parallel world.

[It's strange. I clearly went out early in the morning, but the sky outside the sinkhole is red and dark.]

[I think I hear someone crying and groaning up there, but I'm not sure.]

[I am terribly embarrassed, but I am also worried that the sinkhole will collapse further if I stay still. What should I do?]

– Find a way up.

– Wait for rescue.

– Call for help.

– Listen to the sound more closely.

The atmosphere was somewhat depressing, but it was interesting and fun thanks to the joy of adventuring and exploring a well-constructed worldview for the first time and the abundance of options.

Even though it revolved around text, it wasn't boring because it included eye-catching graphics or illustrations for each battle and choice. And it was full of tension because it required a combination of luck and strategy.

'Hmm, let's keep going. I'm also curious about the story behind it.'

However, it hadn't given much weight to the storyline of the comrade character who was presumed to be Moondae, or of the characters similar to other Testar members who continued to join.

So, she wondered if each of the characters' stories would come out in the future.

'Ah, perhaps, will Testar's worldview appear?'

There would be people who cursed at Testar for making them play games, but for those who decided to continue playing, it was a bit thrilling.

The game continued, and the college student arrived at a subway station that had been engulfed in a strange red lump, with the animated characters half collapsed.

[The building is dark and only the emergency lights are blinking. It seems there's a strange fishy smell coming up. The subway doesn't seem to be operating, but there is still an announcement that a train is entering.]

[B11 :… Should I go search?]

– I agree.

– I refuse.

– Rebuke him.

– Go together.

"Go with me! Let's go together!"

The college student was completely over-immersed and enjoyed the game.

It was then.

[Sudden vibrations start to reverberate everywhere!]

[A huge red lump that is stuck underground flashes ominously, and strange things start to soar from the lump with a terrible noise…]

A battle forcibly progressed.

And all of the comrades were killed by something terrible from the red lump.

The last one left was B11 who resembled Park Moondae.

[B11:… You live.]

A cut scene where Park Moondae pushed the main character away was inserted.

The screen turned black with the vibration of the smartphone.

…Again, a narration popped up.

[…And when you come to my senses, you realize that you're alone.]

[All that remains are the burdens and heavy lives left by the comrades.]

[Now you have to go through this ruined Seoul, <Section 127> alone.]

And only then did the opening screen of the game appear. On the dark screen, the <127 SECTION> logo emerged, based on the biohazard sign

"…??"

The college student stared blankly at her smartphone, unable to accept what had just happened.

After a brief opening, a short help message appeared on the loading screen.

[※ The comrades who died in battle will not return. Forever.]

"…?!"

The college student was horrified.

“What the, w-what is this?”

Something must have gone wrong.

‘What kind of game kills all your comrades as soon as it starts?!’

It was in the middle of <CHAPTER 2>’s cut scene that started after the loading was finished that she managed to pull herself together.

[You admit that you can’t do everything alone in the end.]

[You need a comrade. Whether it’s a strategic ally or a temporary alliance.]

‘Yes, it can’t end like this!’

The college student recalled the complaints she had heard from her close gamer acquaintances.

‘I heard that there are a lot of people who have to buy all the game progress and connect them to be able to pick the characters!’

In that case, she was willing to spend money with tears and curses, saying ‘Are you treating me like an ATM? Isn’t your intention to extract money too vicious?’

‘Moondae, only pull out Moondae… ’

However, after the cut scene, there was a warning attached to the character draw that finally popped up.

[※The character you welcomed as a comrade will not appear again.]

“Hey!!”

She couldn’t figure out why these crazy people wouldn’t let her spend the money she owned.

She hurriedly turned on the Internet.

‘Maybe they died because I picked the wrong choice…!’

Then, this time, she would go through the strategy and proceed properly! She logged on to SNS with a bit of hope.

And she saw fans rolling in a pit of fire.

– Uaaaa

– What should I do? What is this? Why did Moondae die? ㅠㅠㅠ

– My impression on playing section 127: The developer is as evil as Idol Inc’s production team

– No, Baese in a robe ㅠㅠ He told me to live and he died ㅠㅠ But why can’t he live, isn’t this strange? It’s strange, why did he no matter what I choose? ㅠㅠ

– I’ve sorted it out… 7 comrades from the tutorial… Those comrades who are similar to Testar from the trailer will be annihilated at the end of Chapter 1 no matter what they do…

However, it seems that the character with the highest favorability dies last… F*ck this game ㅠㅠ Ughuhu ㅠㅠ

“…”

The college student lost her mind.

And she wasn’t the only one who was distraught.

In Testar’s trailer video, the latest comments had already started running in hangul at a terrifying speed.

– ㅠㅠㅠ Aigoo guys ㅠㅠ

– Now that I know the kids’ ending… I can’t even watch the trailer the same way… Help me… Take my money and give my kids back ㅠㅠ

– Is this why they said you won't die in the lyrics? ㅠㅠ No, seeing it again, they're saying they'll save me, crazy

– No way, is that why bonus book is the title? Is it Testar's big picture trying to reduce the blow by taking themselves outside? But a weak fan is already a disgrace… Come back to life! ㅜㅜ

There were sometimes people who fought to not give game spoilers, but most of them were swept away by the flooding comments.

Fortunately, fans soon regained their sanity and began to worry about hate posts such as 'The trouble Testar's fans caused to the new game'.

So the comments were mainly filled with crying or screaming.

And foreigners who didn't know the situation were perplexed, leaving comments such as 'What happened?' and 'Someone tell me why'.

What was funny and sad was that in the midst of this, there were people who continued to curse at the game because it was fun.

In addition, attractive elements suddenly popped up.

It was a costume shop that was added midway through Chapter 2.

[Give your comrades a new look!]

If you clicked this pop-up, costumes that were currently available for special purchase would appear.

And now, the costumes sold during the game launch season… were the costumes of comrades who disappeared brutally in Chapter 1.

Although dead comrades couldn't be pulled from the character draw, they had made it possible to overlay their appearance.

In addition, this explanatory text was attached.

[Purple Drone Boy Costume]

[: Someone's costume that evokes sentimental memories. I once protected you.]

Thanks to this, the people who picked characters with similar abilities and personality scripts and put on costumes to play them appeared one after another.

By the way, this symptom also occurred to game enthusiasts.

But they were a little calmer. Because it had already happened in the previous work.

– Abandoned Factory's persistence to not give up the leadership even after sticking with a large company

– It wasn't just a day or two this happened, so I already expected it

– These bastards must have enjoyed being cursed at. Are you feeling good after releasing the costumes and blocking the refund run?

– It's ranked 1 Play Store sale, I don't feel good

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋShoot, I am so annoyed, save Bill~

I watched the trailer and got Billㅅㅂ I really f*cking liked the sniper, should I buy a male character costume, you factory bastards?

– If the game is thrown out after 2 years, they will 100% give the selection of initial comrades. They'll get all the management's know-how and rob naive people's pockets until the end.

Wouldn't it be better to do it now when they all get sucked into it?

You're right, but I'm already sweetly choosing a costume, so it won't happen

It's modeled after idiots' long-term cash

And as they had expected, Abandoned Factory didn't open the selection of the initial comrades despite a flood of inquiries.

Since it was time for the users to be more immersed in the game's worldview, it was the developer's determination not to artificially give out comrades who could break the flow of the story.

At the same time, it was also because sales were already doing insanely well.

– Successfully restored all 7 characters with identical abilities and similar personalities. now we'll be together forever… (game screenshot)

 Oh my goodness

How much did you spend…?

 Whatever you imagine, I spent more than that. But I'm satisfied.

This happened frequently.

Several Testar's fans and game enthusiasts who were completely immersed in the game continued to increase the sale.

And in the process, most of the 127 Section players became familiar with Testar.

– I'm glad that they're living well as idols in 3D

Isn't something strange…? Isn't it usually the opposite…?

What the hell, are you saying they died in the second dimension and got reincarnated?

Wow, this bastard is real.

– Bill's name in this life is Moondae? No wonder he was given the codename B11, it seems even back then his name was suck

There is Easter egg in Myeongdong Cathedral. I recommend you check it out at least once.

Oh ㄱㅅ

This interest lasted for quite some time, as they could occasionally find small tidbits about the initial comrades in the later chapters of the game.

And an unexpected content from Testar was suddenly announced.

[Testar(TeSTAR) ‘BETTER ME’ Official Music Video]

The music video for Testar’s b-side track, BETTER ME, was released.

And the beginning of this music video… It was the last scene of the game collaboration trailer.

- 1. Park is 박 in Korea. It’s actually ‘Bak’ but usually gets romanized as Park

Chapter 112

When BETTER ME music video was played, Park Moondae's face was first seen staring at the camera.

Black hood and purple eyes, it was his appearance from the trailer.

[…]

Park Moondae stretched out his hand toward the camera without saying a word.

Then he operated the camera.

Click.

Whoosh.

As the video rewinded, scenes from the trailer began to pass backward.

Water tank. Sewer. Mannequins, falling guns. Biohazard sign.

And the screen finally began to show a worn-out cloth doll with a cogwheel.

The opening scene, where the rewind stopped.

Then the song began.

– Do not trust it

There no justice

Oooohh…

At that moment, the scene changed to Cha Eugene, who was holding a brand new doll instead of an old one.

Then the screen was pushed all the way back, taking a full shot of the whole area.

It was an ordinary classroom where students were taking classes. Testar members were seen sitting all over the classroom. The everyday expressions and the appearances as if they were attending class were caught on camera.

However, as soon as the rhythmic moombahton accompaniment began to flow out, the atmosphere of the classroom completely changed.

Whoosh.

All of the students except Testar disappeared, and an X-shape was drawn on each desk with luminous graffiti.

Then an intense group dance cut began against the backdrop of a dark classroom.

– Looking back, I can't tell

Umm

What happened.

Between the dance scenes, cuts in which the members were alone in distinctive places such as the school's music room and gym were inserted for each part of the choreography.

However, each space had changed into a strange atmosphere related to each Testar's ability that had been revealed since the time of 'Magical Boy'.

So, similar to what was seen in the concept photo, Testar in techwear outfits seemed to have created their own territories like a mid-level boss game.

– Target Target Target

GOT IT

As you run, as you grab

Singing in their own space, they looked distinctive and bored.

But. As soon as the trailer's thunderous riff melody fell, the atmosphere changed completely.

DDVVViiiii-!!

The scenes of Testar running away or rushing to escape from the monsters in school uniforms flashed by in a quick cut-scene, and the screen stopped at the class instruction on the blackboard.

Rough red graffiti was painted over the standard black letters.

[WINNER-TAKE-All :)]

[LOSER? Good bye : (]

Blood splattered over the English word that meant 'goodbye'.

Then the chorus began to flow.

– BUT.

It's just confusing

Since when

I'm just confused

Umm

How far you're going.

The desperate game of survival that didn't match with the melancholy chorus continued.

In the music video, the lyrics began to take on a completely specific meaning.

And as the song progressed, Testar's moves became more and more extreme.

Fighting cutscenes became more frequent than the acting, and the moment the last monster fell, the tension peaked.

[…]

When Kim Raebin looked back and lifted an awl, Ryu Chongwoo shot him in the back.

– Umm

Afterward, the music video centered on more intense performance cuts, and the cut scenes of hunting each other had been changed to an indirectly creepy composition.

And the song's bridge.

During the 2nd verse, Bae Sejin, who didn't get much cut scenes, got a close-up.

While singing his part, Bae Sejin suddenly got up and left the school entrance, his territory.

– That we can't handle, our Paradox

When cutting the line.

Bigger, Payback.

Get out of self-made twists and turns

Bae Sejin ran down the hallway and stood in front of the door at the end.

When he opened the door, a normal classroom appeared.

However, as the camera turned, the red graffiti paint dripping from the top of his school uniform was captured.

The moment Bae Sejin threw something in his hand, the final chorus burst out.

– BUT.

It's NOT confusing!

Who am I

I'm NOT confused

Oh!

To find out, BETTER ME

What was in Bae Sejin's hand was a heavy metal padlock.

The lock flew in a curve and fell, smashing the class instruction board. Shattered frames of the class instruction board were captured in slow motion.

And as soon as the frame fell to the floor, the moombahton accompaniment started playing.

Bae Sejin smiled.

– BETTER ME

Along with the splendid choreography, the timeline in the video began to change.

Kim Raebin's awl, which was being picked up after the last monster fell, was stopped by Park Moondae's series of attacks, and Testar disbanded with irritation at each other.

Their faces looked relaxed.

And the screen went back to the cut of Cha Eugene holding an old cloth doll.

[…]

But this time, Cha Eugene didn't spin the cogwheel.

[♫♪~]

Cha Eugene whistled and tossed the doll into the corner, then he started walking down the smashed hallway.

A fixed camera caught his breezy gait from behind, and 'BETTER ME' emerged as a white subtitle on the screen.

– BETTER ME

With that last hook, the video ended.

And Testar fandom faced an unexpected MV grand interpretation era.

* * *

"What are you watching?"

"Interpretation of our music video."

"Why did it get an interpretation?"

"…Hmm. Do you want to see it, too?"

"Yes!"

It was better to let Cha Eugene join than to be trapped in endless chains of questions and answers.

I connected the WeTube I was watching to the TV and launched it.

A duck character appeared on the screen.

[Hello, WeTube friends! This is the duck that interprets music videos, Haeorigamja.]

[Today's topic, the popular group! We have prepared an interpretation of Testar's newly released music video 'BETTER ME'.]

[In fact, I also cried hard while playing the game, so I may have a little personal opinion in this interpretation ㅠㅠ I apologize in advance.]

[※ <Section 127> Spoiler alert!]

[Let's get started!]

The duck introduced the simple plot of the 'BETTER ME' music video and explained the overall story.

[The monsters in school uniforms that appear in the middle of the music video seem to be the students that stayed in the same classroom as Testar.]

[Like this, all the monsters' school uniforms have name tags with their names on them. You can find name tags of the same color and name in the peaceful classroom cut scene.]

It was mostly like this.

'Good observation.'

I listened to the duck with some interest.

However, as soon as the contents of the music video were finished, this duck said something tremendous.

[In fact, there was a theory of Testar's worldview that I had been speculating about since 'Airplane', I was really convinced after watching 'BETTER ME' music video, so I'm going to tell you.]

[In Testar's worldview, Park Moondae and Bae Sejin are probably the same person.]

"Cough."

Bae Sejin, who was leaving the kitchen while drinking coffee, choked. Cha Eugene blinked and waited for the duck's next words.

[Since 'Magical Boy', the two have been on opposite paths. Park Moondae locked the front door of the school and Bae Sejin broke it down.]

[And in this 'BETTER ME' music video, Park Moondae turns the camera to close the time, and Bae Sejin breaks the class instruction frame that symbolizes this terrible time.]

[If you look at it like this, their abilities are the complete opposite, so why are they the same person? That's because these two abilities are actually on the same line.]

[Both deal with time and space constraints, but Park Moondae is the one who imposed the restriction. Bae Sejin used his ability to destroy the restriction.]

"What's your character?"

"On the same line. We're on the same line."

Bae Sejin answered and sat down next to the sofa. It seemed he became interested in the interpretation video.

[As I mentioned in the last video, Park Moondae's magic props are assorted as if they were books, but they are actually 'sleep'. Park Moondae goes back to the past by sleeping or blocking the view symbolized by sleeping.]

On the screen, a hand covering and removing the camera, Park Moondae standing at the main gate of the school, and I appeared.

And the video continued until I opened the door and ran into the school.

It was a scene from Airplane music video.

[By the way, isn't this cut familiar? That's right. It also appeared in this BETTER ME music video.]

[But it's Bae Sejin, not Park Moondae.]

The cut of Bae Sejin running down the school hallway was repeated in the video. The composition was certainly the same.

[Besides, what is the object Bae Sejin threw that broke the class instruction board frame? It is the same lock Park Moondae put on the gate in 'Magical Boy'.]

That was a detail I put in for them to notice.

[Based on these points, I hypothesized that these two are actually different personalities of the same person.]

And the evidence continued.

[Did you just see that? In Airplane music video, there are only six dorm beds. And in BETTER ME music video, Park Moondae sits alone in the back seat in the far corner. In fact, it's a position that wouldn't look strange if there are no students.]

[And so far, there has not been a single cut where someone other than Bae Sejin speaks directly to Park Moondae.]

The members were amazed.

“Oh.”

“…It’s plausible.”

It was true.

But the problem was that it was just a misunderstanding.

The lock was taken from the front gate, but this scene was cut off due to the time, and the director just happened to like the composition of the hallway, so he did it the same way.

The fact that there were no cuts of me talking to the other members… No, Seon Ahyeon didn’t seem to be there in the first place.

However, the number of views and comments was great, as if a considerable amount of fans had wondered about this theory.

‘…Should I suggest using that setting from the next album onwards?’

Shouldn’t we offer what the buyer likes, not what the seller likes?

In any case, the music video wrapped up the ‘Park Moondae are Bae Sejin are the same person theory’ and went back to explaining the worldview connection.

[Considering the type slip through Park Moondae’s dream, the timeline continues in the order of ‘Airplane’ -> ‘Magic Boy’ -> ‘BETTER ME’, and the trailer video ‘BONUSBOOK’.]

[However, maybe the trailer video wasn’t going to be included in the official plot. Bae Sejin stopped the incident in this ‘BETTER ME’ music video and ended it with ‘something that didn’t happen’.]

The screen showed the trailer’s clip in which Cha Eugene exploded the doll and the music video clip in which he didn’t.

‘You guess this correctly.’

It was a device made so that the plot wouldn't get too involved with the game.

We didn't want to be dragged around by the story of the game, and the game's side probably didn't want to be sucked into our worldview.

'It's treated as an IF version.'

Looking at the people's reactions to the game now, I thought it was a good choice… Even so, there were quite a few people who lost their minds, so we couldn't give them a bigger shock.

[It's a good thing considering the ending they fit in <127 Section>, but… It's really sad that we still have a long way to go to see the future of our first comrades ㅠㅠ.]

And a caption [Duck sobbing the moment B11 died] appeared at the bottom.

"…"

It seemed its influence was stronger than expected.

[However, the abilities the members used in the trailer will be reflected in the future worldview, so this duck is looking forward to it! Quack Quack!]

[Then everyone, see you in the next music video interpretation~]

"See you~"

"The duck is smart."

I handed over the TV to Cha Eugene and checked the video comments on my smartphone.

– Wow, really, Testar is crazy and drives the world insane

– That they're the same character ㄹㅇI got goosebumps

– Haeorigamja, thank you for your high-quality interpretation~ Thanks to you, I can comfortably watch the music video without using my head!

– I thought it was a battle royale feeling from the moment I saw Baromi, but it's more interesting to see it this way. I enjoyed watching it~^^

Looking at this, it seemed this person's theory had already been established. Even if I sort it by the latest comment, no one criticized or pointed it out.

'It's fun.'

It was interesting to see it being interpreted in a new way, even the parts that no one intended was neatly fitting.

And game enthusiasts who accidentally joined from time to time were also noticeable.

– So what do I have to do to see Bill?

□You can follow Moondae's SNS~ ㅎㅎ

□No, I'm a game fan, but I was wondering if Moondae-nim did anything else with B11, so I posted a comment. Anyway, thank you for the reply ㅠㅠ

□Yes ㅠㅠ

"Hmm."

This reminded me. Come to think of it, there was an additional release this week.

It was just content released as a fan service, but I wasn't sure if this side would unexpectedly react.

'It could be a bit embarrassing.'

I turned off my phone while rubbing the back of my neck.

And at 10:31 pm the next day, another new video was uploaded at Testar's official WeTube channel.

[Testar(TeSTAR) 'BETTER ME' choreography video late Halloween Ver]

It was a choreography video of Testar dressed as the initial comrades of <Section 127> in a Halloween costume version.

Chapter 113

For the past few days, in the ＜127 Section＞ community, some hardcore players had been analyzing ‘BETTER ME’ music video.

It was because they formed a strange belief that there would be game-related content in it due to its connection with the trailer.

＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝

[Godstar is confirmed in this video]

: The monsters wearing school uniforms in the middle seemed to be related.

When you go to the cave of Gangnam Bookstore, you can see the records of survivors when the meteorite falls, and it is the same as the description of the people who have changed because of the meteorite (game screenshot), which means Godstar video is a content about the time when the meteorite fell 7 years ago.

＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝

– The collaboration reached that far?ㄷㄷ

– Hey, it’s plausible

– Do I have to watch boy idol music videos to play this game?

– Is this what you call weeb’s immersion?

– Bullshitㄴㄴ It means 7 years had passed but their face is still the same, the Factory bastards won’t miss out on this

What if everyone’s already defected by the meteorite? It’s a Godstar psychic concept, but what if that psychic ability is due to the meteorite mutation?

This punk is so smart

Is your brain taken hostage by the factory? It's a smart delusion, but it sounds appealing to me, who's already a factory worker

You people are crazy ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

It was controversial, but the more people tore down the music video, the more suspicious it was.

If you put it on your nose, it was a nose ring, if you put it on your ears, it was an earring, that was how they saw it.

– Do you see the calendar behind the classroom? It's 2030. Section 127 is set in 2037, so this is seven years before the meteorite crisis. It's a perfect fit, right? (screenshot of the MV's blurry background)

– Godstar fans are pushing the theory that Bill and the doctor are the same person, but if this is the case, it explains why Bill is the only one with a codename. Bill is an Android clone linked to the drone.

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋYou guys are really funny

However, there was no big evidence and the video wasn't designated as an official collaboration, so the story hovered around the line of doubt.

And as usual, people who chanted prayers for the initial comrades occasionally made an appearance.

– Ah, whatever, give me back the sniper, you Abandoned Factory bastards ㅋㅋㅋ Or sell the right to change the comrades' name. Give the sniper a name

Hiik otaku…!

Do you do that sort of thing?

– I've just started, but I'm in a hurry to ask, why are they all dying? Please give me a guide

There's no such thing.

If you go to official cafes, guys like you appear every hour ㄱㄱ

At a time when the initial comrades were still hot issues, Testar uploaded a late Halloween choreography video.

The video even started with all of Testar lying on the floor, from the thumbnail.

And as soon as the intro of 'BETTER ME' started playing, each member stood up and took a different starting position from the original choreography.

It was the position from the illustration that appeared when entering the battle in the game.

Because they dressed up earnestly, the members who looked the same like the trailer even made similar facial expressions, raising the mood.

Cha Eugene even changed the intro.

– Do you trust me?

It's ME

Oooohh—.

Afterward, whenever the most impressive parts of their verses came out, all the members brought out small props that symbolized their characters and briefly copied the battle highlight cutscene.

The atmosphere was light and pleasant because most of them made a compromise with hats, flasks, and piles of small light bulbs to save the choreography.

However, Kim Raebin was flustered when he knocked over the mannequin while dragging it out of the blind spot of the camera in the chorus he sang.

– It's just confusing

Since when

I'm just confused

Umm

How far you're going

With the flustered Kim Raebin and the members holding back their laughter and moving the mannequin together, the melancholic lyrics somehow sounded funny like a meme.

In addition, from members who did it very shamelessly to members who were a little embarrassed or ashamed of exaggerated combat motions, it matched the impressions of the characters shown in the game.

Thanks to this, the over-immersion of the people watching the video intensified and peaked at the last part.

– Thank you!

– See you again~

– See you!!

Originally, it was a last-minute dance break where the gloomy atmosphere was released and reached its peak.

But when the members who danced happily waved their hands and said that, the endings that completely matched them in the game overlapped.

The members were just shy and excited about the fun shooting, but the aftermath was scary.

The comments were full of crying people.

Even the English comments were pushed out of the top exposure.

-ㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠUaaagh

– We're going to see each other again, right? Right, guys?ㅠㅠ You're collaborating again, right?

– Ah, PTSD-ssi is coming, but what is this happy feeling?

– Guys, just wait, I'm going to scream now. I'm not going to stop until everyone gets it rightㅠㅠ

– My kids are alive and doing well over there, but I was obsessed with the wrong kids in the game… Let them go… Let's wait until our Testar comes back…

Conflicting opinions were simultaneously recommended and posted in the comments, and people who cried and laughed in large comments appeared one after another.

Even in the game community where the video was shared, the atmosphere was the same.

– Dead comrades are back for Halloween

ㄴㅅㅂ

Don't leave comments like this, it's sad

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋAh, our Bill isn't dead, he's still alive in my deck. I just changed his name, what are you guys saying?

– Don’t make such childish jokes when you’re called ‘Godstar’ (emoticon unable to hold back tears)

– Godstar is better than devilish factory bastards

Thanks to this, even the non-fan game players joined the procession of Loviewers who cried and laughed in the comments.

The curious foreign fans were confused again because they couldn’t understand the situation, but it became more painful for them after they understood the situation through translations on SNS.

It was because ＜127 Section＞ had not yet launched a global service.

– I really want to play that game (laughing and crying emoticon)

– PURE JEALOUSLY (burning emoticon)

Along with the suffering of foreign fans who didn’t even get a chance to mourn, the Halloween commemorative choreography video successfully became a channel for game enthusiasts to enter.

That’s how the stormy October with the game collaboration came to an end.

* * *

In early November, the release of the game collaboration content was over.

But, of course, the group schedule became busier. This was because during this comeback, the results were better than the debut and the stock price soared.

As if to prove that, I was running on this schedule.

A high-cost commercial.

“Raise the corners of your mouth and smile～”

I held up the lightstick and tried to smile as best as I could. Fortunately, the director seemed satisfied and he threw another instruction.

“Tilt your head here!”

Tilt my head…

By the way, I was told that a picture of a dog’s ears would be edited on top of this.

‘…Isn’t that too much?’

Even the title of the ad was this.

[Magical Boy Testar’s magical artificial intelligence assistant, Curiosy!]

On top of that, the AI character was a puppy, so it seemed they wanted to use Park Moondae more actively.

I wondered if it would be okay to be broadcasted on TV like this, but…

It was worth 350 million dollars in three months, so I decided to shut up and follow the advertiser’s instructions. They would take care of it.

“Yes, that’s enough～”

“Thank you.”

Anyway, the shooting went smoothly.

The waiting members expressed their joy at the finished today’s schedule.

But Keun Sejin didn’t take his eyes off his smartphone and only waved his hand with a smile.

Hmm, he wasn't that kind of guy, so it didn't feel good.

"What are you doing?"

"Ah, sorry. It's not a big deal."

Keun Sejin shrugged his shoulders and put down his smartphone.

And staring alternatively at Keun Sejin and me from next to us, Cha Eugene blurted out with his eyes shining.

"Is it your girlfriend?"

"…!!"

"What?! No, absolutely not! Hey, what are you talking about~"

"Whoa!"

"Don't even think about dating!"

"It's nothing like that!"

Keun Sejin shook Cha Eugene several times and let him go. Then he smiled and gave a proper explanation.

"The guys who debuted in the past suddenly contacted me. Hmm~ it's unexpected."

Seon Ahyeon admired from next to us.

"Se-Sejin has so many friends!"

"Ahaha, well, we're not friends~ We just know each other?"

Keun Sejin laughed and drew a line with a smile.

'Showing up and making a contact now is absurd.'

Keun Sejin finished his words with a shrug.

“We’ll see each other next month anyway~”

“H-Huh?”

“Oh, you mean the year-end awards ceremony?”

Keun Sejin nodded at Ryu Chungwoo’s words.

“Yes. There’s less than a month left until the first award ceremony~”

“Wow…”

“It’s already that time.”

At those words, everyone seemed to be immersed in their own aftertaste. It was clear that they were recalling the eventful year, starting from <Idol Inc> to this album.

And I had a hunch.

‘I will go back to an even crazier schedule.’

It was a schedule that had very little free time other than sleeping time. In addition to that, we had to prepare for the year-end awards ceremony?

It was visible that the agency was still trying to narrow down and create a schedule that made the most money.

It would probably be difficult to reduce that, so we should cut down our sleeping time.

As if I wasn’t the only one who thought that far, Kim Raebin raised his hand and said.

“Then we should start preparing for the year-end award ceremony soon.”

“Mmm.”

“…Do we have a lot to prepare in particular?”

Bae Sejin’s cautious question, which had nothing to do with the music awards ceremony, sparked fierce reactions from K-pop veterans here and there.

“Let’s do a special performance!”

“At any rate, I think I’ll probably make about three separate versions of the arrangement. It’s also unknown how much we’ll participate, but…”

“M-Make a lot of new choreography…!”

“…”

Bae Sejin, who had the lowest stats, looked sick of it already, but he soon nodded. His face looked grim as he grasped the situation.

“…I-I see. I have to work hard.”

“Right. Let’s work hard and attend many awards ceremonies.”

“I love awards!”

“Ah, it would be great to receive it~”

The conversation between the guys who brightly gave up their lives continued amicably. The problem was that I did too.

‘I have to pay attention to the rookie award.’

It was fine to sleep late. I checked the status abnormality once again.

[‘Win an award or die’]

: If you don't receive a Rookie of the Year award at the most prestigious domestic awards ceremony within the time limit, you will die

As long as the standard for the expression 'most prestigious' was ambiguous, I had to win Rookie Awards at the three most prestigious awards ceremonies.

'It's not directly related to the awards ceremony performance, but if the performance is insincere, even the people voting will lose their spirits.'

Considering the upcoming awards ceremony season, I had to pay as much attention to the performance as possible.

'Well, we have no competitors in terms of levels.'

It was definitely more comfortable than before.

"First of all, Moondae will take responsibility for our live performance. Aren't you too relaxed?"

"R-Really!"

"Thank you always."

"…Right, thanks."

"Haha!"

It became the topic of conversation while I was organizing my thoughts. Anyway, the team atmosphere was good.

And that night, I got a message on my way to the car.

[VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim: Next is the Rookie Award, right?]

"…"

Isn't he still on a tour?

At any rate, I didn't want to get baited.

I quickly sent a reply.

[I would be really happy to receive any awards. I hope you get good results as well.]

After a while, a reply came back.

[VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim: Yes ^^]

'I really want to block him.'

I turned off the notification and turned on the Internet.

And while browsing awards ceremonies, I found an article that stood out.

[Isn't it too much for Testar to win the Rookie Award?]

Chapter 114

“What’s wrong with Testar winning the rookie award?’

I could roughly guess what it was about, but I clicked it at once.

= =

[Isn’t it too much for Testar to win the rookie award?]

: Shouldn’t we see it as an extension of Idol Inc instead of a rookie group that debuted normally?

I think it should be viewed as a variety show. To be honest, they’re taking away other new groups’ opportunities.

= =

As expected.

‘I roughly expected this reaction.’

Isn’t this what I heard when we overlapped with VTIC? We were destroying the ecosystem.

Honestly, I could understand.

“<Idol Inc.> would’ve come up.’

Since it was a group that debuted with the glory of such a well-known audition program, it wasn’t strange to hear words such as the broadcasting company’s tyranny or stuff like that.

However, the participants had a hard time while filming the variety show, and in season 3, the higher-ups knew that they would fail and almost gave up, so it was a bit unfair to be recklessly criticized.

“This public opinion isn’t strong enough to change the trend anyway.’

Looking at the comments, it was already a one-sided argument that couldn’t be called a fight.

– That variety show was an idol audition, what are you talking about;

Isn’t it even more unfair that It’s an idol audition…?

Unfair, my ass. Anyone who sees this will think that idol audition is illegalㅋㅋㅋ

– Ah, what’s this, I was writing a long letter to answer seriously, but it’s just an aggro?

– There are so many idols from audition programs, so should they all be treated as fake debuts?ㅋㅋㅋ Is it because Idol Inc is doing well? Strange arguments keep popping up – So, you like the group that got pushed back from the Rookie Award this year, fighting!

– I also think the Idol Inc program itself is deformed, but that doesn’t mean Testar kids don’t deserve to be rookies.

– You went too farㅉㅉ

The later comments almost ended up with ridicules to the writer.

“Hmm, I don’t really like this atmosphere.’

It seemed this article really was an aggro, but the problem was that there were occasional comments laughing at the performance of the rookie group that debuted this year.

They didn’t seem to be Testar fans, just people who had fun mocking someone.

– Hm, even the best rookies this year barely managed to sell 80,000 copies… ㅋㅋ

ㄴㅋㅋㅋHeol, it's not even a game

□With these levels, it's a bit of a waste of the Rookie Award, isn't it? ㅋㅋㅋㅋIt's a shameㅠ

"It's not good to give the fans of the rookie groups who debuted this year a chance to fight like this.'

It was a bit annoying, but it wasn't a big deal.

It was not a particularly popular article, and Testar's level wasn't outstanding enough that no one couldn't criticize us.

I just shrugged and turned to another page.

And the following week, even when I was in the middle of preparing for the year-end practice, I didn't worry too much about the Rookie Award.

* * *

The mirror in the dance practice room was damp.

"Let's take a break, huft, then we will start again."

"Ugh…"

"I'm dying."

If even Cha Eugene said such a thing, I didn't have to explain the other guys' conditions.

"Cha Eugene… is probably the one suffering the most.'

This was because Cha Eugene's singing part in the solo choreography for the song we were practicing now was quite long.

I thought the finished work would be great since we even put an aerial device in the middle… The problem was the person who did it was having a hard time.

“Do you want water?”

“Yes…”

I threw the bottle of mineral water I was carrying to Cha Eugene.

“…Me too, a little.”

“Me too, Moondae, be kind to me.”

I threw water at both Sejin who were far away. And for a moment, the practice room became quiet. Everyone was pouring water into their mouths.

After quite a while, Seon Ahyeon looked around and said.

“S-Still… I think it’ll be cool.”

“That’s right.”

“It will be a great stage if you could get the camera right.”

At Kim Raebin’s words, giggles erupted here and there. Kim Raebin was a little bewildered as he couldn’t figure out why people were laughing.

“Funny guy.’

I smiled and took out my smartphone. I was thinking of checking the progress of the Rookie of the Year voting in the meantime.

However, the manager came into the choreography practice room with a lot of drinks, so I naturally put the phone down.

“Hyung!”

“Coffee!”

“Thank you so much for making it cold…”

The manager asked while handing over the drinks.

“Right… Guys. How’s the practice going?”

“Yes!”

“If we keep practicing like this, I think we’ll do well at the award ceremony.”

“Hmm, that’s great! But guys, sit down.”

“…?”

Ryu Chungwoo, who was relaying the progress as the representative, was a little bewildered, but he soon calmly gathered the members.

“What is it?”

“…Is there an additional schedule?”

“No, it’s not that. Um…”

The manager looked troubled. After hesitating a few times, he spoke seriously.

“Tomorrow… They said there will be an article. Regarding Idol Inc.”

“…!”

“T-net tried to block it as much as possible, but it didn’t work out. Our side is also preparing a response article, so don’t worry too much.”

“…What article is it?”

“Well, it’s a rumor about the participation in Idol Inc, but we already have all the rebuttal materials, so it’ll be okay… It seems to focus on Ryu Chungwoo in particular, but don’t panic.”

I barely swallowed my saliva.

“What’s going to explode has exploded now.’

This was 100% a controversy over having a writer as a relative.

‘The writer also kept her mouth shut, so I thought it wouldn’t be a big deal for a year.’

It seemed the group was doing so well that a lot of people tried to dig into us.

Perhaps Ryu Chungwoo had guessed this, his face was dark, but he didn’t look surprised.

He just asked carefully.

“…Do I have to say something?”

“I haven’t heard anything about that… Wait.”

The manager went out to talk on the phone again with a flustered look.

And the mood of the remaining members naturally dropped. It was because the adrenaline that offset the fatigue from practice had just disappeared with the news.

Keun Sejin asked seriously.

“Hyung-nim, you must be tired, but can we hear a brief explanation of what’s going on?”

“…Of course.”

Ryu Chungwoo repeated the same story he had told me at the last drinking party to the members.

To sum it up, the writer, a distant relative whom he had hardly ever seen, had contacted him through a family reunion.

Most of them were relieved, perhaps thinking that it wouldn't spread into a big problem as long as the explanation went well.

"Hmm, then you're not in a relation with her~"

"That's right… I don't think it'll spread much if it's explained properly."

Ryu Chungwoo still looked bitter.

"I'm sorry for causing unnecessary controversy at such a critical time."

"I-It's fine! H-Hyung, don't worry too much…"

"Well, there's nothing we can do about it since it's already happened. Let's hope it will work out!"

Bae Sejin quietly added.

"…Ryu Chungwoo, in that case, then I should have already left the group."

"…!"

This guy even knew how to joke around now.

And Cha Eugene replied brightly.

"That's true!"

"Hey!"

“Haha!”

The hot-tempered Bae Sejin was funny, so the atmosphere loosened up a little.

“Well, worrying about it won’t do anything. Shall we continue practicing?”

“That’s a wise decision.”

The manager who came back after finishing the call was a bit taken aback when he saw us start practicing, but he went back with relief.

And the morning after I was worried about fatigue and just went to bed, a series of articles popped up.

[Idol Inc’s writer cast Testar’s Ryu Chungwoo through “family connection’]

[The uncomfortable truth of the audition program, Testar also has the power of blood ties?]

[Testar who debuted in Idol Inc. The writer’s relative is the former medalist Ryu Chungwoo.]

It was a lineup that I had expected.

Comments quickly increased on a few articles on society, not entertainment.

“Don’t look at the comments.”

“…Got it.”

Ryu Chungwoo looked worried.

“…The fans must be having a hard time.”

Fortunately, rebuttal articles also appeared one after another.

[T1 Stars “Is the writer related? Ryu Chungwoo has never seen her face before’]

[Idol Inc’s writer is more distant to Ryu Chungwoo than his 15th cousin… She’s not even a relative.]

Usually, in this case, the rebuttal articles often didn’t receive proper attention.

However, the response was made immediately in such a short time, and Ryu Chungwoo’s existing image was good, so he was able to be on the top of the portal news tab.

Of course, the efforts of the fans were great.

– I think she was just trying to contact Ryu Chungwoo somehow and ended up going to a family reunion? With that timing, the writer would have hit the jackpot, but Ryu Chungwoo was fooled into the crazy Idol Inc ㅋㅋㅋ (👍11026 👎 1501)

– The 9th cousin is a stranger but 15th cousin is like an enemy (👍8490 👎 422)

– 15th cousin? Honestly, you guys are just nitpicking. If I was the writer, I would cast someone from the national team too (👍6178 👎 759)

Testar group fans were mostly convinced, and public opinion quickly began to recover.

The company’s press and public relations team also contacted us separately.

“I don’t think there will be a big problem. But let’s refrain from SNS for a while, Chungwoo.”

“…Yes, thank you.”

Ryu Chungwoo looked relieved, but it seemed he was somewhat distraught that he couldn’t post anything, such as an apology or appreciation to his fans.

I held back a sigh.

'…I guess there's a lot to be said.'

In fact, it had been confirmed that general public opinion had failed to recover in some communities on the Internet.

= = = =

until the end. How annoying. Someone didn't even get the right portion, but Ryu Chungwoo got recruited? ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

Suspicions and criticism for Ryu Chungwoo grew stronger, and eventually, the arrows were directed to the entire Testar.

– Honestly, the other members too… ㅋㅋ Hmm I can't say more because I'm afraid of the fans

ㄴㅋㅋㅋI'll say it for you! No, is it only Ryu Chungwoo~ Honestly, all of the debut team members received editing benefits.

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋI'm so relieved.

Fans are about to have a fit.

Prediction: Who got a bad edit? Did they go up on stage without much portions?

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋsmart

Even the bad editing was fixed later, but they cover their eyes and don't want to look like losers, those fans and the singers…

Of course, this atmosphere was not normal, so it did not last long and subsided to some extent.

It was because the people who were tired that the issue didn't work well this far had taken the lead in the second half.

The company seemed to think that these places would move on quickly if another issue broke out, so they put off their priorities as they focused on dealing with the mainstream media.

So, the public opinion that doubted Testar's legitimacy didn't immediately disappear and remained an inconvenience.

And not long after, this topic began to come out again.

＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝

[Testar's Rookie Award]

: Their level is real, so there's nothing we can do about the popularity award or the main award… I want to give the rookie award to another group ㅠㅠ I feel so sorry for the kids who are robbed off…

＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝

The difference from the last time was that there were people who actively responded.

Chapter 115

The arguments that claimed Testar shouldn't receive the Rookie of the Year award became more elaborate than before.

It was because the focus had shifted from Testar to the rookies.

– Really ㅠㅠ I feel bad when I think of the kids who are good enough by last year's standard has to give up…

– In the first place, the fact that they came from an entertainment show is confusing, if Testar just recently came out, would a rookie have this level?

ㄴㅇㅇ In a situation when Idol Inc's fairness is being questioned, giving them the Rookie Award is really too much

– Wow, I think you guys crossed the line. So what if Testar does some hoarding, I still acknowledge them

Honestly, I think it's worse than hoarding.

No, hoarding is a crime. What are you talking about…

Don't you think it's more of a problem than a crime? That's why there's no way to stop it.

– Shouldn't we take this opportunity to separate the cases of the people who rapidly rose from a program? ㅠ The Rookie Award should be given to a real rookie.

'They're good at putting it together.'

They couldn't drag down the group's performance, so it seemed they didn't want to give the symbolic Rookie Award to us.

If we didn't get the Rookie Award through this, they might twist their words and say 'Perhaps they really weren't meant to receive the Eookie Award'.

But that wouldn't happen.

Because talking here didn't affect the actual award's counting.

'Well, it's not possible to give negative votes like in Idol Inc.'

Anyway, the main public opinion was all set, so the probability of problems occurring in the judges' scores was low.

It was possible that some communities would curse at us and not give any congratulations for winning the Rookie Award, but… It was unlikely that there would be problems with the award right away.

Right now, this article was also getting pushed back as time went by.

– Why did you even mention the hoarding? You've gone crazy

– Well, if there was a comet-like rookie who had sold about 200,000 copies, I would have been persuaded… Unfortunately, there were no rookies like that… ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– I understand how you feel, but why are you guys recreating the standard for the Rookie Award ㅋㅋ

There were a lot of comments like this.

'Let's just practice for the year-end performance.'

I stopped monitoring for now.

It was to avoid being unnecessarily affected.

'…I hope the fans don't get too stressed out.'

It was difficult to do anything because communication activities such as SNS were suspended.

Actually, if they overdid it, they could turn the controversy around by writing something like ‘Then who do you think should receive the Rookie Award instead of Testar?’…

But if Park Moondae got caught, it would be a real scandal.

‘I’ll just have to finish the stage properly.’

Eventually, my mind returned to practice. I accepted the conclusion with a sigh.

“One more time.”

“Yes.”

And after a while, the atmosphere of the practice became grim.

‘They’ve looked everywhere.’

Apparently, the controversial aggressive articles had spread quite a bit. I had seen the fans lamenting.

Thanks to this, the momentum to show it up to them was almost at the level of Idol Inc’s team.

Ryu Chungwoo, who was almost exhausted, muttered as if he was grasping for facts that he already knew.

“What we’re practicing now… Is it for SBC?”

“That’s right.”

Listening to Kim Raebin’s answer, Bae Sejin muttered with a pale face.

“…I think this is the hardest.”

“That’s right! It’s fun!”

“…”

Bae Sejin looked at Cha Eugene’s cheerful face for a moment with an expression that said he wanted to hit him at least once.

Ryu Chungwoo smiled and sort out the situation.

“Alright. Let’s work hard and show it to them.”

“Y-Yes!”

“Let’s all do our best~”

Perhaps because the agency was aware of any additional controversies, the external schedule in November was slightly reduced, so the practice time increased a bit.

Therefore, the year-end award season arrived only after preparations for various awards stages were completed.

The first award ceremony was ToneA.

* * *

ToneA. It was the largest global music award in Asia hosted by T1.

This meant that it was an award ceremony hosted by a parent company that wholeheartedly supported Testar.

Of course, Testar won the prize because of its grades.

“The winner is… Testar! Congratulations!”

I’d heard this 4 times today alone.

We won the Excellence Award, Popularity Award, and even the Music

Video Award.

And of course… We also won the Rookie of the Year award.

“Thank you very much! In the future, I will know this award as an award given to me to not lose our original commitment, and I will be more careful and work harder.”

The speech for the Rookie of the Year Award was deliberately made by Keun Sejin. It was a matter that was already discussed with Ryu Chungwoo.

We talked to the company about the content and ended it in a way that wouldn’t be controversial, so at worst, we probably would just end up getting cursed at.

…However, as expected, my status abnormality wasn’t resolved.

‘I didn’t have expectations.’

Everyone knew that ToneA didn’t have much authority even if it claimed to be the largest in Asia.

Anyway, once the first awards ceremony ended safely, the members seemed to relax a little.

“Thank you for your hard work~”

However, even though we won the award, the relief that ‘we made it’ seemed to be greater than the joy.

‘It just burst out now so they’re having a hard time.’

It didn’t feel very good to miss the timing when we would most deeply feel the worth of our hard work for a year.

“Guys, you did a great job.”

“Hehe.”

“I-I’m glad it ended well.”

“If we judge it by ourselves, excluding other variables, I think we performed as good as we had prepared.”

There was a moment of silence at Kim Raebin’s words.

‘…I did work hard.’

The stage here took about eight minutes.

Tnet asked us to brag about how ‘Testar has released so many hit songs’, so we bundled the four songs into a medley.

Thanks to this, there were almost no additional movements, so the practice was relatively easy. There was no break in the middle, so the problem was that we had to come down the stage and find a respirator.

Still, we did it well without any mistakes, but the problem was… the camera.

I only monitored the second half, but I had no idea what the hell I was doing.

The screen was so dark that I couldn’t concentrate well.

‘I’m pissed off.’

Even data selling was fine, I hoped someone filmed it properly with a fixed camera. I would have to look it up on WeTube later.

“…Hm, I’m sure it was conveyed properly to those who were there.”

“The cheers were good.~”

First of all, everyone tried to gloss over the camera issue because they couldn’t criticize it in the hallway behind the stage.

I could put up with the disappointment because there were still a lot of stages left that I had prepared more carefully.

'…Let's just pick up my smartphone in the waiting room.'

I wanted to see if there were any other problems that popped up. I thought maybe it would end with getting cursed in one or two popular posts.

And when I went back to the waiting room, I met a face that was completely unexpected and unwelcome.

"Hello."

"Gosh! Sunbae-nim!"

"Hello!"

…It was Cheongryeo.

'A Grand Prize winner is standing at the door of a rookie's waiting room?'

It was like a protest for the person involved to see.

'Are you trying to make it impossible for me to avoid you?'

In any case, the members who were embarrassed by the unimaginable situation bowed their heads and poured out words of congratulations.

"Congratulations on winning the Grand Prize 2 times!"

"Congratulations!"

"Ah, thank you."

Cheongryeo received the greetings with a smile. Kim Raebin asked with his eyes flashing.

“Why do you visit our waiting room?”

“I want to congratulate and see the faces of my hubae.”

Cheongryeo made eye contact with me.

“Congratulations on your Rookie Award. I’m sure it didn’t mean much.”

“…!”

“Yes?”

Cheongryeo added bashfully to Kim Raebin, who was a bit bewildered.

“Since you’ve won four awards, you are already too popular to be considered rookies. I look forward to your activities in the future.”

“Ah, thank you!”

“Then, since I’ve seen your face, I’ll be on my way. I have a schedule.”

“Yes, have a safe trip!”

Cheongryeo nodded slightly and smiled.

“Good luck.”

Then he strode down the hallway and disappeared.

I clicked my tongue inwardly.

‘…He completely emphasized the Rookie of the Year Award.’

It was clear that he had similar conditions. Because he even mentioned that the ToneA Rookie Award was meaningless.

‘It’s uncomfortable.’

The aftertaste didn’t feel good because this information was passed on one-sidedly without expecting anything in return.

‘I might be able to make a deal using the list of status abnormalities I’ve suffered.’

As I started guessing, the other guys next to me chattered.

“Oh~ Moondae, did you make new connections through entertainment shows?”

“A-Are you guys… close?”

At Seon Ahyeon’s question, my face almost turned serious.

“…We’re just acquaintances.”

“T-Then, can I ask a question…!”

The last one was not from Seon Ahyeon, but from Kim Raebin who intervened in the conversation. It seemed he stuttered because of excessive excitement.

‘Come to think of it, this guy often mentions VTIC.’

As I made an assumption that he was a fan, Kim Raebin, who soon came to his senses, said earnestly with a serious face.

“I’m really curious about the arrangement program VTIC sunbae-nims used for the title track of the last album…!”

“…”

This guy was more interested in the jetbap[1]Jetbap = steamed rice prepared for sacrifice in ancestral rites. I think Moondae is referring to Cheongryeo’s peace offering (aka the song he had used to make a deal last time) than I was.

“I’ll ask him when I get a chance.”

“Thank you!”

Kim Raebin, who couldn’t catch the meaning that such chances would never come, was happy. Well, at least one of us was happy.

‘Let’s check the audience’s reaction.’

In the car on the way back to the practice room, I lightly browsed SNS and the community.

Still, public opinion hadn’t deteriorated, and there were more congratulatory opinions than sarcastic ones.

‘…The fans are holding back.’

In order not to get pounced, I could see that they were trying to ignore the provoking words as much as possible and push those texts away with congratulations.

This was because, if you got involved in an emotional battle, only the group with a clear identity would lose in the end.

Of course, their rebukes continued in their personal SNS account.

– In the end, all that’s left is a record. Don’t worry about the crap that will disappear after half a year. Just vote.

– Ah ㅅㅂ I have to beat all those bullshit, but I’m going to put up with it

– Rising. There are a lot of bastards who have tasted smashing, even the Valkyrie in the midst of this ㅋㅋㅋ I am going crazy

– ㄹㅊㅇ What’s going on, all of this because of the unattractive muggle pick ㅇㅈㅅ They ruined the entire team and started fighting from the time the leader wore the armband.

From group fans to malicious individual fans, everyone was complaining out of exhaustion.

I felt a sense of debt.

'…I'd rather just not accept it.'

I felt a bit bitter that I had to wipe my mouth[2]Wipe one's mouth is a Korean expression. It means eating something alone and then wiping the mouth quickly so that no one else would notice. In other words, it is used when someone does something and acts as if nothing happens. in an attempt to avoid sudden death.

'Still, I don't think I'm going to die.'

Fortunately, since it hadn't been pushed back by public opinion, it seemed that this issue would continue to go up and down only at this level in the future, and it was likely to fade by the end of the awards ceremony.

'Even in ToneA, we only took what we deserved.'

I was a little worried that they would take care of us excessively, but they just wrapped it up appropriately, perhaps noticing the issues.

Public criticism didn't rise above the surface because it was the level of friendliness that would be shown to anyone in an award ceremony.

'It's a shame that I don't earn much from that stage.'

It seemed that waiting for the fancams would solve it to some extent. We still had the next performance left.

'It didn't work out, but there are times like this.'

When things calmed down, I should upload something that would relieve the fans' stress.

I sort out my mind and turned off my smartphone.

No, I was thinking of turning it off, but… I just saw the title of a post registered as the latest popular post in the community.

[From Tnet Entertainment, a rookie boy idol group who only had to clap while winning 4 awards]

"…"

I clicked on the title right away.

Then, image posts in the form of card news appeared.

*'F*ck.'*

That bastard was working hard.

* * *

Cheongryeo looked down at his smartphone. There was a popular post about the Rookie of the Year Award that became a mess.

"I'm curious."

"…Yes? About what?"

Cheongryeo didn't respond to the member's comment. He just put his SNS account on the screen.

'What's going to happen?'

Cheongryeo posted several photos taken today on SNS one after another with captions.

And in the meantime, he picked a picture and posted it as if it just passed by insignificantly.

= = = =

Hubaes working hard

Good luck at the end of the year

= = = =

Chapter 116

The card news-type posts consisted of large catchy fonts and images.

[Do you know Onyx?]

[Rookie idol group that debuted this year]

Below that, Onyx's records were attached. It was a record that a rookie idol, who was well-established with 80,000 copies in Initial Chodong and overseas performances, could achieve.

[However, Onyx can't expect any rookie awards this year.]

[This is because there is a group that has achieved unbelievable results as a rookie.]

An entire page was devoted to emphasizing the appearance, name, and performance of the award-winning 'Testar'.

And from the next page, there was a one-sided explanation of Testar.

[Testar is a group made in an entertainment show.]

It showed how heavily involved the broadcasting station was in <Idol Inc.> , there was even a talk about whether the program had a strong entertainment tone.

In addition, the controversial story of the writer's relatives and the editing were listed following the title of the article.

[The power of the entertainment department and mass media has influenced the popularity of the music industry.]

And without missing a beat, the expected question's defense page was also included.

[Q: Haven't there been a lot of idol auditions so far?]

[A: Audition 'Entertainment' is the problem.]

[The problem is that the agency's own audition is not aired, it's a 'full-fledged entertainment show' made by producers and writers of the entertainment department.]

[Q: Aren't there a lot of solo artists who debuted through audition entertainment shows?]

[A: It wasn't formed through the program, the format was to discover existing artists.]

[Q: Aren't there a lot of programs where you released songs and were active on entertainment shows?]

[A: They're not evaluated in the Rookie of the Year category.]

And along with pictograms, there were photos of rookie idols struggling.

[Rookie artists bumping into each other with their albums alone on an unfair platform]

Finally, an additional page was attached.

[This year's ToneA Awards Ceremony]

[Testar received four awards including the Rookie of the Year Award and four performances.]

[The other rookies didn't get a single award or a chance to showcase a single song.]

The image of other rookies clapping was inserted into the background.

[The large company that sponsored ToneA was the company that sponsored the entertainment show that created Testar.]

The card news ended with a quote from the best-selling book ‘The Illusion of Fairness’.

This meant that they had taken care of the composition very faithfully by using images that people think were authoritative.

Moreover, the tone was sneakily turned over.

‘…It was linked to the entertainment industry’s infiltration of the music industry.’

Of course, when you came back to your sense, it was all just a bunch of crap.

This was because stage projects in entertainment were a one-time thing and it was intended to create episodes.

‘On the other hand, <Idol Inc.> is an entertainment show that was launched to create an idol group from the beginning.’

The format was completely different.

Besides, this was an unfair place, to begin with.

The issue of having a different starting line in terms of attention and opportunities was already a chronic problem for people from large entertainment companies.

‘Testar isn’t the only one with the problem of being very special.’

However, the problem was that there were a lot of people who originally disapproved of Testar itself, and public opinion in the community was not in a good state due to the talk of fairness that had emerged from the relative issue.

In addition, the article didn’t say that Testar’s records were unfair, but it limited itself to the topic ‘Rookie of the Year Award’ to lower the sense of repulsion.

So, the words that wouldn’t have been accepted in the first place were easily accepted thanks to the ‘people who want to believe it’.

– It’s not that Testar kids did anything wrong, it’s just that the current method is weird. I agree

That’s right, it seems that the power of entertainment broadcasting stations has grown too much in the music industry.

Like this, Loviewers laughed at me for wishing 80,000 copies Onyx to win the Rookie of the Year Award ㅠ They were being too much

– I’m getting sick of it. Why the hell are you doing this?

It’s true that entertainment suck ㅋㅋ Loviewers, don’t snap and read carefully first~

– What is this… <Idol Inc.> ended up getting attention when they just released their debut album, but now they’re doing well and getting good records.

Isn’ it such a waste of the Rookie Award?

-? But all of the audition programs are made by PDs and writers from entertainment departments? It’s not just Idol Inc

Name one idol audition that pulled as much aggro as Idol Inc

Thanks to this, there was a commotion in the comments between those who sympathized and those who asked them to stop speaking nonsense.

The more opinions were divided in extreme ways, the more popular it became.

*‘F*ck this, really.’*

This was definitely not made by Onyx fans.

There were about 10 times the weight class difference between them and Testar, so they couldn't get cocky.

This was made by a bunch of guys who just wanted to screw up Testar.

'You're going this far?'

Making card news was not an ordinary effort. Not to mention the diligence in posting on all kinds of social media and communities at the same time.

I don't know how much hatred I had to keep to be able to do something like this. If it were me, I would just not watch it.

Honestly, it was a bit… creepy.

'Don't tell me, I can't get the Rookie Award because of this… '

No, that was too much.

'They can take it away only when it grows big enough to be on the news.'

At an awards ceremony of any size, it would be impossible to not give something like this to the original recipient.

*'Wishing to sh*t on Testar's image. Wishing the fans to leave when they get tired.'*

My mind went cold.

'…Should I use a more extreme method?'

I put it on hold because I was afraid that innocent people would be involved, but now the people pretending to be fans were more of a problem than those guys.

And I couldn't afford to worry about it for too long.

Because there were more crazy articles coming up.

= = = =

There was no way that the fans would like to meddle in such a sensitive matter. They might get pounced on later on.

'He's just trying to pick a fight with me.'

He was saying that I should cooperatively reveal everything I hid because he could totally screw me up.

Even if I contacted him now, there was a high possibility that I would suffer losses due to my anger.

'…Solve this issue and make a contact with a clear mind.'

I blocked Cheongryeo. In other words, I was pissed off and blocked him from contacting me.

But I would have to figure out a way to deal with this bastard in the near future.

'Let's deal with this first.'

I called out the members who were unbothered because they hadn't seen the SNS. Now, the guys who were getting ready to sleep were gathered in the living room with puzzled faces.

"Y-You called everyone…"

"Ah, did you prepare any presents to commemorate the first awards ceremony? I'll take the biggest one. Thanks."

"Taking advantage of the prejudice that the big one is the best gift, the probability that a small gift is a good gift…"

"…It's not about gifts."

"Yes."

The tension suddenly melted away.

I suggested while looking at Ryu Chungwoo, the only one who looked slightly serious.

“About our SBC performance.”

“Hn?”

“Why don’t we change the arrangement?”

Everyone was perplexed.

“Now?”

“Only one song from the special performance.”

“…Is there a reason?”

Bae Sejin wanted to refuse right away, but his face was saying he would listen to what I had to say.

After thinking about it, I explained the situation.

I couldn’t talk without convincing them and I thought they would know by tomorrow at the latest anyway.

“Actually, on the Internet right now…”

As the explanation continued, the faces of the members hardened.

“It reminds me of Idol Inc.”

“I guess people are like that. Um… But why do you want to change the arrangement?”

In response to Keun Sejin’s question, I answered without hesitation.

“To give a shock.”

And I told them which direction I wanted to change.

“…!”

The members seemed a bit taken aback.

“I-Is-Isn’t it a little… too much?”

“I’m a little worried, too.”

But Keun Sejin voted yes.

“I think I have to be really prepared, but um~ I agree for now.”

“…!”

At this point, the persuasion was, in fact, halfway done.

“I think this is the most effective response to the current situation. Does anyone dislike it?”

“…”

Bae Sejin seemed to be glaring at Keun Sejin, but when his eyes met mine, his spirits dampened.

“…?”

No, if you don’t like it, I thought I’d listen to your opinion first.

However, there was no objection. Even Ryu Chungwoo just nodded.

“Let’s do it. I can’t even think about other people’s positions right now.”

“Hyung…”

Ryu Chungwoo seemed to be concerned about the public opinion that had been twisted up because of him.

“They are people like that. Even if it wasn’t for hyung, they would have brought up other issues, so don’t worry about it.”

Of course, let’s not tell the truth that the other issues wouldn’t have been at this timing.

Surprisingly, Seon Ahyeon responded.

“…T-That’s right. T-Those people don’t change, s-so don’t waste your energy on them…!”

Maybe he wanted to convey what he had heard during his consultation.

“Oh~ Ahyeon, wonderful words!”

“Nice words!”

“N-No…”

Seon Ahyeon’s face reddened. Ryu Chungwoo smiled and nodded.

“I’ll do that. Thank you.”

Bae Sejin looked at the warm atmosphere and then spoke out while shrinking.

“…Then we’ll change the arrangement like this…”

“Change it!”

“Does anyone have objection~?”

No one gave an opinion on Cha Eugene’s lead and Keun Sejin’s re-confirmation.

And Bae Sejin seemed to have given up.

In the fight between the ego that wanted to agree and the body that wanted to oppose it, the former seemed to have won.

“It will be a forced march. I will do my best.”

“Let’s do our best~”

So we agreed to change the arrangement.

And the next day, at the end of the meeting at the company, a confirmation came down. Thanks to that, we received the song without delay and started practicing again.

“I suppose it can’t be helped.”

Kim Raebin looked a little regretful that he couldn’t be the one who make the song, but he understood the situation.

And within a little over a week, we fixed the movement and choreography.

In the meantime, it seemed all sorts of talks had come out on the Internet as expected. The articles also seemed to have been published.

I even heard that Onyx won a Rookie of the Year Award at a small awards ceremony that Testar didn’t attend.

[Onyx tearfully won the Rookie of the Year award at the ‘Seoul’s Choice Awards’]

It was 100% done by voting, and it seemed each community broadcasted it live and drove the vote with words like ‘realization of justice’.

In addition, I heard that VTIC fans secretly voted together while voting for the Grand Prize.

It didn't matter if it was just an awards ceremony like that, but the problem was that the fans' exhaustion accelerated and the aggro was excited.

When the fans participated in the vote, they set up frames such as 'Do you want to take away this Rookie Award when Testar doesn't even appear?'.

Thanks to that, the preparation for the stage went very smoothly. Some of the members who were a bit conflicted about the stage format also had their eyes lit up.

And the day of SBC Music Awards Festival.

A very decisive event happened.

"Hello~"

"Hello!"

When we ran into Onyx and greeted them with a smile and passed by, I heard the word.

"…Didn't they just say something about the realization of justice?"

"I heard it, too."

"M-Me too."

…Honestly, it was a topic that they could talk about only when they were with themselves.

Well, of course, things must have felt good right now. They got an award, and their competitor was doomed.

But the problem was that we had guys with good ears here, so this side also heard it.

"Wow, I can't wait to perform."

“I feel the same.”

“…Me too.”

Thanks to this, everyone was able to wait for the stage with excitement, abandoning all their internal conflicts.

Those guys get rid of our guilt and even bring us together, what a bunch of nice people.

* * *

SBC Music Awards Festival was usually aired on Christmas evenings, but this year it was pushed forward due to the operation of a special program.

Thanks to this, it was organized at an ambiguous time of Friday night in mid-December. It was the time when the drama was over.

– What’s wrong with the date

– I thought it would be a drama special, but it’s a random idol;

– Sbc only calls idols. It’s no fun, throw away the ratings and only aim for WeTube

– Who will show up

– Wow, I don’t know who they are

Of course, the majority were the people who waited for the first year-end music program this year.

However, thanks to the popular drama that ended, there were quite a few people who turned on SBC out of habit.

Indifferent remarks from non-fans were thrown into the comments.

– Badump

– Is there no special performance this year?

– Solier is so pretty.

– It seems there are kids worth seeing in part 2

– Wasn't there a rookie's special stage in Part 1? I think I saw a commercial

– Carol arrangements are boring. It's strange that they do that every year

– Does Vtic only appear in part 3?

– I'm going to go watch something else ㅅㄱ

People chattered and skipped through the first part.

Except for the opening, it was mostly the rookies in their 3rd year or groups that were just starting to make their name known.

Then, a short VCR appeared.

[KPOP Rookies' performance!]

[Testar Park Moondae: Let's experience each other's performances by drawing lots.]

[Solier Minjung: Wow! I think it's going to be fun!]

[Onix Pox: There's a song I really want to try!]

– I think this is the special performance in part 1

– Testar isn't supposed to be in this grade right?

– I guess they're a 'rookie' ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– I think public TV is definitely a bit salty for cable people

– Right! Testar came from a cable variety show~

– I only know Testar's song…

– Are there 5 teams? Please don't show them whole. It's boring.

No matter what the live comments say, The VCR ended with the last caption after drawing lots and showing the screaming groups.

[What will their performance be like?]

And the song performances that felt like they had been heard somewhere continued.

Everyone chose one song that would likely make a big hit.

– Still, I know the chorus part.

– You're doing useless things, why don't you just do a cover of a famous rock?

– It seems that the hearts of those caught in Testar's song have been swept away ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Wouldn't it be fun if someone does it better than Testar?

– Hu-uh It's not about entertainment, it's about 'skills' You shouldn't just say things like that.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

While people were laughing and chatting, the three teams entered after a short performance.

And a caption appeared under the dark stage.

[Testar – The one who enjoys (Onyx)]

– Heol! Testar is here!

– Of all the songs, it's Onyx's ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Looks like those two picked each other ㅋㅋㅋ

– What a joke of fate

– I think it's SBC's fabrication

– Ah, I'm curious ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

However, when the introduction began after a short prelude, the comments were a little taken aback.

– They didn't arrange it?

Right.

Testar performed Onyx's debut song.

Without touching anything, just like the original song.

Chapter 117

Loud sirens rang out over the dark stage.

Wee-oww Wee-oww Wee-oww

And with a cheerful burst of a glass breaking, the sound of the siren became a beat melody.

[HaHaHa!]

As soon as the sound of a child's laughter entered the sampling, the dazzling lights came on, revealing the seven members sitting on the stage.

They were Testar in glossy black zip-up hoodies.

Various emoticons painted in white and red were randomly covering the zip-up.

Then, Cha Eugene jumped out like lightning and the intro began.

[Look here~]

At the child's narration, Cha Eugene placed his hand in a V form on his chin.

[Every time I sing it

My hands are burning on the mic

Today, I'll show you the real thing

Please wish me good luck]

Cha Eugene playfully showed his fangs and snapped the melody to the beat.

Joining the formation two by two in line with Cha Eugene's movement, Testar clapped their hands and performed a rough group dance.

It showed a relaxed and spirited twist.

Cha Eugene gestured at the camera as Testar grabbed him by the shoulder and dragged him behind them.

[Groaning (that's a disease too)

Mm, such an obvious statement

Don't think about useless things

A lot of cheers for me

Shout out Shout out loud]

When Keun Sejin winked and raised his hand, the two members on both of his sides crossed the air with martial arts-like movements.

Then each of them gave a light wink to the currently running camera and jumped in.

[Shout out to me

Gratitude only takes an all-at-once payment]

The comments were filled with delighted bewilderment.

Those who knew the original song and those who didn't know were mixed together, and each expressed their impression, but there was only one conclusion.

'It's fun.'

– It’s so much fun.

– Wow nice

– Right, this is how it’s fun to watch

– Is their class different? I feel like they’re little different from the other ones

– Look at them searching for the camera;;

– This was supposed to be a bullying, but that f*cker Cha Eugene did well

– They’re really good?

– Heol, they really didn’t do any arrangements.

– The original song’s performance was so cringy… Heol… Why is it so good? Even the outfits are almost the same.

Leaving behind the comments that were pouring out in excitement, the stage continued.

Whoosh.

Park Moondae, who was grabbed by the members and cut through the air, came to the front of the stage and held a hand microphone.

[To pass here

There’s an advance payment

Don’t just go, sit here

Enjoy this performance]

The sound of the pre-chorus, which suddenly rose, came out of Park

Moondae's mouth as if it was nothing.

At that moment, the formation changed and the members circled the floor and got up.

They took turns taking camera shots from the side of Park Moondae's face as if they were intervening, and then moved away as if they were being pushed out.

They all looked like fun pranksters, but somehow it was showing now.

Glaring at the members one by one, Park Moondae smiled and pointed his finger at the camera.

[Let only those who enjoy it

Shout out to me

Take an all-at-once payment only]

It was a high-pitched sound that cooly scratched your neck.

A clear voice resonated over the deliberately small and obvious AR, enhancing the taste of live music.

– He plays really well.

– I can't be quiet about this – Park Moondae's singing is so f*cking good, for real

– Ha, so refreshing.

– I think AR was crushed to death by the volume ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– They didn't rearrange it, right? What's this? Why does it seem like there's such a big difference?

– It’s just like their song.

In the meantime, the highlight of the song was unfolding on the stage.

[Shout out to me]

[Shout out to me]

As the song was dropped, the siren sound was transformed into a Middle Eastern riff melody on top of the slightly relaxed and heavy beat, flowing splendidly and loudly.

It was a strong chorus.

[Enjoying it is the way to live

Shout out to me]

There were many lingering beats and complicated leg movements, followed by jumping choreography.

Not forgetting to get into the rhythm and livening up the atmosphere, the members had fun while smoothing out difficult movements.

The excited bad boy aura was splashed all over the stage.

And people realized.

– Right, they’re chosen because they are that good ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Their performance skills are amazing.

– It’s so refreshing.

– Yes, this is it. This is the taste.

– I really can’t take my eyes off it

People who watched <Idol Inc.> but were not interested enough to watch music shows or clips, watched Testar's performance again due to the special end-of-the-year program on public TV.

And the fact that the first stage happened to be a song by another rumored rookie made people gossip more.

– Does anyone know the original performance of this song? I just thought it was a great song.

– Testar didn't arrange it, right? Does the original song feel like this?

Then, at the choreography climax, something was shaking on the hoodies of the members who were jumping up and shaking their heads.

It was an animal ear.

Testar's hoodie had a piece of cloth similar to the animal ears that symbolized each of them on the head of the hood.

It flapped around in response to the intense chorus choreography, revealing its shape and showing off its presence.

– Heol, What's that – Animal ears ㅠㅠ There are ears on the hood.

– Look at the idea.

– So f*cking cute

– Ah, right, idols should taste like this – Cute animal gangster…?

– Is this Testar's new song? Why is it coming out in part 1?

The overly strong and burdensome concept was slightly neutralized with cuteness mixed at the end.

[HaHaHa!]

And the climax at the end of the song continued.

It was a part where the choreography became faster and faster by putting different movements one by one in the chorus without vocal parts, in the middle of the choreography.

The song ended with the impressive image of Testar not being able to control themselves whenever a solo shot came in while performing the group dance.

[Shout out to me]

The cut ended with Kim Raebin sitting at the center yawning and wiping his mouth with the back of his hand.

And the camera was switched to broadcast Onyx's stage, but in the comments, the response to Testar's stage was exploding.

– Crazy.

– They're good, I don't know what else to say

– What's this, why is it so short?

– They cut it off in the first verse. I guess it's because it's a special stageㅠ

– The kids before only did the first verse, but look at people's reactionsㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– This isn't Testar's song, is it?

– I'll go watch Onyx

– I thought about leaving comments, but I forgot because I was looking at the screen.

And the moment Onyx's stage was broadcasted, the atmosphere became ambiguous.

Onyx also chose Testar's debut song, 'Magical Boy', but… the stage was too bland.

– Mmm

– They're not well-prepared

– I can't stand it.

– How much did they lower the key for Magical Boy? The song has no charm at all.

– It seems to be lip sync? Ah, is the AR too big?

– I don't know. It's no fun ㅠㅠ

People's excitement cooled down in an instant.

At the same time, more and more people were looking for the original performance of Onyx's song performed by Testar.

The moment they saw Onyx's next stage, they felt it.

'Is Testar's much better than Onyx's performance of the original song?'

Most of the people who watched Onyx's <The One Who Enjoys> performance lamented, while some of them were posting and screaming.

* * *

As soon as the first part of the Music Awards Festival ended, clips of the special stage were uploaded on various communities and SNS.

= = = =

Onyx's debut song, <The One Who Enjoys>, was a powerful hip-hop-style song that was made for an intense performance.

Usually, rookies practiced their debut songs for several months if the period was short or more than half a year if the period was long.

And, naturally, Onyx practiced this song with a sense of solemnity and tension at the thought of just debuting.

It wasn't an unsuitable emotion for the song, so it was easily skipped over, but the feeling of the song was more playful and violent than that, closer to a high-spirited feeling.

And Testar interpreted the song exactly that way.

– Testar's expressiveness is real? They're the ones who'd been through the crazy Idol Inc mayhem

– I'm sorry to say this, but… To be honest, Testar's performance feels more like the original song…

That's why Onyx's stage feels like they just covered a song of a respected senior ㅋㅋ

They didn't bring out the chewy taste of the original song, but I feel like I'm seeing friends who are working hard

Perfect description ㅋㅋㅋ

Because Onyx's fandom layer was shallow, people were more willing to express their appreciation.

Of course, not all the people who were obsessed with Testar's controversy disappeared with just one performance.

– Ugh, rushing in here not knowing how to give up…

– Still, how come you don't know that it's unfair for an entertainment project group to receive the rookie award?

– It's embarrassing to bite and drag down a rookie like this ㅠ

– No matter how hard the fans try, muggles will feel uncomfortable about Testar.

However, when an absolute advantage came out from openly comparing them like this, the previous discourse was bound to become ridiculous.

In this rare situation where the winner and loser were obvious, entertained people gathered around and laughed at the aggro.

– Hey, muggles have eyes. You guys are funny ㅋㅋㅋ

– They cut off their rank insignia and won. That's enough. It's ugly ㅋㅋㅋ

– Aren't you guys the ones who swarm in ㅋㅋㅋ

– Yes, I bet everything. I am not Testar's fan but Onyx's original song is sh*t~ Testar, take me in

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Hey, the one who did well should get it ㅋㅋ

– Now that I look at it, even if they debuted without Idol Inc, I think Testar would have won the Rookie Award ㅋ

That's right. They even produced their debut album ㅋㅋㅋ

Then the direction changed a little.

– They're too much… Didn't they purposefully aim for this without the arrangement?

But this didn't work either.

If it was done on purpose, isn't that even more embarrassing?

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋReallyㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

It’s not that Testar is bad, it’s that Onyx is just not good at it

Someone who sees this might think that Testar broke Onyx’s legs so that they couldn’t performㅋㅋㅋㅋ

Even if you sorted the comments on Onyx’s original performance video by the latest order, it was filled with cries of people who came after watching the Music Awards Festival.

Testar’s <The One Who Enjoys> official video hadn’t been uploaded yet, so they were people who came to see chickens instead of pheasants.

– Ah, this isn’t it… That… There’s no leisure feeling of being nimble and naughty… I don’t feel that vibeㅠㅠ

– Ah… You’ve worked hardㅠㅠ

– I like this version too! Cheer up!

– It feels like a stranger on the way to meet the hottest kid at school and pretend to know them

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Your voice isn’t cool… ㅅㄱ

Cruel comments from the general public, not the fans, clearly showed the public opinion.

It didn’t have to be confirmed. It was Testar’s K.O victory.

And the next day, Park Moondae received an unexpected congratulatory gift.

Chapter 118

The SBC Music Awards Festival was over.

Afterward, I had been sleeping in the car all morning due to schedule problems, but my condition had been the best in the past few months.

This was because the manager told me about all the current public opinion as soon as the broadcast was over.

– It's all flipped over!

The members' expressions at that time were worth seeing.

Anyway, after that, everyone seemed to have slept soundly even though they were in the car.

Thanks to this, I was able to tolerate the fact that I was the only one not staying in the dorm because the company called me this morning.

But I had no reason to be concerned about why they called me.

'Well, looking at their expression, it doesn't seem to be a bad thing.'

I wondered if I had a new personal schedule.

And as soon as I entered the back porch of the company building, I could see the reason they called me.

A lot of boxes were piled up so much that the small porch for the staff burst open.

All of them were carefully packaged with ribbons… They were gift boxes.

It was similar to the one I saw at the entrance of the dorm on my last holiday, but on a much larger scale.

'Huh?'

Hold on.

One of the employees I was with laughed and said.

"Moondae-ssi, it's your birthday present ~"

"…!"

…I see.

Today was December 15th.

It was Park Moondae's birthday.

'…I couldn't even guess.'

I completely forgot about it because I lost my sense of time due to the endless repetition of schedules and practice.

I didn't even notice it because I recently didn't check SNS on purpose.

'…It's not even my birthday in the first place.'

No, even before I entered Park Moondae's body… It was rare to have a special birthday.

'I just cooked rice and ate it with expensive ingredients.'

Thanks to this, seeing the gift boxes that filled the two walls, my feet stiffened.

This is all for me?

“I think it would be difficult to leave it at the dorm… Moondae-ssi’s family home… Um…”

Perhaps recalling Park Moondae’s family history while talking, the employee rapidly pulled back.

And kindly corrected again.

“Should we put it in the company’s storage room for now? Electronic devices and luxury items will be sent to the dorm. You can go ahead and try it out.”

“…Did the people who brought this say anything?”

Looking at it closely, there were three or four different types of packaging, so it seemed they were put in separately.

‘At least one or two groups would have tried to deliver it directly… ’

“Ah, they used a professional delivery company. I got a call about the delivery the day before yesterday.”

The employee shrugged.

“And I think they requested to tell Moondae-ssi that he doesn’t have to verify them… Right. They said that.”

“…!”

Then I realized the situation.

‘…They delivered it quietly on purpose.’

The day before yesterday, I was in the midst of stumbling down and betting on Testar’s Rookie of the Year Award on the Internet.

If it hadn’t been for the all-out war on SBC yesterday, of course, the situation would have been the same now.

In that atmosphere, they must have been worried that I would get in trouble again if I confirmed I had received such large gifts of support.

'They were conscious of that, so they couldn't even come to see me in person… '

It felt strange.

It was strange that there were people who cared and put in so much effort for someone who they couldn't even interact properly with.

The fact that the target was me was really… strange.

"Aren't you going to open it? Should we just move them to the storage room?"

"…Wait a minute."

Then I moved to approach the boxes.

I saw boxes packaged in the same wrapping paper over the printed frame of my photos and the ribbons tied to the brand shopping bags.

A tag was attached to each packaging ribbon.

"…"

Numerous clothes, electronic devices, and accessories were visible on each tag.

'…What should I do?'

I was almost overwhelmed. I didn't know what was the standard for the gifts that I should take to the dorm first.

'…First of all, it should be easy to verify, only have three pieces for each wrapping paper design… '

As I was contemplating, a tag caught my eye.

It was a tag attached to a box that was relatively smaller than others.

[Message book]

"…"

I hesitated, then lifted the box and unwrapped it.

A golden hardcover book that seemed to have been handcrafted was revealed.

＜You came down to my heart like a shooting star＞

When I opened the hardcover book, edited sentences were revealed in a neat design.

– I knew it the moment I saw the performance of ＜To a New World＞. That fellow is my idol! ㅎㅎ

I always do my best and cheer for Moondae who continues to grow. But even if you don't grow, that's okay. I will always support Moondae's happiness♡

– My star that I want to see for a long time

– My insomnia disappeared after I met Moondae! Just looking at you makes me happy and thinking about you makes my heart flutter… I love you forever

– I'm thankful and sorry for Moondae who always cares about his fans no matter what ㅠㅠ Let's do whatever we want to do. Moondae, it's fine to do that!

Between the long lines of text, restrained sentences sprung out. It seemed that even a refined heart was squeezed out.

– Noona still hasn't forgotten Tibetan fox Moondae… I love Puppy Moondae, but I also love Tibetan Moondae ㅠ

“Haha.”

I couldn’t hold back my laughter.

Really… They were unusual people. It was unbelievable kindness.

Of course, emotions didn’t last forever. These people also use words like ‘always, for a long time, forever’, but they knew that it was impossible for them as long as they were human.

But at this moment, I felt overwhelmed just by the fact that there were people who thought of me like that somewhere.

I wanted to do something.

“…”

“Moondae-ssi?”

“…Ah, I’m sorry.”

I barely came to my senses. And I quickly packed some gift boxes.

As planned,… No, a little more than I planned.

“…Can you take them to the dorm?”

“I have a car. It’s all right.”

I was accompanied by the manager. By now, he must be buying drinks or smoking in the lobby in front of the building.

“Mm… I see. Have a safe trip home. Happy birthday!”

“Thank you.”

I headed to the parking lot with my hands full of presents.

The manager I met halfway freaked out.

“Did you bring it all by yourself?! You should have called me!”

“It’s fine. It was nearby.”

“Sigh… Anyway, congratulations on your presents. Happy birthday. Can I buy you coffee?”

“Next time.”

“Oh, you’re not refusing.”

I just laughed. I felt light-headed as if there was a whirlwind in my head.

“Enter safely~”

“Yes, thank you.”

I parted with the manager in front of the dorm. Then, I packed up my presents and went up to the dorm.

And the moment I got off the elevator.

I smelled a strange scent in front of the door.

“…?”

Isn’t this the smell of something burning?

‘No way.’

I piled up the presents on one side of the hallway and immediately unlocked the front door.

Then, after opening the fire hydrant, I opened the door.

"…?!"

"No!"

…And I witnessed Cha Eugene and Seon Ahyeon running through the living room with a pot.

Smoke was rising from the pot.

I asked with difficulty.

"…What are you doing?"

"M-Moondae! I-It's nothing…"

"Chicken soup for the soul!"

Cha Eugene shouted and took the pot back to the kitchen and started running away.

A terrible silence began to trickle from Seon Ahyeon, who was unexpectedly left in the living room.

"…"

"…"

"…B-Birthday… C-Congratulations."

"Thank you."

I'm grateful for the congratulation, but I'd like to hear an explanation of what the hell is going on.

* * *

"…Birthday present?"

“Yes!”

“N-No… I-I have a separate gift! T-That one was just to say thank you…”

“I have more presents, too.”

Listening to Cha Eugene and Seon Ahyeon talking, nothing was sorted out.

It seemed those two couldn’t communicate well between themselves either.

The other members, who instantly woke up in the middle of the pot commotion, tried to clean it up.

“So, since it’s Moondae’s birthday and you guys have time in the morning, you were thinking of making something delicious, right?”

“Yes!”

“…With that number of people?”

As Bae Sejin quietly muttered to himself, Seon Ahyeon lowered his head with a gloomy face.

“T-The recipe is easy to understand… I-I thought I could do it.”

“…Is this a sure recipe?”

Cha Eugene happily answered Bae Sejin’s question full of doubts.

“It’s my mom’s recipe! Chicken soup!”

“…!”

With shaking pupils, Bae Sejin hurriedly added.

“That… Even if the recipe is great, it might be hard for beginners.”

“Try again!”

“Wait, sit down.”

I sat back Cha Eugene, who was about to get up. And I remembered the pot I saw in the kitchen.

‘…It was burning black.’

In addition, judging from the cutting board and the sink, it seemed that the cooking process itself was not normal.

“Come to think of it, didn’t you say you’re good at cooking, Eugene~?”

“I am good at grilling. It’s my first time boiling food…”

“Geez.”

There was no gag. Keun Sejin clicked his tongue and waved his hand when he made eye contact with me.

“Oh, happy birthday, Moondae~ I sent you a gifticon.”

“…Chicken?”

“Chicken. Two of them at that.”

I got back exactly what I gave him in August.

It was a result of a quick calculation.

“Thanks.”

“M-Me too! Wait a second…!”

Seon Ahyeon, who had been sitting like a crimimal, suddenly jumped up and stomped his feet, and headed to his room.

Then he brought a small, well-wrapped gift and handed it to me.

“H-Happy birthday!”

“Yeah… Thanks. Can I open it?”

“Y-Yes!”

When I opened it, there was a department store gift certificate inside.

This… It felt like I was extracting a friend’s money.

However, Seon Ahyeon looked proud.

“I-I didn’t have time to go shopping… I-It’s better to see and choose for yourself!”

“…Um, right. Thank you. I’ll go when I have time.”

“Yes!”

Next time I went out… I should shop in moderation. It was a bit too much for a friend or a co-worker to receive.

‘Come to think of it, I think he gave something expensive on Keun Sejin’s birthday.’

He didn’t have to do that, I wondered if I should say that at least once.

“Ah, I bought one, too.”

There was nothing more unexpected than Seon Ahyeon’s gift, but after that, I received two gifts unexpectedly.

First of all, Cha Eugene gave me a huge jar of jelly.

‘You’ll eat half of it.’

It was clear that he took it off of what he ordered.

And surprisingly, Bae Sejin gave me a hoodie, perhaps he was the type to remember other people’s birthdays.

“I’ll wear it well. Thank you, hyung.”

“…Well, alright.”

That was how the gift-giving ceremony ended.

To be honest, it was the first time in my life that I received so many congratulatory gifts on the same day.

‘It feels strange.’

I took the box I received from the fans and moved it to my room along with the gifts I received from the members.

“I’m sorry I didn’t prepare anything. I’ll buy you a meal next time. What do you want to eat?”

“You don’t have to be sorry, um, shall we eat whatever we want then?”

“Yes, let’s do that.”

It was normal not to know but I agreed to have a proper meal with Ryu Chungwoo who felt sorry for not knowing, then Kim Raebin shouted in a solemn voice next to him.

“I’m sorry I didn’t know your birthday…!”

“…It’s fine.”

“There’s a beat I recorded recently… If you use it as your solo song…!”

How can I make it into my own song?

…But let's accept it for now.

"Alright, I think it would be a good song. I'll check it out when we have time."

"Yes!"

Kim Raebin staggered into his room with a big sigh of relief as if he had relieved himself of a heavy burden.

"…"

He would be in big trouble if he keep this up, I should at least tell him later to not get too pressured.

I put the boxes next to the bed and lay down.

And after a long time, I turned on the data on my smartphone. Then the first message came in.

It was a gift from Keun Sejin.

[Gift from Keun Sejin]

: Presenting chicken 1.5kg

"…"

And a little later, Keun Sejin's message which was plastered with 'ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ' came in.

'This bastard, really.'

I reflexively smack the present.

[Do you want to die?]

An answer came immediately.

[Keun Sejin: ㅎI loathe it]

"…"

I got up from my seat and tried to run to Keun Sejin's room, but I held back.

That would be the reaction this bastard wanted.

Instead, let's strike calmly and ideally.

[You won't be able to upload photos in the future.]

[Keun Sejin: I am sorry]

As expected, this was the direct shot.

I turned off my phone and went to sleep.

As I closed my eyes, the shape of the gifts I received today and the sentences of the message book wandered around my head.

…Somehow, I felt like I would have a good dream in my sleep now.

* * *

But after a pleasant sleep, unwelcome news was waiting from the manager I met again.

"Moondae, I got a call for you."

"Yes? From who?"

The manager handed me his smartphone and mumbled with the shape of his mouth.

‘V-tic Cheongryeo!’

That assh*ole.

Chapter 119

I couldn't figure out what the hell that crazy guy was thinking.

He posted sh*t on SNS, and within a few days, this nonsense was happening again.

'You call the company?'

I happened to be at the salon. Because I was preparing for my dinner schedule.

I could see Kim Raebin, who was getting his hair dried next to me, opened his eyes wide. It was clear that he had read through the shape of the manager's mouth.

It was a place full of staff, so I felt even more reluctant

'I don't know what they're going to say.'

Meanwhile, the hair designer who was holding my hair readily accelerated the situation.

"Take it, take it~ It's okay. I'm almost done."

Maybe they thought I was hesitating because I was afraid it'd get in the way of getting my hair done.

'I don't want to take it, but… '

I held back my sigh. Then I told the manager.

"…Can you tell him I'll contact him later?"

"Uh, he said you don't know his number? He changed his number and called you this way. Moondae, you don't answer numbers you don't know."

"…"

It was obvious why he had to call through the company when he could just text.

'He knows I blocked him.'

There was nothing I could do if he went this far.

It was also unpleasant to keep asking the manager to do something.

Let's finish it quickly.

"Yes, okay."

I got the smartphone from the manager and put it in my ear.

"I changed my phone number. This is Park Moondae."

– Ah, finally.

I heard a voice full of laughter.

Do I have to listen to that thing's laugh?

"I heard you've changed your number. I'll save this number."

– Yes. Go ahead and do that. Congratulations on the Rookie Award.

My hand holding the handle of the chair automatically tightened.

"…The awards ceremony is not over yet, so we don't know. Then…"

As soon as I was about to finish my words, Cheongryeo replied without giving me a break.

– It's practically confirmed. Well, aren't you wondering what's going to happen next?

I'm not curious, you bastard.

I didn't think I would get proper information even if I interacted with this guy anyway.

He backstabbed me and now he was trying to hook me in.

"Not really. Anyway, I'll save the number. I hope you safely finish your year-end activities, sunbae-nim."

It meant that I would hang up now.

–… Ah, it turns out like this.

Then, suddenly, his voice changed to a slightly awkward tone.

– Um, I think there's been a misunderstanding… I will never do anything that will harm my juniors. I have a line, too.

It sounded like a line.

"Is that so? I understand."

– We'll continue to meet during the year-end activities… Hmm, maybe I should explain it at that time. It's kind of hard to do it over the phone.

"It would be nice to have a chance to meet you. Then I'm sorry, but I have a schedule, so I'll hang up."

Cheongryeo replied jokingly.

– Okay. Don't accidentally block it this time.

"Yes. Then."

I quickly hung up the phone. If it was at the dorm, I would have said something, but I held back because I was at the salon.

Then I returned the phone to the manager.

“Here, hyung. Thank you.”

“Okay~ Ah, I’ll text you this person’s number.”

“…”

I couldn’t curse out the kindness of the manager who didn’t know the whole story. I held back my sigh and closed my eyes as I leaned against the chair.

‘It’s troublesome.’

At first, I wondered if I could take some kind of benefit, but this bastard was the worst kind of troll.

Besides, he seemed like a real crazy guy, I couldn’t predict his sudden change of attitude

‘As expected, stop loss[1]A stop loss is an action taken to limit investment losses. is the answer.’

Finish it quietly without provoking him.

After two years, the future I knew was over anyway. Then I would be no use to him, so he naturally would slip away.

Until then, it was enough that I didn’t get involved and avoided the situation.

Testar was likely to be at the top tier by the time the next album came out, so if that guy didn’t want to waste his position, he couldn’t come out more blatantly than this time.

Aside from being insane, it seemed that he was quite obsessed with his status as an idol.

‘Then we just need to stop building bad feelings like wanting to kill each other.’

Mm, I was originally going to throw him away because I was so angry, but once things were settled and I thought about it rationally, the risk was too high.

‘There’s no need to risk your life to catch the troll.’

I kept this as a backup plan just in case. I cleared my thoughts and opened my eyes.

And Kim Raebin, whose eyes were shining next to me, spoke up.

“…What about their arrangement program?”

“It’s confidential.”

“I see…”

I’m sorry, but I don’t think the day will come when I ask that.

I threw a glucose candy to Kim Raebin, who was sullen.

* * *

After running through a few year-end events, the day for a new year-end stage soon arrived.

This time it was the KBC Song Festival.

Since only singers who were quite active this year were invited to the show, we received relatively better stage footage than at the other public TV channels…

The problem was elsewhere.

“It’s here!”

“Heol, that’s the commercial then! The artificial intelligence!”

“Oh, my gosh.”

…It was a commercial break between the first and second parts, and I could see the actual product of the three-month 350 million won advertisement.

On the screen, sitting in a set that seemed to be a white living room, Testar was shown holding different props.

For your information… they were lightsticks. In the form of a sparkling magic wand at that.

…I would like to make an excuse that I had no choice.

In any case, the advantage of the artificial intelligence assistant contracted for this advertisement was that it was small and detachable.

[Connect to an item that shows sensibility.]

[Your secretary who can understand its users, play a song you have in mind.]

Then, the screen suddenly illuminated a character-type artificial intelligence speaker with ambiguous eye color.

Cha Eugene laughed and tapped the speaker.

[I want to hear Airplane~]

Then, out of nowhere, the speaker began to let out a powerful low-pitched ‘Floating, floating Airplane’ sound.

[…?]

After the scene of surprised Cha Eugene, calm-faced Park Moondae popped out.

Park Moondae smiled as he waved his lightstick.

[Curiousy, play Airplane]

Then the audio was filled with Testar's song 'Airplane'.

On top of the clean BGM, the cut of the Testar members making gestures passed.

[Magical Boy Testar]

[Magical artificial intelligence assistant!]

…There, Park Moondae, who had a picture of dog ears on him out of the blue, pretended to be a puppy and shouted 'Curious', and the ad ended in an instant.

[Curious! Woof woof!]

And the waiting room was filled with laughter.

"Hahahahaha!!"

"Cough."

This… No matter how much I thought about it, they were laughing out of relief for having avoided it.

"…"

I held back my sigh. Ryu Chungwoo, who was the first to stop laughing, cleared his throat and only then began comforting me.

"Ahem, I think it's because you won first place, Moondae. Isn't it nice that you have a lot of footage in the commercial?"

“T-That’s right…!”

“Right right~ Chungwoo hyung-nim said something good…”

Ah, is that so?

I nodded.

“I see. That’s true.”

“Right?”

“Yes. I can’t wait to see other versions.”

“…??”

“Other…?!”

Bae Sejin quietly told the truth to the astonished members.

“…This was written in the script as seven versions.”

“…!”

For a while, whenever I watched TV, I would come to enjoy the thrill of Russian roulette.

The members’ faces were filled with tension, perhaps thinking of their own version.

Well, there wasn’t much time to worry. It was because our stage was near the end of part 2.

And this stage was important.

Because It was our first year-end performance since SBC.

‘We have to drive a wedge into the public opinion that has turned around.’

If we looked clumsy, it was inevitable that words like ‘I don’t know Testar’s skills… They must have worked hard only on the special stage’ would come out.

We had to do well here.

Thanks to this, these guys quickly fell into a different sense of tension.

And just before going on stage, we gathered together and even put in spirit.

“Ah, Testar will show you something today!”

“Let’s go!”

I wondered if we had to use this phrase, but… Well, the atmosphere was alive, so it was fine.

Testar rode the lift and went up to the stage.

Waaaaaaa!

All kinds of lights rippled in the audience.

It still hadn’t quite hit me that each of those lights was a person.

Still, there was one lightstick that stood out. As expected, it was Testar’s lightstick.

Because its luminous power was extraordinary.

‘It looks like a flashlight between the fireflies.’

Anyway, it was nice to be able to recognize them right away. It was a live broadcast, so we couldn’t do anything special, but I could say hello over there when I entered.

In the meantime, the admission intro was over.

I walked out to the middle and took a seat.

Then, the prelude to ‘Magical Boy’, which was arranged for the end-of-year stage, began to play.

It was the live orchestra version.

To the live violin melody from below the stage, I started the intro.

“I think of you whom I met tomorrow all day long, dreaming a dream as blue as daytime-“

The ensemble of strings and wind instruments filled the hall with splendor.

It was a complete live concert in real-time.

It meant that in an attempt to save the live atmosphere, they didn’t install any AR.

‘I can relax because I sing the intro.’

If you couldn’t match the pitch and beat when you entered, it would be a catastrophe. It was right for the person with the lowest probability of failure to take charge.

And after that, everyone performed live properly, so it had been stable.

“Cast a spell”

“Make a wish come true, true, true～”

Some modern dance moves were mixed into the choreography to match the splendid performance. It became more like an epic fantasy rather than a dream, but it was nice in its own way.

I was embarrassed because the outfit was too loose, but the people seemed to love it.

‘Seon Ahyeon is flying.’

He looked more excited than usual because he was the best person to receive this concept. Even in the dance break part, where only the violin solo and percussion were left, the artistry remained.

And it was the part where the song naturally went over to the chorus of ‘Airplane’.

– Airplane

Screech-!

‘The in-ear, really.’

A sound like a chalkboard scraping rang out of my ears.

A device attached to prevent missing the beat from shouts or echoes ended up hindering the concentration.

Scree scree screech!

…Even if there were a few times in the past when the volume was too loud or I couldn’t hear anything, this was the first time I had this mess.

‘I am going crazy.’

I couldn’t stand it any longer and roughly pulled out the in-ear aside with the accompaniment. It turned out to be a transmission error as I saw several members doing the same thing next to me.

‘The public TVs run really well at the end of the year.’

But something even more crazy happened next.

During the lying-down choreography, the in-ear that Bae Sejin chose slipped down and fell on the stage.

It was clear that the person fastening it had made a mistake.

'…I'll kick it with my feet at the next part.'

However, at that moment, Seon Ahyeon, who was coming to the center while changing his route, stepped the wrong line and slipped on it.

With his head to the floor, at that!

"…!"

Reflexively, I grabbed Seon Ahyeon's back.

And I made eye contact with Ryu Chungwoo, who did the same thing on the other side.

'Stand him up and return right away.'

This kind of thing couldn't be helped.

The situation happened in an instant and the judgment was over in an instant.

However, just as I was about to put in strength to my hand, Seon Ahyeon kicked his feet as he slipped and give his body a rebound.

"…!"

Using inertia, Seon Ahyeon stretched both his legs and did elegant backflips with his hands resting on me and Ryu Chungwoo who grabbed his back.

And landing like a painting, he sang his own part.

"…fly high, I hope my flying heart will become a star that shines beyond the Milky Way."

"…!"

Contrary to my shock, the modified choreography came out of my body as practiced. It was a real relief.

When the last verse continued, the members naturally returned to their original movements.

Bae Sejin sang while pressing the microphone. His face and voice were fine, but his fingers were trembling faintly.

"…I want my hands to touch-"

The song ended with a choreography in which seven people standing in a circle gathered and spread their hands to the sky.

"…"

Aaaagh!

The camera's on-air lights went off with cheers.

And after the lights were turned off, expressions as though they were being soaked in cold sweat began to appear on the members' faces.

'…Has it been settled?'

First of all, the stage…, no, shouldn't we look at Seon Ahyeon's condition first?

'What kind of crazy guy do backflips while falling down there without practice?'

Wasn't it a situation where your head could break if something went wrong?

However, due to the broadcast, there was no time to wander off here. We quickly waved our hands to the fans and got off the stage.

And without even having time to argue, I immediately faced the monitoring screen.

“…!”

- 1. A stop loss is an action taken to limit investment losses.

Chapter 120

Soon after, the part in question began to appear on the monitoring screen.

The scene where the members, including me, pulled out the in-ear music passed by.

'…I hope the slip-up isn't too noticeable.'

Seon Ahyeon did such a great job that I wondered if it could be called a remedy, but how the before and after pictures were captured was another matter.

But it was a useless worry.

"…!"

"Wow."

Seon Ahyeon doing backflips with the two people on both sides grabbing his back… It looked like a completely intentional performance.

'Is it a matter of skill level?'

It was unbelievable that he did it without practice.

The mid-air impression was so powerful that slipping ahead seemed to be part of the action.

The fact that the in-ear caught on my foot was hard to see due to the floor being so dark also played a part.

In addition, thanks to the filming that caught the entire choreography, it was hard to see our surprised expressions.

…Originally, the choreography for that part had to be stopped for a short time to get a close-up shot… Let's move on.

'Anyway, it did come out well.'

It was the best result. Keun Sejin whistled.

"Oh~ Ahyeon improvised~"

"So cool!"

Seon Ahyeon's face turned red.

"You're amazing! Did you prepare this move in advance in case something like this happened?"

"I-It's not like that. I-It's just… I-I thought I shouldn't fall, so I-I tried…!"

"That's amazing!"

Seon Ahyeon couldn't hide his joy as his face flushed from the continuous praises.

Hmm, let me start by complimenting him first.

"It looked as though it was intended to happen. I think it's cooler than our original choreography."

"…! I-It's not that great… T-Tthank you, I'll work harder…!"

"Applause~"

The members applauded.

As some of the staff around us laughed and pretended to follow along,

Seon Ahyeon's face became distraught with embarrassment and pride.

'I'll let him enjoy it a little longer.'

I spent a little more time in the waiting room on purpose.

Then, in a lull, I talked to Seon Ahyeon again.

"Seon Ahyeon."

"Y-Yes?"

"Thank you for fixing things up earlier, but I don't think it will be okay for you to do this in the future."

Seon Ahyeon's face immediately turned blue.

"W-Why…"

He reacted more sensitively than I thought.

I thought it would be fine because he had just received a lot of compliments.

'I'll have to pick the right words.'

"Because you might get seriously hurt. I think improvising is too dangerous."

Then with a complicated expression, Ryu Chungwoo finally spoke up.

"Yes, Ahyeon, thank you very much, you did well, but… Let's be careful of the injury risks. If you hit your head first, you could be in big trouble."

It seemed he was concerned about this as well because he retired due to the aftereffects of his injury

“I-I’m sorry.”

Seon Ahyeon replied in a trembling voice. It seemed his feeling of self-doubt reared its ugly head as his excitement disappeared completely. Ryu Chungwoo was flustered.

“Don’t apologize! Ahyeon, I’m just saying this because I’m worried.”

Watching the situation, Keun Sejin intervened.

“Hmm~ Is that possible? Ahyeon was a dance major~ He must have checked his body himself. Don’t you think so?”

“…Y-Yes.”

I don’t think so.

Seon Ahyeon tended to overdo it in a self-destructive way when under pressure. This time, he probably did the coolest move without considering the risk because he thought he had to fix it at once.

But it was time to appease him. After thinking hard about it, I opened my mouth.

“…Of course this time, you did better than I imagined. I’m just saying this because I am worried… It’s good to be healthy for a long time.”

“……! Y-Yes! I-I’ll be careful!”

“Right.”

Fortunately, when Seon Ahyeon focused on the word ‘worried’, the code seemed to move him. It was fortunate that he was the type to be impressed by trivial interpersonal relationships.

But this time, Bae Sejin apologized to his teammates with a dark face.

‘What are you doing?’

"…I'm sorry. It happened because I dropped my in-ear."

I thought it would be like this.

"That's an accident! You must have been surprised, but you did well until the end, Sejin."

"That's right. The fastening was wrong so it was completely the realm of luck."

"Hyung, the in-ear was weird. It should be the in-ear who apologized, not you!"

"T-That's right! The in-ear should apologize…?"

Flustered, Seon Ahyeon tried to chime in but got caught up in Cha Eugene's grammatical errors.

Then, as if this flow annoyed him, Keun Sejin cut off the conversation.

"Haha, why don't we just congratulate you on your good work and move on? It ended well, but why is the atmosphere like this~"

He was right.

Ryu Chungwoo smiled and answered.

"Right, everyone did a great job today! Let's take care of ourselves and do well in the future. Five years is a long time."

"Uh-huh~ Hyung, aren't we going to renew our contract together? Let's do it for 10 years. 10 years~"

"Haha! Alright. Let's do well for the next 10 years!"

"Yes!"

"Great!"

As Bae Sejin made startled noises, the team members ended the conversation with self-congratulations

And I was satisfied, too.

‘At any rate, the stage was good.’

I wanted to end the reaction on the internet with this.

Maybe they came to the conclusion that ‘Testar is also good at performing’.

With such expectations, I prepared to go out to the ending stage. It was a group stage with senior singers.

“This is my grandmother’s favorite song!”

Let’s just say that Kim Raebin was especially excited.

And after the broadcast was over, it was close to midnight.

The Internet public opinion that I checked after getting in the car was very interesting.

* * *

Immediately after Testar’s KBC stage was over, the response was favorable just as expected by Park Moondae.

= = = =

– Wow, live

– Are they good at this kind of concept?

– I gasped when I saw the mid-air flip

– It's really amazing, it's amazing that it is a live performance

– What's this, lip-sync?

That's impossible, it's an orchestra live.

What are you saying, you can play AR even with live accompaniment

Ah, is that so? Then it could be lip-singing~ㄱㅅㄱㅅ

Cha Eugene deliberately entered one beat late in the middle of the rap. What nonsense are you saying? Leave the comment if you don't even watch the videoㅋㅋㅋ

At this point, it seems that there is a Testar with the same name team in the haters' delusion

– They're good.

– Seon Ahyeon is doing a backflip, what is going on

– Of all the year-end arrangements, I think this is the best. I hope they release the song

– I knew that our Ahyeon is an angel, but I didn't know he would confirm it on public TV. Flying in the sky… It's official now.

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋLook at this silly comment

– Bae Sejin is always such a waste. Don't give him the ending scene

Eh, didn't he do a good job this time?

I was surprised that his live performance was better than I thought;

It's because Sejin has very few parts, but there's never been a time when he couldn't sing his own partㅠㅠ

Attempts to aggravate in the middle were neatly blocked. It was completely solid.

However, what Park Moondae didn't expect was that the response to pulling out the in-ear was good.

Very much so.

– I'm really excited about the pulling out in-ear. They don't seem like a rookie, it feels professionalㅋㅋㅋ

– If you go into Sns now, you'll probably come up with 5,500,000,000 other correction memesㅋㅋㅋ

ㄴㄹㅇㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– I think each member will watch itㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

I'm not even a fan, but it's already entering my account's timeline… Park Moondae is handsome. I want to kidnap him

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅅㅂ

– Each of them has a slightly different vibe, so I keep watching itㅋㅋ

That's right!ㅋㅋ

– My pick is the tall member who smiles as if he's frowning. His eye smile is charmingㅋㅋ Can anyone tell me his name?

Keun Sejin

???? Name Keun-ssi exists…?

Argh ㅋㅋㅋ It's Lee Sejin! My kid is big and cute, so his nickname is Keun Sejin. Thank you for liking him! (Keun Sejin photo)

Most of the scenes where Testar members pulled out the in-ears were clearly captured by the camera, making it good content.

It was the chorus part of 'Airplane', so the members were equally filmed.

And the fans had a fun and comfortable time after a long time.

– KBS, please release a fancam of each member. Show the in-ear clip from different angles ㅠ

– You want to see a genius idol live that beats the pronunciation? Welcome to the show (video)

-I really like the KBC stage concept. It's like a large-scale fairy tale, so there's no separate narrative created if you attach it to SBC's cool stage (comparison clip)

– There is a choreography where Moondae and Baese face each other and shake their heads when moving from Magical Boy to Airplane. Could this be a spoiler for the next album? (clip)

-Moondae KBC dressed from head-to-to-toe with confirmed birthday support… Oh, my gosh. (arranged photo)

Fans were delighted by the atmosphere where there were no quarrels or sarcastic remarks popping out.

It was around this time that the people watching the stage video found something strange.

It first started with a fan's chat account that edited video materials, etc.

– I found it while making a close-up gif, but it looked like Ahyeon was slipping before doing the backflip… Hold on.

??

Mister?

What's this

– I watched it again… I think it's true. Ahyeon almost tripped because there was something under his feet, but Chungwoo and Moondae caught him (screenshot)

– Ahyeon almost slipped there, so he did a backflip to make up for it. If you look at this, both Chungwoo and Moondae's expressions are stiff. (screenshot)

Crazy

It was to fix an accident…?

In an instant, fans began to watch and analyze even the smallest parts of the video.

And soon they found the cause of the problem.

– Baese's in-ear fell off… Looks like the person in charge of hastening it made a mistake (screenshot of the floor)

Oh, my God

I'm going crazy.

Ah, I'm addicted but I'm angry at the same time. What if the kids get hurt…

Looking closely, Sejin's hands were shaking at the ending ah ㅠㅠㅠ

Crazy, then Ahyeon's backflip is adlib?;; Can a person do that?

The news of the upset fans soon spread to the general entertainment community.

= =

[Testar's KBS stage accident]

: (summary link)

One-line summary: Everything from 'the In-ear to the ending' is the result of Testar handling the stage accidents

= =

– Heol

– What is this? Is this for real?

– It seems fitting…

– If they handled it so calmly that the fans just noticed it now, they're really amazing.

– How come there's a boy idol doing backflips to fix stage mistakes? It's probably just the choreography ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

It's not a mistake, it's an accident, and if you look at Testar's history since Idol Inc, they seem like they're good enough to do that

A mistake is If they fell to the ground while pulling out their in-ear monitors. Please wake up from the fans' delusions ㅋㅋㅋ

I am another fan passing by, but it's normal that the in-ears don't fall to the floor even if you take them off. It's a prop – Are you sure it's in-ear monitors on the floor? It's just an optical illusion.

It's really an in-ear here (screenshot picture with adjusted brightness)

Heol it’s real

Crazy, he tripped because of that – Looking at the kids’ faces, I think it’s true??

– Seon Ahyeon’s backflip is like a part of the choreography, so it’s true that he performed it calmly

I vote for this too

But the members were worried that he might fall, so they started by holding him down. It’s hard to say that it was a coincidence.

SNS and related communities become a mess with opinions of ‘yes or no’.

– Aahh I’m going crazy, someone, hurry up and go ask Testar’s account ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– I can’t come to a conclusion ㅋㅋ

And interestingly, right after that, there was a real-time window to communicate with Testar.

= =

[Heol! Testar’s live is here]

: (link)

= =

It was Testar’s W Live.

The real-time communication for the first time in a long time since the Rookie Award controversy started with a grandiose title.

[Making Testar's year-end dinner! Today's menu: Chicken soup for the soul (cat emoticon)]

Chapter 121

Testar W Live for the first time in a long time began with the bright faces of Cha Eugene and Keun Sejin.

[Is it working?]

[Come out!]

After seeing the excited people starting to post comments, the two giggled and pulled back the camera.

Then, the professional attire worn by those two drew attentions.

Professional cooking attire… They were wearing aprons and latex gloves.

[Hello, Loviewer!]

[Hello!]

The two bowed their heads and checked the screen. Cha Eugene checked a Korean comment and waved his hand.

[Glad to see you, too!]

[Haha, me too! And the reason we turned on W Live today… It's to cook this chicken!]

As Keun Sejin quickly adjusted the camera, two immaculate raw chickens devoured the selfie filter and were briefly caught on camera.

[Now, do you see that chicken? Actually, that's the chicken I ordered as Moondae's birthday present!]

Despite the reaction full of question marks, Keun Sejin continued his next words naturally.

[We're going to cook today and serve delicious food for Moondae and the year-end party!]

[Chicken soup for the soul! Chicken soup!]

– What's that?

– You're going to cook that?

– Can you do it?ㅜㅜ

– Chicken soup for the soul wasn't just an adlibㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

Despite the worried comments, the two laughed wholeheartedly.

[If it doesn't taste good, we'll eat it and Moondae and the members will order something delicious!]

[But we'll do it right this time!]

At Cha Eugene's unfounded confidence, the comments became more anxious.

– Call Moondae.

– Guys, I don't think this is right.

– It's cute but scary.

Those two, who were definitely at the top of the team in terms of strong interpersonal relationships and mentality, filtered out bad comments such as 'no fun' and 'don't be stupidㅜ' and only accepted the fans' reaction.

[Aha, Moondae hyung! Hyungs, come back soon!]

[That's right~ They're a bit late because of their schedule! We're going to prepare the main dish first, and we're going to make simple ones together!]

By the way, it was a lie.

The choreography was slightly modified, so they were late for an hour or two because they had to go into additional practice.

However, the two people who learned it the fastest asked for understanding and returned home early so that they could turn on W live according to the planned time.

But the rest of the members had no idea that these two would do a cooking content on W live…

[Let's start!]

[The best!]

And the dishes from those two were stably ruined.

Not forgetting the experience of the burnt soup made with Seon Ahyeon last time, Cha Eugene controlled the fire quite well, but the problem broke out elsewhere.

[Wow! Next is… cumin!]

[Hmm? Cumin? Unfortunately, we don't have such exotic spices in our dorm. Let's add chili powder!]

[Great! Add honey, too!]

[Honey's great!]

The two of them left a perfectly fine recipe and added strong ingredients however they wanted.

The comments were full of confusion, bewilderment, and laughter.

– Don’t

– Throw away the honey.

– Do you have chicken stock? Guys! ㅠㅠㅠ

– Yeah, delivery is good these days.

– The comments are going up so fast it made me dizzy ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

And as the fans expected, the result was an oddly-flavored chicken soup.

[Oh, done!]

[Let’s taste it…]

[…]

[…]

The two of them, who tasted it with excitement, looked speechless.

The comments were filled with people bursting out laughing.

The two smiled and nodded their heads with faces unique to those who had tasted ruined dishes.

Before the response saying it was a waste of food could come out, Keun Sejin blocked it sharply, pretending to be heartbroken

[Haha, we’ll eat up this taste of defeat, so don’t worry…]

[It’s fine to eat.]

After checking the comments that were dried up or laughing, Keun Sejin shrugged and started communicating again.

[Let's order chicken first…]

And at that moment, the members returned with the sound of the front door opening.

[They're here!]

[Welcome!]

The moment Cha Eugene ran out, Keun Sejin made a gesture of placing his finger on his lips toward the camera.

Then, he quickly hid the pot and attempted to destroy the evidence.

Of course, there was no choice.

[What are you doing?]

[Huh? Haha! It's W Live~ Say hello to Moondae, Loviewers!]

[Ah.]

Park Moondae stopped the interrogation and lowered his face toward the screen.

[How have you been?]

In an instant, countless greetings passed by in the comments. Park Moondae smiled faintly and nodded.

[Yes, hello.]

[This is Moondae!]

[…]

It was an exquisite timing selection.

Park Moondae looked coldly at Keun Sejin, who burst out laughing after imitating his SNS speech habits.

Several members who were entering the kitchen hurriedly covered their mouths and lowered their heads to hold back their laughter.

'This bastard, seriously.'

Unlike Park Moondae's inner feelings, the comments were all positive.

Looking at the chat window plastered with 'ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ' and puppy emoticons, Moondae Park decided to put up with it.

'The cost-effectiveness is good.'

And he decided to check the pot properly instead.

[Everyone, what did they do?]

Comments fluctuated with a cover that matched the atmosphere and a small number of taunts.

– We played together!

– Talk~

– We just talked

– I saw Eugene's aegyoㅠㅠ Do an aegyo too, Moondae

– Cookingㅋㅋㅋ

– Sejin was blublublub

– We didn't do anythingㅋㅋ

Keun Sejin slickly slapped Park Moondae's back and turned the angle.

[Us? We were having a casual conversation~ Right, Eugene?]

[That's right!]

Cha Eugene added happily.

[And we cooked!]

[Ugh.]

Keun Sejin shrunk.

And Kim Raebin muttered with a blank face of confusion.

[He's wearing an apron, but he didn't expect to be caught…?]

The fans burst into laughter.

And Park Moondae immediately checked the pot that Keun Sejin had put down.

[…Is it chicken soup?]

[That's right.]

[It's the end of the year, and I was going to cook a chicken to celebrate your birthday… But I'll just give you chicken. We'll eat them all!]

[Eat!]

[…]

Park Moondae made a mysterious expression, then took a bite of the contents of the pot.

And smirked.

[You guys didn't follow Cha Eugene's mother recipe.]

[I tried to be creative.]

[I added honey.]

[Yeah, I thought so.]

Park Moondae clicked his tongue, and eventually grabbed the pot and put it back on the countertop.

Then he took out more ingredients from the fridge and started adding them to the pot.

[Oh, Moondae!]

[Please make it delicious!]

Keun Sejin and Cha Eugene grasped the situation and immediately entered a light worship mode.

[I-I'll help too…!]

[…Really? Then taste this.]

[Y-Yes!]

Not noticing Park Moondae's euphemistic rejection, Seon Ahyeon brought a spoon and tasted the soup wholeheartedly.

And his face became an expression full of question marks and exclamation marks alternately.

[I-It's good! B-But… That, the taste is…]

[Dakbokkeumtang[1]spicy braised chicken breast , right?]

[U-Uh! That's right!]

Indeed.

The chicken soup was nowhere to be found, and the food in the pot was dakbokkeumtang…!

The shocking statement also stirred up a commotion among fans. But the person who cooked it was nonchalant.

[Good.]

Park Moondae turned his head to the smartphone where the W live was broadcasted and explained it kindly.

[With chili powder and honey… I just added soy sauce and red pepper paste and turned it into Korean food. The soup is boiled down a lot, so I think this is right.]

[Heol, it's good! Everyone, this is really delicious. How did you do that? Park Moondae, what the hell?]

[Wow, the cooking is successful!]

[…]

Park Moondae temporarily gained the full trust of those two. Of course, he had never wished for it.

Still, making dinner with one pot was far from enough, so naturally, the members brought a fire plate and grilled pork belly.

[I can do it well this time!]

[I'm good at grilling meat.]

Surprisingly, Cha Eugene and Keun Sejin were really good at grilling meat, so they made up for the ruined whole dish smoothly.

[…It's delicious.]

[It really feels like a year-end party. It's great!]

The two eldest brothers who voluntarily cleaned up the kitchen also praised it.

And they both felt strange while eating the dish in the pot that was supposed to be chicken soup.

The pasta noodles that went in tasted a bit awkward, but when they thought of it as sujebi[2]Korean-style pasta soup , it felt fine again.

[Chicken soup…]

[You made that again.]

At the meaningful words, the comments cried out, asking for the meaning of 'again'.

– There's definitely a story.

– Explain the chicken soup and best friend vibe.

– ㅠㅠㅠShare it

[Ah, of course, I have to tell you!]

[It happened on the 15th, the day of Moondae hyung's birthday…]

Thanks to this, Testar was able to cut out the parts that needed to be cut out appropriately and happily talk about Park Moondae's birthday episode.

It was an atmosphere of real-time communication that was rare for Testar, who had many ups and downs. After hearing the rumor, even casual fans logged in, and viewers continued to gather.

And more than two and a half hours after it started, the members finally confirmed the 'question'.

[A question… Oh, this. ‘KBC Ahyeon’s backflip, was it in the original choreography or was it an adlib?’]

In fact, this question had already been asked several times from the beginning.

However, Cha Eugene was extremely focused on cooking and couldn’t read the long Korean comments that were passing by quickly.

And Keun Sejin deliberately pretended not to see it.

It was because answering when everyone was together had a bigger impact and the picture was even better when the capture was moving around.

Ryu Chungwoo, who was amused because of the atmosphere, replied with a smile.

[Ah, it was adlib! It was really amazing!]

[Amazing!]

[Ah, the details? At that time, there was a problem with our in-ears…]

Testar happily explained the situation at the time in detail, and in the middle, Park Moondae and Keun Sejin drew a precautionary line.

[Those two grabbed Ahyeon’s back! So how was it, Ahyeon-ssi?]

[I-I felt like I could do it somehow… I-I jumped at once…!]

[It was an amazing sight, but it was not what we intended, and Ahyeon said that from now on he will try it only after safety is secured. Right?]

[Y-Yeah! B-Body is important…!]

Testar soon wrapped up the topic and ended the broadcast after talking about another small story for about half an hour, but of course, this part was the first to be captured.

= = = =

[Resolving Testar's accident, the absurd guess come true?]

[The power of surviving stocks idol is scary]

[Astounding dance skills of Idol Inc's 3rd place winner]

And so, the unfair image and controversy associated with Testar had lost its power. Testar was able to shake off the mess with this topic.

As such, the controversy over the Rookie of the Year Award completely disappeared as time passed by, to the point that just mentioning it was awkward.

– My kids are geniuses…

– As expected, it's fun to watch idol performances, but Testar is so cute that I can't help but love them

– I have to strike when the iron is hot, I want to sell their cuteness, too ㅠㅠ

Testar's fans, who were full of happiness, tried to share the warm content from W live, but it didn't have much effect.

It was because people had already become accustomed to provocative topics that Testar created…

A little embarrassed, the fans stopped talking about the chicken soup.

In any case, winning the Rookie of the Year Award at major awards ceremonies in January was practically confirmed.

Testar, who had transfused with an image full of talents, was expected to greet the New Year at the broadcasting station as befitting of an idol with good grades.

However, they also met unexpectedly welcome faces there.

* * *

December 31st MBC Song Festival.

“Thank you!”

As soon as we finished our first stage, time flew by.

This was because MBS hit the live broadcast for four hours and scattered Testar’s stages in the first and third parts.

Of course, that didn’t mean that they made us sing two songs. The stage we just did was a cover of the first verse of a male idol song in the 2000s.

In addition, the third part of the stage was only three minutes long so we had to cut off the second verse.

Hmm, considering the result of Testar’s performances this year, it was like a perfect picture of neglect.

‘I wonder if this should be viewed as origin discrimination or agency discrimination.’

Probably both.

“Still, it’s nice to have plenty of time to change clothes. I like it~”

I nodded.

‘On a positive note, we avoided the worst.’

I meant Imjingak.

“That’s right. We didn’t go outdoors.”

“…T-That’s true.”

Wearing summer uniforms, outdoor performances this winter would have been a great spectacle.

It happened when we were crossing the corridor of the broadcasting station while chatting like that.

Someone suddenly greeted us.

“Wow, it’s Testar! Please give me your autograph!”

It was a voice I’d heard before.

And the eyes of the members who turned their heads to check the person widened so big as if they would pop out.

“…Heol!”

“Hyung!”

Surprisingly, the person who greeted us… was Gold 1, Ha Iljoon.

“Hey, how are you?”

Gold 1 waved eagerly among a group of people. Several members approached him with delight.

And I found another familiar face next to Gold 1.

“…Oh.”

It was Choi Wongil.

- 1. spicy braised chicken breast
- 2. Korean-style pasta soup

Chapter 122

Choi Wongil. In <Idol Inc.>, he caused a lot of conflict in every team match, and in the end, he was hit by the editing beam and fell apart.

It was a case where he wanted to act weak but it looked too obvious so he ended up ruined.

He even made Seon Ahyeon say, 'He's such a bad person', so in a sense, he had always been an amazing guy.

'Hmm, didn't he drop out while escaping to the Gold 1 agency?'

That's why the two of them were moving together. It wasn't particularly surprising, but it was unexpected that the location was the broadcasting station where a year-end music program was being held.

'They probably haven't debuted yet.'

I had checked this year's rookie trend because of the Rookie Award, and their agency was not in the lineup.

Meanwhile, Gold 1 was happily chatting with the members.

"Wow, nice to meet you! No, wait a minute, should I call you sunbae-nim? Sunbae-nims are really great~"

"That's enough~"

"S-Speak comfortably, hyung…!"

"Hey, Ahyeon, you're still such a nice kid!"

In the friendly atmosphere, I roughly checked Gold 1 and Choi Wongil's appearances.

And I realized.

‘You’re here as dancers.’

A female soloist who was an idol at their agency recently had very good grades.

And it was not strange to use the debut group trainee as dancers for experience and press coverage since it was a situation that happened quite often.

Sure enough, Gold 1 introduced the people around him who were dressed in the same black clothes, pushing them forward.

“Right, they’re my dongsaengs who are practicing together with me!”

“Uh, hello!”

“Hello!”

The eyes of the people greeting us were shining with curiosity, envy, and longing. Perhaps this reaction was awkward, some of the members awkwardly greeted back.

And suddenly, my name was called.

“E-Excuse me, Park Moondae sunbae-nim!”

“Yes?”

“Just one handshake…! Can I please…!!”

He was frightened and suppressed by the people next to him.

“Hey, hey, don’t go crazy!”

“Hey, you bastard, in this place too!”

Just what are you guys doing?

I nodded, hiding my displeasure.

"…Sure."

"…! T-Thank you!"

And, as if meeting the president of a company, a handshake was exchanged with the utmost politeness.

"Ah, great!"

Gold 1's team members whispered over the happy handshake.

"Hey, I guess people must have courage too."

"Indeed."

…Anyone who saw it would think that he had met a legendary senior in the music industry.

It seemed their team had already been confirmed, and if they made their official debut early next year, it would be less than a year apart from Testar.

'…Well, grades are everything.'

The gaze that looked up to us purely meant that there was a psychological gap toward 'the rising group'.

And it looked like they weren't the only ones feeling that.

Although it was in a slightly different direction.

"Wow, it's not like I was being filmed but I was really nervous in the pre-recording."

“No, aren’t you, who have hundreds of thousands of views on fancams, just exaggerating?”

“Hey, it’s different from that! Ruining your stage is scarier!”

“Hmm, I think it’s a difficult matter to decide.”

Behind Gold 1 and Testar members who were exchanging updates, Choi Wongil was lowering his head to avoid eye contact.

“…”

‘He’s overwhelmed.’

He looked like the type that would end it when the pecking order was completely sorted out.

Testar’s activities this year had gone so well that it seemed he couldn’t even think of saying anything.

Meanwhile, Gold 1 also finished greeting Bae Sejin. And with a slightly regretful expression, he threw a closing comment.

“Oh, I have a lot to talk about, but you’re busy, right? I’ll buy you a meal next time!”

It meant that we should go do our business now.

However, we happened to have one person who couldn’t understand empty words.

It was Kim Raebin.

“Oh, we have plenty of time until the next stage. If we move to the waiting room, we won’t have any trouble continuing the conversation.”

Gold 1 was flustered.

“Haha, I appreciate your suggestion, Raebin, but wouldn’t it be uncomfortable for those who don’t know me well~?”

But those people were Cha Eugene and Ryu Chungwoo.

“It’s not uncomfortable!”

“Ah, it’s all right. Make yourself comfortable.”

“I-Is that so?”

Gold 1 was flustered by the neat OK.

And Gold 1’s team members quickly fled when they noticed the situation.

“Hyung, have fun. We’ll go to our dorm!”

“Buy an ice cream when you come back!”

“Idol Inc participants are catching up, ah fighting~”

“These crazy bastards!”

The black-clad guys ran down the hall and disappeared.

However, Choi Wongil who failed to catch the timing remained in his seat.

“…”

It seemed he didn’t fit in very well because he had just joined this team, or maybe he had been left behind because he was from Idol Inc.

‘This situation is ambiguous.’

Fortunately, Gold 1 got Choi Wongil’s back.

“Ah, Wongil, it’s the first time we visit these guys’ waiting room, so shall we buy something to drink?”

“I’ll buy it.”

“Huh?”

And Choi Wongil ran before Gold 1 could say anything more.

‘I don’t think he’s going to come back.’

Gold 1 sighed.

“Sorry, it was a little uncomfortable, wasn’t it?”

“I-It’s fine!”

“I don’t think it’s fine… But Wongil got a lot better. I’m a little worried that he’s looking up too many responses on the internet… These days, he doesn’t talk much.”

Gold 1 sighed deeply. He seemed to have had quite a hard time.

Keun Sejin smiled and glanced at the spot where Choi Wongil had disappeared.

“Is he also in the debut group?”

“Yeah. Actually, he’s good at singing… He’s young. He’s well-known.”

It wasn’t like he debuted in Idol Inc, and since it was only a matter of broadcast image, they could dismiss it as a bad episode.

There was no big problem with putting him in the group.

‘Well, it has nothing to do with me.’

If that side had over 300,000 copies in the Initial Chodong next year, I would analyze them from then on.

“Huh, Moondae, where are you going?”

“The bathroom.”

I slipped out of the queue to the waiting room and walked down the hallway.

‘There are no people downstairs.’

I had plenty of time, so I thought of going in a direction where I wouldn’t meet people.

And before I could get to the bathroom, I ran into Choi Wongil.

Surprisingly, instead of the convenience store, he was sitting in the corner of the emergency stairs and chewing on his solitude.

“…”

“…”

Let’s just go to the bathroom.

I just nodded my head and passed Choi Wongil to head down the stairs.

Then Choi Wongil suddenly shouted.

“It must be nice, hyung.”

“…??”

“Everything goes well… Everyone likes you.”

Why are you sprouting lines from daily drama all of a sudden?

Whatever. Instead of being absurd, something like this… was very sad and embarrassing.

'This is an emergency stairway, so it's echoing.'

So my hands and feet shriveled even more.

I hoped no one was going up and down these remote stairs.

I didn't want anyone to know that the person listening to that line was me.

"How does it feel to live like that? The whole world revolves around you."

And I never dreamed that there would be a bastard who would bring these words out in reality.

Choi Wongil was now sniffling.

'What happened to your sensitivity?'

Once again, I felt the gap that I sometimes felt from aspiring idols.

'Let's just leave.'

I slipped away, but I noticed a moving figure under the railing.

"…!"

Could they hear us?

It was quite a long distance. However, although the sound was muffled because of the echo, it seemed they could hear us sparsely.

If I let this guy keep talking, isn't there going to be a strange rumor?

'…Should I fix it and leave?'

I checked Choi Wongil.

“Everyone lives like that! As if I was the only one… Everyone was fighting over footage and cursing out. “

“…”

Now he was talking to himself. It seemed he couldn’t control himself now that it had exploded.

‘But why are you doing this to me?’

“H-Hyung took my part, too. A-Also… Sejin hyung was also annoyed, but I was the only one who came out looking meaner. I apologized to Heeseung, but it didn’t make the cut.”

Choi Wongil kept mumbling about the portions he had received in the middle and second half of Idol Inc.

‘Your mind hasn’t gotten out of Idol Inc yet.’

Well, that could happen.

A young self-conscious man was suddenly criticized for months by an unspecified number of people.

Testar had been through various crazy things over the past half year, so I quickly brushed off my feelings over my time at Idol Inc. But for this guy who only practiced, it must be a little different.

Perhaps the reason he did this to me was also because there was still a sense of containment and enthusiasm left from Idol Inc’s rating evaluation.

Those feelings burst out when he ran into me as an individual, not as one of Testar.

‘…Wouldn’t it be better for him to get counseling at least once?’

Of course, there was no need for me to talk about such things, I didn't have any desire to. Let's just clean up the situation to make sure there wouldn't be any rumors and then leave quickly.

I held back my sigh and opened my mouth.

"Are you jealous of me? Why?"

"…Because everything worked out for you."

"No, that's not true."

I stared at Choi Wongil.

"Would you do it if I told you to switch with me?"

"…We can't switch…!"

"That means you do want to switch with me. Well…"

I rubbed the back of my neck.

"But honestly, you wouldn't want to change your family."

"…!"

Choi Wongil flinched as he crouched. Of course, this guy also knew Park Moondae's family history.

I spoke slowly on purpose.

"The only thing I am jealous of you is… Right now, it's just my professional status. And I don't know how this will change in a few years."

"…"

"Do you get along with your parents?"

"…Yes."

"Right, I hope it will be like that in the future."

"…"

Choi Wongil bowed his head.

'This is enough.'

The unstoppable attack worked well.

'You must have gotten rid of your useless sense of inferiority now.'

This is how you use the famous family history.

'Let's just say 'cheer up' and end it.'

But before I could open my mouth again, something surprising happened.

"…I'm sorry."

"…!"

An apology came out of Choi Wongil's mouth.

"From the beginning… I was just lucky, so I'm sorry."

Um… Was it?

It was probably one of Choi Wongil's sarcastic remarks during the evaluation practice.

'Isn't it the national rule that the person who originally spits it out can't remember and only the person who heard it remembers?'

I didn't know that he was the only one who still remembered.

Anyway, it was a good conversation to end the situation. It would have been better if someone was listening.

I nodded.

“Yes, I accept the apology. You should also prepare well for your debut.”

“…”

Choi Wongil nodded softly.

Actually, Choi Wongil was a bit mean, but he didn’t commit any great crimes. His mind wasn’t mature enough to be shrewd.

‘He doesn’t have the ability to ruin someone with politics.’

Even Gold 2, which he had openly ignored, did it better than him.

Overall, he was just an annoying troll.

‘I hope I don’t have to see you in the future.’

I walked down the stairs.

I checked again under the railing just in case, but the person I saw earlier was already gone.

* * *

“Happy New Year!!”

“Happy New Year~”

Testar celebrated the New Year by taking care of the countdown on MBS.

However, of course, there was no time to relax and enjoy the New Year's sentiment.

Because a new award ceremony was waiting five days later.

＜Golden Disc Awards＞

Since it was one of the fairly famous and old awards ceremonies, it was also included in the nomination for the 'most prestigious award ceremonies' arbitrarily set up by Park Moondae.

It was held over two days, divided into digital and album sections, but there was still only one Rookie Award category.

In addition, the Rookie Award ceremony part was included in the cue sheet for the date of the album section that Testar attended.

Everyone thought inwardly.

'Honestly, it will be weird if Testar doesn't receive it.'

And as everyone expected, Testar won the Rookie of the Year award early, even before their stage sequence arrived.

"Congratulations! Testar!"

It was not a surprising result.

But perhaps because there were so many obstacles, both fans and Testar were overflowing with joy!

"Waaaaaagh!!"

Recalling what had happened on the Internet for the past two months, fans waved the lightsticks enthusiastically and cheered.

"Thank you!"

Testar came up to the stage and bowed.

However, upon receiving the bouquet and the trophy, they suddenly exchanged glances with sly smiles.

And they immediately handed the microphone over to Seon Ahyeon.

"…??"

In an instant, a slightly bewildered atmosphere passed through the audience.

Because anyone who had watched at least one episode of <idol Inc.> couldn't help but know about Seon Ahyeon's stuttering symptoms.

First of all, handing over the microphone to Seon Ahyeon was something that had never happened before. There was even a time when he became flustered and fell back.

However, Seon Ahyeon looked slightly nervous but accepted the microphone right away.

"…For the generous reward,… Thank you very much."

"…!!"

Chapter 123

Seon Ahyeon didn't stutter.

"…I will continue to do my best with the same heart as I have now… I understand what it means to be active and I will always do my best."

His words were slow, and there were a lot of parts where he took a breath and paused. I heard some parts where he dragged the pronunciation here and there and connected the sentence.

But he didn't stutter once.

"…And, to Loviewers who support us,… Thank you so much, I love you!"

"Love you, Loviewer!"

"Thank you!"

Behind Seon Ahyeon, who finished the last sentence safely, the members rumbled up the atmosphere.

But there was none of that.

The fan seats were already in a whirlwind of shock and emotion.

Aaaah!

Good job!! Good job!!

What should I do!! Uaaa!!

Even those who watched the video could hear the sound of the audience echoing through Testar's microphone.

-Gasp ㅋㅋㅋㅋI can hear the fans ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Seon Ahyeon's fans will be out of breath

– ㅋㅋㅋThis is a secret, but actually, I was a little touched.

Me too ㅋㅋㅋㅠㅠㅠ

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋIs this the shareholders' aftermath?

– Seon Ahyeon, you did well ㅠㅠ

– It couldn't have been easy. Amazing.

– Anyway, congratulations, Testar ㅊㅋㅊㅋ You deserve it

Thus, Testar completed the award while proving themselves.

There was no shadow of the ridicule and condemnation that people had expected at the end of last year.

* * *

After winning the award and returning to the singer's seat, the team members praised Seon Ahyeon one by one.

"Ahyeon, congratulations on achieving your goal!"

"Congratulations!"

Seon Ahyeo's face reddened.

"T-Thank you…"

Hmm, he deserved the congratulations. Because he'd been through a lot.

'Approximately… You practiced for about a month and a half.'

Seon Ahyeon started treating his stuttering symptoms at the time when he was so busy with the year-end stage practice.

Since he was still in the beginning phase, it was said that he had to set an easy short-term goal for a sense of purpose, and this was the goal that Seon Ahyeon set.

Expressing his appreciation without stuttering at the award ceremony.

Thanks to this, I saw Sun Ahyeon muttering that short speech all day long in the dorm, practice room, and car.

'…Even the manager had memorized all the speech within a week.'

And it wasn't long before everyone started treating Seon Ahyeon's murmurs as half-asleep ASMR.

Anyway, it was definitely impressive that he succeeded after practicing for a long period of time without being overly impatient.

'Once you succeed, you'll keep going.'

It would be good for the group if the possibility of Seon Ahyeon's status abnormality reoccurring was reduced.

I added a compliment, too.

"I said it would be okay if things didn't come out the way you practiced. But I didn't have to say that. You did well."

"…! I-It's not that great… There were parts where I breathed too much, I-I'll really do well next time…!"

"…"

No… I'm just saying you did well. Why did you answer as if making up an excuse?

But before I could correct anything, Seon Ahyeon strike first.

“A-Advising me to consult… Thank you for telling me.”

Hmm, maybe it was something to be grateful for. I nodded.

“Don’t mention it.”

“Oh, so heartwarming~”

“Our team has a great atmosphere.”

The controversy disappeared and the Rookie of the Year Award was received properly, with all their worries gone, they smiled and headed to the singer’s seat cheerfully.

But the more I returned to the singer’s seat, the darker my mood became.

Because Testar’s seat position was right next to VTIC.

‘Why do you have a rookie next to you?’

Thanks to this, I had to greet VTIC every time I moved, but it was fine.

“Congratulations~”

“Thank you!”

The problem was that every time we greeted each other, Cheongryeo snickered while looking at me.

*‘F*ck.’*

Anyone who saw it would think that he was just laughing with joy.

It was because that bastard did a pretty good job of handling the SNS posts that sparked the controversy over the Rookie Award.

Every time he appeared on the year-end program, he uploaded a lot of photos on SNS, and in the midst of it, he added random cast members with phrases similar to Onyx's post.

He was diluting the water, so to speak.

(TL notes: Diluting the water attempts = to distract from an issue by changing the topic.)

Thanks to the fans' active clarification, everyone seemed to think that the Onyx case was just a coincidence.

…The only thing that upset me the most was the response, 'He seemed to have a close relationship with Park Moondae, so I thought it was weird~'…Let me tell you.

"…"

After the greeting, I walked in slowly on purpose and sat down in the chair as far away from VTIC as possible.

It didn't mean much, it was just to make my mood less bad.

Soon after, the first part was over and a few minutes of commercial time entered.

And the advertisement appeared on the electronic display as well.

[Magical Boy Testar's magical artificial intelligence assistant!]

"Aaaagh!"

"Wow, please…"

The members screamed in agony and hit their heads on the table at the public certification of our (currently ongoing) dark history. The Russian roulette of horror was back.

[Kkyu! Curious!]

The victim this time was Bae Sejin.

Bae Sejin's acting with the CG of hamster ears was natural, but the body had completely lost its taste.

"…I-I am going to the bathroom."

Bae Sejin staggered from his seat with his face turning red and hurriedly ran away.

And the members were both sympathetic and laughing hard at the same time.

"Ahahahaha!!"

"Sejin, it's fine, pfft!"

From clapping their hands to putting their heads on their knees, all sorts of reactions came out.

'You're saying it's fine as long as it's not me.'

That's right. I nodded and opened a water bottle.

The moment I put the water bottle mouth in my mouth, someone sat in Bae Sejin's seat.

And asked.

"There is one for each member, right? It's funny."

"Puuft."

It almost came out through my nose.

*'F*ck.'*

It was Cheongryeo.

The laughing members bowed their heads in surprise.

“Hello!”

“Yes. Hello. I’m just going to talk to Moondae for a while.”

“Yes!”

Give him dirty looks, you bastards.

However, since Bae Sejin was not here, there was no one to do that. Damn it.

At least, Keun Sejin seemed almost convinced that Cheongryeo’s SNS upload incident was intentional, but now he was smiling and nodding his head.

And in fact, this was the correct action.

‘There are fancams of the singer’s seat.’

Someone in the stands must be filming this scene.

Whether it was VTIC or Testar members, the current situation would surely be caught on at least twenty cameras.

‘Let’s stay calm.’

Even if we talked here anyway, the sound didn’t spread because this place was so loud. Unless you deliberately speak loudly, even the members wouldn’t be able to hear you.

“What do you want to talk about?”

“I should have told you on the last phone call… Don’t you remember?”

Oh, his SNS upload was not out of bad intentions, he had said something like that.

In summary, he wanted to explain ‘I didn’t mean to sh*t on you.’

Now that it turned out like this, I would listen roughly and end it with, ‘Yeah, that’s right. I understand’, but there was a problem.

“…You’ll explain it all within the commercial time.”

“Ah, that’s enough. Listen.”

Cheongryeo smiled and nodded.

“It’s best to die once at this timing.”

“…!”

“I thought about it, but that was the hardest thing for me at first. I was reluctant to start over.”

Cheongryeo tapped the table.

“But once I tried it, I realized it wasn’t a big deal right away. Then things became much easier from then on.”

“…”

Unimaginable reasons for why he turned out insane continued popping up.

‘Wow, this is no joke.’

I consciously picked up the water bottle and gulped it down.

The palms of my hands sweated.

“You must have had some regrets this time, too, right? Let’s go back and fix it. Then the pressure goes away… Instead, you will have a sense of accomplishment.”

“Wait a minute.”

I put the bottle down.

“Then, it’s true that you were trying to make me die by failing to win the Rookie of the Year Award.”

“Can’t you get the Rookie Award just because I did that? No, that’s not it… I just made it bothersome.”

Cheongryeo kindly added an explanation.

“The public opinion was bad, and the situation was annoying, so you might want to try it again.”

“…So you tried to help ease the process by reducing my rejection of my death?”

“Yes.”

“Mm, don’t lie.”

“…What?”

“Whether the process is going to be easy or not for me has nothing to do with you, so there’s no reason to do that.”

“…!”

Even if I had a very favorable relationship with this guy, there was no way this guy would have acted with altruistic intentions without asking for benefit.

I was going to listen to it roughly and move on, but at this point, I couldn’t predict what bullshit would come out, so I stopped.

Cheongryeo looked a little awkward.

“Mm, of course, it was a choice that took my position into consideration as well.”

“…”

“It’s not like this had any effect on you, hubae-nim… I am just curious.”

Cheongryeo slightly bent his neck.

“I want to know if I will regress if you die.”

“…!”

“That’s right. It doesn’t have to be to the first time I returned… The point you returned to is fine. There are a few things I want to fix in the first half of this year.”

This bastard was completely out of his mind.

It was the reset syndrome in the truest sense.

“Oh, of course, I’m not saying I want to keep starting again… But it’s good if you check it in advance. Isn’t it?”

“Hold on.”

I started to think that this bastard might bury me with VTIC scandal if I did this wrong.

‘I’m going crazy.’

…I didn’t mean to say this, but I thought it would be less risky if I said it.

First of all… He still looked like a logical person, so let’s start with logic.

“…First of all, I think if I fail, it might just be the end.”

"…Hmm?"

"That's what I feel. I think I am just going die."

Since I couldn't mention the status window, I dismissed it as a feeling, but it was true.

'In my status abnormality, only 'death' is stated.'

There was no mention of 'returning' itself like Cheongryeo's status abnormality.

'It'll probably end with this once.'

Even if I could go back, there was no need to venture. It was good for my mind to think it was just the end of my life.

But Cheongryeo laughed.

"Ah, it would feel like that at first. But would it actually be like that?"

"…"

"Don't be afraid and try it."

This bastard, really.

I answered desperately.

"No. I don't want to start over in the first place. I want to see the end here now. I like the members right now, and I like the fans. There is nothing I want to change."

"…"

Cheongryeo closed his mouth. And he stared into the air without expression.

'…Did I go too far?'

He wasn't going to smash my head by suddenly taking out a hammer from somewhere, right?

But Cheongryeo soon nodded.

"…Me too, I guess."

"…"

"Mm, I see. Well, then."

Did it work?

I almost lost all of my tension all of sudden, but I held it in. He was the kind of guy that might stab me in the back again.

But Cheongryeo just looked a little apologetic.

"Anyway, I'm sorry if you had a hard time because of me this time."

"…It's all right. But next time, please confirm with me first."

"Yes. Ah, then I should tell you some comforting news… Mm, that's right."

"…?"

"I'll tell you the criteria for the Rookie of the Year Award assignment."

Cheongryeo laughed.

"It's 'Rookie of the Year' Award from Korean Music Award."

"…!"

Korean Music Award?

‘That’ Korean Music Award?

… <Korean Popular Music Style> which excluded the commerciality and evaluated only the music… that one.

As far as I was aware, there had never been an idol that won that Rookie of the Year Award…

Wait, that meant this bastard didn’t win it either.

“Haha! Of course, it’s a joke.”

“…”

One day… when the status abnormality was over, I would smash Testar’s Grand Prize trophy on this bastard’s face.

Fortunately, before my patience could run out, Cheongryeo spit out the right information.

“The important thing is the public opinion after receiving the Rookie of the Year Award.”

“…!”

“You won an award that you deserve, this reaction had to be solid public opinion for you to pass. Of course, the premise is to win half of the awards at real awards ceremonies.”

…I see.

‘Was the ‘most prestigious awards ceremony’ that the status window referring to was the public opinion?’

It was plausible.

Somehow, even at this Goldie Rookie Award, the status abnormality goal achievement pop-up didn’t t appear, so it probably wouldn’t appear until February.

And the moment I made that conclusion, Bae Sejin, who had run away, returned.

"…! Excuse me."

"Oh, I'm sorry. I'll get up. Moondae, I'll contact you again."

"…"

I couldn't bear to give a positive answer, but I nodded, self-conscious of the fancam.

Cheongryeo waved to Testar members and went back to his seat.

Bae Sejin looked at Cheongryeo with a slightly reluctant face, then sat down in his seat, looking a little uncomfortable.

"…Are you close with him?"

I wondered briefly why Bae Sejin didn't call him sunbae, but I soon realized that it had been more than 14 years since Bae Sejin had debuted.

So I easily put on a straight face.

"No, we were talking about work."

"…Work?"

"Oh, the social life of Moondae~"

Perhaps our voice was a little loud, Keun Sejin listened and giggled. It seemed he had guessed that Cheongryeo must have made an excuse about the SNS.

However, Bae Sejin whispered with a slightly serious face.

"Tell me if he's bothering you."

"…"

Maybe Bae Sejin recalled his past experience as a child actor and thought about the abuse of power by seniors in the industry… Wait, I supposed it was true in a way.

Anyway, since this issue was impossible to explain, I just nodded my head vaguely.

"In that case, I will tell you. Thank you."

"…Alright."

On this day, Testar received the main prize and performed the stage well without any mistakes, and then they returned home.

By the way, the group that won the Grand Prize was VITC.

…I hoped they would continue to win the awards until my status abnormality was over.

Some madman might attack me in the middle of the night to regress.

* * *

And the day after the Golden Disc Awards.

I prepared my heart, but I heard some unwelcome news.

"I heard he went to work today?"

A new director was appointed to the company.

Chapter 124

“Oh~ What kind of person is the new director?”

“I heard he’s a good person.”

I overheard the conversation between the manager and Keun Sejin.

‘Let’s not expect anything.’

The new higher-up probably also had a great mindset like the former director.

In any case, Testar’s results were good when he became the director, so wouldn’t the company send a similar guy again?

However, this expectation was broken in a good way.

“…A payment bot?”

“That’s right! It seems he’s trying to save profit because he’s about to retire.”

What I heard from the people at the company, Director Lee didn’t interfere or pushed on projects, and he just let the staff do whatever they wanted.

‘…Come to think of it, no one said he’s calling us.’

Usually, they would ask to see the faces of the singers, but such a thing didn’t happen.

I didn’t think he was going to be this nice for a long time, but it wasn’t bad for now. Because it was more comfortable for a superior I didn’t know to shout ok than to get motivated.

However, one big project was dropped into us due to this influence.

“A concert…”

“Finally, we’re preparing for our solo performance.”

As the overdue large-scale approval was approved one by one, the concert date was finally set.

But here was another problem.

“…Isn’t the date for March a little ambiguous?”

Right.

It was perfect for the start of the semester, the start of the school season… The date was caught during a season when anyone would not have enough time to go to a performance.

…Originally, they were going to aim for a special event at the beginning of the year, but the company was apparently so chaotic at the time that they couldn’t properly rent it.

I didn’t know if I should say it was a relief, but thanks to this delay, reparations for the rental of performance equipment were already completed.

Fortunately, the members soon relieved their anxiety about the date.

“But since it’s the weekend, won’t there be quite a lot of people who want to come?”

“T-There will be fans who have a good time…!”

“It will be nice if a lot of people come!”

“I want to prepare well and show them a good performance.”

The atmosphere flared up.

'…And there are three months left.'

Well, I had seen some singers who took more than half a year to prepare a concert, but three months wasn't too bad.

'Realistically, half a year ago, it was impossible to make a preparation because only our debut song just gotten released.'

It would be a bit of a tough job, but I thought I could handle it well since it wasn't during my activity period.

…Just as I thought about this, a new proposal was dropped to the staff.

"Why don't you present your first performance of your new song at your first concert?"

"…Are we making a comeback in March?"

"Isn't it a little too much?"

It was too much.

I wondered if they had forgotten what they had gone through when we had to release our debut album within a month.

…But surprisingly, an answer that made sense followed.

"But in order to fill the concert set list, we have to pick a few new songs, so wouldn't it be nice if it is Testar's song instead of a cover of another singer's song?"

"…Um, yes."

"Besides, almost all the songs in this album have already been released, so we only have to work on the title track."

They were right.

Actually, this comeback… It was our first full-length album.

So in order to put more effort, when I was working on the previous album, I had already selected half of the songs for the next album in advance.

Since then, I had been working on it in my spare time.

“Music video shooting and stuff like that have to be filmed on a concert VCR anyway, so I think we can do it according to the schedule… The concept photo can also be adjusted for the concert.”

“…”

Cost and time savings.

And it would be nice to have a concept for the concert. If the concept of the first full-length album was related to the concert, it would have a mutual promotion effect and the fans would enjoy it.

As a result, excluding the staff and the singers, everyone would be happy.

‘I’m going crazy.’

Sure enough, Kim Raebin, who had been listening quietly next to me, was trying to raise his hand as a sign of agreement.

The rabbit meat voluntarily went into the fire pit like no other.

Ryu Chungwoo cleared up the situation for now.

“Is it okay if we discuss it between ourselves and talk to you about it again?”

“Yes, yes, but please tell me by tomorrow.”

And there was nothing to decide until tomorrow.

Because the conclusion was reached in the company's practice room.

Surprisingly, it was unanimous.

"We want to try working on it."

"Ah, well thought out!"

The company was delighted.

And the members… It was obvious that their faces were saying 'If I have done it once, I can do it again'.

It was the damage caused by the good results from the previous crazy schedule.

'Even Bae Sejin is corrupted.'

After changing the year-end stage within a week once, it seemed that this side had also begun to gain experience.

* * *

Soon after, the company sent me a draft of the concert's set list.

Ryu Chungwoo quickly briefed us.

"Our title tracks and all the b-sides included… Even if you include the b-side songs in the fan song, we only have 10 songs."

"Hmm~ You need at least 20 songs for a concert, right?"

"In fact, we have less than 20 songs. Shouldn't we add more?"

"T-That's right."

The set list, with empty songs here and there, was still lacking.

“First of all, even if we add two songs from the new album, we will have to add the remaining eight songs.”

A plan to include songs that didn’t have choreography from the new album was also considered, but they rejected it because they wanted more performance songs.

I was speechless seeing these guys voluntarily cutting off the sections where they could take a breather.

‘I’m going to collapse at this rate.’

Fortunately, I remembered the company’s suggestion.

“I asked them to include some of our unit songs, let’s fill them in for now.”

In this way, we would have a semi-forceful break while the members took turns.

Besides, the company seemed to be drawing a bigger picture.

“Ah, you said you’re going to film your own content with that, right?”

Right. We would edit the process of dividing and preparing the unit stage and then upload it on WeTube like a variety show.

And after the concert was over, we planned to upload the unit stage like a choreography video.

“Then, let’s think about the remaining five songs without those three songs. Does anyone have a song you want to sing?”

“Me!”

“M-Me too…!”

And after a fierce battle, five songs were selected.

Thanks to Bae Sejin, who exercised his right to remain silent, and Ryu Chungwoo, who chose to yield, the process went smoothly.

“Then I’ll put it up like this for now.”

“Yes!”

So, the company confirmed the set list by revising a few orders after asking ‘Is it really okay like this?’ about ten times.

However, I still felt uncertain, and I heard that the VCR time was set for a long time.

‘…I guess I’ll have to work harder on cardio.’

Looking at the response of the staff, I was strongly convinced that the concert would be extremely difficult.

And after spending several days deciding on the title and concept of the new album.

A camera came into the dorm for the first time in a long while.

It was right to shoot the scene of dividing the unit concert stage.

But the method was unique.

“What day is it today?”

“The day we change roommates～”

It was because we decided to change our roommates and perform on stage with suitable matches.

‘…It’s like an Idol Inc’s team match.’

They said if you stare into the abyss, the abyss stares back at you, but it seemed everyone was already corrupted.

Well, to be honest, it was unexpected and fun. I could feel that these guys were confident that they could do well with anyone.

“Let’s say goodbye to our dear roommates! Aigoo, hyung-nim and dongsaeng～”

Holding a cue card, Keun Sejin proceeded to hug Cha Eugene and Ryu Chungwoo while brazenly pretending to weep.

It was an atmosphere full of intense skits.

Swept away by this atmosphere, Kim Raebin politely said farewell to Seon Ahyeon.

“Thank you so much for always responding to my noisy work with a generous and gentle attitude. I hope we can share a room together next time.”

“I-I am really grateful! A-And it was nice to hear you working. Your song was nice…!”

It was a harmonious, but extremely formal image.

The two seemed to get along well and had good feelings, but it looked like they had failed to get close openly.

I also said farewell to Bae Sejin.

“I think we were good roommates because we have similar lifestyles, but it’s too bad.”

“…Indeed. It would be nice to stay that way.”

As Bae Sejin spoke, his eyes were subtly directed at Cha Eugene. I felt like I would get a stomach ache just at the thought of staying together with him.

‘…There’s no way, right?’

It shouldn't be.

I ended the conversation by shaking hands with Bae Sejin and assimilating his thoughts.

"Okay then, let's meet our new roommates!"

"Wow!"

After the clichéd applause passed by, Keun Sejin smiled and took out the prepared props from behind.

"This roommate system is… It's card flipping!"

"Oh!"

"Do you see the number on the back? It's the room number! Those with the same number will share the room together~"

Keun Sejin shuffled the cards. Perhaps he had played this game before, he moved as he was familiar with it.

Then, seven sheets were turned upside down on the floor.

"Now, everyone here chooses the card they want~"

"OK!"

"All right!"

Whoever chose the card first was decided by a casual karaoke scoring game.

"Y-Yes!"

In fact, the order of the card selection didn't matter at all, so rather than the game, everyone was focused on picking out the amount of footage for content.

And the score was completely meaningless.

“First place is… Cha Eugene who scored 100 points!”

“Oh!”

Because the person who won first place was the guy who accidentally selected a song he didn’t know and just made it all up.

“Now, pick a card!”

“Yes!”

“Then… Oh! It’s number one!”

Anyway, starting with Cha Eugene, each person proceeded to pull a card.

And I… Surprisingly, I was in the same room with Bae Sejin again.

“Oh, Bae Sejin hyung-nim’s room number is… Number three! It’s the same room as Moondae~”

“…!!”

Bae Sejin clenched his hands tightly, then cleared his throat as if he was embarrassed.

“Hmph, then… I look forward to your kind cooperation.”

“Of course.”

In fact, I also avoided Cha Eugene and felt the same way, so I had nothing to say.

But the problem was number three.

Just like when we first decided on the roommates in the reality show, number 3 was a room for three people.

And the remaining lineup was… Keun Sejin and Seon Ahyeon.

“Ah~ we are the only ones left!”

“R-Right.”

“Okay, then I’ll pick first-“

Keun Sejin, who got to pick first, put his hand on the remaining cards as if he was agonizing.

Then he slipped his hand down and put his hand on the other card.

“…!”

Wait, this bastard…

“I’ll take this one! Ahyeon-ssi, shall we turn it over together?”

“O-Okay!”

“Then… one, two, three!”

Keun Sejin and Seon Ahyeon flipped the card.

The result was…

“Oooh!”

“Hey! Eugene! Please take good care of me again!”

Keun Sejin picked number one, Cha Eugene’s room.

And naturally, the one who picked number 3 was… Seon Ahyeon.

Seon Ahyeon showed the card with a broad smile.

“…! T-Take good care of me! I will leave it up to you!”

“Yes, let’s get along well.”

Bae Sejin’s face instantly relaxed. It seemed he was satisfied with this room assignment.

I also added.

“It’s been a while since we shared a room.”

“Y-Yeah!”

Seon Ahyeon quickly joined the people of room number three, holding the card tightly.

“Well, then, we have a surprise announcement for Loviewers! What will it be?”

Members laughed and added drum rolls.

“Da-dum-da-dum!”

Keun Sejin lifted the cue card.

“This time, we’re going to perform a unit stage with our roommates!”

“Please look forward to it!”

As prepared, the members enthusiastically waved their hands toward the camera.

That was how the shoot in the living room ended.

“Whoo!”

“Then let’s move our luggage first~”

The members immediately started to move their luggage to the new room.

But the guy who was usually the first to dash did something different.

He took the card from the floor of the living room.

“Ah! Here it is.”

“Yes, thank you~”

Keun Sejin organized the cards, arranged them into the original box, and handed them over to the staff.

Then, when he saw me still staying in the living room, he smiled and talked to me.

“Moondae, aren’t you going to move your luggage?”

“…I am going.”

I followed Keun Sejin to the hallway.

And I thought.

‘You did something there.’

He had avoided number three on purpose.

Chapter 125

‘That guy did something like this?’

It was a little strange.

I knew that Keun Sejin was a guy who was quick to judge the situation and drive public opinion in his favor.

But was he the kind of person who would choose a unit by playing tricks on the cards?

Rather than taking the risk of being caught, he would have just taken it to his advantage as much as possible in the given situation.

‘I don’t think he would do that just because he wanted to avoid Bae Sejin.’

Hmm, it didn’t feel good.

However, it wasn’t a good circumstance to ask this.

There was no evidence, and to bring up such a story with cameras installed in the dorm would be a suicidal move.

And it was hard to say something even if it was true. It wouldn’t be a big problem if you sneaked a unit for a one-time concert.

There was a high probability that the atmosphere would be strained for no reason.

‘…Let’s skip it for now.’

I went to the bed in room 1, which was now my old room. Keun Sejin slowly came along as if he was looking around where his room would be.

“Oh, I’m going to use Moondae’s bed. Moondae, I will hand over my bed to you.”

“…Which one is it?”

“What, did you forget? It’s the far left~”

“Okay. I will avoid it.”

“Gosh, are you too shy to use it? It’s okay, Moondae. Don’t hesitate to use it~”

“…”

He was just the same as usual.

I shook my head, packed my things, and left room number one.

‘When another problem happens, maybe I can bring it up then.’

And the timing came a little faster than expected.

It was at the award ceremony just a few days later.

* * *

Excluding Korean Music Award, it was practically the last large award ceremony.

However, a few big singers didn’t attend. Probably because it overlapped with their tour schedules.

That meant VTIC didn’t come either.

‘…I don’t have to worry about the hammer.’

The moment I had that thought, I got a text message.

[VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim: Looks like it's almost the last one this time. Congratulations on the Rookie of the Year Award ^^]

"…"

I felt like I'd been hit by a mental hammer.

I replied with a short message and turned off my smartphone. Then pretending to know, Keun Sejin asked.

"Do you keep in touch with Cheongryeo sunbae-nim?"

"…Yeah."

"Hmm~ All right, all right."

Keun Sejin seemed to want to add something more but we arrived at the awards waiting room before he could do that.

A piece of paper was attached to the door of the waiting room.

[Gyrop/Testar]

This time, it was not a single waiting room.

'Thanks to our results so far, we've been receiving a good waiting room for a rookie.'

I heard that in a situation where there was not enough waiting room, there were many cases where people just put in a dividing screen and waited there.

'Having two groups in one room is actually a good situation.'

Hmm, so we were waiting together this time… with a boy idol group from a famous agency.

'Are they seniors three or four years older?'

It was a predictable lineup.

Ryu Chungwoo lightly asked the members.

“Well, let’s greet them as we go in.”

“Yes!”

However, unlike other members who reacted normally, Keun Sejin right next to me was agitated.

“…!… Um.”

…Wait a minute.

‘Come to think of it, if you calculate the debut date of these guy’s agency…’

But before I had time to think about it further, the door was opened by the manager.

“Hello, sunbae-nim!”

“Ah~ Hello~”

There were trivial greetings coming and going, but soon Gyrop approached with an exaggerated smile.

“Ah~ Sejin!”

“How have you been?”

As expected, it turned out like this.

I supposed it was true that they were ‘that’ group who caused Keun Sejin’s short derailment before <Idol Inc.>.

Keun Sejin was weeded out right before his debut, the first debut group of his first agency.

“Wow~ Hello. Sunbae-nim~ Really, glad to see you!”

“Hey, what do you mean with sunbae-nim? Just call me hyung~”

“How can I do that?”

Keun Sejin laughed, shook hands with some of the guys, and bumped fists with them. They looked very close.

The other members… Their faces were saying ‘Keun Sejin is behaving like Keun Sejin’. Because he was such a sociable guy.

However, the atmosphere changed slightly after that.

“Sejin, uh, you don’t even look at my messages. I’m disappointed.”

“Ah, you know~ I’ve been so busy after my debut.”

“Right. Sejin, you’re busy right now. It’s a lot later than I thought! Lucky for you.”

‘Eh?’

These guys were being subtly sarcastic about Keun Sejin’s failure to debut.

Keun Sejin answered with a big smile.

“It’s great~ Sunbae-nims often talk to me, but I am sorry for the late reply! I’m busy with work, so the timing doesn’t match.”

It meant these assh*les were free because they didn’t have any schedule.

“…No, well, we didn’t message you that often right? I was just curious about how you were doing.”

“Huh? Isn’t it easy to know what I’ve been up to since I’ve been out here and there a lot lately? Please tell me how sunbae-nims have been doing too~ I’m curious about everything.”

“…”

Wow, because these guys’ activity was in a slump, he could turn things around without mentioning our grades like this.

No matter how you looked at it, it was a decisive victory for Keun Sejin.

And at this point, most of the members except Kim Raebin had their eyes rolling around as if they had grasped the situation.

The members of Gyrop were on the verge of decay.

“…Right. You’ll find our news this year even if you don’t want to know~”

“Is that so? I’m looking forward to it! Please look forward to our Testar as well.”

“…”

There was a pure weight class difference.

In the end, the Gyrop members forced themselves to smile and finished their greetings.

“Okay. Let’s work hard together.”

“Yes!”

The conversation seemed to end like that.

However, as if he couldn’t stand it, one of the Gyrop members who was standing in the back stepped in.

“But I only heard about Testar, though? I haven’t heard much about you.”

“…!”

Surprisingly, these trivial words seemed to hit Keun Sejin hard.

Keun Sejin was still smiling, but instead of making any counterarguments, he kept his mouth shut.

‘Huh?’

And here, Kim Raebin couldn’t stand it and raised his hand to speak.

By the way, it was not out of anger, but out of pure logical fallacy.

He didn’t get upset because he didn’t know the situation.

“…? Since Sejin hyung is a Testar member, isn’t the news about Testar also means news about hyung?”

“That’s right!”

Cha Eugene quickly agreed.

But Gyrop didn’t give up.

“No, I mean I only heard about the group and not about Lee Sejin~”

“…? Oh, we have never done individual activities other than group activities. You can think of Testar’s news as Sejin hyung-nim’s news.”

“…”

It might not have been Kim Raebin’s intention, but thanks to him, Gyrop’s words became unreasonable.

It was over.

‘Let’s clean it up.’

I interjected with a laugh.

“Yes. From now on, whenever you hear about Testar, you can think of Lee Sejin. Right?”

“You’re right!”

Contrary to Kim Raebin’s proud face, Gyrop’s expression was completely rotten.

“…Ah, yeah.”

Even if they were the seniors, these bastards didn’t have the guts to come to the awards ceremony and act rashly toward a group that had such a huge weight class difference, so the conversation ended like that.

However, Keun Sejin’s condition didn’t recover.

‘This guy is really strange.’

Looking at his smartphone for an hour without a word, Keun Sejin created a dirty feeling of incongruity.

…And connecting the situation just now with the unit card incident a few days ago, there was something suspicious.

‘…It would be ambiguous to leave it like this.’

Keun Sejin often held the microphone.

If he kept going like this, there might be a problem when he had to say the award speech later, so it was better to knock it off now.

“…I’ll go to the car for a minute.”

“Huh?”

“I left something behind.”

I got up from my seat and got the key from the manager.

“Do you want me to look for you?”

“It’s all right. I’ll be right back.”

Then I tapped Keun Sejin, who was sitting near the door.

“Hey, let’s go.”

“…Hn? What?”

“I think I need one more person to move it around. I have to take pictures.”

“…”

Keun Sejin looked me up and down without a word, then got up with a smile on his lips.

“…Okay~”

It was clear that he was being sarcastic about something, but let’s skip that for now.

Then, without saying a word to this guy, I walked down the hallway and arrived at the car.

After checking that there was no one around, I got in the car and opened my mouth.

“…”

“Do you have any problem lately?”

“…Sigh.”

Keun Sejin looked up at the ceiling of the car and sighed. It seemed he had noticed my purpose for calling him out here.

“It’s nothing.”

“…Is that so? Then cool your head before going up. You looked uncomfortable in the waiting room.”

“…!”

I shrugged and searched for a neck pillow in the car.

I could just say that I was here to find this.

“I’ll make up an excuse, so come back before then.”

“…”

I grabbed the car door. Then, Keun Sejin let out a long sigh from behind me.

“…I’m sorry. This is a little hard.”

“Sounds like there’s a problem.”

“Problem… Is that how I should call it?”

Keun Sejin struggled to say anything, and the silence continued.

‘Should I just say it?’

I pondered for a moment before opening my mouth.

“Actually, I saw you choosing the unit cards… You knew the card number 3 and avoided it.”

“……!”

"…Was it because if 3 people did it, the amount of footage would be less than with 2 people?"

Seeing how he was hit by comments like 'It's not you who are doing well, it's the group~' earlier, I wondered if he was sensitive to the decrease in his footage.

But Keun Sejin shook his head.

"…No."

Then, while fiddling with his smartphone, he slowly continued his next words.

"I avoided it because it's you and Bae Sejin hyung. It will be difficult to show the dance with that number of people."

"…!"

"It's obvious. We would have composed a vocal-oriented performance song centered on you… I would end up getting a dance break center. Even that would have to be arranged to match hyung, so the difficulty level would be easy."

"…Maybe you could have tried to dance in the center."

"Haha. Aigoo, Moondae. You would have taken such an adventure in a concert where fans spend their money."

"…"

"And if the dance was arranged to suit me, the fans wouldn't have liked it."

"Why do you think so?"

"…You're driving me crazy."

Keon Sejin sighed a few times, then after hesitating several times, he held out his smartphone.

Searched under his own anti-search name… was the result of SNS.

– To be honest, it's embarrassing to even call it a dance line, right? Ahyeonji is the one on top, Euggene is the center ㅋㅋㅋ It's disgusting to see this Big Bird guy push the dance line so far away

– If Ahyeonji fixes his stuttering, we finally don't have to see Big Bird, right? Phew. That's a relief.

– To be honest, he's good at dancing even at the international level. The dance line is meaningless. Big Bird, if you have a conscience, get out of there. He's mixing with Ahyeonji ㅋㅋ

– Big Bird… the substitute position…? Is pretending to be a popular guy a position? ㅎㅎ

"…"

"Let's not say that if you search like this, only cursing words come out. If it comes out collectively like this, it means that to some extent, it's really the public opinion of the fans."

Keun Sejin was calm.

I went further down on SNS and checked the overall flow again.

'…Seon Ahyeon is impressive.'

The status of Seon Ahyeon's ability had soared due to his impressive image in handling accidents with a backflip and overcoming his stuttering.

And among the same dance line, Cha Eugene was very popular and had great talent, so his center position was certain.

As a result, only Keun Sejin came out like this.

The fans who originally looked at Keun Sejin with disdain seemed to feel that point very strongly.

“Of course, it’s mostly the thoughts of people who hate me… Anyway, it’s true that I’m being pushed back in terms of positions.”

“…”

“What Is Ahyeon’s strong point? He’s good. He’s good for the group, too. But I can’t stand being like this.”

I slowly opened my mouth.

“…So Cha Eugene?”

“Yes.”

Keun Sejin put back his smartphone.

“I have to do better than Cha Eugene on the unit stage this time.”

“…”

“I’ll be able to make a one-on-one comparison… I can’t see any other escape route, isn’t that right?”

Chapter 126

'…You're going to focus on dancing.'

I got the idea.

The concert unit stage would be promoted through WeTube's own content, and a public video would be released, so it would definitely get the fan's attention.

Are you really better than Cha Eugene here?

There probably wouldn't be any talks about positions like this again.

But is that possible?

"…Wouldn't you rather get a dance break on this album?"

"Haha. Even if I am pretty good… Don't you think it would have been better if it had been done by Ahyeon or Eugene?"

Keun Sejin immediately replied. It seemed he had been thinking about this situation for a long time.

'…Still, a real battle with Cha Eugene is a bit much.'

It didn't mean that Keun Sejin's abilities were not great.

'…Status window.'

I checked Keun Sejin's status window for the first time in a long time.

[Name: Lee Sejin]

Vocal: C+ (B+)

Dance: A (S)

Visual: A- (A+)

Talent: A- (A+)

Characteristic: Be quiet (B)

!Status abnormality:

The status window was very compliant. His growth was more noticeable in this award season as his 'Talent' stat entered the A-class.

'He has jack-of-all-trades abilities.'

…The problem was that, overall, Cha Eugene's ability was slightly backward compatible[1]backward compatibility is the ability of software or hardware to be compatible with older products and can be used as it is without separate modifications…

Except for vocal which was at the same level, All his stats were slightly lower than Cha Eugene's.

It would be better if he had one or two higher stats, but this… It was ambiguous.

'He's practically get eaten up by Cha Eugene.'

He had gotten an S- stat now. He even had the black hole, a crazy OP characteristic.

In addition, he was not the type to synergize with others. He was the only one who crazily stood out.

To be honest, even I, who had a completely different position, was not very inclined to perform alone with Cha Eugene.

'…Park Gommeo, it's nice to hear that bastard still ticking.'

I could already hear the sound of the reward in putting all the points and raising the dance stats disappearing.

I held my breath and looked at Keun Sejin.

"…I'll skip everything and speak frankly."

"Yes."

"Whether it's you, Seon Ahyeon, or someone else, I think it's almost impossible to stand out more than Cha Eugene in one-on-one."

"…"

"Perhaps you've thought about it, too."

It would have been better to come to room number 3 and somehow pick a part that would have drawn attention.

And yet he chose Cha Eugene… His greed and fear to prove himself seemed quite big.

Keun Sejin looked at the floor and asked dejectedly.

"…Do you think it's impossible?"

"I think… Instead of trying to beat Cha Eugene, I think we should approach it in a different direction."

At least there was one situation that seemed most probable.

"Just choose the stage properly. I don't feel like comparing you and Cha Eugene to each other and comparing who is better."

It meant that only talks like 'That dance unit stage is really good' should come out.

"In that situation, If you don't fall behind in your parts, your dance position is certain."

It might be difficult, but it was more doable than beating Cha Eugene on the duo stage.

“We have to make Cha Eugene cooperate on stage.”

“…Right.”

Ken Sejin nodded quite calmly. However, it was unclear how much strength he put into his clenched hands.

‘…Even my hands are shaking.’

This guy being so nervous and concerned, I had never seen it before even during <Idol Inc.>’s final.

‘It’s almost like when the rumors of his school violence broke out.’

Isn’t that a bit too much?

“Is there anything else?”

“What?”

“What I am saying right now is not about the general public opinion of the fans. I’m just talking about below the surface. You know, you seem overly nervous.”

“…”

Keun Sejin didn’t say anything for a while.

Then he laughed dejectedly.

“Am I even allowed to say this… Hey, do you know why I was left out of the debut group before? It’s because my position is ambiguous.”

“…!”

“Just before the launch, a new kid whose parents were both actors joined all of sudden. He’s well-known, so he has to be put on the team… The higher-ups said that we would make it with seven people. What was I supposed to do? One person got cut off.”

“…”

“But there was one guy on the team who danced better than me, one who was younger, one who was handsome, one who sang better, and one who rapped better. We couldn’t take out the leader because he was the leader, and in the end, my position was vague so I was the right person.”

Keun Sejin hit his thigh with his hand.

“That’s why I got left out. What was I supposed to do?… Anyway, that’s why I can’t let go. Even if things get louder and I didn’t feel sorry for falling out, it was too much… It’s funny. I was the only one who didn’t have a good deal when we renewed our contract. They were saying all sorts of things…”

Keun Sejin clicked his tongue and lowered his head. He was saying things that he wouldn’t have said in his normal state.

‘…This is a conversation that really needs alcohol in it.’

I felt a little dizzy to hear it sober.

‘Anyway, I understand the situation.’

It must have been quite a shock to have been dropped from the team right before the first debut.

Perhaps the fact that he had paid attention to the positions of ‘leader’ and ‘main dancer’ throughout <Idol Inc.> had more meaning than just taking care of the broadcasting footage.

‘But how should I react?’

I was a bit flustered because I heard too much.

It's not like I could offer a solution to this story of the past. That didn't mean I was very talented in consoling people.

…There was no point. Let's just list the positive facts as I always did.

I held back my sigh and opened my mouth.

"First of all… Regardless of the position or stuff like that… The team just needs you."

"What, for entertainment shows?"

"No, to cut the gossip."

"…!"

It was sad but true.

"You know, half of our team is tactless, and more than half of them are soft-hearted. Think about it. Without you, would this team exist… What kind of situation we would be in."

"…"

As if recalling from the one-month forced march before his debut to the recent Onyx incident, Keun Sejin was speechless for a moment.

But soon he shook his head.

"You gave almost all your opinions by yourself. I don't think it would be a big change."

"Well, about that, actually, I took action because I trusted you a little bit."

"What?"

"No… I knew that if you had a worthwhile opinion, you would unconditionally set the mood."

"…"

I felt a little awkward. I cleared my throat and continued.

"Chungwoo is the leader. But if I have to choose the person most suitable for team play, it would be you. Whether on stage, broadcast, inside or outside the team… It's really rare for anyone to do their part in all kinds of situations."

I finished my speech.

"A member with a good hexagonal balance is also necessary for an idol group. Well… I'm just saying."

"…"

After hearing me out, Keun Sejin shut his mouth and turned his head in the opposite direction.

'You can't be crying, right?'

I hoped he didn't cry. It was going to be really weird.

And a moment later, Keun Sejin really couldn't resist and burst out.

Laughing, not crying.

"Ahaha! You're so cheesy right now!"

"…Are you laughing?"

"Pfft, hey, wouldn't you laugh at this situation?! A guy like Park Moondae is saying all sorts of things to console me!"

Even if this bastard gave me the best compliments, I'd be damned.

Big Sejin stopped laughing before he could be slammed with a neck pillow.

“Hahaha, really… Whoo, anyway, I get it. It’s funny, but… It comforts my heart. Hey, that’s amazing.”

Keun Sejin smiled, then he suddenly crossed his arms and muttered in a deliberately exaggerated voice.

“But wouldn’t it be useless if the fans don’t know that Sejin is such a great idol? Should I get Chungwoo hyung’s leader position?”

Don’t pretend you’re joking, you bastard.

I answered as calmly as I could.

“You already know most of it. You’re worried that the opinions you’ve seen will spread to other fans, but… In fact, on the contrary, I think you have an advantage in a long-term battle.”

“…Really?”

“Yeah. The fact that you don’t have any weaknesses will be more apparent as years accumulate.”

It was also a trend confirmed in the actual data market.

When a time came when the demand for each member fluctuated, the type that was especially good at defense was that kind of person.

Keun Sejin looked as though he couldn’t fully trust this statement. But he smiled and nodded.

“…Okay. I’ll think of it like that and do my best on stage～”

Still, he sounded sincere.

Anyway, he seemed to have made a conclusion in his mind, so he should be able to receive the characteristic effect.

[Be quiet (B)]

: Let's not make excuses!

– Propulsion +100%

Looking at the name alone, I thought it might be a characteristic related to public opinion due to Keun Sejin's inclination, but I was a little surprised.

'Well, that suits him too.'

Maybe not making excuse was referring to him and everyone around him.

While preparing for this unit stage, it must have been a similar stance to Cha Eugene.

'…He's going to be gentle and soothing, and he'll pick out only the elements he wants.'

I wondered how far he would go.

"Then I'll go up now. Come up when it's all sorted out."

"What are you saying when you're the one who sorted out everything? Hey, let's go up together!"

"…"

Keun Sejin stretched forward and prepared to get out of the car.

Looking at that hand, I suddenly remembered the image of him manipulating the card.

"…Come to think of it, how did you mark the card?"

"What?"

"The card to decide the unit. The one you manipulated."

“Ah~ Heol? Hold on.”

Keun Sejin giggled.

“Hey, I didn’t manipulate it!”

“…!”

“I remembered the scratch shape on the back while touching the card~ I’m smart… Aigoo, it’s my brain’s fault!”

I’m glad you didn’t go as far as manipulating it… For some reason, I felt hot.

As we got out of the car and walked into the waiting room, Keun Sejin giggled a few more times.

And in front of the waiting room, he spoke a little seriously.

“Anyway… I feel more grateful. I wasn’t just referring to when you tried to listen to my situation even though you thought I manipulated the card.”

“…If the concert goes well, buy me a cow.”

Big Sejin burst into laughter.

“Yes. Just a cow? I will buy Korean beef.”

“Okay.”

“…Tell me if you have any concerns.”

“…”

It was my problem.

I thought about explaining my situation to these guys for a moment.

…Hmm, I guessed my activities would be suspended and I would have to make a psychiatric appointment from that day on.

As expected, I would just pretend it didn't exist.

"Yes, if I have one."

"Oh~ The confidence of not having one yet!"

Keun Sejin smiled and entered the waiting room.

Perhaps the manager had grasped the situation, he confirmed that Keun Sejin had returned in a good condition, and gave me a small thumbs-up.

'Keun Sejin can see it all.'

Anyway, the waiting time was peaceful afterward. Because all the members except Kim Raebin didn't even make eye contact with Gyrop.

And on this day, Testar won the Album of the Year 4th Quarter Award and the Rookie of the Year Award.

"Thank you very much! Last week, we celebrated our 200th day since our debut…"

While waiting for my next turn after Keun Sejin held the microphone and talked like a fluent speaker, I finally received the news I had been waiting for.

[Succesfully won the award!]

You have successfully won the Rookie of the Year Award in the recognition of the public, the 'most prestigious domestic award ceremony'!

!Time limit: Fulfilled (great success)

!Status abnormality: 'Win an award or die' removed!

: Check the truth ☜ Click!

- 1. backward compatibility is the ability of software or hardware to be compatible with older products and can be used as it is without separate modifications.

Chapter 127

The status abnormality related to the Rookie of the Year Award was resolved faster than expected.

‘I thought it wouldn’t happen until February.’

The fact that it was resolved as soon as I received the award at the last large awards ceremony… It meant the current public opinion was overwhelming.

It must have been the effect of breaking through the mess of the Rookie Award controversy. I didn’t know that it would reach the timing when the status abnormality was lifted.

‘Well, it’s good to be able to check quickly, but.’

I didn’t intend to click ‘Check the truth’ for a while anyway, since there was no point in getting a new status abnormality early just because it was resolved quickly.

“Thank you!”

While I was thinking about it, Keun Sejin finished his speech and moved out of his seat, giving up the seat in front of the stand mic.

That meant it was my turn.

I walked out slowly and stood in front of the microphone.

The flashing waves in front of me disturbed my vision.

It was Testar’s lightstick with luminous power that could be easily seen from a distance.

'…There are overwhelmingly more of them here than at other awards ceremonies.'

Perhaps it was because VTIC was absent. I confirmed the view and brought my mouth to the microphone.

"First of all, I'd like to start by saying thank you."

I didn't mind saying my award speech, but I'd never felt the need to step out and did it.

'I am only doing this because we are taking turns.'

But now looking at it… It was a good way to express my gratitude.

"…Testar is not a group that has been prepared as a team for a long time. We, who have not been verified as a team, have put a lot of thought and effort into debuting as a group after a short preparation period."

Of course, I didn't just agonize over it, I also cursed at the company, but it was the truth without lies, anyway.

And so were the next words.

"And our driving force is… that there are people waiting for us."

…It wasn't just preparations for our debut.

The same was true for the controversy over the Rookie of the Year Award. Because I knew there were people who would respond right away when the situation turned around… I could choose such a primitive way.

Isn't it strange and amazing that there are people who wait for you and want to like you as long you come up with a good result?

"Thank you for trusting and waiting, and for looking forward to it."

Thank you for not giving up your expectations even in the midst of tiring public opinion and annoying situations.

“We will continue to do our best without forgetting our current feelings so that we can be a group that can give you excitement rather than worries when you think of tomorrow’s Testar. Thank you.”

I bowed my head. And for a while, I continued to express our gratitude.

Brilliant cheers poured over my head.

The sound, as powerful as the luminous power of the lightstick, somehow felt hot.

And I felt hands tapping on my back.

‘It must be the members.’

Just as I tried to think positively that it would be a good picture, I heard a slightly flustered whisper.

‘M-Moondae, are you okay?’

‘Are you crying?’

I’m not crying.

Another whispered earnestly.

‘If you want to raise your head straight, cover your face and turn around.’

Why do you think I would be too embarrassed to lift my head for crying?

‘Isn’t it normal to think that speeches get longer with emotion and gratitude?’

I held back my sigh and looked up.

Then, the lightsticks, which were as brilliant as the cheers, swayed and rippled countless times.

Somehow, it looked bigger than before, like the Milky Way.

"…"

'That was close.'

If I raised my head without thinking, I would have burst into tears by myself.

Thanks to those who misunderstood that I was crying, I cooled down and neutralized my feeling, so I managed to avoid getting laughed at.

'I'm breaking out in a cold sweat.'

And at the same time, I was reminded of the characteristic I had thrown away a few months ago.

[Characteristic: Faucet under the eyes (B)]

Turning on and off with ease!

: Tear control ability MAX.

A slight chill went down my spine.

'…Don't tell me I am going to need it.'

I suspected for a moment that it might be just like the strong heart that I needed as soon I threw it away… I shook my head.

'Even so, I can't give up my other characteristics for something like this.'

It was okay to get a little embarrassed.

And well, would that happen often? It was only for a day like today when complex circumstances overlapped.

‘Let’s just wave hands.’

I waved and bowed to the audience along with the guys who were trying to poke me in the side with an attitude that seemed to say, ‘I thought you were crying!’

The light was still hot.

* * *

After the awards season was over, preparations for the concert began in earnest.

Among them, of course, there was a process of preparing for the unit stage with the camera.

[Magical Boy Testar’s magical artificial intelligence secretary!]

“It’s even on WeTube now.”

“It’s Chungwoo hyung!”

As Cha Eugene said, Ryu Chungwoo was appearing on the TV screen connected to WeTube.

With a picture of a bird’s wing edited over his shoulder, Ryu Chungwoo smiled and winked and made a slight shooting motion with his index finger and thumb.

[Catch, Curious!]

It was a very normal commercial scene with Ryu Chungwoo appearing as a cheerful handsome man.

“What’s this!”

“Why is hyung the only one doing something cool?”

“…You don’t get that an animal image?”

Bae Sejin’s last question sounded almost gloomy.

However, Ryu Chungwoo was still embarrassed by the commercial, so he only smiled and shook his head.

“Haha, it’s not cool… The fans compared me with ‘bird’ a lot, so I guess it turned out like this.”

However, the members’ response was cold.

“You could’ve done a peep peep chick, but you did something cool.”

“I was going to press skip, but I didn’t have to.”

“No, it’s not something I decided, guys!”

Ryu Chungwoo was flustered for a moment but soon realized that it was a reaction from light resentment, so he laughed and looked at the situation as something adorable and moved on.

‘…It must be nice to have a hawk as an animal image.’

Someone had pushed for a puppy and it became like that.

I quickly shrugged off my commercial cuts that came to mind and focused on the video playing.

[Je te donne des fleurs que…]

A slow and beautiful chanson was flowing on the screen. It was a unit song chosen by Kim Raebin and Ryu Chungwoo.

Keun Sejin asked with inertial admiration.

“Oh, you want to use that song?”

“Yes.”

Kim Rabin nodded and his eyes twinkled.

“I think it’s a melody that goes well with Chungwoo hyung’s voice. If you change the rhythm to kitsch, leaving only the sound of the keyboard instrument, it will be a very sensual instrument…!”

“Yeah. I’m looking forward to it because Raebin seems to be having fun.”

Ryu Chungwoo smiled and nodded.

I could guess what kind of atmosphere this team had.

‘You’re letting Raebin go crazy.’

Since it was a unit stage anyway, Ryu Chungwoo didn’t make conservative judgments and seemed to fully accept Kim Raebin’s ideas.

‘It will be an entertaining picture.’

How interesting.

And next, Cha Eugene was excited and searched for the video and played it.

An old pop song was played based on the brown album cover.

‘…Why a pop song?’

I thought it would too advantageous for Korean-American Cha Eugene, but soon I realized that it wasn’t the case.

Perhaps, after taking a composition that was considerate of Cha Eugene, Keun Sejin picked the song that he wanted.

‘If that guy makes concessions in this game, he'll go to a castle[1]It is an expression used to emphasize the claim that something is unlikely to come true, or to boast that it is certain to happen.’

It was already a divided castle, but he bet on it one more time.

When Keun Sejin met my eyes, he furrowed his eyebrows as if he couldn’t see me. Perhaps it was true that the pop song was induced by me.

“I love this song! I look forward to it!”

“Yes, let’s make a great stage~”

“Make it!”

Cha Eugene excitedly raised his hand, and Keun Sejin responded with an exhilarating high-five.

‘Well, both of them are satisfied.’

There didn’t seem to be any problem so far.

“T-Then… I’ll play the song we chose…!”

“Yeah~”

The last group was me, Bae Sejin, and Seon Ahyeon.

Seon Ahyeon came forward and operated the WeTube screen according to the script.

Then a rustic and laid-back band accompaniment began to play out.

[U! I can hear your heart~]

“Huh?”

Looking at the other groups who were a little bewildered, I explained with a smile.

“It’s Miso sunbae-nim’s ＜You’re Amazing＞.”

It was a song by a female solo singer who was active in the late ’80s. Moderately bright, moderately emotional.

The chorus of this song, ‘Woooooo～ Amazing!’, was so well known that even teenagers or 20-year-olds had heard it at least once in variety shows.

But that was just it.

For a song that would be used at the latest concert, it must have seemed out of place in both the impact and atmosphere.

Ryu Chungwoo looked a little shocked.

“You three are going to sing this song?”

“Yes.”

I nodded nonchalantly, and the other two teammates affirmed with slightly flushed faces.

Ryu Chungwoo looked at their faces and then barely nodded.

“Okay… Did Moondae choose it?”

“…? No. Seon Ahyeon and Sejin hyung chose it.”

The two of them put it on the candidate list first, and after discussing it, we chose it together.

“…Um, I see.”

Ryu Chungwoo nodded straight away, but it was clear that he was hiding his worries.

‘If it weren’t for the camera, he would have already asked if this would be okay.’

Not noticing the sign, Seon Ahyeon just muttered with an excited face.

“I-I think it’ll go well with us, so I’m already looking forward to it!”

Bae Sejin also looked hesitant about whether he should say something, but eventually, he opened his mouth while looking at the camera.

“…I think it’s going to be a great performance, so you can look forward to it.”

Ryu Chungwoo’s face relaxed after seeing the rare positive expression from those two.

I didn’t know if he liked it, but he must have thought there was something attractive about this song.

Ryu Chungwoo looked at me for the last time. And asked with a look of final certainty.

“…Are you also confident, Moondae?”

“It’s hard to be confident on any stage. I’ll do my best to complete it.”

“…”

“Let’s all do our best!”

“Let’s do our best!”

“Testar, fighting!”

As soon as the filming was over, Ryu Chungwoo asked, ‘Is it really okay?’ three times, and I nodded my head three times.

Only then did Ryu Chungwoo disappear to make coffee with a somewhat relieved face.

‘I shouldn’t have messed around.’

I was thinking of messing around with him for avoiding the commercial Russian roulette alone, but it worked better than expected because he was a guy with a strong sense of responsibility.

‘Actually, what I’m concerned about is something else.’

My concern was… the stage for the new song.

‘It’s the song’s first performance at a concert before the song even comes out yet.’

The title track and the b-side track. We had to make the audience enjoy listening to two songs that were unfamiliar and unverified to the public.

It was important to drag it out so that the atmosphere didn’t deteriorate.

“……Hmm.”

After thinking about it, I came up with a short and clear answer.

‘Let’s pour out our capital.’

Fortunately, the company had a lot of money.

* * *

When Testar was busy preparing for concerts and new albums.

Finally, the date of the concert was announced.

= = = =

: Two-day weekend schedule from March 30th to 31st

(notice photo)

= = = =

But before they could calmly start preparing to buy tickets, news poured in.

– Heol, they're saying we will book the new album starting next month. (notice link)

□?? What

□Suddenly?

□Are they already announcing their comeback on April 1st?

□Heol, it's the day after the concert.

□A comeback as soon as the concert is over? It's good that there is a lot of content… Yeah…

Fans were already baffled there, but the news wasn't over yet.

– There's an article… It said the new song will be released for the first time at the concert (article link)

□What…?

□No, what's going on

□So they will perform the new song for the first time at the concert even before the music video comes out?

□If I can't go to that crazy concert, I'm going to go crazy…

There were more.

– At Testar's first concert, they're going to perform unit stages, and they're going to reveal the stage production as reality content on WeTube. (interview link)

□Yes?

Suddenly too many things happened ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

They're going to make a reality show and unit stages?

It's too good to be true, can T-One do it…?

Fans frantically struggled to digest the news, but only one fact was firmly established.

'The competition for the concert is going to be crazy high!'

And in this whirlwind of chaos and tension. Testar uploaded an SNS post.

= =

[Testar finally has their first concert! > _ < Will you come to see us? ㅠㅠ We are also going to try to buy a ticket together with Loviewer!]

= =

There was no crazier challenge than this.

- 1. It is an expression used to emphasize the claim that something is unlikely to come true, or to boast that it is certain to happen

Chapter 128

“Are you all ready?”

“Of course~”

“Do it right away!”

Answers filled with confidence responded to Ryu Chungwoo’s question.

There were only us and the staff in the rented PC room for this ‘Concert Ticket Purchase by Testar’ content.

And the guys, each with a PC, sat there with faces that seemed to be dying of joy, as if shouting, ‘We’re going to have a concert soon!’.

“The seats we reserve today will be sent to Loviewer along with our autographs through a lottery!”

“I’ll try to get a good spot!”

There was tension, but I couldn’t find solemnity.

‘They must have thought they’ll get a corner seat in the worst-case scenario.’

In fact, in their opinion, it was only natural because 26,000 people could be mobilized for both days this time.

In other words, there were 13,000 seats available for each day of the concert.

There was a strange conviction among them, saying, ‘Can’t you even get one out of 13,000 when you’re trying to book a ticket with the latest computer?'.

But of course, I was skeptical.

'I think they're all going to fail.'

I could tell just by listening to their conversation.

"Oh, it opens at 8 o'clock… We can go in right at 8, right?"

"I think so."

"I want to be on the first floor!"

"…"

It would end with loading at the entry without even being able to look at the seat screen.

At best, there would be one or two who took the back seats.

'…As expected, I have to get it.'

If we all failed, the picture would be weird.

For diversity, it would be better for one or two to succeed.

But actually, I'd rarely ever been to a concert myself. How many times I had received a one-on-one order at most and pulled out the data?

However, if it was proxy ticketing, I'd tried that quite a few times.

And the odds were good.

'It was nice to get an expensive meal.'

I quit because the probability of getting caught in the law was too high.

Proxy ticketing was not a gray area, it was just plain crime.

Anyway, I thought it was possible again this time.

Then, sitting next to me, Seon Ahyeon quietly spoke. Looking at the screen, it seemed he had finally accessed the ticketing site.

“M-Moondae. Which area are you going to pick?”

“Hmm… I’m thinking of trying section 8 on the 2nd floor.”

“S-Second floor?”

“Aren’t you trying to make it too easy~?”

“Let’s take the first floor together!”

Those who overheard the conversation came to meddle. They poured out brave remarks, unaware of the reality.

However, Seon Ahyeon nodded eagerly.

“T-Then me too… 2nd floor? H-How do I do it?”

The attitude of acknowledging his lack of experience and seeking advice clearly stood out.

‘…Shall I tell you what I know?’

I simply gave him advice on server time and site settings.

“Once you enter this site and click on the Afterpark address…”

“Oh, Moondae is teaching something!”

“I want to listen too!”

“I’d like to know.”

"…The server time of the booking site comes out, and you can think of the booking time based on that."

There were a lot of interruptions. I was done talking.

"I-I got it!"

Seon Ahyeon immediately operated his PC, and soon after, the Afterpark server time appeared along with the server name.

[Magical Boy Testar's Magic seat already selected]

[February 26th 19:47:49]

"Oh!"

The guys got excited and copied the site. Ryu Chungwoo and Bae Sejin started snooping around and learning how to do it.

'Hmm, it's better than coming in blindfolded.'

There were only 10 minutes left until the ticket sales started. I quickly briefed on what I knew.

"And the booking site opens several tabs for each web browser, and from 59 seconds right before the time is up…"

By the time the summary explanation was over, they started to feel a little solemn.

"I-It takes a lot of preparation…"

"If Moondae hadn't investigated, we could all have failed, right?"

I guessed it was because my explanations were more detailed than they thought and the nuances were tinged with urgency.

And the atmosphere intensified as the announced time approached.

“There are three minutes left.”

“Gasp.”

“Let’s find a good spot and send it to Loviewers～”

“I’ll do my best!”

“F-Fighting…!”

It seemed they had already forgotten that even if they didn’t manage to catch one, the tickets would still go to Loviewers.

Well, if you did make a mistake, you could go to the proxy ticketing… There was a possibility of supplementation probability.

I shrugged and fixed the mouse.

In the camera’s blind spot, the staff gestured to give a countdown signal.

“10! 9! 8!…… 3! 2! 1!”

Speaking along with numbers with my mouth, I started refreshing the tabs one by one right before the time was up.

“…!”

And… nothing happened.

Because the screen froze.

‘It’s over.’

No, really, there was no other way to explain it.

Endless loading continued on all tabs. I thought it would change if the traffic eased up a bit, so I went back and forth in the browser for about seven minutes to watch the situation more, but nothing changed.

The surroundings were noisy, too. It seemed no one had seen the page.

‘I think this server has crashed.’

I threw away my PC and turned on the mobile app.

[41,502 people are on standby]

It was a sentence of defeat.

“…”

I tried to refrain from using my phone because I was in the middle of filming, but checking the app late was a mistake…

‘…I failed?’

Not the other guys. I… didn’t even get a single spot?

I couldn’t believe it.

‘…I had also succeeded in the VTIC concert.’

Even though it was three years ago, they were still top tier…!

At that time, the server had crashed, but I still remember how I had changed the tab and pushed in.

But I didn’t know why it didn’t work right now.

‘…It’s the ticket for my concert.’

To be honest, I was a bit flustered.

I checked my PC and app again a few more times before accepting the reality in front of the empty screen.

'It can't be helped.'

…It was a pity that I couldn't send a ticket, though.

Even someone like me was helpless, so the chances of others making it were extremely low…

"O-Oh?"

At that moment, sitting next to me, Seon Ahyeon started to move his mouse with a shriek.

Looking at it, his screen had gone over to the payment window.

"…!"

"Heol, did Ahyeon make it?"

"What kind of trick did you use?!"

"I-I don't know… I-I did as Moondae told me…!"

Seon Ahyeon responded to the crowd with a flustered face but began to take steps as instructed.

After entering the personal information that he had copied in advance, he selected the payment method and moved on to the next page.

Even the location was scheduled in the middle of the second floor.

"Wow, awesome!"

"Ahyeon has succeeded."

"…I'm glad. At least one person made it."

The members had already entered a celebratory atmosphere, tapping Sun Ahyeon on the shoulder.

"…"

However, I looked bitterly at Seon Ahyeon's screen.

Keun Sejin suddenly hit my back.

"Wow, Moondaemoondae, are you upset that Ahyeon is the only one who succeeded when you prepared hard?"

Seon Ahyeon was taken aback.

"I-It's because Moondae taught me well…! I-It's no different from what Moondae did…"

"No, it's not that…"

Seon Ahyeon's PC screen changed before I could explain it.

Sure enough, the phrase came up.

[An error occurred while the payment was in progress.]

"…"

"…"

There was a deadly silence. I knew this would happen.

'…The loading was too long.'

If the loading was too short or too long, it usually ended up like this.

Seon Ahyeon could not accept the situation and stood firm. The other guys also didn't seem to have come back to their senses.

'…There must be quite a lot of votes that bounced off the payment stage.'

I checked some of the ticketing pages again just in case.

There was only a white screen still remaining.

*'Sh*t.'*

Is there anyone who succeeded?

It seemed that the server went down because the ticketing site had failed to predict the traffic, but then that meant everyone could have been looking at the same screen.

I guessed calmly.

'Maybe there are a lot of people who haven't booked the tickets properly yet.'

Of course not.

The booking page that was finally accessible 3 minutes later proved it.

[0 seats]

"…"

A surprising number of people had succeeded in booking through this trashy server.

"Really?"

"This is the end…?"

It was over.

And like a lie, articles about the sold-out tickets started popping up.

[All tickets for Testar's first concert are sold out]

[26,000 seats sold out… Testar's concert even caused a server failure]

[Testa's first concert, only 10 minutes for all tickets to get sold out on both days]

That's right.

I just… lost to the fans in ticketing.

That I couldn't even look at the seats was a completely terrible defeat.

Data seller 1 extra lose…

* * *

Testar's first concert.

Fans were full of expectations and happiness, but it wasn't big news to the public. Because they usually went to idol concerts without thinking much about it.

Furthermore, Testar had announced the date of their comeback. As the attention was focused on this news, the concert itself seemed to pass quietly without much objection.

…Until Testar's failed ticketing video was uploaded.

= = = =

ㅡㅡㅡ

– But Park Moondae really did enough. I didn't know he'd turn on a multi-browser and the app ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

I think he would have gotten one, but he was out of luck with the server… But it was cute that he got so shocked ㅎ

– Since the days of Park Moondae's chicken feet, he always looks like he was just going to do it in moderation, so why is he so serious about all the activities? ㅋㅋ

If you pretend to be calm and fail, it's best to break down ㅠ

As if on purpose

Why would a handsome main vocalist do that, hater…

– Moon Puppy is not at fault. The fault lies with the Afterpark server.

– Park Moondae was so excited with his self-investigation that his eyes were sparkling like a puppy when he shared it, but after he failed, he turned into a Tibetan fox ㅋㅋㅋ

ㄴㅅㅂㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

As expected, the puppy is only for external use. When the Tibetan fox emoticon comes out, the trend will turn over.

People mingled with the fans and talked about Park Moondae and Testar's cuteness for a long time.

Fans enjoyed the warm and cute atmosphere of the sales, but at the same time, they cried over the poor ticketing server and its failure.

Then, an unexpected effect occurred.

Testar's concert-related content was also drawing attention.

– Oh, are they going to release the unit stage on WeTube? If it comes up, please upload it here. It reminds me of Idol Inc and makes me want to reminisce

– The new song is also released for the first time there, so it seems they are preparing a lot for Testar's concert ㅋㅋㅋ

 I think that's why when this ticketing event failed, they got even more depressed ㅋㅋㅋ

I was going to send you a ticket, but I don't have one…!

That's so funny ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ I'll look forward to how the concert is going to be held ㅋㅋㅋ

And before the atmosphere subsided, concert trailer videos and unit stage production reality poured into WeTube.

Even the VOD service announcement was posted early, absorbing the overflowing demand for the concert.

The atmosphere was at its peak.

– T1 actually works properly. What's going on?

– I'm going crazy, looking forward to the concert

– We did a good job changing the director ㅠㅠ

Thanks to this, the fans greeted the first day of the concert with excitement and anticipation.

Chapter 129

“Are there a lot of people?”

“There are so many!”

“Even though there are still more than eight hours left before the performance starts, I see a lot of people gathering and chatting…!”

Kim Raebin and Cha Eugene, who had pretended to go to the bathroom and spied outside, chatted excitedly.

The members on stage either covered their faces or took deep breaths.

“Whoa…”

“You can hear all the rehearsals.”

Right. They were on the stage for the concert rehearsal.

Idols on overseas tours sold tickets including the rehearsal tickets, but fortunately, this one wasn’t like that.

If the rehearsal was revealed at the first concert, they would have been 10 times more nervous than they were now.

Of course, even now, everyone was in high spirits.

“Let’s do our best. I’ll show them how much I have practiced.”

“That’s right!”

“Really… We really have practiced a lot.”

Bae Sejin’s face turned a little pale.

It seemed he was reminiscing about the last practice period.

‘It was a bit harsh.’

It wasn’t just once or twice that I had thought my physical strength and lung capacity would not last.

Thanks to that, I brought a bicycle machine to the dorm. Because it was a unanimous consensus that the time to receive PT was not enough.

In the meantime, in the unit stage production reality, I had to keep up a lively appearance, so it was not an ordinary job.

‘…But this day has finally come.’

I wasn’t regretful or anxious. The preparations were all set.

And that would be the same for the others.

“Right. This time, let’s go and believe in the amount of practice.”

“Yes!”

In that solid atmosphere, Keun Sejin stealthily raised his hand.

“Shall we shout our slogan~?”

“Slogan?”

“You know~”

“…Ah.”

Exclamation marks appeared on the faces of the guys who finally realized what he was talking about.

Then, our hands gathered together.

“Ah, Testar will show it to you today!”

“Let’s go!”

…It was a phrase that equivalently exchanged the embarrassment with the atmosphere, but it worked.

“Are you going from the opening?”

The rehearsal went smoothly without any problems.

There really wasn’t much time left until all the empty seats were filled.

* * *

It was crowded in front of the gymnastics stadium. There might be a lot of reasons for this, but one of the main reasons was because of the purchase of concert-related products.

‘I got all the MDs!’

Park Moondae’s homma also stood in line with both hands full of shopping bags. It was evidence of a successful hunt.

Besides, they were all good quality!

In particular, the shiny parts set that could be customized by attaching it to the lightstick was very pretty.

At the time of pre-purchase, it had already been confirmed through SNS that it was already sold out with just the image cut.

‘They’re doing better than I thought.’

Recently, many fans had softened due to T1’s move that properly showed the taste of large companies.

In addition, after they selected this and that properly, some people gradually turned amicable toward them.

But the homma pulled herself together.

'…Let's not let our guard down.'

Because the concert Blu-ray might confirm that all these things were drafted by the kids.

But she couldn't help but feel excited about it.

'Doesn't it seem like they've prepared hard?!'

She was looking forward to the concert so much that she had a smile all over her face. The reward that only those who had tickets could feel was already flooding in.

Besides, her seat… It was section 8 on the 2nd floor!

It was the spot that Park Moondae had tried to challenge, but failed without even trying.

'Moondae, I'm sitting here…!'

Originally, she was thinking of getting a spot exchange so that the fancam would come out well, but as soon as she saw Testar's ticketing video, she thought it was fate and decided to accept it.

'Let's film more tomorrow!'

It was something she could afford because she had a ticket for tomorrow as well.

"Excuse me, would you like this…?"

"Gasp, thank you!"

She received snacks and a small photo postcard prepared by Kim Raebin's fan who was sitting next to her.

As she chatted and checked the situation on SNS, time flew by in an instant.

It was time for the concert to begin.

The announcement rang the hall.

"…Whoo."

Park Moondae's homma skillfully took out the camera and hid it with her luggage.

At that moment, the lights in the hall went dark.

"…!"

The light from the huge screen poured into the place where the buzz of people suddenly stopped.

Whoo-

What filled the screen… were seven figures lying in a circle on the classroom floor.

They were Testar.

Woooow!

The video unfolded with cheers.

The faces of Testar waking up on the floor were zoomed in one by one, and the next moment, bubbles passed over their heads.

The members chased the bubbles and lightly flew out of the classroom window where the sunlight poured.

And then, snap, the screen shut down.

♫♪♩♪-♫♪♫♪-♪♩-

The concert hall darkened again. A familiar melody rang in a more splendid variation.

And suddenly, the scene was filled with pouring bubbles and sparkling lights from the lightsticks.

"…!"

In that fantastic space that was shimmering with purple lighting, Park Moondae's intro of 'Magical Boy' began to play out.

– I think of you, whom I met tomorrow, all-day

Figures on wires began to descend from the ceiling.

"…!"

All seven Testar appeared on wires from all sides.

The idols entrusted themselves to the stage equipment and began to spin around the hall.

– But reality is breathing, All the time…

Above her head, Seon Ahyeon was flying away while singing his part.

'Crazy!'

Screaming cheers poured from everywhere.

Aaaaagh!

A gentle breeze blew from the spot where Seon Ahyeon had passed, tickling her head.

She got goosebumps.

‘Moondae, What about Moondae?’

Park Moondae was passing by the standing area, a little away from her.

‘That spot will be my zone tomorrow!’

His blonde hair was caught on screen. Park Moondae was smiling lightly.

‘Fairy! Please stay there tomorrow too…!!’

She cried and picked up the camera.

– Cast a spell

Right before the chorus of the second verse, Testar gathered on the center stage in a small section.

And they got off the equipment and started the chorus choreography.

The decorations of the school uniform costumes, which were much more colorful than those in the music video, sparkled in the lights.

And without a chance to catch her breath, the accompaniment was connected like a storm, followed by the next song. It was the title of the second activity, ‘Airplane’.

– My heart is pounding, I want to send you somewhere

Testar flew in with the wire from the opening and in an instant, they wiped out all the title tracks they had on the first stage.

‘Oh, my God.’

She had a strong feeling that whatever the next composition was, they would let it be immersed first.

But the atmosphere was certain.

With only hit songs coming out one after another, the audience was excitedly filled with adrenaline before they could get worried about the composition of the second half of the performance.

That was how Testar's first concert began.

* * *

Testar sang one more low-pitched ballad from the 'Choose Your Side' album and then proceeded with a light talk.

[Whoo, did you enjoy the opening?]

Yes!!!

The slightly echoing voices were filled with positive answers that sounded as though they would rip apart the concert hall.

The person speaking up, Ryu Chungwoo, seemed a little taken aback by the momentum, but soon he smiled and nodded.

'I keep seeing him, so he looks cute.'

While giving the generous review, the homma's eyes and camera were focused on Park Moondae.

Park Moondae handed over the water bottle he drank to Seon Ahyeon next to him and waved his hand in a greeting.

[Hello, Loviewer. This is Moondae… I hope you have a fun and exciting time today.]

'So cute!'

She could see his effort to purposefully reproduce his SNS tone. However, he was quite embarrassed, so his ears turned red.

'Our puppy mustered up the courage…!'

As she was crying and holding the camera, she heard a murmur from next to her.

“So cute…”

“…”

The person next to her was definitely Kim Raebin’s fan.

In any case, it meant that Moondae was just that destructively cute, so she decided to think about it warm-heartedly.

[This performance~ I think everyone has already seen how hard we prepare!]

[It’s the first unit performance!]

The members looked nervous, but they easily talked with excited faces.

[Ah, which team performs first? That’s… a secret!]

[Secret!]

After several more rounds of playful jeers from the mischievous fans and Testar’s laughing comments, Testar finally prepared to go down the stage.

[Is everyone ready? So who will be better, please look forward to it!]

[It’ll be revealed soon!]

Then, Testar waved their hand and ran backstage.

It was only after they purposefully showed it that all the lights went off and the video started playing on the screen again.

[Bambam!]

[Ta-da!]

The two who bowed their heads… were Cha Eugene and Keun Sejin!

‘Here already??’

She had thought that the units that mainly performed dance performances would appear in the second half due to the composition of the atmosphere.

Besides, there was also ‘that’ Cha Eugene.

Cha Eugene who smashed the stage, Cha Eugene the solo-stan makers!

‘…Ei, whatever. It’s not like it’s Moondae who is coming out!’

She shrugged and leaned her back against the backrest. She thought of watching it leisurely because Moondae didn’t come out.

‘Well, Cha Eugene flies around… Sejin can dance well too, right?’

From what she remembered watching them on the WiTube reality show, it seemed they were going to perform a famous and old jazz-style R&B pop song.

The cute VCR where the two were giggling was also over quickly.

[So our concept is… What is it, Eugene?]

[Outlaw in the Wilderness!]

With Cha Eugene’s last words, the screen blacked out.

And the screen that popped up again… It truly showed a desolate wilderness.

‘Huh?’

It was a scene that you usually would see in a typical American Western.

Bam Bam Bam Barabararararabam

The prelude began to play out. A picture appeared on the screen with a much more pleasant saxophone rhythm than the original song.

[WANTED]

[$100,000,000]

It was a bounty poster. Humorous cartoon caricatures of those two were attached to the video.

– Who's next?

The moment when Cha Eugene's voice, mixed with a nasal tone, sharply threw out a verse.

Those two jumped up at the same time from under both ends of the center stage.

And they rushed at each other.

"…!"

The two of them sprinted from left and right, crossing the choreography as if gliding toward each other, then magically jerked themselves up and looked back at each other again.

Both tall men were wearing leather pants, loose shirts, tight vests, and cowboy hats.

However, Cha Eugene's clothes were light brown, and Keun Sejin's were dark brown.

– Now~ You have to know

What is right D'oh

What is left

The two tossed their hats at the same time.

With Keun Sejin's vocals bouncing along with the pleasant pop song, dancers dressed in black appeared behind the two who were laughing crookedly.

Then, the two of them took out a rope from their waistband and lifted it.

"…?!"

Aggressive military dance unfolded from all sides.

Cha Eugene and Keun Sejin began to knock the dancers down one by one with strange and lively movements using their feet and ropes.

The movements were similar to the dancers' choreography, but also tailored to each other. There was always a part where the same movements were performed at the same timing for each verse.

So the sense of unity on the stage was smoothly maintained.

It was a feat that made people open their mouths wide.

– Take my gun and

Babababababa-by Say

Goodbye!

The moment they entered the chorus, the two tore off their vests and threw them behind.

Then, a hidden costume element was revealed.

It was a holster with a gun.

– Oh my~

The two continued the choreography, pointing guns at each other with one hand.

The choreography, which was organically connected and kept changing its position, was quite musical, but at the same time, one hand was restricted and other movements became more radical.

And lastly.

The choreography ended with the action of shooting each other's guns away.

– Say Goooodbye~~

Over the sound of drum rolls and frantic saxophones, the two slowly lifted their missing hats and made elaborate gestures like a greeting.

And slowly disappeared down the stage.

-Yay ha!

Even before the last verse of the song came out, the concert hall was already filled with screams.

'Heol.'

At the stage that passed by so quickly that she got so immersed without any time to comment, Park Moondae's homma tried to close her mouth

'It was great… '

As soon as they said the keyword 'Outlaw in the Wilderness', it turned into a stage with an intense composition that captured elements that the audience would have expected.

'…Let's upload this performance cut on April Fool's Day.'

She thought calmly, saying that the cut of throwing the vest came out well.

And like her, the stage left a deep impression in the minds of most of the audience who watched the first unit stage.

Not the individual members, but the stage itself.

It was a decisive victory for Keun Sejin.

* * *

'The unit stage just ended.'

While I was waiting after changing my costume, I could hear cheers echoing all the way down the stage.

"T-Those two must have done a great job!"

Seon Ahyeon smiled brightly.

I nodded.

'…I'm sure he didn't get pushed back.'

Well, I wasn't really worried about Keun Sejin.

Because a few days ago, when I was out of the shower, I heard the full story of the song selection.

– Moondae, can I tell you something funny?

– What?

– I practiced my basic skill with this song. Ever since I joined the agency as a trainee.

–…

– So whenever I practice alone, I end up using that.

–… How long?

– Well… Maybe eight years? Haha.

To put it simply, Cha Eugene was stuck with the song that this guy had been playing for 8 years.

Of course, just holding on to that song for a long time didn't mean that you could perform that song well.

However, considering Keun Sejin's characteristic, he must have already picked out all the performances that could be selected by tearing all the elements of the song.

There, he must have tempted Cha Eugene while only picking the parts he thought were good, so the result was obvious.

'A good stage came out in the direction that Keun Sejin is good at.'

In addition, Keun Sejin added one more device.

'…There was no solo part.'

On that unit stage, there wasn't any part where someone moved solo.

They moved together unconditionally.

And in almost every part where the two of them moved together, Keun Sejin didn't recklessly take their gazes away.

Because the stage was organized organically so that it would be less fun to see only one person.

Of course, whatever he did, it would be useless if he didn't have the skills. But Keun Sejin was talented.

So perhaps, the whole strategy worked.

'…He's a really smart guy.'

I nodded inwardly.

Of course, I didn't have time to pay more attention to other people's unit performances.

"O-Our stage… Since it's our second time, let's do our best, too!"

It was my turn soon.

Chapter 130

People who couldn't get tickets for Testar's concert appeared everywhere.

– I'm looking for tickets for the last concert on the 31st. Of course, there isn't anyㅠ

– Please make an additional schedule. Even if it's during working hours, it's fine

– I don't have a ticket, but I just look around onceㅎ. There are so many people like me, it's funnyㅋㅋㅋ Actually, it's not funny (photo)

There were so many, many of them.

In addition, including those interested in the concert, the number doubled.

– Ah Testar's concert is today?

They didn't have any intention to book the ticket but they were curious about the stage.

Because Testar's ticketing video became a hot topic for a while, the public awareness that was already formed with <Idol Inc.> was able to reach the concert.

Thanks to this, the concert was being broadcasted as recordings or low-definition mobile phone videos on all kinds of communities and SNS.

– Oh wire

– Park Mundae is really good at live

– Is that Seon Ahyeon that just passed by above? It was so cool, but the person who was recording shook the screen, so I couldn't see it well… That's too bad

Of course, it was illegal, but the quality was not good enough to affect the demand for concert VOD anyway, so this atmosphere sneakily slipped by.

As a result, even people who didn't go to the concert could talk to their heart's content about Testar's concert.

– They already finished the title tracks? What are they going to do with the second half of the concert?

– Let me know when the b-sides are over ㅋㅋㅋ

-Testar is dancing really hard. As expected, the first concert is good. The first concert anniversary is like this… ㅎ

– Wow, the color of the stage ㅋㅋㅋ T1 spent some money ㅋㅋ

Of course, it wasn't just people with favorable interests.

– Ah… Testar's live is worse than I thought ㅠ I was looking forward to the stage so much, but it's so sloppy. I'll have to consider the broadcast editing from now on.

Where are you, bastard?

You're a very good judge as someone who is only overhearing the broadcast ㅋㅋㅋ

Why are the fans so aggressive? Stop silencing them

Why would you find Testar's fans here? ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

They're busy running to the concert but here you are, pulling hair alone

Hey, let’s take a look at this, the quality is too bad

Aggro attempts were repeatedly blocked.

Because unless it was really a failure, there was a limit to talking about one’s skills through pirate videos that were not officially broadcasted.

But interestingly enough, what the members were really good at was clearly obvious.

– What’s with the cowboy ㅋㅋㅋ It’s awesome.

– It hit just right

– I knew this stage would be fun since the moment I saw the forming of the unit team, it’s the dance line ㅇㅇ

– I really want to see this.

After the first unit stage was over, the favorable reviews for the stage led to expectations for the next unit stage.

But it didn’t last long.

– What are the rest of the units going to do ㅋㅋㅋ

– There’s no telling who’s next. Is it Chungwoo-Raebin or Moondae-Ahyeon-Baese?

Either of the two lol

Oh, I don’t know what performance they’re going to do.

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㄹㅇ

I watched the reality show, but I couldn’t guess. Both of them chose some old song.

Because it was a combination of members whose main positions didn't overlap, no specific picture was drawn.

Therefore, expectations for the next unit stage faded as they reacted to the next stage.

– Bill will come out.

– Was that a giant golden flag just now? Is that Cha Eugene who got on it? They're preserving the taste of real capital.

– Wow, they will perform the 127 collaboration song too, nice ㅠㅠ

– It would be nice if they release the music of the band's live arrangement

– Testar, did you even rest? The group dance continuously keeps up

People were immersed in the concert broadcast, enjoying the group stage of intense performances that continued after a ballad.

It was around this time that the mid-talk began again.

However, there were only two people holding the microphone.

– ??

– Where is everyone?

– Is that Cha Eugene and Keun Sejin?

Even if they were breathing heavily, those two opened their mouths with big smiles.

[He-Hello, huft!]

[Haa, huft, it hurts inside here! But it feels great!]

[Eugene is out of breath, but he's happy to see everyone!]

[That's right!]

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋCha Eugene is so cute, he's the best

– Catch your breath before speaking ㅋㅋㅋ

– It reminds me of Idol Incㅠㅠ

Can you let go of Idol Inc now…

Among the audience who actively responded with all sorts of positive reactions, the two announced the next stage after exchanging light jokes.

[Next is…]

[Next!]

[It's the second unit stage~!]

The two laughed and ran down the stage, leaving a message 'See the details on the screen' to the cheering audience.

Then a few seconds later, three people appeared on the screen.

[Is the screen on?]

The features of the screen were clearly visible even to the people who peeped through the broadcast.

– It's Park Moondae's unit

– Ooh

– I wonder what they're going to show

– Seon Ahyeon's dance, Park Moondae's song, Bae Sejin's… Acting…?

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– What the hell did you prepare… It's most likely a vocal performance centered on Park Moondae.

– Because of the song they chose, I think it would be super boringㅠㅠ

People waited for the second unit's VCR to end, adding one word at a time.

[The song we prepared… Miso sunbae-nim's ＜You're Amazing＞]

[Let's start now!]

After the three of them waved their hands, the screen turned off.

And a little later.

The broadcast screen began to shake like crazy.

-???

– What's this?

– What's wrong with the broadcast?

At the same time, the sound of 'Huh? Huh?' passed by in an instant, filled with cheers and screams that seemed as though they were about to burst.

The shouts turned to low-pitched sounds, creating tremendous noise to the point they couldn't hear the singing voice properly

– Heol, what's this?

– Am I the only one who finds the broadcast weird?

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋLook at this reaction

– No what did they do

– Did they strip?

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋAh, are you crazy?

– I'm so curious. Crazyㅠㅠㅠ

The people who watched the concert through the broadcast were surprised and excited by the huge reaction.

They didn't know what it was, but it was certain that something great had happened.

Even some video broadcasts were cut off altogether.

– Wahㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Where did the broadcast go

– They must have dropped the phone, the screen turned blankㅋㅠ

– Who knows what's going onㅠㅠ

– I can only hear screams on the sound broadcastㅋㅋㅋㅋ

Amidst the reactions full of confusion, a post containing the circumstance was finally uploaded.

= =

[Crazy Park Moondae]

The last thing I saw before the broadcast went off

(Photo)

= = = =

All kinds of gaudy decorations, flower petals, and balloons popped up onto the stage from each booth.

"…?!"

And through the glitter, she could see a figure leaning against the booth.

'Blonde!'

Park Moondae was in the middle booth.

…With fit jeans, a white T-shirt, and a loose jean jacket under his shoulders!

'Your outfit!'

The moment the homma wa going to pick up her camera, Park Moondae began to walk out of the booth.

Immediately after the choreography, the first verse began.

– Woo! I can hear the heart!

The trembling of the shy heart

In case you can hear it

My lips close tightly

As soon as Park Moondae started singing with a smile on his eyes, he took out what he was hiding behind his back and put it on top of his blonde hair.

It was a shiny… huge ribbon.

"Gasp!"

A choreography with cute gestures that seemed impossible to try without having the talent was unfolding with a refreshing feeling while they used their bodies flexibly.

Meanwhile, a pale face was caught on the huge screen. Under Park Moondae's eyes, there was even a sparkling glitter sticker.

'Crazy! Park Moondae is crazy!'

The 80's female solo song was interpreted in a fully classic idol style!

– I can't sleep because my heart is tickling

Should I approach first?

How are you today?

What are you thinking about?

Bae Sejin sang the next part. A sky-blue ribbon was also placed on top of his head.

Because the choreography was flexible and focused on pretty lines, Bae Sejin, who was slightly lacking in strength, was able to perform well.

In addition, his expression was so good that her eyes were drawn to his face.

– That's when you appeared.

I can't say anything.

Your embracing arms

It's so hot my heart beats

Then Seon Ahyeon came out and sang the pre-chorus with a soft voice. A purple ribbon fluttered on his head.

‘Crazy face… ’

The blue jacket and the white T-shirt were born for Seon Ahyeon.

And the chorus came in all together.

Following the choreography, the blue jacket was hung over the shoulder and then went down again under the elbow.

The white t-shirt was short-sleeved.

– Wow, that’s amazing!

Everything about you

My heart beats every day!

I can’t fall asleep today

Outfit, hair, direction, choreography, and arrangement.

She could feel their determination to show the idol’s amazing talent.

And that determination worked pretty well.

It was thanks to their faces and talents that they could perform excessive elements without being too much, even if it was just a little bit off.

Thanks to that, the audience watching the stage was feeling very satisfied and over-immersed.

‘Ah… ’

The homma, who was watching the stage by only fixing the angle without checking the fancam, suddenly realized that the surroundings were full of tremendous screams and groan.

She didn't even realize it had been so noisy while watching Park Moondae, who was 200% cute.

'…I must have screamed too, right?'

Perhaps her vivid scream was also recorded in the fancam.

'But if there's a fan who watched that and held back their scream! That! Isn't that person strange?'

She held back her scream and didn't take her eyes off the stage even in the second verse.

The three idols, who even ripped balloons from the phone booth, finished the stage splendidly by showing some good choreography with balloon strings.

"Aahh…"

The homma staggered and leaned against the backrest, and only then did she realize that the unit also did a superb job of singing live with a female vocalist's one key.

It was a side effect of the talent show.

* * *

"T-The fans loved it!"

As soon as he came down from the stage, Seon Ahyeon shouted with an excited face. He sounded fully convinced, which was rare.

'Well, it's hard not to be sure about it after listening to that.'

The cheers coming through the in-ear were incredible. It was so loud that I was almost half a beat late when we entered the chorus of the second verse.

Bae Sejin, who was suffering from a sense of shame at the beginning of the practice, also calmly admitted while tearing off his headband.

“The concept… was a good idea, indeed.”

“Y-Yes…!”

Seon Ahyeon strongly agreed. Anyone who saw it would think it was his idea.

‘Well, it’s those two who selected the song… To some extent, it’s true that it was Seon Ahyeon’s idea.’

I suggested this concept only after they selected the song.

‘I thought this would suit the concert the best.’

And this choice… was also a matter of the concert’s overall composition.

‘We didn’t have any song to relax the mood.’

Hi-five was an exciting song, and the rest of the lineup was a little too overwhelming.

That meant that it was necessary to add a song in the middle that could be laughed at.

I thought the reaction would be good because it would freshen up the atmosphere, but… Well, I was a little surprised because the reaction was better than I thought.

‘…And it was fun.’

But I didn’t have time to get lost in my thoughts. I needed to change my clothes and get my makeup done before the VCR ended.

In fact, I was already moving now while talking.

“Hey~ The ribbon was so cool!”

“It was exciting!”

When we ran and matched the next line, the rest of the members who were already waiting threw a word one by one.

I took my spot and accepted their words in moderation. The members laughed as they checked each other’s outfits.

“I’m looking forward to this song.”

“Me too.”

Everyone knew there was no time, so the conversation was cut off.

Whoo-

The stage setting in front of me opened, and the audience seats unfolded.

Glittering lights were swaying throughout the vast space. My adrenaline shot up at the sight that seemed to belong to some kind of sci-fi movie.

In the midst of renewed cheers, I started the first verse.

– The waiting is long

I always enjoy

＜Idol Inc.＞’s third team match.

The Moon Rabbit team’s ‘I like waiting’ resonated at the gymnastics stadium.

Chapter 131

‘I Like Waiting’, performed by the participants of <Idol Inc.>, was a stage that had been steadily gaining views to this day with its unique oriental and sentimental atmosphere.

Of course, besides this song, Testar had quite a few successful team-match stages.

Naturally, throughout the preparation of the concert, opinions on the stage they wanted to try again kept coming out.

– I think the hero concept is the most suitable for raising the scale of the concert!

– I-Into the new world. I-If we do it again, I think I can do it better…!

– Vampire! I want to do it!

– Guys, do you want to try V-tic sunbae-nim’s song? I think we can do it now…

–… Calm down, hyung.

However, most of them were eliminated at the discussion stage. Because the number of people had changed too much.

If we made a mistake, we could get criticized for ‘stealing away the dropouts’ song’.

However, this song, which was actively pushed by Keun Sejin, didn’t have a such concerning factor.

– Haha, the members are here, so well~

Except for Gold 1, all team members of Moon Rabbit successfully debuted as Testar.

In addition, Gold 1, who would debut soon, willingly left permission via text message on the condition that it would be used in his own concert as well.

So Testar was able to prepare the stage with excitement.

And now.

Seven figures wearing durumagis appeared at the front of the stage.

The sound of daegeum rang out.

Whoo-hoo Whoo-hoo-hoo Woo-woo woo-woo

An elegant and melancholy sound.

It was a sound that all the audience here had heard once.

At that moment, a figure gracefully turned back. Then, with the fluttering hem of the durumagi, he spurred upside down into the air.

The stretched, eerie wire leaped higher than before and then fell forward.

A splendid golden gongryongpo[1]Gongryongpo = the clothes worn by the Kings in Dynasty Joseon that have a dragon as their main decoration. pattern shone on the fluttering navy blue durumagi.

"…!"

The audience didn't understand the situation for a while but they soon started screaming when the detail of the rabbit mask was caught on the screen.

"Argh!"

“Crazy!”

Following the fun party, the nostalgic rabbit appeared.

And with luxurious decorations too.

– Every street corner waiting for you

I am always excited

Under the rabbit masks that the members flipped over, fancy jade norigaes[2]Norigae is a typical, traditional Korean accessory used in Hanbok. swayed.

The details of the costume, which were more dazzling than in Idol Inc, made beautiful circles and glittered whenever the tall figures moved.

And Testar kept the strange atmosphere and the slightly inhumane group dance from that time intact.

No, rather, it became more intense.

– I like waiting

My wait is long

It’s always fun

Thanks to the increase in the number of people, the choreography of the chorus became even more grandiose both in formation and overall movement.

– When this wait is over

I know you’ll run into me

My heart is already bright

Park Moondae played the high notes in the chorus with a clear voice/ On that face which was captured on the screen, the glitter from the unit stage was still slightly visible.

And the second verse, which was cut in Idol Inc due to the performance time issue, continued without being cut this time around.

The new members of Moon Rabbit sang the new verses.

– Every moment that goes by again

My focus is on you

Cha Eugene smiled and made a grandiose movement with light foot movements. He received the choreography all the way to his durumagi.

– It doesn't matter if you pass by

Because I already know

The moon rabbits expressed the stage as if they were overwhelmed and didn't know what to do, and the audience was similarly infected and enjoyed the stage with groans.

The concert hall was heated with joy.

And in the bridge part.

– You've been waiting for me too

Talking, vivid sense of déjà vu

The moon rabbits ran to the extended stage and performed the verse, which had a sweet sensuality.

With a fan pulled out from the inside of the robe

"Aaaah!"

“Ugh!”

The screams heard from the surrounding stands were terrifying.

After the choreography of sweeping the floor with their whole bodies and lowering the durumagis, they were now wearing shirts.

Glittering string ornaments hung over the white shirt and were tied with a sash.

And finally at the end of the last chorus.

As if waiting with excitement again for someone, the choreography with the sound of humming and the moving feet continued happily.

– Hum hu hu hum- huhu

DDu-ru Du-ru Du Du

The audience responded excitedly by singing along to the humming.

Ddu-du-ru-du-du-du-du-du~

It was a chorus of honest pronunciation without a single mistake.

In the unexpected cute situation, the moon rabbits ended the stage with bigger smiles than they had planned.

– Wait for me

Even Keun Sejin’s last verse was sung in unison.

Keun Sejin smiled, crossed his arms, and leaned his head on the trunk of a huge tree that stick out on the extended stage.

Even after the stage went dark, the cheers continued.

Waaah!!

This development was followed the VCR, and it was time to announce a new stage. People were excited by the afterglow of the previous stage and looked forward to the next stage.

However, even after a few seconds, the stage was still dark.

Some of the cheering spectators soon began to voice their doubts.

“Hmm?”

“Huh??”

“What?”

Right before people started making a fuss, wondering if it was a stage accident.

Suddenly the stage was lit up.

Thud.

There was only one huge spotlight.

The spotlight was on the extended stage… It was illuminating a giant stump!

“…!!”

It was the spot where the tree used to be. But as if the body had been torn off, the whole thing disappeared and only the stump remained.

And on top of that stump… Two dark-haired people were sitting with their heads lowered down.

“…?!”

A slow solo string instrument played out. The two slowly raised their heads.

Their faces were completely covered with rabbit masks.

However, the head part of the mask was partially damaged, and paint trickled down from that part.

"…"

In such an unusual atmosphere, the song began in front of a large audience who became quiet.

-Je te donne des fleurs que…

With the accompaniment of the chanson that had became somewhat bizarre due to the extreme adjustment of pitch.

The third unit stage started without notice.

* * *

"Hey, Chungwoo hyung and Raebin are really amazing, aren't they?"

Coming back down under the stage.

With people's help, Keun Sejin talked to me while changing his clothes in a hurry.

"Why all of a sudden?"

"What do you mean why, right now, without any choreography, they're just playing the song with their own arrangement and voice. Look at their guts. So cool~"

It was a compliment to those who were suddenly absent while he was just busy breathing.

'What are you thinking?'

But when I turned my head, I saw a camera for the behind-the-scenes of the concert.

‘As expected.’

I see. What a consistent fellow. I replied with admiration.

“Well, yes.”

Perhaps Ryu Chungwoo even thought of the risk of the characteristic of ‘Idol Concert’ like he said.

However, Kim Raebin probably didn’t need to have the guts.

‘The arrangement comes out well and the live performance is good, so he must have thought it isn’t a problem.”

And the arrangement really did come out well.

The classic chanson that came out a few decades ago was broken and recombined, and turned into an indie style that had been popular on the recent music charts.

If the concert album came out, it would probably be the best song.

Keun Sejin grinned at my agreement.

“Right? Ah, of course, Moondae’s guts were amazing too. The ribbon headband was amazing~”

“…Uh, yes.”

There was a camera next to us. Let’s not forget.

“Moondaemoondae, don’t you have anything to say to me? Did you see the cowboy?”

“Yeah, that was cool.”

“Please say it again more sincerely~”

I ignored the nonsense and listened to the sounds coming from the stage.

…A bright riff melody that was pleasant to the ears was placed on top of a gloomy beat.

-… Wounds that do not heal

Tears harden like scabs

Leaving traces down there…

Then I heard a rap.

This was because the rap was entrusted with the development of the song, excluding the iconic intro and chorus.

It was a composition that people were familiar with to make it sound more catchy.

However, I wondered if the magic of the song, which only pushed ahead with rap, vocals, and atmosphere, could work at the concert.

'Though I think the atmosphere also plays a part.'

They decided to give it a strong narrative by using the set and lighting on the stage like a play.

And on the screen, the meaning of the lyrics of the chanson would have appeared black like splashing ink.

– To you dear

I'm giving you flowers

Today is a special day

The streets are full of laughter

– The trivial moments

Piled up like dust.

Shining like a jewel

I still feel your breath

The lyrics would have been fresh in the original song, but it met the gloomy beat and rap and came out with a different feeling.

'It will leave a strong impression.'

And in fact, thanks to those lyrics, in the first draft of the setlist we made, the next song was decided unanimously.

It was decided to take over the title track of the new album.

'The lyrics are similar.'

It was a good composition for the build-up.

However, the company rejected it. It was a matter of stamina and time.

– Isn't Raebin-ssi and Chungwoo-ssi going to collapse at this rate?

– If we do this in a row, I think a mistake will happen while changing the outfit. It could be fatal for the performance of the new song, so shouldn't we avoid it?

Each one of them was true, so I kept my mouth shut and agreed.

So a short talk and communication with the audience were added, but even if we talked, could we liven up the atmosphere after that song…? I didn't know.

'I think it would be appropriate to have a talk after an exciting or lyrical song.'

It couldn't be helped because we only had a small number of songs to choose from, but it was a bit disappointing.

I clicked my tongue and finished my costume and hair maintenance, and then moved down the hallway. And soon after, those who finished their third unit stage joined.

"Whoo…"

"How was it?"

"Yes, it was even better than I thought."

"I think I have properly expressed everything l wanted to show them!"

The faces that answered were bright. It seemed the responses were good.

'The cheers were long.'

Without much worry, the concert was going smoothly.

"Go up! Be careful where you sit!"

"Yes!"

We were seated in seven chairs side by side and raised to the center stage via a lift.

In front of my eyes, countless lights that filled the huge space were shimmering and making waves.

Aaah!

The cheers were like the sound of light.

'…This is no joke.'

I did a little less compared to when I had to perform, but I felt dizzy sitting here with my mind sober.

If I think that over 10,000 people are sitting here, at each light… No, let's stop.

'It is difficult to even proceed with the script.'

I confirmed that Ryu Chungwoo, who would start the first talk, lifted the microphone.

[Nice to see you again, everyone! Are you enjoying the concert? Did you like our unit performances?]

[Ooh~ hyung, can you hear that? Everyone is enjoying it, they said it was so good!]

[So good!]

I put my mouth on the microphone, too.

[Which performance did you like the most?]

All kinds of words rushed in here and there like a tide.

.

All of them!

I like them all!

Rabbit!

Wire!

Moondae's performance!

Those expressions without any sharp words rang in my ears.

“…”

For a moment, I unintentionally shut up… My prepared answer came a beat late.

[…I like everything, too.]

[Ah, Moondae is completely touched~]

[I’m touched, too!]

[This is rarer than you think, everyone.]

After a brief moment of light teasing, the proceeding continued.

[Then… Let’s begin the <What I Want to Say to Testar> segment!]

And when I was about to enter the full-fledged content with the questions I had prepared.

Suddenly the lights around the stage went dark.

“…?”

This wasn’t planned.

I made eye contact with the slightly surprised members.

‘What is this?’

‘Is it an accident?’

At that moment, the light suddenly poured from behind.

It was light coming from the screen.

As I reflexively turned my head, an unexpected video was playing on the screen.

…It was Testar's debut showcase.

[My artists came like magic]

[Thank you! I love you!]

With subtitles, the video continued to play out.

Activities from over the past nine months appeared on the screen. From the first public TV stage to the year-end stage, cuts of Testar in all kinds of costumes passed by.

Then the screen went back to the audience.

Suddenly, people were holding a light purple cloth in their hands.

That… It was a slogan.

On a huge screen, the phrase was clearly displayed.

[Sending it to Testar]

[Loviewer's paper plane]

And the accompaniment of a song I already knew suddenly started to play out.

…<The Magic Is You>.

It was Testar's first fan song.

I feel good today

I think something good is going to happen

In the blink of an eye, the concert hall was filled with numerous voices.

If it's you, everything's going to be fine.

It's unfamiliar, but somehow it's going to be great.

They were the voices of 10,000 people singing.

Numerous voices united, raining down from all directions along with the lights like shooting stars.

I was choked, out of breath.

- 1. Gongryongpo = the clothes worn by the Kings in Dynasty Joseon that have a dragon as their main decoration.

- 2. Norigae is a typical, traditional Korean accessory used in Hanbok.

Chapter 132

It wasn't the first time I ever saw this kind of sight.

It was not unusual for fans to give an event to a singer at a concert.

I had seen it three or four times when I was asked to do data.

I'd never felt particularly excited watching it.

I just thought that it was amazing how they could do it at the right timing without getting paid.

But this… Being the subject myself, it was a completely different experience.

Is it possible to feel that each and every one of those countless twinkling lights is a person's heart?

This overwhelming sense of sharing a collective experience at the center, not as an outsider.

I didn't know, I didn't know what to say.

"…"

Meanwhile, the singing continued.

It was my part.

Even if there's nothing that doesn't change

The magic of this moment

Maybe it's YOU

An unimaginable shudder ran all the way to my toes, as if hot water had been poured over the top of my head.

"…Huft."

I hurriedly lowered my head. I felt better once it disappeared from my sight.

But at the same time, I wanted to look up and see more.

'…What a mess.'

It was ridiculous.

In my ears, I could still hear the constant singing voices.

I feel good today

I think something good is going to happen

In addition, now the other guys were joining in and singing.

The first was Keun Sejin.

"…If it's you, everything will be fine~"

They must be very touched, I could hear their trembling voices as each of them sang their parts.

"L-LIFE is strange, lightly…"

Sniffling, Kim Raebin continued the rap part.

And soon my part came.

'…I'm going crazy.'

I picked up the microphone for now.

"…When you see me."

The single verse was scattered. The words that came in late didn't continue properly.

'Damn it.'

I gritted my teeth.

Perhaps they thought it was strange that the silence lengthened, and at last, their gazes finally poured out.

"…Moondae?"

"M-Moondae?"

"Are you crying?"

Suddenly, several hands shook my shoulders and tapped my back and the back of my neck. Flustered exclamations mixed in between the voices of the fans who were singing.

'…Oh, my gosh.'

I pressed the area around my eyes with one hand.

Then I raised my head and looked around as calmly as I could.

Most of the members had tears in their eyes.

But even if their eyes were glassy and tearful, the ones who shed tears… none of them did.

Even Bae Sejin didn't cry like this.

*'F*ck.'*

Right now it was just me… Am I the only one who became a weirdo?

“Oh my gosh.”

“Moondae is being like this.”

These guys laughed a few times, and fortunately, they began to cry in earnest. It was clear that they were holding back.

“…Let’s do our best.”

Drunk with the atmosphere, they mercilessly hugged me on the top of my head and on my shoulders. It was hot.

I didn’t know if the hugging was suffocating, or if this situation itself was suffocating.

What should I do?

Don’t cry.

It’s okay.

While the bridge was playing, all kinds of shouts came to my ears instead of the sound of singing.

“Phew.”

The hug was released, and Keun Sejin, who ran to somewhere and came back, held a cloth in front of my face.

Without thinking, I grabbed it and pressed it to my face.

I could see indigo letters on a light purple background.

…It was a slogan.

Someone had thrown it onto the stage.

‘It’s driving me crazy.’

I just buried my face. I would have looked very, very funny.

Someone patted me roughly on the head.

“Good job.”

Before the bridge was over, I was led by the members and walked out to the front of the stage. And holding hands side by side, I bowed my head and saluted.

Instead of the sound of singing, shouts rang in my head.

I staggered and picked up the microphone.

“…Yes, the magic is you.”

Fortunately, I managed to sing the last verse.

After the fan event disguised as a talk was over, I barely managed to say a few words of my feelings before coming down the stage.

It was only then that I stopped crying.

‘…I should have stopped crying five minutes ago.’

It was ridiculous.

I never thought that the situation where I cried for the first time in nearly 7 years would be live in front of a camera with 13,000 people.

‘…I shouldn’t have avoided SNS monitoring.’

It would have been better if I had known in advance, but since the concert was right around the corner, we all had agreed to not look at the Internet for about a week so that we didn’t get influenced.

It wasn’t an activity that required special monitoring, so I thought it would be okay.

‘Meanwhile, this… I didn’t expect that things were secretly coming and going behind the scenes.’

There would never be such useless Internet detoxification again in my life.

I almost crumpled the slogan in my hand, but I managed to hold it in and folded it up and put it on a nearby chair.

“Hey, you really didn’t expect this. You didn’t cry even when winning first place.”

“…”

“As expected, you’re a man born to be an idol. Crying only in front of the fans’ love… Kyaa.”

“Stop it.”

When it came down to the topic of his sobbing, he only kept his mouth shut. Keun Sejin changed his clothes with a chuckle.

“A-Are you okay?”

“…I am fine.”

They were really worried so I couldn’t even get angry.

Seon Ahyeon seemed very touched, but he didn’t cry that much, so his face was fine, saving the staff the trouble.

On the other hand, Bae Sejin came down and burst into tears, making the staff flustered.

“…How are you feeling, hyung?”

“I-I’m fine.”

Bae Sejin barely stopped sniffing and finished his make-up.

“We don’t have much time left. We have to move.”

Ryu Chungwoo, who cried quickly and came to his senses quickly, swiftly took control of the situation. Next to him, Cha Eugene, who didn’t cry and was just excited, had already changed his clothes.

“Go, go!”

…Right, it was time to go.

The long-awaited title stage was waiting.

“VCR has 50 seconds left!”

We ran and moved to the standby location.

Perhaps the set was already up on the center stage with the lights off.

I remembered a scene from a movie.

An antique mansion. Dusty chandeliers, butterfly specimens, and rusty cages.

And a clockwork on the back.

“Going up!”

The stage setting began to move.

As soon as the floor opened and our heads were exposed on the stage, lights and cheers began to roar.

Whaaaaaaa-

But now was not the time to be overwhelmed. It was time to put all the sentiments aside and focus again.

Blue lights were put on the stage.

Testar took formation.

* * *

“Phew…”

On the weekend night of the 31st, after two days of Testar’s concert.

Park Moondae’s homma staggered forward, clutching her bag.

The bag contained a commendable camera that had completed its filming mission in the standing area.

She attended the concerts for two days, cried for two days, took pictures, and even watched the stage while standing today, so her stamina had run out.

But she had no regret. Not even a speck of it!

‘It was so good… ’

From start to finish, she couldn’t wish for more.

Not only it was good because they did their best, but the stage itself was great and so much fun.

She felt like she was in another world for a while.

‘It’s too bad that it was over within two days…!’

She wished she could have two more days.

And even though she was just on her way out, she already missed live Testar so much.

Unable to control her boiling heart, she opened her phone and logged on to SNS.

And she took the pictures from the camera with her smartphone again, and uploaded them quickly, albeit with poor quality.

＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝

[2X0331 Last Day Concert Park Moondae Preview]

(Photo of Park Moondae's emotional tears) (Photo of Park Moondae pointing his finger to his cheek on the unit stage) (Photo of Park Moondae looking back on the wire)

I love you, Moondae

#Testar #TeSTAR #ParkMoondae #MoonPuppy

＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝

The homma's heart especially ached whenever she saw the first attached photo.

It was the photo of Park Moondae holding back tears while holding a paper with both hands and slightly lowering his head.

The homma banged her chest inwardly.

'My kid is truly a puppy angel… '

Park Moondae also cried on the second day of the concert.

Fans prepared an event different from the first day, namely, blowing a paper airplane toward Testar while singing a fan song during the encore.

Naturally, Testar was overwhelmed again by the enormous sight of 10,000 colorful paper planes floating together in the concert hall.

And Testar, who grabbed some of the planes that luckily landed on stage, was able to check the content inside themselves.

– T-This…

– Wait a minute, ah…

-…

Fans had written down what they wanted to say inside each piece of paper folded into the plane.

It was a brutally touching event.

In the process, some members were brought to tears, and among them, Park Moondae's appearance was taken as the homma's first preview photo.

And Park Moondae… Having an image as someone who seemed the least likely to cry, he was also the member who cried the most at the concert.

Even when winning first place in Idol Inc, winning first place in the music show after debut, or at any award ceremonies, the waterfalls of tears from the person who laughed instead of shedding a single tear in those events were tremendously destructive.

On the first day, not only fans but also various communities were turned upside down.

– Crazy, Gommeo cried?

He didn't cry, he was just sobbing (photo)

Heol

He was steaming and full of tears

-ㅋㅋㅋ I thought he wouldn't cry even if he won the Grand Prize, but he crumbled immediately just after one concert's sing-along. How thrilling

Hey pervert! (cover your mouth)

If you put away this bastard's hand, he would be smiling

How did you know

– I buy the VOD if I cry at the concert. I bought this one. I want to see it in high definition soon.

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㄹㅇ

– All of them cry a lot. I also would have cried if the first concert was gymnastics.

Your aggro is f*cking twisted. I think it's because they grew up while enjoying the taste society's chicken fire even before their debut so they know how precious it is

Yes, even if they don't know, they're the ones who will pretend to know, so it tastes sucksㅋ If they couldn't do this, they would have already been beaten and eliminated in Idol Inc.

– Yes, wearing a pink ribbon and fooling around, my once-in-a-millennium Gommeo♡ Shamstar, be nice to Gommeo, he's reviving the bad selections♡♡ Gommeo, cry a lot and keep feeling indebted to your fans♡♡

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋSolo stans coming in

For your information, Shamstar was an anti-search name for Testar that had been modified to the limit.

(TL notes: It's originally shambyeol and byeol = star.)

In any case, Testar's concert progress was quickly shared in various places, from communities where people were gossiping without a filter to fan accounts with courtesy and common sense.

There were all kinds of topics to talk about, including the new unit stage, the unconventional new song stage, and the crying, so it was probably only natural.

As a proof, the homma's Park Moondae preview share easily broke the thousandth mark in less than 5 minutes after it was posted.

The responses of acquaintances and followers were also excellent.

– Moondae's blonde hair is precious. I'll definitely protect it.

– SO CUTE♡

– Aigoo, our Moon Puppy cried again ㅠㅠ Thank you as always, Full Moonbe-nim!

– His real skin color is beautiful, too. STOP whitewashing (crying emoticon)

It's an unedited preview. Get the hell out of here, there's no whitewashing anywhere;

Maybe because there were a lot of overseas fans, foreign language aggro was also starting to appear.

'They're picking a fight with every hommas.'

The homma easily ignored it because it was something she had seen before. And she quickly got on the subway that just arrived.

'Ugh, there are so many people… '

On the first day, she could go home comfortably because she got a friend's car from another place, but such a fluke was impossible today.

'I should have taken a taxi or a hotel!'

When she was about to regret it, fortunately, she found a seat right in front of her and she was able to sit down.

‘Thank goodness.’

The homma took out her camera as soon as she sat down and began to flip through the footage.

Because the new song stage hadn’t left the corner of her mind.

‘It was really crazy.’

She didn’t expect them to bring something like that.

But she was so thankful that they did!

Since the first impact was important, it was implicit that she shouldn’t upload photos or fancams of the new song stage until midnight, but to be honest, she really wanted to brag.

‘Let’s just replay it.’

When the homma was about to check the fancam she had filmed today, a vibration suddenly rang from her knee.

It was her smartphone.

And in the notification box… There was unexpected news.

[Inviting Loviewers to Testar’s concert after party! (clapping emoticon)]

It was a W live notification!

Chapter 133

‘Huh.’

Park Moondae’s homma immediately clicked the W live notification without even having the chance to catch her breath.

‘Real-time video communication at this timing?!’

Although Testar usually didn’t forget to take care of SNS activities even when they weren’t on an activity period, she didn’t know they would do this right after the concert.

And within an hour of the concert, too!

‘They must be tired.’

When she thought of the set list where they poured all their stamina into, she was worried, but she couldn’t help but raise the corners of her mouth.

‘I’ll see you again soon, Testar!’

It felt like the depressing feeling of emptiness that could come rushing in after the concert was blocked in advance.

The video started appearing after a longer loading than usual, perhaps because there was a huge crowd of people.

It showed the picture of Testar sitting around a table full of delivery food.

[Oh, they’re coming in!]

[Can you see us?]

In addition, Testar was waving their hands and wearing party cone hats on their heads!

‘So cute!’

It was definitely an after-concert party. Homma quickly checked Park Moondae’s face with a warm expression.

“…?”

Somehow… The Tibetan fox was showing up?

For some reason, he had a forlorn face as if he had gotten hit by reality.

‘Our professional idol Moondae barely wears the cone hat…?’

The homma, who was puzzled, immediately realized the reason.

Looking closely, the members probably decorated the cone hats themselves, they wrote down a phrase with crayons for each cone hat.

And Park Moondae’s phrase was this.

-(Cong) Crybaby king for two days in a row (rats)

“Gasp…”

It was insanely cute!

Although other members also had playful phrases like ‘Preparing for abs’ on their heads, Park Moondae’s sullenness was deadly cute…

She kept her mouth shut on the subway to avoid looking like a lunatic, not realizing that she didn’t have to.

Because half of the space there was filled with people who were on their way home from the concert anyway…

With their seats crossing one another, passengers were either groaning or unable to hold back laughter.

And the comments on app W were quickly filled with people asking about the phrases on the cone hats or requesting to be doted on.

Waving their hands a few times to check the comments and the number of viewers, Testar replied cheerfully, albeit slightly embarrassed.

[Oh, the phrase? Haha… You noticed right away.]

[That's right. We wrote it for each other~]

[I like my phrase! Moondae hyung wrote it!]

On the cone hat that Cha Eugene lifted with his hands, 'Kneel down to get on the wire one more time' was written.

It was a cute phrase, but Cha Eugene seemed to think that the phrase was cool because it showed his passion.

'Cha Eugene is cute, too.'

The homma generously acknowledged the situation.

It meant she had accepted the position of the maknae who played well with her kid.

Park Moondae also smiled.

[I'm glad you like it.]

[Hehe.]

[By the way, I'm really curious who wrote the phrase for my hat…]

[Hahaha! We all wrote it together. Together!]

[Ah! Lee Sejin hyung wrote it!]

[No, Eugene!]

It was a cute atmosphere. She concentrated on the screen, holding her breath.

Ryu Chungwoo opened his mouth with a smile.

[So, how was today's concert?…]

Pop.

Suddenly the video went off.

[W live has ended]

"…?"

All of a sudden?

The members didn't even touch the phone.

'What's with this? Is it an error?'

Perhaps Testar was also bewildered, the live notification popped up again a little after a while.

[To Testar's concert after-party again, Loviewer! We invite you♡> _ <]

Having taken off their cone hats as if embarrassed, the members sighed in relief at the W live that was turned on again.

[Phew! There must have been a problem!]

[Hello again, Loviewer!]

[I-It will be okay now, right?]

[Ei~ Of course! Now, shall we continue? Raebin-ssi!]

[Yes, for this W Live, we thought what if we could give Loviewers a different kind of fun on their way home…]

Pop. It was disconnected again.

This time, they couldn't even stream for one minute.

"…"

Homma was struck by an ominous feeling.

They started the next W live immediately.

[Why is it like this?!]

However, the quality of the video was crap.

Looking like a dot image, Testa murmured while looking at the screen.

[I don't think we touched it wrong?]

[H-How about changing the phone…?]

[…For now, I think it would be better to broadcast a stable voice. I think the app itself is a little unstable right now…]

Before Park Moondae was done talking, the video ended.

*'F*ck!!'*

Since the app was updated some time ago, an error had been occurring to idols one after another, and it was Testar's turn this time.

The homma immediately checked the announcements on the W app, but there was no notice of errors or server instability no matter how hard she looked.

'…That's right. They don't do that.'

She was speechless at their never-changing treatment of the gullible people.

"…"

Testa took five minutes to try the next attempt. It seemed they were changing the phone following Seon Ahyeon's opinion.

Now, they started to add a crying emoticon on the title of the W live.

[Testar's concert after party… Please let this work ㅠ (Crying emoticon)]

A neat video screen greeted Testar and the viewers.

'Ha, this time…!'

The homma was relieved for a moment because Testar's strategy to change the phone seemed to haave worked.

But this time there was no sound.

[(Excited Cha Eugene)]

[(Kim Raebin asking a question)]

[(Bae Sejin reading the comments)]

[(Flustered Ryu Chungwoo)]

And Park Moondae, who had gone out of the screen, appeared with a piece of paper written with crayons.

– You can't hear me?

There was a flood of comments saying yes.

With an expression that was neither smiling nor crying, Keun Sejin wrote something on the paper with crayons.

– ㅠㅠ

And they tried again.

Testar was slowly getting worn out.

[Again… Glad to see you, everyone.]

[Hahaha…]

[I guess you can hear me this time.]

However, it seemed it didn't get cut off this time!

[Oh, I think it's a little more stable now!]

[Hmm, there seems to be a bit of an error on the screen we're seeing…]

[If we restart it, it might get cut off again, so let's just keep going.]

[Agreed!]

Most of Testar nodded at Ryu Chungwoo's cautious words.

Because they really didn't have a solution if they turned it on again and still get cut off again.

[Now, shall we talk about the most impressive moment of our concert?]

[Me! I'll go first!]

[Okay, let's start with Eugene!]

Only then did Testar get excited and begin a full-fledged concert review.

[It's fun to use the rope!]

[Oh my, so that's why Eugene kept saying it was fun when practicing the rope~?]

[I won't eat it!]

”[Idiot,[1]"]In the actual Korean words, Keun Sejin used the word meant for eating. But well, in this context, his word meant something else. Not gonna lie, I got very confused when translating this part until Kim Raebin corrected him.

[No, the idiot one is Kim Raebin.]

[…!! No, I am not an idiot! My IQ is recorded in the official test…!]

But they didn't know.

That almost all viewers, except for a few of them, were thrown off the stream.

The error was not the decreased number of comments, but the number of viewers that remained the same.

The majority of Loviewers that couldn't enter the live were crying like crazy at the endless loading or error screens that didn't work.

And Park Moondae's homma also belonged to the majority.

[A temporary error has occurred]

"…"

Among the very few who had succeeded in staying, there were some haters who giggled and relayed the situation on SNS as if they were making a joke.

– Wow, Shamstar is tearing off the chicken! I should leave a comment saying that they've lost their minds tonightㅠ

– During the concert rehearsal, Euggene and Raebinj checked how many people were outside. Didn't all of them were ranked as young handsome kids when they're actually old?

The aggros, which would normally have been buried, were receiving attention, and the number of shares and re-tweets was increasing.

"…Sigh."

The homma felt deeply upset for the first time in a long time since the Rookie Award controversy.

Because there were a lot of people like that, of course, W app's SNS account was hit by a huge bomb.

– Do something about Testar's W app

– Give me back their anniversaryㅠㅠ

– I wonder if it is possible to replace the app management. Since the update, there are cases of errors for each idol.

– There's always error error error every time but how come there's never a f*cking apology?

– WHY (angry emoticon)

However, W app didn't even say a single word.

'…I expected it, but… '

These guys made no apology even after making five errors on V-tic members' personal W-live not too long ago.

Unless the function was paralyzed, such as blocked comments, etc, they just badly treated it as an error.

Perhaps in Testar's case, expressing their intention would be more awkward.

'Like this, Moondae's live… I can't watch it.'

Park Moondae's homma clicked on Testar's real-time W live thumbnail and kept coming in and out just in case, but nothing happened.

And by the time she got home, Testar's W-live was completely over.

"…"

The replay would come tomorrow at the earliest, or a week later at the latest.

'If the error is really serious, I won't even be able to see the replay… No! That can't be true!'

It was better not to think of any more ominous foreboding.

"Phew…"

Homma entered the house with a long sigh.

'I washed up and came out… I need to organize the data.'

She came back from the concert in a good mood, so she didn't have to be upset about this.

'Right, it was so good.'

When she remembered the two-day concert, she immediately felt better again.

And when she picked up the phone again, news had arrived.

"…?!"

Testar's SNS notification.

From Park Moondae, at that!

= = = =

'…Oh, my gosh.'

The homma slammed her head into the bed.

Park Moondae was such a brilliant and great idol that she became at a loss for words.

And when she finally looked at Park Moondae's SNS post again, something she hadn't paid attention to earlier caught her eye.

Crookedly drawn with crayons… It was a drawing of a fox.

'No, does this really make sense? Crazy!'

Considering Park Moondae's devastating drawing skills, it was clear that he had copied and practiced a lot before uploading it.

'You even paid attention to the lack of Tibetan fox emoticon?!'

The homma cried, asking what kind of idol he was, and SNS was the same.

And the flow didn't end with Park Moondae's solo fans.

The members commented on Park Moondae's post and started posting pictures of concert practice and the after-party preparations.

In addition, they also included a few pieces of information.

– Crazy, Bae-Ah-Moon unit stage's royal ribbon headband was picked by Baese ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ Ahyeon said thank you for choosing a pretty one ㅋㅋㅋ So funny ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– It's Lee Sejin who picked I like waiting, as expected of my idol

– ㅠㅠㅠㅠ Thank you so much for the picture of Ryu Chungwoo wearing a white T-shirt and a gongryongpo. Really. I love you, Raebin

– No, they only posted pictures of other people ㅋㅋㅋ I understand, we can become multi-fans, guys

The disappointment of not being able to attend W Live together in Testar's fandom disappeared.

* * *

"Hm, everyone likes it!"

"Phew."

"I see."

"I am glad!"

In response to Keun Sejin's confirmation, voices of relief came from here and there.

I held back my sigh.

'We got an error at that timing.'

It would be troublesome if the atmosphere turned bad on the day of the concert.

Everyone had to be excited and happy so that they would come to the next concert and listen to the album.

It was fortunate that it turned out fine in the end, but the fact that theW live didn't go as planned left a bad aftertaste.

'We even rented a place to do this.'

What a bummer. However, things didn't always go according to plan, so let's be satisfied with this.

"Then, shall we continue a little more comfortably?"

“Great~”

“Let’s order chicken!”

Currently, having returned to the dorm, Testar had finally changed into comfortable clothes.

And now the second round was about to begin.

‘You guys have good stamina.’

They were probably excited, and because they didn’t have a schedule for tomorrow morning, it seemed they got carried away.

‘I will also play along in moderation and then leave.’

Even Bae Sejin was choosing food, this picture alone was strange to see.

Instead, I would get some business done while these guys were talking.

‘Status window.’

Thanks to the concert’s successful completion, I had a little something to settle.

- 1. ”]In the actual Korean words, Keun Sejin used the word meant for eating. But well, in this context, his word meant something else. Not gonna lie, I got very confused when translating this part until Kim Raebin corrected him.

Chapter 134

First of all, as soon as the concert on the first day ended, a pop-up that I had never seen before appeared.

[A successful performance!]

Impressed the overwhelming majority!

– Number of audiences: 13,120 (NEW!)

– Impressed rate: 96% (NEW!)

: Draw heroic characteristics ☜ Click!

And I had attained one achievement.

It was the 'first performance' achievement. Thanks to that, I leveled up for the first time in a while.

'Is it about the performance, not the stage?'

It seemed one-time stages and solo concerts were counted as different fields.

'It's a profit.'

The status window was stagnant, but its operation was good because I could get more corners available like this.

In many ways, since I leveled up for the first time in a while and even got a characteristic draw, the concert was a good harvest.

'…It was fun, too.'

Well… It didn't seem to be the kind of fun that modern people usually experience, but that overwhelming sense was… certain.

It was a dizzying moment when I thought back on it now.

All those lights, voices, heat, and emotions…

"…"

I almost felt emotional for a moment, but then I also remembered what I had done.

'…I cried.'

…And I even remembered the phrase on the cone hat I had worn earlier.

'Damn it.'

Because the cone hat was self-made, there were no extras, and since I couldn't show a non-cooperative appearance on W live, I had no choice but to use it.

'I won't cry again.'

That f*cking crybaby king phrase would become the title of the bastard who wrote it next time.

"Moondae, do you want a beer?"

"Yes."

Just in time, I took a can of beer from Ryu Chungwoo and drank it. I drank it well.

"You all worked so hard!"

"Phew, it's just the beginning of our activity, but it feels like it's already over~"

“Strictly speaking, we haven’t started yet. Because our album release date is tomorrow.”

“…The music video hasn’t been released yet. It will come out in half an hour.”

“Hey, why don’t we watch it later before going to bed?”

“Great idea!”

Everyone was really excited.

I might have to record a video one more time later.

‘It’s our first reaction to the music video, so there’s no harm in filming it.’

Instead of an old low-end phone, I fiddled with a new, up-to-date smartphone covered in a yellow puppy case.

It was one of the gifts I received on my birthday.

It took some time to get used to because the operating system was different from the phones I used to have, but it was fun because it had various functions… I was grateful.

However, after receiving the latest smartphone gift about seven times, I started to break out in a cold sweat.

‘There were three of the same model.’

I purposefully made sure it got caught on camera and even made confirmation of it a few times, but the smartphone was not the end.

It seemed I had received almost all kinds of electronics and luxury goods as gifts so far.

‘…It’s too expensive.’

Calculating the amount to be paid back was almost disorienting.

I couldn't go on like this. I was busy anyway, so I didn't have time to use those stuff properly.

I couldn't even show the gifts I used, but continuing to receive them was only self-satisfaction.

'I am not even going to sell them.'

If I got caught selling them, a burning ceremony would be held on the Internet that day.

And even if it wouldn't happen… Those were gifts given to me to use, so I couldn't sell them.

'I should make an announcement telling them to stop.'

Even if I said I didn't want to take gifts, saying it alone would be like unnecessarily throwing prey to the aggro, so I would have to bring it up to these guys as soon as I got the settlement.

But I couldn't do it now.

Even if I brought it up, with the atmosphere of the drinking party, they would just shout 'Okay' in a fit of anger and regret it the next day.

"What do you think, you two 20-year-olds? Do you like beer?"

"It's bitter."

"It doesn't have any sugar at all…"

"T-Then… How about this?"

Taste reviews run rampant with people recommending drinks to the kids who drank legally for the first time.

"I like this!"

“I-I am glad…! B-But, don’t drink too much… Uh.”

‘What a mess.’

I gave up on the idea of a reaction video. I would have to accumulate another three years of annual leave to make this public.

“Moondae, do you have any recommendations~?”

“Tell them to drink soda.”

“I don’t want to!”

Yeah well, then keep drinking and get wasted.

I opened a new can of beer and angrily brought up the characteristics draw.

‘If I pick a heroic characteristic, is it at least grade B?’

I hope something useful comes out. I thought it would be best if Bacchus came out again and got upgraded.

Now, the familiar slot machine popped up, and the slot with the golden slot intermittently mixed with the platinum slot began to spin.

[Mental Strength]

[Concentration]

[Fluffy Cutie]

[For further details (omitted)]

[I need to sympathize]

[Bacchus]

[…]

Characteristics that I felt like I had seen somewhere and phrases that I hoped wouldn't get caught flashed by, and then stopped.

It was a platinum-colored slot, which was rare.

"…!"

Papapapang!

Along with confetti, an A-class characteristic appeared.

[Characteristic: International student (A)]

– I understand what you said.

: Foreign language proficiency +200%

What is this?

Where did this random characteristic of job seekers come from?

'Increased foreign language proficiency?'

Why? Just let me speak one language. Creating something out of nothing seemed impossible even with the status window

'…I blew off an A-class.'

With a bitter smile, I tried to abandon my newly selected characteristic, but suddenly I came to my senses.

'Wait a minute.'

…Let's consider the cases so far.

Strong heart. As soon as it came out, I threw it away and controversy over the past broke out.

The faucet. As soon as it came out, I threw it away and ended up crying my heart out at the concert… F*ck.

No way, did it give the characteristic that I needed the most at that time?

The ominous premonition that I recalled last time was starting to look very convincing.

"…Huft.".

Calm down. First, let's guess.

Situations where foreign language proficiency was required.

'It's only for overseas trips.'

Unless we were kidnapped and sold to overseas' fishing boats, that was our most likely future as an idol.

'It's almost time to start a tour.'

Because we came from a Korean audition program, Testar's overseas fandom was weak compared to the one in Korea, but it wasn't nonexistent.

Once you become popular in Korea, interest from abroad tends to naturally follow.

In addition, our cover of Onyx's stage last time seemed to have become a hot topic among overseas K-pop fans.

'I guess that's what they like.'

I'd sold data to foreigners who used translators before, and groups with higher transaction rates than domestic ones had that concept.

Hip-hop base dance songs with strong beats and intense performance.

'Testar is not a group that focuses on that.'

Not everything went according to the trend, but if I had to go abroad someday, I thought it would be okay to try a single title like that once or twice.

Anyway… Let's go back to the speculation that this characteristic came out because we were scheduled for overseas tours this year.

'…Still, I don't think that kind of ability is needed for the tour.'

I spoke English only at the college graduate level. That meant I could attempt light-level communication.

Besides, our team already had a native speaker. Cha Eugene…

"Drink more!"

"Wait, Eugene, let's stop~"

"Y-You drank too much…!"

"…"

Cha Eugene… was the only native speaker.

And the only other person who studied abroad was Seon Ahyeon.

Needless to say, the communication compatibility between those two was disastrous.

'This… This won't do.'

I eventually decided to follow the inductive method.

It was better to study foreign languages until I could get the next characteristic than to experience the same situation as when the strong heart and the faucet were thrown away.

Then I had to delete one of the three characteristics I already had… Well, this was obvious.

[Characteristic: I heard it's true (C) has been deleted!]

I'd never used this characteristic at all since my debut. It didn't pop out when I persuaded the former director or when I recommended counseling to Seon Ahyeon.

'Its grade is the lowest, so it's right to throw it away.'

Now, we weren't walking on a tightrope while doing group assignments in a crazy survival solo match as we had done in <Idol Inc.>.

I checked my status window again.

[Name: Park Moondae (Ryu Gunwoo)]

Level: 16

Title: None

Vocal: A+

Dance: B

Visual: A-

Talent: B

Characteristics: Infinite potential, International student (A), Bacchus 500 (B), Snatching ears (A)

!Status abnormality: Win an award or die

Remaining points: 2

First of all, the dance stat that naturally grew from B- to B caught my attention.

'It's worth the roll.'

It was a feat achieved while preparing for the year-end stage and the concert. Now, even if I stood next to a guy with passable skills, I would still look good at dancing.

And with the remaining two points that were currently available… Well, I actually had one extra more, so I wanted to put one on the vocal. Because the grade would change.

'I want to check how much the vocal changes when it enters S class.'

However, it seemed okay to add two points to the talent or the dance so that I could have three A stats.

'What should I do?'

I thought about it for a while and then I made up my mind after thinking about one of my upcoming schedules.

'I think this is right.'

And as soon as I finished distributing the points, someone tapped me on the back.

"Park Moondae, have you seen this?"

"What is it?"

When I turned my head, Keun Sejin pointed at his smartphone screen.

It was a new message from the Moon Rabbit group chat, which was from the third match of <Idol Inc.> that I hadn't seen in a long time.

[Ha Iljoon: I heard the concert went well! Congratulations (tearful emoticon) I'm sorry I couldn't go even though you invited me!]

[Ha Iljoon: Actually, I'm debuting in April! I couldn't go because I was preparing for my debutㅠㅠ Please take good care of me in the future, Testar sunbae-nim! (greeting emoticon)]

Oh, Gold 1 was debuting.

But is there anything more to say besides congratulations? There didn't seem to be anything special about it.

"…Ah, hold on. I will scroll it up."

After checking my expression, Keun Sejin lowered the smartphone screen with his finger.

Then a new message appeared.

[Ha Iljoon: But Wongil from our team is also debuting. If there is an interview asking about you guys' relationship with him, is it okay to say that everything is already solved?]

[Ha Iljoon: I am not saying you guys are close or anything, I would just say that much!]

I see.

Choi Wongil also made his debut as a team in the end.

Since most of Testar members had experienced Choi Wongil's trolls in <Idol Inc> and it was all aired, it definitely sounded like something that would come out bad in an interview.

'It's understandable that Gold 1 worries about it.'

Keun Sejin shrugged.

"What do you think?"

What do you mean, I have no idea.

Gold 1 wasn't a stupid attention seeker so he would really only say that much. It was solved properly.

And considering that Choi Wongil had apologized on the stairs of the broadcasting station, it seemed he had changed his mind enough not to say useless things.

"I don't care."

"Really? Actually, me too. Then I'll post it."

Keun Sejin smiled and posted a message in the group chat room.

[Me: Gasp, hyung-nim is debuting~ Congratulations! (eyes twinkling emoticon) Of course, saying that much in the interviews is fine~ We didn't even fight!]

"That's it? You should post congratulations too~"

"Okay."

"The others, um… They'll post a congratulatory message when they come to their sense, right?"

"I guess."

He meant Seon Ahyeon and Kim Raebin. It was obvious.

He seemed distracted from whether he should be drinking now or stopping Cha Eugene, so he would figure it out later when he came to his senses.

"M-Moondae! Would you like a drink too?!"

"…It's fine."

When our eyes met, he started talking like some kind of P*kemon play. Let's avoid him.

In the end, I ended up getting involved in the mess and drinking wine at the last minute, but anyway, I didn't think that the current situation would cause any particular problems.

Until a few days later, when I found a popular WeTube video posted right before our first comeback on a music show.

= = = =

Chapter 135

…For now, I kept listening to the recording.

The more I listened to it, the more certain I became that it was the conversation I had with Choi Wongil on the remote stairs of the MBS station.

‘Damn it.’

[Everyone lives like that! As if I was the only one… Everyone was fighting over footage and cursing out.]

Choi Wongil, who poured out excuses by repeatedly bringing up other people, continued in a low-pitched voice.

In fact, just listening to this, it was a build-up that would make you curse. Because he started a quarrel and was only blaming others and crying.

But after this, it even had the magic of editing.

The words’ placement was new.

[Everything worked out for you.]

[…No, that’s not true. Would you do it if I told you to switch with me?]

[…We can’t switch!]

[That means you do want to switch with me. Well… but honestly, you wouldn’t want to change your family.]

[Yes.]

[…]

Choi Wongil's answer, which originally came out after the question of family's regards, suddenly entered the end of the conversation.

Thanks to that, the nuance became much more strange.

'Choi Wongil sounded even worse than he originally was.'

Didn't he sound as if he immediately answered with, 'Yeah, I don't want to live as an orphan like you, I'm only jealous of your career' as soon as I brought up the family matters?

Of course, there was no trace of Choi Wongil's apology afterward. After a few more seconds of crackling sounds, the video ended.

It was a blank space that made it look like Park Moondae was taken aback by Choi Wongil's immediate answer and was rendered speechless.

I guessed this was also intentional.

"…Hmm."

I looked at the comments again.

First of all, there was one top comment that interpreted Choi Wongil's words in a more radical tone than it originally was.

This was the comment I read earlier.

And the next top comment was… Hmm, it was exactly as expected.

It meant half of it was talking about me.

– Wow, are you crazy to pick a fight with me?

– Park Moondae's parents died. What the hell is that reaction…

– ㅋㅋㅋLook at his way of speaking. He's got a great personality.

– Choi Wongil has always been greedy from the first time I saw him, He got crazy even when the good-natured Moondae stick with him, he keeps updating his faceㅉㅉㅉ

– Park Moondae seems to be trying to teach him but hearing such words… Ah… I don't feel good… ㅠㅠ

– Did he really just tell a child whose parents are dead that he's happy his life is going well?

– There's no evidence. Do you really believe this? Are all the comments here Testar's fans…

The fans who come running with just the smell of gossipㅋ be a good kid at a time like this~

There's this record number one and there's also a video, so it's undeniable

Aren't you ashamed to mention the fans in something like this?

-★☆ There's recording number 1, please listen to it. (Link) ☆★

'…Number 1.'

The title of the video had the number '2' on it, so it seemed there was a number 1.

I clicked on the link in the comment.

A shaky low-resolution camera was capturing Choi Wongil, who was sitting on the stairs outside the broadcasting station and muttering to himself.

'They draw it out like this.'

It was clear that it was zoomed in and taken with a smartphone.

Choi Wongil was muttering something to himself, but he was probably mentally pushed to the limit and didn't even know what he was talking about.

The problem was… the content of his mutterings was aimed at netizens.

[Originally, the bastards who write comments without thinking… They don't even know what they wrote, they quickly forget it…]

In fact, it was something that Choi Wongil could say.

He was bullied so much on the internet, so he might say things like that when he was consulting or making a resolution to himself.

In fact, it could be sympathetic.

However, it was perfect to incite the people who had cursed Choi Wongil during <Idol Inc.>.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋThe self-consolation is pitiful

– He got cursed at for his personality, but he's blaming others…

– Yes, there are cases like that, but you're not one of them

Here, too, the criticism and the sneers in the comments were unstoppable.

It must be because of the justification given by the well-edited recording of the conversation he had with me.

"…"

My head was throbbing.

First of all, I knew they didn't mean to snipe me.

'They're trying to catch Choi Wongil.'

It was clear from the fact that they carefully edited the recording and uploaded it.

Maybe the person I had seen under the stairs at the broadcasting station was this bastard.

They must be determined considering that they didn't upload it at that time and stayed still until Choi Wongil's group debut article appeared.

'And they used me here.'

It drove me crazy that this bastard used Park Moondae as firewood to raise the stake.

Did you see the stream of comments that sympathize and defend me?

It was easy to mistake it as a good thing because public opinion was favorable, but it absolutely was not.

This meant that the image of having an unfortunate family history buried in the background narrative had risen out of the water again.

The articles posted on SNS immediately were like this.

– Saying the words 'I hope you continue to do well' to someone who lost their parents in an accident and even dropped out due to school bullying, there's a problem with your empathic intelligence.

– I'm going to cry when I think about what it must have been like for Park Moondae back then. Choi Wongil is really out of his mind.

They weren't even Testar's fan account.

'…The time to get benefit from this is long past.'

Now that the group had succeeded in settling down instead of being in the middle of an audition where one vote would be a waste, this topic was more of an obstacle.

Because the image would change.

Imagine that when people see Park Moondae, they think of the shockingly unfortunate past before they think of the stage or group image.

During Testar's new album activity, at that.

They could get tired of content that should be enjoyable and mindlessly fun.

'…I'd rather be a crybaby and get laughed at.'

In summary, now this was bad news for me, too.

'So many things happen from the day of the first comeback broadcast… '

I was already tired.

"…Sigh."

First of all, let's control the situation that I could get in touch with.

I immediately informed the manager of the situation.

And after confirming that the manager had gone out with his smartphone, I immediately looked for Gold 1 in my contacts.

After checking my actions, Ryu Chungwoo immediately spoke to me.

"What's wrong?"

"…Top 5 popular Wetube videos… No, check out the top three."

The real-time ranking was already going up.

Crazy.

Keun Sejin came running, perhaps already checking it.

“Is this really Choi Wongil?”

“The nuance has changed because it was edited. Wait a minute.”

Gold 1 finally answered the phone.

“Hyung.”

– Moondae, do you…

“I saw it.”

– Right. I’m sorry to ask, but what Wongil said…

“It’s been edited. It wasn’t that kind of nonsense, and Choi Wongil apologized afterward.”

I could hear a sigh of relief.

– Sigh… First of all, I’m really, really glad it’s not true… It’s driving me crazy.

“Does the company there know everything?”

– Yeah, they’ve already started the meeting. By the way…

Gold 1 sighed loudly.

-… Actually, Choi Wongil is not in a very good state right now. I don’t know what the company will do either. I hope it works out.

“…”

– For now, I’ll tell the company about the situation again. Dees your company know?

“Yes, I told them.”

Maybe the agencies had already contacted each other.

– Then I think it’ll work out somehow. But, sigh… What do I do with Wongil?

Gold 1 hurriedly hung up after offering me a few words of consolation as well.

And I got a rough idea of the situation.

‘Choi Wongil… He might get cut off from the debut group like this.’

Public opinion was also destructive for the company so it seemed they were gradually considering the stop loss. There was a nuance that if the response was not good even after the clarification, he would be taken out.

And considering that Choi Wongil was not in a good state… Wait, I didn’t feel good about this.

I hoped those bastards didn’t think of anything weird.

“…”

I broke out in a cold sweat.

This… The speed of recovery could be a threat.

‘If it is fixed late, the rebound will be severe.’

If this controversy continued to regenerate and grew f*cking big, let’s assume that the agency gave a clarification after they cut corners and poor Choi Wongil hit rock bottom.

Even if the situation settled down then, the backlash would pour on me.

Why?

Because I was caught in a good versus evil format with Choi Wongil.

Let's be objective. What I said in this recording was not a very good remark.

It was just something an idol would say in the face of a quarrel.

But now, it was mercilessly taken in as some sort of noble remark.

Because they had to make me a poor and good victim to get a better angle at cursing Choi Wongil.

However, if Choi Wongil got criticized and was only clarified afterward, sympathetic opinions would rise and the situation would be reversed.

– Honestly, it was Park Moondae who suddenly started talking about family, but he could get away with it because he has so many fans

– Choi Wongil's flaw is not having any fansㅠ

Perhaps in this way, Park Moondae's fans would likely get attacked for making Park Moondae the victim and attracting public opinion.

Naturally, in the process, Park Moondae's past controversy would come up again.

It would be another round of exciting realization of justice.

'Never.'

Before it could develop to that point, it should be recovered while this was still happening.

Choi Wongil was also a young man that had experienced too much bitterness to suffer more from this misunderstanding.

‘I have to quickly knock it down.’

I had no choice but to unf*ck Choi Wongil by tying things up before the articles appeared on the main page.

After a quick phone call with the company through the manager, I got confirmation right away.

“What are you going to do?”

Bae Sejin sneaked up and asked.

Looking at the atmosphere, it seemed the situation had already spread to the members.

“I have to explain.”

“On Testar’s account?”

“No.”

Bae Sejin seemed to think about the time when he posted his statement, but it wasn’t like that now.

‘If I upload it myself, the topic will get bigger.’

Then, the attention on Testar’s comeback could be controversial.

However, if the companies made an official statement, words like ‘The companies have already collaborated with each other, I feel sorry for Park Moondae’ would definitely come out.

Then there was only one way.

Use a third party.

I called Gold 1 again.

– Yeah, what is it?

“Do you have time?”

– I do. Do you have any urgent news?

“Something like that. I’m going to make a message record.”

–…??

The live performance was right around the corner. Let’s make the evidence in 30 minutes.

* * *

Excited aggressors, the public who were immersed in the situation, and Park Moondae’s fans who were extremely angry started beating up Choi Wongil from every direction.

Since there were very few people who stood up for him, the news of the recording was spreading without reinterpretation.

Meanwhile, Park Moondae’s personality stock price temporarily reached its peak.

[Park Moondae crying when fans sing along at the concert]

[A collection of testimony that Park Moondae took care of other participants throughout Idol Inc]

[Park Moondae’s situation when he dropped out.jpg]

From the beginning of the airing of <Idol Inc.> until recently, all kinds of topics had been brought up.

However, Park Moondae’s fans felt complicated.

Various opinions swirled, from those who were angry with Choi Wongil to those who were worried about the aftermath, but they were all taken aback by this sudden situation all the same.

– Is it normal if you feel bad about your child's past coming up like a public good?

– I was so angry when I heard the recording that I was going to go crazy

– ㅊㅇㄱI'm really pissed. They have to do a comeback stage in 30 minutes ㅅㅂI hope the kids just go through it without knowing anything… ㅠㅠ

– Still, it's a relief that everyone knows that Moondae is a kind puppy

It was at this time that a post was uploaded on Gold 1's SNS.

＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝

(Photo)

After listening to Wongil's words, I thought a lot about it and asked directly. He's a friend who tries really hard, so I hope you don't hate him too much.

Wongil doesn't have an SNS account, so I upload it to my account instead.

＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝

On the photo was… the screenshot of Gold 1's own chat room.

And the name of the room marked at the top was 'Park Moondae dongsaeng'.

The content of the screenshot started with Gold 1 sending a message.

[Me: Moondae, I'm sorry, but can you take a look at this? Is this real? (link to video)]

[Park Moondae dongsaeng: ?]

[Park Moondae dongsaeng: Wait a minute]

The link was, of course, ‘Choi Wongil Recording 2’.

And after some time passed as long as the duration of the video, a reply came.

[Park Moondae dongsaeng: No, what’s this]

[Park Moondae dongsaeng: It wasn’t like this…]

[Me: ㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠ]

[Me: It wasn’t…?]

[Park Moondae dongsaeng: ㅇㅇThis is edited.]

[Park Moondae dongsaeng: At that time the conversation was ended by exchanging best regards with Wongil]

[Park Moondae dongsaeng: Tell Wongil to sue the person who posted this for defamation. They changed the order of his words]

[Me: ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅠㅠ Okay! Thank you (heart shooting emoticon)]

[Park Moondae dongsaeng: What’s with you (yellow puppy greeting emoticon)

About 14 minutes later, Gold 1 asked ‘Is it okay to screenshot and upload this’ and the screenshot ended with Park Moondae giving his permission.

– Heol…

– It’s all fabricated these days

– This is Ha Iljoon's disclosure, right?

– Crazy bastard

And unlike any agency, Gold 1's agency, who was good at their job, spread the articles and dominated WeTube's top comments in line with fluctuating public opinion.

– It's manipulation (link)

– Park Moondae's testimony came out. Choi Wongil is going to sue for the editing ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– There's an article about it. The agency said they're really suing. Crazy guy.

Like that, the criticism for Choi Wongil began to subside before the water level reached the point of no return, before it was caught in the main portal.

When the people who were cursing got a little embarrassed and excited, the arrow of criticism could go back to the person who manipulated the recording.

As soon as the music show ended, Park Moondae grabbed his smartphone and quickly checked the situation.

* * *

'For now, I have put out the urgent fire.'

I sighed as I turned off my smartphone screen.

However, this response was only a stopgap measure.

Once the person who uploaded this recording caught onto something else, Choi Wongil might get hit by another roller-coaster.

And I still had a long way to go.

The topic of the family history that once popped up hadn't been sealed yet.

In addition, the response to the clarification article I just saw in the comments made me uncomfortable.

– He must have been hurt a lot by things like this while growing up, but he is a young man with a very kind heart. I think Choi Wongil also had a great experience and should use it as an opportunity for discipline.

– A good person like Park Moondae should do well ㅠㅠ. I hope he's doing better in the future!

– Wow, Choi Wongil survived thanks to Moondae…

To sum up, 'Nice Moondae nicely passed these hurdles'.

No matter how much I tweaked it, the dispute with Choi Wongil didn't disappear, so my message to correct Gold 1 was misrepresented as me having a caring good heart.

If it had ended there, it would have come to nothing, but the problem was the work that went into it.

It seemed Choi Wongil's agency was worried that the clarification article itself would be a wound that swell up.

So, they wanted to shut off the topic altogether and focused on Park Moondae's 'kind response' rather than Choi Wongil, releasing the articles and pushing public opinion.

The results were the comments I saw earlier.

'This is frustrating.'

I had a bad feeling about this.

God's song, Angel. The quicker you have this modifier attached to you, the quicker it can get taken off.

Even a single weakness might destroy my image, but the problem was that there would be more than one or two people waiting to catch that weakness.

'The people who made the card news to prevent me from receiving the Rookie Award didn't suddenly disappear.'

In this situation, it was enough that I didn't stand out and just subtly looked like a nice guy. Having such an openly good image was a burden.

'I don't avoid selling my personality for no reason.'

So, overall, a conclusion was decided.

'I have to play the image.'

A strong impact was needed, strong enough to cover this uproar right at the beginning of this activity.

'The answer is… only entertainment shows.'

Chapter 136

Entertainment.

It was a schedule that was inevitable for idols whose activities were on track and produced results.

Recently, the popularity of idols themselves had decreased a lot, so some said that it was difficult to catch a variety show even if you had good grades, but Testar didn't fall under this category.

Because we were in last year's number one variety show, <Idol Inc.>.

If you had some interest in the entertainment industry, you would have seen the faces and names of the members who were the top participants of <Idol Inc.> at least once, even if you didn't know Testar.

Last year's activities should have proved our performance, and I knew that we had received quite a lot of entertainment offers this comeback.

Thanks to this, I was able to set up the right entertainment schedule that I wanted.

"Are you nervous~?"

"Somewhat."

Keun Sejin grinned.

"Hey, me too!"

His eyes were burning with too much ambition for someone who was nervous.

‘It’s not surprising.’

The only Testar members heading to the set were me and Keun Sejin.

This was because the variety show’s format didn’t allow the entire group to participate, so the offer came down through several discussions and the two of us won.

It was almost the first time for a member to individually join a variety show like this. And that Keun Sejin would never miss an opportunity to appeal as an individual.

‘Was the unit performance successful?’

Well, it wasn’t a bad thing anyway.

“You know even if I don’t tell you, right? Say hello when you arrive there～”

“Yes!”

“Yes.”

As we nodded obediently to the manager’s words, we first greeted the cast as soon as we arrived.

“Hello!”

Our group had only been around for two years, so I had expected it, but there was really no one younger than us.

But no one ignored us.

“Oh～ Testar!”

Because our popularity and grades were certain.

‘As expected, continuously rising is the answer.’

Still, the fact that Keun Sejin exchanged numbers with three actors in an instant was truly a rare feat.

And, in the waiting room, I found a face that was quite welcome.

“Gasp! Sunbae-nim~!”

“Ah, glad to see you. Both of you.”

It was Youngrin, the female idol who had served as <Idol Inc.>’s representative.

“I’ve been listening to your news. It’s nice to meet you like this. I wish others would have seen it too.”

Youngrin said some words of regard and added jokingly.

“I’m going to release a solo album this year, so let’s not overlap.”

…I was suddenly reminded of the nightmare of having to coincide with VTIC at the beginning of the debut.

“Haha! That’s scary, we have to postpone it, sunbae-nim.”

“I really look forward to the album.”

“Thank you.”

Youngrin smiled slightly and nodded.

And next to her, um… There was someone unexpected.

It was our first time meeting, but as soon as we finished our greetings, she looked at me delightfully.

“Moondae-ssi, right? Wow, you look like this! Let’s do well on today’s shoot.~”

She was… a member of MallangDalkom.

The girl group MallangDalkom was the original singer of <POP☆CON>, which I danced to in the first ranking evaluation, and of <To a New World>, which I changed to a Halloween concept before the first team match.

And the person I met now… Mmm, she was the only member of the MallangDalkom who was active as a popular actor.

In any case, it meant she was a senior in terms of years, so I bowed my head.

"I look forward to your kind cooperation…"

'Wait a minute.'

Come to think of it, everyone knew that I was a fan of MallangDalkom.

'Does she think that I'm a fan, too?'

Sure enough, the MallangDalkom member asked with a grin.

"Hey, which of our members are you a fan of? We made a small bet among ourselves."

There was only one answer to this.

"…Of course, I am a fan of all of you."

"Hey, you're not my fan, are you? You're good at escaping this, Moondae-ssi!"

The MallangDalkom member laughed loudly and hit my thigh.

'It's like treating a cousin or a younger brother.'

Maybe I… It seemed I had developed a one-sided friendship because I had danced to popcorn so much.

“Of course, I’m kidding! Thanks to Moondae-ssi, we had a lot of fun for the first time in a while. Thank you. Let’s do well on today’s shoot!”

“…Thank you.”

At this rate, I would get a MallangDalkom signed CD.

Anyway, it was good to see people we had ties with among the cast.

‘It’s good to have the stories edited here and there.’

Rather than having cast members who didn’t know each other at all, it was better to group us together and get more footage.

There was such a big age gap between us, so the probability of getting unnecessary old-fashioned love broadcast editing was low.

‘Still, it’s more comfortable to be of the same gender.’

Unfortunately, among the rest of the cast, I didn’t see anyone else with overlapping activities or acquaintances.

…I thought so up until this point.

Perhaps because they had quite busy schedules, some of them barely managed to arrive right before the shooting.

“Hello~”

They were two VTIC members.

*‘F*ck.’*

Why are these bastards here?

If they appeared in a group, it was at the level of organizing a special feature even if it meant changing the variety show's format, but why did they have to show up when they weren't even if the middle of an activity?

At that moment, Keun Sejin, who had come wearing a microphone, poked me in the back and whispered.

"Hey, Leti is doing a good job."

"Leti?"

LeTi Entertainment. VTIC and MallangDalkom's agency.

Keun Sejin gestured with his eyes. He was pointing to the actors whose numbers he had gotten.

"There's a group of actors, MallangDalkom… It's Soohyun sunbae-nim's first movie team."

"…!"

"They're in the same agency. They must have agreed to appear as a group by inserting VTIC."

…Did the cast come out as a group to promote the movie?

Thanks to that, it seemed the two VTIC members who were on break personally came out.

They also owned the company stocks, so it was only natural that they would be generous with promoting celebrities belonging to the same company.

Keun Sejin smiled slightly.

"But are you fine with it, Moondae?"

"With what?"

“I don’t see the sunbae-nim who’s in charge of Moondae’s social life~”

“…”

It seemed he had noticed that I was uncomfortable with Cheongryeo.

Well, he was probably just guessing, ‘I guess he’s more of a bastard than I thought’.

I smiled and shook my head.

“No, that doesn’t really matter.”

“Oh, is that so?”

Right.

Cheongryeo wouldn’t smash my head with a hammer right away on this crowded set.

It was just… Meeting such a crazy person would be tiring and annoying.

‘It doesn’t matter whether he’s here or not.’

The problem was… The fact that VTIC itself showed up. We had the same boy idol position, but there was a difference in level.

I spoke frankly.

“I’m worried about the amount of footage.”

“Huh?”

Keun Sejin burst into laughter.

“Hey, Moondae is worrying about the amount of footage of entertainment shows! But don’t worry too much~”

"…?"

Keun Sejin lowered his voice and whispered.

"Those two sunbae-nims don't really talk on entertainment shows."

"…!!"

"They must have been sent in a hurry. Hm, don't you think they'll just do it in moderation and then leave?"

That meant they were members who didn't have much interest in entertainment, so they wouldn't be so motivated.

To be honest, I was a little impressed.

'This bastard's brain works really well.'

He was a real one for collecting information and figuring it out.

I nodded.

"I have to work harder."

"I will do my best."

We exchanged rare unnecessary fistbumps.

The mic was turned on, and the filming soon began.

* * *

"Sensational Saturday! We invite you to the joy of weekend nights, <Saturday Party>!"

"Woow!"

<Saturday Party> was a full-fledged variety show hosted by a national MC.

As you could guess from the name, it was a very boring program, but it ended in the late 2000s and was revived a few years ago due to the retro craze.

A program with high ratings that started on Saturday at 8:50 p.m. on public TV.

In short, it was an extremely popular entertainment show.

There were no unnecessary family guests and they could show the characters in a fun and impactful way with just a few scenes.

It had all the elements I was looking for.

But… It was necessary to let go of my self-confidence.

Because the concept required resistance.

Dudumts, dudumts!

Right now, the MC was DJing in the 80's style DJ booth, shaking his bob hair.

He seemed really into it. His professionalism was great.

"Today's party concept? ＜One heart two bodies＞!"

Words that were notified in advance came out.

"Exclusively~ Today's stage where only similar-looking people, similar party people, can enter! Our party people, please appear now!"

Thanks to this, I matched my hair and my clothes with Keun Sejin.

By the way, perhaps aware of this concept, one of the member combinations that the company thought of for this variety show was 'Keun Sejin and Bae Sejin' pair.

Of course, thanks to Bae Sejin's aggressive mortification, the idea fell through even before they could discuss it.

"Our turn."

"Yeah."

It was time for me and Keun Sejin to appear on the set.

[The party people who are going to enter this time are… Oh~ So young! So handsome!]

With the MC's amazing introduction, we were going to go up to the stage and performed a dance we had prepared.

This was because the MC… Throughout the performers' dance, he reproduced cheesy entertainment captions that were popular as memes in the past.

[Dancing magic! Soaring Stock! Testar's two shining stars have come down to Earth!]

It seemed the funny point was that the cast members collapsed because they couldn't stand the words that echoed through the microphone into the venue.

But I didn't think me or Keun Sejin collapsing would be entertaining. It probably would be different if Ryu Chungwoo and Seon Ahyeon were the ones who show up.

So I decided to do it in reverse.

Keun Sejin and I stealthily surrounded the DJ booth while dancing.

"…?!"

The MC was a little flustered.

"Wow, the best national MC!"

“I will show you what hosting is! It’s the host!”

“A presence that even a booth cannot confine! A light that rings the whole country!”

“Ruling over Saturday evening. This is the statement of a great man!”

“The only person who can capture the excitement and the laughter at the same time is the person in the DJ seat!”

[No…!]

It was the MC who collapsed instead.

At first, he looked really embarrassed, but it seemed he was also matching our tunes a bit.

‘Thank goodness.’

I was relieved that I didn’t have to say anything worse.

However, next to me, Keun Sejin laughed and sprouted all the remaining comments.

“Korean entertainment history is divided into before and after Choi Hosoo. He is the standard of entertainment!”

“…”

That was how the dance stage ended.

The MC, who had come back to his sense, held back his laughter and left a great ending comment.

“Taking over the stage as soon as they entered! This is entertainment! Passion, spirit, love, and peace!”

“Thank you!”

Me and Keun Sejin came down the stage.

'…Sigh.'

First of all… I had done everything I had aimed for in this part. Even the staff was laughing, so the impact was good.

However, as soon as I sat in the chair provided for the cast, the agony came.

I was also determined to prepare for the broadcast before appearing, but it was amazing how entertainment shows could test a person's resistance.

'People who aimed this format… There are so many.'

I couldn't believe it. But ratings didn't lie.

'Let's just make a reaction.'

I gave a big round of applause to the VTIC guys who took the stage last.

As Keun Sejin said, it seemed they didn't have particular intentions in this variety show and hadn't prepared anything big.

"Heavenly good looks!"

After all 12 cast members appeared, the program began in earnest.

"Actually, the reason we had this party today is… To find a fake!"

"No, isn't it strange that we have people with similar looks? One must be a doppelganger! There's a fake!"

…With this concept, all I heard was that the co-stars had to split up and had a 6:6 team match.

"The decisive person who made the team lose! That person… will be penalized!”

When the person who got the penalty was selected in the first game, his real intention was revealed.

“Huh? Why doesn’t our Zuho-ssi, who entered with us, come out?”

“Y-Yes?”

“Since you have the same body, you should be punished together~ You’re a doppelganger! That’s why it’s called ＜One heart two bodies＞!”

“…!!”

Right.

When a penalty was issued, the doppelganger of that person on the opposing team was also punished.

“No, oh, my God!”

“Then I shouldn’t aim for that side?”

“No, the team winning is important! Let’s just get the punishment~”

Surprisingly, no one was notified, so the cast was really surprised.

In the gap between all the whisperings, I made eye contact with Keun Sejin.

‘Let’s get a penalty.’

‘Okay.’

In a critical situation like getting a penalty, our reaction would be good to pick out our characters. I had to take the penalty no matter what.

“The penalty for this team match is… Water balloon bomb!”

“Gasp!”

Hmmm, getting that much was fine.

But when the opportunity came, an interruption entered.

There was a one-on-one situation left in this team match, the mirror ball dodgeball.

The lineup consisted of me and the VTIC members.

And right at that moment, the only remaining VTIC member on the opponent’s side caught the ball.

‘The last person to be eliminated will get the penalty.’

Due to the nature of this program, I would have done that 100% to make it funny.

‘Ah, it’s because you couldn’t win even though you stayed until the end, so that’s the cause of the defeat～’

They probably would say something like that. There were a lot of records.

‘It’ll be fine to get hit here.’

I was ready to get hit by the ball.

“It’s over!”

“Hit him!”

But the VTIC member on the opponent’s side started to do something crazy.

He looked at me with ambiguous eyes, and while pretending to throw a ball, he stepped on the gold and was eliminated.

"…??"

"Oops! I made a mistake!"

'What's this?'

What the hell is that bastard doing?

He even winked and signaled when our eyes met.

He looked like a senior in high school who covered for the freshman in a presentation.

'What the hell?'

Chapter 137

The penalty was stolen by VTIC.

“Then, the two of you, please come up to the stage!”

“Oh, too bad!”

“It’s a bit unfair～”

Instead of putting me out, one other guy and one VTIC member, who voluntarily stepped on the gold and went into the penalty, were hit with water balloons with unremarkable reactions.

Seeing his appearance that didn’t have any special features and would have passed by in a three-second-cut if he wasn’t a guy who sold 1.8 million albums in the first week, as Keun Sejin said, it seemed he really didn’t have much passion for entertainment.

‘…It meant he didn’t get eliminated on purpose to get enough footage.’

Then, does that proud face really come from a ‘caring heart for new idols’?

‘It was a real mistake, but isn’t it more convincing to say that he did it because he was embarrassed?’

My eyes met Keun Sejin’s. Smiling like a painting, he pointed his finger at himself.

It was frustrating but it couldn’t be helped, it seemed to mean that he would actively try to get a penalty next time.

“Now, for this team match～ Find ssanghwacha[1]Ssanghwacha is a traditional herbal medicine that has been widely used for thousands of years, especially during the Joseon Dynasty, to treat infirmity, relieve fatigue, and facilitate recovery after an illness. !”

However, in the next team match, this strange and ridiculous situation continued.

“No egg yolks! The team of the first person to choose the ssanghwacha will lose~ Now, let’s dance to the music and choose!”

In short, it was a game with an ambiguous 90s vibe that combined chair stealing and randomness.

‘It’s all about luck.’

Thinking that I would pass this one, I chose it without thinking much about it. With the way things were going, it would be funnier if I got caught.

Of course, it was much more likely that I got the one with the egg yolk.

“Ah, Moondae-ssi! Pass!”

And it came true. The ssanghwacha I chose had yolk in it.

Then the VTIC guys clapped and started to make a fuss.

“Oh, that’s amazing!”

“Wow, how did you get it right like this?”

“…”

What’s wrong with you, bastards.

I gave a rough answer and moved on, but it was obvious that they weren’t trying to make fun of me, it was an ambiguous and unnatural warm-hearted kindness.

In the end, the MC, who couldn’t watch it, tried to make it funny by pointing it out.

“No, since a while ago, why are the two of you only showing great reactions to Moondae?”

“Ah, hyung-nim, you don’t know anything~ The popular ones are close to each other~!”

“Is that so~?”

The VTIC guys waved their hands.

“No, no~ We’re just good friends!”

“It was cool that he got it right without thinking much about it.”

Rather than supporting the claim, they just denied it, so the picture became ambiguous again. I guessed it was true that those two were bad at entertainment.

But why are you trolling me with that?

‘Are you trying to screw with me?’

I took a look at them just in case, but I didn’t feel any signs of provocation.

‘It’s driving me crazy.’

And this time, the punishment was taken by the MallangDalkom member.

“Look closely!… Isn’t it yolk? It’s a canned one, right?!”

“Argh!”

The penalty was gosamcha[2]Gosamcha = one of Korean tea and apparently tastes very bitter… Youngrin, who carried out the punishment together as the doppelganger, did a one-shot without changing her expression, eliciting reactions even from the staff.

‘I’m jealous.’

It would have been nice if I had drank the gosamcha and spit it out.

At this rate, I wouldn’t be able to get a penalty and ended up as a reaction folding screen and side footage for VTIC.

‘Should I be more active?’

While I was thinking about changing the route, the filming stopped for a while.

“Cut! I’ll go ahead and renew it~”

“Let’s check our microphones for a moment.”

“Yes!”

It was time for a short maintenance and a break.

“I’m going to the bathroom.”

“Yeah.”

Keun Sejin sneaked out following the MC, and I deliberately sipped my drink and waited for the timing.

Then the opponents moved first.

“Hello, hubae-nim~”

“We were in such a hurry that we couldn’t even say hello properly, right?”

The VTIC guys smiled and talked to me.

Although they were the ones who never introduced themselves, they couldn't straighten their faces for social life.

"…Yes, it's been a while, sunbae-nims."

"Ah~ Sunbae-nim sounds so awkward. Just call us hyung!"

"That's right. Don't call us that, it's like we're too old."

Rather than the impression that these guys with 8-years differences were saying something without conscience, I felt something that I had felt earlier.

'Hmm?'

You guys… Why are you guys so awkward?

'They look like they're breaking into cold sweats.'

It seemed they tried to talk to me warmly and kindly in their own way, but there were limits.

The guys who used to do this… So, it wasn't the kind of feeling that I was accustomed to with people of influence like Keun Sejin or Ryu Chungwoo.

It seemed they weren't used to being a sociable older person.

'What's with them?'

Let's give them a proper answer first.

"It's not a matter of age, you are great seniors, how I can call you carelessly like that…"

"What do you mean with great senior~ Ugh!"

"Just call us comfortably!"

“…”

Wow, these guys are working hard.

This was more embarrassing than when the penalty was stolen earlier.

I was speechless. Perhaps thinking it was an implicit agreement, the two men exchanged glances.

Then, one of them opened his mouth with a dry cough.

“Hmm, variety shows are very difficult, right?”

“Yes? Yes…”

Without the two of you, the level of difficulty would have dropped by two levels.

But both of them had proud faces.

“Oh, don’t overdo it while filming… If you’re having a hard time, send me SOS. I’ll help you.”

“…??”

“Ah, don’t feel pressured! If you get a junior later, treat them well. Don’t mind us.”

And these two guys were exchanging expressions like ‘Oh, aren’t you good at talking?’.

It was amazing.

“…”

I put up with the headache and asked openly.

“…Then, the gold you stepped on earlier.”

“Haha! No~ Was it that obvious?”

“No, I think this hubae just has a good sense.”

“Right? Anyway… Don’t worry too much. It just happened to be~”

…Now, I knew for sure.

‘These guys, they did it completely out of goodwill.’

They said the road to hell is paved with good intentions, and it was exactly what happened.

In addition, their idea of helping was one-dimensional.

Even considering that they didn’t have much experience in entertainment shows, they didn’t seem to be the kind of people who knew how to roll their brains.

‘I think they’ll be robbed of a warranty or a business scam within five years.’

No matter how smoothly the VTIC grew, considering that they had been in this hellish K-pop society for eight years, they were pretty dull.

‘…Are they the ones that Cheongryeo added to change to the group?’

If he looked for people who wouldn’t get into accidents and were easy to deal with, it could be these kinds of people.

Anyway, they didn’t seem to have any complicated thoughts, so I could just cut them off in moderation.

“Thank you very much. But I’m going to try as hard as I can. You don’t have to be considerate like you did before.”

“Huh?”

The slightly flustered guys pondered for a while before opening their mouths again with embarrassed faces.

“Um, actually, I heard something from Cheongryeo hyung.”

“…??”

What is this again.

‘He wouldn’t have said anything useless.’

Right as the top of my head was about to cool down, the guy in front of me smiled.

“No, Moondae-ssi is really hardworking and a good junior, so please treat him well, he said something like that!”

“…!!”

“That’s right! But he’s the kind of person who doesn’t really say things like that.”

“Yeah. He had very few close friends… It was amazing that he got close to hubae-nim.”

We’re not close.

“He may look a little gloomy, but… Still, Jaehyun, I mean, Cheongryeo hyung is a lot better than you think.”

“That’s right. He donated half of his settlement to the stray dogs center.”

“Heol, he donated half of it?”

“Yeah, I was freaked out more than when hyung used a bank app.”

“He lives like a mountain spirit, but he really likes animals.”

The two of them talked and then got lost in a conversation among themselves. And when they came to their senses, they awkwardly fell out of it.

“No, why did the topic go this way? Anyway, this is also meant to be, so if you have any difficulties during today’s filming, tell me~ It’s something like that.”

“Are you having a hard time now?”

“…”

I heard so much nonsense that I suddenly got distracted.

I punched myself inside.

*‘Who the f*ck cares? Get a grip.’*

Whether Cheongryeo was the guardian of stray dogs or not, it was his business.

What mattered now was my goal. The current shooting.

I picked out the vocabulary and opened my mouth.

“Actually…”

After explaining the situation I was in, the two were horrified when I indirectly informed them that I was actually aiming for a penalty.

“Heol! Really?”

“Hey, I’m sorry!”

“Should I drive the penalty to you now?”

“Can you do this as a penalty?”

“…It’s fine.”

Instead, I made a light request, and the VTIC members readily agreed.

“Hey, Moondae~”

Right after that, Keun Sejin returned from the bathroom.

“Did you hear something good?”

“So so. You?”

“Hey, I went to the bathroom, so how could I hear anything good~?”

Seeing him smile while answering, it seemed he had achieved something, but his mouth said something else.

Sure enough, the loots soon popped out.

“Just… Somehow our paths ended up overlapping, so I had a conversation with MC Choi Hosoo. And we exchanged numbers.”

As expected.

“Looks like you had a fruitful conversation.”

“Well, we talked about the direction of the entertainment show.”

Keun Sejin grinned.

“I said the two of us would never get a penalty.”

“…!”

“So, I am going to try to get a reaction by giving you a penalty somehow.”

It was great.

* * *

The second half of the filming ended well with the cooperation of several cast members.

‘Looks like it came out better than planned.’

Now it was a matter of editing, but honestly, I wasn’t too worried.

I wouldn’t cut this out if I were the PD.

“Thank you for your hard work.~”

“Good job!”

“Yeah, it was great today!”

Anyway, I left the set after bowing my head just like when I first arrived.

And in the car on my way to the next schedule.

After the filming ended well, an unwelcome call suddenly came into the quiet and peaceful atmosphere.

[VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim: I heard you met the kids at the filming today.]

[VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim: How is it? I hope it was helpful ^^]

“…Sigh.”

Since the moment I met the VTIC guys, I thought it would be like this somehow.

It was ridiculous, but if you looked at it like this, the content of the message itself was somehow normal.

‘The problem with meeting him is that he’s crazy.’

After pressing my eyelids a few times, I replied.

[Yes, the sunbae-nims helped me. Thank you.]

And surprisingly, I got a reply after a while.

[VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim: I’m glad they helped. Don’t you want to work with better team members again?]

*‘F*ck.’*

Whatever I do, are you going to tell me to quit and start all over again?

VTIC guys’ nonsense echoed in my mind.

– Jaehyun, I mean, Cheongryeo hyung is a lot better than you think… A lot better… A lot better…

Like hell he was.

That meant all the decent people were freezing to death.

But the VTIC guys didn’t seem to lie about it. In other words, the example itself… seemed to be the truth.

‘…Just try it once.’

With superhuman patience, I tried to reply by assuming that the other person was normal for once.

[I don’t want to. And just hearing that kind of thing over and over again is very stressful. I’m almost at my limit just thinking about the mission.]

[I am really having a hard time, so please stop it.]

And there was no reply for a long time.

'…Did I step on a landmine?'

However, even if my burial in a wild mountain had entered a countdown, I would never die alone.

'I need to make this bastard socially dead, too.'

Leaning on my neck pillow, I began to polish the inside that I had thought of before.

Somehow… It was like a repetitive labor to calm the mind.

"Hmm."

Then, again, a reply came back all of sudden.

[VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim: Got it.]

"…!"

Several tens of seconds passed.

After that, the next text arrived.

[VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim: I'm sorry.]

"…"

The text ended with that.

"…Phew."

I turned off my smartphone and closed my eyes again.

People were so mysterious.

* * *

When Park Moondae was lost in thought in the car, articles were slowly popping up on the Internet.

[Choi Hosoo's <Saturday Party>, a special lineup is coming… From VTIC to Testar]

[Testar's variety show outing? Shooting <Saturday Party>, "Please look forward to it!"]

– Heol, Vtic, Testar

– I'm so glad that they appear on a variety show, not as co-hosts

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋI know, right

– Cheongryeo and Park Moondae were really funny… I want to see them again, are they going to come out?

And shortly afterward, it was also revealed which of Testar members would appear.

– Moondae and Keunsen

– Ah, it's Moondae, I love it ㅠㅠ

– Saturday party. Finally, the day has come for Mom to open up to Testar business!

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋCongratulations.

– Why Lee Se-jin; Shouldn't Cha Eugene come out?

□I think it's because he's a member of the variety show?

□You're talking as if he is. It's funny that 6th place comes out first. He doesn't know his place, but if you think about their recognition or popularity, shouldn't first place or second place winner come out first?

The momentum to risk one's life on one variety show

People will think it's us who put them in

– Moondae fighting! ㅎㅎㅎ

And after examining all these reactions, there were also people who were relieved.

'There's almost no one cursing at Moondae!'

The graduate student was relieved and left the page she was reading. She was Park Moondae's fan who browsed the Internet after being sunk by a wave of English comments on WeTube.

Recently, there was a favorable atmosphere toward Moondae, so she was excited.

Her homma friend seemed very uneasy, but it didn't make much sense to her.

'Isn't it nice that everyone knows Moondae is kind and cute?'

Thinking back on the days when she was worried that Moondae would see malicious comments, she felt like a fairy now.

'I'm looking forward to the variety show!'

The graduate student laughed and stomped her feet on the bed, but she couldn't resist her fangirling heart and logged on to WeTube.

Then she clicked on a thumbnail that was still on the list of top video rankings

'I should watch it one more time before I go to sleep.'

It was Testar's new music video.

- 1. Ssanghwacha is a traditional herbal medicine that has been widely used for thousands of years, especially during the Joseon Dynasty, to treat infirmity, relieve fatigue, and facilitate recovery after an illness.

- 2. Gosamcha = one of Korean tea and apparently tastes very bitter.

Chapter 138

When she clicked on the music video, the video title caught her attention before the 5-second advertisement.

[Testar(TeSTAR) ‘Midnight, and Next (00:01)’ Official MV]

[View count 22,147,586]

‘Wow, it’s 22 million.’

It was 20 million when she saw it a while ago, but even though it had only been a week since its release, the number of views was accumulating quite fast.

The time it took to reach 10 million was also a new record for the group.

‘I’m watching it again.’

The graduate student shrugged, saying that it was understandable.

Because Testar’s music video this time was a bit different from the previous ones.

“Ah, here we go.”

At that moment, the commercial ended and the music video started.

[…]

An antique gramophone covered in dust and cobwebs was captured on the screen.

A white hand came out of a corner and pressed the phonograph needle.

Thud, thud, thud.

The cobweb snapped, and a slow, crackling melody began to play out.

It was lo-fi jazz with its sound quality lowered on purpose.

A romantic and sad piano rang out.

Before she knew it, the screen changed to the entrance of a mansion.

Although it was old, the structure of the mansion had a trace of luxury and displayed tremendous visual beauty in the captured frame.

And in the middle.

Under the dusty, glowing chandelier, the focus was on the figure of seven people sitting in formation.

The song began.

– Slowly falling asleep

Time, night

I don’t want to escape

– It’s quiet now

Song and dream

Forget everything, it’s midnight here.

Your Midnight

The choreography unfolded.

The tone of modern dance and waltz stood out. It was an elegant and complex choreography with a lot of movements using the whole body to support each other.

The long cuffs swayed.

There were no repetitive movements that were easy to follow or memorize. It was a move solely aimed at making people watch with their mouths open.

The structural lines were held long under the chandelier lights.

– Even if the clock's second-hand runs and calls me

I can't pull it up again today

I'm here, your midnight

Your Midnight

The video changed the background from an old and luxurious entrance hall to a classy study in the rain, a huge dining table lined with rusty bird cages, and a bathroom full of red-scented candles.

Each time, their hair and clothes changed shape and color, and the background was naturally absorbed in an instant.

It was a crazy visual beauty.

And the background suddenly came to the bedroom where golden blue butterflies fly around.

The seemingly endless change of clothes, which was based on colorful suits, also came to an end.

They were now wearing classic lightweight shirts.

On the spine between their shoulders, she could see pulsating clockwork springs.

– Spreading Midnight

The distorted focus…

I'm shaking, I'm struggling with time

The choreography of the last chorus fully bloomed.

Butterflies gathered each time the formation changed and sat on the windmill like birds perching on the spinning wheels.

The shadows on the floor stretched, casting long butterfly wings.

– Overflowing Midnight

Torn down Shape

Torn and a new day comes

There were no significant cutscenes, acting, or overhanging narrative.

Consisting solely of choreography and proper close-up shots, the video swallowed up time in an instant.

It was a music video with a gorgeous and ecstatic visual beauty and a song that seemed to fit together.

– I met you

Midnight

And next

The lyrics ended like that. All sounds stopped for a moment.

The last accompaniment resumed faintly.

While the piano and contrabass were playing, a white hand appeared just like in the first scene. However, this time, the camera climbed up on the arm.

The owner of the white hand was Seon Ahyeon.

Getting out of the choreography formation, Seon Ahyeon headed to the longcase clock in one of the bedrooms.

Then he tore off the right lower wing of the blue butterfly exhibit hanging on the clock.

In the glass beneath the wing, diagonal cracks were revealed.

[00 : 01]

On the longcase clock that was captured from the front, an elegant cursive caption appeared, and the video ended.

‘Whoo!’

It was great to see it again!

The graduate student couldn’t control the corners of her mouth and turned to the last verse where a close-up of Moondae was captured.

The face of Park Moondae staring upward slightly with blue butterflies flying around his temples was the best.

And there was the finishing touch.

‘Choker on his neck!’

Although the material and atmosphere were completely different, this was better because it reminded her of the second team match of <Idol Inc.> when she first saw Park Moondae.

The graduate student already did it, but she screenshotted the scene one more time.

“Ah, this music video is really good! The song is just nice to listen to!”

It was her taste to enjoy enchanting visual beauty and easy-to-listen songs for 4 minutes without question marks popping up in her head.

And that point was revealed right away from the thumbnail.

Originally, Testar used epic and meaningful thumbnails such as hands, landscapes, and props since ‘Magical Boy’.

However, this time, they openly put a close-up of a member’s upper body on the thumbnail.

It was Kim Raebin.

“Mmm.”

It was a pity that it wasn’t Moondae. The grad student also had a strange feeling about Kim Raebin because the first fan she met had left a bad impression.

But the cut itself was an art.

‘…Raebin is handsome.’

The cut of soaked Kim Raebin with a corset choker on his neck and a blue butterfly under his chin was great.

And he was a perfect match for this song.

It was a very languid and extravagant concept, so Kim Raebin, who had a slightly decadent impression, suited it well.

The music video was also a worldview and a bombardment of sight and hearing.

‘Ah, it changed over.’

While she was lost in her thoughts for a moment, the video that played again ended, and a related video was played next through automatic playback.

It was the first stage of ‘Midnight, and Next’ at the concert.

[Aaaagh!]

[Uaagh!]

She couldn’t hear the song well because of the scream.

‘Ah, right! Everyone was like this!’

She chuckled as she recalled the situation at the time.

She forgot about the link to the fancam video sent by her homma friend because she even edited the sound neatly.

According to her friend, the concept photo released right before this was even more upsetting because it didn’t give a single hint.

‘Hm, now that I see this, it’s just a pretty picture! I look forward to it! I think it was like that.’

Right.

For a more dramatic first-stage impact, Testar and the company accepted Park Moondae’s opinion and took boring concept photos and teasers.

It was just a moderately good-looking cut using a suitable suit and mansion.

– I heard that Shamstar finally got out of their world concept

□It’s no fun

□But the kids are pretty, that’s all that matters

– Ah, something's missing

– Are they taking a break this time? Since it's a full-length album, there are a lot of things to work on and the condominiums overlap.

The happiness circuit is strong. It must be hard to recycle.

– I've lost my initial commitment, I feel like I am going to gain weight soon

The graduate student didn't know, but the stark reaction under the surface was this bad.

But the moment the concert came out, everything turned upside down.

Even Testar's concert outfit seemed a bit excessive, they even came out with a butterfly model attached like a tailcoat and a real clockwork spring.

Because they poured in their capital, the costume didn't look awkward even if it was that excessive.

– Shamstar is serious about the concept.

– Corset choker and that shirt. Who gave that idea? Give them a reward.

-♡ I love Butterfly Boys so much♡

– The school worldview that sucked up all the sweet flavor is now out of date. Let's push for this.

– Fans' initial commitment is fully charged.

– As expected, boy idol is sexy.

After that, special photos with the concept of the music video intact were added exclusively for the album, and some of them were uploaded on Testar's SNS, making it perfect.

However, without knowing such elaborate calculations, the grad students were just happy.

'Okay, let's watch Moondae's fancam, too!'

The grad student excitedly put in the search term on WeTube and found Park Moondae's new music show fancam.

The hairstyle with only half the forehead exposed and the loose stage suit looked really good on him.

'Blonde is the best…!'

While watching the video happily, she suddenly opened the comment window.

Of course, she knew from experience that the top comments were plastered in English, but it was nice to find one or two comments in Korean.

When she saw the silly comments, she felt like adding something.

"Hmhmm~"

The grad student happily lowered the comment window and finally found a comment in Korean.

However… It was not the kind of comment she was thinking of.

– Park Moondae, fighting~ I like your strong and cool image

– Good luck, Moondae! I hope you don't have a hard time ㅠㅠ

"…?"

She felt a sense of incongruity

The concept this time was a little sexy and based on coolness and elegance… It was as though each element paid attention to the artistry.

And Park Moondae was a genius idol who performed the concept properly, neither lacking nor being too much!

'But instead of talking about the stage, why is this comment on top…?'

Of course, these were words with good intentions, so she didn't feel bad.

But… just a little, her excitement cooled down.

"Mmm."

The grad student just skipped the comment and shrugged it off. Fortunately, she soon found a silly comment that suited her and pressed the heart.

– Every time Moondae blinks, the world flickers. This is a total solar eclipse

'This is it!'

The grad student smiled and felt entertained.

The discomfort was quickly forgotten, but now she felt like she had a sneak peek of what her friend was worried about.

'They are more interested in being nice to Moondae than in Moondae himself… '

Of course, she wasn't saying that the majority of people were like that, but she wasn't happy that such an atmosphere had occurred.

'I want to hurry up and watch Moondae in the variety show.'

While waiting for the variety show, the grad student watched the video of the unit stage preparation from the last concert and the fancam of the unit stage during her breaks.

And the day <Saturday Party> aired.

From the first appearance of Park Moondae and Keun Sejin, she could hear the excitement.

“Gasp!”

Park Moondae and Keun Sejin… They were wearing pink fairy wings for toddlers.

“…?!”

The two of them started dancing to the music tune from the 80s.

[Dancing magic! Soaring Stock! Testar’s two shining stars have come down to Earth!]

Of course, wearing suspenders, they looked cute and handsome.

But the pink fairy wings stole the viewer’s attention.

There were the captions, too.

[It looks like they will fly to the sky any minute…]

[Fleeting dance!]

[Fairy or human?]

It was the DJ’s new comment.

‘Why… Why are they wearing something like that?’

The grad student looked at the screen in confusion and soon realized.

“Ah, butterfly!”

It seemed they were aware that this new song was secretly called ‘Butterfly Boy’ among fans!

‘So cute!’

It was a big picture for a gag and publicity, but the fans were happy to see it anyway.

“Ahaha!!”

The grad student burst into laughter and turned up the volume.

And at the same time, Testar was doing the same.

* * *

“Ahahahaha!!”

“C-Cough”

Saying that they would monitor <Saturday Party>, the guys that were gathered in the living room burst into laughter,

‘I knew it would be like this.’

I was a bit embarrassed, but… Haven’t I gone through too many bizarre things to get my composure broken by this?

“That’s so funny.”

“Yes!”

When Cha Eugene answered, Bae Sejin collapsed next to him. Even that answer alone seemed to be funny.

‘…Let’s put up with it.’

I focused my eyes on the remote control.

…But when the scene of me and Keun Sejin dancing around the DJ booth came out, I couldn't take it anymore.

The me on the screen shouted.

[Wow, the best MC ever!]

Click.

I pressed the mute button.

"Huh?"

"Hey, why~"

"Moondae, it's fun! It's all right!"

It's not alright.

I looked at the screen with bitter eyes.

The second half of the shoot was really… something you could look forward to.

Chapter 139

As expected, the dance initiation ceremony, in which the two of us suddenly attacked the MC in reverse, didn't get cut off and came out well.

[The DJ blanked out due to pouring compliments]

[23 years of entertainment, a crushing defeat to the pink fairies who appeared for the first time]

It was mainly edited with a composition that caricatured the MC, but it still had a good impact.

[Are all rookies like this these days?]

[Scary… So scary!]

…I received CG with fluorescent wings and captions like this.

The members, who regained the sound after promising to 'not burst into laughter every time it appears', twitched their mouths and cleared their throats.

"Haha, hmm, you did a good job on the variety show."

"Excellent, great!"

"Hyung is a scary person. That's cool!"

"…Yeah, thank you."

Cha Eugene seemed to have creatively interpreted the caption's 'scary' as 'threateningly superior'.

Anyway, embarrassment aside, it was picked out well.

The reaction of the viewers who were checking in real time was also very good.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋWhy do you guys do thatㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– DJ Choi is deadㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– What the heck are you doing

– I can hear the staff laughingㅋㅋㅋ

– What's with the wingsㅋㅋㅋ I must be crazy, I laugh so hardㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Wow, that's a great spirit.

– I think they would have grilled Vtic alive.

Just in time, the two VTICs appeared on the screen and performed a great dance.

10 seconds later, they couldn't beat the compliments and crawled around.

"…Hmm."

It was kind of funny, too.

'Vtic fans will be satisfied as well.'

As I gave a generous evaluation, the doppelganger team match began with a twist.

[Since you have the same body, you should be punished together~ You're a doppelganger! That's why it's called <One heart two bodies>!]

It was fun, but in the first half of this game, there was nothing more to be salvaged with the best cut.

I just played the game hard, so naturally, I only got a few cuts and a bewildered reaction at Vtic's self-destruction.

"Why didn't you have the wings?"

"It's dangerous, so we left it out."

"Aha!"

With this cool conversation, this week's <Saturday Party> monitoring was over.

"You two did a great job in the variety show."

"I-It was fun…!"

It was a generous evaluation, but it was a little too early to hear it when next week's episode hadn't even come out yet.

"Aigoo, thank you! Please watch the show again next week~"

"Haha, okay."

Ryu Chungwoo replied with a smile to Keun Sejin's quip. He couldn't imagine what he was going to see next week.

The Internet response was only moderate, with the fans having an expectation for the next week's episode.

Even among general viewers, thanks to our intense appearance, the majority of favorable impressions were 'The two Testar are fun~'.

Hmm, that was fine. It would work better if they didn't expect too much.

I got up in front of the sofa stretching.

‘I’ll have to wait another week.’

As long as there were no major problems, it would go smoothly.

But after that, the situation that I had been fearing finally happened.

The public opinion of me began to falter.

* * *

While Park Moondae waited for the next episode of <Saturday Party>, the Internet became noisy again.

This was because, as predicted by Park Moondae, the case of the person who exposed Choi Wongil’s recording was not properly completed.

That person uploaded a post this time. It was a testimonial about Choi Wongil’s notoriety in Idol Inc along with a staff certification.

– Heol, it was a staff

– They said the conversation was cut off because they pressed the recording button in between, not making a recording.

– Choi Wongil is scary. Didn’t he threaten Moondae? ㅠ

– I guess I should skip that agency.

But it couldn’t even last for a few days.

The identity of the person who exposed the recording was exposed due to metadata that couldn’t be erased.

= = = =

: (screenshot) See the original address of the image in the corner here? The end part seems like an ID, so I googled it and everything came up ㅅㅂㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– They're a sick unemployed mythomaniac who looked down on people

Stealing staff ID cards, too.

(screenshot)

= =

And immediately, a notice of the company's progress on the complaint was posted.

It was widely believed that 'the person who exposed it had no acquaintance with Choi Wongil, and they accidentally listened to the conversation during their daily part-time job and recorded it'.

At the same time, Choi Wongil's agency posted clarifications anonymously in each community and began to inform the identity of the exposer as provocatively as possible.

[The person who spread Choi Wongil's rumors = Famous for looking down on other people]

[The one who exposed Choi Wongil's recording, more terrible than you can imagine]

After the work was completed, public opinion finally began to show sympathy for Choi Wongil.

– I feel sorry for Choi Wongil, I'm so disgusted;

– It's really scary. It's been a while since Idol Inc ended but the kids are still struggling because of the evil editing ㅠㅠ

– Listening to the recording now, number 1 is so sad… He must have gone through a lot.

Naturally, as the attention of public opinion shifted, the sympathy and high evaluation toward Park Moondae faded.

And there were people waiting for this moment.

＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝

[They're divided over Park Moondae and Choi Wongil]

: This is Idol Inc's behind-the-scenes video that was uploaded after the show ended (screenshot)

During the first team match, Park Moondae did the bridge that was originally Choi Wongil's part. Park Moondae glanced at Choi Wongil while saying that he would arrange this part alone.

By the way, he rearranged this part into a super high-pitched tone by himself and won the prize

(screenshot of Choi Wongil's flustered face)

'Park Moondae must be Choi Wongil's enemy' vs. 'It's just my speculation and reason'

What do you think?

＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝

– The bullshit starts again

– Why are you posting this now? To pick a fight?

Do I have to pick the right timing to post while looking at the fans?

– Where are the opinions divided ㅋㅋㅋㅋ You want to divide us

Most of the comments were mainly stopping the uploader from saying things that didn't even work, but there were also a lot of haters trying to ride the flow.

– Oh, Park Moondae is shadier than I thought…

– I thought everyone knew he was a fox pretending to be a bear ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– He's really good at building his image. Honestly, I think Choi Wongil's clarification this time was calculated as well.

Right, it feels shady

Did he grow up not being loved? He has that unique vibe…

– Park Moodae's fans said that it wasn't right for Choi Wongil to pick a fight… Honestly, everything was possible

I thought of this too ㅋㅋㅋ

– What kind of nonsense is this? Choi Wongil said he would do the chorus, so he changed it

Do you want to blame Choi Wongil again?

Of course, this article was deleted shortly after it was reported and refuted. However, the fans couldn't help but feel an unpleasant aftertaste.

Even after that, articles maliciously criticizing Park Moondae's past activities appeared out of nowhere in popular articles and then disappeared after a fight, repeatedly.

Their intended response was this.

[They made a fuss about Park Moondae's personality, but he's not like that at all. It's disgusting.]

Due to Park Moondae's quick response and Testar's star quality, such a headwind did not occur, but those few days were precarious.

The fans went through each day with tension.

It was at this timing that the second ＜Saturday Party＞ starring Park Moondae began to air.

'Please get only one thing.'

'Please, It's fine if it's boring as long as nothing happens.'

With those two thoughts intersecting, the second episode of ＜Saturday Party＞'s 'Different Hearts' began to air.

[Wow~ there's no end!]

[Why are you all so good??]

It was nice to see the idols and actors working hard at the game fiercely.

The image of Keun Sejin, who took care of the actor returning after receiving a penalty, was also gently highlighted, as he said, 'We have already become best friends'.

The strange feeling started from the next game.

[This game is~ 'Stay Still'! The one who is not shaken by any situation and stays still for a long time succeeds!]

It was a game in which the team who held out the longest with a mouth full of water won.

And Park Moondae survived alone at the table that had become a mess due to the water cannons.

[…]

[No, Moondae-ssi, you are sober, right?!]

[Is this possible?]

Even if the staff suddenly shouted and performed a sexy dance, even if a monkey jumped out of the DJ booth, and an elephant rider juggled fireworks right in front of them, there was no reaction.

Park Moondae's face, staring into the air without any agitation, was the tranquility itself.

Because the elephant was nothing compared to the crazy situations that Park Moondae had experienced so far.

'Elephants exist in the real world.'

It was the sorrow of a fantasy novel's protagonist who was threatened by a status window.

And this caption was attached to Park Moondae's head for the first time in a while.

[Ca-lm]

Even the Tibetan fox CG made an appearance later.

The energy was even more synchronized because his two cheeks were slightly enlarged by the water inside.

[※Unprecedented situation]

[Now the production crew… The production team said they had run out of everything they had prepared!]

[Wow!!]

[It's amazing!]

It was a complete victory.

Park Moondae swallowed the water and bowed to the people around him. And the joy was returned to the viewers.

– ㅅㅂㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– It's so funny

– Park Moondae is so consistent… Amazing.

– Nothing has changedㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– It's Tibetan fox's victory

– So cuteㅠㅠㅋㅋㅋ

But it didn't end there.

The MC started to move.

It was a great shot.

[Now, the person who gets the penalty this time is… Lee Sejin!]

[Yes??]

[Hey, that's not right!]

[There are 3 people who got eliminated before Sejin, you know?]

[The critical moment! If you're eliminated from that, the team's power will collapse. Oh~ Look here! Sejin-ssi burst into laughter, and then the other two laughed together following him~]

The MC drove the situation with plausible words and tried to elicit a flustered response from Ken Sejin.

However, Keun Sejin smiled broadly.

[Ah, that's great!]

[…!?]

[Sejin?]

[Is it fine to scribble on an idol's face?]

[The team's victory is more important than that!]

[?!]

Beyond the flustered captions, Keun Sejin stretched out his index finger at Park Moondae.

[Moondae!]

[…?]

[If you keep doing well, I will get a penalty no matter what!]

[…!!]

[Even if your team wins, you'll get a penalty! Think carefully!]

It was the madness to win.

[The spirit of sacrifice…?]

The captions were also flustered.

However, Park Moondae didn't get flustered.

[Great. I'll get the penalty.]

[!!!!]

[It's important for the team to win. I have to catch the doppelganger.]

[Guys, you guys are so immersed!!]

[You know this is a variety show, right?]

[Let's win and catch the fake.]

[Fakes don't matter! But you guys, this data will last forever?!]

[If we can't catch the fake here, our team has no future.]

[Oh my God.]

They couldn't communicate.

The two of them went out side by side and were doodled with cat whiskers and raccoons.

It was cute, but their eyes were burning.

[Real madness]

With burning captions, the next event took place.

[This round is… 'Song Encyclopedia'! What year is it now? 1988~ You have to guess the name after hearing the song that was released this year!]

Having predicted and prepared for this game based on the pattern, Keun Sejin began to convey the correct answers.

[Correct!]

[Yay!]

The moment when Keun Sejin's team's victory was assured.

This time, Park Moondae began to self-destruct.

[Ah… Moondae-ssi, wrong!]

[…What are you doing, hubae-nim…?]

[I'm going to get the penalty by getting the most wrong answers.]

[!!!!]

Over the startled subtitles, Park Moondae clenched his fists.

[The more Lee Sejin does well, the more he will get the taste of penalty.]

[Wait.]

[The rule isn't supposed to be used like this, guys!]

It was a catastrophe.

In the end, as the game progressed, the involved cast members completely accepted the method of punishing people by shooting themselves with self-destruction.

Viewers were turned upside down.

– ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋWhat's this?ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– I think I'm going to throw up from laughing so much

– Why did it turn crazy like this?

– I'm going crazy

– A catastrophe brought by an over immersed rookieㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

Although it was clearly a composition of self-sacrifice for the team's victory, thanks to being overly immersed in entertainment that had no reality, the strange situation was just funny.

[Hey, let's go.]

[Sigh.]

Even the established cast members were caught up in the atmosphere and sacrificed themselves. There was nothing funnier than the way they went to receive the penalty with a face that gave up everything.

And as a finishing touch, another incident occurred in the final game that decided the final match.

MallangDalkom Sohyun gave up the threat of self-destruction at the last minute.

[Sorry, Moondae-ssi! Youngrin unnie is afraid of heights! I don't think this is right!]

[!!!!]

The over-immersion ended up being betrayed like that.

Youngrin successfully raised the flag and gave her team a victory.

[So really… This is the party team!]

[Waaaaaa!!]

Park Moondae's dazed and forlorn expression was hilarious.

– He's burned white…

-ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅅㅂSo cute.

– No, don't get too immersed in this, you idiotㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Ah reallyㅋㅋㅋ so funnyㅋㅋㅋ

– It's so cuteㅋㅋㅋHe's a rookie so he got crazyㅋㅋㅋ

– He was so serious about the broadcast during Idol Inc and he's like that in here, too ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

And the clip that focused on Testar from this episode instantly became a popular video as soon as it was uploaded on WeTube.

[(Saturday Party) 'Hit his doppelganger hard!' Testar's over immersion collection.zip | Legendary <Two Bodies> | SBC]

The anti-fans who were trying hard to build the image 'Park Moondae is a shady person who uses his head and pretends not to be' were crushed to pieces by waves of 'Over-immersed four-dimensional Tibetan Fox Moondae'.

* * *

'It's done.'

I turned off my smartphone with a complicated sigh.

It was a bit… embarrassing, but satisfying.

'I've got the right atmosphere.'

Asking Vtic to make more fuss on purpose was definitely worth it.

Because it made Testar's behavior look even more unusual. It was the effect of the reactions.

And with such a funny image firmly attached, it was unlikely to get shaken by trivial things for a while.

Then, something suddenly came to mind.

'…I can proceed comfortably.'

I thought it would be okay to slowly proceed with what I had planned from the start of this activity.

So, it was necessary to do some preliminary work first.

“Let’s clean up the settlement amount first.”

It was finally time to take a look at last year’s achievements.

Chapter 140

I accessed the bank application that I had installed in advance.

'It should have been deposited by now.'

I heard yesterday that the settlement money would come in.

In fact, the contract was signed with a quarterly settlement, but last year, the company was in a mess, so it was temporarily suspended under the condition that the legal interest rate was attached.

So now, in April, last year's settlement and this first quarter's settlement were deposited at once.

If I was an ordinary office worker, I could sue the company for this gap but no one was in a hurry, and there was a lot of contract period left, so it passed without much fuss.

But no one hated money.

Thanks to this, I wasn't the only one looking into the settlement immediately as soon as the schedule was over on Monday, April 22.

"Gasp!"

I heard a choked sound from the bed next to me. It was Bae Sejin.

'It must be a lot of money.'

I thought so. Our grades were so good, and we even had a concert.

'Still, it doesn't feel real.'

I pushed the main account of the app and checked the new account.

And I doubted my eyes.

[Korea General Deposit]

[1,146,193,520 won]

'…1.1 billion?'

It was 1.1 billion?

An amount that couldn't be eached even if I smuggled organs was showing up on the screen.

"…"

I was at a loss for words.

Is it possible to earn this much after working for 9 months?

It was true that I rolled around without being able to sleep and under a lot of pressure. And in the long run, it was also the accumulated amount of difficulties since <Idol Inc.>.

But if you could get 1.1 billion won, it was a scary business that left too much.

'Even so, 1.1 billion… It's beyond my imagination.'

I thought I should check the balance sheet. I checked the mail that was opened for company reception.

Perhaps the address was leaked somehow, strange e-mails were piled up like bombs, but after roughly filtering them, I was able to find the settlement e-mail.

I scanned it quickly.

"…Phew."

It was 1.1 billion, alright.

And I knew the cause.

‘There’s no trainee cost.’

This meant the company hadn’t set the pre-investment costs. Thanks to this, the net income was settled as soon as the profit was generated.

Albums, events, advertisements, music sources, concerts…

In addition, the copyright fee was quite high due to our active participation in the production.

‘Kim Raebin should have gotten more.’

Just then, screams were heard from the next room. It seemed Kim Raebin was on the phone.

Maybe he was surprised and called his family.

‘What a mess.’

It was normal to make a fuss with this amount of money. It still didn’t feel like my money.

“H-Have you seen it?”

Bae Sejin spoke with a red face. He must be talking about the settlement money.

“…Yes, just now.”

“With this much money, I can buy a house in Seoul, right? I-If I take out a loan…”

It depended on what kind of house it was.

However, Bae Sejin seemed excited as the initial achievement of his plan to get a secure home was fast approaching.

But the calculation was wrong.

“That’s the amount before taxes.”

“Huh,… Huh?”

“The tax rate will be high because it’s a huge amount of money, so don’t think about spending it all, and be sure to consult with a tax attorney before filing your comprehensive income tax return in May.”

“…R-Right.”

Bae Sejin affirmed blankly, then sat back down on his bed.

It seemed he had returned to reality.

And I also came to my senses while advising Bae Sejin.

“I thought you would be familiar with settlement money.”

“It’s my first time receiving this much…”

Bae Sejin shoved his face into the hamster body pillow.

That, you have been putting it to good use before.

“W-What’s wrong…?”

Even Seon Ahyeon, who was washing up, heard the noises and poked his head out of the bathroom.

“Checking the settlement.”

“A-Aha.

Seon Ahyeon smiled as if he was relieved. He didn't seem to be very curious about how much it was.

"Did your parents have been taking care of you?"

"Y-Yes! I-I get allowance…"

Considering that he gave a department store gift certificate as a birthday present last time, that allowance was probably quite a lot.

'Come to think of it, I haven't even used that gift card yet.'

As soon as the awards season ended, I prepared a concert and a new album, and immediately forgot about it because we started our activity right away.

'It just so happens that tomorrow morning… hm, I don't have a schedule.'

It was the only time I had free time during the day for the next two weeks, including weekends.

Let's double-check first.

"We don't have a schedule tomorrow afternoon, right?"

"Y-Yeah! That's right, why do you ask…?"

"I'm going to go out for a bit."

"…Shopping? Are you going to the bank?"

Bae Sejin interrupted. I left as soon as I received the payment, so I thought he would have guessed that.

I nodded.

"Yes, shopping."

"…Then would you like to go out together? I have to go to the bank too."

"Um… that's a bit."

"What?"

I rubbed the back of my neck.

"I'm thinking of going to dessert shops."

"…?"

"One… Seven, about that much."

"…??"

* * *

So the next day, Tuesday. I got to roam the city of Seoul leisurely by myself.

…Or so I thought.

"M-Moondae. Is it the blue sign over there?"

"I think you can get us off at the first alley on the right, driver."

I found two tails sticking to me.

Seon Ahyeon and Kim Raebin were delighted and followed me.

– I-I wanted to go out too…!

– Dessert? It's my sister's birthday next week and it sounds like a really great opportunity to choose one of the presents.

…Well, they said that.

For your information, Bae Sejin came and was dropped off at the bank. It saved the taxi rental cost, so it was helpful

'Now, I don't have to worry about the taxi fare anymore.'

It was a bit strange because it had been so long since I hadn't had to worry about money in my life.

And soon after, the taxi driver stopped the car at the first destination.

"Okay, we've arrived~"

"Thank you."

As I got out of the car, the two people, who were shining brightly in the back seat, quickly followed.

"D-Doesn't it look delicious?"

"I have high expectations."

It didn't seem like a common picture for three men wearing masks and hats to enter a professional dessert shop… Well, here we go.

'There aren't many people on the road.'

Probably because it was 9:30 on weekdays.

The two members and I entered the newly opened store as the first customers.

"Hello… Gasp."

"Hello."

And as soon as our eyes met, they saw through us. I'd felt it before, but now masks were really useless.

“Uhh, uh… Gasp, wow… I’m listening to the song so well, uh.”

“Thank you. Please wrap one for each type of dacquoise.”

“Y-Yes?”

“Please wrap all of them, one for each flavor.”

“A-Ah, yes!”

I’m sorry, I don’t have much time.

I exchanged handshakes and autographs for the packed dacquoise.

“Uh, oh my God.”

…But I’m glad you seem to enjoy it.

And I looked back at the two people who were standing in a daze.

“Aren’t you going to choose?”

“Ah!”

The other two also chose dacquoise and gave a handshake.

I went straight to the checkout counter.

“Please pay this together.”

“Ah, yes!”

Both of them freaked out.

“I-It’s fine!”

“If you sort it by the settlement amount, it’s only right for me to pay… No, I’m not trying to be condescending, I mean, it’s fine…”

I laughed.

“It’s okay. I am the one who asked to go out.”

“Hyung…”

“M-Moondae……”

If I had brought Cha Eugene or Keun Sejin, they would have shamelessly accepted it, but these two were sitting there impressed.

The two smiled as they were handed the packed dacquoise.

“I-I’ll eat this well!”

“Thank you.”

And as soon as he came out of the store, Kim Raebin realized something.

“Ah, I have to buy noona a birthday present.”

“I think it’s okay to choose it slowly. Because there are a lot of stores left.”

“Yes?”

The two of them blinked.

“That, d-didn’t you brought it here, b-because you already chose?”

“I thought you looked for a lot of candidates in case you didn’t like it…”

“Nope.”

I shook my head.

“I’m going to buy in all seven places.”

“…!!”

And I really did.

So, by noon, both of them were sitting in the cab moving limply.

I organized the boxes and put them under my feet.

All seven. All were purchased successfully. I had already tasted each one.

There was an unexpected event of hugging someone who came running and waving the album in the midst of it, but it went smoothly.

‘The last one was a bit close.’

The person who met my eyes at the cash register screamed loudly, so as soon as I received the macaron, I just said farewell and ran away like a thief.

“I-It’s over…?”

“Yeah. It’s over.”

“Phew…”

Seon Ahyeon melted down. He must be tired from meeting a lot of people.

I had told him to just go to the dorm in the mids of all that, but I didn’t know why the guy who didn’t eat sweets because he was taking care of himself kept following me.

‘Is it because of a sense of alienation?’

Due to Seon Ahyeon’s personality, he probably hated going alone after going around in a group.

Anyway, tagging along during the break… regardless of the efficiency, it was something I was thankful for.

“Are we going home now?”

“Yeah, let’s go.”

I took a taxi back to the dorm.

And instead of going up together to the dorm, I only left dessert.

“Tell the people in the dorm to share.”

“H-Huh?”

“I just remember something to do”

I sent the two guys home and got into a road taxi.

And I took a picture of the navigation again.

“Department store?”

“Yes.”

After finishing my business, I returned home about an hour later.

Ring-

When I opened the front door and went in, I met Cha Eugene’s eyes in the living room, eating dacquoise.

“…”

“Delicious! Thank you!”

“Well… Yes.”

He didn’t easily gain weight and liked sweets, so he could be considered the right person for this.

“Which one’s the best?”

“This one.”

It was strawberry macaron. I remembered the store name on the wrapper.

“Thank you for the sweets, Moondae.”

“It’s not a big deal.”

“You didn’t buy us a smoke screen because you have a girlfriend, right Moondae? I trust you~”

“Are you crazy?”

After greeting Ryu Chungwoo, I hit the back of the giggling Keun Sejin and went back to my room.

Behind Bae Sejin, who was reading a book in bed, I could see Seon Ahyeon scooping sponges at the desk.

“M-Moondae. You’ve finished your business?”

“Yes. And this.”

“Y-Yes?”

I held out what I had in my hand.

“It’s a little early, but… It’s a birthday present.”

“H-Huh!?”

Seon Ahyeon freaked out. Bae Sejin raised his upper body.

“It’s Seon Ahyeon’s birthday…?!”

“I-It’s not, though…?!”

Two of them being flustered next to each other looked almost like a skit.

“It’s in two weeks, but I don’t have time to go out until then, so I’m giving it now.”

“Ah…”

Bae Sejin was relieved and lay back.

Seon Ahyeon nodded vigorously.

“I-I see, thank you…!”

“Don’t mention it.”

…Let’s not tell him that I used the department store gift certificate he gave me to buy that gift.

“C-Can I open it?”

“Of course.”

Seon Ahyeon opened the package right away.

At the revealed coat, he stiffened.

“…! I-It’s too expensive…”

“No, it’s not.”

The guy who gave me the gift certificate said all sorts of things.

I put another shopping bag I bought at the department store under the bed. The size of the shopping bag was big, so it took some time.

'…I think I picked well.'

I should have taken Seon Ahyeon with me, I regretted it briefly, but I had already bought it so it couldn't be helped.

Bae Sejin glanced.

"What's that?"

"A present."

* * *

And on that Sunday, at the broadcasting station in the early morning where the last pre-recording of Testar's music show was taking place.

Testar's fans who arrived at the scene were given a large box one by one.

[Testar is singing]

[Midnight and Loviewer ♡]

"…??"

Chapter 141

The box was distributed when the fans left the pre-recording of the music show.

This allowed people to open the box on their way home.

The light purple box that had Testar's logo sticker on it seemed to be openly shouting.

'A return gift[1]I used the word 'return gift' but the Korean word's literal meaning is 'gifts that celebrities give to fans' for you!'

Naturally, the fans quickly noticed the situation.

'So that's why I didn't get a photocard when I entered…!'

Maybe this box also contained the photocards given to those who participated in the pre-recording.

Fans who had already received cream bread, coffee, and simple snacks opened the box with joy.

'It would be nice if there's dakgangjeong[2]sweet crispy Korean fried chicken inside.'

'Heavy… Is it a drink this time?'

However, what they saw in the box were 28 large macarons that were splendidly packed.

"…!!"

"Oh, my."

Seeing four rows of seven macarons placed side by side had a powerful impact.

People freaked out on the subway, bus, or in cars.

Of course, there were many people who never bothered to buy 28 macarons at once in their lives.

'There were 300 of us, but 28 for each person…?'

'What's going on?'

Some fans wondered whether there was any mistake in the quantity.

It wasn't just a ready-made product, either.

When they picked up the macaron, the icing was in the shape of an animal's feet.

'Crazy, there's a bird's claws too!'

'Is this particularly small one a hamster? Is it?'

One of them even had the shape of a deer's hoof.

Fans tried to put down the box gently while stomping their feet, beating their bed sheets, and unable to control the corners of their mouths,

'Let's take a proof shot and leave it alone.'

'I'm going to freeze it forever.'

But that wasn't the end. There was something stuck inside the box cover.

It was one more small box.

‘No way.’

‘Another one?’

The fans tore the box off and turned it over.

Then its identity was revealed.

It was a well-packed luxury brand perfume.

It was not a sample size, but the original 50ml product.

‘Heol.’

‘Wait a minute.’

‘What kind of box is this? Did they give this to all of us?’

Beyond joy, some people began to feel confused.

Meanwhile, something came out again.

Thud.

The envelope that was stuck between the boxes fell off.

The envelope… It was quite thick.

At this point, some fans were starting to get scared.

‘What else is there?’

‘How far did they go??’

When they opened the envelope while swallowing their saliva, they found a letter that looked like a copy of a handwritten note.

= = = =

[To our dear Loviewer ♡]

: Thank you for coming to cheer us at today's last music show recording.

Actually, we got our settlement this time!

Thinking about what to give you, we prepared hard to give you a present that could commemorate this activity.

We were in a hurry to give it to you before the activity ended… Even if there's something lacking, we would appreciate it if you can look at it favorably ㅠㅠ♡

Ps. We each chose our favorite scent. One of those seven was given to you randomly!

= = = =

* * *

– Crazy, Testar gave 28 macarons, a bottle of perfume, and photos Aaaah ugh, oh my gosh, guys, how can a group who hasn't even passed one-year anniversary give return gifts like this? Uaaah (photo)

"What?"

Park Moondae's homma tumbled off the sofa.

She couldn't accept the reality that a big event had taken place in the last music show she couldn't go to because she got food poisoning and was taken to the emergency room at night.

The timeline she checked with trembling hands… was plastered with the box's proof shots.

*'F*ck!'*

The homma banged her head on the sofa.

Of course, it wasn't because she thought it was such a waste that she didn't get free macarons and perfume.

She could see the evidence of her idol's love for fans, but the fact that she didn't receive it…!

It was so unfair…!

'I could have gone!'

It was so unfair that this happened on the day she missed it, she felt like she was going crazy!

And she wasn't the only one who felt like that.

– F*ck. My stomach is going to tear apart. I also want to eat the strawberry macarons that my kids gave me ㅠㅠ

– Did they give it because it was the last music show… I got my register cut right in front of me, but it's so frustrating

– If you were going to get four sets, it was nice to share them in the last music show, but of course, the kids would like it too… Can I have the macaron with the hamster's paw… ㅠㅠ

Because it was obvious that they cared so much, the atmosphere began to flow beyond envy to a slight sense of deprivation.

And this return gift had become quite a hot topic in the general entertainment community.

There were many people who were interested in it because it looked expensive.

= =

[Popular Music Testar's return gift that looks expensive.jpg]

: (photo) (photo)

4 rows of macarons and brand perfume.

It is presumed to be handmade considering the signatures of the members on the macarons. The perfume is not just a collection, but a mixture of several scents from the same brand.

= =

At first, most of the responses were saying that they envied the fans and that Testar was amazing, but soon people who wanted to analyze the situation appeared.

– This is a company pick, the style of the return gift suddenly changed… Considering the brand, it seems to be a commercial

– Heol, It was weird at first glance because the format was excessive ㅋㅋㅋ

– In the first place, there are many things that the return gift company does or pays half in the settlement, but it's too much, it feels strange ㅋㅋㅋ they should have reduced it

– The price range isn't something that a second-year idol can prepare ㅎㅎ still, it must have been nice for the fans, I am envious ㅠ I also want macarons and perfume for free ㅠ

– Are they shooting a perfume commercial? Idol perfume commercial is rare. Amazing.

Whether it was malicious or not, it was a series of misunderstandings.

However, before public opinion fell into a mess, letters confirming the return gifts were posted one after another.

– Our kids… I think they were excited that they got their first payment for the first time… (Photo of the letter)

From the mention of the settlement to the fact that they picked out and bought the perfume.

The letter was basically an affirmation that Testar had prepared the return gifts themselves.

Public opinion in the general community was sorted out along that line.

– These crazy people said they paid for it and bought it themselves.

– What is this? The mind-readers got it all wrong ㅋㅋ ugh

– It's not an advertisement, it looks like a cash head-butt, really ㅋㅋㅋㅋ I envy their wealth

– Is it hard to sign up for Testar's broadcast? I wonder what they will give for the next activity, so if they give something more expensive, I want to go too ㅋㅋㅋ

Me, too ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

Seriously?;; You went too far

– They must have received a lot of money, so they spent it like this

Wouldn't it be rather strange if they sold albums like that and couldn't get this much? ㅋㅋㅋ

Who asked?

Why are you angry ㅠ Look at Testar's initial Chodong and release your anger♡ It's 830,000 (screenshot)

Some aggro was successfully repelled, and Testar left a decent impression with a heartwarming return gift.

But the fans didn't end there.

The people who connected the sightings of the members a few days ago finally appeared.

– Crazy, did you go on a dessert tour on Tuesday to choose this, guys? ㅠㅠㅠ

Heol

Heol, I think it's right?

It's a speculation, but let's refrain from talking like it's an established fact…

Check out the macaron photo. First of all, 'Xgnet Sweet' on the wrapper is one of the stores where AMoonRae's sightings appeared on Tuesday… (Photo of the circled logo)

Uaah

– That store tour… It's not a break from the activity period… It's a preparation for the return gift?

Fans were rather shocked because the story was overly touching.

– Let's not overinterpret it too much or haters might come to curse on this

– It's so cute and heartwarming that they gave the fans something delicious just because they got paid ㅠㅠ

However, a review post appeared on the SNS account of the store that made the macarons.

– Xgnet Sweet review has come out… (link)

– The kids were going to do it in time with the last week's music show… They wanted to put everything in, but they couldn't because it was already fully booked ㅠㅠ (Insta screenshot)

– And they kept saying that this place was really good, so the owner was really proud…

It was a confirmed kill.

In a tremendous situation where everything turned out to be true, fans were completely touched and emotional and they began to fill up the posts with crying emoticons…

– They must have prepared in a hurry as soon as they received the payment. My heart is beating so fast that it's going to explode ㄷㅏ…

– Even if I get offers from another fan club, I won't let you go. There's really only one genius idol Testar ㅠ

– They got paid for the first time… An idol that bought a lot of expensive food and packed a lot of things that fans like… I'll be with you forever.

– Alright. Now that you know the macaron store, you can order it and eat it. Guys, the taste of the return gift is thrilling.

The fans were deprived, rambling, and full of energy.

And they began to enjoy it by posting fierce reasoning posts about whose perfume was which member's taste.

In addition, Testar even released most of the photos that were on the return gift at this timing on SNS.

– Testar is a real legend…

– I ordered macarons and bought the perfume. Now, if I just print the photos, I will receive the return gift

It was a fun return gift time.

* * *

I pushed the screen with my thumb.

"Hmm."

The photos were uploaded fine.

It was the result of moving with a similar behavior principle to the first fan signing event.

'If there are more people who are upset, it's worse than not doing it.'

It was right for information and content to go back to everyone.

After checking the post once, I continued to monitor the reaction in the music show's waiting room.

'…The atmosphere is nice.'

Spending all day preparing was worthwhile.

It would be a waste of money if you spent so much and the recipient of the gifts didn't like it.

Fortunately, it seemed the money was spent properly.

'It was a good choice to put the perfume randomly in one out of seven.'

Thanks to this, there were only three eyewitness accounts, but it didn't feel awkward to put the gift under Testar's name.

'After all, I have to start as a group, not as an individual, so that there's no room for trouble.'

It didn't really matter if I was the one who paid.

'In the first place, I have nowhere to spend my money for.'

I didn't have any family or acquaintances.

I didn't need living expenses or a house right away, and the settlement money was so high that it was funny to say anything like this.

So from the beginning, I was going to pay it all and put it under the group's name. The company wanted that too.

However, a variable occurred.

As soon as he heard it, Ryu Chungwoo objected.

– Moondae, you can't do that.

– Yes?

– You picked it out and bought it during your break time. Then it should be gifts from Moondae.

– No. I don't mind anyway. The items were chosen by the members together.

– Moondae, even if you're fine with it, the fans won't.

-…!

– It's a lie for someone who didn't pay for anything to put their name on the gift. How sad would the fans be if they knew the truth?

–…

– Even if the fans don't know, we're not fine with it. Right?

– Yes!

– T-That's right!

– Hey, hyung-nim, you're really good at talking…

Ryu Chungwoo firmly made a decision.

– At least we should share the cost.

So, with the members' enthusiastic support, everything was blown away.

I appreciated it, but… I wondered if this was necessary.

'It's not that I'm worried about the aftermath if my words leak, but it's that 'It doesn't work because it's not possible'…'

Well, come to think of it, when talking about my personality, I saw an aggro that seemed to be saying what it felt like to be unloved.

'It was meant to be an insult to my family.'

But apart from that, 'well-raised' could be referring to a guy like Ryu Chungwoo.

'He doesn't wrinkle easily.'

The type that had good resilience and didn't fall into other side roads.

Just in time, the person concerned spoke to me.

"Are you looking at the response to the gift?"

"Yes."

"I saw it, too, and the fans liked it. Actually, I feel bad because you did everything… Thank you."

"Well… I only paid the money."

"You did all the preparation by yourself, what are you talking about!"

Ryu Chungwoo lightly tapped my shoulder playfully.

"But let's prepare it together next time. You don't have to handle everything by yourself. You work as a team, so you have to use your teammates."

"…Right."

It was a topic that I would have thought about if all the team members were not 6 years younger than me.

Ryu Chungwoo smiled and hit my back once.

I rubbed the back of my neck.

'Well… They're cooperative.'

In the end, more than sharing the cost, this fan gift was also carried out together at the last minute.

So the picture was better. We each chose our own perfume, and we discussed the macaron plan together.

I couldn't deny that the result of collaborating with the guys sitting there and getting their makeup fixed was pretty good…

"As expected, there is also a lack of clues as to which members prefer which scent. I think it would be better to leave hints on SNS…"

"I want more macarons."

"Is your desire for macarons more important than this agenda?"

"Hn."

"I-If you order on the way back…"

"Let's stop giving in to Eugene~ The kid will start rolling around."

"No! I'm cool!"

Big words from someone who had a brush on his face.

For a moment, I felt like an idiot.

…Actually, I'd handled all the other gifts by myself.

…Yes, there were 'other gifts'.

While I was buying Seon Ahyeon's birthday present at the department store, I also lightly packed presents for the company staff.

'If you feed them one by one, they'll pay more attention when something happens.'

It wasn't difficult, but it was good to do it in advance.

Of course, it wasn't anything great. I just bought stuff that they could use in the office… It was expensive indoor luxury slippers.

But it would be better than getting eaten.

‘It’s the only time I can feed these people.’

I wasn’t going to do it continuously, it was a handshake.

It would be better if it was something that could be used continuously in a working environment… Then the effect would last a little longer.

‘It was a good expense in the right place.’

I recalled the remaining amount in my account.

Then… I also remembered my last money withdrawal.

‘…I also made some donations.’

It was put anonymously into the Child Welfare Foundation.

…Since I used the parents’ insurance money that ‘Park Moondae’ received, I thought I should do that much.

That was the end of this settlement spending.

‘Life is a mystery.’

I put my smartphone down, rubbing the back of my neck.

Right on time, I heard the signal.

“Guys, go on standby!”

The live broadcast of this activity’s last music show was waiting.

“Testar is going up!”

“Yes~”

The stage was pretty fun as always.

…And I didn't know about other situations, but it was quite reassuring to have these young guys up here.

'…A good team.'

What Ryu Chungwoo said lingered in my head.

I brushed off my unnecessary feelings and came downstairs.

And right when I was about to think of my next schedule, I made eye contact with the manager who came running from the other side.

'What?'

The manager raised his hands and shouted.

"Guys! You guys are on the Billboard chart!"

"…??"

"…?"

"Yes?"

What kind of nonsense are you talking about when we don't even get good grades?

- 1. I used the word 'return gift' but the Korean word's literal meaning is 'gifts that celebrities give to fans'
- 2. sweet crispy Korean fried chicken

Chapter 142

Although Testar was doing well in Korea, it was only within Korea.

Just looking at the number of views on WeTube right now, it was also lagging behind the groups that were in the top 50 on the music chart.

This meant that compared to other large agency groups, we were relatively less recognized overseas.

'But all of sudden, we're on Billboard.'

On the world album chart?

I thought it was realistic.

But it wasn't.

"Alternative Digital Song Sales Chart… is it?"

"Yes!"

I'd never heard of it before.

Everyone reflexively looked at Cha Eugene, who was a native.

Hmm, he also had an expression of hearing it for the first time.

"Oops! Wait."

The manager, who was supposed to explain, got a call from the company and ran out again.

'How chaotic.'

As we headed back to the waiting room, we asked Cha Eugene a question.

“The chart mentioned before, do you know about it?”

“Alternative Songs Chart… I don’t.”

Except for Kim Raebin, everyone looked unsure.

“That… Alternate… What kind of chart is it…?

“There’s only Alternative Rock. I like that one!”

“Ah.”

It must be a kind of rock genre. The chart seemed to be referred by the genre.

‘So the digital sales attached at the end… Does it mean that it is a chart that purely measures the music sales?’

As soon as I found my smartphone in the waiting room, I checked what kind of chart it was.

…It was a sub-genre, sub-minor detailed chart that only showed up to 25th place.

‘It’s for paid members, too.’

Kim Raebin muttered next to me with a vague face.

“There is no alternative rock in the title track…”

I first checked the previous chart using the saved page of the last search engine.

“Oh, how about this?”

Keun Sejin stepped in and swiped the screen down.

“Hey.”

“Haha! You can tell just by looking at the album here…?”

As a result of skimming down, Testar’s album cover… It wasn’t there.

“…?”

Hey.

“This!”

At that moment, Cha Eugene’s hand intruded on my smartphone screen. Then he moved it around and picked up a song.

[＜127 Section＞ Bonus book / TeSTAR]

“…!!”

“Heol.”

“Our game song!”

Right.

The song of ＜127 Section＞, the game without dreams and hopes that we collaborated with when releasing our second album, had entered the charts.

I was automatically reminded of when I had to dress up as colleague characters who were massacred in Chapter 1.

“But it’s not our album, though?”.

As Keun Sejin said, the album cover was different.

I immediately found the song on Spatify.

'…It's a game OST album.'

The situation was cleared up only after we heard the news on the way to the car from the manager who had returned.

"Global launch of the game?"

"Yeah! But it must have gone very well. They said it was a mess!"

<127 Section> had a global launch this time, mainly in the UK and US, and it was a hit.

The manager chuckled.

"So they released an OST album, and your song is on the charts there! Hey, isn't it because the song is good?"

"Right?"

"T-That's great…!"

The members who roughly grasped the situation laughed and relaxed.

Because it was good news.

'That's why the news came on Sunday out of the blue.'

The Billboard chart would have been updated on Wednesday.

Technically, it was the result of the game's performance, not Testar's.

Whether it was the agency or the fans, it wasn't a big and urgent matter, so it must have taken a few days for the news to reach the manager.

'Must be nice for T1.'

They made a big hit with the small game company they acquired. Of course, the capital would have been mercilessly poured in.

Anyway, it was good for us that the OST did well. It was a song that was connected to the album a lot.

'Other than the verses, everything was in English, is that why it worked?'

It didn't show any signs of appearing on the main chart and only appeared in the lower ranks of the minor chart, but it was still good news.

I shrugged my shoulders and put on my neck pillow, and suddenly I felt strange.

'Somehow, the game OST made it to the chart…?'

I thought it was possible because it was a minor chart, but it wasn't even a movie OST, is it possible to do this with a game OST? Of a mobile game that just launched?

In addition, I wasn't even sure what criteria it had that made it classified as an alternative rock. I thought it was just K-pop that borrowed only rock elements.

'It's a bit strange.'

I needed to check what the heck happened.

I went around game communities on my smartphone for the first time in a long time.

And I figured it out.

'Testar comeback trailer was used as the game advertisement again.'

<127 Section> seemed to have carried out advertisements on WeTube or billboards overseas in line with the global launch, and it seemed our trailer video was actively used here.

‘The quality was so good.’

It was like a cinematic trailer.

The country would have recycled it, too.

Anyway, it seemed the British and American foreigners who saw the advertisement thought that Testar in the trailer was just commercial actors playing characters in the game.

‘Because we didn’t dance, we didn’t sing, we just acted.’

If you were a game enthusiast who was not interested in K-pop, it was understandable you would think like that.

We were not as well-known overseas as VTIC.

Anyway, since the response to the trailer commercial was good… the game company took a step further.

In the global version of the game, a part of the trailer was even inserted on the screen waiting for additional data to be downloaded within the app.

Thanks to this, overseas users seemed to have naturally tasted the spiciness of the experience of ‘those who seem to be important are somehow being massacred as soon as chapter 1 is over’.

And it was said that it was a trend among game streamers to upload videos of being shocked after playing Chapter 1.

I searched for it and found videos with hundreds or even millions of views.

[Never play 127 Section… NEVER!]

[MY FIRST TIME PLAYING 127 SECTION. (I hate it)]

The thumbnails were foreigners with headsets on, crying, shouting, or popping out their eyes.

'It's really a mess.'

Anyway, based on its popularity, <127 Section> had received great reviews for its story performance and UI, and was doing quite well in the UK and US… That was the summary.

'I thought with that kind of game UI and visuals, it would be like that.'

It seemed to be compared to some famous indie games that were recognized for their workmanship and worldview. The topic of GOTY[1]I looked it up and GOTY is apparently an acronym of the Game of the Year was already mentioned.

However, unlike the booming global market, the domestic game community was in a mess with this.

Once you searched on an anonymous site…

"…Hmm."

This… wasn't going to work. It was so bad that Seon Ahyeon or Bae Sejin would faint if they saw it.

'It's a bit creepy.'

So I looked for a community that was less energetic but very mild.

There were traces of controversy in some posts on the bulletin board with suggestions to the production team.

= = = =

But when the game keeps reminding you of the real celebrities, it's a different case. I hope it doesn't happen anymore.

I thought it would be okay because all the collab characters died in the first chapter, but there is a significant nuance that they would come back again.

Recently, the image of idols has been erased, so I tried to only see them as characters in games, but the idols appeared again in global advertisements.

It's fine if you don't know the idol well, but that's not the case with us.

I'm worried that they're going to do another stupid thing again after seeing the success of the global version.

Please, end it with the launching advertisement.

(I feel sorry for the idols.)

= =

– That's right, I hope they enjoy it in the beginning and don't bring it back when it's over

– I thought it was because they had to promote it at the launch, but I'm a bit worried now. The domestic update period is getting longer… Abandoned Factory, can't you keep it together?

– First of all, this isn't some kind of otaku game. When T-One took over, they made a lot of efforts to grow

Male idols attract otaku, though…?

It was meant to be a female-oriented otaku game

Are you crazy? I hate it too

– I like it ㅠㅠ Wasn't the trailer cool?

– I like the trailer, too. Testar is fine, but they seem to be overreacting… There's no talk about a new collaboration.

You have to act like this from now on so that they notice and won't let it happen. Let's get the mood

– What's this, why do yous switch up? Weren't they originally Godstar

It's been a month since it ended, when did we talk about it? ㅋㅋ

There were a lot of idol fans back then ㅎㅎ

This sounds a bit malicious. At that time, it was just launching and everyone was so excited. The idols also promoted a lot of things through collaboration.

– I think it's good that the global launch was advertised using that video, but it's disgusting because the fanart shows the idols. It's bearable. Just don't do it again.

"Mmm."

After looking at a few more articles and the flow of popular articles, I understood roughly.

'It cooled down.'

To put it bluntly, the interest was gone.

At first, capital and awareness were invested into the new game of a game company that might go bankrupt, so they showed favorability. Because it urgently needed to be a hit.

'They must have been heated up because the results were really good.'

Besides, the shock from having the initial colleagues killed must have made them more excited.

Since there were many Testar's fans that had flown in through Testar's promotion, the atmosphere must have proceeded like that to some extent.

But the characters were already dead and left. Naturally, Testar's fans didn't feel the incentive to continue, so they must have dropped it in no time.

In this way, the story of the massacre of the initial colleagues became public, and the proportion of people who flowed into the 'exciting mobile game' increased, and the normal flow was set again.

'That's why they're not interested in the idols.'

It meant they didn't want to have interesting and disparate guys in their favorite game content.

In addition, since the reaction to the initial colleagues at the game company was so intense, it seemed they continued to sprinkle content about the initial colleagues even in the updated content.

However, with Testar's advertisement appearing in this global version as well, it was understandable that they would be worried about having another collaboration.

'Then there's only one way.'

Do not get tied up with them. I turned off my smartphone and sorted it all out.

Because I saw the group's name on the billboard out of the blue, let's end it with something fun.

And sure enough, it wasn't long before a subtle inquiry came in from the company.

"Guys, by any chance, about the game collaboration…"

"No, I don't think so."

“We have to prepare for the next album～”

“…?? Guys?”

The manager was taken aback by the neat refusal.

‘I knew this would happen, so I gathered the kids together and briefed them.’

– T-The collaboration was fun…

– Haha, so you want to leave after the applause～

Some of them were a little disappointed, but everyone agreed anyway. Also, the fact that doing it would only make them tired seemed to have struck a chord in their hearts.

From ＜Idol Inc.＞ to the controversy over the Rookie of the Year award, it was tiring to become a controversial topic on the Internet.

So, for the first time since the group’s decision, a project refusal occurred.

‘Have I been too obedient?’

The company tried to persuade us a few times, but the group’s right to speak had become stronger due to Testar’s recent performance, so it was safely dispelled.

And one day while preparing for the new album and the festival schedule in May.

This time a different topic came out.

“Perform in America?”

“Yes! And it’s a popular program these days! It’s a little small and mainly on WeTube, but the viewer base is also certain…”

The company employee talked excitedly, then he slightly cleared his throat.

'…Are you trying to read the room?'

I had a bad feeling.

"But… Um, they want you to sing the game collaboration song?"

Ah, as expected.

- 1. I looked it up and GOTY is apparently an acronym of the Game of the Year

Chapter 143

For now, I asked the company staff to give us some time to talk amongst ourselves.

And the discussion began.

“What do you think?”

“I want to go to America!”

“Alright. I take it Eugene is in favor of it and the hyungs will discuss it more.”

“Yeah!”

When Cha Eugene was about to be excluded from the discussion with Ryu Chungwoo’s gentle words, Keun Sejin intervened.

“Wait a minute~ Eugene, have you heard of this show?”

“＜Nerdy Andy Show＞? No!”

This was the name of the show that we were requested to appear on. ＜Nerdy Andy Show＞. And it seemed Cha Eugene really didn’t know this name.

“M-Maybe Eugene doesn’t know much about it because it’s new…?”

“That’s right. He said it’s on the rise right?”

The members talked amongst each other. I took out my smartphone.

“Moondaemoondae, are you going to look it up?”

“Hn.”

“Oh~ Let’s see.”

Anyone who saw this would think he was a guy who didn’t carry a smartphone in his pocket.

Anyway, perhaps they were lazy to search, I proceeded with the members sneakily looking at my smartphone screen.

As a result of a simple search using a translation program, the identity of the show was revealed.

“Oh, it’s their page.”

Of course, it wasn’t a famous American ground wave talk show.

But is it a small program that is completely marginalized? It’s not that either.

“Oh, that’s amazing.”

“It feels very distinctive.”

It was a pleasant broadcast in the form of a parody of a famous talk show.

And the content was… It was the subculture, so to speak.

It seemed to focus on games, comics, and superhero movies, but like the company staff said, the number of views on YouTube was quite high.

“Eugene, would you like to see this? Is it fun?”

“What is it?”

Cha Eugene poked his head into my smartphone screen where a talk show clip was playing.

Then, after looking at the screen for a moment, he snorted.

"…?"

Did this guy catch a problem?

"W-Wouldn't it be fun…?"

"I don't know. I don't watch things like this. So nerdy."

"H-Huh?"

…It just didn't suit his taste.

Cha Eugene pouted.

Keun Sejin asked with a mischievous face.

"But you have to show up there if you want to go to America~ You have to come out and sing the game song!"

"It's fine to show up there. I don't watch it."

It was a very professional attitude.

'The question is, are we going to show up there?'

Looking at it, it was somewhat popular and it looked like a good program.

But I didn't know if I wanted this to be our first stage in the US.

'I don't want to get involved with the game anymore.'

In the long run, the risks were significant.

Because Testar was a K-pop group and would make a K-pop album.

But even if we went there and did well, we could only come out with the image of the game character's avatar.

Then, when we went abroad with a real Testar album later, there would be a huge gap from the first impression.

There was a good chance that it would come back as ridicule or betrayal.

'If you don't have much intention to enter the UK and US zone, it's a good choice for media play… '

It was an American program anyway, so it wouldn't be bad for an article.

'It will help to remove the domestic-use image.'

It was a smoke screen saying, 'We are also great at going global'.

In this case, I shouldn't be too concerned with public opinion from the game community.

Even if people said that we were using the game for media play, it would quickly subside as long as we didn't make new collaborations.

But the members didn't seem to think this way.

They just took it as a career opportunity.

"Shall we? It's a rare opportunity."

"…It doesn't matter to me."

"I also think it's a suggestion worth challenging. I hope we can play our song even if it's the game collaboration song."

It was a very progressive and rookie-like attitude. Hmm.

Surprisingly, Seon Ahyeon brought up a concerning issue here.

“W-Will it be all right? M-Moondae back then… said it’s not good to collaborate again… Is this… going to be okay?”

The last question was what I had been wondering myself.

Keun Sejin also stepped in. However, this guy was also in favor of it.

“Hey~ I’m not asking for a new collaboration, wouldn’t it be fine to have the stage? We’ll leave a good impression if we do it well~”

He must be aware of the importance of first impressions, but it seemed his ambition to enter the US had overcome the risk.

‘You’re saying we should take care of our popularity first.’

To make matters worse, Seon Ahyeon nodded with his eyes shining.

“S-Should we? I-I hope we can have a great stage…!”

I guessed he wanted to do it.

And the others began to join in, forming an atmosphere filled with motivation.

…It couldn’t be helped. I nodded my head.

“…Alright, I like it, too.”

“Ooh!”

“However, I want to show the group as much as possible.”

“The group?”

“Yeah.”

They must be wondering about how loose the term was, but after the explanation, everyone was convinced.

“Great!”

“Hmm~ We have to prepare well.”

“I’m glad I have some free time in my recent schedule.”

The group discussion ended in a jovial mood.

And the company staff I met again had opinions similar to what I said earlier.

But mine was slightly more specific.

“First of all… I hope we can sing one of our title tracks.”

“Ah~ Ah! Of course. We will definitely discuss that!”

“Yes, thank you. For the stage, the program only requests the selection of the songs, is it correct that we prepare the rest?”

“Yes. that’s right. If there is a concept or setting you want to do, I will try to match it as much as possible. As much as the time permits!”

“That’s great.”

Time, it would be fine. I smirked.

“I want a live band performance.”

“Ah! That’s great.”

“And there’s no need for costumes.”

“…? Yes?”

What the hell are you talking about? I guessed it was time for me to explain it once more.

* * *

The news of Testar's appearance on an American program made it to the entertainment news main page at least once.

If the reaction wasn't good after appearing, it would be difficult to play with the press, so as soon as the casting came in, the agency seized the opportunity.

The news quickly came to the fans who were enjoying Testar's May university festival and Seon Ahyeon's surprise birthday party video.

– Heol, going to the US?

– It's time to talk about overseas, but I thought they'd start with Japan… As expected, the population targeting Testar is different.

– I can finally see Cha Eugene speaking English as much as I want. Callie Boy's cheerful sexy accentㅠㅠ

– You have to take annual leave to see it live. Okay, I'm going to get food poisoning that day.

Rather than worrying about the neglect of domestic activities due to overseas tours, the atmosphere of 'the world needs to know about such a great idol' was overwhelming.

Because Testar had so many fans in Korea.

However, after the exact contents of the program and the casting process were revealed, it cooled down slightly.

– Ah they will sing the game collaboration song… No wonder the show felt a bit like thatㅋㅋ

– It's the first time K-pop appears on that program. This achievement is meaningful enough

– I heard that our kids gave a lot of opinions on the game collaboration, so it's nice to see it come to fruition.

– I think this one will work better than the title track. I heard the collaboration song was on Billboard (screenshot)

– But I'm not going to let you go if the gaming bastards go crazy again. They're geniuses, so what's the point of making the collaboration song into a god song? ㅎ

The last one was words that Kim Raebin's solo fan pressed into her private account one letter at a time with anger.

*'These f*cking bastards really piss me off!'*

She slammed the keyboard.

Because she was reminded of a dog fight with a malicious game user who was talking nonsense.

"When it was launched, they praised them as Godstar, but now they're cutting off tails because the game becomes so popular!"

The fact that the situation had changed and the user base had changed a lot since then didn't mean anything in front of Kim Raebin's angry fan.

'I wish they would get fizzled out. Ha!!'

She just wanted this game to quit!

In fact, Testar's success abroad was far from advantageous.

'If it goes well with this opportunity, they won't be able to come out on music shows because they will be on tour. Either way, it's not good for me!'

…But like this, on the day of Testa's appearance on <Nerdy Andy Show>, she was also waiting to watch it live.

She even sat down in front of her desktop because smartphone screens were too small and had too many errors.

'Sigh… '

Reality check dominated her shoulders.

She couldn't help it. Kim Raebin and Park Moondae were held hostage by such a trivial program…

"Heol, are you seeing them again?"

"Hn, go away."

"Hn, you."

"If you call me you more time, I will really look for you."

She cursed at her younger brother with her hands and then ignored him. But her younger brother glanced at her computer screen.

"Is this the one? Singing a game song in the US? Are they going to come out in costumes?"

"Hey, go away."

"Oh my God~ Argh! Ugh!"

After being mercilessly slapped on the back, her younger brother ran back to the sofa.

Because <127 Section> did so well, her brother also played the game, so he knew the news.

'Are you already crossing the line? I'm getting angrier.'

Kim Raebin's solo fan gritted her teeth and stared at the computer screen.

Fortunately, the program began shortly after.

[Welcome to the Show!]

[This is… nerdy!]

[Oh, I mean, Andy~]

“What are you saying?”

American B-class CG and subtitles flew around.

And English poured out of the speaker for a while. The interim advertisement that showed up every few minutes was a bonus.

In summary, it wasn’t fun.

She could only recognize a few superhero movie characters.

‘What are you doing… ’

Kim Raebin’s solo fan felt deep regret, saying that she should have finished her assignment and watched the edited version later.

Still, she watched it because it would be a waste, but fortunately, a preview of Testar appeared.

To be exact… It was a preview of <127 Section> OST performance.

*‘F*ck…!’*

Isn’t that just promoting the game?

She stomped her foot with a feeling of resentment. The commercial soon ended with the younger brother ignoring king kong’s nonsense whining.

And the stage was illuminated.

"…!"

In the spot where Testar would come out… There was a whole band.

'Looks like they're going to do a band live.'

She focused on the screen for now.

Soon after, Testar came up to the stage.

But they… were in casual clothes.

"Huh…?"

No, just in casual clothes, they looked neat. However, it wasn't conceptual like their usual idol stage outfits.

"Huh? They're not wearing costumes?"

As her younger brother said, they didn't even the game character's outfit or hairstyle.

It was just natural Testar. They looked like they would show up on a reality show.

Cha Eugene smiled and grabbed the standing microphone.

– What makes people live?

CHOICE!

And with the band's live performance, the stage of the trailer song began.

DOOOM DOOOM DOOOM DOOOM ZZZZ-ING!

– I'm gonna survive.

Like you did before

Park Moondae coolly entered the high-pitched intro.

Testar sang with each holding their own standing microphone.

"…!"

The music… It was nice to listen to.

Her younger brother shrugged.

"He's good at singing."

Testar was originally good at singing live.

However, it was the first time that they had a performance where she could just listen to the song without any other elements.

In fact, most of the fans who were watching the program now had assumed that Testar would somehow put directing or choreography on the stage.

But there was no such thing.

It was just a neat and cool stage where you could enjoy the song.

They were good at using facial expressions and their gestures weren't awkward, so they led the stage all the way only with that.

– Choose your way

Choose your side

She felt confident.

– Survive!

Testar brilliantly performed the game collaboration song with the image of a standard singer, not a character performer.

The siblings opened their mouths to the applause and cheers on the screen.

“Wow…”

“Oh~, I acknowledge it.”

Instead of answering, ‘Who do you think you are to acknowledge them?’, she tapped the desk in excitement.

‘Anyway, the performance was really good!’

They drew the line perfectly.

It was shouting, ‘We are not part of the game, we are the <singers> who made the OST for this game!’.

And because they had enough talent as a singer, it worked brilliantly and seemed natural.

[Wow~ That’s awesome!]

This composition was also revealed in the small talk after the first stage.

Chapter 144

Testar came down from the stage and sat down on the talk show's guest sofa.

But the person holding the microphone… was Cha Eugene.

'Is that okay??'

Even though she knew that Cha Eugene was the most fluent in English, she naturally began to worry.

But Cha Eugene was skillful.

[Welcome! What was your first impression of my show?]

[Hmm, it's full of color, cheerful, and has a really nice impression~ I like your yellow tie. It's 127 Section mark!]

[Oh, thank you! This is the first official product that was sold on May 11th on 127 Section's official site. I bought it with difficulty, but I wear this for the first time for this special occasion.]

Her younger brother teased her.

"Do you understand them?"

She didn't. She was just listening.

But the atmosphere was good.

'Cha Eugene, speaking English makes his atmosphere different.'

He looked much more relaxed and mature.

On the screen, the short small talk was coming to an end.

[Right, you really look like a Californian! I understand now. You seem to be the type who like surfing, am I right?]

[Haha, is there anyone in San Diego who doesn't?]

[Yeah… In that case, hmm, maybe you don't really care about stuff like this. Yep.]

The host deliberately shrank and looked around. Laughter erupted from the audience.

[No, no, this is a new and fun experience. And 127 Section is a fun game!]

[You're so kind~ All right, so let's talk about your role in the game.]

Then, Park Moondae, who was sitting next to him, immediately picked up the microphone.

[Actually, we're singers, and most of us have no experience in acting. It was a short time, but playing a game character in the music video was fun and new.]

Neat English flowed smoothly.

"Heol?"

Kim Raebin's solo fan… No, the college student who was also a fan of Park Moondae almost shook the monitor.

"Wow, he's f*cking good at English?"

"He is!!!"

Unlike the college student who was excited about his unexpected English skills, Park Moondae on the screen calmly continued the conversation.

[Oh, so you're not the one who inspired the creation of those colleagues?]

[We got inspired by them and made a song. Mainly, this guy. His name is Kim Raebin. You can call him Raebin.]

[Oh~… Hello, Raebin? You really look like a composer! The eyes of a musician!]

[Hello.]

Kim Raebin on the screen awkwardly greeted the host.

'He's taking care of Raebin.'

She didn't know the detailed context, but that much was obvious just by listening to the video and words. The college student watched the scene with satisfaction.

[What part of the characters inspired you? Whoa! I didn't say anything bad, it's just a good question! Someone, please tell him!]

[Oh, that guy has a strong impression, right? But if you look into your eyes, you would know he has a very gentle soul!]

[It's still scary!]

Becoming close with the host who was immersed in the nerd concept, Cha Eugene made excuses for Kim Raebin's eyes, then Kim Raebin's words were interpreted through Seon Ahyeon.

[Their narratives made a lot of influence… It was a tragedy, but it captured the beauty and intensity of the characters' goodwill… I tried to save that feeling.]

It was stained with French accents.

'He seems different when he speaks a foreign language, too.'

Just like in his recent public appearances, Seon Ahyeon hardly stuttered even while speaking a foreign language. The slightest hesitation could be interpreted as shyness.

[That's right! That's how I felt when I watched the trailer after finishing Chapter 1! Oh, now I see your soul, Raebin!]

[Hahaha!]

Kim Raebin tilted his face with a blank face, probably not understanding the situation well.

"Ah, cute!"

"That's cute? He looks like he's going to tear apart some sh*t."

"Shut up."

The college student focused on the screen, ignoring her younger brother.

[Then, is there any plan for a new OST for 127 Section?]

Originally, this question was about the 'plan for the reappearance of the colleague characters', but it was modified following Testar's previous answer.

Park Moondae calmly gave an answer he had prepared in advance.

[We had a lot of fun working on the first song, but even if a new OST comes out, I don't think it will come from us.]

[Why?!]

Cha Eugene abruptly intervened.

[Because I'm curious about what kind of OST other artists will compose! You feel the same, right?]

With that positive encouragement, the audience responded reflexively.

[Yes, yes, of course. It's a pity, though! Because 'Bonus book' is a really good song.]

[Thank you.]

[You know what? You know it, hyung-ssi! You have great taste!]

[Me? Hahaha, that's right!]

The host laughed at Cha Eugene's praise and the talk of the game ended like that.

A few words of self-introduction and greeting were exchanged, then they reached the closing phase.

[The performance I saw earlier was really cool, but did you prepare another performance?]

[Yes. I thought it would be nice to show you a piece of music we usually do.]

[Good, that's great! Then, please. Andrew band~]

As the band made a get-ready sound, Testar members got up from the sofa laughing.

Then they started taking off their shoes.

[Oh~]

"Huh?"

"Hey, didn't they get shorter?"

The college student couldn't even afford to hit her younger brother who was babbling nonsense.

Meanwhile, Testar on the screen took off their cardigans or jackets and modestly left them on the sofa. The staff came out and quickly cleared out the sofa.

Then, the outfit was unified into a barefoot figure wearing jeans and a white short-sleeved T-shirt.

Whoop!

In response to the unexpected full-scale preparation, the sound of reactions from the audience could be heard.

As if to respond to that, Testar moved while holding the microphone and formed the choreography's formation.

The lights went out.

Uuuu- Uu- Uuuu-

A slow, melancholy piano climbed above the sound of the band, which was rattling from the touch of the transmission.

And movements close to modern dance began to unfold.

– Slowly falling asleep

Time to night

I don't want to escape

Modern dance choreography unfolded in simple clothes, jazz sounds, foreign languages, and live band sounds.

Everything gave synergy, and Testar's stage looked more artistic than conceptual.

Even the elements that were unfamiliar or repulsive in this place were buried in it, so that it was accepted as 'high quality'.

In addition, the strengths of the K-pop genre, which polished the joy of watching and listening with the utmost care, were certain. Especially for a group that could pull it off well.

And Testar was such a group.

– I met you

Midnight

And next

Thanks to this, when the stage was over and the lights were turned on, the audience seats were filled with applause corresponding to 'good viewing'.

The host also jumped out with applause.

[It's like art! It was 'Midnight, and next' from Testar's album <Time to go>. Everyone~ See you in the next corner!]

Thus, their appearance, which began with <127 Section>, ended with 'Testar'.

The screen turned into an advertisement, but the impression of the stage didn't disappear easily.

'It was torn.'

The college student hit the desk with her left hand and lifted her hand up.

And this reaction became public opinion.

* * *

Since we were in the US, we got a lot of schedules to do here and there. After roughly finishing a few things, the <Nerdy Andy Show>, that we appeared on, aired.

Lying on a hotel bed, I checked public opinion in Korea.

First of all, there were a few cliche articles such as ‘Successful Appearance, Hot Response’, and hmm…

Testar appeared in a video on a popular WeTube channel that reviewed overseas reactions.

[(Overseas reaction) Testar showed the taste of K-pop to white otakus! Collection of responses with Korean subtitles]

‘I guess the reaction wasn’t bad.’

Seeing that there were a lot of videos like that, it seemed we hadn’t been blindly ridiculed by the locals.

I found the stage video uploaded on ＜Nerdy Andy Show＞.

‘The view count is pretty high.’

Even the performance beside the 127 Section had similar views. I didn’t expect that.

Both videos were lined with English comments, but getting a rough look at the atmosphere wasn’t too difficult.

Because I had studied English in my spare time during this activity.

‘It’s a characteristic already have, but I can’t waste it.’

I was conscious of this.

[Characteristic: International student (A)]

– I understand what you said.

: Foreign language proficiency ＋200%

Because it was about the speed of mastery, the faster I learned, the easier it would be to replace when the next characteristic came out.

Of course, I didn't have a lot of free time so I didn't learn much. I just learned enough to make the words I had memorized didn't feel awkward.

'But I learned faster than I expected.'

If I had something like this when I was still a college student, I would have been stuck in the library for half a year.

Anyway, I just skimmed through the comments.

– Their solid musical identity is interesting

– It's K-pop? Mind-blown

– They're great singers. The live performance was impressive!

– I think I'm falling for them. The WeTube algorithm keeps leading me to new videos.

– Popular opinion: Testar was underrated in the K-pop world and no one knew it was the nerds who finally discovered them.

Excluding the comments about 127 Section, the atmosphere was roughly like this.

But what I didn't expect was that 'Midnight, and next' had worked for viewers of this program.

'I thought you'd hate it because it looks gay.'

Isn't that a phrase that comes up often when watching K-pop in that neighborhood? I knew that.

But it seemed we had benefited from the genre of the song.

There were many programmers among the viewers of this show, and it was said that this kind of lo-fi jazz was popular in the neighborhood.

– I added it to my coding playlist

– They looked like true musicians! I wish they would do a fall-in OST too (crying laughing emoticon)

– It's good calming music. I'll listen to it when I work on the code all night and haven't come up with any bugs (scared emoticon)

Anyway, overall… It was a great success.

Just in case, I also checked the domestic game community, and they had completely softened up.

On the contrary, a few people came out to reminisce about the atmosphere of the game in the early days.

'It was useful to draw the line.'

It seemed we had recovered their favorability because we did a good job of showing the collaboration song live and didn't look like we were having a hard time with the OST or the characters.

Testar fans, who were on the verge of sharpening their blades against the 127 Section game community, also completely subsided.

"What are you looking at so intently~?"

"The Internet."

"Our stage?? Good~"

Having washed up, Keun Sejin lay down on the bed next to me.

This was because I got stuck with this guy when we had to randomly change hotel roommates for WeTube uploads.

‘It surprisingly isn’t unpleasant.’

He was a bit annoying and noisy, but our lifestyles were similar.

Keun Sejin in a cheerful voice.

“So, do you think our next album will do better?”

“Let’s see. We have to do it first for me to know.”

“Hey, at times like this, you should say everything’s going to be okay~”

Keun Sejin smiled coolly and started looking into his smartphone.

‘Well, there’s a high chance it’ll work out.’

With the video of <Nerdy Andy Show> receiving favorable reviews, it was noticeable that overseas K-pop fans were rapidly getting interested in Testar.

Probably because we were recognized in a field that wasn’t familiar with K-pop.

‘That’s how people are.’

With this momentum, I thought it would be okay to look forward to the view count of the next album’s music video.

I shrugged my shoulders and told Keun Sejin.

“I’m going to sleep.”

“Yeah, you can turn off the lights~”

I turned off the lights, lied down on the bed, and checked my smartphone again.

Since the monitoring was over, I checked how the domestic public opinion was currently working overall.

And as expected.

When Testar was slowly eating up K-pop overseas, there was an uproar in Korea.

A rookie boy idol's debut song had hit the jackpot in the music industry.

It was Gold 1's group that finally made their debut.

'Oh.'

After checking it roughly, it wasn't at the level of Testar's debut, but it was doing very well on the music charts.

The general consensus was that the song was so good.

'As long as they maintain their momentum, they'll succeed.'

Gold 1 was such a nice guy, so it was a good thing.

And thinking that far, my thoughts went to the other side as well.

My status abnormality.

If Cheongryeo was right, the fourth status abnormality I received this time was my last mission.

And, judging by the flow so far, it would definitely require an even higher baseline.

'…Then, is it better to receive the status abnormality now?'

I thought so when I saw reactions from overseas and the latecomers coming up from Korea.

In short, I thought the next year or so could be my career-high.

Of course, we could continue to do better with endless growth like VTIC. But in this unstable industry environment, I couldn't be so sure.

Still, this year was almost certain to go well.

'Hmm.'

First, I called the status window pop-up.

Chapter 145

[Succesfully won the award!]

You have successfully won the Rookie of the Year Award in the recognition of the public, the 'most prestigious domestic award ceremony'!

!Time limit: Fulfilled (great success)

!Status abnormality: 'Win an award or die' removed!

: Check the truth ☜ Click!

First of all, I had to remove this status abnormality by pressing 'Check the truth' before I could move on to the next status abnormality.

The problem was, every time I pressed it, unpleasant stories about other people came out.

'For now, I don't want to see Cheongryeo anymore.'

It was helpful at the time, but now I didn't even want to dig anything out.

'I'd rather look into the circumstances of the original 'Park Moondae'.'

…Come to think of it, I had lost contact with Cheongryeo altogether recently.

This time, the response to our appearance on the <Nerdy Andy Show> was so good that I even received congratulatory texts from people I wasn't close with.

Even Choi Wongil sent me an apology and a congratulatory message.

– Sunbae-nim, congratulations on entering the US. I'm sorry to bother you all this time.

When I saw the text message that only had business written on it, I was automatically reminded of the apology text from Cheongryeo with only 'I'm sorry' written on it that I had received before.

.

But there was no other contact with him. I just received bomb emoticons from two other Vtic members that I had met on the variety show.

'Emotionally, it's a good thing.'

I hoped this atmosphere where we cut each other off could continue in the future.

I shook my head and looked into the pop-up again.

'Let's go.'

Whatever would come out, there was no need to overreact.

I touched the pop-up.

And like last time, my vision went black.

* * *

What came into view was the inside of a running bus.

Whoo-

People were sitting in each seat, talking or laughing.

I could roughly guess by looking at the uniquely harmonious atmosphere and the wall that had no route map attached.

‘It’s a rented bus.’

It was not public transportation, but it seemed they even picked up a group of tourists. Their dresses seemed a bit old-fashioned, but maybe a long time ago, they would have looked fashionable.

And then I noticed.

Unlike the previous experiences, my ego was clear, not in someone else’s position.

‘What the hell is this?’

In the moment of confusion, I saw a familiar face sitting in the window seat to my left.

It was young Ryu Chungwoo.

“…!”

Ryu Chungwoo was asleep with his arms folded, leaning against the window. Even though he was young, he already had a sturdy body.

This was very… out of the blue.

‘Ryu Chungwoo is sleeping, what am I supposed to do?’

As I looked at him bitterly, there was a story that suddenly passed by like a flash.

It was what Ryu Chungwoo once said at a drinking party.

– I had a serious car accident when I was young… It wasn’t until I grew up that I had the side effects, my hands tremble when I put in strength.

‘…No way.’

This couldn’t be that sh*t, this was impossible.

But the impossible happened.

The bus, which was running coolly down the highway, suddenly turned.

In an instant, the bus stumbled.

“Argh!”

The moment the screams and bus driver’s shouts crossed paths, the left window pane was shattered and something bounced.

It was a torn-out side-view mirror.

And like that, the piece of iron stabbed Ryu Chungwoo’s shoulder.

“…!!”

“Chungwoo!”

The shouts and screams turned the bus into a mess.

‘What kind of psychopath is trying to show something like this live?!’

I reflexively tried to reach out to pull Ryu Chungwoo, but I realized I didn’t have a body.

I watched the ambulance carry Ryu Chungwoo, who had collapsed looking very gruesome.

…I had a mixed feeling about this.

I could hear the paramedics and the passengers talking.

“The report came in as ‘one injured child’, so the size of the transport vehicle is only that big.”

“Oh, we’re fine! If we’re sick, we can go to the hospital.”

Certainly, it was Ryu Chungwoo who was seriously injured.

The paramedics, who immediately agreed, only took the collapsed Ryu Chungwoo and his crying parents to the ambulance and headed to the hospital.

The remaining passengers seemed to have agreed to drive off the road by taxi, with only one or two remaining as representatives to handle insurance.

And I continued staying in this field of vision.

'What's this.'

It would be better to follow Ryu Chungwoo, but for some reason, I kept staying here.

And the moment my field of view was directed back to the passengers.

"Then we proceed like this?"

"Yes."

I… I stopped thinking.

The people I thought I would never see again were standing there, looking fine.

…Mom and Dad.

"Get in first. We'll take the next one."

"Aigoo thank you~"

Yeah. It was that kind of voice.

Unlike with the pictures, not a single voice line remained.

The videos I took when I was younger were also lost when I moved out, so the voice that only remained in my memory quickly became dull.

Sometimes I remembered it in my sleep. But I couldn't record it, so it soon crumbled.

I felt like my heart would jump out of my mouth.

But now only my consciousness was here, I was able to complete my speculation instead.

'…This must be a relatives' gathering.'

This bus was probably for the meeting of the Pungsan Ryu clan. Before I came into Park Moondae's body, it was my–Ryu Gunwoo's– and… Ryu Chungwoo's family name.

It seemed Ryu Chungwoo had the accident while he was on his way to the family trip.

I felt sorry Ryu Chungwoo, but… I couldn't see it as something unfortunate, and I was very, very glad that I stayed here.

…I was really glad.

My parents took a taxi with some relatives. I also saw a familiar face that I was indebted to for a year or two in middle and high school.

'It's a relative gathering.'

I nodded inwardly, then suddenly… I had a strange thought.

'This… When is this?'

I remembered… When the figures of my parents looked the most similar to this time.

'You can't.'

Like a conditioned reflex, an eerie feeling hit my head.

The taxi left at once.

I heard my mother's voice.

"I wonder if he will be okay. I'm worried."

"I know. Everyone must have been startled, but when we arrive at the pension, let's take a break and go back. It's the long-awaited family event, my God."

"We came all the way to Gangwon-do and now we're like this, I wonder how Mom and Dad would feel… Sigh."

Family event. Gangwon-do.

Keywords that shouldn't come out continued…

"Still, I'm glad Gunwoo didn't come. He says he is preparing for the English language, he's working hard~ Who does he take after?"

"He takes after Mom. The two of them are very smart."

"Sigh, I like our harmonious relationship."

"Haha!"

The sound of laughter messed with my head. Something was strange.

Something…

"We're here."

"Let's lie down, catch a bus or train, and go back to Seoul."

Outside the window, I could see the pension.

It was a wooden building with a nice atmosphere that matched well with the mountain.

I thought I could only saw pictures of it burnt out…

‘Stop.’

However, the people in the taxi got off side by side and went into the pension with their luggage.

I was left here.

‘Stop it.’

But my field of vision returned in an instant.

The time was running out.

And soon, smoke began to rise from the pension.

Crack, crack, crack, crack, crack…

A small spark flew inside. From outside, it was midday, so that brightness didn’t seem weird.

But people die from things like that.

Especially in buildings built with unauthorized combustible building materials…

In the presence of poisonous smoke.

They fell asleep and couldn’t come out.

Beep, beep, beep-

The belated sound of sirens shook my brain.

* * *

It was over.

“Urgh.”

I brought my hand to my mouth. Still, the sound leaked.

I threw the blanket over my face. Finally, I could shut my mouth.

‘What’s this.’

I didn’t know. What kind of situation is this? Why do I have to watch that sh*t?

My brain was weird. I couldn’t think straight.

I had to calm down. The reason I had to calm down was because…

‘There’s a W live tomorrow.’

Right. I had a schedule tomorrow. We were going to broadcast following the Korean evening time zone about how we were hanging out at the hotel, so…

Can I stand in front of the camera?

Can I really work in this state… Why do I have to worry about this?

“Hey, what’s wrong?”

Camera, I don’t give a sh*t, why did I have to watch that? Why do I have to f*cking live like this?

“Park Moondae, are you okay? What is it?”

“Don’t talk to me.”

“What?”

“Don’t f*cking talk to me…!”

I couldn’t tell what I was saying because of the blanket. But the person talking to me seemed to understand. He didn’t talk to me anymore.

Alright, let’s think… Think…

[Outbreak!]

Status abnormality: ‘Get the audiences or die’ has occurred!

“F*ck, really.”

I crashed my head to the bedside table.

“Hyung!”

“Park Moondae!”

The noises increased. It seemed the number of people had increased.

The bed shrank, and a few hands grabbed my shoulder.

“…Do you want to go to the hospital now? Where does it hurt?”

“I am not sick.”

“Then why?… What’s wrong? Just say it first. I won’t tell the company.”

“…”

I was tired.

This… I couldn’t explain it, so I’d like you to shut up and get out. It was the best I could do. Even if I explained it, the situation sounded irrational.

“M-Moondae. This.”

Someone put something in my hand. It was a cup of water. And… a medicine.

I put it in my mouth and swallowed the water.

I felt like it would flow back, but it went through.

“…”

The surroundings became quiet.

And me too, somehow… My head was cold.

“…Is it a sedative?”

“…! P-Painkillers, sleeping pills…”

Ah, yeah. You couldn’t buy sedatives without a prescription.

Still, whatever it was that I put in my mouth, my sense of reality returned. And having a conversation with a familiar person, I felt like I had escaped my messed up mind.

‘Let’s calm down.’

After coughing a few times, I looked up.

“…I had a bad dream. I’m sorry. For making a fuss.”

“I-It’s all right!”

“…Have you calmed down?”

However, the moment I saw Ryu Chungwoo among the faces of some nervous members, I felt a strong urge to slam that bastard's face to the table.

'I can't do this.'

It was clear that my head was still off.

I lay back on the bed.

"Once again, I'm sorry… Now that I've taken some medicine, I'll go back to sleep."

However, it was immediately refuted.

"…No, go to the hospital."

"What?"

It was Bae Sejin's voice. I could feel a sign of tension.

"I'll call the manager, so go get the diagnosis and get a sedative. You don't have to, but you should."

"…"

I couldn't deny it.

In the end, I got out of bad.

Accompanied by the manager who came running in bewilderment, I went through the emergency room in the middle of America and bought sedatives.

The sedatives I received under the excuse of insomnia were quite effective. From that day on, I went to bed without any major problems.

And right after that, I was able to handle the schedule without any problems, except for one W live that I missed due to health reasons. I could do all that without thinking much about anything else.

With that sorted out, two problems remained.

One of them was… that I got so reluctant to call the status window.

There was enough delay period, so it was okay for now. The other problem was much more troublesome.

I couldn't interact with Ryu Chungwoo.

I managed to say hello, but if I had to go further, I would go crazy thinking of that sh*tty 'Check the truth'.

…But all of a sudden, my roommate for the next shoot was Ryu Chungwoo.

'I am going crazy'.

I had to pick between rumors of discord and my mental health.

Chapter 146

“Come on, smile~”

The sound of the shutter rang out. Sitting on the pool, Testar smiled at the camera with their arms around each shoulder.

Of course, I was included there.

“The picture looks good. You’ve worked hard~”

“Thank you!”

Since we came all the way to the US, we were filming a summer package.

It was the one that combined pictorial and simple reality video content together.

And in this video content, a roommate was assigned under the request of the production team to ‘film a combination that was rarely seen’.

This meant that Park Moondae and Ryu Chungwoo ended up sharing the same room.

Ah, it just had to happen now.

“Moondae, towel.”

“…Yes.”

I snatched the towel and wiped my neck.

My stomach churned.

‘Whoo.’

I tried to restrain myself as much as possible, but I didn’t know if this would be caught on camera or not.

‘…Damn it.’

I knew.

It wasn’t Ryu Chungwoo’s fault.

But what should I do when I keep being reminded of that sh*t? Every time I saw him… I remembered.

Thanks to this, the roommate content was completely ruined. We couldn’t even have a proper conversation in the room.

This was my limit.

I just hoped there were no rumors of discord going around. For now… Only for now, if I went back to Korea and fall back a little, I would get better.

‘…I’m going crazy.’

As soon as the break time was announced, I got up from my seat.

It seemed they were going to make their roommates ride some water slide in a little while, so I was going to stay away from them.

But a tail stuck to me again.

“H-Hey…”

“What.”

“T-This.”

Seon Ahyeon, who followed me, held out a take-out cup. There was a steaming drink in it.

Seeing that he had a cup in his hand, it must have been handed out by the staff.

"…"

I accepted the cup. If I didn't, he would continue talking.

Seon Ahyeon didn't leave even after giving me a drink and he sat down on the obscure street.

But instead of talking to me, he sipped his drink while sneakily glancing at me.

It was quiet.

"…"

I lost strength in my shoulders.

As I sat on the flower bed, I brought the hot drink to my mouth.

'It's hot chocolate.'

It was terrible.

* * *

After riding a water slide across a shark aquarium, we proceeded with the content of gathering and exchanging questions.

It was bearable.

"Great~ Then I'll pick a question!"

Keun Sejin laughed and picked a question out of the box.

“Hmm, ‘the member I’ve become closest to recently’, I can get a lot of votes with this. It’s me! Because I am naturally a friendly member~”

Let’s get this over with.

“For me, it’s Lee Sejin.”

“Gasp! Moondae, you rely on me a lot these days? It’s so touching! I’ll pick Moondae, too~”

Keun Sejin, who immediately changed his posture, smiled and patted my back.

“Now, what about our Eugene?”

“It’s Bae Sejin hyung! I like my roommate.”

They moved on to the next person right away, so I didn’t have to talk anymore. I answered in a somewhat funny way so it wouldn’t look strange.

“Hahaha, is it me again?”

The laughter and chatter continued for a long time.

After a few questions passed by… towards the end.

The last question came out.

“This is the last question card.’What was a difficult life experience that you overcame?’. Well, it sounds like a question that can come up with a lot of examples.”

“…Ah~ Isn’t this too gloomy to be the last question? How about a chance to pick one more?”

“…? I think it’s great and meaningful!”

With Kim Raebin’s answer, the question resumed.

…Starting with Ryu Chungwoo.

“Hmm, an experience that I overcame. Actually, the reason I quit archery… It wasn’t out of my own will. When I was young, I was in a car accident during a family trip.”

Stop.

“It was because of the aftereffects from that time.”

…No, I’m filming. Let’s think about something else.

“But now, being able to meet you and make a debut and do activities like this, I can just accept the turning point in my life. Thanks, guys. Thank you, Loviewer!”

“Great!”

“…Is it okay to talk about this?”

“Haha, I think it’s my first time talking about this in front of the camera, but I said it knowing that the fans are going to see it.”

“Oh, Chungwoo hyung’s experience is too much~ Shall we just surrender and choose a new one? Eugene has to pick one, too!”

“Let me pick!”

I felt like throwing up.

“…Park Moondae!”

“Wait. Bathroom.”

I got off the sofa and left the room full of lights. I ran down the connected dark hallway and went into the bathroom.

“Urgh.”

Fortunately, nothing came up to my throat. No, it wasn't a good thing. If I focused on my actions, I could stop thinking…

"Shut up."

I turned on the water in the sink and crashed my head.

The cold water felt nice.

"…Moondae!"

"Moondae-ssi, are you okay?"

"Hyung!"

I heard some people calling outside. It was fortunate that it was self-produced content. If it was a regular broadcast, it couldn't be fixed.

'I have to go.'

But I couldn't lift my head. A little longer… Just a little bit more…

"Stop."

I lifted my head out of the water.

And after roughly wiping off the water, I opened the bathroom door.

A few staff and members were standing outside the door.

"…I'm sorry. I feel a little sick."

"No, are you all right? Can you shoot now?"

"…Yes."

Keun Sejin stepped in.

“Park Moondae. They said it’s okay to postpone the shooting here a little bit. If you need some rest…”

“It’s the same anyway. Just do it.”

After wiping off the rest of the water, I continued shooting.

And this time it was finished without any major problems.

“See you again, Loviewer!”

But I realized.

That this was going to be a big fuck*ng deal.

‘I need to come up with measures.’

In the evening, the full-scale shooting was finished.

Instead of going back to Ryu Chungwoo’s room, I went to the garden behind the hotel to sort out my situation.

For now, my condition was definitely PTSD. There was no room for further discussion.

The problem was, I thought this would subside over time, but now that it had reached this point, I was skeptical about how long it would take until then.

‘…There’s no answer.’

If it took me more than two or three months to recover, there would be problems with future Testar activities.

Then I could only hope that it would be possible for me to restart if I died from the status abnormality.

‘…The fact that I think it’ll be okay even if it’s all over is a problem.’

It was clear what had happened to my mind. I sighed.

Ring-

At that moment, the smartphone I put in my pocket vibrated.

When I took it out and checked, there was a call coming from an unexpected name.

[VTIC Cheongryeo sunbae-nim]

It was Cheongryeo.

"…Sigh."

Normally, I just wouldn't take it. But for now, I had to.

I couldn't help but wanted to ask if he'd ever received a sh*t compensation for a status abnormality like this.

"…Hello."

When I answered the phone, a slightly puzzled voice responded.

– Hmm, I didn't expect you to answer right away.

"Yes. What's the matter?"

– It's been a while since I contacted you, don't be so… Are you doing well?

"If you don't have any business, I'll start with mine."

– Haha, yes.

"Have you ever seen anything like an illusion?"

-… Illusion?

“During the mission.”

-…

There was no words from the other side of the phone for a while, then I heard an answer.

– Ah, you have some problem.

“…!”

– Record? Company? No, I don’t think so… Is it something more uncontrollable? Then, relationship?

“…”

– It’s relationship.

What’s with this bastard.

– Sounds like a stressful situation, hm… I have an advice but If I say it, you’ll only get more stressed.

He must have thought I was seeing an illusion because of the stress.

In that case, this bastard had never received any compensation for the status abnormality.

“Say it.”

– Really?

Yeah. I didn’t think I would care about anything I heard from this guy now anyway.

Let’s talk about restarting.

Then I heard his calm voice over the phone.

– You don’t have to be stressed.

“…”

– If you go back to the beginning anyway, the emotional exhaustion you have now doesn’t mean anything. I’d just… I’d leave it out next time. I thought like that…

“…”

– It’s going to disappear anyway.

…It’s going to disappear.

For the first time, I made a clear assumption.

Let’s say I could really go back.

Let’s assume that if I also failed, I would go back to the 20-year-old Park Moondae’s birthday.

So, until now, 22-year-old Park Moondae had never happened and was trying to make it again from scratch.

Having done it once, I would definitely take it easy. If I took a lottery number with me, I could live in a secure place from the beginning.

And I could do better from the start. I already knew.

Avoiding all the tiring and embarrassing things that had happened from the first filming of <Idol Inc> to after the debut, and to create a group with a better number of people…

‘No.’

…I didn’t want to.

It was funny, but even if it was how I overcame all status abnormalities…

I didn't think I would like it more than I did now.

The hardships and troubles, all the things I had made with these snotty brats… I'd come to think of them as my achievements.

And even if it was made again, it could never mean the same thing as it was now.

Of course, things were a bit of a mess right now. Still, because of this, it wasn't right to give up now.

My mind had cleared up a bit.

I opened my mouth.

"It could disappear, so I'll have to try harder."

-… That.

"Thank you for your advice, sunbae-nim."

– You'll regret it.

"Well, I guess. Who would just sit back and not doing anything? Then I'll go in now."

I hung up.

And I thought.

'This bastard is helpful too.'

Surprisingly, my rationality, which had left its spot, seemed to have returned because of the phone call with Cheongryeo.

Then, let's objectively find the best option for the current situation.

If I didn't see any signs of recovery… There was only one answer.

‘Suspension of activities due to health problems.’

Talking from experience, if I took medicine and lived in seclusion by myself for about a month, I would feel better. This was better than the group’s discord.

If the company refused, well… I had no choice but to put up with the rumors of discord.

If I explained to others that I might become a psychopath if I saw Ryu Chungwoo’s face, they would eliminate the point of contact between Park Moondae and Ryu Chungwoo as much as possible.

We would be uncomfortable with each other, but it was the company’s fault for holding on to the guy who was trying to recuperate, so I’d just tell them to send their complaints to the company.

Still, I wanted to do as little damage as possible, so I hoped the company accepted my suspension of activities.

‘This far.’

I left the garden and returned to my room.

Now that I’d calmed down a bit, I thought it would be possible to say hello to him.

‘I will endure it somehow until this summer package shoot is over.’

There was no other choice. After all, when I would leave tomorrow, I just needed to pick the ending cut.

If I could hold it in.

However, when I opened the door and entered, I saw an unexpected sight.

“…You’re here?”

Ryu Chungwoo was sitting on a chair with bottles of wine overflowing on top of the table.

"…"

I slowly backed out to the door and closed it…

"I took all the cameras. You can drink."

"…"

At that moment, I realized that I was desperate for a drink.

'Damn it.'

I knew it wasn't good for me to drink in this situation. But…

"Here."

I reached out for the bottle. And plucked off the cap.

I brought it to my mouth.

It was only then that I realized that my mouth was trembling. There was the sound of teeth clicking against the opening of the bottle.

"…"

I turned around and continued to pour the drink down my throat.

I didn't think of anything.

Then, I heard a voice.

"You're holding back something from me."

"…"

“You’re just holding back because you’re afraid that things will end up in an irreversible state while you try to hold it in. Am I right?”

I heard the sound of carbonic acid leaking.

“Just tell me. I don’t get hurt by this kind of thing.”

Even if I tell you about that sh*t, you won’t understand.

This… This was not a situation that could be understood by common sense.

It wasn’t even this guy’s fault.

Seeing as I hadn’t even known this guy’s name in the first place, he was a distant relative I didn’t know much about. The Pungsan Ryu clan must have done a lot of things together, so they went out together.

‘And since their kid was in such a big accident, his parents wouldn’t have time to worry about other things, that’s why, I mean, at the funeral, I didn’t see them… ’

I put the drink back in my throat.

F*ck, I couldn’t stand it.

I picked up a new bottle. I heard the calm voice again.

“…Great. Then speak only as far as you can tolerate. I won’t tell anyone.”

“…”

“Whether it’s to the company or a hospital, I won’t even say a word.”

At that moment, unthinkable words popped out of my mouth.

“Because I’m jealous.”

“?”

“I’m jealous.”

And as I spoke, I realized at the same time.

I was jealous of this bastard.

If I went on the trip that day and got hurt like Ryu Chungwoo, I hoped my parents wouldn’t go to that damn pension because they would be with me in the ambulance

It wasn’t just because I was reminded of the accident, but this bastard was also annoying.

Seeing him talk about the greatest luck in his life as if was a bad experience made my stomach twist.

“Your parents are fine and you live doing everything you want to do… I am jealous.”

“…!”

I put down my finished drink and took a deep breath.

I had been saying all kinds of crazy stuff… Strangely enough, I felt refreshed

Ryu Chungwoo didn’t answer for a long time.

And after a while, he handed me another bottle of wine.

“Did you remember it when you were asleep?”

“What?”

“I heard it from Raebin. It sounds like you were recalling your old memories while sleeping.”

"…"

"I brought up the side-effects from a traffic accident… I must have sounded full of myself."

…It seemed they misunderstood that the parents of 'Park Moondae' had died in a car accident.

He must have felt like he was whining about the aftereffects of a car accident in front of a guy whose parents had died in a car accident.

…Similarly, it was like that.

"I'm sorry for saying that."

"You don't have to apologize."

"Still, it feels good to listen to an apology. Look, it's been a while since I talked to you."

"…"

"Moondae… It's okay to talk about this comfortably."

Ry Chungwoo opened another bottle.

"Human, in the face of fear and pain… They usually get angry and blame others, but it's okay."

"…"

"I was just like that when I quit archery. Maybe there wasn't such a truth."

Ryu Chungwoo smiled faintly.

"But you don't look like you can even do that. It's fine, you can do it now. How can a person live rationally every time?"

"…"

I put the bottle down.

My hand trembled a little.

"…I didn't want to live a hard life."

I thought I was doing pretty well.

Until I graduated from high school, I received support here and there, and I was able to save living expenses somehow because I was good with my hands.

I thought it wasn't that bad, in fact, there wasn't anything special, so I endured it, but I guess I really hated it.

"But I can't live like that, so I feel like sh*t."

"…Right."

"It's a little too much."

I opened another bottle.

I thought it would be uncomfortable between us after saying this, but it surprisingly turned out okay.

I didn't know if it was because of the alcohol, but… Anyway, it turned out like this for now.

I quenched my throat slowly.

I wasn't sure because I was drunk, but after that, it sounded like I just lined up words and sentences without any context.

Ryu Chungwoo didn't intervene in particular, but he reacted occasionally.

Then he finally brought it up.

“I decided not to talk about the hospital, but… Still, it would be better to get counseling when you go back to Korea. With Ahyeon.”

“…”

“I’m saying this not because you look crazy, but it’s because you look tired.”

“Okay.”

“I got a lot of money, too, so I’ll spend some for you.”

“Okay.”

I swallowed a drink.

“But it’s still hard to look at you.”

Ryu Chungwoo looked bewildered for a moment, then laughed out loud for the first time.

“Haha, let’s take it slow. It’s not like we won’t see each other for a month or two, so it’s okay to spend some time away from each other.”

“…Okay.”

It was true.

“However, Moondae. Use some honorifics. You’re talking informally all of a sudden.”

“…!”

I had completely forgotten…

I kept drinking, resuming the honorifics as requested.

The conversation went a bit off track and we didn't sit face to face, but it wasn't that uncomfortable.

I found out the next day that the bottles were part of room service and were charged crazy prices, but it wasn't such a waste.

And after returning to Korea, fortunately, a new schedule was waiting for me to spend time alone in between schedules.

It was a solo appearance that I had been putting off due to the visit to the US.

Chapter 147

"Hyung, I am really sorry. In order to hastily and arbitrarily judge the situation, I carelessly shared the personal experience hyung shared with me…"

"It's fine."

If I had to listen to it one more time, it would be the fifth time.

I was a little fed up receiving Kim Raebin's apology.

'Anyone who sees this would think I was being framed.'

All this guy did was tell the members, 'Moondae hyung said he remembered the past in his sleep'.

It was most likely that he did it because he was scared or nervous.

Based on that, my sad plight must have been something he was trying to interpret and respond to.

'…I thought I hid it well.'

It was an illusion.

When I came to Korea and checked the filming of the summer package, my atmosphere was so awkward and gloomy.

'They must have been afraid something happened to me so they treated me carefully'

Even the camera occasionally caught these guys being worried or nervous.

The reason why the filming went smoothly was entirely thanks to Keun Sejin, who talked twice as much by himself.

'…Ryu Chungwoo was holding back.'

It was clear from the beginning of the shoot that he realized how uncomfortable I was with him.

Putting up with the silence, I said to Kim Raebin.

"Then I should apologize. I'm sorry for the bad atmosphere."

"Yes? You absolutely don't have to! In the first place, there is no need to apologize for the unexpected event that occurred in a situation where the filming was in progress…"

"Alright. In the same sense, you don't have to apologize either."

"…! I understand. Thank you!"

After convincing me that 'there is no need to apologize', Kim Raebin finally stopped talking and left after saying goodbye.

"I'll go in. I hope you have a good time."

"Yes, you too."

Immediately the room became quiet. One roommate was absent due to a schedule and the other was due to his quiet hobby.

'The world is quiet.'

I sighed and buried myself in bed.

But another noise came from the next bed.

'…It's been less than three seconds since I said it was quiet.'

It was Bae Sejin.

“…Hey, are you okay?”

“Yes? Yes.”

It was an obvious answer, but in reality, my condition was quite stable.

I didn’t know if it was because I drank and settled it down a little at the last minute, or if it was because I left a strange country where all kinds of things happened and returned to my room in a familiar dorm.

Either way, It didn’t feel as unbearable as I had felt before.

Just remembering it made me break out in a cold sweat. So I was happy to add an explanation.

“There will be no interruptions to the filming now. Don’t worry.”

“I-I didn’t worry about that!!”

Bae Sejin shouted and then, in surprise, grabbed the book he was reading.

“…!”

What do you want me to do?

Anyway, after checking the filming of the summer package, I checked the actual package today. This was the day the summer package was released on the market.

‘Just in case.’

I picked up my smartphone and finally started monitoring it all the way.

“…Hmm.”

I did this just in case, but fortunately, there was no problem.

After going through the magic of editing, my attitude changed to a moderately passive degree.

The response wasn't bad either.

– It hurts more because I can see that he's trying not to show that he wasn't feeling well ㅠㅠ

– Park Moondae's eyes are all frozen. His motivation and original resolution are all smashed

Yeah no, assh*le. He looks sick. What nonsense are you saying

I have no words, you can't say anything to a kid who couldn't show up because he was sick

– The kids take care of Moondae, and it warms my heart. Testar will last forever.

– Summer package of a quiet puppy (Moondae GIF)

'As expected, it was right to reduce my reaction rather than react sharply.'

It seemed to be the right choice to reduce the response and expression of my emotions to other members and the situations as much as possible.

Of course, although there were occasional aggros such as 'Where is Park Moondae's initial commitment', they didn't receive favorable responses and disappeared after being beaten down.

It was thanks to public opinion thinking that I was really sick because it was short-lived and I even missed a W live before the filming.

…It pricked my conscience.

'I wasn't particularly sick.'

I'd already used the excuse of being sick once, so I would have to take care of myself properly for the next half year or so.

If I got sick again, it wouldn't be a simple matter from then on, and useless noises could come out.

I could skip these summer packages because only fans tend to buy them, but we didn't know how it would be in the future.

'I'll have to be careful.'

I shrugged and turned off my phone.

Looking at the neat situation on the internet, I thought it was good that I overdid it at the time.

…And, I kept my promise.

Beep beep.

[Consultation time]

When I turned off the alarm that was ringing on my smartphone, Bae Sejin stealthily started talking to me again.

"…Counseling?"

"Yes."

"Well thought out."

"Yes."

At the time Seon Ahyeon went to get counseling, I decided to get counseling too.

Thanks to this, I went out today with Seon Ahyeon, who had returned from his schedule.

“M-Moondae. Let’s contact each other when getting out…!”

“Yeah… All right.”

But to be honest, it didn’t do much good.

“So, what’s your biggest concern recently?”

“…The same as everyone else.”

“Okay~ Any examples?”

“Hmm, I also have concerns about whether I can do my job properly.”

Because it was impossible to tell the counselor ‘If I can’t resolve the status abnormality, I will die, but this bastard even shows strange visions, causing PTSD symptoms to pop out like seizures’.

It would be seen as a way to show off.

“Mr. Moondae. You’re doing well enough right now. Have you ever thought it would be okay to be more generous to yourself?”

“…I do, just a little.”

Well, still… Confiding with an expert gave me a sense of security.

My nerves that were on the edge were lessened, and my inner composure was strengthened.

On top of that, since we weren’t on an activity period in Korea, my schedule wasn’t too excessive, so I finally thought of trying ‘that’ again.

In the bathroom of the dorm after returning from the consultation.

I caught my breath.

"…Status window."

Goosebumps ran down my spine, but not enough to knock me off.

Like this, I checked the status window for the first time in a while.

…to properly check the new status abnormality.

[Get the audiences or die]

: If you fail to meet more than 200,000 spectators within the time limit, you will die

The number of people reached: 2,219 / 200,000

Remaining period: D-339

'Are you crazy?'

Again, this number had no conscience.

'This is a number that requires me to go on an overseas tour.'

Thanks to the event, I got about 2000 people, but this also had a limit. It's not like there were events all year round.

According to the plan, it seemed we would start a tour starting with a concert in Korea around autumn, so the timing wasn't an issue… It was now a matter of the scale.

It wasn't bad enough that I should give up early, and if I combined the events with other things, it was worth a try.

'In the end, I have no choice but to release a good album.'

It was back to the original matter.

…Still, thinking that this would be the last time, I felt a little calm.

‘It’s not Grand Prize.’

I tried to return the status window with slightly trembling hands, but I suddenly realized that I didn’t need to use my hands.

This meant my head wasn’t working properly.

‘…It’s not normal.’

The status window disappeared. I resisted the urge to submerge my head into the sink again.

And I thought.

‘…What the hell do you want?’

I didn’t know why the status window was like this.

As the first reward, Park Moondae… This was a bit different from when the circumstances of the real Park Moondae surfaced or the second time when the circumstances of Cheongryeo were told in detail.

I thought they were hints of how this regression thing was currently going.

But what I saw in America… F*ck, anyway, that… It’s not like that right?

No explanation, no help… Isn’t that right?

“…Huft.”

Let’s stop.

I took a deep breath and sort out my mind.

The answer wouldn’t come out even if I thought hard about it anyway. I’d just do what I could.

It was the best course of action.

‘First of all, the biggest schedule I currently have.’

It was a solo schedule. I remembered it since the time I got wasted and emptied Ryu Chungwoo’s wallet.

‘It’s not bad to have some time to work alone.’

…In fact, I had never talked openly with Ryu Chungwoo since I came to Korea.

It wasn’t too difficult to say hello, chat casually, and act the script in front of the camera, but to do more than that… I had a track record so trying that would be a bit reckless.

‘I should do this to keep my distance.’

I happily accepted the solo schedule.

– Moondae, is this okay? Isn’t it too fast?

– It’s fine.

And actually, I looked forward to it.

Because the stats I charged last time were for this kind of variety show.

‘I ended up doing it later than I thought.’

It was a perfect situation for a change of mood.

I kicked the useless scraps out of my head and laughed, thinking only of the pure facts.

This was a singing variety show.

And my current vocal stat was…

It was S-.

* * *

＜The Singer I Made＞.

It was an entertainment show that had been popular on MBS recently.

The format of this program, in which celebrities hid their identities and showed up to sing and were selected as a winner through a survival contest, was probably a bit boring.

Right now, MBS also had an entertainment show that became popular using that format.

However, this ＜Singer I Made＞ had a unique difference. That difference was… the cast didn't appear in person.

Right. They appeared on stage as holograms.

It wasn't you, it was the 'character' you had set up.

The cast created a mascot singer character by creating a profile from appearance to personality, taste, and age.

Then, a hologram machine supported by a large company embodied the character on the stage.

Viewers were amazed at the taste of cutting-edge technology that even implemented the motions of the cast members connected under the stage, and thanks to the familiar format, they fell in love without feeling any sense of dissonance.

So, even a high school student here, who was flipping through the channels, stopped clicking on the remote control after seeing the familiar stage screen of this variety show.

“Oh~ Fake Singer~”

Snickering while calling out its rude nickname, the male high school student stared at the screen without much thought.

His older sister had gone into her room to see those Testar stuff.

Maybe for a while, he could lie down comfortably in front of the TV without worrying about being robbed.

Coincidentally, the program had just started the second part after the commercial break.

[Survival stage where imagination becomes reality!]

[＜Singer I Made＞! The ‘singer’ who will be on the fifth stage is now! Ready!]

[Wooow!]

From baseball players to triangular gimbap, scenes where unpredictable characters of all kinds suddenly appeared were always quite fun.

‘Now, it’s time for the dinosaur to come out one more time~ Don’t be boring!‘

The high school student grinned as he recalled the last winner, a red-eyed, short-legged dinosaur called ‘Tyrannosaurus’.

The MC shouted spiritedly.

[Here comes the new singer!]

[His name is…]

Dadumdadum, along with drum rolls, the spotlights giddied up and down across the stage.

Then, a tall figure began to form and appear on the stage.

A white veil covered his nice body in a white wedding suit.

After that, the hologram of flying white butterflies wrapped around the figure and disappeared.

‘Ah, it’s a human again~’

Just as the high school student was about to boo, he could see beyond the close-up veil.

Where the face was supposed to be, instead, there were colorful flowers placed like a bouquet.

“Heol.”

[Welcome, ‘Groom in May’~]

Cheers and applause that sounded artificially inserted echoed from the screen.

Chapter 148

With applause from the audience, a microphone appeared in front of the singer character's hologram named 'Groom in May'.

It was a standing microphone.

The marble stand microphone, which didn't exist in reality, was intertwined with gorgeous flower vines and white lace.

Groom in May bowed politely.

And he grabbed the stand microphone with both hands wearing white gloves.

[What kind of voice will 'Groom in May' play out?]

The high school student, who barely escaped the impact of the colorful flower bouquet head, tapped the sole of his feet.

"What's with the concept?"

He felt a slight resentment because it felt like this guy was trying to look cool to girls.

However, the slightly eerie and bizarre feeling that broke through the gorgeous and innocent image of a wedding was entertaining.

*'Guys who try to save faces usually f*cking suck at singing.'*

The high school student tried to deny the favorable impression and looked at the screen.

The accompaniment was starting.

The shimmering sound of two pianos and the bright and cheerful sound of brass rose above the beat of the drums.

– With the most beautiful heart

My confession to you

“Huh?”

It was a very famous marriage proposal song.

Originally, in the first qualifying round with a total of 10 players, it was a rule to sing songs that were faithful to the character concept.

So, of course, the song selection was predictable, but there was only one point that the viewer didn’t predict.

He sang really well.

– In May when flowers bloom

Our youth in full bloom.

With the kindest heart

My love for you

His tidy and neat voice gave off a low, rich sound.

It was not a high-pitched sound or some sort of crazy technique. However, it was a voice that perfectly suited this song.

As if the song was supposed to be sung like this.

– When you hear love

Think of me

Today and tomorrow

I love you

It was a beautiful song that he wanted to keep listening to, without squeaking or missing some parts.

And in the preliminaries, only 1 minute and 30 seconds were allowed, so the song stopped at the unsatisfying part.

[Sweet marriage proposal song]

Beyond applause and captions, ‘The Groom in May’ finished the song and bowed politely once again.

“Ooh.”

He was pretty good.

The high school student nodded his head. Maybe he was not an actor or model, but a singer.

‘Was it a ballad song?’

It wasn’t an explosive vocal, but it seemed he could pass the first round without a hitch.

[Full of echo. Did you feel his inner strength?]

[It was such a beautiful voice~]

[I think he’s definitely a singer]

No matter what the musicians invited as judges said, there was no particular reaction from ‘The Groom in May’.

He just stood in a neat posture and tilted his head from side to side at the questions.

In other words, the bouquet was swaying.

“Ah, concept bug[1]it is a word used to mock someone who is deeply stuck in a character they created. Probably similar to chuunibyou. -ssi.”

The high school student was sick of it, saying that he was probably an old singer who made appearances in entertainment shows.

The movements and atmosphere were so plausible that he felt embarrassed for getting immersed in them.

[Thank you~]

After hearing all of the judges’ comments, ‘The Groom in May’ soon quietly disappeared from the stage.

And the first round stages that followed were all almost the same except for one or two.

This meant that the list of finalists announced after the commercial break was obvious.

[The third singer to advance to the final is… It’s ‘Groom in May’!]

I knew it.’

The high school student admired himself for his discerning eyes which managed to get all of them right except for one finalist.

‘I’m really amazing.’

Up to this point, the high school student had no expectations for the next performance of ‘Groom in May’.

Because he thought what ‘Groom in May’ showed in the first round was his limit.

‘I’ll bet 1,000 won on the guy who pushes with his vocal.’

"…?!"

And a little later.

His 1,000 won disappeared without mercy.

[Argh!]

The high school student opened his mouth wide.

…There were several reasons why this happened.

In the finals, the six finalists had to sing an appointed song. Therefore, the cast had practiced one of the three songs presented by the production team beforehand for the finals.

Originally, it was fun to see which character selected which song and to compare the cast members who selected the same song.

This time, however, an unexpected event occurred.

Four people chose the same song.

It was a classic ballad from the 90s called 'Winter Night'.

And 'Groom in May' also failed to avoid this probability and selected the corresponding song.

Since there were four of them, the arrangement was bound to overlap.

However, 'The Groom in May' did some expedient.

– Drunk at this late hour

Even if I sing,

Winter nights are the same

The snow wind blows hard

He arranged the sorrowful parting ballad song into a luxurious musical-style orchestra full of tragic beauty.

In other words, the high pitch of the climax was outrageous.

– When the night I shed tears goes away

When the cold morning comes,

With the sunlight by the window,

Come searching

It ended in a low pitch and was raised all the way up to a super high pitch.

In contrast with the first song, which was sweet and soft, the overflowing high pitch and strong vocalization came as a shock.

And on the live stage, this great vocal stunt worked well.

[Waaaaaa!!]

After the performance, the applause and cheers were incomparable to the first stage.

Originally, the high pitch was excessive enough to ruin the afterglow, but thanks to the grand arrangement, it ended with a thrill.

It was like winning a 1:3 bare-chested duel in the Colosseum.

“That’s awesome.”

The high school student admired his voice.

What was assumed to be an old-fashioned singer making appearances in entertainment shows was transformed into a ‘real singer who is lost to the light of times’.

‘Even considering the adjustment, isn’t he a top tier?’

Even if he was a concept bug, it was acceptable.

The high school student nodded.

He was speculating whether he was an indie singer with an artistic disease or an old man who wanted to look cool or something like that, but someone suddenly appeared.

It was his older sister.

“…What are you doing?”

Kim Raebin’s solo fan, the older sister of the high school student, was watching the TV with her mouth wide open.

It seemed she had heard ‘Groom in May’ singing on the way. Or she had listened and ran out here because it was so amazing.

The high school student said with a shrug.

“Did you see that? That’s a real singer!”

In the end, noona also recognized this true value, not those corrupt male idols who danced. The high school student was proud that they shared the same feeling for the first time in a long time.

Kim Rabin’s solo fan shouted.

“Isn’t that Moondae…?!”

“…?!”

The high school student doubted his ears for a moment.

Park Moondae… He was one of noona's favorite male idols!

"Stop talking bullshit, it wasn't that kind of voice~ Is that how he sings?"

"Just listening to him, he's definitely Moondae, idiot!"

"Ah, assh*le, why are you doing this to me?"

The siblings started pointing fingers at each other and shouting.

And this conversation was happening on the Internet as well.

* * *

"Have a safe trip, Mr. Moondae~"

"Thank you."

On my way back from this week's consultation.

Seon Ahyeon was filming a cosmetic commercial so he left to the filming set after saying goodbye via text message.

[Moondae, I was sad that I couldn't monitor your appearance in <The Singer I Made> because of yesterday's schedule, but I'm even more sad that I won't be able to see you until later because I have a tight schedule today. I'll make time to watch it somehow… (more)]

'…It's a long message again.'

It was almost like a letter.

I replied moderately with, 'It's really okay, so take a break when you have to'.

'Come to think of it, is it a good time to check?'

My stage… I mean, the stage of ‘Groom in May’ that I made.

As soon as the main broadcast ended last night, the clip would have been uploaded to the Internet, so there should be enough reactions now.

‘Let’s look at it now.’

I logged on to WeTube.

[Looking for a bride] | ‘Groom in May’. <One Day in May> | <The Singer I Made> Preliminary Stage | 202X0611]

Fortunately, the views on both stages were quite good.

‘I thought the first stage would have fewer views.’

Because it was a song that didn’t have particular high notes.

However, it seemed there were a lot of people who were more interested in the shape of the character.

– Bouquet head is crazy, I f*cking love it ㅠㅠ

– Honestly, the flower head is a bit scary, but the moment he sang, it was all blown away and combined into a handsome man

– Thank you for the marriage proposal. Where is our wedding hall?

– Look at how immersed he is with the character. Is the flower supposed to be cute and handsome? ㅋㅋㅠㅠㅠ

– A white suit and a veil? A standing mic with flowers? It is an unacceptable combination unless he is handsome, so he must be handsome

“Oh…”

Maybe because it was a song that matched the character set, a lot of people were more immersed than I thought.

'As long as you have fun.'

I shrugged and checked the next video. The comments on the video of 'Winter Night' I sang at the finals were like this.

– Really he's f*cking amazing, I feel good

– I've been playing it all day, please release the song ㅠㅠ

– See you, next week's winner~

– I'm curious~ who could he beˆˆ Just looking at his movements makes my heart flutter, so handsome… I'm really looking forward to it…

– His head is weird, but his singing is one of the best in the world.

– Even if the bride dies early, he is truly a master singer and groom who will go to the underworld to find her.

…I guess it suited the tastes of the elderly.

'Is it because I arranged it in an old-fashioned way?'

Anyway, overall, the comments were overflowing with favorable reviews and expectations.

I straightened my back.

'Was my strategy good?'

I had considered that the first and second stages would be aired on the same episode.

'If all of them come out in one episode anyway, both the stages will be the first impression. Then this build-up composition is correct.'

Even if the first stage was weak, they would see the following stage at once.

So, for the first stage, even if it was a bit weak, I did it in a way that saved the atmosphere of character and left out the strong arrangement.

'I'm glad it worked out well.'

I smirked.

However, when the reactions to the stage were sorted in the latest order, some conflicts were revealed.

To sum it up, it was like this.

– I think it's Park Moondae…

– Mr. Park is a good singer, but I don't think this is him. Their voices are different~

– Fools, when idols come out in places like this, they purposely made funny characters to hide their identity. Seeing he openly made his character cool, he's not an idol ㅇㅋ

If you think about it backward, maybe he is an idol

There are a lot of idols who are good at singing… Hmm, Park Moondae that I saw in Idol Inc wasn't this good.

Watch the song he performed on an American program. He's really good. I think it's Park Moondae (link)

He's good, but his voice is different. He's not Groom.

Like this, those who expressed that it might be Park Moondae were pushed into the minority.

It was fortunate that it wasn't an atmosphere that ridiculed 'Park

Moondae' because it was well-known that he was good at singing.

"Hmm."

I didn't plan for this to happen.

In fact, I didn't know that the speculation 'Park Moondae was Groom in May' would cease like this.

Of course, I used a different voice on purpose because I thought it would be better to maintain the fun and tension of the speculation.

I tried to sing a little differently than when I usually sang in the group.

'…Still, I tried to keep them confused.'

People who had heard Park Moondae sing a lot thought it was noticeable.

However, perhaps because the character was so strong, public opinion was more stubborn than I expected.

'I should've just gone with the bipedal cat concept.'

I regretted it a little, thinking of the mysterious cat that stayed on my candidate list until the end, but I soon cleared it up.

'I like this one better.'

In fact, I was a bit conscious of the advice I had received during counseling.

– Mr. Moondae, instead of objectively choosing the best one, why don't you practice choosing the one you like? Once or twice a week.

– Your homework assignment this time is to make a list of 'what you like'.

Well, the expert said so, I did it on a big scale at once

‘It’s not a problem that affects the status abnormality, so it should be fine.’

It was easier to see human limbs mimicking my movements rather than cat feet.

‘People seem to like it, too.’

I shrugged my shoulders, got off in front of the dorm I arrived at, and moved my feet.

‘The character profile will be released next week.’

I went through the profile I had made in advance and checked if there was anything I wanted to change.

At the same time, I opened the door of the dorm I arrived at and entered inside. The person who happened to be sitting in the living room pretended to notice.

It was Ryu Chungwoo.

“You’re here?”

“Yes, hyung.”

“I bought ice cream there. Eat.”

Ryu Chungwoo said as he lightly pointed to the refrigerator, then he got up from the sofa where he was sitting and turned around.

I knew it at that moment.

‘Are you avoiding the place where I sit?’

He got up because he was afraid that I would be uncomfortable if he stayed in the living room. So that I could relax in the living room.

‘…Huh.’

Somehow strength disappeared from my shoulders. The remaining uneasiness subsided like a knot being untied.

I opened the refrigerator and called out to Ryu Chungwoo.

“You should have some ice cream, too. What flavor do you want?”

“…Ah, should I?”

“Yes.”

Sitting down on the sofa again, Ryu Chungwoo grinned.

“Then I’ll have the orange flavor.”

Then someone came running excitedly from behind.

“I want ice cream, too!”

‘Where did he come from?’

Instinctively, I threw an ice cream to Cha Eugene, whose grammar now sounded natural, then I went to the sofa and sat down.

And we watched the rerun of <The Singer I Made> together.

“You have flowers for a head! That’s cool!”

“Thank you.”

“You’re good at singing, Moondae.”

“It’s not a big deal.”

This wasn’t so bad.

When my stage was over, Ryu Chungwoo asked.

“You just came back from filming for the next episode, right?”

“Yes.”

“How was it?”

“…It was fun.”

I smirked.

I was really looking forward to next week’s episode.

- 1. it is a word used to mock someone who is deeply stuck in a character they created. Probably similar to chuunibyou.

Chapter 149

The week before the next episode of the semi-final and final of <The Singer I Made> would be aired.

Thanks to the impressive hologram character that hadn't appeared for a while, it was lightly talked about on the Internet.

– It's fun to see something new for the first time in a while. I've seen them running out of all kinds of sportsman usable materials

– The profile and concept art is coming out this week, right? I'm looking forward to it. It's been so long since my heart raced when watching TV. I'm flustered…

– I was surprised that his voice was so good, but he completely ripped apart the next stage. The bouquet head made my heart pound – From the first stage that seems to symbolize a groom on a spring day to the next stage where the beauty of tragedy is alive. Everything was good. (link)

– He's really good at singing, it's his definite victory ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

Of course, because he had high-level quality and didn't lack anything, he naturally got popular.

And, of course most of Park Moondae's fans had guessed.

That the Groom in May would be Park Moondae.

– Honestly, it's obvious

– It's so obvious. If you can't tell, you don't have eardrums

– No, his skills got better. His voice seemed to have improved a lot since the American program, but how is this possible

The consensus is that it's because he's a genius

– Honestly, no matter how you see it, the character… I had guessed the moment I saw him but hearing his voice, it was just as I expected ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– ㅇㄱㄹㅇSeriously, the making of Magical Boy didn't go anywhere ㅋㅋㅋ

But it didn't come out to the surface.

Thanks to having gone through so many suppressions, they had established a stance of not actively arguing when their opinions differed from the public.

It would be over once his identity was revealed anyway, so the fans refrained from speaking while looking forward to the reaction after that. It was to avoid the crazy people who sometimes tried to catch and ridicule them.

And at the long-awaited airing day for the second half of <The Singer I Made>.

These people who were looking forward to 'Groom in May' waited for the main broadcast of the entertainment program for a long time.

Among them were this brother and sister.

"Look. It's Park Moondae."

"Yeah, you're delusional~"

It was a college student, who was a fan of Kim Raebin, and her younger brother.

The younger brother was prepared for the older sister's curses to come flying as soon as he babbled, but it didn't happen.

"…Huft."

The college student put up with it and just laughed it off.

It was the confidence of those who knew the outcome.

"What's with you?"

"Fine. Just watch the broadcast."

The pissed-off high school student huffed and turned to the TV.

Still, as soon as the broadcast started, the siblings forgot the fight.

Because 'Groom in May' came out on the first match of the semifinals between the remaining three cast members and one winner of the last episode.

[The audience is buzzing]

[Hey~ I'm looking forward to it]

[I don't know what kind of performance he'll show us!]

It was a reaction full of high anticipation from the audience and judges who had grasped the situation through the last two stages.

With captions and comments intersecting, the 'Groom in May' finally appeared on the stage.

"Heol."

"He's here."

The flying butterflies and the more sophisticated patterns on the veil and gloves were captured in the eyes of the college student.

It seemed they slightly reinforced the hologram.

‘I guess they poured some money because of the reaction?’

The main vocalist of the first-tier idol group came out, so the college student snorted, saying that it was only natural.

“Hey, here it is! Here it is!”

“Be quiet!”

On the dark stage, only the hologram shone alone.

And the accompaniment played out.

The sweet and clear sounds of violins and oboes filled the space.

The stage was filled with bright, glaring lights. With the flowers swaying, the groom raised his right hand and gently placed it on the microphone.

– My world is

A place free of sorrow

Only joy

I share it with you

“Huh? That…”

“Shh!”

After the sweet line, a lower and more desperate line followed.

– In my world

There’s no darkness

Bright starlight

Shine on you

“Wow…”

This time, the siblings opened their mouths and looked at the screen, forgetting to prevent each other from getting in the way.

‘Groom in May’ was singing a duet song that both a man and a woman sing together.

It was a very romantic song, famous for its fairy tale lyrics and lyrical melodies.

And another characteristic of this song was that it was often used as a wedding song.

– Sometimes sad days

Will come to find us

Please stay in this world

– My love

Your world

in a warm hug

to keep the promise

In the original song, the lyric was composed and solidified by two people exchanging melodies with each other.

However, sung alone by ‘Groom in May’, the wedding song had changed its nuance and completely turned into a song of perfect courtship.

Unlike the graceful marriage proposal song in the preliminaries stage, the composition that crossed the heights of men and women, like the tail feathers of courting peacocks, captivated the ears.

'It really sounds nice.'

'It's a country-style song, but why is it good?'

The brother and sister were completely immersed in the song and listened to the rest of the song in silence.

The subtitles were frantic too.

[The love conveyed by Groom in May]

[Falling in love with his sweet voice]

The faces of the judges with closed eyes and the judges with their eyes wide open looking at the stage crossed each other.

"He's going to the final round, right?"

"Definitely."

Watching the 'Groom in May' bow down again after finishing the song and then slowly disappear, the siblings expressed the same opinion for the first time in a long time.

And, just as they predicted, 'The Groom in May' advanced to the final.

[The 2nd finalist is… 'Groom in May']

"Yeeeess!"

"Hey, if he doesn't make it to the final, the result must be manipulated."

As if watching a sports game, the siblings swung the remote control at the TV excitedly.

And the profiles of the semi-finalists were introduced at length.

This content was to fill the time, but there were cases where a well-made character profile caught people's interests.

The Groom in May was like that.

– Crazy… He can only sing love songs until he meets his bride;; What's with the concept

– So Winter Night, which he sang in the finals, was the time when he met the bride and lost her, then he was finally able to sing a breakup song?

Heol

You're such an interpreter

– The bouquet head only has flowers that bloom in May… The Groom in May… If he get married in another month, the flowers change

Please brainwash him until he becomes the Groom in June. It's June right now

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– When he gets married, the head of the flower changes to the bride's ideal type. This setup is too much but it's great

As soon as the profile appeared, the college student browsed through SNS and felt proud.

'Park Moondae is really good at things like this!'

And she was sure once again. This must be Park Moondae!

"What would you do if he is really Park Moondae?"

"I think you'll get humiliated if you keep being like this."

“Hey, do you want to bet 100,000 won?”

“Wow, thank you for the allowance.”

Right before the final stage, the siblings even decided to make a high-stakes bet.

The two people that couldn’t turn back anymore stared at the TV with serious faces.

“Even if he fails here, I’ll win, right?”

“Saying that from my point of view, yes.”

The two roughly skipped the first stage of the final. An old-fashioned chicken with a tinfoil ribbon sang a fun samba, but it wasn’t particularly exciting.

And finally… His turn had come.

The Groom in May reappeared on stage.

[Wooow!]

A red butterfly flew away, and a bouquet of flowers was shining through the white veil.

‘Groom in May’ held his standing microphone with both of his hands covered in white gloves.

And the stage went dark.

Clang.

Several lights from all directions shot down toward the hologram.

It was dark red.

“…!”

The lights shook distortedly.

Then, an ominous sound began to ring out.

Shhhh-shhhh-

The sound of sogeum[1]The sogeum is a small bamboo transverse flute used in traditional Korean music. Sumber: Wiki. leaking like the wind was mixed with the frantic sound of a flute going back and forth between notes, creating a strange atmosphere.

A slow drum beat rang out.

Boom… Boom… Boom…

It was chilly.

In that eerie atmosphere, the Groom in May began to sing.

The white suit was stained with mottled red light.

– On the eve of April

I can’t even see the moon

You don’t come

Love is rotting away

A slightly hoarse, scraping sound echoed across the stage.

Perhaps because of the shaking of the lights, the flowers of ‘The Groom in May’ seemed to be swaying.

As if he would soon wither.

– The longing is this long

I don't deserve to live

I suddenly open the window

Only traces remain on the road

The song played out over the restless monotony without taking a chance to breathe. The note rose up steeply, as if it was about to jump.

Then, it dropped.

– Still, I'll wait

In line with the low note, the accompaniment exploded.

"…!!"

Amid the rushing sound of Korean traditional music instruments, 'The Groom in May' bowed his head, burying the flowers in the stand microphone.

– My heart is all rotten

Until your bony heart melts buried under the ground

Until all the memories fade

I'll still wait

The melancholy melody began with a very low tone and rose frantically.

In the repeated lyrics, the countless metaphors all ended with one word.

‘Waiting.’

The screen didn’t even show the audience’s reaction. Only the ‘Groom in May’ was illuminated on the red-colored stage.

There seemed to be an invisible gaze from the veil and beyond the bouquet.

Even beyond the screen, they could feel the desperate feeling as if being overwhelmed.

And at least, it arrived.

A high-pitched voice that sounded like a cry raised the final chorus lyrics.

– On the day you finally came

Until the day of your beauty

The last note followed as if he didn’t breathe.

Chasing after it, the gloomy accompaniment ran frantically… Then, it stopped.

– Waiting

“…”

A faint sound of sogeum finished the song.

In the place where fear and madness left, a painful and sad aftertaste remained.

With the bouquet on the standing microphone, the frozen ‘Groom in May’ didn’t move.

And the moment the accompaniment was completely cut off.

He disappeared from the stage as if blown away.

[Oooooh!]

[Wow…!]

Only then did the audience seats were filled with applause and admiration.

The camera that caught the unusual appearance of the judges and the audience covering their mouths finally appeared.

[The overwhelmed audience]

[They can’t take their hands off their mouths]

And the siblings who were frozen in front of the TV also came to their senses.

“…It’s really crazy.”

“I’m getting goosebumps.”

“It’s Moondae’s win.”

“You’re crossing the line again.”

The stage of ‘The Groom in May’, who seemed to have passed away while waiting for a bride who didn’t return, left a tremendous impression.

Because he dragged out a stage that could be seen as excessive, with a terrifyingly perfect song.

‘I’ll definitely watch the show next week, too.’

Convinced of the victory of ‘Groom in May’, the high school student made a decision in his heart.

He had to watch.

He even thought about buying and listening to his album once his identity was revealed.

'Looking at each stage, he's definitely a band vocalist. I think he'writes minor songs.'

So when the 'Groom in May' revealed his identity shortly after, he was completely frozen in shock.

['Groom in May', the identity of the person who created this hologram character… Revealed now!]

Just before announcing the winners, the identities of the cast members were revealed in advance to make up the picture of them waiting for the announcement with their holograms on stage.

The hologram of 'Groom in May', whose motion link was released, stood calmly on the stage. He looked somewhat quiet for someone who had sung such a miserable song just now.

He could hear the MC's loud voice.

[Come on in!]

At that moment, the bottom of the stage opened and the person began to appear.

And people started making strange exclamations.

"…!?"

Because what came up was… the 'Groom in May'.

"What?"

The actual 'Groom in May', who had come up all the way, tilted the bouquet.

It looked just like the hologram, so he got goosebumps.

“Gasp.”

Until now, animals and food had been playfully reproduced using doll clothes, but it had never looked so similar like this.

Because he made a character out of things that were usually not used!

‘What is this bastard doing?’

Among the buzzing audience and the judges, only the MC shouted cheerfully.

[This person is…!]

The newly came-up ‘Groom in May’ ripped off the bouquet from his head with his right hand.

“…!”

A thick mesh mask covered with flowers flowed down to his neck, revealing a sweaty face and hair.

[The popular idol, Testar’s Park Moondae!]

[!!!!]

The screaming audience and the judges who deliberately pretended to be more surprised were captured and replayed continuously on the screen.

And the high school student was stunned, too.

“…”

“Hey, hey.”

Tuk-tuk, the college student tapped her brother with her foot.

“Give me 100,000 won.”

By the way, a similar situation was happening on the Internet in real-time.

- 1. The sogeum is a small bamboo transverse flute used in traditional Korean music. Sumber: Wiki.

Chapter 150

＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝

[The identity of Groom in May in ＜My Singer＞ just came out]

: Testar Park Moondae

Appearing in the same outfit as the hologram

(screenshot)

＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝

– Crazy

– I was watching and doubted my eyes

– Oh my God ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– It’s really Park Moondae, you bastards ㅠㅠ

‘As expected, it’s coming up in real time.’

I briefly checked out the growing comments, but I eventually gave up my escape and looked back to the TV.

The identity of ＜Groom in May＞ was being aired on TV in the dorm’s living room in front of me.

[Testar’s Park Moondae??]

[A surprise appearance of the national stock idol…]

[The audience and the judge are shocked]

I turned on my smartphone because it was hard to see those captions and editing with my eyes open.

If I was alone, I would take a look, but the problem was… I was watching with the group.

“I-It’s fine, Moondae, it’s cool…!”

“Impressive directing!”

“Hey, Moondae~ You were determined. You even prepared an outfit. Nice~”

Keun Sejin poked me in the shoulder. Meanwhile, captions appeared again under Park Moondae’s words on TV.

[Please introduce yourself!]

[Yes, hello. I’m Park Moondae, the main vocalist of the group Testar.]

[A rosy smile in May… Melting woman’s heart]

“Rosy…!”

“Wow, the captions are really……”

The guys around me couldn’t stand it anymore and began to hold back their laughter with their heads down.

When Testar’s exaggeratedly edited activities were briefly shown on the screen, I didn’t even think about raising my head because I was a bit embarrassed.

‘Is there any meaning in monitoring this?’

I’d guessed it since the moment everyone said they would watch it together, even though I wanted to go in and watch it by myself.

Fortunately, the broadcast soon moved on to the announcement of the winner.

[<The Singer I Made>, the best singer character…]

[It's Park Moondae's 'Groom in May'!]

Confetti splashed on the screen.

"WOOOOW!"

"He sang like that so, of course, he's the winner!"

Bae Sejin shouted excitedly.

"…?"

What is he doing?

When Bae Sejin met my eyes, he cleared his throat and turned his head away.

It reminded me of last week when he said 'I enjoyed your Winter Night performance' with a stiff face.

'I guess that kind of dramatic singing style is your taste.'

I thought I was watching some kind of race.

Just in time, the MC was making a fuss on the screen.

[Ah~ Moondae-ssi! Please tell us how you feel!]

[Hmm… While moving 'Groom in May', I had so much fun. That alone was a meaningful experience… I am so happy that there are people who like it… Thank you very much.]

It was true.

I started this by clearing my head, but the results were better than I thought… It was amazing.

‘I was lucky.’

I couldn’t expect such luck all the time, but it was still a fresh experience.

“Moondae hyung, you have a very similar physique to the hologram of <Groom in May>, did you plan this public performance from the beginning?”

“Wasn’t it uncomfortable to have flowers on your face?”

…I managed to answer meekly.

“…Yeah, I planned it, and of course it was uncomfortable.”

“I knew it!”

“It’s not good to be uncomfortable!”

It was a little burdensome, but I had to accept this much. They had put up with my bad condition for the past month without me knowing.

“Seeing this, I want to hurry up and promote a new album~”

“R-Right.”

With the chatter of the guys who were motivated because of the monitoring, my footage on the screen was almost over.

[Unfortunately… Our ‘Chicken with Ribbon’ is only a runner-up!]

‘It’s the guy from the Gold 1’s group.’

While the runner-up, the chicken, was being interviewed, Ryu Chungwoo asked.

“Then are you going to come out in the next episode, Moondae?”

“Yes. I will come out starting from the semi-final the week after that.”

“Good. Congratulations. Hmm… Then, wait a minute.”

Ryu Chungwoo got up from his seat with a smile. Then the youngest two sprang to their feet.

“…?”

It looked unnatural to anyone watching.

‘…Oh, no way.’

The three disappeared into the kitchen and reappeared in an instant.

Cha Eugene had a cake in his hand.

[＜Cong＞ Testar’s 1st anniversary ＜rats＞]

[Great job! Awesome!]

“…!”

As expected.

…In fact, today was June 18th. It was the first anniversary of Testar’s debut.

”Although there’s still less than an hour left.’

It was already 11:20 p.m.

I forgot about the anniversary content momentarily because it was already filmed and uploaded at midnight due to editing time.

“We have a video that will be released at midnight, but… I thought it would be nice if we could do it together.”

Ryu Chungwoo laughed and shook the two maknae’s heads.

“I prepared it with these guys.”

“I like cake!”

“The phrases written at the top were decided after we discussed them together.”

The phrases really did look like the kind of phrases that would come out from those three.

But it wasn’t the phrases that mattered.

‘…Did you wait until my monitoring was over?’

It was a little… admirable.

When I started getting strange feelings, Keun Sejin intervened.

“Wait, wait! Let’s take a picture first~ Moondae!”

“…”

Why are you holding out your phone as if it is natural?

“Hey, it’s because Moondae is good at taking pictures~ Huh? No way, are you not confident in taking selfies? Are you?”

“Give it to me.”

“Oh~”

I’d let this slide.

I snatched the phone out of Keun Sejin’s hand and turned the camera into selfie mode.

Stretching my hand all the way, I adjusted it so that all seven of us and the cake could fit on the screen.

“I’m taking the pictures.”

“Yes~”

Click, click, click. Naturally, I took several pictures every few seconds.

And after a while.

“Then, let’s eat the cake!”

“…Is it okay to eat this? The coloring on the top…”

“It’s delicious!”

“Cha Eugene! You should let the hyungs eat first!”

“…”

As if he had given up, Bae Sejin threw a piece of the cake into his mouth.

I shrugged.

‘…It tastes good.’

For a design cake, it was really good.

30 minutes before June 18th ended. The first anniversary passed by with us chewing on the cake.

“We’ve worked hard for a year. Let’s continue to do our best.”

“Oh, of course~ Let’s do our best until we get the Grand Prize~”

“We’re not doing an activity, so eat a lot.”

“Y-Yes…!”

This simplicity was not bad.

* * *

When Park Moondae and the members were peacefully eating the cake together.

Park Moondae’s fans were roaring with victory.

– Ah, Groom in May is Park Moondae!! (clatter)

– I feel like I just get hit by a waterfall of cider under the shower. Thank you, my idol.

– I thought I was going to die from frustration. Finally, I’m introducing my husband. My groom is Park Moondae

Ah, get in line, it’s still long before your turn

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

As much as the period of silence and self-restraint were frustrating, posts poured into social media and communities like crazy.

[Comparison of ‘Groom in May’ and Park Moondae]

[The identity of the Groom in May that everyone in the know knew.jpg]

[My Singer’s final performance that gives goosebumps]

The fans, who rushed in as if settling old grudges in less than an hour, began to suffer from Park Moondae’s new content.

– Park Moondae, you madman, how could you come up with that idea… You don't know how to hit the brakes, my punk!! That's why I love you!!

– He wrote in the Groom's profile that his flower head turns into his bride's ideal type when he meets his bride, what are you going to do with this information if one really shows up?

Isn't this a marriage proposal? I have to register the marriage

-I don't know which one is the flower and which one is the face⊤⊤ Isn't Park Moondae and Bouquet synonymous?

– Moon Puppy in May? This is it (country puppy with flowers)

– It's really satisfying… If you don't feel satisfied after listening to Park Moondae's song, you're not Korean

And although not as wild as the fans, even the general fans of <The Singer I Made> were deeply impressed with 'Groom in May'.

This was because his performances from the preliminaries to the finals were all great, and even the impact and structure of the identity disclosure were perfect.

– It's been a while since a cast member took this seriously as a singer. I've seen too many punks doing stuff like being the baseball mascots – For a guy who sings like that to be an idol, it's such a waste. He should just sing dance songs

Aigoo, old man. Everyone starts as an idol these days. When the time comes, they'll go solo ㅇㅇ

– He didn't have an original song for the final stage. He was scared of making one

– Except for the weak preliminary round, there's no doubt that he's the perfect winner

□Since the preliminaries were used to build characters, it's a great strategic choice. I wonder who directed it? If he did it himself ㄹㅇ he's like a break-out idol

□First of all, that vocal cord is his, that alone is admirable enough ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

□Indeed ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

Just like the favorable viewers, even though they might have different tastes in the character, general viewers also admitted one thing,

'He's really good at singing.'

The overwhelming victory in the prime-time public TV entertainment show, which had a viewership rating of around 10%, also had a light impact on public perception.

It appeared from some comments in the video revealing the identity of the 'Groom in May' that was uploaded on WeTube.

＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝

[Romantic and thrilling performance, <The Groom in May>! The surprising identity is? | <The Singer I Made> | 202X0618]

＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝＝

– The final stage really gave me goosebumps! I got a breakout. You're the best!

– He is truly the country's happiness… What a great singer with an amazing voice! how can you sing so well.^^

– Park Moondae! I'll wait for your next performance~ㅠㅠ

– His face is also very bright and handsome. He must have a pretty voice because he has such a pretty face.

Middle-aged people recognized Park Moondae.

Because <Idol Inc.> was so popular, they had seen Park Moondae's face, but there weren't many people who had listened to his singing with such intensity.

In addition, there were also the reactions of the people who really liked the character of 'Groom in May' itself.

– Proposal–Breakup–Courship–Obsession. The stages so far are epic and perfect

– Since last week, all kinds of delusions won't leave my head. It feels like I've made five billion movies with Groom in May as the main character

– You don't come and love rots away (Groom in May fanart)

– It's been a long time since we've had a non-human character… I didn't know I have a concept-obsessed comrade among idols

ㄴㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋA sudden rise in intimacy!

The fact that he did the same thing as the hologramㅋㅋㅋ I am convinced it's true

– I keep thinking about how he took off his bouquet head. I'm going crazy

You too? Sameㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ To be honest, I really liked Groom in May. I thought my fantasy would be blown away if a human head come out, but it surprisingly turned out good

As expected, the face is the answer

– I hope Moondae-ssi can share more TMI about Groom in May

Even if the character was created by Park Moondae and his voice and motion were taken from Park Moondae, the character and Park

Moondae couldn’t be completely the same.

Nevertheless, the enthusiasm spread quickly. Because they had so much in common.

– I’m already looking forward to the performance next week ㅠㅠ

At the time when his identity was just revealed as he performed a fantastic stage on a program watched by many people.

When all kinds of praise and attention were directed to Park Moondae.

Of course, it didn’t end there.

[Park Moondae can go solo ㅎㅎ]

It was a planned aggro.

For your information, it would be smashed soon.

PDF by: traitorAIZEN

KW
데뷔 못 하면
죽는 병 걸림
백덕수 현대 판타지 장편소설

Debut or Die

– 데못죽 –

- VOLUME 4 -

-AUTHOR-
백덕수

-ILLUSTRATOR-
텡

[Readhive]

Chapter 151

I scrolled down.

‘It’s already here.’

The aggro, which I had guessed since the first week’s filming was aired, began to rampage on the Internet.

‘They usually start by feeling around the atmosphere first.’

Disguising their words as compliments.

‘Found it.’

I clicked on the text.

[What do you think about Park Moondae coming out solo?]

: He’s the first-place winner in idol Inc, so he has a big fandom, and he has a good concept for the main vocal, so I think Park Moondae would do great solo ㅋㅋㅋ

This kind of ground bait was usually quickly dispelled by fans, but, but now things had turned a little differently.

Because it was a situation where the favorability for Park Moondae reached its peak through variety shows, and because general viewers who were unfamiliar with the idol fan base openly responded favorably.

– I think it will be fine

– Does he want to go solo later?? I’m looking forward to it ㅋㅋ

– I want to listen to a lot of songs, that concept? Using that concept is cool too ㅠㅠ

– Honestly, I don't think he will fail

It looked good, but it was noticeably better than usual, so it was a problem.

'It must have looked nice as firewood.'

Then, they would post something like this afterward.

[A member of Testar shows off his desire to go solo]

: It's Park Moondae

Absence from schedules for a month right before coming out alone on a variety show + no reactions for various group schedules

(Notice of absence from W Live)

(Summer package video GIF)

He's working hard when he's filming by himself ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

(Interview video)

There were a lot of fans who felt weird because it was going on for a whole month, but when the singer came out this time, everything exploded ㅋㅋ

There's a theory that he's out of shape because he's been working hard to do solo work

And the fans can't hide it either

(screenshot)

Pretending to be a fan of the group and pretending to be not interested in going solo, please stop doing those things because it's obvious (praying hand emoticon)

In that kind of post, the reaction screenshot of the well-knitted 'Park Moondae solo' post would be uploaded together.

And the main issue would be the attitude controversy.

'…I still feel uncomfortable.'

I knew that the content of when I was in a bad condition could become prey someday. This article was written well as if following a standard procedure.

But in fact, they weren't aiming the general public opinion here.

'It doesn't matter if I go solo or not.'

It would be better if they made fun of me because of my bad grades when I really came out as a soloist, but now that I had their attention, I would get a lot of support.

It would be like this.

-??? Can't Park Moondae work solo?ㅋㅋ He's talented too, he's a real starㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– I heard that a lot of fans said that they're loyal, but to a kid who said he was sick, this heat is too ugly…

– Park Moondae is doing so well so why can't he? If health issues are the problem, there are many cases where it only lasted a few months

– I would've rather go solo rather than stay in a group that has such bad akgaes[1]Akgae (악개) is a K-pop fandom term for a fan who likes only one member of a music group and hates the other members. ㅅㅂㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

– Testar is tired of every post that comes up. Please don't display it and keep the fight among yourself.

After the fight, the comments become longer and might be classified as popular posts, but public opinion didn't change.

So the target here was… a discord within Testar fandom.

It was to stiffen the atmosphere of the fandom that liked the group itself, and to create an atmosphere that made it possible for members' malicious anti-fans to keep each other in check and disturb each other.

So another argument was brought up here.

The date on which the second filming of Park Moondae in <The Singer I Made> was aired, it was the same day as Testar's first anniversary.

-It's our 1st anniversary, but only posts about Park Moondae come up, it's really too much

– I'm not interested in whether you're the groom or the bride in May. Just don't harm the group's content, Gommeo – Park Moondae, you bully, why is it that every time you did something, the kids were always on edge the whole time? Especially Ryu Chungwoo? You don't want to see him anymore because he's the leader?

– Couldn't you have set up the schedule and avoided it? I didn't know you would do this without thinking ㅋㅋㅋㅋ

If I had known that <The Singer I Made> would have such a good response, I would have done so.

'…I was aiming to get a moderate amount of fun for the fans.'

Who would have known it would become a more popular topic than the first anniversary of the group? I knew both of those events would take place at the same time.

Anyway, after a little more time passed by, the controversy would flow more comprehensively.

It was to encourage skepticism about the group's activities themselves.

– Moondae, do you want to go solo? ㅋㅋㅋㅋ Where did your initial commitment go? It's an artist disease, it's a good thing I recognize it, please wake up – Recently, Seon Ahyeon also shot a solo commercial and everyone's personal schedules increased, but it was Park Moondae who set the mood

– Let's go separately for things like this, make a separate SNS, really… I'm tired of hearing news from guys I don't care about

If the 1st anniversary was so important, there was no way each member would post a message asking to go separately from the day of the 1st anniversary.

'So the ones who posted this were people who are not fans of the group in the first place.'

Of course, Testar had shaken off the fact that they were a group from a survival show that received individual votes.

This meant that our identity as a group had been solidified through the album's worldview and various contents.

However, we still had a lot of solo stans, and if they shook things off this way, there would be a lot of people who joined.

…That being said, it was a fact known to everyone who was interested.

Therefore, of course, it was a basic attitude of a member of society to prepare countermeasures.

I changed my smartphone screen to a phone call.

“Yes, hello… Yes. Thank you. It’s nothing, but I have something to ask.”

After a brief conversation with the company, I talked to the person sitting next to me.

“Raebin.”

“Yes?”

Kim Raebin, who was busy listening to his own song, looked back in surprise.

“They said the interview will be released in the evening.”

It was as scheduled.

“Ah!”

At that moment, Kim Raebin’s face brightened. Um, he still looked like a gangster, though.

“It was a very meaningful interview, so I can’t wait!”

“Yeah.”

I leaned my back against the backrest.

This kind of thing wasn’t enough to make me anxious.

* * *

In the evening when all kinds of aggro were running wild inside the fandom while on the outside, Park Moondae’s reputation was still on the rise due to ‘Groom in May’.

An interview came up on WeTube.

It was an interview content run by a WeTube channel under MBS that produced <The Singer I Made>.

[I brought the marriage certificate… ☆ We have gathered the producers of Groom in May! <<Titi's Sweet Interview>> EP.47 by MBS2]

In the thumbnail, there were Park Moondae and… Kim Raebin.

'Kim Raebin?'

'Tied-selling…?'

Those who clicked, a little surprised by the sudden appearance of another member, soon learn the whole story.

First of all, there was a heartwarming and obvious talk that Kim Raebin had given advice to Park Moondae's arrangement in each round.

The main point came out next.

[Titi: Wow! So the final song was composed by Raebin-ssi??]

[Raebin: Yes. Of course, I didn't handle the entire production process alone, but it is true that I tried to take the initiative in overseeing the work. So I was able to give it to Moondae hyung as a birthday gift because the copyright stake is the largest…]

[It doesn't end there…!]

Unable to bear it, they hurriedly fast-forwarded. It was fans' way of acknowledging it.

And a large caption came up.

[Raebin-ssi… gives more TMI than expected]

[Summary: The song was composed under Raebin-ssi's guidance and was a birthday present for Moondae-ssi]

At any rate, the content was perfectly conveyed.

The song that 'Groom of May' sang in the final was composed by a Testar member.

In other words, it was an unreleased self-composed song.

Then why was this song unreleased?

[Moondae: Actually, we're making a comeback soon… This song is from that album.]

[Titi: Oooh!!]

Right.

The song, 'Flower at the End of the Month', was one of the songs on Testar's next album.

[Moondae: Each member's solo songs are included in this album, and they're really cool, so to introduce them quickly… I sang it.]

[Titi: Wow! Then, when the album comes out, we will be able to listen to a slightly different recorded version of the song on the music site?]

[Moondae: That's correct.]

[Titi is with an experienced promotor]

In other words, he sang the song while also promoting the group album.

[Moondae: Honestly, all the other members' vocals are really good. I sang it first because I had the chance… Isn't that right?]

[Raebin: Objectively, Moondae hyung has the best singing ability, so if you just compare simple songs, he has the upper hand…]

[Moondae: (hurriedly) Yes. Please look forward to the other songs in the upcoming album.]

[ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ]

The captions burst into laughter at Park Moondae's struggle.

[Titi: Ah~You two are so funny! I laughed out loud!]

[Raebin: Thank you! (brightly)]

[Moondae: Thank you. (Tibetan fox)]

The interview was conducted in a light and humorous way without anyone being rude, and a personal conversation was also properly drawn out.

[Titi: Ah, before you appeared on <My Singer>, you were very sick…?]

[Moondae: Yes… I felt sorry for the members who had to take care of me because I failed to manage my condition for about a month after leaving the country. That's why appearing in <My Singer> was meaningful to me. It's been a while since I've been able to contribute something to the group…]

[Raebin: Hyung…]

[TT: What's this? What's with this moving atmosphere! Are you okay now, Moondae-ssi?]

[Moondae: I can't be healthier than this]

[Strong Moon Puppy]

In fact, Park Moondae didn't even aim for this part to happen.

It was just a question he added to reassure people who might have been worried for a month, but it became an additional jackpot.

Anyway, casually brushing off the topic, the cast and the interviewer continued to exchange questions and answers and ended the short 12-minute interview video.

[Moondae: I will come out with all of Testar.]

[Raebin: I'm already looking forward to it. I think it'll be very harmonious.]

[Titi: Yes~~! Then, while waiting for the interview with Keun Sejin-ssi, who is said to be my soul twin, the interview is over! Take your marriage certificate, Groom!]

[Moondae: Nice.]

The interview ended with Park Moondae smiling and holding the marriage registration form.

And at the same time, articles popped up here and there.

It was half prepared, half reacted to the interview.

[Countdown to Testar's comeback… Park Moondae's song 'Groom of May' is an album preview]

[Testar's summer comeback. The concept is horror?]

[The comeback of popular group Testar, 'The schedule is already out']

Naturally, fans' attention quickly turned to the news of the comeback.

– Ahhh Testar's comeback!!

– Heol, Moondae's song is from the new album

– Moondae has a plan for everything.

– Crazy, it was a song made by Raebin?? No wonder my heart was beating. I recognized the owner

– Are all the albums like that? Hold your breath until crazy Testar makes the comeback

As the finishing touch, Testar uploaded photos of their first-anniversary party to their account.

Our Loviewer♡ Thank you for being with spending 365 days with Testar!

Please continue to love us♡ We'll continue as Testar♡ Our relationship is forever ☆

(The cake in the picture is sponsored by the leader hyung and the maknaes. It was delicious.)

(photo)

It was to show off, 'It's not a part of our schedule, but we're close enough to prepare a cake for the 1st anniversary by ourselves and eat it together'.

– What should I do with our kids' hearts ㅠㅠ

– A group full of compassion and bonds. Long live my stars. (edited photo)

– I'm crying at the thought of Park Moondae promoting the album as soon as he got better. Being a Loviewer is the best

Since the teaser of the interview was posted on SNS quite early, it wasn't reasonable to bite and hang around, saying, 'He used that as an excuse to stop the controversy'.

– Hurry up and open preorders, T1!!

The controversy, which was originally a typhoon in a teacup, was quickly subdued by people who were excited by the news of the comeback.

As predicted by Park Moondae, the popularity of ‘The Groom in May’ didn’t dissipate and was instead smoothly connected to Testar’s comeback.

And Park Moondae, the person involved in all of this, was in the middle of a new schedule.

* * *

“Long time no see, hubae-nim.”

“…!”

- 1. Akgae (악개) is a K-pop fandom term for a fan who likes only one member of a music group and hates the other members.

Chapter 152

As soon as I entered the commercial set, I saw an unwelcome ace.

“How have you been? You seem to have a lot on your mind.”

It was VTIC Cheongryeo.

‘It’s driving me crazy.’

Why is that here again?

For your information, I hadn’t heard about this from the company. I was in a hurry to get into a good commercial, so I only saw the script that was delivered to me.

If I am going to deal with someone I know, shouldn’t they tell me, at least?

“I want to quit.’

I really didn’t feel like working.

But if I made it obvious, it would be a rumor generator. Let’s just nod.

“Yes. Thanks to your advice, it worked out well.”

“Oh, really? That’s great.”

Cheongryeo smiled and held out his hand.

“Please take good care of me today.”

“I look forward to your kind cooperation.”

I didn't do anything childish like putting in strength, so the handshake was over in an instant.

"Then I'll see you in a little while."

"Yes, sunbae-nim."

I didn't want to see him.

I changed my costume and prepared for the shoot, feeling strange when I thought of the script.

The outfit was a training suit that followed the recent trend. However, it had the company logo on it.

'I already know why I'm wearing these clothes.'

First of all, the filming location was a grass field, and there was a lot of exercise during filming.

It was like this.

"Then, here we go!"

At the director's words, a group of four-legged animals rushed to me and Cheongryeo, who were standing in the grass.

It was a group of three-month-old retrievers and country puppies.

"Woof!"

As I was patting their necks following the screen, one of them even jumped up to my nose and headbutted me.

'They're excited.'

Three or four of them jumped in one after another. Hey, don't lick me.

I picked up the bulky lump with both hands.

…It looked cute.

“Pfft!”

Now it coughed on my face.

I almost fell while trying to clean up myself.

In a situation where I was covered in saliva, I tried not to look stiff while having four of five dogs in my head.

“Cut! Oh, that was good~”

“…Thank you.”

The staff ran to fix my messed-up face. We both had a hard time.

“Make the dogs feel more secure! As if you’re grabbing onto them~ Please smile sweetly!”

Right. ‘feel secure’ was important.

What I was filming was an insurance company.

To be precise, it was an for a corporate brand promoting the support of abandoned dogs and training of guide dogs at a large insurance company.

‘Usually, they use people who are well-known to the public for this kind of thing.’

However, an actor who originally got hired for my position was caught in a sexual harassment scandal and they used me instead.

My newly created popularity among middle-aged people due to < The Singer I Made> might have had an influence to some extent.

“Good boy.”

…I didn’t think my external relationship with him didn’t have any impact at all… I didn’t like the aftertaste.

Even though the filming was stopped, Cheongryeo was suppressing the herd of dogs with his hands like some kind of spirit.

The sight of him rubbing their bellies easily stood out. There was no special photogenic effect.

‘I want to take a picture of it.’

But I didn’t bring my smartphone because I thought I didn’t need it. I didn’t want to look at him.

At that moment, Cheongryeo opened his mouth.

“Do you like dogs?”

“…I don’t dislike them.”

Coincidentally, the staff was gone. We didn’t have microphones because they only selected the scene and inserted the voice into the narration.

That meant it was the perfect time for this bastard to talk nonsense.

But my prediction was wrong.

“Isn’t that right? They’re really good kids. Good boy.”

“…”

“They’re also easy to deal with. Compliment them when they do good things and scold them when they do bad things.”

Cheongryeo just petted the dogs while talking about them.

Information reflexively flashed through my head.

-That hyung donated half of his settlement to the stray dog center.

No way, it was real?

No, it didn't matter.

"I guess you really like dogs, sunbae-nim."

I was going to buy time until the shooting resumed by responding appropriately.

But he tilted his head.

For normal people, usually… that gesture meant they were puzzled.

"Do I like them? I don't know. It's easier to not raise one anyway."

Up to this point, I thought he meant it was troublesome to take care of a dog.

"In the past, I used to have a dog every time I started over, but after a while… There's a rumor going around that I neglected my dog. "

"…!"

"I would have suspected me too. I checked, and apparently, I mentioned a different breed every time I spoke. Hmm, when they proved it wasn't true, there were talks of schizophrenia… Hahaha, it was a total disaster at that time!"

Cheongryeo laughed out loud. I felt a chill run down my spine.

"…You didn't have the same puppy?"

"Yes? Haha, it's kind of hard to keep raising the same dog every time."

"…"

Cheongryeo stopped laughing.

"I tried, but I didn't particularly like it. It bothered me that I couldn't bring it with me I screwed up."

I was at a loss for words.

This bastard… The fact that I could understand why he turned insane was a problem.

I answered as calmly as possible.

"…You don't have to start all over again, so I think you can try raising another one."

In other words, just gives up.

"You're full of confidence. Perhaps… Is this the last mission? Is it because you calculate it like I told you?"

"…"

It was best to not react.

But this bastard interpreted my silence as an affirmation.

"Congratulations, but do you believe it?"

"…!"

"Haha, I'm kidding. In my experience, that would be correct. I don't lie about stuff like this."

The thought of smashing the Grand Prize trophy to his face was comforting.

"…Hmm, then really… Is it going to be over?"

The expression on his face disappeared in an instant, and he removed his hand from the dog's belly.

'…Wait.'

Surely, he wouldn't talk nonsense like 'Try it once before it's over', or 'there's no chance once it's over, the timing is now'.

Let's start with the bait.

"If VTIC sunbae-nims maintain the status quo, there will be no groups that can compete with you. Isn't the current situation the best?"

"Well… It's all right."

Cheongryeo was indifferent.

And I picked up the back of the dog.

"It's not like I completely hate it… Hmm, well… That's true. I have to get used to it."

"…!"

It was a euphemistic declaration of surrender.

*'This sh*t is over.'*

I felt like the span of my life was getting shorter. I wondered if cold sweat was running down my forehead.

However, Cheongryeo's words didn't end there.

"But hubae-nim, I think it's better to not let your guard down too much."

Please, I don't want to hear any more nonsense.

I slowly petted the dog unwittingly. The dense furry was comforting.

And fortunately, Cheongryeo's next words were not nonsense.

It was the voice of cold logic.

"In this profession, 'popularity' is a limited resource. In other words, if the other team earns good resources, yours is spilling. It's always been like that. Especially if it is limited to Korea."

"…"

No way, is it a comparison of VTIC and Testar?

However, an unexpected name popped up instead.

"The group from Traveler that debuted this year seems to be doing well. Pay attention to that."

Traveler, Gold 1's agency.

In other words, he was advising me to keep Gold 1's group, a decent rookie, in check.

'…Do I have to?'

They weren't at the level that required me to keep them in check yet, and if I did this wrong, I might just end up giving them a narrative.

Besides, they debuted at a time period Cheongryeo didn't know. That meant Cheongryeo didn't confirm these guys' future.

But there was no need to aggravate this bastard, so I just nodded.

"I'll keep that in mind."

“Don’t just talk, hmm… The song is really nice. But the composer doesn’t belong to the company.”

Cheongryeo laughed.

“I wish I could buy the composer.”

“…!”

“It’s easy and convenient. If the song is bad, I just have to end it with them.”

“I’ll pretend I didn’t hear it.”

“You’re like a knife. All right. But don’t forget it.”

‘Why is this bastard so talkative?’

He blurted it all out as if he was receiving animal therapy with a bunch of puppies.

“Preparation for the next scene is almost done~ 3-minute standby!”

Fortunately, the sound of the filming resuming soon rang out everywhere. People were running around busily.

‘This is the end.’

The next cut was the last time I filmed with this bastard. I held back my sigh.

And right before filming resumed, I heard a small voice.

It sounded a little hesitant.

“…The problem you told me, did you solve it?”

“…”

I opened my mouth slowly.

“So so.”

“Is that so? Well… If you change your mind or have any concerns, contact me.”

“…All right.”

Well, he was less creepy than before.

“Woof! Woof!”

The shooting went off without a hitch. Cheongryeo finished filming first due to schedule problems and left.

And I returned to the dorm after accepting a few pairs of identical tracksuits that looked like just dog furry as gifts.

Perhaps everyone was away due to additional choreography practice, only one person who finished early was in the dorm.

It was Cha Eugene.

“I am home.”

“Gift?”

“Yeah. Take it.”

“Wow!”

I suffered from a strange sense of déjà vu when I saw Cha Eugene happily accepting the gift.

‘…Isn’t he more puppy-like than I am?’

Although I actively adopted it, it was a world of mysterious nicknames.

* * *

A few days later, the choreography of the title track was fully mastered.

“Hoo! The dance video is complete!”

“Ah, great~”

After finishing the shooting of the choreography video a bit early, we had some time left. Everyone lay down on the floor and took a break.

“Cha Eugene, you’re wearing that again?”

“It’s comfortable!”

“I-In the choreography video… W-Would it be okay for the logo to come out…?”

“Ah, I asked and they said it was okay. Don’t worry.”

“Wow, hyung-nim, you’re quick~”

Cha Eugene always wore the training suit that I had received for filming the as a gift.

‘I guess he’s going to shoot a commercial next time.’

I smiled and turned on my smartphone.

Pre-orders for the album had started, and the cover design was also released, so I thought I should monitor the reaction.

“M-Moondae. W-Would you like an ice pack?”

“Yeah. Thank you.”

Although the air conditioner was turned on, it was hot because the group moved too much. I turned over the screen while using the ice pack Seon Ahyeon handed over as a neck pillow.

'It looks fine.'

Both the album covers, which were produced by dividing the concept into black and white of the ink painting concept and color of the traditional painting concept, were both well-received.

– I really like the traditional concept ㅠㅠ

– It's the victory of those who patiently wait for hanbok

– I'm going crazy, looking forward to photo cards

At first, the company said crazy things like, 'How about 8 albums with 7 solo members, 7 colors plus 7 songs?' and it was hard to stop them.

'I'm glad that we talked about putting in stickers randomly out of 8 types to decorate the album inside.'

If the eight types had passed as it was, the director would have given the approval without asking or arguing.

'Come to think of it, the director is going to fly away soon.'

From new albums to entertainment stage productions, there were a lot of things to talk about with people at the company lately, so I heard a lot of rumors that the director would leave soon.

'I'll have to proceed quickly while the payment bot is still here.'

The future was uncertain, so I had to pull it off quickly while I could.

I inadvertently changed the monitoring search terms, checking the plan to resolve the status abnormality.

"D-Do you want some water?"

“Yeah… Thank you.”

Son Ahyeon gave another stuff. I took the water with some hesitation.

I am grateful, but somehow… You’re reminding me of a bread shuttle, I am sorry.

‘Should I monitor him?‘

I tried to search for Seon Ahyeon’s name on SNS without much thought.

Then the popular search word was done automatically.

[Seon Ahyeon dating]

“…?”

“Moondaemoondae, what…?!”

Keun Sejin, who had interrupted, froze as he looked at the screen.

And I was a little stunned, too.

‘Seon Ahyeon?’

Unexpectedly, it was a dating rumor.

Chapter 153

In this group, if you had to pick the guy with the least potential for dating rumors to break out, he would be within one of the two, and yet this guy had ‘dating’ added to his automatic search term.

“Take a look.”

Having come to his sense, Keun Sejin immediately urged me. I clicked on the search term ‘Seon Ahyeon dating’.

This was the first post that came up.

– Seon Ahyeon, that stuttering loser, made him act like a proper human and now he’s looking at female idols. How long has it been since the first anniversary? ㅋㅋ Awesome. Get a grip

This raw accusation was seen collectively just like when <Idol Inc.> was overheated.

It wasn’t a fan’s joke ‘Seon Ahyeon is dating with me’ that went trending, but were rumors of a real relationship that had come out of nowhere.

“Are there any organized articles?”

“Wait a minute.”

I immediately accessed the bulletin board of a portal site where celebrity gossip was posted.

Sure enough, I saw a familiar name in second place.

[Seon Ahyeon, are you dating Twinty’s Dami?]

“Twinty?”

A famous girl idol group whose activities didn’t even overlap popped up.

‘I’ve never seen them outside of year-end programs and awards ceremonies.’

It was awkward to imagine that Seon Ahyeon had asked for her number separately.

‘You must have the guts to do that.’

With a shudder, I clicked on the title.

The photos that Seon Ahyeon posted on Testar’s account and the photos that Dami posted on her Inheart are all overlapping.

(comparison image)

They were posted on the same date and the comments were similar. The sunglasses, bracelets, and watches they wore recently all overlap.

(comparison image)

In an interview this year, Seon Ahyeon suddenly said that older people are his ideal type, and Dami says that younger ones are her ideal type.

And Seon Ahyeon has been holding his phone in his own content

(short GIF)

If you keep smiling and playing something for a long time, anyone can see that you’re dating someone, right?

The images were classified in detail and the text was well-pasted, so it sounded plausible, but of course, it had a lot of gaps.

It was all planned out.

‘The sunglasses and watches are probably gifts from fans.’

On the night of Seon Ahyeon’s birthday, the opening was four hours long so Bae Sejin lost his temper and asked him to get some sleep.

‘Regarding the phone. Seon Ahyeon sends long text messages, that’s why he holds it for a long time.’

The same was true of interviews. He was just trying to fit the situation.

However… A few things that made the situation uncomfortable came out in the comments.

– Seon Ahyeon, all the landscape photos you uploaded are from places that were not in Testar’s schedule ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ Why did you go there alone?

– Heol, the executive of the cosmetics company that shot Seon Ahyeon’s exclusive commercial is Dami’s uncle… It’s weird

– I don’t know about anything else, but it’s too obvious in SNS that they’re sending and receiving signals to each other ㅋㅋㅋㅋㅋ

Whether it was the comments or the articles, the number of refutations was very high, about half of the number of likes, but the fact that the number of likes was enormous itself was a problem.

It meant that this rumor was plausible.

“…”

“…”

Keun Sejin and I looked at the comments for a while without words.

Keun Sejin spoke first.

“Should we tell him?”

“Not to the person himself. It’d be better to tell the company.”

“Hmm, as expected, right? Let’s not show Ahyeon.”

It was better not to make him think useless things ahead of the comeback, and let’s just ask if he was close to this girl just in case.

But this implicit agreement was broken the very next moment.

“W-What…?”

“…!”

When I turned around, Seon Ahyeon was holding a handful of chocolate bars.

I didn’t know he was walking around to offer some other stuff.

“…It’s nothing.”

“D-Did I do something wrong…?”

“Ah no~ How could that be? We were just joking around~”

“B-But you’re telling the company.”

“…”

“…”

In the end, Seon Ahyeon heard about the current dating rumors, which had been mildly purged.

“Ahyeon, are you dating someone?”

“H-H-Huh?!”

As we were briefing openly in the choreography practice room, the rest of the guys naturally joined in the conversation shortly after.

"…There are really a lot of people who have nothing to do. Are you really in a relationship?"

Bae Sejin asked bluntly. Seon Ahyeon freaked out.

"N-No…!"

"Then do you know this woman?"

"I-I don't know…?"

"Then, may I ask where you took all these pictures?"

"That…"

Seon Ahyeon blushed a little.

"O-On the way to counseling, sometimes when I feel like it… I-I take pictures of the roadside, too."

"Oh… that's nice."

"You did a good job."

A few awkward compliments poured in.

Right. He enjoyed his spare time, so of course it was a good thing, but the problem was that the situation got twisted without mercy.

And there were photos of why this happened.

'…I guess they're consulting at the same place.'

Given the circumstance, It was most likely that the female idol who was rumored to be dating Seon Ahyeon also received consultation there.

‘The photos were taken on the way back from the consultation, so the comments must have been similar.’

It was a bit of a sensitive personal matter to talk about, though.

‘On top of that, it has come to this because of the exclusive.’

In fact, ‘the niece of the director of the advertised company’ was a distant connection, but it looked plausible when you connected and wrote it down as one.

In fact, there were quite a few cases where dating started with that kind of connection, so it looked even more plausible.

“I-Is it going to be a big deal…? I-I’m sorry for the misunderstanding… Should I make an apology or an explanation…”

“It won’t spread. Don’t post it.”

“No, it’s not even real, so why do you have to apologize, Ahyeon~”

In any case, dating rumors that only had circumstances without any evidence would be dispelled after being picked up by SNS and communities.

There was a high probability that instead of making excuses, we would be just scratching on old wounds.

‘Because it looks concerning.’

In addition, on the day it was revealed that they went to the same place for counseling, the controversy would explode as much as the excuse worked.

Pretending not to know was the answer.

‘But the problem is that there will be people who really believe it.’

The situation was plausible, so it wasn’t good for the fandom to have an atmosphere of ‘Ahyeon seems to be in a relationship, but let’s just move on’.

Because some people had Reward psychology = When a person takes a certain action, they want to be rewarded accordingly. They may want a beneficial reward that helps them get out of a difficult environment, but if they don’t receive it, it can turn into a negative behavior of revenge. I don’t know what it’s actually called in English so this term might be wrong.).

‘I let go of relationships for you, but you can’t do this for me?’, or something like that.

And Seon Ahyeon was the type who was vulnerable to guilt and cared too much. If such an opinion came out to the surface, he would get dragged around.

He still did.

“S-Still… I-I think some of them might be worried.”

“Ahyeon, if you respond to these rumors, they will be more worried.”

“I-Is that so?”

Ryu Chungwoo was right.

It would be best if Seon Ahyeon could just brush it off and move on, saying ‘It’s nonsense～’ without giving a comment.

‘…The problem is, the method is uncertain.’

If the other members immediately uploaded a photo taken with Seon Ahyeon at the location, they were basically shouting, ‘I am conscious of the dating rumors’.

Some people would definitely refute this, saying that the company ordered it.

‘I’d rather attack the source.’

But no matter how dirty the source was, it didn’t work well for dating gossip like this. This was not an ethical issue.

‘Hmm. Taking a picture now… I think it’s best to manipulate the timing of the photo and then mix things up.’

Sometimes, when I took good pictures of my daily life, I tied them all up and upload them on SNS, and there would be people who found them even if they passed by casually while getting them mixed up.

Of course, the question was whether I would get caught or not.

I thought about the method carefully. Because I wanted to clean it up neatly before making the comeback.

“I-I’m sorry. Because of me…”

“Why is this because of you? Don’t worry about it, you just get caught up.”

“Moondae is right Ahyeon. Don’t worry too much about it.”

I shrugged at Ryu Chungwoo’s words.

“I’ll manipulate the photos if I have to.”

“…T-That…”

“Oh~ That’s right. You won’t get caught!”

Don’t encourage me. I was just saying this to reassure Seon Ahyeon.

But before I could resort to extreme methods, the solution came from somewhere else.

Keun Sejin, who was flipping through his smartphone, made a fuss.

“Hey, something came up in the comments.”

“What is it?”

I checked the latest comments on Keun Sejin’s phone screen.

– ㅋㅋㅋYou idiots, look at Dami’s Inheart. Ugh, you people are pretending to be tricked (screenshot) Dami got a PDF of all the sexual harassment articles. Yes, let the haters receive financial treatment

The attached capture was a photo of Dami playing around with a man at the location of the photo used for dating rumors.

– Eating out with family My handsome little brother

With this comment.

‘We got it easy.’

It was practically over.

It didn’t matter whether she was conscious of the dating rumor or not. It was a private life with her family, so it would be difficult to say that it was a response from the company

Besides, when I checked the original photo… The metadata also matched the date.

I nodded.

“It will subside soon.”

Then, the tension on the members’ faces melted away.

“Ha, there you go.”

“Thank you, Dami sunbae-nim.”

“T-Thank you…!”

Seon Ahyeon, don’t even think about delivering your gratitude directly.

“Thank you. F-For worrying with me…”

“Don’t mention it!”

“I am glad, Ahyeon.”

I waved my hand at Seon Ahyeon’s gratitude and once again checked the photo of the two people on Keun Sejin’s smartphone screen.

‘…Hmm, I’ve seen this face somewhere.’

Just in time, Keun Sejin pretended to notice.

“Oh, hey, that person. Chicken with Ribbon?”

“Oh.”

Oh, he was right.

Dami’s younger brother in the photo was the one I played against in the finals of <The Singer I Made>.

His name was… I didn’t remember. Honestly, I didn’t think his singing skills were that impressive.

‘He was lucky to make it to the finals.’

However, I remembered Cheongryeo’s advice.

– That group seems to be doing well. Pay attention to that.

“…Hmm.”

From the song to this trivial hot topic… It seemed they were lucky.

I came to a reasonable conclusion.

‘Let’s keep in touch with the composer.’

Hiring them all of sudden would be too much.

As I was organizing my thoughts, I suddenly heard Cha Eugene’s voice.

“But why can’t you date?”

“Huh??”

Everyone stiffened.

“You… You want to date?!”

“Yes! Hyung, you don’t want to?”

“N-No… uh.”

Bae Sejin stammered.

Indeed, it would be strange if you didn’t want to.

Perhaps what Cha Eugene said was in a similar context.

‘It’s not that you like someone in particular, it’s that you want to date when you have the chance.’

Of course, as much as he had training experience at the agency, he knew the reality.

“No, I know! But I don’t know why…”

“Um…”

It was a very difficult subject to explain.

In fact, rather than the problem of dating itself, if you showed off a love relationship in a profession where ”I am not dating’ was the norm, it could be interpreted as ‘I want to date more than doing idol activities’.

“T-The fans don’t like it!”

“…!”

What is this guy doing.

Seon Ahyeon shouted again with a red face.

“T-There are fans who think of you as their boyfriend…!”

“Why?”

“U-Uh…”

Keun Sejin interjected with a smile.

“Because you’re handsome~!”

“Aha!”

Cha Eugene nodded with a face that said everything had become clear.

“Okay, I won’t date!”

“…”

That… I wondered if he really could jump to that conclusion.

‘Whatever.’

It worked, so it was enough.

That day, Cha Eugene posted on SNS, ‘Am I your boyfriend?’.

He was blocking his love path on his own.

And a week later.

The music video teaser for this Testar album had been released.

However, it was 8 minutes long.

Chapter 154

Fans were naturally looking forward to this Testar's album but at the same time, some of them were concerned.

This was because of the announcement of each member's solo song.

– What do you mean, solo song? What are you going to do about the lining upㅠㅠ

– The aggro ㅌㅅㅌ I'm already stressed out when I think about how they're going to rearrange the rankings

– You were trying to make us multi-fan, but why are you running off the line?

Of course, the music score of the solo songs didn't directly indicate the members' popularity.

Because they were released as one album anyway, and they were exposed together under the group's name, so in the end, the ranking differed in the popularity of the songs.

However, due to the nature of the survival show's group, it was inevitable that they would be expecting live broadcasting of 'Music score by Testar members'.

Right when such slight concerns were growing amidst the high expectations, Testar's teaser was announced.

It was a video preview using WeTube's first public release function.

It meant the video would be released a day later.

[Testar(TeSTAR) 'present' Official Teaser]

A thumbnail ‘dark forest, an arrow stuck in a tree’ that didn’t reveal any hints appeared together.

It didn’t spark any interest, so people were unenthusiastic.

– I think it’s using the style of historical drama

– Is this on purpose

– An arrow?ㅋㅋ

However, the situation changed when people checked the video information.

The length of the video was 8 minutes and 12 seconds.

– You said it was a teaser! A teaser!

– There is a group that has an 8-minute preview??

– Guys, what the hell’s going on? I’m so curious

-Isn’t there something wrong? What kind of teaser is 8 minutes long;

KPOP music video teasers were usually short, less than one minute. Eight minutes was unusually long.

Of course, there was nothing fatal about it being so long. After all, the roles of the teasers were now to satisfy fans’ expectations rather than a promotional purpose.

Still, some of the fans who cared about their results were disappointed.

Since it was a teaser, there would be fewer people watching unless they were already fans, but it was obvious that the number of views would decrease if it was eight minutes long.

As the appearance on an American program went booming and they expected an influx in overseas K-pop fandom, there was also something they wanted to quickly check for certain indicators.

– Even if the number of views on teasers doesn't matter to them… It would be better if it was short ㅠ

– I think it would have been better to split it up and release it in several videos, but whatever

– Please, T1, it's not a boring story music video, is it? Please tell me it's not

– I think it's going to be a miss this time, but I hope it's not, I hope you spent your money wisely

Of course, because nothing should happen right before the comeback, fans pushed the atmosphere with positive words in public communities and SNS.

– 8 minutes is good. You'll be able to see the kids' faces for a long time from the teaser ㅠㅠ

– Can I see our Bae Hamster's acting??? I'm so excited

– How am I supposed to wait 24 hours

– I've been waiting for the first release, I think I'm going to go crazy if it ends in 30 seconds. I can't believe they gave us 8 minutes. As expected of Testar Daehyeja Group

(TL: Hyeja = products that are very good in quantity and quality compared to the price, and have very good cost-effectiveness that is more than reasonable. Dae = great)

Fans anxiously waited for the release of the teaser, hoping that this anticipation wouldn't cool down as soon as the teaser came out.

And the day it was released.

In the live chat of the teaser video, people who were waiting for the first release were pleasantly shocked.

-????

– What's this

As the fans had guessed, the teaser had a very authentic historical drama style.

However, the roles the members played were not people.

The video began with a huge palace, went inside as if being sucked in, turned around the corner, opened one of the paper doors, and entered.

It was a library full of books.

Among them, the screen followed an old, worn-out book lying open on the floor.

Inside, an arm rising out from the sea was drawn roughly in ink.

At that moment, the video screen changed to a real beach.

Flutter.

The screen went into the sea in an instant and reflected a figure lying on a huge rock under the water.

The figure was Seon Ahyeon with blonde hair in a loose white robe.

Sunlight broke through the blue waters and shimmered on the white surfaces of the rocks. It was a beautiful but strange scenery.

At the bottom, a white caption appeared in an old-fashioned font.

[Breath]

It was the name of a song on the released track list.

And along with a delicate sound of gayageum[1]The gayageum or kayagum is a traditional Korean plucked zither with 12 strings, though some more recent variants have 18, 21 or 25 strings. It is probably the best known traditional Korean musical instrument. Sumber: Wiki. , Seon Ahyeon's solo song came out.

At that moment, Seon Ahyeon got up and slowly began to dance in the water.

It was just a beautiful movement, not a set choreography in the song.

His hair and his dopo[2]Dopo (Kor. 도포, Chin. 道袍, lit. "Taoist robe") is a variety of po, or overcoat in hanbok (한복), which was first worn in the middle of the Joseon since the 16th century. The dopo was mostly worn by male Confucian scholars called seonbi (선비) during the Joseon period. Sumber: Wiki. drew a graceful line in the water.

– Ahㅠㅠㅠ

– So handsome

– Crazy, underwater shooting

People were amazed. And they thought.

'Seon Ahyeonn's solo song is the intro!'

However, as soon as the beautiful underwater performance was over, the camera made eye contact with Seon Ahyeon in the foam and soared from the sea again.

And it approached a strange circular pattern drawn with mother-of-pearl on the sandy beach.

When the evening sun was setting in the dark, a figure who had been crouching in the pattern stretched out and stood up.

It was Cha Eugene covering his mouth with one hand.

On his cheek, collarbone, and back of his hands, old Hangeul letters in strange handwriting shone like a pattern in five-colored mother-of-pearl.

Tidying, Tingting, Tingting!

A new song with a strong beat began with the sound of a kkwaenggwari[3]The kkwaenggwari is a small flat gong used primarily in the folk music of Korea. It is made of brass and is played with a hard stick. It produces a distinctively high-pitched, metallic tone that breaks into a cymbal-like crashing timbre when struck forcefully. Sumber: Wiki…

[Rythim]

It was Cha Eugene's solo song.

– Huh?

– It's great

– Heol, no way

– Crazy Cha Eugeneㅠㅠㅠ

Reactions to Cha Eugene's performance and strong speculation about the current situation were mixing in dizzyingly, flooding the live chat window.

And their guesses were right.

In this way, all the members' solo songs were introduced continuously.

After Cha Eugene, Bae Sejin, who had his eyes blindfolded, sat on an old tree and sang a ballad melody. There was a subtle chirping sound.

The field of vision of the video entered a cave in the forest and illuminated Kim Raebin, who used lantern lights like neon.

Kim Raebin's solo song was Future Base with saenghwang[4]The saenghwang is a Korean wind instrument. It is a free reed mouth organ derived from the Chinese sheng, though its tuning is different. It is constructed from 17 bamboo pipes, each with a metal free reed, mounted vertically in a windchest. Sumber: Wiki. as the main instrument.

Afterward, the camera came out of the cave and headed to an old thatched hut in a forest.

Between the strange-colored fabrics winding around the rotten paper gate of the thatched house.

Park Moondae was sitting on the veranda.

And the already familiar sound of sogeum[5]The sogeum is a small bamboo transverse flute used in traditional Korean music. Unlike the larger daegeum, it does not have a buzzing membrane. It is used in court, aristocratic, and folk music, as well as in contemporary classical music, popular music, and film scores. Sumber: Wiki. in 'Flower's Eve' rang out.

– Wedding clothes!! Crazy, thank you ㅠㅠ

– As expected, I need to see Moondae's face

Finally, the video returned to the spectacular palace in contrast to the thatched house.

In the middle, Lee Sejin performed a stunt-like dance to the sound of the drum while wearing a huge waist ornament similar to a tail.

It was an enjoyable upbeat song.

Of course, the fans were happy.

– Hey, all the songs are good

– ㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠㅠ

– Hair + makeup is good

– The visual beauty, oh my goodness

– I want to get the album soonㅠㅠ

– Please, full video

– The most fruitful 8 minutes of my life

However, after Lee Sejin's dance, the screen turned off as he smiled and turned around, disappearing into the palace.

– ???

– Where's Chungwoo

– Aren't you going to show the title track?ㅋㅋ

– This is really the teaser, right?

Fans, who were perplexed because one of the members didn't come out and the title track wasn't even shown, breathed a sigh of relief when the screen was turned back on.

– Is it a traffic error

– Oh, it's a relief

– This is the first release so it's a big dealㅠㅠ

However, the screen reflected Seon Ahyeon under the sea again. With the sound of gayageum used in the solo song.

– Eh

– Again?

– It’s a repeated error

It wasn’t an error.

Seon Ahyeon on the screen stared at the camera for a while and then disappeared, and then, the cut of Cha Eugene on the sandy beach staring at the camera also changed.

Next was Bae Sejin.

However, even when the person changed, the sound of the traditional musical instrument in the background didn’t disappear and continued to pile up.

– Huh?

The members added Korean traditional instruments one by one to their solo song’s beat melody.

As the Korean instruments entered harmoniously one by one, a new beat melody began to appear.

Finally, when the screen shone on Lee Sejin, the song began to take shape with the sound of drums now heard.

The moment modern instruments filled it.

Suddenly the song stopped.

And on the screen that went back… A hand appeared.

[…]

A large, sturdy hand picked up a book that had fallen to the floor. It was a book with a strange ink painting that appeared in the first scene.

The camera caught the back of the book.

[Ghost Record]

“Are you going to appear?”

The camera climbed up the hand and caught the owner of the arm.

It was Ryu Chungwoo in a cheollik[6]Cheollik is a jacket that used to be worn as daily wear for men or official wear for military officials…

(TL notes:)

– So handsome

– Aargh Chungwoo

No matter what people shouted in the chat window, Ryu Chungwoo in the video whisked off the book with a complicated expression.

And with clear eyes, he answered someone who was off the screen.

“I should.”

The melody exploded, catching Ryu Chungwoo’s back as he turned around and left the library.

Then, walking out of the fence, Ryu Chungwoo took out the bow from his back and aimed it at the forest.

It was a black lacquered archery target

[Now, he appears

Warning again warning

approaching with one’s life

Slow and thrilling]

The arrow flew with a bang and pierced deep into the giant bamboo.

[Me.]

The video ended with an arrow stuck in a tree.

It was the thumbnail.

– Crazycrazy

– Ah

– Is that the title song??

– Uaaaa

– The other members are spirits, and Chungwoo is going to catch them??

– I love you, Testar ㅠㅠ

– It's crazy that all the solo songs are connected!

The solo songs of the members were connected to form the title song. And through the video, the story of the music video was insinuated.

In a sense, it faithfully carried the meaning of the teaser.

And it was a clear composition that clearly showed their consideration for the organic perfection of the album.

This point was more evident in the information that was added in the 'See more' column of the teaser video.

It included a list of songwriting, composition, arrangement, and copyright holders of all the songs on the album.

– Each song has the kids' name

– They all made it together ㅠㅠ

Although the order was backward, the names of various members could be seen in each song. The same was true for songs that weren't their solo songs.

And with the fact that all these were connected and shown in the teaser video, their intention was clearly conveyed

'Album songs are the work of a group'.

This meant that even if there might be a line-up in the future due to the number of views of the fancams, the music in the album presented a logic to defend against the comparison of each member's performance.

– The kids are really serious about the group

– Let's go together until you have a dinner show. We will watch Testar's dinner show[7]When people said 'Let's watch xxx's dinner show', they imply that they want the group to last long because only old artists show up in dinner shows. ㅠㅠ

– Yes, the number of views of the music video is important. It's a teaser. As long as it's for us. Thank you, guys. 8 minutes were enough

Most of the Testar's multi-fans and the casual solo fans seemed satisfied.

However, Ryu Chungwoo's fans reacted strangely.

At the end of the teaser, Ryu Chungwoo looked like the center of the title track, but it was because he didn't introduce his solo song.

– No way, does Chungwoo's song has its own video?

– It's annoying that I have to pray because he didn't even get basics

but this neglect is beyond my imagination ㅋㅋㅋ

– If I made a protest, they would say ‘he got the center, why do you have to complain about the teaser’ ㅊㅇㅈFools, are you crazy ㅋㅋㅋI am disillusioned

– I hate it more when the atmosphere is set to prevent people from protesting

There was a subtle fight between ‘You’re overreacting, the lid of the comeback hasn’t even opened yet’ and ‘His song didn’t come out on the teaser at all, so of course, I feel like sh*t’.

Fortunately, before it could be screenshotted and displayed everywhere as a ‘controversial topic in Testar’s fandom’, a post came up on Testar’s SNS.

Hello, Loviewer. Did you enjoy the teaser?

I’m a little nervous because I’ve heard the encouragement that I play a big role in this activity, but I hope you look forward to the album.

Ah, This is Ryu Chungwoo (smiling emoticon)

It was an article with a nuance that said, ‘You don’t have to worry about Ryu Chungwoo’s footage’.

* * *

“Is this enough?”

“Yes.”

“Well, I think it’s a little cheeky.”

“No, don’t worry.”

“Haha, I see… Thank you.”

"…Don't mention it."

Ryu Chungwoo turned off his smartphone with a smile.

He didn't seem to dwell much on the reaction. Because it was a reaction that would subside once the content was released anyway.

Still, I recommended it because I thought it would be better to reassure them at this time.

'This is enough.'

After confirming that Ryu Chungwoo's fans agreed to 'let's wait and see', I turned back to the articles I saw earlier.

'This will take longer.'

It was an article about the group that had Gold 1 in it.

[Big rookie Golden Age, countdown to comeback]

[Golden Age from <Idol Inc.>, will they meet Testar?]

[Blue music industry in August… From Testar to Golden Age]

In short, these articles indicated that the group's comeback coincided with Testar's activity.

Of course, when I saw it, a format came to mind.

'When we debuted.'

Testar's debut, which was accompanied by the immovable top-tier Vtic.

These simultaneous activities reminded me of that format.

'Sigh.'

I clicked my tongue. I was certain now.

These punks' agency did a good job.

- 1. The gayageum or kayagum is a traditional Korean plucked zither with 12 strings, though some more recent variants have 18, 21 or 25 strings. It is probably the best known traditional Korean musical instrument. Sumber: Wiki.

- 2. Dopo (Kor. 도포, Chin. 道袍, lit. "Taoist robe") is a variety of po, or overcoat in hanbok (한복), which was first worn in the middle of the Joseon since the 16th century. The dopo was mostly worn by male Confucian scholars called seonbi (선비) during the Joseon period. Sumber: Wiki.

- 3. The kkwaenggwari is a small flat gong used primarily in the folk music of Korea. It is made of brass and is played with a hard stick. It produces a distinctively high-pitched, metallic tone that breaks into a cymbal-like crashing timbre when struck forcefully. Sumber: Wiki.

- 4. The saenghwang is a Korean wind instrument. It is a free reed mouth organ derived from the Chinese sheng, though its tuning is different. It is constructed from 17 bamboo pipes, each with a metal free reed, mounted vertically in a windchest. Sumber: Wiki.

- 5. The sogeum is a small bamboo transverse flute used in traditional Korean music. Unlike the larger daegeum, it does not have a buzzing membrane. It is used in court, aristocratic, and folk music, as well as in contemporary classical music, popular music, and film scores. Sumber: Wiki.

- 6. Cheollik is a jacket that used to be worn as daily wear for men or official wear for military officials.

- 7. When people said 'Let's watch xxx's dinner show', they imply that they want the group to last long because only old artists show up in dinner shows.

Chapter 155

It was obvious what Gold 1's agency was thinking.

'If you can't get 1st place, you can't make an impact.'

No matter how good the song was, it was hard for that group to get first place.

Even if they made a good impression with their debut song, they were only popular among those who were interested in idols.

A boy idol group who didn't come from three major companies. Low public recognition.

This meant that there were a lot of people who didn't even try to listen to these guys' songs.

'So it's understandable why they make this frame.'

It was beneficial for these guys to get involved with Testar.

Emphasizing that we were from the same Idol Inc, they would try to capture the format of Testar's rival challenger with media play that was similar to the composition of Vtic-Testar's concurrent activities.

It was a move worth trying even if it meant getting glares from Testar's fans and being kept in check.

With a lot of people trying to provoke Testar, they would get support as well.

Of course, it would end in ridicule if they weren't good enough.

'…I guess they're confident in their song.'

From the time of Choi Wongil until now, the agency's skills had been excellent.

It would have been nice if my agency had been a bit more uptight, but judging from my experience so far, let's just be grateful for the current situation, where we had a payment bot sat down without options.

Bzz.

Then, a pop-up appeared on my smartphone screen vibrating.

…Speak of the devil, it was Gold 1's message.

[Guys, our activities overlap!]

[Hmm, see you at the music show, sunbae-nims.]

"…"

…He was a good guy.

Even if he vaguely noticed what was going on, he probably didn't think that this would cause any damage to Testar.

He must be grateful and embarrassed.

'In any case, I can't ignore him.'

Right now, Testar's social position was far too superior compared to Gold 1's.

The moment one of the Testar members showed discomfort to Gold 1, that agency would likely attach an image of 'treating people differently according to their level'.

'Well, let's just pass this activity.'

At any rate, after this season, they would catch another suitable group and go on with the image of winning. After raising it up to this point, they had to show the taste of victory to make the narrative pretty.

Besides, honestly… I was confident in this Testar's album.

'We did a good job.'

'A good job' wasn't just about perfection, we had worked enough on the charm of idols.

For now, the response to the teaser that was released right away was very good as I had predicted.

'I think it's going to be our career-high.'

I had a strong hunch.

I roughly replied to Gold 1's message that was posted in the group chat as I predicted the results of this activity.

And a few days later.

I heard the good news in the waiting room even before we started the pre-recording of our first music show.

"850,000 copies?"

"Yeah! You guys hit the jackpot!"

On the 4th day, we already passed the Initial Chodong of the previous album.

If we calculated the future sales based on this… The probability of the initial Chodong exceeding 1 million was extremely high.

'It's the first tier.'

Now, we really had reached a level high enough to be considered the top four or five of the boy idol groups in Korea.

It seemed only the member who thought that far was Keun Sejin, but the rest of the guys were happy enough.

“Oh, my God…”

“I dare to guess, overseas sales have increased! Since this concept is very traditional, it appeals to existing K-pop audiences…”

“The album is great! That’s why!”

They got a little excited and went into a collective monologue, but they soon got fired up.

“Let’s do a great job on our comeback stage and show them why our album is so popular.”

“Oooh!”

“Well said~”

“I-I want to show a cool image…!”

They were full of enthusiasm. It was a good atmosphere to show right before the stage recording.

“Ah! Testar will show it to you today!”

“Let’s go!”

‘This slogan is almost official at this point.’

As the frequency increased, I stopped being embarrassed and slowly shouted the slogan, going up to the recording stage.

Waaaa!

I heard familiar shouts.

Feeling like it had been a while, the pre-recording for the music show began.

* * *

'This album is extraordinary.'

Park Moondae's homma tried to calm herself down.

But it was hard. The indexes were so good…!

'What's with the overseas supply?!'

It was a scream of delight.

And the indexes weren't just about album sales.

Because Testar became quite a hot topic in overseas K-pop communities due to the American talk show, Park Moondae's homma gained SNS followers faster than usual.

Then, after this comeback, the number of shares attached to Park Moondae's photos almost doubled.

English subtitles were attached by users to various Testar's contents on WeTube, and the number of views on numorous videos made in English by fans had increased sharply.

And most of all…

'The views on the music video have skyrocketed… '

It exceeded 10 million views in 26 hours.

It was not yet at the level of a top boy idol group of the same weight class in Korea, but it was still encouraging.

Even considering that it had gone viral, the speed of the increase in views was still significant. At the same time, the number of views on the teaser was also increasing.

‘I thought so.’

Recalling the music video for the title track of this album, ‘present’, the homma’s heart was filled with excitement.

‘It’s really the best.’

It was a pity that the center of the music video was Ryu Chungwoo, not Park Moondae, but the music video itself came out so well.

‘I guess Ryu Chungwoo is going to rise up a bit this time?’

There was no need to compare rankings between individuals anymore, but like a habit, the homma prepared to cheer them on while thinking like that.

‘They’re coming soon!’

The lightsticks could be seen here and there with long straps printed with album cover patterns tied in various shapes.

It was a mini daenggi[1]A daenggi is a traditional Korean ribbon used to tie up and decorate braided hair. Sumber: Wiki. used to decorate the lightstick that was included as a bonus for booking the album.

Since the lightstick purely looked like a magic wand, it seemed to be an accessory that they came up with to give a sense of unity with the song while cheering. It was very pretty.

‘It’s cute and nice!’

However, the thought of being sufficiently satisfied disappeared from the homma’s mind the moment Testar stepped up to the stage.

Testar was wearing a suit-style outfit that brought in suitable elements of hanbok from the clothes and pattern.

And the cloth ornaments that were tied to their wrists, necks, and earrings.

It was the same daenggi that the fans hung on the lightsticks.

“Argh!”

‘Who’s the coordinator?’

She was really grateful.

Fortunately, perhaps because they had time to spare or weren’t ready to shoot yet, instead of rushing right into the stage, a casual greeting came out.

[Everyone, did you like the music vide…]

“Yeaaaah!””

“Yes!”

“Absolutely great!!”

[Haha, yes!]

[Shall we talk about our favorite parts briefly one by one? Now, starting with our Chungwoo hyung-nim~!]

Coming up to the stage, Testar dragged it out by talking in moderation. A year had passed, they had become much better compared to the beginning of their debut

‘So cute… ’

The homma muttered warmly, but couldn’t take her eyes off Park Moondae.

As already shown in the music video, Park Moondae’s hairstyle had changed.

Thanks to having prepared herself beforehand, she could hold back from screaming too much.

'It's been so long since he had black hair… '

The homma was intoxicated by the vague memory of the first <Idol Inc.> production presentation.

Park Moondae had black hair that was quite longer than usual. It wasn't long hair, but the fact that the bangs were long enough to slip off to the sides gave off a subtle classic beauty.

'Excellent…!'

The homma swallowed all kinds of silly comments in her mouth and waved the lightstick to Park Moondae, who was waving his hand.

[Everyone, after a lot of hard work, black-haired Moondae is here~]

[Please give us honest feedback.]

"It's great!"

"I love it!!"

The homma couldn't stand it anymore and screamed hard. Similar noises came from here and there.

Moondae, who had asked with a Tibetan fox's indifferent face, smiled a little at the response.

[Thank you.]

'You're the best!'

The homma cried like crazy, saying that she came to their show because of this feeling.

But today's highlights hadn't even started yet.

The stage.

[Are we going in?]

[Yes.]

Exchanging signals with the staff, Testa quickly settled down after bowing their heads.

The members gathered in a semicircle and crouched with their arms hanging down.

[…]

On a stage set composed of pine trees and black and red cloth, the performance began.

Tangdang, Tangtangtang, Tadadang-

The accompaniment, which started with the sound of kkwaenggwari and modified traditional instruments, started to play out in a very modern structure.

It was trap hip-hop.

Then, the choreography unfolded as they spread their legs on the floor.

It was a choreography that looked like a moving four-footed beast.

When a triangular formation was created through that strange movement, Cha Eugene jumped out after the prelude.

– Even if you struggle, you can’t avoid it

You come today, you go

Let’s stick one more on the record

Now come, come, go

It was a song that maximized the rhythmic and groovy taste of an iconic K-pop idol's dance song.

However, the unique sound of Korean musical instruments added a very strange taste.

– Approaching silently

Predator, Sharp Claw

scratching this night

The pursuer, as I'm sure

The clear vocal melodies that went in between were nice to listen to. Purposefully contrasting with the sharp rapping, the song was enriched.

Above all, no matter what part they did, there was no time to rest in the choreography.

'Shouldn't they revise that…?'

The homma reflexively thought while watching the part where everyone lay down on the floor in Seon Ahyeon's part and rose up with a rebound.

But she soon forgot. Because it was a waste to even think of anything else.

– Swallow the world

I'll melt it hot

the sound of clicking one's tongue ringing

Ryu Chungwoo stood at the center of the formation that returned in the shape of an arrow.

With the chorus, the beat slowed down. And the daunting static choreography suppressed the atmosphere.

– Now, he appears

Warning again warning

approaching with one's life

slow and thrilling

– Me

Along with the drop, the accompaniment exploded.

– The day has finally come

A parade

Let's end it here today

(never get away from me ye)

Park Moondae's high notes and Kim Raebin's low-pitched rap overlapped.

– Even if you lower your head, you can't escape

Look carefully

Thrill follows

Lee Sejin came forward from the side and swayed his head.

.

A dance break unfolded.

– Present

Thanks to the generous push of the tuneful beat melody, the song was still catchy even during dance breaks where only one word was occasionally spoken.

However, a more spectacular dance break caught her attention.

Moving the formation like a giant beast changing its posture, the choreography gave a strange feeling to the sound of sogeum and gayageum.

'It's crazy.'

Since they only saw the choreography in the music video, it was the first time the fans saw the stage from beginning to end like this.

The impact was very powerful.

Even in the second half, they entered with great vocals.

– Strongly

Louder

My approaching steps

As soon as Park Moondae shouted the ultra-high note of the bridge, the last dance break immediately followed.

– Present

'Did you even breathe, Moondae?'

Not expecting him to perform live to this extent, the homma was speechless with emotions and worries.

She was worried whether he could continue to do this live in the future.

‘I can see why this is pre-recorded!’

Thinking that she realized the reason why they recorded the title track instead of the B-side, the homma looked at the stage with her mouth open.

However, they didn’t make any mistakes until the end.

As soon as the explosive dance break was over, the choreography was organized as if being rewinded, and a formation was created.

Unlike the introduction that looked like a four-footed beast, the ending looked like a rounded squad.

The stage ended with Ryu Chungwoo in the center nodding slightly to the sound of taepyeongso[2]The taepyeongso is a Korean double reed wind instrument in the shawm or oboe family, probably descended from the Persian sorna and closely related to the Chinese suona. Sumber: Wiki…

‘So good!’

“Uaaaaaa!!”

It was the first time since Testar’s debut that a performance song was used openly as a title track. The fans cheered with excitement.

[Huft… Thank you!]

There was no disruption in the recording that was done one more, so they said, ‘It’s such a shame’.

In particular, Ryu Chungwoo, who had such good physical strength, looked more stable, probably because he was in charge of the introduction and ending of the chorus.

‘I can see why they gave the center to him.’

Since Moondae’s portion was also good, the homma was able to nod her head without any bad feelings.

[Go home safely!]

[I hope you have enough breakfast!]

After three shoots, Testar finished the recording and left.

Perhaps because of the delay in the beginning, they had no time to give the ending remarks as they left quickly for the next team, but it was still enough.

Because the stage was so good!

‘Ah, it was great!’

Thinking that it would be good to continue like this, the homma put the yakgwa[3]Yakgwa = Korean honey cookies. she received as a snack into her mouth and left.

It was so good!

She hoped everything would be easy for Moondae on the road ahead!!

* * *

I had a hunch.

‘It’s not going to be easy.’

When I heard the chorus of Gold 1’s group’s title track that he sent, saying ‘Please let me know how you feel’.

Their song was so much better than I thought.

- 1. A daenggi is a traditional Korean ribbon used to tie up and decorate braided hair. Sumber: Wiki.

- 2. The taepyeongso is a Korean double reed wind instrument in the shawm or oboe family, probably descended from the Persian sorna and closely related to the Chinese suona. Sumber: Wiki.

- 3. Yakgwa = Korean honey cookies.

Chapter 156

After having the characteristic ‘Snatching ear’ that amplified the ability to recognize good songs, I rarely failed in selecting songs.

In that sense, the chorus of this song sent by Gold 1 as their title track this time… It was really good.

I wasn’t talking about perfection or art. It was a song that stayed in your head even if you just listened to it once.

It was extremely attractive.

‘Damn it.’

Of course, there was still no possibility that Testar would be pushed back in grades.

But, the problem was, some people would start talking nonsense.

‘I’m not in a situation where I can tolerate that right now.’

First of all… This was the current atmosphere of Testar’s latest album, ‘Chakhogapsa[1]Chackhogapsa = Military who were selected and deployed to catch tigers in the Dynasty Joseon. ‘.

First of all, the critic’s rating on the most famous music review site in Korea was 4 stars.

It was the first four-star among idol rookies released this year.

Aesthetics of balance.

They must be different in order to achieve harmony. From Moombahton’s <Rythm> to synth-pop’s <Breath>, various dishes were woven with Korean musical instruments and sublimated into a formal dinner with a focus on the title track <Present>.

Amidst the recent trend of singles and mini albums, the boldness of attempting to release consecutive regular albums in less than half a year has a well-organized basis.

……

The criticism that was added in the second half was 'the build quality was excessive and the structure of the title track is typical'.

The praises by critics were more than I had expected. Of course, it helped the group's status.

In addition, there were clear responses from overseas.

With clear results shown in music video views, album sales, global music sites, etc, we received love calls from aboard.

Right now, we were scheduled to perform on a semi-major English-speaking talk show and a Japanese morning broadcast.

Even though the song wasn't easy to listen to because its purpose was to make an extreme performance, the domestic music score was good.

'We are in 4th place right now.'

According to the company, the influx of official fandom subscribers was accelerating faster than the last album, and they must be benefiting from that.

So, to sum up all these indicators, this activity was a great opportunity to fly to the top-tier stability zone by capturing both commerciality and artistic value.

In short, we were about to open the door to the beginning of a crazy heyday.

But here, the Gold 1's group, Golden Age, collectively bit Testar and hung onto us, and they even came out with a filthy good song.

'Naturally, noises like 'Golden Age's song is better, but Testar won thanks to the fans' will come out.'

In short, the fans' and the public's perceptions would be drained.

I could already see the risk that Testar's image reputation as a 'Popular group that is doing well in all areas' would be reduced to 'A male idol group with a big fandom'.

We were about to enter the top-tier category, so I refused to get caught here.

'We have to go on a large-scale tour.'

In order to avoid sudden death due to status abnormality, Testar shouldn't lose their momentum until the next comeback.

'I have to make the public continues to appreciate Testar's new album.'

After thinking about it, I quickly came to a conclusion.

'Gukkpong[2]Guk-ppong is a derogatory Korean word that is used to pejoratively describe a South Korean nationalist. I thought of translating it to 'Overproud Nationalists' but eventually decided against it. is the only answer.'

We should make Testar proud of its common denominator with the domestic public.

Just to the extent that it was so artificial and excessive that they didn't feel repulsed.

I sighed briefly and replied to Gold 1's message late. This was after several people had already replied.

[It's a nice pleasant song. Congratulations, hyung.]

I sent it neatly without any unnecessities so that the company wouldn't use it in a strange way.

Gold 1 was just grateful.

[Ha Iljoon (hyung): ㅠㅠThank you guys!]

[Ha Iljoon (hyung): I hope the reactions are good… I have to work hard]

Gold 1 was a bit nervous, so after a few words of conversation, he ended it with a joke.

[Ha Iljoon (hyung): If we meet at a music show next week, can you sign my CD…? My dongsaeng is trying to kill me]

But a few hours later, the group chat rang again.

[Ha Iljoon (Hyung): Guys, I'm not proud of this, but can I say in an interview this week that you guys complimented the song?]

[Ha Iljoon (hyung): I'm scared because the questions sound like they want us to pick a fight]

[Ha Iljoon (hyung): Ah, how different are we from Testar? They keep saying that, so I'm nervous… Help me.]

Sigh.

'This isn't good.'

He might be sincere, but I didn't know how that company would use it.

It would be perfect for media play with words like 'This is Golden Age's new song that even Testar, their competitor, recognized'.

I quickly typed a message before the others could reply.

[Will it be okay? I'm worried they might say that you leaked the title track to another group through Idol Inc's connection.]

Right after that, a personal message came in.

[Keun Sejin: ㅎㅎGood]

As expected, he didn't reply on purpose.

And without having to set the mood with Keun Sejin, Gold 1's scared reply came back right away.

[Ha Iljoon (hyung): Heol, that's possible. Thank you, Moondae, this company went crazy and almost sold me out]

'The company's advice was correct.'

Those bastards weren't normal, either.

In the first place, it seemed Gold 1 didn't even think of keeping Testar in check because our level difference was too great, but it was clear that he trusted the company.

'I'm jealous.'

This neighborhood couldn't compare.

I held back my sigh and called the company.

'I have to ask for the exact date.'

Just… Checking everything one by one was not the company's way.

* * *

The week after Park Moondae checked Golden Age's title track.

A reaction video was uploaded on a large WeTube channel.

It was a channel famous for producing interesting reactions by directing unique situations, so a lot of celebrities had made appearances recently.

However, it was also the first time that people from this field appeared.

[Korean traditional musicians watching the latest KPOP (feat. Testar) NAYA]

